J-8-14

THE

REPORTS

OF

Sir Edward Coke, Kt.

LATE

Lord Chief Justice

OF ENGLAND.

OF

Divers Resolutions and Judgments given upon solemn Arguments, and with great Deliberation, and Conference of the most Reverend Judges, and Sages of the LAW; of Cases in Law which never were Resolved or Adjudged before; And the Reasons and Causes of the said Resolutions and Judgments.

The Second Edition carefully Compared with the French, and purged from former Errors.

With a TABLE to the Whole.

LONDON,

Printed for H. Twyford, T. Collins, T. Basset, J. Wright, S. Heyrick, T. Sawbridge, M. Pitt, C. Harper, and J. Place. MDCLXXX.

THE

REPORTS

OF

Sir Edward Coke, Kt.

LATE

Lord Chief Justice

OF ENGLAND

OF

Divers Resolutions and Judgments given upon Solemn Arguments, and with great Deliberation and Conference of the most Reverend Judges, and Sages of the Law, of Cases in Law which never were Resolved or Adjudged before: And the Reasons and Causes of the said Resolutions and Judgments.

The Second Edition carefully Compared with the French, and Purged from former Errors.

With a TABLE to the Whole.

LONDON.

Printed for H. Twyford, T. Collins, T. Basset, J. Wright, S. Heyrick, T. Sawbridge, M. Pitt, C. Harper, and
J. Place. MDCLXXX.

1444:10

TO THE READER.

SHould I take upon me to give my Lord Coke ſtrange and unheard-of Complements, or Commend the Original Work, I ſhould either Injure his Lordſhip, in doing too Little, or put an affront upon the World, to Suppoſe, they neither knew him nor his Work: All know, how Exact and Compleat the French Copy is, and I dare not ſay, It is refined by this Tranſlation, though now in its Own Country Dialect; You have only an Ancient body of Law in A New Dreſs: I'll aſſure you, you have all the Caſes, with their Arguments: for certainly, none would Aſſume that Impudence, (that took upon them ſuch a Work as this) to diminiſh the leaſt Iota from ſo great an Authority as the ſame hath meritoriouſly got in the World. The Reaſon you have it not in the ſame Letter as the French was, is, becauſe it would have obſtructed that Curteſie (intended by the Stationers to the World) as the Lowneſs of the price, and a more Commodious Volume; You will find, looking in the Margin of the Engliſh, an Exact Reference to the Original Page: And you may further take notice, That there is an Acurate Table unto this Tranſlation, never printed with it before.

THE

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke Kt. &c.

PART I.

Paſchæ 40 Eliz. in the Chancery.

The Lord Buckhurſt's Caſe.

IN the Chancery in the great Caſe betwixt the Lord Buckhurſt Plaintiff, and Juſtice Fenner and others the Executors of the Lady Dacres Defendants; it was reſolved by the two Chief Juſtices, Popham and Anderſon, and Juſtice Gawdy, whom the Lord Keeper called to him for his aſſiſtance, after many Arguments before them in the Court of Chancery, and upon Conſideration and Conference amongſt themſelves:

1. That if a man for him and his heirs do warrant lands unto another and his heirs, it is a general warranty, for as much as it is not reſtrained against any perſon certain.

2. If a man ſeiſed of lands in fee ſimple, and having divers Evidences and Charters, (ſome containing warranty and ſome not) do convey the land over unto another without any warranty upon which he may be vouched, the purchaſor ſhall have all the Charters and Evidences, as well thoſe which comprehend the warranty as the others, for in as much as the feoffor hath conveyed over all his eſtate in the land abſolutely, and is not bound to warrant the land, ſo as he cannot be vouched to warranty, and to render in value, but the feoffee is for to defend the land at his peril: For that cauſe it is reaſon that the feoffee for his better defence, ſhall have all the Charters and Evidences as incidents to the land, although they be not granted unto him by expreſs words, and that the feoffor ſhall not have them, becauſe he cannot reap any benefit by them; and by the not having of them, he cannot ſuffer any loſs.

3. If the feoffor in the Caſe before do make a feoffment over with warranty, ſo as he is tied to render in value, in that Caſe, (without expreſs grant) the feoffee ſhall not have any Charters which do comprehend warranty, upon which the feoffor may have his warranty paramount: Alſo the feoffor ſhall have ſuch Charters, or Evidences, which ſhall ſerve him for to dereign the warranty paramount. As if A. enfeoffe B. in fee with warranty to him, his heirs and aſſignees; and B. by deed enfeoffeth C. without warranty, who enfeoffeth D. with warranty, yet C. ſhall have the firſt and ſecond Charter. Alſo in the ſame Caſe, the feoffor ſhall have all Charters and Evidences which are material for the maintenance of the title of the land, and which are the chief ſtrength of the title of the land; for in ſo much as the feoffor is bounden to render in value, it ſtands with good reaſon, that he have all the Evidences which are material or requiſite to defend the title of the land; Otherwiſe if the feoffee ſhould have ſuch Evidences, the feoffor ſhould be tied to render in value, and yet he ſhould be diſarmed of the means to defend the title of the land. And on the other part, it is not reaſon that the feoffee ſhould have them, becauſe he hath truſted to his warranty, and by reaſon thereof he cannot have any loſs, but hath aſſured himſelf of recompence, and he hath not relied upon the title, nor hath taken upon him the defence of the title of the land, but he relieth upon his warranty by which he voucheth his feoffor, and the loſs falleth upon him if he cannot defend the title. But in the ſame caſe, the feoffee ſhall have ſuch Evidences which do concern the poſſeſſion, and not the title of the land, as Court Rolls, &c. as concomitants and incidents to the poſſeſſion.

15

4. If A. enfeoffe B. with warranty to him, his heirs, and aſſignes, and B. enfeoffeth C. with warranty, although C. may vouch A. as aſſignee, yet he ſhall not have the firſt deed; for B. hath made a warranty to him, and he may be vouched, and therefore he ſhall have the firſt deed to have his voucher over.

5. If A. be ſeiſed of a Seigniory, Rent, Advowſon, or other thing which lieth in grant, and granteth the ſame over to B. with warranty, and B. grants the ſame to C. with warranty, in that Caſe C. ſhall have the firſt Deed, although B. be bound to warranty, for it is neceſſary to make his title by, and without it he cannot make defence againſt A. or any claiming by him. And when B. grants the Rent, or Advowſon unto C. C. ought to have the effect of his grant, and B. in derogation of his grant cannot detain any thing which is of neceſſity, and of the eſſence of his grant.

6. If a man make a feoffement with warranty, and dieth, the heir of the feoffor ſhall have all Charters which the feoffor himſelf might detain, although the heir have nothing by deſcent, for the poſſibi-
[2] lity of deſcent after: And upon theſe diverſites all the Books (as Popham Chief Juſtice ſaid) which ſeem to be pro & contra, are reconciled: And the reaſon of the ſaid Books prove the ſaid diverſities; and therefore it appeareth by 44 E. 3. 11. b. 19 H. 6. 65. b. 39 E. 3. 17. a. and 18 E. 4. 14 & 15. and 10 E. 4. 9. b. that the feoffor ſhall have the Deeds to have the benefit of the warranty paramount; by which it is proved, that if the feoffor be not bound to warranty, he ſhall not have the Deeds, for he ſhall have them to the purpoſe to have the vouchee paramount: And 7 E. 4. 26. a. accorded by Moile, where alſo it is agreed that the feoffee ſhall recover the Deeds againſt a ſtranger. And note well 10 E. 4. 14. b. by Moile, the Lord by Eſcheat ſhall have all the Charters which do concern the ſame land, and the reaſon thereof is, (as Popham Chief Juſtice ſaid) becauſe that the Lord by Eſcheat is in the Poſt, and cannot vouch, and therefore the feoffor ſhall not detain the Evidences, for he cannot be at any prejudice. And therefore he ſaith, If A. enfeoffeth B. with warranty, B. ſhall not have the Deeds which do contain warranty, or which make, or perfect his title, as is aforeſaid; but if B. dieth without heir, then the warranty made to B. is loſt, and A. cannot be vouched. And therefore the Lord by Eſcheat ſhall have the Charters. And ſee 10 E. 4. 9. b. if I be enfeoffed to me and my heirs, and I enfeoffe another and his heirs with warranty, my heir ſhall have Detinue for the Deed by which I am enfeoffed, and ſhall make a ſpecial Count, viz. upon the ſpecial matter, in reſpect of the ſpecial loſs and prejudice that he may have: Ergo, without ſpecial prejudice, that is to ſay, if his Anceſtor were not bound to warranty, the heir of the feoffor ſhall not have the Charters: And it is there ſaid in the principal Caſe that the heir ſhall not have the Charters ratione terræ; which ſee Brook Charters 58. ſo as there appeareth in ſome Caſe a man ſhall have Charters ratione terræ, and that is when the feoffor is not bound to warranty. And ſee 34 H. 6. 1. a. a notable Caſe; For there it is agreed, if a man enfeoffe two, and to the heirs of one of them by Deed, and the Deed, and the other Evidences concerning the ſame lands are delivered by the feoffor to him who hath the fee, and afterwards he who hath the fee dieth, he who ſurviveth ſhall have the Deed by which he was infeoffed, becauſe it maketh his eſtate, but the ancient Charters he ſhall not have, for they were delivered unto the other Joyntenant for the ſafeguard of his inheritance. And if two Joyntenants be enfeoffed to one in fee, and to the other for life, afterwards the feoffor doth releaſe to them, and delivereth the Deed to him who hath the fee, the other ſhall not have the ſame, for his eſtate was perfect before without that Deed: But by the Reporter, if one releaſe unto two, who have a joynt eſtate by defeaſable
[b] title, and delivereth the Deed to one, there the other who ſurviveth ſhall have the ſame, becauſe it perfecteth his eſtate. See 6 H. 7. 3. b. & 21 H. 7. 33. a. agreeth to the reaſon of that Caſe.

And it was ſaid, if a man enfeoffeth two to them and their heirs, and giveth the ancient Charters to one of them, and he dieth, the ſurvivor ſhall have all the Charters, and not his heir to whom the gift was, for he cannot ſuſtain loſs if he have them not, nor have any benefit by them if he have them; but contrary it is of the ſurvivor, and he ſhall have them as things which go with the land. And Sir Thomas Egerton Lord Keeper of the great Seal of England, upon conſideration of the ſaid points, did agree in opinion with the ſaid Juſtices; and he ſaid, that that ancient Queſtion, which as he ſaid was (vexata Quæſtio) in our Books, was now well explained, and all the Books upon good and pregnant reaſon reconciled. Note, this Reſolution was by four of the moſt grave, and learned in the Law. Note hereby, If a man doth enfeoffe B. with warranty, and B. enfeoffeth C. by Dedi, that B. during his life ſhall have the Charters which comprehend warranty, and which ſerve for the neceſſary defence of the title, but his heir ſhall not have them, but the feoffee, for the cauſe aforeſaid.

Yelverton the Queens Serjeant, Attorney General, and others of the Councel with the Lord Buckhurſt: And Fleming Solicitor General, Francis Moore and others, were of Councel with the Defendants.

Hill. Term 32 Eliz. betwixt Page and Griffyn.

Sir William Pelham's Caſe.

IN this Term a Writ of Error was depending in the Exchequer Chamber, betwixt Edward Griffyn Plaintiff, and Henry Page Defendant, upon a Judgment given in the Exchequer, and the effect of the Caſe was ſuch. Henry Page before, viz. Hill. 30 Eliz. brought an Ejectione firmæ in the Exchequer againſt againſt Edward Griffyn, and declared of a Leaſe made by Thomas Bowes Maſter of Art, 10 Januarii, 29 Eliz. to the ſaid Page, of a Capital meſuage in Lombard-ſtreet, in the Pariſh of S. Mary Wolnoth, &c. in London, called the ſign of the White-Lion for ſix years, and that the ſaid Griffyn did eject him; and upon Not-guilty pleaded, the Jurors in London by Niſi Prius gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect: They find that Sir Martin Bowes Knight, was ſeiſed of the ſaid Houſe in fee, and had iſſue one Thomas Bowes, and that the ſaid Thomas had iſſue Martin Bowes, and the ſaid Thomas Bowes Maſter of Art now leſſor, and one George Bowes; and that the ſaid Sir Martin 29 Julii, 8 Eliz. by his Will in writing, did deviſe unto the ſaid Thomas Bowes his ſon, the ſaid Houſe for his life, without impeachment of waſte, the remainder unto the ſaid Martin his ſon, and to the heirs males of his body begotten, the remainder to the ſaid Thom. Bowes Maſter of Art in tail, the remainder to the ſaid George Bowes in tail, the remainder unto the ſaid Thomas ſon of Sir Martin in tail, with divers remainders over: and afterwards, anno 8 Eliz. the ſaid Sir Martin died, after whoſe deceaſe, the ſaid Thomas his ſon entred, and was ſeiſed of the ſaid Houſe for life, with the remainders over as aforeſaid, and after 19 December, anno 14 Eliz. the ſaid Thomas, ſon of Martyn, by deed indented and enrolled in the Chancery, according to the Statute, did bargain and ſell the ſaid Houſe unto Sir William Pelham and his heirs, who ſuffered a common Recovery, in which Thomas, ſon of Sir Martin, who was Tenant for life, was vouched, and that was before the Statute of 14 Eliz. c. 8. and execution was ſued upon the ſame Recovery; and if that common Recovery ſhould bar the remainder, or the entry of him in the remainder in tail, was the Queſtion. And in the Exchequer before the firſt Judgment was given, the Counſel of the Defendant did argue, that Judgment might be given againſt the Plaintiff in the Ejectione firmæ for two cauſes; firſt, becauſe the remainder of Thomas Bowes the Leſſor was barred by that Recovery, for that Recovery was out of the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 31. becauſe that in that Caſe, although that Sir William Pelham was but a particular Tenant, yet he in that Recovery doth not vouch the common vouchee, but he voucheth him who was Tenant for life, and ſo he is particular Tenant in Law, but not in deed. And therefore it is agreed in 19 E. 3. tit. Age. pl. 2. in Fitzherbert, if the vouchee who is Tenant in Law, vouch the heir of the Husband in a Cui in vita, the parol ſhall demur by the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 40. for although that the words of the Statute are general, yet they are intended when the Tenant in fait voucheth the heir of the Husband, and not when the Tenant in Law voucheth the heir of the Husband. And 16 H. 7. 5. a. Tenant by receit ſhall vouch out of the degrees in a Writ of Entry in the Per, for he is but a Tenant in Law, and not a Tenant in fait. And it ſeemeth upon the letter of the Act of 32 H. 8. that this Caſe is not within the Statute, for in the body of the Act it is ſaid, All ſuch recoveries, &c. againſt ſuch particular Tenants of Lands, &c. whereof the ſame particular Tenant is, or ſhall be ſeiſed, as Tenant by the Curteſie, &c. or otherwiſe for life, ſhall be void, &c. againſt ſuch perſons to whom the reverſion or remainder ſhall then appertain, &c. And becauſe the vouchee in our Caſe was not ſeiſed for life, but came in as vouchee, for that cauſe he was out of the letter of that Statute: And that that Act ſhall not be taken by Equity, it was holden as Serjeant Bendloes Reports, Trin. 5 Eliz. That if Tenant for life, the remainder to his eldeſt ſon in fee be diſſeiſed by Covin, and after the diſſeiſor is impleaded in a Writ of Entre in the Poſt, and voucheth the Tenant for life, who voucheth over the common vouchee, that that was out of the Statute of 32 H. 8. becauſe that the Tenant for life came in as vouchee, and the Præcipe was not brought againſt him: And the ſon being an infant was not remedied by the Statute of 32 H. 8. And he reports alſo that it was ſo holden in the Caſe of one Lee for lands in the County of Cornwal, anno 15 Eliz. by the Juſtices of the Common Pleas: And the Court ſaid that thoſe Caſes were not to be compared to the Caſe at the Bar, for there, by the diſſeiſin, all the remainders were deveſted, ſo as they had but a right, and then that perhaps might be out of the Statute of 32 H. 8. by reaſon the words of the Act are (to whom the Reverſion or remainder ſhall then appertain.) The ſecond point was, that the Recovery being executed, did take away the Entry of him in the Remainder, and put him to a Writ of Entry in conſimili caſu; and to that purpoſe the Caſes in 15 E. 3. tit. Age 95. 41 E. 3. 18. b. by Finchden, 22 E. 3. 2. b. and the preamble of the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 31. was cited. But the Court did reſolve for the Plaintiff, becauſe they conceived, that that Recovery was a forfeiture of the eſtate of Sir William Pelham, for in as much as a common Recovery by aſſent, was at that day by common uſage, in manner as a common aſſurance and conveyance, upon which an uſe may be limited and added, as well as upon a fine or feoffment; for that cauſe Sir Roger Manwood, Baron Clark, and all other the Barons of the Exchequer upon great deliberation did reſolve, That the ſaid Recovery was a forfeiture, and done to the diſ-inheritance of him in the remainder in tail, and was as much in Law, as if the ſaid Sir William Pelham had levied a fine, or made a feoffment. And diverſity was taken between a Recovery by aſſent, which is in the nature of a common conveyance, and a Recovery without aſſent of the parties, although it be without title. And it was alſo adjudged by the whole Court, that the entry of him in the remainder in tail was congeable as well after the Execution, as after the Judgment; for the ſame being a forfeiture for the cauſe aforeſaid, the ſuing of the Execution ſhall not take away the entry of him in the remainder. And the Court ſaid, it ſhall be miſcheivous if before the Statute of 14 Eliz. cap. 8. it ſhould be in the power of Tenant for life, by ſuffering of a common Recovery, to take away the entry of him in the reverſion, or remainder, and to put them to their real Actions, and ſo in danger to be diſinherited or delayed. And to prove the ſame to be a forfeiture, the Book is adjudged in 5 Aſſ. p. 3. & Paſch. 5. E. 3. tit. Entre congeable 42. That where the Plaintiff had demiſed the land to one A. for term of his life, which A. procured his ſon to bring a Writ of Entry upon the Statute of Glouceſter, ſuppoſing that he held of his demiſe for term of his life by colluſion, to ouſt the Plaintiff of his Reverſion; to which Writ A. appeared, and could not deny the Action, for which the ſon had Judgment, and before execution, the Plaintiff entred upon A. and the ſon ſued execution, upon which the Plaintiff brought an Aſſiſe, and had Judgment to recover. And it is to be noted, that the Entry of the Plaintiff before execution, was no cauſe of the Judgment, for there Chauntrel with the aſſent of

[15]

[b]

Herle, declares the reaſon of the Judgment; that is to ſay, Becauſe it is found, that the Writ was brought by colluſion, and that the recovery was by confeſſion, which thing we hold but an alienation in Law to the diſ-inheritance of him who is Plaintiff; for which cauſe the Court did adjudge that he [16] ſhould recover his ſeiſin. By which Judgment it appeareth, that the ſuing of Execution was not material, for as much as the Recovery it ſelf was adjudged a forfeiture. So if in a Writ of Right brought againſt Tenant for life, he joyn the miſe upon the meer right, it is a forfeiture as it is holden in 9 H. 5. 14. a. & 22 aſſ. pl. 31. So 14 E. 3. tit. Receit 135. That in a Præcipe the Tenant (being Tenant for life) plead to iſſue the firſt day, without taking delay by aſſent betwixt the Tenant and the Demandant, the Demandant did recover, and there holden, the entry of him in the remainder was lawful. See 18 E. 3. 28. b. And in 25 E. 3. 48. a. it is holden, that a Recovery by aſſent without title ſhall not deveſt a reverſion or remainder out of the King, becauſe the ſame being ſuffered by aſſent of the parties without title, is but a conveyance. And 33 E. 3. Avowry 255. by Seton, recovery without title doth countervail a demiſe. And the Plaintiff in the Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber, perceiving the opinion of the Court to encline againſt him, did releaſe his Writ of Error.

Mich. 34 & 35 Eliz. between the Queen and Porter.

Porter's Caſe.

[b] IN an Information of intruſion in the Exchequer againſt John Porter and others, for intruding in a Wharf, and a Houſe called the Woll-key in London; and upon iſſue joyned upon Non intruſit, the Jurors gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect: Nicholas Gibſon was ſeiſed of the Wharf and Houſe aforeſaid, and held them in free Burgage. And 24 Sept. 32 H. 8. by his laſt Will in writing, deviſed the Wharf and Houſe aforeſaid to Avice his Wife and her heirs, upon the Condition following, viz. Upon Condition, that where it hath pleaſed God to put me the ſaid Nicholas Gibſon in mind to build divers Houſes convenient for a Free-ſchool, the Maſter of the ſame, certain Beadmen and Beadwomen: And that the ſame cannot be eſtabliſhed to continue without great charges to be employed and beſtowed upon the ſame; and alſo Lands and Tenements, or other Hereditaments to be aſſured for the continuance of the ſame. I will and declare by this my laſt Will and Teſtament, that the ſaid gift of my Lands and Tenements ſhall enure, and take effect to my ſaid Wife upon condition following; That is to ſay, that my ſaid Wife upon advice of learned Counſel, in all convenient ſpeed after my deceaſe, ſhall aſſure, give, and grant, all my ſaid Lands and Tenements for the maintenance and continuance of the ſaid Free-School, Almſmen, and Almſwomen for ever, as it ſhall pleaſe God. And that my ſaid Wife Avice Gibſon ſhall have all the iſſues and profits yearly comming of the premiſes during her life, bearing the charges of the ſaid School, &c. as the ſame is now kept and maintained. And made the ſaid Avice his Wife his Executrix, and died 6 October 32. Hen. 8. after whoſe death Avice entred into the Wharf
[23] and Houſe, and was thereof ſeiſed accordingly. And afterwards 13 Aprilis anno 3 E. 6. the ſaid Avice did demiſe the ſaid Wharf and Houſe to one Bartholomew Gibbes from the feaſt of Chriſtmas, which ſhould be in the year 1566. for forty years; which term was by divers mean conveyances conveyed to the ſaid John Porter; and afterwards John Gibſon couſin and heir unto the ſaid Nicholas Gibſon 24 Januarii anno 34 Eliz. entred into the ſaid Wharf and Houſe aforeſaid, prætextu foriſfact', & conditionis in dicto teſtamento ſpecificat' per præd' Avice in vita ſua foriſfact' & fract', and after 25 Januarii in the 34 year of Elizabeth by deed indented and enrolled in the Chancery did bargain, grant, and ſell the ſaid Wharf and Houſe to our Soveraign Lady the Queen her heirs and Succeſſors: By force whereof the Queen was thereof ſeiſed in fee, and ſo ſeiſed, the ſaid John Porter did enter upon her claiming his term aforeſaid. And if the entry of the ſaid John Porter were lawful or not was the doubt; which was referred to the conſideration of the Court. And Mich. 34 & 35 Eliz. at Hertford this Caſe was argued by Egerton then Attorney General, and Coke Solicitor for the Queen, and by Atkinſon and others for the Defendant. And on the Defendants part it was ſaid, Firſt, that the ſaid Condition mentioned in the ſaid Will was againſt the Law, and ſo the eſtate of Avice abſolute. Secondly, that if her eſtate were Conditional, yet it doth not appear by any thing found by the Verdict that the Condition was broken. And as to the firſt, viz. That the Condition was againſt Law, it was ſaid by the Defendants Counſel, that that point reſts only upon the conſtruction of the Statute of 23 H. 8. cap. 10. the letter of which Act, as to this purpoſe, is as followeth: That by reaſon of feoffments, &c. made of truſt, of Mannors, &c. to the uſe of Pariſh-Churches, Chappels, Churchwardens, Guilds, Fraternities, Comminalties, Companies, or Brotherhoods erected and made, of devotion, or by common aſſent of the people without any Corporation, &c. And to the uſes and intents to have Obits perpetual, or any continual ſervice of a Prieſt for ever, &c. or to any other like uſes, or intents, there groweth and iſſueth to the King our Soveraign Lord, and to other Lords and Subjects of the Realm, the ſame like loſſes and inconveniences, and is as much prejudicial to them, as doth and is in caſe when Lands be aliened in Mortmain. Be it therefore enacted, That all and every ſuch uſes, intents, and purpoſes, of what name, nature, or quality the ſame ſhall be called, &c. ſhall be utterly void; and if any perſon in defraud of this Statute do bind, &c. That then every ſuch pain, penalty, craft, colour, and every other thing and things, &c. ſhall be utterly void. And that this Statute ſhall be always interpreted, &c. moſt
[b] beneficially to the deſtruction of ſuch uſes, &c. and of all other like uſes and intents. Provided that this Act, &c. ſhall not extend to hinder the uſes as ſhall be declared in writing by the Executors of

Robert

Robert Jammes, and John Terrey late Aldermen of Norwich, &c. to be imployed for the diſcharge of Tolls and Cuſtoms within the ſaid City, at the gates of the ſame, for the diſcharge of Tolls and Cuſtoms within the ſaid City, at the gates of the ſame, for the diſcharge of poor people within the ſame City of taxes and tallages, &c. or for the cleanſing of the ſtreets, &c. or for any of the ſaid good purpoſes, ſo that the ſame Odinance, &c. be had, &c. within two years next enſuing. And it was objected, That the miſchief before the making of this Statute was, that when feoffements were made upon truſt and confidence, that certain companies erected by aſſent, without any Corporation, ſhall take the profits, &c. the ſame was as prejudicial to Lords, as alienations in Mortmain. For the Statute of 15 R. 2. c. 5. hath provided for feoffments made unto the uſe of any Body incorporate, as well Spiritual as Temporal; That ſuch feoffments ſhall be as purchaſes made by themſelves. But as appeareth by the preamble of the ſaid Statute of 23 H. 8. feoffments made unto the uſe of Companies not incorporate, were as prejudicial to Lords as alienations in Mortmain. And for that cauſe the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. made proviſion againſt them. And although that the erection of a Grammar School to inſtruct youth, as well in good learning as in good manners, was a work of charity, and good in it ſelf; and ſo to maintain and relieve poor men and women; yet when feoffments were made to a great number of perſons unto ſuch good uſes, the ſame was as prejudicial to Lords for their Wards, Reliefs, Eſcheats, &c. as if the feoffment had been made to the uſe of a Body corporate, Spiritual or Temporal, for any good intent or purpoſe. And becauſe the benefit of Lords was reſpected by the Statute, and it is for his benefit to take away all ſuch uſes, for that cauſe, it was ſaid that the ſaid uſes and intents mentioned in the ſaid Will were void by the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. 2. This Statute ſaith, ſuch uſes, and all other like uſes, intents, &c. 3. The intent of that Act was to include good uſes, for at the time of the making of the ſaid Act, the finding of an Obit, and the ſervice of a Prieſt, &c. mentioned in the ſaid Act were accounted good uſes. 4. It is provided, That the ſaid Act ſhall be conſtrued as beneficial as may be, for the deſtroying of the ſaid uſes, and all the like uſes. 5. The ſaid laſt Proviſo containing an Exception of certain good uſes, as to diſcharge poor Citizens of Norwich of Tolls, Cuſtoms, Taxes and Tallages out of the ſaid Act, but not ſimply and abſolutely to except them, but to except them ſub modo; that is to ſay, If the ſaid Ordinance be made within two years following, or otherwiſe to leave the ſaid good uſes to be within the general purview of the ſaid Act, ſtrongly prove (as it was urged) that ſuch good uſes were included within the ſaid Act; and by conſequence the ſaid Condition being a penalty added by the Teſtator for the maintenance of the ſaid uſes, was void by the expreſs words of the Statute; and then the entry of the heir of the Teſtator not lawful. Unto which it was anſwered by the Queens Counſel, That our Caſe was out of the intent and meaning of the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. for two cauſes: Firſt, becauſe it was not the intention of the ſaid Act to extend to ſuch good and charitable uſes, as the uſes in our caſe are. For diſtinguenda ſunt tempora, and the time of the making of this Act is to be conſidered. And as to that, firſt, it is to know, that before that time all the Clergy of England had acknowledged King Henry the eighth, to be ſupreme Head of the Church of England; and before that time, divers ſuperſtitions and and errors in Chriſtian Religion, which had a pretence and ſemblance of charity and devotion, were diſcovered by the ſight of Gods word. For that cauſe, to take away ſuch ſuperſtitious uſes, as to pray for ſouls ſuppoſed to be in Purgatory, and the like, that Statute was made, and not to take away the erecting of Grammar Schools, and relief for poor men. For no time was ſo barbarous to take away learning, and knowledge, nor no time ſo uncharitable to take away maintenance for the poor. Beſides, it is to be noted, That that Statute doth not make the feoffment or other conveyance void, nor giveth any title to the Lord to enter for Mortmain (as the Statute of 15 R. 2. cap. 5. doth) but only maketh the uſe void; ſo as the feoffees ſhall be, notwithſtanding the declaration of ſuch uſes, ſeiſed unto the uſe of the feoffor and his heirs; and then it cannot be intended, that the intent of the makers of the ſaid Act, was to make good and charitable uſes and intents void: And the rather, becauſe if the feoffor had reſerved but a penny rent, or had taken a penny in conſideration of the feoffment, then although the Statute make the uſe expreſſed void, yet the feoffees ſhall be ſeiſed to their own uſe, and not unto the uſe of the feoffor; in which caſe alſo as great loſs ſhall be unto Lords of their Wards, Reliefs, Eſcheats, &c. as if the good uſes had continued: And notwithſtanding the ſaid Act, the feoffees in ſuch Caſe might have maintained the good uſes without any penalty or danger; and therefore it ſeemed to them that the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. in making the uſe only void, was of little or no effect. Moreover he ſaid, That the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. was the firſt Act that was made againſt ſuperſtitious uſes; and then were the Acts of 25, 26 & 28 H. 8. made for the aboliſhing of the uſurped authority of the Pope; and then the Acts of 27 H. 8. & 31 H. 8. were made for the ſuppreſſion of Abbies, Priories, Nunneries, &c. And afterwards the Statutes of 37 H. 8. & 1 E. 6. for Chauntries, Colleges, &c. Obits and all ſuch ſuperſtitious uſes were made, but by none of theſe Acts, good and charitable uſes (as the uſes in our Caſes) are taken away, aboliſhed or made void, but rather by the Act of 1 E. 6. they are intended to be maintained, as appeareth by the preamble thereof, viz. For the education of youth in virtue and piety at Grammar Schools, for the augmentation of the Univerſities, and the better proviſion of the poor and needy, which by the ſaid Act of 1 E. 6. are called good and godly uſes; and therefore it ſhall not be intended that ſuch good and godly uſes were made void by the Statute of 23 H. 8. And as to the ſaid Proviſo for excepting of certain good uſes out of the Statute of 23 H. 8. the ſame was rather to ſatisfie ſome Burgeſſes of the Parliament, who were ignorant in the Laws, then for any neceſſity. As in the Statute of 5 E. 6. cap. 16. the body of the Act extends only to Offices concerning the adminiſtration of Juſtice, or the Kings Revenue, as Receiver, Controller, Treaſurer, Aulneger, Auditor, and Surveyor, and yet the Keeper of a Park is excepted out of the ſame, more for the ſatisfaction of ſome ignorant Burgeſſes, then for any neceſſity. And ſo he concluded, that good and charitable uſes (not ſavouring of any ſuperſtition) as to find Grammar Schools, to relieve poor men, or any ſuch good uſe, is not void by the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. but only

[24]

[b]

ſuper-

ſuperſtitious uſes, and ſo hath the Statute in common opinion been always taken. For almoſt all Lords appertaining to Towns or Boroughs not incorporate, for the defraying of the Tax of the Towns, or the repairing of High-ways, or for reparations of the Church, or the maintenance of the poor of the Pariſh, or the bearing of other charges of the Pariſh, are conveyed to divers Inhabitants of the Pariſh and their heirs, upon truſt and confidence to imploy the profits to ſuch good uſes, and no ſuch uſes (although they are common almoſt in every Town) ever made void by the Statute of 23 H. 8. And it ſhall be a diſhonourable thing to the Law of the land, to make ſuch good uſes void, and to reſtrain men to give their lands to ſuch good uſes. And a Caſe reported by Bendlowes Serjeant at Law was cited, by which it appeareth, that it was holden in the Common Pleas in 5 & 6 E. 6. That a feoffment unto the uſe of poor people was not within the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. The ſecond reaſon that the Queens Counſel gave, was, admitting that good and charitable uſes were void by the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. yet as our Caſe is, the Condition is not void. For he hath deviſed, that his Wife ſhall have the Lands and [25] Tenements upon condition that ſhe by the advice of learned Counſel in convenient time after his death, ſhall aſſure all his Lands and Tenements for the maintenance and continuance of the ſaid Free School, and Almſmen and Almſwomen for ever; ſo that although the ſaid uſes were prohibited by the ſaid Act, yet the Teſtator hath deviſed, that Counſel learned ſhall deviſe how the ſaid Lands and Tenements ſhall be aſſured for the maintenance and continuance, &c. and that may be deviſed lawfully, viz. Firſt to make a Corporation of them by the Kings Letters Patents, and afterwards, by Licence to aſſure the Lands and Tenements to them. So if a man deviſe that his Executors ſhall aſſure by the advice of learned Counſel his Lands to any Corporation Spiritual or Temporal; the ſame is not againſt any Act of Parliament, becauſe it may be lawfully done by Licence, &c. And ſo without queſtion was the intent of the Teſtator, for he would have the Land aſſured for the maintenance and continuance of the Free School and poor for ever, which cannot be done without incorporation and Licence as is aforeſaid; For which cauſe, as this Caſe is, this Condition is not againſt Law, but in as much as it might be lawfully deviſed and done (although that the uſe had been prohibited, as in truth it was not) the Wife was bound to perform the ſame: which was agreed per Curiam. Thirdly, admitting the uſe were prohibited by the ſaid Act, and that the reference to Counſel learned would not exempt the ſame out of the Act, yet it ſeemeth the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. of Wills, have taken away the force of the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. for the words of the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. are, That all and every perſon having a ſole eſtate in fee-ſimple of any Mannors, &c. ſhall have full and free liberty, power, and authority, to give, diſpoſe, will, or deviſe to any perſon or perſons (except bodies Politick and Corporate, by his laſt Will and Teſtament in writing, or otherwiſe by any other acts lawfully executed in his life time, all his Mannors, &c. at his own free will and pleaſure, any Law, Statute, Cuſtome, or other thing heretofore had, made, or uſed to the contrary notwithſtanding.) So for as much as bodies Politick and Corporate are only excepted; and the rather, becauſe it is ſaid in the end of the clauſe (any Law, Statute, &c. to the contrary notwithſtanding.) And there is not any Statute which hath any colour to reſtrain conveyances or deviſes to theſe good uſes, but the Statute of 23 H. 8. and therefore that Statute is taken away by the ſaid Acts of 32 & 34 H. 8. And theſe Acts of 32 H. 8. & 34 H. 8.
[b] as to that purpoſe will have a fair and favourable conſtruction for maintenance of Learning, and good and charitable uſes. And upon the ſame reaſon it was agreed in Mich. 8. & 9 Eliz. reported by the Lord Dyer, fol. 255. b. That the Statute of 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar. ſhall be favourably expounded. For where a deviſe was made to the Maſter, Fellows, and Scholars of Trinity Colledge in Cambridge for finding of certain Grammar Scholars, and poor Scholars, &c. that deviſe was held good by the equity of the ſaid Act, for it was out of the letter thereof, and that for maintenance of learning, and good and charitable uſes. But the ſaid Acts of 32 & 34 H. 8. have ſufficient words to take away the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. (as to the preſervation of good uſes) & leges poſteriores priores contrarias abrogant; but as to that the Barons did not deliver their opinions, becauſe they reſolved upon the two firſt points. And to that which was ſaid, That the Condition, if it was good, is not found to be broken, it was ſaid by the Queens Counſel, that it was clearly broken by matter apparent in the Verdict: for when the Wife had the eſtate upon condition, that ſhe by the advice of Counſel learned, in all convenient time ſhall aſſure, &c. and the Jury find that ſhe continued ſeiſin until 3 of E. 6. and then made the Leaſe for 40 years, as above: here appeareth a double breach of the Condition: 1. That ſhe hath not made the aſſurance within convenient time, for in effect, the Jury have found that ſhe hath not made it within 8 years. 2. By the making of the Leaſe ſhe hath diſabled her ſelf to perform the Condition, as Littleton 83. If feoffee upon Condition take a Wife, or charge the Lands, or bind her ſelf in a Statute Merchant or Staple, theſe are breaches of the Condition, and 44 E. 3. 9. b. & 26 E. 3. 73. accordingly a fortiori in this Caſe, the Wife by making of the ſaid Leaſe hath broken the Condition, and the heir of the Teſtator hath lawful cauſe to enter therefore. And afterwards in that term upon a motion made, the Barons ſaid that they were reſolved, firſt, That the Statute of 23 H. 8. did not extend to take away the good and charitable uſes in the Caſe at the Bar: and ſecondly, That the Condition for the cauſes aforeſaid was broken; and thereupon they commanded the laſt Munday of the Term, that Judgment ſhould be entred for the Queen. And the ſame day Judgment was given in the Kings Bench in the like Caſe upon the ſaid Statute of 23 H. 8. So the Law in this Caſe was reſolved by Sir Roger Manwood and all the Barons of the Exchequer, and by Sir John Popham and all the Juſtices of the Kings Bench, betwixt John Gibbons Plaintiff, and Thomas Maltywade and John Marſton Defendants in an Ejectione firmæ of Lands in E. in the County of Suffolk, and Judgment there given accordingly.

[26] Note Reader, Any man at this day, may give Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments to any perſon or perſons and their heirs, for the finding of a Preacher, maintenance of a School, relief and comfort of maimed maimed Souldiers, ſuſtenance of poor people, reparation of Churches, High-ways, Bridges, Cawſies, diſcharging of poor inhabitants of Towns of common charges; for making of a ſtock for poor labourers in Husbandry, and poor Apprentices; and for the marriage of poor Virgins, or for any other charitable uſes. And it is good policy upon every ſuch feoffment or eſtate to reſerve a ſmall Rent to the feoffor and his heirs, or to expreſs ſome ſuch conſideration of ſome ſmall ſum for the cauſe before rehearced.

Trinity Term 42 Eliz. between the Queen and Richard Buſhop.

The Caſe of Alton Woods.

IN an Information of Entruſion, which began Trinit. 37 Eliz. Rot. 199. in the Exchequer againſt Richard Buſhop for entruſion in a Wood called Alton Woods, in Alton alias Alvington and Rock in the County of Worceſter, &c. The Defendant pleaded, that before the entruſion, one Anne Counteſs of Warwick, who was the Wife of Richard Earl of Warwick, was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Abbotesley, alias Abberley, in the County aforeſaid; whereof the ſaid Wood was parcel in her demeſne as of fee, and ſo ſeiſed quindena Hillarii anno 3 H. 7. did levy a fine of the ſaid Mannor whereof, &c. unto King Henry the ſeventh, to have and to hold to him and to the heirs males of his body, ſaving the reverſion unto the ſaid Counteſs and her heirs; and afterwards the ſaid Counteſs died ſeiſed of the ſaid reverſion in fee, after whoſe death the ſame deſcended unto Edward Earl of Warwick her couſin and heir, that is to ſay, ſon and heir of Iſabel, daughter and heir of the ſaid Counteſs; and afterwards, by Act of Parliament 25 Januarii anno 19 H. 7. the ſaid Edward Earl of Warwick was attainted of Treaſon; and further it was enacted by the ſame Act, that he ſhall forfeit to the ſaid King and his heirs, all his Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, which he had the ſecond day of Auguſt, anno 14 H. 7. Quarum quidem convictionis & attincturæ prætextu, prædict' nuper Rex H. 7. fuit ſeiſitus de reverſione Manerii prædict', unde &c. ut de feodo & jure, in jure Coronæ ſuæ Angliæ, & ſic inde ſeiſitus exiſtens, ac de manerio prædicto cum pertinentiis, ſic ut præfertur ſeiſit' exiſten', idem nuper Rex apud Weſtmonaſter' in comitatu Mid. obiit de Manerio prædict' cum pertinentiis, unde &c. ac de reverſione prædict' in forma præd' ſeiſitus, poſt cujus mortem: The Mannor and Reverſion did deſcend unto Hen. 8. by force whereof he was of [41] the ſaid Mannor and Reverſion ſeiſed, &c. and ſo being thereof ſeiſed, it was found before the Eſcheator, virtute officii, 5 Julii, anno 23 H. 8. That the ſaid Counteſs of Warwick did levy the ſaid fine, and that ſhe died ſeiſed of the aforeſaid Reverſion; and that the ſame deſcended to the ſaid Edward Earl of Warwick; and that he being of the ſaid Reverſion ſeiſed, the ſaid Earl was by the ſaid Act in 19 H. 7. attainted of high Treaſon; and by the ſame Act it was ordained that he ſhould forfeit, ut ſupra: by force of which King Hen. 7. was ſeiſed of the Reverſion in fee; and that the ſaid eſtate tail, and the Reverſion alſo after the death of Hen. 7. deſcended to Hen. 8. by force of which King Hen. 8. was ſeiſed, viz. of the Mannor in tail, and of the Reverſion in fee, prout per Inquiſitionem præd' in Cur. Cancellar. dominæ Reginæ apud Weſtm. præd' debito modo retornat', & ibidem de recordo remanen', plenius apparet. And King H. 8. ſo ſeiſed, that is to ſay, of an eſtate tail in poſſeſſion, and of the Reverſion in fee by his Letters Patents bearing date 3 Nov. anno 33 H. 8. recitan' quod cum idem Henricus 8. 20 die Octobris, anno regni ſui decimo nono per literas ſuas Patentes dediſſet, & conceſſiſſet Waltero Walſhe uni Gromett' privatæ Cameræ ſuæ, manerium ſuum de Grafton Fleuord in comitatu Wigorniæ, habendum ſibi pro termino vitæ ſuæ. Cumque etiam prædictus Henricus octavus ſexto die Decembris, anno regni ſui viceſimo primo, per alias ſuas literas Patentes dediſſet, & conceſſiſſet præfato Waltero Walſhe, & cuidam Elizabethæ adtunc uxori ejus, manerium de Charleton, in com' Somerſet. Habendum & tenendum manerium illud eiſdem Waltero, & Elizabethæ pro termino vitæ eorundem Walteri & Elizabethæ, & alterius eorum diutius vivent', prædictus nuper Rex Henricus octavus adtunc in conſideratione veri, & laudabilis ſervicii, eidem domino Regi, per præfatum Walterum Walſhe adtunc impenſ. & adtunc impoſterum impendend'. Ac pro eo quod idem Walterus prædictas literas Patentes de manerio de Grafton Fleuord, ac quod iidem Walterus & Elizabetha, prædictas alias literas Patentes eis de prædicto manerio de Charleton in forma prædicta confectas, dicto nuper Regi Henrico octavo reſtituiſſent cancelland', ad intentionem quod idem nuper Rex prædictum manerium de Grafton Fleuord, necnon prædictum manerium de Abbotteſley, per alias literas Patentes ejuſdem nuper Regis, eiſdem Waltero & Elizebathæ concedere dignaretur, quæ quidem ſeparales priores literæ Patentes, in Cur' Cancellar' prædict', ad eandem intentionem [b] tempore confectionis prædictarum literarum patentium hic in Cur' prolat', reſtitut', & cancellat' fuerunt, de gratia ipſius Regis ſpeciali ac ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu ſuis, per eaſdem literas Patentes hic in Curia prolat' dedit, & conceſſit eiſdem Waltero Walſhe, & Elizabethæ uxori ejus, prædict' maneria de Grafton Fleuord, & Abbotteſley. Habend' & tenend' prædicta maneria cum pertinentiis prædicto Waltero Walſhe, & Elizabethæ uxori ejus, & hæredibus maſculis de corpore ipſius Walteri procreat'. And avers that he was one of the Grooms of the Privy Chamber to King Hen. 8. and that he hath done ſervice, &c. And avers alſo, that he had ſurrendred the ſaid letters Patents of Grafton Fleuorde, and that he and his Wife had ſurrendred the ſaid letters Patents of Charleton, and that afterwards Elizabeth died, and that the ſaid Walter ſurvived. And afterwards it was enacted and ordained by Parliament holden 8 Junii, anno 28 H. 8. reciting by the ſaid Act, that where the ſaid Counteſs of Warwick by the ſaid fine, anno 3 H. 7. had given and granted the ſaid Mannor of Abbotesley with the appurtenances (inter alia) to have to the ſaid Hen. 7. and to the the heirs males of his body; and reciting the diſcent of the Reverſion of the ſaid Mannor from the ſaid Counteſs unto the ſaid Edward Earl, and his Attainder of high Treaſon, by which the Reverſion in fee of the ſaid Mannor (inter alia) eſcheated unto the ſaid King Hen. 7. and came to his hands, and reciting the diſcent from King Hen. 7. to King Hen. 8. by force of which King Hen. 8. was thereof ſeiſed. Et quia prædict' maneria & cætera præmiſſa fuerunt magni valoris & habuerunt multa, magna, & ampla libertates, præheminenc', commoditates, & delectamenta, ad eadem ſpectant'. Ideo tunc, & ibidem inactitatum fuit, authoritate ejuſdem Parliamenti, quod prædict' nuper Rex Henricus octavus hæredes & ſucceſſores ſui, extunc impoſterum haberent, tenerent & gauderent omnia & ſingula prædicta maneria, &c. ac quod eadem maneria, &c. adjudicarentur authoritate ejuſdem Parliamenti, in prædict' nuper Rege Henrico octavo hæredibus & ſucceſſoribus ſuis in feodo ſimplici imperpetuum, ſine prædict', ſeu aliquibus aliis rebus, ante tunc habitis, factis, uſitatis, ſeu allocatis, in contrarium non obſtantibus: ſalvis ſemper omnibus & ſingulis perſonæ, & perſonis, corporibus politicis, & corporatis, hæredibus, & ſucceſſoribus ſuis, aliis quam prædictæ nuper Comitiſſæ Warwick, & hæredibus ſuis, & hæredibus Richardi nuper Comitis Warwick, patris prædictæ nuper Comitiſſæ, omnibus talibus juribus, titulis, &c. in talibus modo, & forma, prout prædictus actus nunquam habitus ſeu [42] editus fuiſſet. By force of which King Henry 8. was ſeiſed of the Reverſion of the ſaid Mannor in fee ſimple, and conveyed the eſtate unto William Walſhe, and the Reverſion unto the Queen that now is: And that the ſaid William Walſhe by his Deed indented enrolled in the Chancery, &c. bearing date the third day of July anno 30 Reginæ Elizabethæ, did bargain and ſell unto the Earl of Leiceſter and his heirs, the ſaid Wood, which after his deceaſe deſcended to Ambroſe Earl of Warwick his brother and heir, who conveyed the ſame unto Anne now Counteſs of Warwick and her heirs, and died: And Buſhop the Defendant did juſtifie as ſervant to the ſaid now Counteſs, and by her commandment, &c. upon which Plea Coke the Queens Attorney did demur in Law. And this Caſe was argued at the Bar by the Attorney General, and Fleming Solicitor General for the Queen; and by Serjeant Heron and Thomas Stephens for the Defendant And afterwards was argued by the Barons, viz. Periam chief Baron, Clark and Ewens; and Clark argued for the Queen, but Periam and Ewens contrary, and Judgment was given againſt the Queen: And thereupon the Attorney General did cauſe a Writ of Error to be brought for the Queen; and becauſe the Caſe was notable, he argued in the Exchequer Chamber upon the Writ of Error. I have omitted all the Arguments before the Judgment given in the Exchequer, and the rather becauſe I did not hear the whole Arguments of Baron Clark and Baron Ewens. And four Exceptions were taken by the Attorney General unto the pleading.

Firſt, the pleading that King Henry the ſeventh was ſeiſed in fee of the Reverſion by the ſaid Act of Attainder, by which it is enacted, that the ſaid Earl of Warwick ſhall forfeit all his lands, &c. and that King Henry the ſeventh died ſeiſed of the ſaid Reverſion; and that that did deſcend to King Henry the eighth is repugnant and inſufficient; for in as much as it doth not appear when Edward Earl of Warwick, who was attainted, died, it is clear that until his death or Office found nothing veſted in King Henry the ſeventh. And this point hath oftentimes been reſolved and adjudged, 27 H. 8. tit. Office. Br. 17. Sayes Caſe, 15 Eliz. Dyer 325. Nichols Caſe, Plowdens Comm. 483. b. & 486. a. And the Statute of 26 H. 8. cap. 13. by which lands in tail are forfeit. And 33 H. 8. cap. 20. by which land forfeit for Treaſon is by the ſaid Act veſted in the King without Office, prove that this word (ſhall forfeit) veſt nothing in the King until Office, or death, at the Common Law, and all was affirmed per Curiam: But it ſeemed to them that the pleading notwithſtanding that was ſufficient in ſubſtance, for King Henry the ſeventh did not make the grant to Walſhe, for then the Exception had been material. But after Office found King Henry the eighth granted unto Walſhe; and therefore the ſeiſin alledged in [b] King Henry the ſeventh, and the deſcent to King Henry the eighth was but a trifle, and not material.

The ſecond Exception was unto the Return of the ſaid Office found 23 H. 8. becauſe it was found virtute officii before the Eſcheator, which ought to be returned in the Exchequer, and not in the Chancery; bnt Offices found virtute officii before the Eſcheator ought to be returned into the Chancery; for Offices found virtute brevis returnable in the Chancery ought to be returned into the Exchequer, to which Court he is properly attendant, and ſo is the Book in 4 E. 4. 24. a. Stanford prærog. fol. 70. b. But the Exception was diſallowed by the Court upon the view of infinite preſidents of offices found before the Eſcheator virtute officii, and returned into the Chancery. And it was holden by the two chief Juſtices Popham and Anderſon, and Gawdy Juſtice (whom the Lord Keeper of the great Seal, and the Lord Treaſurer called unto them according to the Statute) that the Office was ſufficient for to entitle the King, although it were never returned; for it appeareth in the Book of Aſſiſes, that upon examination of the Eſcheator, if it appeareth that he hath ſeiſed the land into the King's hands, it is ſufficient. See 30 Aſſ. pl. 5. &c.

The third Exception was, that the Office doth entitle King Henry the ſeventh after his death, and found ſeiſin in Henry the ſeventh, and deſcent to King Henry the eighth, ſo that the Office which was found 23 H. 8. doth not entitle King Henry the eighth by force of the Office, and attainder, but entitleth King Henry the ſeventh, and King Henry the eighth as heir to him, and that is the title which the Office found for King Henry the eighth, and therefore the Office is not ſufficient; but the Exception was not allowed: For in as much as it was found by Office that the ſaid Earl of Warwick was ſeiſed of the ſaid Reverſion at the time of his attainder, it was ſufficient for to entitle King Henry the eighth, without finding the reſidue of the matter, which was but ſurpluſage, and more then needed.

The fourth Exception was, That the pleading of the grant made unto Walter Walſhe by King Henry the eighth, as to the Conſideration, was inſufficient, and that for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe it was not added, that the King had demiſed the Mannors of Grafton Fleuord and Charleton as he had recited; for if in rei veritate there were not ſuch Leaſes, then the King was deceived; and the King was induced to grant the Mannor of Grafton Fleuord in tail the rather, becauſe that he thought that he had granted the ſame (as he recites) unto Walſhe for term of his life, and was induced to grant the Mannor of Abbotteſley bottesley in tail the rather because that the Mannor of Charleton which (as he recites) he had granted unto [43]

Walshe and his wife for term of their lives shall be surrendred; but if in rei veritate, there were not any such Leases for life, then the King was deceived in the consideration which was of Record, and valuable; and if the Defendant had pleaded, that the King had made such Leases, the same had been issuable and traversable, and in proof thereof the Cases in 21 E.4.48. & 49. and Sir Thomas Wrothes Case, Plowdens Commentaries 455. aforecited. But the Exception was not allowed, for the Consideration was, that Walter Walshe shall surrender the Letters Patents of the Mannor of Grafton, and that he and his Wife surrender the Lettes Patents of the Mannor of Charleton, and all that he hath added, that is to say, the surrender of the Letters Patents, and that is the Consideration, and not the surrender of the estate demised: And it was agreed, that it needeth not to aver more then is contained within the Consideration it self: and although that the King doth recite the demises, yet that is not the Consideration of the new grant; and false recital in that case of a thing which was not parcel of the Consideration, made not the grant void. And it was said by some, that the recital shall conclude the King according to the opinion in 9 H. 7.2. But the two Chief Justices did deny that, for the King shall not be concluded to shew, or to say the truth, but the Law shall adjudge him rather to be deceived. The other Objection against the Consideration was, that the King was deceived in the Law in this Case; for he intended to have his former demises of Grafton Fleuord, and of Charleton to be surrendred, and the surrender of them was the motive of the new grant; but here the King was deceived in that, for by the surrender of the Letters Patents, the estate demised was not surrendred, namely, of the Mannor of Charleton, in which the Wife of Walshe had a joynt estate with him: And it was said, that the King ought for to have the effect and full benefit of that which is intended to be done unto him, and not the shadow and outward shew thereof, which consists only in words, and not in effect: As in 18 Eliz. Dier 352. where a term in shew, and not in effect was surrendred, and in consideration thereof, another Lease made, the new Leases is holden to be void, and yet the grant was ex certa scientia, & mere motu, which Case in effect was, that one Abbot made a Lease for 60 years unto another Abbot, the Abbot who was Lessee with the assent of his Covent made a Lease for 80 years, the Reversion came unto the Queen, the first term of 60 years expired, the assignee of the term of 80 years doth surrender unto the Queen ea intentione, that the Queen would make a new Lease unto him for 20 years; the Queen reciting the demise for 80 years, and surrender in consideration thereof ex certa scientia, & mero motu, doth demise for 20 years, and it was [b] holden that the demise was void, for the Queen was deceived, for in truth nothing was surrendred but only in shew and appearance. And the same Case proves directly, that the recital of a demise shall not conclude the King, but contrary if the same be false, it shall avoid his grant. So also was it adjudged in the Case of Barwick in an Information of Entrusion, Trin. 39 Eliz. where the Case in effect was, The Queen in anno 14 of her Reign, demised the Mannor of Sutton in Galtres in the County of York unto Humphrey Barwick for 21 years, who demised divers petit parcels thereof to others for years; and afterwards the Queen by her Letters Patents, anno 23 Eliz. reciting the said demise unto Humphrey Barwick, pro & in consideratione sursum redditionis totius status, & termin' annorum, de, & in præmiss. per prædict' literas Patentes, eidem Humphrido concess. doth demise and grant the said Mannor unto the said Humphrey Barwick for 21 years; and it was adjudged that this second Lease was void, for all the estate and term demised to the said Humphrey Barwick by the said Letters Patents in anno 14. (in respect of the said petty Leases) were not surrendred according to the effect of the Consideration. And in that Case the King was deceived in Law, in that he thought that the surrender of the Pattent was also a surrender of the Lease and estate demised; and when the King is deceived, or mistaketh the Law, the grant is void. As in 18 H. 8. tit. Patents, Br. 104. where the King gave lands unto the Lord Lovel to have and to hold to him and to his heirs males, and that was ex certa scientia, & mero motu, and yet adjudged void; for he cannot grant such estate of inheritance in fee-simple, to make the heirs males to be inheritable, and exclude the females, and because his intent did not agree with the Law, his grant was adjudged void. And 1 Ma. Dier 94. King Edward 3. did grant land to the Duke of Cornwall, & hæredibus suis Regibus Angliæ, and it was holden void for the cause aboveseid: But this Exception was not allowed, for it is not apparent that the King did intend to have more surrendred then the former Letters Patents only; and it doth not appear by any expres matter within the Letters Patents, that he did intend to have the former estates surrendred, and it shall be very perilous to make the Kings grants void upon inferences and arguments, without direct and expres matter contained in the Letters Patents, and the rather in this Case, because that the grant is ex certa scientia, & mero motu, in which Case other intent shall not be collected by construction then is expressed in the Patent; and all this was affirmed by the whole Court.

As to the matter in Law, two points were moved: One, that the Letters Patents were void, the other admitting that the Letters Patents at the first were good; yet all the estate which Walshe had, was given unto the King by the Act of 28 H. 8. As to the first, the Case is no other, but, The King being Tenant in tail of the Mannor of Abbottesley, to him and his heirs males of his body, by force of the said fine of 3 H. 7. with the Reversion to him, his heirs, and Successors, by force of the said Attainder [44] and Office, gives by his Letters Patents the said Mannor unto Walter Walshe, and to the heirs males of his body; whether this gift be good or not, was the first Question: and to decide the same, first it is to be considered, if the grant shall be good if the King had been Tenant in tail only, without any Reversion in fee expectant to him. And in that Case the Kings Attorney said, that the grant was void, for the intent and purpose of the King which appeareth in his grant cannot take effect, for he did intend to grant an estate tail, and that he cannot, for he hath but an estate tail himself; and the largest estate that Tenant in tail may lawfully grant, is but for his own life, as Littleton saith; for he who hath land in tail to him and to the heirs of his body, hath such estate so appropriate and incorporate to him and to the heirs which shall issue out of his loins, that he cannot lawfully grant the same to a stranger, and to the heirs males of his body, for that ſhould be againſt the form of the gift, and againſt the Statute, De donis conditionalibus. So if the King be Tenant for life, and the King grants the land to another and his heirs, the grant is void, for the King taketh upon him to grant a greater eſtate then he lawfully can grant. And becauſe that his grant cannot take effect according to his intent expreſſed in his grant, for that cauſe his grant is void, and ſhall not be conſtrued to paſs other eſtate then he intended to grant; as to paſs an eſtate for life, when the King intends and purpoſeth to grant an eſtate of Inheritance. And therefore the Book is in 7 H. 4. 42. & 21 E. 3. 47. the Earl of Kents Caſe. If the King hath the cuſtody of land, or a Leaſe of land for years, and by his Letters Patents granteth the land unto another and to his heirs, the grant is void and by conſtruction ſhall not amount unto a grant of his eſtate or intereſt; and ſo it is agreed in 21 Aſſ. 15. The King licenceth his Tenant to alien to two Chaplains and their heirs, and in truth as it appeareth by a fine in the Treaſury, he who aliened had but an eſtate in tail, the Reverſion unto the King: And it was adjudged, that the Licence was void, and ſhall not enure to a Licence to alien ſo much as he might lawfully alien, ſcilicet, to them and their heirs during his life, for longer he cannot alien, for as much as the Reverſion was in the King; But becauſe that the King was deceived, when he gave the Licence to alien, to them and their heirs, in as much as he was not conuſant of his eſtate, for that cauſe the Licence was utterly vóid, and the land ſeiſed in the Kings hand. So in the Caſe at the Bar, the King not knowing of his eſtate, granteth a greater eſtate then he may lawfully grant, and therefore his grant is void. And ſee 40 Aſſ. pl. 36. accordingly with 21 Aſſ. 15. in all, and no Caſe in the whole Law can be found, which impugneth this,

[b] that is to ſay, That the Kings grant ſhall be good when he taketh upon him to grant a larger eſtate then he lawfully may, but the contrary is proved by the Books aforeſaid. Moreover it was ſaid, that it was a ground in Law, that the Kings Patents cannot do wrong: And therefore it is agreed in 38 H. 8. Br. Diſcontinuance 35. between the King and Anthony Lee Knight, & tit. Pat. 101. & tit. Taile 39. That if the King be Tenant in tail, and grant the land by Patent for years, or for life and die, the Patent is void, for a grant without livery doth not make a Diſcontinuance, nor ſhall it bind but during the life of the Grantor; and the ſame Law of ſuch grant in fee, for a grant in fee doth not make a diſcontinuance without warranty, and if the Kings grant ſhould make a diſcontinuance, it ſhould do wrong, which the King by grant cannot do, but rather his grant ſhall be void. And that Book makes not againſt the Queen in the principal Caſe; for firſt it is to be noted, that no queſtion in theſe Caſes is made but after the death of the King who granteth, and then without queſtion the grant is void, ſo as it never came there in queſtion of what validity the grant of the King was in the life of the King. Secondly, in 38 H. 8. it was not reſolved, whether the King being Tenant in tail, were bound by the Statute of Donis conditionalibus: But afterwards Trin. 4. Eliz. it was adjudged in the Lord Berklies Caſe, that he was bound by the Statute. Thirdly, theſe words (grant without livery doth not make a diſcontinuance) is the general rule of Law in the Caſes of common perſons; and the ſame is proved by the words ſubſequent (a grant in fee without warranty doth not make a diſcontinuance) for without queſtion the ſame is intended in the Caſe of a common perſon, and not of the King, for his grant in fee with warranty is void, and doth not make a diſcontinuance. And it is ſaid in the Lord Barklies Caſe, Pl. Com. 246. b. that if the land had been given to the King, and to the heirs of his body, he before the Statute of Weſtminſt. 2. could not have aliened in fee before iſſue, for ſuch alienation by another ſhould be a wrong, ſo ſhall it be in the King, if it ſhall be adjudged an alienation in fee, and that it cannot be, for the King cannot do wrong, nor his prerogative would not be any warrant to him to do injury to another; and the eſtate which the King had, would not lawfully ſuffer ſuch alienation, for his eſtate was not large and full enough to make ſuch alienation, and his prerogative will not alter his eſtate, nor make it greater then the donor gave unto him; and a little after, ſcil. fol. 247. a. it is ſaid, That the alienation was to the diſenherizen of the iſſue, ergo, it was tortious, for to diſenherit one is not lawful, and if it were contra voluntatem donatoris it is ill done, for men ought to obſerve the intents of others in things which are [45] lawful, and to break the ſame is ill, and theſe are the words of the ſaid book; a fortiori in our Caſe, the Kings grant being reſtrained by the Statute is void. If the King make a leaſe for years, or for life, and afterwards grants the land unto another in fee, or in tail, without reciting of the leaſe, the laſt grant is void; firſt, becauſe the King grants an eſtate in poſſeſſion, where he had but a reverſion, and ſo is deceived in his grant; and the ſubject had a means to come to the knowledge of the ſaid Leaſes, for every Patent ought to be enrolled in the Chancery, to which all Subjects may have acceſs, otherwiſe is it of leaſes not of Record, as it is agreed tempore H. 8. & E. 6. Br. tit. Patents 93. Secondly, in this Caſe it is not honourable for the King to grant the ſame poſſeſſion to one, which he or his progenitors have granted to another, for by the Civil Law, Vendens eandem rem duobus falſarius eſt; and in our Caſe Walſhe might well have knowledge of the Kings eſtate, for his eſtate tail was created by fine 3 Hen. 7. and his title to the Reverſion of the fee was by Attainder and Office, all of Record. If a man bargain, ſell, and grant by deed indented and enrolled lands unto a common perſon for life, the remainder to the King in fee, and afterwards the King makes a leaſe for life or years, &c. without reciting the particular eſtate, the leaſe is void, for the Subject is tied to take notice of this enrolment, as well as of the enrolment of Letters Patents, and the rather becauſe by the ſame deed enrolled, the Kings eſtate is created: Then couple the Reverſion in fee with the eſtate tail; and firſt if the grant in tail unto Walſhe be void, as unto the Kings eſtate tail, it cannot be a grant of the Reverſion after the Kings eſtate in tail is determined, for the ſame ſhould be againſt the Kings intent and purpoſe, which was to grant an eſtate tail in poſſeſſion; and Walſhe might by reaſonable means have notice of the Kings eſtate being upon Record as aforeſaid. And to that which was objected by Serjeant Heron, and Thomas Stephens, that it ſhall enure as it may lawfully enure, as in 21 E. 4. 44. & 2 Ric. 3. 4. where it is holden by Starkie and others, that if the Kings Patent may be taken good to two intents, then it ſhall be taken moſt beneficial for the King, but if it may be taken to one intent good, and to another intent void, then it ſhall

be

be taken to that intent which makes the grant good, and not to the intent that makes it void, and therefore there in the principal Caſe where the King grants unto the Abbot of Waltham to be diſcharged of the collection of Tenths granted per Clerum Angliæ, it ſhall be taken in the ſence that the grant may be good, viz. of Tenths granted by the Clergie ſeverally, for they never joyn in one Convocation, quod Jenny, Choke, Fairefax, Brian, & Huſſie Juſtices conceſſerunt; ſo in the Caſe at the Bar, it ſhall enure and ſhall be conſtrued in ſuch ſence that the grant may be good, and that is, that the grant ſhall be good unto Walſhe in poſſeſſion during the Kings life, and ſhall be a good grant of the Reverſion in tail; for that by means may the King lawfully grant, and therefore ut res magis valeat quam pereat, in ſuch ſence the grant ſhall be taken. For put the Caſe the King had rented his eſtate in tail, and his reverſion, and had granted the land unto Walſhe for the life of the King, and the reverſion to him, and the heirs males of his body, that without queſtion had been good. And it was ſaid, that the Caſe at the Bar is as ſtrong, for the grant is ex certa ſcientia, ex gratia ſpeciali, & mero motu, and therefore the King took conuſance and knowledge of his eſtate, for this cauſe his grant ſhall enure as it may lawfully enure; And many Caſes were cited by them, where the Kings grants ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu, ſhall be taken ſtrongly againſt the King, 1 H. 7. 13. a. The King pardons B. omnia debita ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu, all debts which he owed as Sheriff are pardoned, 37 H. 6. 21. b. A pardon ex mero motu, &c. ſhall be taken ſtrong againſt the King, in Quatermains Caſe, 41 Aſſ. 19. a Licence, ex ſpeciali gratia, to alien a houſe in Mortmain is good, although it were holden of the King, and many other Caſes were put upon this ground. And it was further ſaid, that the Kings grant ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu, ſhall be taken as ſtrong againſt the King, as if a common perſon had made the grant. And if in our Caſe a common perſon had made the grant in tail, without queſtion it had been good, and ſhall not be avoided by any, but only by the iſſue in tail, and after the eſtate tail determined, the reverſion in fee ſhall be bound therewith. Laſtly, it was ſaid, that no Caſe can be found in the Law, that the King ſhall be driven to recite his own eſtate, but the eſtate of others in ſome Caſes he ought for to recite, but no eſtate which is in himſelf. To which was anſwered, That in as much as the Kings grant cannot do wrong, or make a diſcontinuance, as hath been agreed; and that the King being Tenant in tail, he cannot lawfully grant a greater eſtate then for his own life, and that the King intended to grant, an intire eſtate tail in poſſeſſion; it ſhall be a hard and violent conſtruction to make this grant to enure by ſuch fractions of eſtates; viz. in poſſeſſion to Walſhe and his heirs males of his body for the life of the King, which in Law is but an eſtate pur auter vie, and to relinquiſh the reverſion of an eſtate tail in the King, and to grant his reverſion to Walſhe and the heirs males of his body, upon which the King ſhall have the reverſion in fee expectant, for that ſhould be againſt the Kings intent, for his intent was to grant an intire eſtate tail in poſſeſſiion, which is an eſtate of inheritance not ſubject to waſte, or forfeitures, and ſuch an eſtate whereof the King may have Wardſhip, and primer ſeiſin of the poſſeſſion: But if the grantee ſhall have but an eſtate for the life of the King in poſſeſſion, then that eſtate ſhall be ſubject to forfeiture, and waſte, and of that the King ſhould not have Wardſhip nor primer ſeiſin, ſo that when the King intends to grant an intire and undivided eſtate, the Patentee ſhall have two ſeveral divided eſtates, ſcil. an eſtate in poſſeſſion to him and his heirs males of his body during the Kings life, and the King ſhall have a reverſion of an eſtate tail, and upon that the Patentee ſhall have the eſtate to him and his heirs males of his body, which was never intended by the King. And ſuch general grant of the King ſhall not put the eſtate tail in abeyance; neither if the King being Tenant in tail grant totum ſtatum ſuum, the ſame ſhall not put the eſtate tail in abeyance, for the poſſeſſions of the King are ſo preſerved and protected by the Law, that they cannot be deveſted by diſſeiſin, abatement, &c. and that which the King cannot by Law transfer unto another, ſhall remain in himſelf; and in the ſame Caſe if the King grant totum ſtatum ſuum, the grant is void, for none can have the eſtate of the land in tail, and becauſe his grant cannot take effect according to his intent, the grant is void. 40 Aſſ. p. 28. one cannot plead Que eſtate of an eſtate in tail, becauſe that none can have his eſtate; and the Books in 5 H. 7. 39. a. 7 E. 6. que eſtate Br. 31. 14 E. 4. 16. 2 H. 4. 20. are to be agreed upon this difference, ſcil. If a common perſon being Tenant in tail grant totum ſtatum ſuum, it is good during his life, for his grant ſhall be taken ſtrong againſt him, and ſuch grantee may plead the ſame, and aver the life of Tenant in tail, but he cannot plead by a Que eſtate.

[b]

[46]

As to the rule put by Starkey, That the Kings Patents ſhall be taken in ſuch ſence, and to ſuch intent, as that they ſhall be good; and as to the ground alſo, that the Kings Patent ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu, ſhall be taken as ſtrong againſt the King, as if a common perſon had made the grant, it was anſwered, That there is another ground in Law, that when the King is deceived in his grant, the grant is void; And that the Kings Letters Patents ſhall be conſtrued ſecundum intentionem domini Regis, & non in deceptione domini Regis, as Brian ſaith, 1 H. 7. 13. a. So the beſt expoſition is to make all theſe rules to agree together, and therefore both the ſaid rules put by the other party are true with this limitation, viz. if not that the King be deceived, ſo that his grant cannot take effect as he intended by his expreſs grant. And therefore in the Lord Lovels Caſe, anno 18 H. 8. Br. Patents 104. where the King ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu, grants land unto one and his heirs males, the grant was void, for he was deceived in his grant, in as much as his grant could not take effect according to his intent expreſſed in his Letters Patents. Alſo it was adjudged in the Exchequer, anno 29 Eliz. That where King Henry the ſeventh was ſeiſed of two Mannors, viz. of Ryton and Condor in the County of Salop, and granted ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, totum illud manerium de Ryton & Condor, cum pertinentiis in Com' Salopiæ; that the grant was void, for the King was deceived in his grant; and yet in both the ſaid Caſes, if a common perſon make ſuch grants, in the firſt Caſe the grantee ſhall have fee ſimple, and in the later Caſe he ſhall have both the Mannors.

[b]

And the like Caſe was reſolved in the Exchequer, Trin. 39 Eliz. That whereas the Queen was ſeiſed of the Mannors of Milborne and Sapperton in the County of Lincoln, and the Queen did grant ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, totum illud manerium de Milborn cum Sapperton in Com' Lincoln'; that none of them did paſs. Another Caſe was adjudged in the Exchequer Chamber, anno 15 Eliz. King E. 6. by his Letters Patents ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, did grant unto Crowch, omnes terras dominicales manerii de Wellowe. And it was adjudged that the Cuſtomary lands holden by Copy parcel of the Mannor did not paſs, and yet they are in Law parcel of the demeſns of the Mannor, but the Kings grant notwithſtanding the ſaid words, ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, ſhall not be conſtrued to paſs any thing againſt the Kings intent and purpoſe expreſſed in his grant; and yet without doubt, in all thoſe Caſes, in a common perſons Caſe, they will paſs. And it is well ſaid in Plowd. Com. fol. 333. which is true, That when the Patent is, ex gratia ſpeciali, certa ſcientia & mero motu, that it ſhall be favourably taken for the Patentee; but that is as to the thing expreſſed in the Patent, which the words ſhew to be intended to paſs, but the ſame will not make another thing to paſs which is not expreſſed, nor ouſt that which the words of the Patent ſhew to be intended: And for that reaſon there in the principal Caſe, where Queen Mary, de gratia ſua ſpeciali, & certa ſcientia & mero motu ſuis, did grant to Thomas Earl of Northumberland, ſolum & magnum vaſtum called Darwentfelles, by that grant the Mine of gold within it did not paſs. And it is alſo there adjudged, That by the grant of all Mines in ſuch a ſoil, although the grant be ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, Mines royal of gold or ſilver ſhall not paſs, but the words (ſoil and mines) ſhall be taken in a common ſence, and to a common intent, but to have them paſs, it behoveth to have ſpecial words. So in the Caſe at the Bar, if the King had granted the land for his life, and after his deceaſe, without heir male of his body, had granted the Reverſion, it had been good, but in as much as he grants an eſtate tail in poſſeſſion, which cannot take effect according to his intent, and cannot paſs by ſuch fractions of eſtates, as before is ſaid, the grant unto Walſhe is void. But admitting that the grant were good, it ſeems the Act of 28 H. 8. hath given the ſame to the King again; and for that the point is no other. But J. S. is Tenant in fee ſimple of the Mannor of Dale, or Tenant in tail thereof, the Reverſion to the King, and afterwards this Mannor is by expreſs name given by Act of Parliament to the King, ſaving the right, by the intereſt, &c. of all perſon and perſons, &c. whether the [47] eſtate of J. S. be ſaved or no; and it is conceived not, for the ſavant as to the owner of the land is repugnant, in as much as the Mannor is by expreſs name given to the King: For if the general ſaving ſhall extend to the owner of the land, then the Act ſhould be made in vain. And therefore, if it be recited by an Act of Parliament, That whereas J. S. is ſeiſed of certain lands in fee, the ſame lands by the ſame Act is given to the King in fee, ſaving the eſtates rights, &c. of all perſons, the eſtate of J. S. is not ſaved thereby, for that ſhall be repugnant, and ſhould make the expreſs gift void. And it appeareth in our Books, that a ſaving in an Act of Parliament which is repugnant to the body of the Act is void, as in Plow. Com. 563. b. where the ſuppoſed Attainder of the Duke of Norfolk was by Act of Parliament 1 Marie, declared to be void and null ab initio, ſaving the eſtates and Leaſes made by King Edw. 6. &c. that ſaving was void; for when the Attainder was declared to be void, the ſaid ſaving was againſt the body of the Act, and therefore void. So in the Caſe M. 6 & 7 Eliz. Dier 231. it is enacted by the Statute of 31 H. 8. cap. 13. that all Religious houſes and their poſſeſſions, then or after to be diſſolved, ſhall be unto the King in the ſame eſtate and condition as they were at the time of the making of the ſaid Act, ſaving to all ſtrangers their intereſts, &c. After the ſaid Act, the Abbot of Ramſey grants the next avoidance of a Church of his Patronage, and afterwards the Abby was diſſolved; and it was adjudged that the grant was void, and the ſavant repugnant to the body of the Act, for if the Advowſon ſhall be in the King in the ſame eſtate and condition as it was at the time of the making of the ſaid Act, then a grant afterwards made cannot be ſaved. So the Caſe 27 H. 8. titul. Parliament' & Statut' Brook 77. If land eſcheat to the King for forfeiture of Treaſon, and afterwards that land is given to another by Act of Parliament, ſaving to all others their rents ſervices, &c. that ſaving is repugnant and void, for they were extinct by the forfeiture. So by the Statute of 1 E. 6. of Chauntries, all Rents, Services, &c. are ſaved, yet that ſaving as to the ſervices is void and repugnant, for the King cannot hold of any perſon, as it is holden 14 Eliz. Dier 313. a. So in our Caſe when the Mannor of Abbotteſley is expreſly given to the King, the general ſaving cannot extend to ſave the eſtate, &c. of him who was ſeiſed of the land, for that ſhall be repugnant to the body of the Act, and ſhall make all the Act vain and idle: But the Caſe at the Bar is ſtronger then the Caſe before put for the explanation of the point. For it is recited by the Preamble of the Act of 28 H. 8. that where there were [b] divers liberties, preheminences, commodities, and delights appertaining to it, therefore it was enacted, that King Henry the eighth ſhould have it; ſo as the delight and pleaſure of the King, and not only his commodity was intended to be provided for by the ſaid Act; but what delight may the King expect after Walſhe and his Wife ſhall die without heir male of their body? Further it was enacted, That the King extunc impoſterum haberet & teneret manerium prædictum, ſo that the ſaving of the eſtate of Walſhe, which peradventure may continue for ever, is repugnant to theſe words. Again, thirdly, the words of the Act are, & quod idem manerium adjudicaretur authoritate ejuſdem Parliamenti in prædict' nuper Rege H. 8. hæredibus & ſucceſſoribus ſuis; ſo that be the Act in the nature of a Conveyance, or in the nature of a Judgment, the ſaving is repugnant as to him who makes the Conveyance, or againſt whom the Judgment is given, or from whom the eſtate of the land is to paſs. For although that all are parties to an Act, yet in Judgmen of Law, the land moves from him who is ſeiſed of the land; as if a man make a feoffment in fee unto the uſe of another in tail, the uſe is transferred into poſſeſſion by the Statute of 27 H. 8. yet he who was owner of the land, and from whom the land moveth, ſhall be ſuppoſed the donor, 7 E. 3. tit. Formedon Br. 46. & 2 E. 6. & 1 Mar. ibid. 49. & 20 Eliz. Dier 362. b. And it is ſaid in Plow. Comm. in Talbois Caſe, that it ſhall be the gift of the terre-tenant (for there the feoffment to the uſe was before the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap. 10. which made the difference) and the confirmation of all others who aſſent to the Act; for there it is ſaid, that if it ſhould be adjudged the gift of any other, then the Parliament ſhould do wrong to the terre-Tenant, in taking his land from him, and to make another donee thereof. And the concluſion of the purview of this Act is (the ſaid fine of 3 H 7. or any other thing to the contrary notwithſtanding) and the ſaid grant to Walſhe is ſomething; wherefore for all theſe cauſes it was concluded that the Judgment ought to be reverſed. And becauſe that Periam chief Baron ſhewed the reaſon and cauſes of the firſt Judgment, and argued in maintenance thereof, therefore I ſhall here make a brief and ſummary Report of his Argument: He ſaid that this grant to Walſhe ſhall take its effect out of both the eſtates of the King, ſcil. his eſtate tail, and his reverſion, becauſe by ſome means ſuch grant may be made: for if the King had recited his eſtate, and had made a ſpecial grant (viz.) to Walſhe for the life of the King, and after the Kings death without iſſue male to Walſhe in tail, it had without queſtion been good. And he ſaid, that if the King had been Tenant in tail only, and had made ſuch a grant in tail or in fee, it had been good during his life. So if the King be Tenant for life, and grant the land unto another in fee or in tail, it is good to paſs the eſtate which the King hath, and he cited the Caſe before reported by Brook in 38 H. 8. and he collected upon that Book, that the grant was good during the Kings life, for the Book ſaith, that the Patent was void by his death, and that his grant did not make diſcontinuance. So he cited the principal Caſe of the Lord Berkley, Plow. Comment. 233. a. where in effect the Caſe was, That King H. 8. being ſeiſed of the Mannor of Weſton near Baldock in the County of Hertford, to him and to the heirs males of his body, anno 35. of his reign, did grant the ſame to Queen Katherine for her life, and having iſſue King E. 6. died, and King E. 6. granted the ſame to the Earl of Pembroke in fee, and died without iſſue male, &c. and it was adjudged that the King was bound by the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus, and none of thoſe who argued, held that the grant of King Henry the eighth, or the grant of King E. 6. were void ab initio, but that they were determined by the death of the King which granted them; and that ſuch grants do not make diſcontinuances, which proveth (as he collected) that the grants were not preſently void, but were good during the Kings life who granted, and determined by his death. And he cited the Book in 33 Aſſ. 10. where he collected upon the Book, that if the Husband ſeiſed in the right of his Wife, be attainted of felony, and the King upon office thereof found ſeiſeth the land, and grants the ſame to another in fee, that the ſame is good to paſs the eſtate during the coverture which the King hath gained by his forfeiture, for there ſuch Patentee had aid. And he put the Rule before put by Starkey, and further he ſaid, that for as much as the Patent was ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, it ſhall be taken as ſtrong as if the grant were made by a common perſon, and put the Caſes before cited of 41 Aſſ. pl. 19. 1 H. 7. 13. a. & 37 H. 6. 21. b. all which you ſhall find in Plowdens Commentaries 331 & 332. and in the Caſe of Mines. So that for as much as the grant is ex certa ſcientia, the King is Conuſant of his title, and it is as much as if he had recited his eſtate, and had granted the land unto Walſhe in tail, in which Caſe the grant without queſtion had been good; and (ex certa ſcientia) ſupplieth the means, that is to ſay, the Recital: but he ſaid, that the King needeth not to recite his own eſtate in any Caſe that may be found in the Law; Alſo he ſaid it ſhould be miſcheivous to many men, and the inheritance of a great number of the Subjects ſhould be drawn in queſtion, if this grant of the King ſhall be adjudged void; for Norton and many other Rebels in the North and elſewhere were Tenants in tail with remainders over, and were attainted of Treaſon, by which, and by the Statute of 33 H. 8. cap. 20. the Queen had an eſtate to her, her heirs and Succeſſors as long as the Traytor had heir of his body, and the Queen hath granted the ſame over to many of her Subjects and their heirs generally, without any recital or mention of her eſtate, and it ſhall be very hard to avoid all ſuch grants; but he held all ſuch grants good, and that the Queen never needeth to recite her own eſtate: So he concluded this point, That the Kings grant is as ſtrong in this Caſe, as if a common perſon had been Tenant in tail with the reverſion expectant, and had bargained and ſold the land unto another in fee, or in tail, by deed indented and enrolled, in which Caſe, the eſtate which paſſeth by the bargain and ſale ſhall be derived out of both his eſtates, and none ſhall avoid the ſame, but the iſſue in tail.

make

[48] [b]

Then as to the Act of 28 H. 8. he conceived, That where the grant in tail was avoidable by the iſſue in tail, now the ſame is become unavoidable; for now by this Act, the eſtate tail is utterly extinguiſhed and barred for ever. As if Tenant in tail grant a rent in fee, it is determinable by the death of Tenant in tail, but if the Tenant in tail levy a fine, or ſuffer a Recovery, by which the eſtate tail is barred, then it is unavoidable. And he recited the opinion of Englefield Juſtice, 29 H. 8. tit. Remitter Br. 49. That he who taketh a gift by Act of Parliament of any land, he nor his heirs ſhall be remitted, for where land is expreſly given to any perſon by Act of Parliament, which is a Judgment, he nor his heirs ſhall not have other eſtate then is given by the Act. But in his Argument he ſpake nothing unto the point moved touching the repugnancy of the ſaving of the ſaid Act: After which Argument of the chief Baron, the ſaid chief Juſtices, and Juſtice Gawdy, heard again the Counſel on both parties at Serjants Inn in Fleetſtreet, and had conſiderarion of the Books, which had been cited of the one ſide and the other; and afterwards had conference amongſt themſelves, and upon great Deliberation they were unanimouſly agreed. And afterwards in the ſame Term in the Exchequer Chamber, the chief Juſtice of England being demanded by the Lord Keeper, and the Lord Treaſurer if they were agreed, and ready to ſhew their opinions in the ſaid Caſe, he anſwered, That they were all agreed, that the ſaid grant unto Walſhe and his Wife in tail were utterly void. And the chief Juſtice did openly declare the reaſons of their Reſolutions, and ſeveral Anſwers to the Objections which had been made. Firſt, the King in this Caſe hath an eſtate tail in poſſeſſion, and as to that he may lawfully grant an eſtate for his own life, and he hath alſo the Reverſion in fee, and as to that, he might lawfully grant an eſtate in tail; ſo that in reſpect of theſe two eſtates, he might by ſome means, as it hath been ſaid by the Lord chief Baron, derive lawful eſtates out of both, that is to ſay, an eſtate for his own life out of one, and an eſtate tail out of the other, and that may be by ſpecial grant; then if by any means it may

[49] may be done, it hath been ſaid that the grant ſhall enure to ſuch effect in the Caſe at the Bar for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe that the grant was ex gratia ſpeciali, & ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu. 2. That ſuch grant is as ſtrong againſt the King as if a common perſon had made ſuch a gift. As to the firſt it was agreed, That in many Caſes the Kings grant ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu, ſhall be conſtrued beneficially for the Patentee, but ſuch words ſhall never produce a violent or ſtrainable conſtruction, or any conſtruction which is againſt the intent and purpoſe of the King in his grant, but the grant notwithſtanding thoſe words ſhall be taken in an uſual and common ſenſe and underſtanding. Secundum intentionem domini Regis, as Brian ſaith in 1 H. 7. 13. a. And therefore if the King de gratia ſua ſpeciali, & ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, grant land unto one, and to his heirs males, the grant is void, as it was adjudged in 18 H. 8. cited before by Maſter Attorney; and yet if a common perſon hath made ſuch grant, the grant ſhall be good, but if it ſhould be good in the Kings Caſe, it ſhould be a general eſtate in fee ſimple, deſcendable as well to females as to males, in courſe and order of deſcent, which ſhall be againſt the intent and purpoſe of the Kings grant, for he intended to grant an eſtate in fee ſimple deſcendable only to heirs males: but the Book in 1 H. 7. 13. a. is good Law, where the King pardons A. B ex certa ſcientia omnia debita, all debts which he oweth as Sheriff ſhall be pardoned, for the ſame is not any ſtrainable conſtruction, nor doth impugne the intent and purpoſe of the Kings grant: and Popham chief Juſtice cited the Caſe of Torrington (which is not fully reported by the Lord Dier) with which he was of Counſel; and the Caſe was ſuch, King Henry the eighth was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Torrington in the County of Devon. and of a Market within the ſaid Mannor every week, and of a Fair holden there in Virgilia, feſto, & Craſtino ſancti Michaelis; and Queen Mary did incorporate the Town of Torrington, by the name of Mayor, Aldermen and Burgeſſes, and doth not grant to them feriam ſuam, or nundinas ſuas, but grants unto them de gratia ſpeciali ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, quod ipſi & ſucceſſores ſui poſſint habere & tenere extunc unum mercatum quolibet die Sabbati &c. & duas nundinas ibidem annuatim, viz. unam in vigilia feſto & Craſtino ſancti Michaelis Archangeli & aliam in feſto ſancti Georgii martyris, niſi mercatum & nundinæ ill' eſſent ad nocumentum vicinorum mercatorum & vicinarum nundinarum, and it was adjudged, that this grant was void, becauſe the Queen was not well informed of her own eſtate, for when her intent appeareth by her grant to create a Fair in vigilia feſto & Craſtino
[b] Michaelis, niſi ſit ad nocumentum &c. which are the uſual words to create a new Fair. And in the creation of a new Fair, theſe words are always added, that is to ſay, Niſi ſit ad nocumentum &c. But there it was ſaid, that the Patent being de gratia ſpeciali, certa ſcientia, & mero motu, ſhould paſs the ancient Fair; but it was adjudged contrary, for that ſhould be againſt the intent and purpoſe of his grant, which was to create a new Fair, and not to grant one which was in being; and yet if the ſame were in the Caſe of a common perſon, without queſtion the ancient Fair would paſs. And to this purpoſe the Caſe of 18 Eliz. Dier 352. and the other Caſes put by Maſter Attorney are to be applied. And to the inconveniences which have been ſuppoſed, it was agreed, that there was not any ſuch inconvenience as hath been objected, for it was agreed by them, that if the Queen hath a qualified fee ſimple in certain land, that is to ſay, as long as a perſon attainted hath heir of his body, and ſhe grant the land unto another and his heirs, the grant is good: So if the Queen hath an eſtate in fee ſimple conditional, and grants the land to one and his heirs abſolutely it is good, for in both Caſes the Queen hath a fee ſimple, and grants a fee ſimple, and her grant ſtands well with her eſtate; otherwiſe is it in the Caſe at Bar, for the eſtate of Hen. 8. in our Caſe doth not permit ſuch an eſtate as he hath granted; and it was not intended by the Queens Counſel, the grant of King H. 8. was void, becauſe he did not recite his own eſtate, but becauſe he granted ſuch an eſtate which could not ſtand with his own eſtate, and ſo was deceived in the intent and purpoſe of his grant. And it was adjudged in the Caſe of Huſſey, Hill. 40 Eliz. in Communi B. and the Caſe was thus: Charles Duke of Suffolk was ſeiſed of the Advowſon of Welborn, in the County of Lincoln in tail, the Reverſion to the King; the ſaid Duke anno 30 H. 8. by Deed indented granted the Advowſon unto the King his Heirs and Succeſſors, and afterwards the Statute of 34 H. 8. c. 21. was made, by which the ſaid eſtate tail was barred, and afterwards King H. 8. granted the Advowſon to another in fee, and it was adjudged that the grant was good, for the King had but one fee conjoyned and conſolidate in him, and not two diſtinct fees; and if he had two fees in him, yet his grant is good, for the entire fee ſimple was in him, and he doth not grant more then he may lawfully grant, which was the Kings intent and purpoſe to grant, and the grant did take effect according to his intent and purpoſe.

[50] And as to the Lord Barklie's Caſe in Plowden's Commentaries, the Judges grounded their judgment upon a point which was clear, that is to ſay, That after the King's death the grant was void, and it was a great conſideration in them not to diſpute of that which was not in judgment before them, viz. Whether the grant were void in the life of the King, when it was clear it could not be good the King being dead. And Reporters do wiſely to omit opinions which are delivered accidentally, and which do not conclude to the point in queſtion. In 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar. 107. b. the Archbiſhop of Canterbury had Catalla felonum de ſe infra manerium de D. he commits Treaſon, afterwards the King makes a general grant in the uſual form unto the Almoner of Felons goods de ſe to diſpoſe in Alms, &c. the Archbiſhop is attainted; Hales who had a Leaſe for years is there felo de ſe, the King grants the term to another, the grantee ſhall have the ſame and not the Almoner, for the Almoner hath not any intereſt, but is a miniſter, and hath the diſpoſition of the Queens Alms (durante bene placito.) And it appeareth by the Book, that the Queen ſhall not have the forfeiture for the Archbiſhops Treaſon but during his life; yet it is clear that the Queen may grant the ſame at will without recital, for the ſame is a leſs eſtate then ſhe hath. And if the Queen do grant the goods and chattels of felons de ſe, ſhe need not recite the grant of them made to the Almoner, nor to determine her will as to them cauſa qua ſupra. And as to the Caſe of 33 Aſſ. 10. the ſame doth not prove the collection which hath been made thereof. For firſt, be the Patent good or void, yet the Patentee ſhall have aid, as it is agreed in 21 E. 3.

47. &

47. & 7 H. 4. 41. Secondly, the party who was heir to the Wife was put to his Petition, which proves, that an office upon the attainder of the Husband for felony (for in such Case the King could not be entitled without Office) was found, that the Husband was seised in fee at the time of his attainder, and then without question the King had a fee simple which he might grant, but if a special Office were found, that the Husband had nothing but in the right of his Wife, then after his death the heir was not put to his Petition. And when the King maketh a Lease for life or years, and afterwards without recital of them, grants the land in fee or in tail, the same is void by the Common Law, although the grant be ex certa scientia, & mero motu, and it is no Case of special prerogative, for before the Statute of Prærogativa Regis, by general grant of the King, Knights fees, Dowers, and Advowsons have passed; but the Statute of Prærogativa Regis, cap. 15. doth restrain them if they be not granted by expres words; but the said grant without recital is void by the reason of the Common Law, because the King is deceived in his grant, when he intends to grant in possession, which cannot take the effect which the King doth purpose and intend, and the subject hath a mean to come to the knowledge of the same. Also when [b] the immediate possession is granted to two several persons, the same begets suits and troubles, which the Common Law will not suffer in the Kings grants under the great Seal, 2 R. 3. 7. a. J. S. had been Sheriff to King E. 4. and afterwards was Sheriff to King R. 3. and King R. 3. ex certa scientia & mero motu, did pardon him omnia debita & comput' ratione officii sui, it was void for the incertainty: So if the Queen recite that whereas J. S. is indebted to her as Executor to J. N. and pardons J. S. ex certa scientia & mero motu omnia debita, the same doth not discharge him of his own debt, for the Queens recital doth declare her intent and meaning, which always is the best direction for construction of her grant. The King Tenant in tail grants land for his own life, and afterwards he reciting the grant for his life, grants the reversion to another and his heirs, this grant is meerly void, for the estate for life was all which he might lawfully grant; then if he cannot grant it in such manner, he cannot at one time grant that in tail by the same Letters Patents, which he cannot grant by several grants. The King Tenant in tail makes a gift in tail to another, the gift is void, and shall not be good for his own life, for that was not the Kings intent; and for as much as the King cannot grant that which he intended to grant, he was deceived: And because that estate which he intended to grant (scil.) the estate tail cannot take effect, that which he intended not to grant, scil. (estate for his own life) by any constrained construction shall not take effect. And there is no Case in Law which is against their opinion. And the Books in 7 H. 4. 41. & 21 E. 3. 47. before cited by Master Attorney prove the reason of their Resolution: And the estate tail shall not pass out of the reversion in fee only, for the King intended to pass it in possession, and without question it shall not pass by such fractions of estates, as hath been objected on the other side: If the King be Tenant in tail, the remainder in fee by the gift of a common person, the King maketh a Lease for his own life, and afterwards by other Letters Patents reciting the estate for life, grants the reversion unto another and to his heirs, or in tail, the same is utterly void and shall not take effect out of the remainder in fee, for the Kings intent was to grant the immediate reversion expectant upon the estate for life, and not a Reversion expectant upon an estate tail, which was remote, and mediate. Also the Chief Justice said, that it was agreed by them, That if the King be Tenant for life, and granteth the land unto another and his heirs, or unto the heirs of his body, it is void, and shall not pass his estate for life; but if the King be Tenant for life, and lease the lands for years, it is good, as it was holden in Englefield's Case; because an estate for years is less in [51] the Judgment of Law then an estate for life. As unto the Act of Parliament of 28 H. 8. it was also agreed by them, That if the grant be void, the same without doubt doth not make it good; and admit it were voidable, yet the Act of Parliament shall not make it voidable, as the Case of 16 Eliz. Dier 337. b. A Parson makes a Lease for life of land, the land is given to the King by Parliament, the King shall have the same in the same right as he had who made the Lease, and therefore after the death of the Parson, the King shall avoid the Lease, as the successor might have done, and the gift by Act of Parliament, doth not make the Lease unavoidable. And all that which Popham Chief Justice delivered was agreed and resolved by Anderson and Gawdy, but because they were not agreed of the point moved by the Attorney General concerning the Act of 28 H. 8. admitting that the grant in tail was good, and because they were agreed that the grant it self was void; As to the point of the Act of 28 H. 8. they did not deliver their opinions, but the Chief Justice told me his opinion was, that if the estate tail were good, that the Act of 28 H. 8. had given the same to the King, and that Walshe was not within the saving. And after their Resolutions thus delivered, Sir Thomas Egerton Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, demanded two Questions of the Justices: First, admitting that King H. 8. had recited that he was seised of the estate tail, with the Reversion expectant to him in fee, and had granted the land in tail, if then the said grant in tail had been good; and in the same Case if the same shall not enure as by Law it might enure: And Justice Gawdy answered, That although the same shall be a stronger Case then the Case at Bar, yet he conceived that in such Case the grant shall not be good; for although that the King recite his estate, and he be informed thereof, yet the estate which he intends to grant cannot stand with his estate, for neither the estate in tail in possession, nor his reversion will enable him to make a grant in tail in possession, no more if the King grant an Office unto one for life, and after the King will recite his former grant, and the same to another for life, to take effect presently, this grant is void, for it cannot take effect according to his intent, and if he will have the same to be effectual, he ought to grant the same as the Law requireth, and as it may take effect, that is to say to take being after the death of the first grantee: so in the Case at Bar, notwithstanding that he recite his estate, yet if his grant cannot by Law take effect according to his intent, his grant is void, which was granted by the two Chief Justices, for the recital of his estate is not material when the King is deceived in his grant.

The

[b] The ſecond Queſtion that the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal demanded was, what their opinion was upon the Act of 28 H. 8. admitting the eſtate tail were good. To which the Lord Chief Juſtice anſwered, that they were not reſolved of the ſame. And thereupon the Lord Keeper and the Lord Treaſurer, becauſe the Caſe was of great importance, required to have the principal reaſons of the Judges delivered ſhortly to them in writing, upon which they would adviſe, which were delivered to them accordingly; and afterwards at another day the ſame Term the Lord Keeper and the Lord Treaſurer did argue the Caſe openly in Court. And firſt the Lord Keeper ſaid, That although it were ſufficient for him to rely upon the opinion of the ſaid grave and reverend Judges, without which he could not proceed to judgment, yet it is convenient to every Judge openly to ſhew the reaſon and cauſe of his judgment. This grant to Walſhe and his Wife is made de gratia ſpeciali (which implieth bounty) ex certa ſcientia (which imports ſcience and knowledge) and ex mero motu (which manifeſteth that it was not made upon ſuggeſtion or ſuit of the party) but all theſe are not of any effect or operation if the King be deceived, or if the intent or purpoſe of his grant cannot by the Law take effect. The King ought to be informed of his own eſtate if it be in poſſeſſion or reverſion (for if it be in Leaſe for life or years of Record, whereof the Subject may take notice, there although he got it ex certa ſcientia, &c. in poſſeſſion without recital, &c. it is void; ſo the King ought to be truly informed of the eſtate which he paſſeth, for if he intend to paſs a new faſhioned eſtate not warranted by the Law, as in the Lord Lovel's Caſe, the grant is void, although it be ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, but if the ſame had been in the Caſe of a common perſon, the grant ſhall be good. And he remembred the Caſes of 7 H. 4. 41. & 21 E. 3. 47. put before; and he ſaid, that although in the Books a Scire facias was brought to have the Letters Patents repealed of Record, and to be cancelled, yet in Law the grants were void ab initio. And in the Caſe of Torrington the King was not well appriſed of his eſtate in the old Fair, for then he would never have intended to grant to another a new Fair, to be holden at the ſame days, and the ſame place, ſo that two ſeveral perſons ſhould have two ſeveral Fairs at the ſame days and in one place, upon which confuſion would follow. So in our Caſe the King was not appriſed of his own eſtate, for then he never would have granted an eſtate which could not take effect according to his intent and purpoſe. And he put the Caſe M. 3 H. 7. 6. where the King writ to the Prior of Norwich to admit his Vadelet to a Corody; and the Prior returned that the Priory was of the foundation of the Biſhop of Norwich, and not [52] of the King, and that R. and B. and others had obtained a Corody at the requeſt of Kings, and returned the Letters Patents of King E. 4. reciting the ſame matter, idem Rex ob devotionem quam habuit ad ſanct' Trinit' ac cauſ' præmiſſorum de gratia ſpeciali, ac certa ſcientia, & mero motu ſuis relaxavit eidem Priori, &c. & exoneravit de Recordo, and becauſe he had not returned all the names of thoſe in certainty who had the Corody, and by what Kings, the King was not well enformed of his own title, and for that cauſe it was holden in the Book, that the King was deceived, and the Charter was not allowed; and that Caſe was truly cited as it is reported M. 3 H. 7. but ſee the roll M. 3 H. 7. rot. 10. in Scaccario, the Charter at length was allowed by the Judgment of the Court, and the ſame appeareth alſo in Plowden's Commentaries in the Caſe of Mines, 331. b. and he cited the opinion of Jen. in 9 H. 6. 28. b. If the King grant the Mannor of D. which he hath by the attainder of A. and in truth he hath not the ſame by his attainder, the grant is void, for the King was not well enformed of his own title, and with his opinion Huſſey agreeth, 21 E. 4. 48. a. 16 E. 4. 7. a. And, he ſaid, he hath ſeen a Report in the time of H. 7. that if the King having an eſtate for life in certain land, grant the ſame in fee, that the grant was holden to be void. So if he hath an eſtate for life, or in tail, and grant totum ſtatum ſuum, the grant is void, for it is the duty of Subjects to ſee that the King be truly enformed, for the King hath the charge of the Commonwealth, and therefore cannot intend his private buſineſſes, and the grants which he maketh he maketh as King, and therefore as King he ought to be ſo inſtructed, that his purpoſe and intent ſhall take effect. And the Kings grants ſhall not enure to a double intent; and therefore if the King grant lands to a Villain, or an Alien, it ſhall not amount to an Enfranchiſement, or a Denization, although the grant be ex certa ſcientia & mero motu. And as to the Caſes of 38 H. 8. and the Lord Berkley's Caſe, the Queſtion was not, If the grant were void, but if it were of force after the King's death: And he ſaid, that in the Reports and Arguments of mattnrs in Law, the point adjudged is principally to be obſerved, and not matters of diſcourſe which do not tend to the point adjudged. And he ſaid, that Judges in their judgments have great regard unto the generality of the Caſes of Subjects, and to inconveniences which may enſue by one way or other, talis interpretatio ſemper eſt fienda, ut evitetur abſurdum, & inconveniens, & ne judicium ſit illuſorium, but in this Caſe an abſurdity will follow, if there ſhall be ſuch fraction of eſtates, for Walſhe ſhould have an eſtate to him and his heirs males of his body during the King's life, and upon that the King ſhall have an eſtate in tail, and after expectant upon that the Patentee ſhall have an eſtate tail, where the King intended to grant an eſtate tail in poſſeſſion upon which a Tenure ſhould bereſerved, by which he ſhould have Wardſhip or primer ſeiſin; and no inconvenience nor peril to eſtates in general will follow to
[b] adjudge this grant void; for he agreed when the King hath a fee ſimple determinable upon an eſtate tail, that his grant over is good, for the King hath a fee ſimple to grant, ſo as the King is not deceived in his eſtate.

As to the Act of 28 H. 8. he held that the ſaving did not extend to Walſhe, for Walſhe (admitting the eſtate tail were good as hath been ſaid) was the donor, and then the ſaving cannot extend to him. Alſo the Mannor is given by expreſs name, and therefore the ſaving as to Walſhe repugnant; and he remembred the Caſes cited before by Maſter Attorney, when ſavings in Acts of Parliament ſhall be void: And he ſaid, that the intent of the Act was to give it to the King for two reſpects: One for commodity, the other for delight, and the ſame ſhall be well performed if the King ſhall have it in poſſeſſion, and not to expect for his commodity and delight after the determination of an eſtate tail, which peradventure might continue for ever: But without queſtion the Act of 28 H. 8. cannot avail the defendant who pleads it, for if the gift were void, the Act makes it not good, but for his opinion he held, that admitting the eſtate to be good, the ſaid Act gave the ſame to the King.

the

As to the pleading he held the ſame for the form groſs and ignorant, but he agreed that in ſubſtance it is good. Alſo he agreed clearly, that the Office found in the Chancery was ſufficient. The Lord Treaſurer briefly and effectually argued to the ſame purpoſe, and ſaid there were divers grounds in the Law upon which he grounds his opinion: Firſt, a Rule put by Maſter Attorney, that the King by his grant, ought to grant that which he may lawfully grant; and his grant cannot make a diſcontinuance or wrong; and the King being tenant in tail, cannot lawfully grant but during his life; but in our Caſe he granteth an eſtate tail, and never intended to grant for the term of his life. Secondly, no violent or ſtrainable conſtruction is to be made of the King's grant, but his grant ſhall be taken in a uſual and common ſence, according to his intent and meaning, and not in his deceit, although the grant be ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu; upon this ground he conſidered two things: One, what was the King's intent; the other, if his intent might take effect, and if the grant may take any effect, if not by a violent and ſtrained conſtruction againſt the King's intent: As to the firſt, he intended to grant an eſtate of inheritance and not for term of his life. Secondly, he intended to grant one entire eſtate and not two ſeveral eſtates. Thirdly, he intended to grant an eſtate tail in poſſeſſion, and not part in poſſeſſion and part in reverſion. Fourthly, the King intended to grant ſuch eſtate of the Mannor, ſo that the King might have the Ward or primer ſeiſin of the land in poſſeſſion, and that the King cannot have, if Walſhe ſhall have it but for the King's life, and therefore he ſaid that the King was deceived in his grant, [53] and he did not intend to have ſuch fractions and diviſions of eſtates as hath been imagined, and becauſe the ſame cannot be without a violent and ſtrained conſtruction, for this cauſe he ſaid, the grant although it were ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu was void; he agreed that theſe words de gratia ſpeciali, certa ſcientia, & mero motu are words of bounty and of great effect, if the King be not deceived in the intent and purpoſe of his grant, and ſuch words ſhall never be of force to maintain a grant in deceit of the King. And he took a difference between matter in fact and matter in Law, as in matters in fact it is true, that theſe words ſhall imply that the King ſhall not be miſconuſant of any matter in fact concerning his grant, but not of matters of Law, as appeareth by many Caſes cited by Maſter Attorney, That if it appeareth to the Court, (that notwithſtanding theſe words) that the King was deceived in Law in the purpoſe and intent of his grant, his grant is void; and the ſame agreeth with a text of the Civil Law upon theſe words, De gratia ſpeciali, certa ſcientia & mero motu, quod talis clauſula non valet in his in quibus præſumitur Principem eſſe ignorantem. And therefore in our Caſe, the King grants ſuch eſtate as by the Law he cannot grant, for he grants an eſtate in tail in poſſeſſion, where he cannot by the Law grant an eſtate in poſſeſſion, but for the term of his own life, and for as much as the King is deceived in Law, for this cauſe notwithſtanding the words certa ſcientia, &c. his grant is void. And as to the Rule which hath been taken, that the King's Letters Patents ſhall not be void, if by any reaſonable conſtruction they may be maintained to be good, the ſame is true if the King's intent and purpoſe in his grant may take effect, and when the King is not deceived in his grant. As to the Act of 28 Hen. 8. the ſame doth not make the grant good for two cauſes; Firſt, this Act was made five years after the grant, and the Act is that the King extunc & impoſterum, (that is to ſay, from the time of the making of the Act) ſhall have the Mannor in fee; ſo as by the Act, the King had not fee at the time of his grant but five years after. Secondly, the Act doth not amend it.

And as to the miſchief which hath been ſuppoſed if this grant ſhould be adjudged void, he ſaid, That no Caſe can be adjudged but it is miſchievous to ſome; but he ſaid, that a miſchief is rather to be ſuffered then an inconvenience, and great inconvenience would follow on the other part, if this grant (for as much as the King is deceived in his grant) ſhall be adjudged good; for which cauſe he concluded, that the Judgment ought to be reverſed. Upon which the Attorney moved, that now ſuch [b] Judgment be given for the Queen as the Barons of the Exchequer ought to have adjudged. Upon which the Court commanded Judgment to be entred accordingly, and ſo it was. And I demanded of Baron Savill, who had heard all the Arguments in the Exchequer Chamber, what his opinion was in the Caſe; and he ſaid, That he conceived, that the Judgment given in the Exchequer ought to be reverſed. And he agreed alſo, that the Act of 28 H. 8. hath given the eſtate of Walſhe to the King, admitting the eſtate tail to be good. I demanded alſo of Baron Clark, who was ever againſt the Judgment in the Exchequer, and had argued very learnedly in the Exchequer, if he held to his opinion; and he ſaid, that he ſtrongly continued of his firſt opinion for both the points in Law.

Between John Hunt Plaintiff, and Thomas Gatley Defendant in a Replevin, Paſch. 23 Eliz. in the Common Pleas Rot. 1160. The Caſe in effect was ſuch.

Capel's Caſe.

[61] [b] THomas Capel Eſquire being ſeiſed of the Mannor of Howcaple in the County of Hereford in fee, after the Statute of 27 H. 8. of transferring uſes to poſſeſſions, did thereof enfeoffe John Warcombe, and others in fee, unto the uſe of the ſaid Thomas Capel, and the heirs males of his body lawfully iſſuing; and for default of ſuch iſſue, unto the uſe of Edward Capel, and the heirs males of his body lawfully iſſuing: and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of Richard Capel, and the heirs of his body lawfully iſſuing; and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of William Capell, and to the heirs males of his body lawfully iſſuing: and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of Giles Capel for term of his life, and after his deceaſe, unto the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Thomas Capel for ever. By force whereof, and of the ſaid Statute Thomas Capel was ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor in tail, the remainder to the ſaid Edward Capel in tail, the remainder to the ſaid Richard Capel in tail, the remainder to the ſaid William Capel in tail, the remainder to the ſaid Giles Capel for life, the reverſion expectant to the ſaid Thomas Capel and his heirs: and afterwards the ſaid Thomas Capel died, after whoſe death the ſaid Mannor deſcended to William Capel his ſon and heir of his body; and afterwards the ſaid Edward Capel died, and his remainder of the ſaid Mannor deſcended to Richard Capel his ſon and heir, who by his deed bearing date 2 Novemb. 18. of the Queen granted to Anthony Capel his ſon and his heirs, a rent
[62] charge of 50 l. per ann. iſſuing out of the ſaid Mannor; the ſaid William Capel ſon of the ſaid Thomas Capel, being Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion Octab. Hill. 19 Eliz. levied a fine of the ſaid Mannor to Richard Wotton, and John Shrawley, and to the heirs of the ſaid Richard Wotton, which fine was to the uſe of the ſaid John Hunt and his heirs. And afterwards the ſame Hill. Term, Thomas Spenceley, and Baldwine Caſtleton did recover the ſaid Mannor againſt the ſaid John Hunt, who vouched the ſaid William Capel ſon of the ſaid Thomas, who vouched the common vouchee, which was executed accordingly; and afterwards the ſaid William Capel ſon of the ſaid Thomas 10 Nov. 19 Eliz. died without iſſue male of his body; Thomas Gatley as Bailiff to Anthony Capel diſtrained for the rent being behind at the feaſt of S. Michael the Archangel anno 20 Eliz. and the ſaid John Hunt brought a Replevin. And this Caſe was often argued in the Common Pleas and afterwards in the Exchequer Chamber before all the Juſtices of England; and after divers conferences between all the Juſtices of England, it was reſolved by them all, That in this Caſe, the Recoverors, nor any who came in under their eſtate ſhall be ſubject unto the charge of him in the remainder. And afterwards Ter. Mich. 34 & 35 Eliz. the Juſtices of the Common Pleas openly declared the reaſons of their Reſolution, which I heard, and they were in effect as followeth:

Becauſe the Recoverer is in an eſtate which he hath gained under the Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion, which eſtate is not ſubject to the charge of him in the remainder: for if Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion in the Caſe at the Bar had only made a feoffment in fee, yet the poſſeſſion of the feoffee (ſo long as the feoffment remains in force) ſhall not be charged with the rent, becauſe he is in of the poſſeſſion which Tenant in tail gave to him, and was not ſubject to paiment of rent; and if he in the remainder had made a Leaſe for a hundred years, and afterwards Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion, had made a Leaſe for a hundred years, both to commence preſently, and afterwards tenant in tail had made a feoffment, or ſuffered a common recovery, and died without iſſue, they all clearly reſolved, that the leſſee of Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion ſhould enjoy the land againſt the leſſee of him in the remainder, although that the Leaſe of him in the remainder were firſt made, for as long as the eſtate of the feoffee or recoverer derived under the eſtate of Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion continueth, ſo long the Leaſe of Tenant in [b] tail ſhall ſtand; and if the Leaſe of Tenant in tail ſhall be preferred, by the ſame reaſon every other eſtate or intereſt derived out of his eſtate, ſo long as the feoffment or recovery doth remain in force, ſhall be alſo preferred before any eſtate or intereſt derived out of the eſtate of him in the remainder. So if he in the remainder had acknowledged a Recogniſance, and afterwards Tenant in tail had acknowledged a Recognizance, and after ſuffered a recovery, and died without iſſue, the land ſhall be ſubject unto the Recognizance of Tenant in tail, and not to the Recognizance of him in the remainder, and the land in none of theſe Caſes can be ſubject to both the Recognizances, nor unto both the Leaſes, nor unto the Charges of both, ſimul & ſemel, for then confuſion and great inconvenience would follow; and it ſhould alſo be aſſured, that the Leaſes, Recognizances and Charges being made at ſeveral times ſhould be leviable upon the land at one time; and therefore without queſtion in all thoſe Caſes the land is ſubject to the Leaſes, Recognizances and Charges of the Tenant in tail: from this it followeth, that it cannot alſo be ſubject to the Leaſes, Recognizances and Charges of him in the remainder. Nota hoc, quia optima ratio ut mihi videtur. Another reaſon was added, becauſe that the Charge of him in the remainder is good in Law, by reaſon of the poſſibility that the land ſhall come into poſſeſſion, and then the poſſeſſion ſhall be charged; for the remainder in it ſelf is not a thing manurable, nor in which a diſtreſs can be taken, but the ſame ought to be taken upon the land it ſelf, and therefore there is a condition tacite annexed to the Charge of him in the remainder, that is to ſay, to take effect, or to commence in poſſeſſion, when the remainder cometh in poſſeſſion, for the remainder cannot be charged with with any diſtreſs, but in reſpect that the ſame by poſſibility may come in poſſeſſion: But when the Tenant in tail ſuffereth a common recovery, the condition which is tacite annexed to the grant is deſtroyed, for the remainder can never come in poſſeſſion, and by conſequence the rent charge can never commence, for the poſſeſſion is only ſubject to diſtreſs.

Another reaſon was added, that the grantee of him in the remainder cannot falſifie in this Caſe, becauſe that the recovery was not ſuffered by him who was chargeable with the rent, but by one who was diſcharged of the rent, and the Recovery barred the remainder, ſo as he in the remainder ſhall never faulſifie. And ſo it was reſolved, that no Leaſe, nor Rent, nor Common, nor Recognizance, nor any other charge, intereſt, or eſtate made by him in the remainder, ſhall charge the poſſeſſion of the Recoveror. And it was alſo reſolved by all the Juſtices aforeſaid, nullo contradicente, that a common recovery had againſt Tenant in tail, ſhall bind not only the remainder, and all Leaſes, Charges, &c. granted [63] or made by him in the remainder, but alſo the Reverſion, and all Leaſes, Charges, &c. granted by him in the Reverſion, and no difference between a Reverſion and remainder expectant upon an eſtate in tail to this purpoſe. And this Caſe was reſolved by Lord John Popham, Chief Juſtice of England, Lord Edmund Anderſon Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Sir Roger Manwood, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and by Periam, Clenche, Gawdie, Walmeſley, and Fenner Juſtices, Juſtice Windham being dead, and by Gent, and Clark, Barons of the Exchequer.

Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz. between Baldwin and Smith.

Archer's Caſe.

BEtween Baldwyn and Smith in the Common Pleas, which began Trinit. 36 Eliz. rot. 1676. in a [66] [b] Replevin; upon a ſpecial Verdict the Caſe was ſuch: Francis Archer was ſeiſed of land in fee, and held the ſame in Socage, and by his will in writing deviſed the land unto Robert Archer the Father for his life, and after to the next heir male of Robert, and to the heirs males of the body of ſuch next heir male. Robert hath iſſue John, Francis died, Robert enfeoffed Kent with warranty, upon whom John entred, and Kent re-entred, and Robert died, &c. And firſt it was agreed by Anderſon, Walmeſley, and the whole Court, that Robert had but an eſtate for life, becauſe Robert had expreſs eſtate for life deviſed to him, and the remainder is limited to the next heir male of Robert in the ſingular number; and the right heir male of Robert, cannot enter for the forfeiture in the life of Robert, for he cannot be heir as long as Robert liveth. Secondly, that the remainder unto the right heir male of Robert is good, although he cannot have right heir during his life, but it is ſufficient the remainder do veſt eo inſtante that the particular eſtate determineth. And ſo it is agreed in 7 H. 4. 6. b. and Cranmer's Caſe 14 Eliz. Dier 309. a. Thirdly, (which was the principal point of the Caſe) it was agreed by the whole Court, that by the feoffment of the Tenant for life the remainder was deſtroyed, for every contingent remainder ought to veſt, either during the particular eſtate, or at leaſt, eo inſtante that the ſame determineth: for if the particular eſtate be ended, or determined in fact, or in Law before the contingency fall, the remainder is void. And in this Caſe, in as much as by the feoffment of Robert his eſtate for life was determined by a condition in Law annexed to the ſame, and the ſame cannot after by any poſſibility be revived; for this cauſe the contingent remainder is deſtroyed againſt the opinion of Gaſcoigne in 7 H. 4. 23. b. But if the Tenant for life had been diſſeiſed, and died, yet the remainder is good, for there [67] the particular eſtate doth remain in right, and might have been revived as it is ſaid in 32 H. 6. But otherwiſe is it in the Caſe at the Bar, for by his feoffment no right of the particular eſtate doth remain. And it was ſaid it was ſo agreed by Popham Chief Juſtice, and divers Juſtices in the Argument of the Caſe between Dillon and Frein, and denied by none. See 11 R. 2. tit. Detinue 46. And note the judgment of the Book, and the reaſon thereof, which Caſe there adjudged is a ſtronger Caſe then the Caſe at the Bar. But note Reader, that after the feoffment, the eſtate for life to ſome purpoſe had continuance; for all Leaſes, Charges, &c. made by the Tenant for life ſhall ſtand during his life, but the eſtate is ſuppoſed to continue as to thoſe only who claim by the Tenant for life before the forfeiture, but as to all others who do not claim by the Tenant for life himſelf, the particular eſtate is determined: And by the better opinion the warranty ſhall bind the remainder, although the warranty was created before the remainder attached or veſted, and although that the remainder were in the conſideration of the Law, and he who ſhall be bound by the ſame, never could have avoided the ſame by entry or otherwiſe; yet for as much as the remainder did commence and had his being by force of the deviſe which was before the warranty, for this cauſe it ſhall bind the remainder, but the ſame was not fully agreed; And as well as the feoffment of the Tenant for life ſhall deſtroy the remainder, ſo well a fortiori, the warranty of his Anceſtor (by whom he is intended to be advanced) ſhall bind him. And in many Caſes one ſhall be bound, and barred of his right by a warranty, who could never have defeated it by any means, as in 44 E. 3. 30. & 44 Aſſ. p. 35. Leſſee for life is diſſeiſed, to whom a collateral anceſtor of the Leſſor releaſeth and dieth, he ſhall be barred, vide 3 H. 7. 9. a. & 33 H. 8. Br. Garranty 84. A feme covert who cannot enter nor avoid the warranty ſhall be barred. So if Tenant for life, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. had been diſſeiſed, and the diſſeiſor levied a fine at the Common Law, the right heir of J. S. ſhall be bound, and yet he cannot enter nor make claim. But the point adjudged was, That by the feoffment of the Tenant for life, the remainder was deſtroyed.

Mich. 39 Eliz. between Gardiner and Bredon.

Bredon's Caſe.

[76] BEtween Gardiner and Bredon, in a Replevin in the Common Pleas, which began Trin. 38 Eliz. Rot. 1831. the Caſe was: Tenant for life of Land, the remainder in tail, the remainder in tail; Tenant for life and he in the firſt remainder in tail joyned in a fine ſur conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. to another in fee, who rendred a rent charge of 40 l. unto Tenant for life, he in the firſt remainder died without iſſue, he in the ſecond remainder entred, Tenant for term of life diſtrained for the rent, the other ſued a Replevin, and the Tenant for life avowed for the rent; and if the avowry were maintainable or not was the Queſtion. And in this Caſe, firſt it was agreed by Anderſon, Walmeſley, Owen, and Glanvill Juſtices of the Common Pleas, that the ſaid fine levied by Tenant for life, and him in the remainder was no diſcontinuance, either of the firſt remainder in tail, or of the ſecond, becauſe each of them gave only but that which he might lawfully give, viz. The Tenant for life gave his eſtate, and he in the remainder a fee ſimple determinable upon his eſtate tail, and the ſecond remainder is not diſcontinued or deveſted thereby. As if Husband and Wife do levy a fine of the Wives land, all the eſtate paſſeth from the Wife, ſo as each of them giveth that which they may lawfully give; and therefore it was adjudged in the King's Bench, That the charge of the Husband did determine by his death notwithſtanding ſuch fine levied after the charge: And that it ſhall be the grant of both, of their ſeveral eſtates: See 27 H. 8. 13. a. 12 H. 7. 14. b. 2 H. 5. 7. M. 16 & 17 Eliz. Dier 339. a. & 14 E. 4. 14. a. and from thence it followeth, that it was not any forfeiture of the eſtate of the Tenant for life, for as much as each gave that which he might lawfully give. And it was ſaid, that it cannot be a forfeiture, for the Law (which abhorreth wrong) ſhall conſtrue it, firſt to be the grant of him in the remainder in tail, and
[b] afterwards the grant of the Tenant for life, as in many Caſes, ut res magis valeat quam pereat, the Law ſhall make conſtruction; and therefore in the Caſe of a fine, if Tenant in tail and one A. levy a fine to a ſtranger, who granteth and rendreth to A. for years rendring rent, and by the ſame fine grant the reverſion to Tenant in tail and his heirs, this is good, and although that all be by one fine at one inſtant, yet in judgment of Law, the leaſe doth precede the grant of the reverſion, as it is holden in 36 H. 8. Br. Fines 118. And ſo was it adjudged upon demurrer between White and White M. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Rot. 366. So in the Caſe at the Bar, the grant of the Tenant in tail ſhall precede in the judgment of the Law the grant of the Tenant for life, although that all be by one fine. And note the difference between this Caſe and the Caſe in 41 E. 3. 21. a. & 41 Aſſ. 2. for there, in as much as the Wife ſurvived, it is upon the matter a feoffment made by her, for ſhe is in by her feoffor, and the ſecond remainder in tail was deveſted thereby; and that he in the firſt remainder with his Wife (betwixt whom are no moities) accepted a feoffment of the Tenant for life; but here in the Caſe at the Bar, he in the firſt remainder doth joyn with the Tenant for life in making of an eſtate, and this joyning doth alter the nature of the Act, for by this joyning the eſtate given paſſeth from both, ſo that each giveth his eſtate; but in the Caſe in 41 E. 3. 21. all the eſtate doth paſs from the Tenant for life, and that was fee ſimple which of neceſſity ought to be a forfeiture of all the remainders, for it cannot be a forfeiture but ought to give cauſe of entry to each in remainder for his time. But the Caſe in Mich. 16 & 17 Eliz. Dier 339. a. was agreed for good Law, for there both the feoffors had but an eſtate for life, and therefore their feoffment did deveſt the remainder in tail, and ſo a forfeiture; but here the Tenant for life, and he in the remainder in tail joyn in the fine, &c. And it was ſaid, it was adjudged in the King's Bench in the Caſe of one Engliſh, that if there be Tenant for life, the remainder in fee to an Infant, and they both levy a fine, and afterwards the fine is reverſed as to the Infant, yet the conuſee ſhall have the land for the life of the Tenant for life, for each gave that which he might lawfully give. But it was ſaid, if Tenant for life be, the remainder unto the Queen for life, the remainder to another in fee, if the firſt Tenant for life maketh a feoffment, the ſame is a forfeiture, and yet nothing paſſeth but his own eſtate, but in as much as he hath made a livery in fee, it is a forfeiture, although that none of the remainders are diverted. See 30 Aſſ. 47. if Tenant for life enfeoffeth him in the remainder for life with warranty, the ſame ſhall enure by way of ſurrender, and is no forfeiture, quod nota. And it ſeemeth by them, if Tenant for life, and he in the firſt remainder in tail make a [77] feoffment by deed, that it is not a diſcontinuance, nor a deveſting of the ſecond remainder, for each giveth that which he may lawfully give; and although he in the firſt remainder dieth without iſſue, the feoffee ſhall enjoy the land during the life of the Tenant for life, and no forfeiture in the Caſe for the cauſes beforeſaid. But if a feoffment be made by word, then it is a ſurrender of the Tenant for life, and the feoffment of him in the remainder, ut res magis valeat quam pereat. See 27 Aſſ. 46. Plow. Commentaries 541. a. 14 H. 7. 4. a. And afterwards Judgment was given that the Avowant ſhould have return of the Cattel, and that it was not any forfeiture, but that the rent did remain after the death of the firſt Tenant in tail without iſſue.

Term.

Term. Paſchæ 42 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, which began Hill. 41 Eliz. Rot. 1049.

Corbet's Caſe adjudged.

Chriſtopher Corbet being ſeiſed of the Mannor of S. had iſſue Rowland and Arthur, and 30 Eliz. upon good conſiderations by his deed indented, did covenant with R. S. and others, that he and his heirs would ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor of S. unto the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher for his life, and after his deceaſe, to the uſe of the ſaid Rowland and his heirs males of his body, and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of the ſaid Arthur and his heirs males of his body; and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of divers others of his blood in tail, and at laſt to the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Chriſtopher. And it was provided, covenanted, and agreed by the ſame indenture between the parties, That if the ſaid Rowland, &c. or any of his heirs males of his body ſhall be reſolved and determine, or adviſedly ſhall attempt, or procure any Act or thing concerning any alienation, of, or for the ſaid Mannor, &c. by which any eſtate tail thereof limited before ſhould be undone, barred, or determined, or by which the ſame ſhould not come, remain, or be in manner and form as is limited by the ſame Indenture: That then after that, and before any ſuch act done by which, &c. before any ſuch bargain, diſcontinuance, &c. had or executed, &c. the uſes and eſtates to him limited who ſo ſhall do, &c. ſhall ceaſe only in reſpect, and having regard to ſuch perſon ſo attempting in the ſame manner, quality, degree, and condition, as if ſuch perſon ſo attempting were naturally dead, and not otherwiſe. And that then immediately in all ſuch Caſes, the uſes of the ſaid Mannor ſhall be to ſuch perſons to whom the uſes ſhall come by the intent of the ſame Indenture, if ſuch perſon ſo attempting were naturally dead, of ſuch and the like eſtate, and in the ſame manner and form, and with ſuch remainders over, and under ſuch limitations, and conditions, as if ſuch perſon ſo attempting were naturally dead, and not otherwiſe. The ſaid Chriſtopher Corbet died, and afterwards Rowland ſuffered a common Recovery to his uſe, &c. and the ſaid Arthur entred into the land, upon whom Rowland reentred, and Arthur brought an action of Treſpas; and if the entry of Arthur were lawful or no was the Queſtion. In this Caſe divers matters were moved at the Bar, which were not agreed by the Juſtices at the Bench, and divers matters were moved by the Juſtices in their Arguments concerning the general Caſe of Perpetuities; but I ſhall make a ſummary Report only of the principal reaſons and cauſes of their Judgment, in which all the Juſtices of the Common Pleas were unanimouſly agreed. It was reſolved by the Lord Anderſon, Walmeſley, Glanvill, and Kingſmill Juſtices. That this Proviſo to ceaſe an eſtate limited to one and his heirs males of his body, as if the Tenant in tail were dead, was repugnant, impoſſible, and againſt the Law; for the death of Tenant in tail is not a ceſſer of the eſtate in tail, but the death of the Tenant in tail without iſſue of his body is the determination thereof. And therefore if the Proviſo had been that the eſtate tail ſhould ceaſe, ſo ſoon as he had granted a rent charge, or made a Leaſe for years to another, that ſame had been repugnant, for ſuch acts do not make any determination of an eſtate tail; and if the eſtate tail ſhall ceaſe as if he were dead, his iſſue inheritable to the eſtate tail ſhall have the ſame by deſcent in the life of his father, and he in the remainder or reverſion ſhould have the ſame in the life of the Tenant in tail, which is not poſſible; for to every deſcent reverſion or remainder upon the determination of the eſtate tail, death, either civil, as entry into Religion, or natural, as diſſolution of the ſoul from the body is requiſite. And as to that, which ſome have objected, that although it be granted, that when Tenant in tail hath iſſue inheritable to the eſtate tail, that there is repugnancy and impoſſibility that the iſſue ſhall inherit, or the land ſhall remain or revert, for deſcend it cannot, becauſe the Father is living and revert or remain over it cannot becauſe Tenant in tail hath iſſue; yet it was ſaid, that there was not any ſuch repugnancy or impoſſibility at the time of the breaking of the Proviſo by the Tenant in tail in the Caſe at the Bar, becauſe that the Tenant in tail had not any iſſue at the time of the breaking of the Proviſo. To that it was anſwered, that the having of iſſue is not material; for when land is limited to one and the heirs males of his body, with Proviſo annexed to it in the ſame conveyance, that if he do ſuch an act that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe as if he were dead, this is repugnant at the beginning; for by the expreſs limitation he hath an eſtate of inheritance, which by poſſibility may continue for ever, and his eſtate of inheritance doth not begin by the having of iſſue, but preſently before any iſſue he hath eſtate of inheritance. And therefore before iſſue his feoffment is a diſcontinuance and no forfeiture, neither ſhall he in the reverſion be received upon his default in a Præcipe. And therefore if a man maketh a gift in tail upon condition that if he dieth, his eſtate ſhall ceaſe, and the donor reenter, this condition is void: And in ſuch Caſe if Tenant in tail be diſſeiſed, and a deſcent is caſt, or if Tenant in tail make a diſcontinuance, and afterwards Tenant in tail dieth without iſſue, the donor ſhall not enter for this condition broken; for although that the eſtate in tail by accident afterwards by his death ceaſeth, yet the condition was repugnant at the time of the creation of the eſtate tail; For if a man make a Leaſe for life, in the judgment of the Law at the beginning death is the determination of that eſtate by expreſs limitation; but if a man give lands in tail, viz. to one, to have to him and his heirs of his body, there appeareth by expreſs limitation, that in judgment of Law death is not the determination thereof, but death without iſſue of his body. Alſo it is repugnant that land ſhall revert, or remain during the life of Tenant in tail himſelf, as it hath been ſaid.

[83] [b] [84] [a]

And

And Anderſon Chief Juſtice put the Caſe in 8 Aſſ. 33. where a man gave Lands to one Mary and Johan her ſiſter & hæredibus de corporibus earum legitime procreatis (by which they had a joynt eſtate for life and ſeveral inheritances, and the donor intending that none of them ſhould break the Joynture, but that the ſurvivor ſhould have all by jus accreſcendi, addeth this clauſe) ſub hac forma quod illa quæ illarum diutius vixerit tenebit terram illarum integram, but for as much as his intent is contrary to the Law, for this cauſe if the Joynture be ſevered by a Fine levied, the ſurvivor ſhall not have the part ſo ſevered by the ſaid clauſe which he hath inſerted of his conceit and imagination repugnant unto Law and Reaſon. So here the intent of Chriſtopher was that the eſtate tail ſhould ceaſe, as if Tenant in tail were dead, which intent is repugnant unto the rules of Law, and againſt ſenſe and reaſon. And he cited alſo the Caſe of Pleſington, which ſee title, Quid juris clamat, 20. A man makes a Leaſe upon condition that if the Leſſor grant the Reverſion, that the Leſſee ſhall have fee; if the Leſſor grant the Reverſion by Fine, he ſhall not have fee, for the condition is repugnant and void. And further, he held that [85] this Proviſo was utterly void for the incertainty, for Judges ought to know the intention of the parties by certain and ſenſible words, which are agreeable and conſonant to the rules of Law. And therefore if Land be given by deed to two, to have and to hold to them & hæredibus, it is void for the inſenſibility and incertainty, and although he add clauſe of Warranty to them and their Heirs, the ſame ſhall not make the firſt words which are incertain and inſenſible to be of force and effect in Law, although that his intent appeareth, but his intent ought to be declared by words certain and conſonant to Law. And he cited two Caſes adjudged in the point, one in the caſe of a Will, and the other in caſe of an Uſe. And the caſe of the Will was in an action of Waſte between John Jermin and Arthur Arſcot in the Common Pleas Hill 37. Eliz. Rot. 1758. and the Caſe was in effect thus, Thomas Cary was ſeized in fee of the Mannor or Farm of Cary in the Pariſh of St. Giles in the Heath in the County of Devon, and held the ſame in Socage, and had iſſue ſix Sons and one Daughter, viz. Peter, Henry, Fulforde, Richard, Andrew and Gregory, and Mary, and 14 Martii, 25 Eliz. did deviſe the Mannor or Farm aforeſaid unto the ſaid Arthur for 90 years, if the ſaid Arthur Arſcot and Grace Arſcot, or any of them ſhould ſo long live; and afterwards by his laſt Will in writing deviſed the ſaid Mannor or Farm unto the ſaid Peter and his Heirs Males of his body, the remainder in the ſame Farm to his other ſons, the remainder unto the ſaid Mary his Daughter, Wife of Henry Pruſt, and the Heirs of his body for ever, in which Will were theſe Proviſoes and Clauſes, contained in theſe words following: viz. Provided that if the ſaid Peter Cary, his ſon, or any of the ſons of the ſaid Thomas, or any of the Heirs Males of their bodies to be begotten at any time or times hereafter, wittingly, willingly, or adviſedly ſhould attempt or endeavour by any act or acts, way or means to ſell, alien, bargain, diſcontinue, &c. And ſuch attempt endeavour, act or acts ſhould execute, &c. by any covert or notorious act or acts whatſoever, &c. That then immediately after every time or times of ſuch attempt, &c. and before any ſuch bargain, ſale, alienation, &c. were, had, made or executed, the aforeſaid eſtate and eſtates of every ſuch perſon, ſon or heir, doing or attempting, &c. any act or thing aforeſaid contrary to the intent and meaning of this his laſt Will and Teſtament, &c. ſhall ceaſe and determine in ſuch manner and form to all intents, conſtructions and purpoſes, and as though ſuch perſon ſo attempting, &c. were naturally dead indeed, and
[b] not otherwiſe, and that ſuch perſon, &c. to whom the Premiſſes ſhould deſcend, remain, or come, if ſuch perſon ſo attempting &c. were naturally dead indeed, ſhould have and injoy the Premiſſes, during the life of ſuch perſon ſo attempting, &c. with like remainders and limitations over, &c. as if ſuch perſons ſo attempting, &c. were naturally dead; and after the deceaſe of ſuch perſon ſo attempting, &c. that then the Premiſſes ſhould deſcend, remain, come, or be to ſuch perſon unto whom the ſame ought or ſhould next deſcend to, accrue, or be by the true intent and meaning of his Teſtament aforeſaid, with ſuch remainders and limitations of eſtate and eſtates over, and in ſuch ſort to all intents conſtructions and purpoſes in all things, as though no ſuch attempt had been committed. And afterwards the ſaid Thomas Cary died, and after, that is to ſay, Quindena Paſch. 27. Eliz. Peter Cary levied a Fine of the ſaid Mannor or Farm to John Germin, and the ſaid Henry Cary came to the ſaid Tenements and claimed a Reverſion by force of the ſaid deviſe, and if upon all this matter John Germin the Plaintiff, notwithſtanding the ſaid Proviſoes and Claimes aforeſaid, had the ſame Reverſion continuing in him or not, ſo that he might maintain the action of Waſte or not, was the Queſtion: And upon ſolemn Argument it was adjudged by all the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, that the action of Waſte was maintainable, and that the ſaid Proviſoe of Reſtraint was void for two principal cauſes: One, becauſe it was againſt the Law, the other, that it was repugnant and contrariant in it ſelf: Againſt the Law for two cauſes, for be the the ſame Proviſo a condition or limitation, the whole eſtate ought to be defeated by it, and it cannot determine the eſtate in part, and continue the ſame for the reſidue; and an eſtate in Land cannot ceaſe for a time, and revive and reveſt afterwards: The other, when a man giveth Lands to one, and his Heirs Males with remainders over, he cannot by the rules of the Law determine this eſtate in tail as to one perſon, and diſpoſe the ſame eſtate unto another perſon. And therefore they agreed the Caſe in 28. 29 H. 8. Dier 33. a. that a man cannot deviſe an eſtate in fee ſimple to one, and if he do not ſuch an act, that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe, and that another ſhall have the ſame infee-ſimple; for when he hath diſpoſed the eſtate in fee to one, he hath not power after in the ſame Will to diſpoſe the ſame to another. And for conſtruction of Wills, this rule was taken by the Juſtices in their Arguments, That ſuch an eſtate which cannot by the rules of the Common Law be conveyed by act executed in his life by advice of his Counſel learned in the Law, ſuch eſtate cannot be deviſed by the Will of a man, who is intended in Law to be void of Counſel: As if a man by his Will deviſe Lands to one for ever, there he hath a fee, for ſuch
[86] eſtate might be conveyed by act executed. But if he deviſe further, that if the Deviſee do not ſuch an act that another ſhall have the Land to him and his heirs, the ſame is void, as is aforeſaid, for that ſuch limitation if it were by act executed were void, & ſic de cæteris.

And

And it was reſolved, that the ſaid Proviſo was repugnant for two cauſes, one becauſe that when he had deviſed the Land to one and the Heirs Males of his Body, which is an eſtate of inheritance and determinable by death without iſſue Male of his Body by expreſs limitation, ſuch Proviſo to ceaſe it as if he were dead is repugnant, for the death of Tenant in tail is not determination of it, but death without iſſue. Secondly, It was repugnant, for the firſt part of the Proviſo was, That if he ſhall attempt, or go about to diſcontinue, bar, &c. and ſhall accompliſh and effect the ſame, and before ſuch alienation; in which was agreed there was manifeſt repugnancy, for by the firſt part the eſtate ſhould not ceaſe until attempt and accompliſhment, and by the latter part it ſhould ceaſe after attempt and before accompliſhment. And theſe were the reaſons of their judgment in the ſaid Caſe between Germin and Arſcot, which being in the Caſe of a Will which receiveth a benign interpretation according to the Teſtators intent, is ſtronger as the Lord Anderſon ſaid then the Caſe at the Bar.

The other Caſe which the Lord Anderſon cited was adjudged Hil. 37 Eliz. between Cholmley Plaintiff, and Humble Defendant in the Common Pleas, and was ſuch, Sr. Richard Cholmley ſeiſed in fee of the Manor of Thornton upon the hill, &c. by his Deed Indented, Covenanted with William Bapthorp, Philip Conſtable, John Huſſey and others, and their Heirs, That in conſideration that the ſaid Manor ſhould continue in his name and poſterity, and in conſideration of natural love, and blood, &c. that he would enfeoff them and their Heirs within one year following, unto the uſes intents and purpoſes following, and declared in the Indentures, viz. unto the uſe of himſelf for the term of his life, and after to the uſe of Francis Cholmeley for life, and after to the uſe of Henry Cholmeley and the Heirs Males of his body with divers remainders over. And further covenanted by the ſame Deed, that if he failed to execute the eſtates within the ſaid year, that then he and his Heirs for the conſiderations aforeſaid, would ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſes and intents aforeſaid, and to no other uſes. And in the ſame Indenture after the ſaid Covenant was a Proviſo, that if the ſaid Henry Cholmeley or any of the Heirs Males of his Body, ſhould attempt or make any Feoffment, &c. that his eſtate ſhould ceaſe, as if he were dead, [b] and that then the ſaid William Bapthorp and the other feoffees and their Heirs ſhould ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of ſuch perſon to whom the ſame ought to deſcend, or remain as aforeſaid: And no feoffment was made within the year, and afterwards Sir Richard and Frances died, Henry had iſſue the Plaintiff, who levied a Fine to Humble the Defendant; the Plaintiff entred by colour of the aforeſaid Proviſo, the Defendant entred upon him, and he brought an Action of Treſpaſs. And it was adjudged againſt the Plaintiff. And the principal cauſe of the Judgment, as the Lord Anderſon ſaid was, becauſe the ſaid Proviſo to ceaſe an eſtate eſtate tail as if Tenant in taile were dead, was utterly againſt Law, impoſſible and repugnant at the beginnig at the time of the delivery of the Indenture. And in the ſame caſe it was agreed, that if a man limit an uſe in tail with Proviſo that if he do ſuch an act, that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe during his life, that ſuch Proviſo is utterly void. And it was agreed, that if a man limit an uſe in tail that if he do ſuch an act that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe during his natural life, that this Proviſo is repugnant and againſt the Law, for he cannot by Proviſo or Condition determine the eſtate in Land to which the ſame is annexed in part. For now, when the Statute of 27 H. 8. hath transferred the uſe into poſſeſſion and eſtate of the Land, he cannot make a fraction in that eſtate in caſe of limitation of uſe, which he cannot do in a gift in tail by livery in poſſeſſion, for the Statute hath not transferred the poſſeſſion to the uſe, but hath transferred and incorporated the uſe in the eſtate of the Land, which is proved by the uſual form of pleading, that is to ſay, de uſibus in poſſeſſion' transferend', and therefore as to this purpoſe, it is as much as if a man had made a gift in tail with Proviſo, or upon condition, that if the donee do ſuch an act that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe during his life; or if a feoffment in fee be made with Proviſo, or upon condition that his eſtate ſhould ceaſe during his life; ſuch Proviſoes and Conditions are utterly void and againſt Law; for a Condition or Limitation annexed unto an eſtate of Land, ought to deſtroy all the eſtate to which it is annexed, and not part of it; and he who entreth for a Condition broken ought to have the ſame eſtate that he had when he made the eſtate Conditional.

And Walmeſley Juſtice ſaid, that when an eſtate is given to one, the ſame may be avoided in all by a Condition or Limitation, but the ſame eſtate in ſome part thereof cannot be determined as to one, and given in part or in all to another, for that is repugnant to the Rules of Law. As if a man make a Leaſe for Life upon Conditon, that if he do not pay twenty pound, that another ſhall have the Land, this future limitation is void; and in the Caſe at the Bar the donor might Plo. Com. have annexed a Condition or Limitation to determine his eſtate; but in this Caſe the donor intended 25. a. to continue the eſtate tail, and to ceaſe it as to one, and in his life to transfer it to another. If af- [87] ter the Statute of 1 R. 3. and before the Statute of 27 H. 8. a man had made a feoffment unto the uſe of one for life, and after unto the uſe of another for life, or in tail, and after unto the uſe of another in fee, thoſe in the remainder could not make a feoffment or grant by the general words of the Act of 1 R. 3. for then there ſhould be a fraction and diviſion of eſtates in Law, which the Law will not ſuffer: And further he ſaid, that the Caſe in 5 E. 2. tit. Dower. 143. of a Rent new created is not againſt his Opinion, for there the Condition is, that if the grantee die his heir within age, that during that time the terre-tenant ſhould be quit of the Rent, which he ſaid is good and parcel of the quality of the Inheritance of this new thing: As in 9 H. 6. 36. a. a man grants Common newly created quandocunque averia ſua ierint, the ſame is modus donationis, and the grantee ſhall not have common there, but in that manner: but if a man make a feoffment in fee upon condition, that if the feoffee die his heir within age, that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe during the minority of the heir, the ſame is utterly void, for an eſtate of Land cannot ſo ceaſe for the reaſons aforeſaid: and alſo becauſe if an eſtate of Land ſhould ſo ceaſe, veſt, and reveſt, it ſhould be dangerous to the Præcipe of a ſtranger, which inconvenience is not in the Caſe of the Rent or Common newly created. And Glanvile Juſtice ſaid, that the Caſe of the Rent is not to be reſembled to Land, for a Rent newly created may ceaſe, but Land cannot.

But

But note Reader, and well obſerve the ſaid Book of 5 E. 2. for there during the minority of the heir, the Writ of Dower was brought againſt the Terre-tenant, and not againſt the heir, which proveth that the eſtate of the Rent was not divided, for then the Writ of Dower ſhould be brought againſt the heir, although the eſtate of the Rent during his minority ceaſe; but the Writ of Dower was brought againſt the Terre-tenant, which proveth (as I conceive) that for the time the Rent newly created per modum conceſſionis ſhall ceaſe: And note, in the ſame Caſe when the heir came of full age, the demandant had execution againſt him. And Juſtice Walmeſley ſaid, that if a man make a feoffment in fee of land to the uſe of A. and his heirs every Munday, and to the uſe of B. and his heirs every Tueſday, and to the uſe of C. and his heirs every Wedneſday, theſe limitations are void, for we do not find ſuch fractions of eſtates in Law. And if Coparceners do agree to preſent by turns, this is a partition as to the poſſeſſion, but notwithſtanding that they ſhall joyn in a Writ of Right. So a Partition that one ſhall have the Land from Eaſter to the firſt of Auguſt in ſeveralty, and that the other ſhall have the ſame from the firſt of Auguſt until Eaſter in ſeveralty, the ſame is good as to the poſſeſſion and taking of the profits, but it is no ſeverance of the eſtate of Inheritance. And he the ſaid, that it ſhould be ſtrange and againſt reaſon, that this eſtate in the Caſe at Bar ſhould end in regard of one, and continue in regard of another, and that Rowland ſhould be dead when one ſaw him, and be alive when another ſaw him. An Act of Parliament, or the Common Law may make an eſtate void as to one, and good as to another, but a man by his words, and breath of his mouth cannot ſo do. As if land be given to Husband and Wife, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten, and the Husband levieth a fine with Proclamation, and hath iſſue, and dieth; now this fine by force of the Act of Parliament of 32 H. 8. c. 36. ſhall bar the iſſue in tail, but ſhall not bind the Wife; and ſo in reſpect of one a bar, and in reſpect of the other no bar. So in a Præcipe if one be vouched, now having regard unto the demandant, the vouchee is Tenant, and a Releaſe unto him is good, but having regard to a ſtranger he is not Tenant, and a Releaſe unto him by a ſtranger is void: So if one hath lands for years as Executor, and ſurrendreth the ſame, now to one reſpect the term is extinct, and to another reſpect it is in being. So as an Act of Parliament, or an Act of the Law may do that in divers Caſes to ſeveral reſpects; but a man by his words cannot do the ſame, and namely, an eſtate to ceaſe as to one, and to continue as to another, to make a man half alive, and half dead as he ſaid. If one might limit eſtates in lands to ceaſe during the minoritie of his heirs, and other perſons to have the lands during that time, then all Wardſhips may be defeated, and great inconveniences would follow, and therefore he ſaid this manner of ceaſing of eſtates, and to carry one and the ſame eſtate or part thereof from one into another without determination, and namely from one alive to another alive is impoſſible, and againſt Law and reaſon, and inconvenient. And he ſaid, that if a man before the Statute of 27 H. 8. had bargained his land for money generally, without theſe words (his heirs) the Chancellor would compel him according to conſcience and the intent of the parties in regard of the value, to have executed an eſtate in fee, and the ſame was ſo long as uſes were things meerly in truſt and confidence, but the uſes after the Statute are transferred and made in an eſtate in the land: And therefore he ſaid, that if after the Statute he bargain and ſell for money the land to one generally, he hath but an eſtate for life.

20 Ed. 3. Q. I. 63, 65. F. N. B. 36. [b] 18 Eliz. Dier 351. b.

And Glanvill Juſtice ſaid, that betwixt the making of the Statute of 13 E. 1. of Donis condicionalibus, and 27 H. 8. ſuch Proviſo annexed to an eſtate in tail, that the ſame ſhould ceaſe as if the Tenant in tail were dead, was never ſeen or heard of; and therefore he concluded that it cannot be done by the Law. And ſo Littleton concludeth fol. 23. in the like caſe, that if any Action might have been taken or brought upon the Statute of Merton, cap. 6. de Dominis qui maritaverint illos, &c. ſi parentes conqueruntur, &c. it ſhould be intended ſome time to have been put in ure, and therefore he ſaid no action can be brought upon that Statute, for as much as it was never ſeen or heard that any Action was brought upon that Statute. And he ſaid, that uſes were not within the letter of the Statute of Donis, &c. which ſpeaketh only of lands and tenements, but are taken within the equity, and therefore ought to follow the nature of the land. And before the Statute of 27 H. 8. in the Caſe of a uſe, the Chancellor did judge by way of imitation of the Rules of the Common Law, and according to the nature and quality of the land, as in Caſe de poſſeſſione fratris, Borough Engliſh, Gavelkind on the part of the mother, &c. and ſo his judgment was by way of imitation; And the makers of all the Statutes concerning uſes, as 1 R. 3. cap. 5. 4 H. 7. cap. 17. 9 H. 7. cap. 15. and all other Statutes have made uſes to imitate and reſemble eſtates in poſſeſſion, and to be guided and directed according to the rules and reaſon of the Common Law. And he ſaid, that Richill who was a Judge in the time of R. 2. and Thirning who was Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas in the time of H. 4. intended to have made Perpetuities, and upon forfeiture of the eſtate tail of one of their ſons to have given the remainder and entry unto another, but the remainders were utterly void, and againſt the Law. And for theſe cauſes it was reſolved by the whole Court (nullo contradicente) that Judgment ſhould be given againſt the Plaintiff, and ſo it was as appeareth by the Record.

[88]

Term.

Term. Trin. 32 Eliz.

Shelley's Caſe.

Nicholas Woulfe brought an Ejectione firmæ of certain land in B. in the County of Eſſex, againſt Henry Shelley Eſquire Defendant, and declared upon a Leaſe by Richard Shelley Eſquire, to which the Defendant pleaded, Not guilty. And a ſpecial verdict was found to the effect following, viz. That Edward Shelley and Joanne his Wife were ſeiſed of the Mannor of Barhamuile, whereof the land wherein the Ejectment was and is parcel, in ſpecial tail, that is to ſay, to them and to the heirs of their two bodies lawfully begotten; the remainder unto the ſaid Edward and his heirs; and further found that the ſaid Edward and Joanne had iſſue Henry their eldeſt ſon, and Richard their youngeſt ſon, and afterwards the ſaid Joanne died, and the ſaid Henry, having iſſue Mary yet living, died in the life of the ſaid Edward, his Wife then young with child with the now Defendant. And afterwards the ſaid Edward Shelley by Indenture bearing date the 25 of Septemb. in the firſt and ſecond year of the late King Philip and Queen Mary, and firſt delivered the ſixth day of October then following, did covenant with Cowper and Martin to ſuffer a Recovery of the ſaid Mannor amongſt other things; and that the ſaid Recovery ſhould be unto the uſe of the ſaid Edward Shelley for the terme of his life without impeachment of Waſte; and after his deceaſe unto the uſe of Mr. Carill and others for 24 years, and after the ſaid 24 years ended then to the uſe of the heirs males of the body of the ſaid Edward Shelley lawfully begotten, and of the heirs males of the body of ſuch heirs males lawfully begotten. And for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of the heirs males of the body of John Shelley of Michelgrove, &c. And found alſo, that the ſaid Edward Shelley the ninth day of October, being the firſt day of the Term, between the hours of five and ſix in the morning died, and after the Recovery paſſed the ſame day with a voucher over, and immediately after judgment given, an Habere facias ſeiſinam was awarded, the Wife of the ſaid Henry Shelley being at this time great with child with the Defendant. And afterwards, that is to ſay, the ninth day of October next following the Recovery was executed; and after the fourth day of December then next following the Wife of the ſaid Henry Shelley was delivered of the ſaid Henry now Defendant. And further found that the ſaid Mannor was in Leaſe for years at the time of the ſaid Judgment and Recovery, by force of a Leaſe made long before the Original Writ purchaſed, upon which the ſaid Recovery was had: And that the ſaid Richard Shelley, ſecond ſon of the ſaid Edward Shelley, and Uncle to the Defendant, entred, and made a Leaſe to the ſaid Nicholas Woulfe now Plaintiff in the Ejectione firmæ; and that the ſaid Henry Shelley the Defendant entred upon the ſaid Nicholas Woulfe and did eject him. And upon the whole matter aforeſaid the Jurors pray the advice and judgment of the Court, if the entry of the ſaid Henry the Defendant were lawful or not; And if by the judgment of the Court, the entry of the ſaid Henry were thought unlawful, then the Jury found that the Defendant was guilty, and aſſeſſed damages: And if the entry of the Defendant ſhall be thought by the Court to be lawful, then they found for the Defendant that he was not guilty, &c. [93] [b] [94]

This Caſe was divided into four principal Queſtions: whereof the firſt was,

1. If Tenant in tail ſuffer a common Recovery with a voucher over, and die before execution, if execution may be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail.

2. If Tenant in tail make a Leaſe for years, and after ſuffer a common Recovery, if the reverſion be preſently by judgment of Law in the Recoveree before execution ſued

3. If Tenant in tail having iſſue two Sons, and the eldeſt dieth in the life time of his Father, his Wife young with Child, and then Tenant in tail ſuffereth a common Recovery unto the uſe of himſelf for term of his life, and after his death to the uſe of A. and C. for 24 years, and after to the uſe of the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, and of the heirs males of the body of ſuch heirs males lawfully begotten and preſently after judgment an Habere facias ſeiſinam is awarded, and before the execution, that is to ſay, between five and ſix in the morning of the ſame day, in which the recovery was ſuffered, Tenant in tail dieth, and after his death and before the birth of the Son of the eldeſt Son, the recovery is executed, by force whereof Richard the Uncle entreth, and after the Son of the eldeſt Son is born, if his entry upon the Uncle be lawful or not. [b]

4. If the Uncle in this Caſe may take as a purchaſor, for as much as the eldeſt Son had a Daughter which was heir general and right heir of Edward at the time of the execution of the Recovery. And this Caſe was argued by Anderſon the Queens Serjant, Gawdy and Fenner Serjants, for the Plaintiff, and by Popham Sollicitor general, Cowper and Coke for the Defendants.

And as to the firſt Point, the Plaintiffs Counſel argued, that judgment might be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail, and their principal reaſon was, becauſe the judgment given againſt the Tenant in tail, and the judgment for the Tenant in tail to have in value againſt the vouchee doth bind the right of the eſtate tail, and the iſſue in tail ſhall not avoid the ſame by the Statute of Donis condicionalibus, becauſe that the Law adjudgeth that in reſpect of the intended recompence the iſſue in tail was not prejudiced: As if Tenant in tail grant a Rent for releaſe of a right unto the land, the ſame ſhall bind the iſſue in tail, and ſo not reſtrained by the ſaid Act, as it is agreed in 44 E. 3. 21. Octavian Lumbard's Caſe. And if the recovery ſhall not be a bar to the iſſue, upon which execution is in the life of Tenant in tail, it ſhall be miſchievous and a great impeachment unto common aſſurances. And further it was ſaid, that the right of the eſtate tail was bound by the Judgment and not by the Execution; for if the right of the eſtate tail were not bound by the Judgment, it could not be barred by the Execution after ſued. 1 Point.

As to the ſecond Point, they conceived, that it was not any Queſtion, but that the Recoverors ſhall not have the reverſion preſently by the Judgment, notwithſtanding that the lands were in leaſe for years; for they ſaid that the Judgment was, that the demandant ſhould recover ſeiſin of the land which was but executory, and could not be executed until execution, entry, or claim. As if a Common or a Reverſion, or any other thing which lieth in grant be granted upon Condition, if the Condition be broken, the thing granted is not in the grantor before claim, for it was ſaid, that when a man may enter, or claim, the Law will not adjudge him in poſſeſſion until entry or claim.

To the third Point, which was the great doubt of the Caſe they argued, that Richard the Uncle was in by purchace, and by conſequent the entry of the Defendant upon him was not lawful; and this in effect was their principal reaſon:

[95] Argument, viz. That which originally veſts in the heir, and was not in the anceſtor, veſts in the heir by purchace.

But this uſe originally veſts in Richard Shelley, and never was in Edward Shelley;
And therefore the uſe veſts in Richard Shelley by purchace.

And they ſaid, that it was manifeſt that the uſe never veſted in Edward Shelley. For before the Recovery executed no uſe could be raiſed, for the uſe ought to be raiſed out of the eſtate of the Recoverors, but the recovery was not executed in the life of Edward Shelley, and therefore no uſe could riſe during his life. And Serjant Anderſon ſaid, that it was impoſſible that Richard Shelley ſhould be in by deſcent, becauſe that no right, title, action, uſe, or other thing touching the uſes limited by the ſaid Indentures did deſcend to Richard, but only a thing intended to him, which intention in his life received no perfection: and therefore this Caſe was not like any Caſe where a right, title, action, uſe, or other thing deſcendeth from the anceſtor to the heir, but is like to the Caſe in 5 E. 4. 6. where the Wife conſents to a raviſhor, having iſſue a daughter, the daughter entreth by the Statute of 6 R. 2. after a ſon is born, he ſhall never deveſt the ſame, for that it veſted in the daughter by purchace; ſo is the Caſe agreed in 9 H. 7. 25. If a Leaſe be made to one for life, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. if J. S. die having a daughter, his Wife with child with a ſon, the daughter claims the ſame by purchace, and therefore the ſon born after ſhall never deveſt the ſame; but they relied principally upon the Caſe in 9 H. 7. 25. that if the Condition deſcend to the daughter, and ſhe entreth for the Condition broken, the ſon after born ſhall never enter upon her, and yet there ſhe is in by deſcent, and the title of her entry, that is to ſay, the Condition ſhe hath as heir: and yet becauſe ſhe was the firſt in whom it veſted, the ſon born after ſhall not deveſt the ſame, which is a ſtronger Caſe then our Caſe at the Bar.

And further it was ſaid by the Plaintiffs Counſil, that although the recovery had been executed in the life of Edward Shelley, yet ought the heir male to take by purchace, for they ſaid, that the manner of the limitation of the uſes is to be obſerved in this Caſe, this which is firſt to Edward Shelley for the term of [b] his life, and after his death to the uſe of others for 24 years, and after the 24 years ended then to the uſe of the heirs males of the body of the ſaid Edw. Shelley lawfully begotten, and of the heirs males of the body of the ſaid heirs males lawfully begotten; in which Caſe they ſaid, that if the heirs males of the body of Edw. Shelley ſhould be words of limitation, then the ſubſequent words, viz. and of the heirs males of the body of the ſaid heirs males lawfully begotten ſhould be void: for words of limitation cannot be added and limited to words of limitation, but to words of purchaſe. And they ſaid, that foraſmuch as thoſe words, heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley might be words of purchace, that in this Caſe the Law ſhall conſtrue and take them as words of purchace, for otherwiſe the ſaid ſubſequent words, (and of the heirs males of their bodies) ſhould be void. And ſuch conſtruction is always to be made that all the words (if it may be) in congruity of reaſon and conformity of Law may take effect according to the intent of the parties without rejecting of any, or by any conſtruction to make them void. And therefore Anderſon put this Caſe, If a man make a feoffment in fee, to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after his deceaſe to the uſe of his heirs, in this Caſe the fee ſimple is executed; but in the ſame Caſe, if the limitation be to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after his deceaſe to the uſe of his heirs, and of their heirs females of their bodies, in this Caſe theſe words (his heirs) are words of purchace, and not of limitation, for then the ſubſequent words (and of their heirs females of their bodies) ſhould be void. So they concluded this point, firſt that no uſe could riſe until execution ſued, no execution was ſued in the life of Edward Shelley, and then the ſame firſt veſted in Richard as a purchace before the ſon of the eldeſt ſon was born: And for the latter reaſon, admitting that the recovery had been executed, notwithſtanding the heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley ſhall take by purchace, and ſo quacunque via data, they concluded, that the uſe firſt ſettles in Edward Shelley as a meer purchaſor. And as to the latter point which in effect (admitting as hath been ſaid that the words were words of purchace) was, that a leaſe for life is made to A. the remainder unto the heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley, if in this Caſe Richard may take this eſtate tail by purchace as heir male, notwithſtanding that his elder brother had iſſue a daughter which is yet living, and who was heir general; they ſaid that it was no difference as to that where an eſtate is limited by gift executed, and when by way of remainder, nor when the heir male of [96] the body claimeth by deſcent, nor when by purchaſe, for if an eſtate had been made to Edward Shelley, and to the heirs males of his body, in that Caſe Richard Shelley without doubt ſhould have the land by deſcent, and that by the meaning of the Statute of Donis Condicionalibus to fulfil the will and intent of the donor.

And ſo it is if I give lands to a man and to his heirs females, and the donee hath iſſue male and female, although the female be not heir general, yet ſhe is a ſpecial heir to claim per formam doni. And the ſame was in effect the ſubſtance of the three arguments publiſhed and delivered at large on the Plaintiffs part before the Juſtices of the King's Bench in Hill. and Eaſter Terms, in the 23 year of the reign of of Queen Elizabeth: And on the Defendants part it was argued contrary. As to the firſt point it was argued, that Execution could not be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail; and therefore it hath been agreed, that the Judgment only againſt the Tenant in tail did not bind, but the Judgment to have in recompence, ſequitur a conceſſis, that the iſſue in tail cannot be barred: And for proof that in this Caſe the iſſue in tail could not have any recompence: Firſt it was ſaid, that if Execution could not be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail, then the iſſue could not take any benefit of the recompence. For it is agreed in 17 E. 3. Recovery in value, Fitz. 33. 1 E. 3. 12. That he who voucheth ſhall never have execution againſt the vouchee before execution ſued againſt him; ſo that the Judgment to recover over in value is not material (as this Caſe is) if not that execution may be ſued againſt the iſſue which cannot be in this Caſe. For he who is in of an eſtate in poſſeſſion by title paramount a Recovery ſhall not be bounden by the ſame Recovery; but the iſſue in tail in our Caſe is in of an eſtate in poſſeſſion which he had by title paramount the Recovery, and therefore the iſſue in tail ſhall not be bound by the Recovery. And in proof of the firſt propoſition, it hath been adjudged in 28 H. 8. reported by Serjant Bendloes, which Caſe began 26 H. 8. in the Book at large, where the Caſe was, that an Executor having Judgment to recover a debt due to the Teſtator, and dying inteſtate before Execution, and the Ordinary committing the adminiſtration of the firſt Teſtator to one, that the adminiſtrator ſhould not ſue execution upon that Recovery, becauſe he deriveth his intereſt, and repreſents the perſon of the Teſtator, and ſo before the Recovery. So if there be two Joyntenants, and one maketh a leaſe for years rendring rent, the leſſor dieth, the other ſhall not have the rent, becauſe that he claimeth by the firſt feoffor which is paramount the Leaſe and the Reſervation: So if Tenant for life make a leaſe for years reſerving Rent, and after ſurrender to him in the Reverſion, not being in by force of his ancient Reverſion, he cannot have the rent newly reſerved: And in proof that the iſſue in tail was in by a title paramount the Recovery, he ſaid, That the iſſue in [b] tail ſhall avoid all Leaſes, Charges, and other incumbrances made by his anceſtors, becauſe that he claimeth per formam doni. And if Tenant in fee ſimple make a Leaſe for life, and ſuffer a Recovery, he and his heirs are for ever concluded, but he ſaid, That if Tenant in tail be of a Reverſion expectant upon an eſtate for life, and ſuffer a Recovery, and hath Judgment to recover over in value, yet his iſſue ſhall avoid the Recovery, for he ſhall not be eſtopped, becauſe he claimeth per formam doni: But if execution had been ſued in the life of Tenant in tail, then foraſmuch as the eſtate tail doth not deſcend to the iſſue; and foraſmuch as that then he may ſue execution over, it is good reaſon to bar the eſtate tail; but if the iſſue in tail be in by lawful deſcent in poſſeſſion of the eſtate tail before the Recovery executed, then the Law ſeemeth to be otherwiſe. Octavian Lumbard's Caſe in 44 E. 3. which had been cited on the contrary ſide, was nothing againſt this opinion, for there the iſſue in tail took benefit of the releaſe made to his anceſtor, but in our Caſe, the iſſue in tail being in of an eſtate in tail paramount the Recovery, cannot take benefit of the recompence over in value. And wherefore ſhould not the iſſue in tail in this Caſe be at liberty, to chooſe if he would take the eſtate tail, or otherwiſe to admit of execution to be ſued againſt him, and to ſue execution over in value, as well as in 14 H. 6. 2. in the Caſe of Exchange, in which Caſe although aſſets of greater value deſcend to him then the land in tail, yet he may chooſe to have the one or the other at his election.

And if Tenant in tail be diſſeiſed, and levieth a fine to the diſſeiſor without warranty and dieth, if the iſſue in tail enter and be ſeiſed by force of the tail before all the proclamations be made, although the proclamations be afterwards made, yet the ſame ſhall not bar the iſſue: So if Tenant in tail levieth a fine and diſſeiſeth the conuſee, and dieth before all the proclamations be made, and after the proclamations in the time of the iſſue in tail paſs, yet the iſſue is not bound thereby, by the Statute of 32 H. 8. and yet the words of the Act are, That all fines after proclamations, &c. ſhall bar, &c. But it hath always been holden, if the iſſue in tail be remitted and ſeiſed by force of the tail before the bar be compleat, that is to ſay, before the proclamations be paſſed, the iſſue is not bound; ſo in this Caſe, the iſſue in tail is ſeiſed by force of the tail, and in per formam doni before the bar is compleat, and therefore the execution cannot be ſued againſt him, nor any bar can after the death of his Father be made unto the eſtate tail which is deſcended to him in poſſeſſion. And it is agreed in 7 E. 3. 335. that if a diſſeiſor at the Common Law before the Statute of Non claime had levied a fine or ſuffered Judgment in a Writ of Right, until execution ſued they were not bars, for the year ſhall be accounted after the tranſmutation of the poſ- [97] ſeſſion by execution of the fine or Recovery; and ſo it is ſaid in Stowel's Caſe, Plow. Com. 357. e. and the Books in 28 Aſſ. 32. 7 H. 4. 17. Plow. Com. 55. 12 E. 4. 20. were cited, that execution upon a feined recovery againſt the Father, cannot be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail.

To the ſecond Point they argued, That foraſmuch as the land was in leaſe for years, that the Recovery was executed by judgment of Law preſently after the judgment. And a difference was taken when lands were in the poſſeſſion of the Tenant at the time of the judgment, and when the lands were in leaſe for years. And the reaſon of their difference was, becauſe the Recoverors in the one Caſe might ſue execution, and in the other Caſe may not; and becauſe that the Recoverors cannot ſue execution, for this cauſe the Law ſhall adjudge him in execution preſently; the reaſon thereof is, that otherwiſe the leſſee during the term might commit Waſte, and ſhould be diſpuniſhable by the recoveror, but if the recoveror may enter or ſue execution, then he ſhall prevent the ſame. And therefore if a fine ſur cogniſance de droit tantum be levied of land in poſſeſſion, the cogniſee hath nothing before entry, as it is agreed 48 E. 3. 15. 10 H. 6. 16. and Littleton in his Chapter Attornment 131. But if a fine ſur cogniſance de droit tantum be levied of a reverſion upon an eſtate for life or years, or of a Seignory, or any other thing which lieth in grant, there the reverſion, or thing which lieth in grant paſſeth preſently. And it was ſaid, that a common Recovery is in nature of a common Conveyance, and ſo it appeareth, that a reverſion or thing which lieth in grant is more eaſily transferred from one perſon to another, then an eſtate of freehold in poſſeſſion. A Condition is Executory as well as a Judgment, but if the feoffor cannot enter, the Law will adjudge him in poſſeſſion preſently. And therefore it is holden in 20 H. 7. 4.

20 E. 4. 19. & 22 E. 4. that if the Condition be collateral, and the feoffee make a leaſe back again for years to the feoffor, and then the Condition is broken, the Law ſhall adjudge the feoffor in of a preſent fee ſimple, becauſe that he cannot enter; and yet in that Caſe he may ſay, that foraſmuch as he cannot enter, therefore he ought to make a claim, yet the Law in that Caſe requires no claim to be made; but in the Caſe before it is otherwiſe, where no leaſe for years had been made back again, and the reaſon may be for the miſchief before mentioned.

Alſo Littleton's Caſe, fol. 84. was cited, where Littleton is of opinion, that in the Caſe of a Condition the fee ſimple ſhall be reveſted again in the leſſor, becauſe he cannot enter, and the Law ſhall ad-
[b] judge him in poſſeſſion without entry or claim. And further it was ſaid, that of thoſe things which lie in grant, as in the Caſe before remembred of the fine, they paſs to the conuſee preſently, by the fine levied: So in the Caſe of a common recovery (which now is but a common aſſurance and conveyance) ſuch things which lie in grant are in the recoveror by the Judgment. And therefore there are ſome opinions in the Books in 22 Aſſ. 84. 45 E. 3. 26. & 30 E. 3. 33. that if a man hath judgment to recover a rent, or common, or any thing which lieth in grant, that there the thing ſo recovered is in the recoveror by the judgment, for the Books ſay, that the demandant is in ſeiſin preſently by the judgment. And they cited the Caſe in 27 H. 8. 7. a. which is direct in the point, that the recovery is executed preſently by the judgment; the land being in leaſe for years; ſo they ſaid, firſt, that execution could not be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail: ſecondly, if it were needful that Execution was had in the life of Edward Shelley, that the ſame was executed by the judgment of Law: And if the judgment were executed by operation of Law, then the eſtate tail to his heirs males of his body was in Edward Shelley, and by conſequence the entry of the Defendant was lawful without queſtion.

But for the argument of the third Point, admitting the Law in both the ſaid points to be againſt the Defendant, that is to ſay, that execution might be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail; and that the recovery was not executed in the life of Edward Shelley, but after his death, and before the defendant was born: yet the Defendants Counſel did argue that the Defendants entry was lawful. The firſt reaſon in effect was as followeth: When the Law preſcribeth a means to perfect or ſettle any right, or eſtate, if by the act of God this means in ſome circumſtance (as in our Caſe in time) come impoſſible, yet no party who was to have received benefit, if the means had been with all circumſtances executed, ſhall not receive any prejudice for not executing thereof in ſuch circumſtance which becomes impoſſible by the act of God, if all be performed without lacheſs that the parties might do; for it ſhould be againſt reaſon, that thoſe things which are inevitably by the act of God, which no induſtry can avoid nor policy prevent, ſhall be conſtrued to the prejudice of any in whom there was no lacheſs. And therefore the preſcript Rule of Law is, that a man ſhall not be Tenant by the Curteſie without actual ſeiſin; yet of a Rent, or of an Advowſon, if the Wife die before the rent due, or before the avoidance, he ſhall be [98] Tenant by the Curteſie, as it is agreed in 7 E. 3. 66. & 3 H. 7. 5. b. for it is impoſſible for him by the act of God to have actual poſſeſſion. Alſo if leſſee for the term of another mans life be diſſeiſed of lands, and the diſſeiſor take the profits thereof, now if the diſſeiſee will recover the mean profits, the means which the Law preſcribes for the ſame is, That the Tenant for the other mans life reenter, and then he ſhall recover all the mean profits in an action of Treſpaſs; but if the means become impoſſible by the act of God by the death of the Ceſtuy que vie, ſo as he cannot enter, then he ſhall have an action of Treſpaſs without any reentry, becauſe that the means is become impoſſible by the act of God, viz. the reentry, as it is holden in 38 H. 6. 28. c. Alſo if a leſſee covenanteth to leave a wood in as good plight as the wood was at the time of the Leaſe, and afterwards the trees are overturned by tempeſt, he is diſcharged of his Covenant quia impotentia excuſat legem, as it is holden in 40 E. 3. 6. So in this Caſe when Edward Shelley dieth the morning of the ſame day that Judgment was given, immediately upon the Judgment the Recoverors ſue forth an Habere facias ſeiſinam, ſo that no lacheſs was in any party, but it became impoſſible by the act of God that execution ſhould be ſued in the life of Edward Shelley, and therefore execution being had after his deceaſe, ſhall not prejudice the Son born after, who at that time was in utero matris. The ſecond reaſon was, becauſe that the uſe veſted in Richard Shelley, although not directly by deſcent as to have his age, or take away an entry, &c. yet in the nature and degree of a deſcent by reaſon of the original act begun in the life of the anceſtor; and their reaſon in ſubſtance was to this purpoſe. When the heir taketh any thing which might have veſted in the anceſtor, the heir ſhould be in by deſcent; but in the Caſe here the uſe might have veſted in Edward Shelley, and if the ſame had veſted in Edward, then Richard Shelley had taken it by deſcent, and therefore Richard in this Caſe ought to take this uſe in the nature and courſe of a deſcent. And therefore if a fine had been levied ſur conuſance de droit tantum to Edward Shelley in fee, and after, and before execution Edward had died, and Richard had entred before Henry was born; now although Richard be the firſt who entreth, yet foraſmuch as this fine was levied to his anceſtor and to his heirs, ſo that he claimeth by words
[b] of limitation, and foraſmuch as the firſt and original act was done in the life of the Father, and becauſe it might have veſted in the anceſtor, and if the ſame had veſted in the anceſtor the ſame had dedeſcended, for this cauſe Richard had taken the ſame in the degree of a deſcent, and the entry of the defendant had been lawful upon him. And yet in that Caſe Richard had not been in directly by deſcent, either to be in ward, or to have had age, or to have taken away the entry of one who had right; but otherwiſe it is when the remainder is limited to the right heirs of J. S. &c. for there it beginneth in the Son by name of purchace, and could not have veſted in the Brother as the Book in 9 H. 7. 24. cited by the other ſide is agreed. So in the Caſe of Raviſhment 5 E. 4. 6. which was cited on the other ſide, from thoſe Caſes and all the other which have been put on the contrary ſide, the eſtate veſted originally by purchace, and no beginning was in the life of the anceſtor, nor could have ever veſted in the anceſtor. And 16 E. 3. Age Br. 51. if R. S. had a Seigniory by deſcent, and afterwards the tenency had eſcheated, and after the Son is born, in that Caſe the Son ſhall enter upon him; for although the the tenancy firſt veſted in him, yet becauſe that the original cauſe, viz. the Seignory, was in the Father, therefore the Son ſhall enter upon the Uncle. And Chapman's Caſe in Mr. Plowden's new Reports was cited, for there it appeareth, that a covenant was made with Chapman, &c. and before the leaſe was made Chapman died, and then the leaſe was made to his Executors, ſo as the Term did firſt commence in the Executors, yet for as much as the covenant made to the Teſtator was the cauſe of the making of the eſtate to the Executors, for that cauſe the Term was Aſſets in the Executors hands, as well as if it had been made to the Teſtator himſelf. So in our Caſe, although that the land firſt veſted in Richard, yet the ſame veſts by reaſon of the Recovery had againſt Edward Shelley, and the Indenture made by him, and therefore Richard ſhall be in courſe of deſcent as well as the Executors in the courſe of Executors. Com. 284.

Further, admit that Edward Shelley had exchanged certain land with another, and the other had entred in the lands of Edward Shelley, but Edward Shelley had died before entry, the Law is clear that the heir of Edward Shelley may enter into the lands taken in exchange if he will. And ſo Perkins clearly takes it fol. 57. a. Then admitting that Richard Shelley had entred into the lands taken in exchange, now he is the firſt in whom the lands veſt, but becauſe the ſame might have veſted in Edward Shelley, and becauſe he came to the ſame by words of limitation, the Son of the eldeſt Son after born ſhall enter upon him: And yet no right, title, uſe, nor action deſcends in this Caſe; for at his choice the exchange might have been avoided: And ſo it is, if a man ſeiſed of the Mannor of S. covenant with another that when J. S. ſhall enfeoffe him with the Mannor of D. then he will ſtand ſeiſed of the Mannor of S. to the uſe of the Covenantee and his heirs; the Covenantee dieth his heir within age, J. S. enfeoffeth the Covenantor, in this caſe it was holden in Wood's Caſe 3 Eliz. in the Court of Wards, that the heir ſhall be adjudged in courſe and nature of a deſcent, and yet there was not right, title, uſe, nor action which deſcended, but only a poſſibility of an uſe which could not be releaſed or diſcharged, yet the ſame might, if the Condition had been performed, have veſted in the anceſtor, and then the heir had claimed by deſcent. And therefore in that Caſe the heir was not in by purchaſe, but in courſe of deſcent. And admit that in all the Caſes which have been put, as in the Caſe of Raviſhment, and in the Caſe of Remainder, &c. he who firſt may enter dieth before entry, and the younger Son entreth, and afterwards the Son of the eldeſt Son is born, now it is clear, that the Son of the eldeſt Son ſhall deveſt the land from the Unkle, for the ſame might have veſted in the anceſtor; and to the Caſe which hath been urged by the Plaintiffs Counſel in 9 H. 7. 25. of the Condition: The Sollicitor and Coke ſaid, that it might be allowed for Law if the true ſence thereof be apprehended. And therefore if the Condition be, that the feoffor or his heirs pay the ſum of 20 l. or to do any act before a day certain that they ſhall reenter, in that Caſe if the Father dieth before the day of paiment, and the Daughter to ſave the Inheritance pay the money or ſatisfie the Condition, in thoſe Caſes peradventure the Son ſhall not deveſt the ſame, for if the Daughter had not performed the Condition the land had been utterly loſt. And therefore, in that Caſe a good argument may be made, that the Daughter may detain the land, for qui ſentit onus, ſentire debet & commodum. But if the Condition was to be performed on the part of the feoffee, or broken in the life of the feoffor, then they ſaid that the Law was clearly otherwiſe, for the heir entring for the Condition broken ſhall be in ward, and have his age, and that is no ſuch ſpecial reaſon as in the Caſe before. [59]

It was alſo demanded, out of what fountain this ſhould riſe, and who was the Mother who conceived this uſe? And the Indenture anſwereth, That the Recovery. For the Indentures ſaid, that the Recovery ſhall be to the uſes, &c. Then it was ſaid, If the Recovery be the Mother which conceiveth this uſe, and the fountain out of which the uſe riſeth, for as much as this Recovery was had in the life of Edward Shelley, although that the uſe ſlept, and was as embrio in utero matris until execution ſued: yet the execution being once had, the execution ſhall reſpect the recovery and ſhall raiſe the uſe, which ſlept before, which uſe being once awaked, or raiſed, taketh his life and eſſence from the Recovery which was had in the life of Edward Shelley. And thereupon ſome of the Defendants Counſel did reaſon in this manner, The execution of a thing which is executory reſpecteth always the original act or cauſe executory, and when the execution is done, it hath relation to the thing executory, and all maketh but one Act or Record, although it be performed at ſeveral times: And therefore if A. by deed indented covenanteth with B. that B. ſhall recover againſt him the Mannor of D. within a year next following; and that the recovery and execution thereupon to be had within the ſaid year, ſhall be had unto the uſe of the Recoveror in tail, &c. and after the recovery is had within the year, and the execution is ſued after the year, in this Caſe it is clear, that although that the Covenant is not purſued in time according to the preciſe form thereof, yet the uſe ſhall be guided by the ſaid Indentures; So in the ſame Caſe, if the ſame Recovery betwixt the ſame parties of the ſame land were ſuffered after the year, yet if no intervenient agreement were between the parties, the Recovery ſhall be intended to the uſes of the ſaid Indentures. For variance in time in this Caſe ſhall not ſubvert the original agreement and contract of the parties. And it is holden in 6 E. 3. 44. that if the preſentment of an uſurper to a Church be in time of war, and the Inſtitution and Induction, which are not but as executions of the preſentment be in time of peace, yet the ſame ſhall be avoided, for the Law reſpecteth the original acts, & cauſa & origo eſt materia negotii. If a man who is Non compos mentis give unto himſelf a mortal wound, and before he dieth he becometh of ſanæ mentoriæ, and afterwards dieth of the ſame wound; in this Caſe, although that he dieth of ſanæ memoriæ, yet becauſe the original cauſe of his death, viz. the ſtroke was when he was Non compos mentis, he ſhall not be Felo de ſe, becauſe the death, &c. hath relation to the original act which was the ſtroke or wound; which ſee 22 E. 3. Corone 244. And ſo it is in 33 Aſſ. 7. Corone 210. If a ſervant who hath an intent to kill his Maſter, and before execution of his intent leaveth his Maſters ſervice, and being out of ſervice, executeth his purpoſe, and killeth him who was his Maſter, the ſame is Petit Treaſon, for execu- [b]

tion

tion doth reſpect the Original cauſe, which was the Malice conceived when he was ſervant; and yet if the Law ſhould adjudge and make conſtruction according to the ſeveral times, then it would be plain, it would be no Petit Treaſon. So in our Caſe, the execution of the uſe relates to the Indentures and Recovery.

[100] It was further asked, when after that the Execution was had, ſo that now the uſe, which before ſlept, was raiſed, what thing it is which governeth and directeth this uſe? and it is to be anſwered, The Indentures. And what is their direction? that the ſaid Edward Shelley ſhall have the ſame, and after his death the Heirs Males of his Body, ſo as the Indentures do direct the uſe to the Heirs Males of his body by way of limitation of eſtate, and not by way of purchaſe. And then upon that, this reaſon was collected; the Indentures do direct and govern the manner and quality of the uſe, but the Indentures do direct that the Heirs Males of the body of Edward Shelley ſhall take the ſame by limitation of Eſtate and not by name of purchaſe; therefore Richard ought to have it as Heir by limitation of eſtate and not by name of purchaſe; for when the execution was had, the Indentures preſently guide the uſe to Richard, becauſe he was at the time Heir Male of the body of Edward Shelley, which Richard is not Heir after the birth of the ſon of the eldeſt ſon. Further it was ſaid, admitting all the matter before ſaid will not ſerve for the Defendant (which the Defendants Counſel held ſtrongly it would) yet it is to be conſidered, that in this Caſe, that the eſtate veſts in Richard by way of limitation of uſe, and not by any conveyance by the Common Law in poſſeſſion: And therefore admit our Caſe had been before the making of the Statute of 27 H. 8. and that the recoverors had ſued execution after the death of Edward, and before the ſon of the eldeſt ſon was born, and then the ſon of the eldeſt ſon had been born; In this Caſe it was asked, Which of them ſhould have the Subpena? And the Defendants Counſel conceived that the ſon of the eldeſt ſon, although that the uſe did firſt attache in the Uncle, ſhall have the Subpena For if the intent of Edward Shelley may appear to the Court, that the ſon of the eldeſt ſon ſhall have this uſe, then that is the uſe by which the rule is to be guided and directed. For at the Common Law the intention of the parties was the direction of the uſes, for they were only determinable, and to be adjudged by the Chancellor who is Judge of Equity, and that in Chancery, which is a Court of Conſcience: And as Bracton ſaid 18 Nihil tam conveniens eſt naturali æquitati quam voluntatem domini volentis rem ſuam in alium trasferre ratam haberi. And therefore in proof, that uſes are directed by the intention and meaning of the parties, divers Caſes were cited, 31 H. 6. Subpena [b] 23. Statham Conſcience 1. A man being Ceſtuy que uſe, and having one ſole daughter declared his intent and meaning, that after his deceaſe his daughter ſhould have his Land. And therefore queſtion was made in the Chancery, whether he might revoke this limitation of the uſe made to his daughter; and in arguing of this Caſe, Forteſcue held opinion, That if Ceſtuy que uſe hath iſſue a daughter, and being ſick declareth his intent to his Feoffee, that his daughter ſhall have his Land after his deſceaſe; and after he recovereth his health, and hath iſſue a ſon, he ſaid it is good Conſcience that the Son ſhall have the Subpena, for he is his Heir. Note the reaſon of Forteſcue, becauſe he is his Heir. And there Forteſcue ſaid, that Conſcientia, dicitur a con, & ſcio, quaſi ſimul ſcire cum Deo, that is to ſay, the will of God as near as reaſon will. Alſo in divers Caſes of our Books we find, that the intention of the parties is the direction of uſes, by a conſcionable and favourable conſtruction. And therefore it is holden in 7 H. 6. 4. if a man be ſeiſed of Land on the part of his Mother, and maketh a feoffment in fee reſerving rent to him and Heirs, in this Caſe by the rule of the Common Law as Littleton ſaid, the Rent ſhall go to the Heir on the part of the Father; but if a man be ſeiſed of Lands on the part of the Mother, and maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of him and his Heirs, the book is directly agreed in 5 E. 4. 7. that this uſe ſhall not go to the Heir at the Common Law, but for as much as the Land and Living moveth from the part of the Mother, therefore in equity the uſe which is nothing but a Truſt and Confidence ſhould go alſo to the Heirs on the part of the Mother. As Littleton ſaith, that a man by a feoffment or grant ſhall not have a fee ſimple without theſe words (Heirs.) And yet the Law is plain that if a man before the Statute of 27 H. 8. had bargained and ſold his Land for Money without theſe wors (Heirs) the bargainee hath a fee ſimple. And the reaſon is, becauſe by the Common Law nothing paſſeth from the bargainor but a uſe, which is guided by the intent of the parties, which was to convey the Land wholly to the bargainee, and for as much as the Law intends that the bargainee doth pay the very value of the Land, therefore in equity and according to the meaning of the parties the bargainee had the fee ſimple without theſe words (Heirs) as it is holden in 27 H. 8. 5. 4 E. 6. Br. eſtates 78. 6 E. 6. and in the time of H. 8. Br. Conſcience 25. ſo in our Caſe, although that the uſe firſt veſt in the Uncle, admitting the Caſe to be before the Statute of 27 H. 8. yet ſeeing that the intent of Edward Shelley was to advance the ſon of his eldeſt ſon, and becauſe in equity the general heir is not to be favoured, therefore the ſon after born ſhall have the Subpœna.

Moreover the rule in Law is, that if an eſtate be limited to two, whereof the one is capable, and the other not capable, he who is capable ſhall take the whole as the Caſes are agreed in 51 E. 3. 29. 18 E. 3. 59. If a man give Lands to one & primogenito filio, if he hath no ſon the Father taketh the whole; [101] And ſo it is 1 Aſſ. 11. & temps. E. 1. taile 24. if a man give Lands to a man, and to ſuch a woman as ſhall be his wife, the man taketh the whole; but if a man make a feoffment in fee, to the uſe of himſelf and his wife that ſhall be, and afterwards he taketh a wife, his wife ſhall take joyntly with him, as it was holden in the Lord Pawlet's Caſe 17 Eliz. Dier. 340. notwithſtanding all at the firſt veſts in the Husband. Alſo the rule of Law is, that a remainder cannot ſtand without a particular eſtate, and yet the Book is agreed in 37 H. 6. 36. that if a man make a feoffment in fee unto the uſe of one for life, and after unto the uſe of another in fee, although that the particular Tenant refuſeth, yet the remainder is good. And ſo it is ſaid in the Book in the Caſe of a deviſe. As if a man deviſeth Lands for life, the remainder in fee, and the Tenant for life refuſeth, yet the remainder is good: and ſo note that the limitation in uſes and eſtates given by deviſes are vouched together. So the Judges there took the the conſtruction of deviſes, and of eſtates conveyed in uſe to be all one, viz. according to the meaning of the parties: And admitting the Caſe here, that Land had been of the Cuſtome of Gavelkind, and upon that it was asked, If Ed. Shelley had had ſundry other ſons, ſhould the eldeſt Son only have the whole uſe? ſurely he only ſhould not have it, but all equally, and yet if he had taken the ſame by purchace, then ought the eldeſt ſon only have it. Now the intent of Ed. Shel. is to be proved by divers apparent circumſtances within the Record; 1. if Ed. Shelley had intended to have given it to the Uncle, he never would have given it by ſo general a name as (Heir Male) for if the recovery had been executed in the life of Ed. Shelley as was fully intended, then it had been in manner agreed, that Rich. Shelley could not have had the land, for the heirs males are words of limitation; or if the ſon of the eldeſt ſon had been born in the life of Ed. Shelley, which was impoſſible for Ed. Shel. to have known the contrary, for the Def. was born within 1 Month after his death, then out of all queſtion the uncle could never have had the ſame, and therefore except you will ground upon two abſurdities, the one, that Ed. Shelley knew that he ſhould die before the Recovery executed, the other, that he knew he ſhould die before the birth of the ſon of the eldeſt ſon, which none could know but God, it ought to be granted, that the intent of Ed. Shelley was to advance his eldeſt ſon, and by no means to diſ-inherit him. Alſo at the time of his death Rich. Shelley was 18 years old: And therefore if he intended to advance Rich. he would [b] not have given his lands to his friends M. Carill and others for twenty four years; but without doubt he intended that the ſon of his eldeſt ſon ſhould have the ſame, and the ſame moved him to deviſe ſuch a term which might be ended when the Def. ſhould be of fit age to receive and govern his living. The reaſon wherefore the ſaid Ed. Shelley ſuffered the ſaid Recovery was (as it ſeemeth) becauſe Mary daughter of his eldeſt ſon named in the ſpecial verdict had inherited; and if the wife of the eldeſt ſon had been delivered of a daughter, then had the Land gone out of his name, and therefore for the continuance of the Land in his name and family he ſuffered the ſaid Recovery, and therefore the ſame being by way of limitation of uſe, the ſon of the eldeſt ſon ought to have the ſame, and eſpecially in as much as no rule in Law in our Caſe is impugned, but it ſtands well as hath been proved before with the rule of the Common Law. And one of the Def. Counſel ſaid, that at the Common Law an uſe being but a truſt and confidence, and as is ſaid in 14 H. 8. reſting only in privity betwixt thoſe who had notice thereof; and for as much as the conſciences of the feoffees and others who were truſted became very large, and they would not perform the confidence repoſed in them, but made feoffments upon divers conſiderations unto ſtrangers not having notice of the uſes, and by divers fraudulent devices did deceive and defraud thoſe to whoſe uſes they were ſeiſed; therefore firſt was the Statute of 1 R. 3. made by which authority was given to Ceſtuy que uſe to enter and make a feoffment; But after that Stat. the feoffees oftentimes did prevent the feoffment of Ceſtuy que uſe by ſubtil and cunning practices yet defrauding the Ceſtuy que uſe, and not diſcharging the truſt repoſed in them; and therefore to take away all the power and means of deceiving by the feoffees, the Stat. of 27 H. 8. was made. And therefore it is holden for the better opinion at this day, that for the raiſing of future uſes after the Statute the regreſs of the Feoffees is not requiſite, and that they have not power to bar theſe future uſes, for the Statute hath transferred all the eſtate out of them. But he ſaid, that in our Caſe if the ſuing of the execution after the death of Ed. Shelley, and before the birth of the Son of the eldeſt Son, ſhould make the Uncle to have the Land, then it ſhould reſt in the diſpoſition and pleaſure of the Recoverors, whom they would make to inherit, for then it would follow, that if they enter and execute the recovery before the Birth of the Son of the eldeſt Son, then the Uncle ſhould have the ſame, and if they would not enter until after the birth of the Son of the eldeſt Son, then without all queſtion the Son of the eldeſt Son ſhould have the Land, ſo that by this conſtruction, the matter ſhould lie in the Recoverors who were but inſtruments, and not perſons in any manner truſted to ſettle the inheritance in whom they pleaſed, which was never any part of the meaning of Ed. Shelley, and which is very abſurd in reaſon. And it ſhall be miſchievous that the inheritance of any man ſhould be at the appointment and diſcretion of two ſtrangers, who were named only as inſtruments, and never in any manner truſted, and it ſhould be a greater miſchief than any was at the Common Law. Alſo as this Caſe is, if the Sheriff had executed the [102] recovery upon the day upon which the Writ of execution was ſued forth, then it had been evident that the ſon of the eldeſt ſon ſhould have had the Land, for then had execution in Judgment of Law been in the life of Ed. Shelley. But by the conſtruction which hath been made, it alſo ſhould be in the power of the Sheriff to ſettle the inheritance in whom he would, for if he had executed the recovery the ſame day, as might have been done, or after the birth of the Son of the eldeſt Son, then the Son of the eldeſt Son ſhould have had the Land; but uno abſurdo dato infinita ſequuntur. And therefore for the avoidance of theſe miſchiefs and abſurdities, the Law will adjudge Rich. in the Land in courſe and nature of a deſcent, and then all the miſchiefs and abſurdities are avoided, and no ground or rule in Law is thwarted.

And note, the Statnte of 27 H. 8. is, that Ceſtuy que uſe ſhall have the poſſeſſion to all intents, conſtructions, and purpoſes in Law, and of and in ſuch like eſtates as they had or ought to have in the uſe; and that he ſhall have the poſſeſſion after ſuch quality, manner, form, and condition, as they uſed before, or had the uſe, truſt, or confidence, in nature and courſe of deſcent, and that the ſon of the eldeſt ſon ſhall deveſt the uſe, and ſhall have the Subpœna; and becauſe the Statute doth execute the poſſeſſion after ſuch quality, manner, form, and condition, as the uſe, truſt, or confidence was in them, for theſe cauſes the poſſeſſion executed by the Statute ought to be ſubject to the entry of the ſon of the eldeſt ſon. And therefore if Ceſtuy que uſe had iſſue a daughter, and died before the Statute of 27 H. 8. his wife being great with child with a ſon, and before the birth of the ſon the Statute had been made, ſo that the poſſeſſion had firſt veſted by force of the Statute in the daughter, yet the ſame after born might enter upon her, for the daughter had the poſſeſſion in the ſame quality and condition as ſhe had the uſe, but ſhe had the uſe by deſcent, and ſubject to be deveſted by the birth of the ſon, and therefore he ought to have the poſſeſſion by the Statute in the ſame quality and degree, and that is in the ſame nature and courſe of deſcent. But in the Caſe of deſcent, the ſon after born ſhall enter upon the daughter, and therefore the ſon in this Caſe ſhall enter upon the daughter; and the like conſtruction upon the like Caſe hath been made before this time. And therefore Mountagu in Wimbiſhes Caſe in Plowdens Comm. held opinion that if a Woman hath a Joynture made unto her in tail, and hath iſſue a daughter being great with [a] child with a ſon, and before the birth of the ſon ſhe doth diſcontinue with warranty; now the Statute of 11 H. 7. ſaith, that ſuch perſon to whom the title after the death of ſuch Wife doth appertain ſhall enter into the lands, and ſhall poſſeſs and enjoy the ſame according to their title to the ſame, as if no ſuch diſcontinuance had been made; and therefore he held clearly, that although the Daughter after ſuch diſcontinuance firſt entreth, the ſon born after ſhall enter upon her by the words of the Statute of 11 H. 7. for the words are, that ſhe ought to enjoy the ſame according to her title; but her title is in tail, and and therefore after the birth of the ſon he being next heir in tail, the title of the tail ſhall be devolved from her to the ſon.

Child

So in our Caſe the Statute of 27 H. 8. ſaith, that Ceſtuy que uſe ſhall have the poſſeſſion in the ſame quality, manner, form and condition as he had the uſe. And therefore if an uſe were limited before the Statute to J. S. and J. G. and to their heirs, and afterwards they entermarry, and after the Statute is made, by which the poſſeſſion is executed to them and their heirs during the coverture, yet they ſhall not have a divided eſtate, but the like moities as they had in the uſe. So if Ceſtuy que uſe be of certain lands holden by priority and of other land by poſteriority, and after the Statute is made, by which execution is made of the poſſeſſion of both at the ſame time, yet he ſhall have the poſſeſſion of both in the ſame quality as he had the uſe, and all that by the expreſs words of the Statute. And it is to be noted, that the Statute of 27 H. 8. doth not ſpeak only of uſes, but alſo of truſts and confidence, ſo that although no uſe riſe in the time of the life of Edward Shelley, yet there was a truſt and confidence expreſſed in his life. And therefore when the uſe is once raiſed, it behoveth to be veſted according to the truſt and confidence which Edward Shelley intended and declared by the Indentures.

Laſtly, the defendants Counſel argued, That the uncle could not have the land as a purchaſor, admitting the remainder had been limited to the right heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley, in as much as the eldeſt ſon of Edward Shelley had iſſue Mary his daughter, which is yet alive, as appeareth by the Record, and who is heir to Edward Shelley. It hath been ſaid, that although that Mary at the time of the death of Edward Shelley was heir general, yet it was ſaid, that the ſaid Richard at that time was heir male of the body of Edward Shelley. And therefore he might as ſpecial heir male of the body of Edward Shelley take the remainder, although Mary is heir general; and therefore it hath been ſaid that if lands had been given to Edward Shelley, and to the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten, that in that Caſe, after his death, Richard Shelley as heir male per formam doni ſhall inherit, although the daughter of the eldeſt ſon were general heir to Edward Shelley. To that they anſwered, and took a difference when the heir male of the body claimeth by deſcent, and when he claimeth by purchace; for in deſcents the Law [103] is as hath been alledged, but otherwiſe it is in Caſes of purchaſe. This difference was proved by the Caſe in 37 H. 8. Br. done 42. If a man make a gift in tail of lands in Gavelkind to a man and his heirs males of his body lawfully begotten, and hath iſſue four ſons, in this Caſe all the ſons ſhall inherit: But if a Leaſe for life be made of lands in Gavelkind, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. and J. S. dieth, having iſſue four ſons, in this Caſe the eldeſt ſon only ſhall have the remainder, for there can be but one right heir in the Caſe of purchace.

And ſo is Ellerker's opinion expreſly in 9 H. 6. 24. If a man make a Leaſe for life, the remainder to the right heirs females of the body of J. S. and J. S. hath iſſue a ſon and a daughter and dieth, in this Caſe the daughter ſhall not take the remainder, for ſhe is not heir female to take by purchace. And yet it is plain, that if a gift in tail had been made to J. S. himſelf, and to the heirs females of his body, and J. S. dieth, having iſſue a ſon and a daughter, the daughter ſhould have had the land by deſcent. Alſo in 37 H. 8. Br. Done 61. it appeareth, that the Lord Huſſey made a feoffment in fee unto the uſe of Anne his Wife for life, and after to the uſe of the heirs of his body, and after the Lord Huſſey was attainted of Treaſon, and although Brook hath not expreſſed the Judgment, yet it was ſaid, it was adjudged, that the right heirs of his body could not as purchaſor take the remainder, becauſe he was not heir of his body to take the ſame by purchace, by reaſon of the attainder of his Father. And yet before the Statute of 26 H. 8. if Tenant in tail had committed high Treaſon the land had deſcended. And in Brook's Report aforeſaid it appeareth, that Hare the Maſter of the Rolls took the difference between a gift in poſſeſſion to a man and to his heirs females of his body, and a Leaſe for life, the remainder to the right heirs females of the body; for in the Caſe of a remainder (as he ſaid) ſhe ought to be heir indeed, or elſe ſhe can never claim the ſame by purchace. So it appeareth by theſe authorities that in Caſe of purchace the heir male of the body ought to be heir indeed. And for that in our Caſe, the Uncle was not heir male, for a man cannot have two heirs to claim by purchace, therefore as purchaſor the Uncle cannot claim it. But it hath been ſaid, that the Statute of Donis condicionalibus aideth and helpeth the heir male of the body to take, for that the will of the donor appeareth, that the heir male of the body ſhould have the land. The Statute ſaith, Quod voluntas donatoris ſecundum formam in Charta doni ſui manifeſte expreſſa, de cætero obſervetur. In anſwer of which, one of the Defendants Counſel declared the reaſons [b] of the other Caſes and authorities which had been cited, and of the difference which was taken before; and thefore he ſaid that the Statute of Donis condicionalibus did not help this Caſe. Mr. Littleton in his Chapter of Eſtate tail ſaith, That every gift in tail before the Statute of Donis, &c. before the making of that Statute was a fee ſimple at the Common Law; and therefore put the Caſe before the Statute of Donis, &c. and examine if the ſame had been a fee ſimple conditional before the ſaid Statute, for otherwiſe it cannot be an eſtate tail by the Statute. For he ſaid that the Statute of Donis Condicionalibus was a Nurſe, and no Mother of eſtates of Inheritances tail, and that it preſerved the eſtates of Inheritances in tail, but did not beget or procreate any eſtates tail, which were not fee ſimple conditionals before. And therefore he took the Law to be clear, that if a man give land to a man & ſemini ſuo, or pueris ſuis de corpore, in theſe Caſes the donor hath no eſtate in tail: but only an eſtate for term of life, for if ſuch gifts had been made before the Statute, they had been no fee ſimples conditional; and therefore by Maſter Littleton's rule no eſtate tail by the Statute of Donis Condicionalibus. For the Statute creates no new inheritances, the

which

which were no inheritances at the Common Law. And therefore the Law was taken in the Caſe of Martin Haſtings of Norfolk for the Mannor of Elſinge, that where an eſtate was made to one and his anceſtors, and to the iſſue male of his body, that in that Caſe he had but an eſtate for life. And ſo it was holden by Sir Roger Manwood then one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas clearly in the Argument of Clatch's Caſe anno 16 Eliz. and therefore he examined the Caſe here before the ſaid Statute; and he took it without queſtion, that if a Leaſe had been made for life, the remainder to the heirs males of the body of J. S. that in this Caſe, if J. S. hath two ſons, and the eldeſt ſon having iſſue a daughter dieth in the life of J. S. and then J. S. dieth, that in this Caſe the younger ſon of J. S. cannot take this fee ſimple conditional by the Common Law, for he is not heir male of the body to take this fee ſimple by purchace, for firſt he ought to be heir, and ſecondly he ought to be heir male. And in this Caſe if J. S. had been attainted of Treaſon or Felony, the heir male of his body could never have taken the remainder, for he was not heir, which might be the reaſon of the Lord Huſſey's Caſe before cited. And it is holden 12 E. 3. Variance 77. that where a man maketh a gift to the husband and wife, and to the [104] heirs of the body of the husband, and if the husband and wife die without iſſue of their two bodies, that then it ſhall remain over; in this Caſe although the will of the donor appeareth, that the wife ſhall be alſo donee in ſpecial tail, yet for as much as by the order of the Common Law ſhe could not have the eſtate of fee ſimple conditional, for that cauſe ſhe could not have the eſtate tail by the Statute. But in the ſaid Caſe where lands are given to a man and the heirs females of his body, there is an eſtate of inheritance veſted in the donee, which eſtate of inheritance the Statute of Donis Condicionalibus directs to the heir female by deſcent, although there be an iſſue male.

And to that which hath been objected, that for as much as the limitation was to the heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley, and of the heirs males of the body of the heirs males lawfully begotten, that the heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley ſhould be purchaſors, for otherwiſe the ſubſequent words ſhould be void: The Defendants Counſel anſwered to the ſame, That it is a Rule in Law, that when the anceſtor by any gift or conveyance taketh an eſtate of freehold, and in the ſame gift or conveyance an eſtate is limited either mediately or immediately, to his heirs in fee or in tail, that always in ſuch Caſes (the heirs) are words of limitation of the eſtate, and not words of purchace. And that appeareth in 40 E. 3. 9. in the Provoſt of Beverlie's Caſe, in 38 E. 3. 31. d. 24 E. 3. 36. 27 E. 3. 87. and in divers other Books. So in as much as in this Caſe Ed. Shelley took an eſtate of freehold, and after an eſtate is limited to his heirs males of his body, it behoveth that the heirs males of his body of neceſſity ſhall take by deſcent and cannot be purchaſors: otherwiſe is it when an eſtate for years is limited to the anceſtor, the remainder to another for life, the remainder to the right heirs of the leſſee for years, there his heirs are purchaſors. Or if the remainder be limited to the heir in the ſingular number upon a Leaſe for life, there the heir taketh an eſtate for term of life by purchace. And if it ſhould be admitted that in regard of the ſaid ſubſequent words, the right heirs males ſhould have by purchace to them and the heirs males of his body, then ſhould violence be offered as well to the words as to the meaning of the party, for if the heir male of the body of Edward Shelley ſhould take as purchaſor, then ſhould all the other iſſue males of the body of Edward Shelley be excluded to take any thing by the limitation, and it ſhould be againſt the expreſs limitation of the party. For the ſaid limitation is to the uſe of the heirs males of the body of Edward Shelley, and of the heirs males of their bodies begotten, and for default of ſuch iſſue, to divers other perſons in remainder; ſo if Richard Shelley being the heir male of the body of Edward Shelley at the time of his death ſhould take by purchace, then the heirs males of the body of Richard Shelley only ſhould be inheritable, and no other of the ſons of Edward Shelley nor their heirs males, and by conſequence if Ric. Shelley ſhould die without iſſue male, the land ſhould remain over to ſtrangers, and all the other ſons of Ed. Shelley which he then had or might have, and their iſſues ſhould be utterly diſ-inherited, becauſe the words were in the plural number, heirs males of the body of Ed. Shelley, the former conſtruction ſhall be againſt the very letter of the Indentures, for by this means the plural number ſhould be reduced to the ſingular number, that is to ſay, unto one heir male of the body of Edw. Shelley only: and for as much as the firſt words, viz. (heirs males of the body of Edw. Shelley include the ſubſequent words, viz. the heirs males of their bodies) for every heir male begotten of the body of the heir male of Ed. Shelley is in conſtruction of Law an heir male of the body of Ed. Shelley himſelf, for this cauſe the ſubſequent words are words declaratory, and do not reſtrain the former words. As in the Caſe of Littleton, if a man make a feoffment in fee, ita quod the feoffee ſhall do ſuch an act, in this Caſe Littleton ſaid it is commonly uſed in ſuch Caſes to have alſo theſe words (and if the act be not done that it ſhall be lawful for the the feoffor to reenter) the which he ſaid was more then needed, for the firſt words are ſufficient in Law and include them, yet he ſaid they are well put in, to declare and expreſs the Law to lay people.

And laſtly in this Caſe, if Ric. Shelley ſhall not be in courſe and nature of a deſcent, then he could not take at all, for when an eſtate is made to a man, and after in the ſame deed to limit the quality of the eſtate, another limitation is made, to his heirs, or to the heirs of his body, in all thoſe Caſes his heirs or the heirs of his body ſhall never take as purchaſors; but in this Caſe theſe words, heirs males of the body of Edw. Shelley were words of limitation, and therefore the heir male of the body cannot take as purchaſor. And in proof of the firſt propoſition it was ſaid, that the ſame is the reaſon of the Book in 40 Aſſ. 19. and of Mr. Littleton's Caſe 128. That if a man grant a reverſion or a Seigniory by deed to J. S. and [105] his heirs, if the grantee dieth before attorment, the attorment to the heir is void, for if the attornment ſhould be good, then ſhould the heir be in as a purchaſor, where by the grant and meaning of the parties theſe words, his heirs, were words of limitation to limit the eſtate of the grantee himſelf; and ſo it was holden in Nichol's Caſe in Plowden's Comment. 483. that if a man leaſe lands to a man for life, and if the leſſor die without heir of his body, that then the leſſee ſhall have the land to him and to his heirs; in this Caſe if leſſee for life dieth, and then the leſſor dieth without heir of his body, the heir of the leſſee ſhall not have the land, as it was holden clearly for the cauſe above ſaid.

And ſo the Law is clear, as it is commonly agreed in our Books, if two men exchange lands in fee ſimple, or fee tail, if both the parties die before the exchange be executed of each part, the exchange is void, for if the heirs ſhould enter, they ſhould be in as purchaſors by force of the words, which were words of limitation of the eſtate, and not of purchace. And upon the ſame reaſon is Bretts and Rigdens Caſe adjudged in Plowden's Comment. f. 342. a ſtronger Caſe then this Caſe is. For a man deviſed lands to another man and to his heirs, and the deviſee died in the life of the deviſor, and then the deviſor died, and it was adjudged, that the heir ſhould not take by the deviſe, for in that Caſe the heirs are not named as words of purchace, but only to expreſs and limit the eſtate which the deviſee ſhould have, for without theſe words, heirs, the deviſee could not have the fee ſimple, and the heirs are named only to convey the land in fee ſimple, and not to make any other to be purchaſor then the firſt deviſee. So in our Caſe, the heirs males of the body of Ed. Shelley are named only to give Ed. Shelley an eſtate tail, and not to make any other purchaſor then Ed. Shelley only, and with out thoſe words he could not have an eſtate tail; and therefore the uncle in our Caſe cannot claim the lands as a meer purchaſor, but if he taketh it in any ſort, he ſhall take the ſame in nature and courſe of a deſcent, and therefore quacunque via data, the uncle cannot have the land; and if he take the ſame in nature and courſe of a deſcent (for as a purchaſor he cannot take) then the eldeſt ſons ſon ſhall enter upon him, and ſo quacunque via data the ſon of the eldeſt ſon ought to have the land. And therefore in concluſion; Firſt, no execution could be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail, becauſe that no execution was ſued in the life of Ed. Shelley. Secondly, admitting that execution might have been ſued againſt the iſſue in tail, and that execution were requiſite to be had in the life of Ed. Shelley, in as much as the lands were in leaſe for years, that the Reverſion was preſently veſted in the recoverors by the Judgment: Thirdly, admitting that execution might be ſued againſt the iſſue in [b] tail, and that the Recovery was not executed till after the death of Ed. Shelley; yet firſt, for as much as by the act of God it was impoſſible that execution ſhould be ſued in the life of Edw. Shelley: Secondly, that the Indentures guide the uſe, and direct it to the heirs males of the body of Ed. Shelley by words of limitation: Thirdly, that the uſe and eſtate doth not commence originally in the uncle as meer purchaſor, but firſt veſteth in the uncle by force of the Indentures made by Ed. Shelley, and the recovery had againſt him, and might have veſted in Ed. Shelley, and if it had been veſted in Ed. Shelley, then without doubt Ric. Shelley had taken by deſcent; fourthly, that the eſtate is conveyed by way of limitation of uſe, the which is always directed by the intent of the parties; fifthly, that it ſhould be abſurd and miſchievous to adjudge the whole inheritance to be in the diſpoſition of the Recoverors, or of the Sheriff who never were truſted; and laſtly, that Richard the uncle ought either claim in nature or courſe of a deſcent; and then no queſtion but that the entry of the Defendant was lawful, or otherwiſe meerly by purchace, the which by the rules of Law, and for the reaſons aforeſaid he cannot; and therefore they concluded that the entry of Henry Shelley the Defendant was lawful, and that judgment ought to be given againſt the Plaintiff, that he take nothing by his Bill.

After the ſaid Caſe had been openly and at large argued at three ſeveral days by the Counſel of each ſide in the King's Bench, the Queen hearing thereof (ſuch was the rareneſs and difficulty of the Caſe being of importance that it was generally known) of her gracious diſpoſition, to prevent that long, tedious, and chargeable ſuit between parties ſo near in blood, which ſhould be the undoing of both, being Gentlemen of a good and ancient family, directed her gracious Letters to Sir Tho. Bromley Knight, Lord Chancellor of England who was of great and profound Science and Judgment in the Law, requiring him by them to aſſemble all the Juſtices of England before him, and upon conference between themſelves touching the ſaid Queſtions, to give their Reſolutions and Judgments thereof; and thereupon the Lord Chancellor in Eaſter Term in the 35 year of her reign called before him at his houſe called York-houſe, Sir Chriſt. Wray Knight, Lord chief Juſtice of England, and all his Companions Juſtices of the Queen's Bench, Sir James Dier Knight, Lord chief Juſtice of the Court of Common Pleas, and all his Companions Juſtices of the ſame Court; and Sir Roger Mainwood Knight, Lord chief Baron of the Exchequer, and the Barons of the Exchequer, before whom the Queſtions aforeſaid were moved and ſhortly argued by Serjant Fenner on the Plaintiffs part, and by one on the Defendants part. At which time the Lord Chancellor was of opinion for the Defendant, and openly declared his opinion before all the Juſtices, That upon the third Queſtion [106] the Law was for the Defendant, and for that cauſe the entry of the Defendant was lawful upon the uncle, but the ſaid Queſtions were not reſolved at that time, for the ſaid Juſtices did deſire time to conſider of the Queſtions. And 8 or 9 days after in the ſame Term, all the ſaid Juſtices and Barons met together in Serjants Inn in Fleetſtreet, for the Reſolution of the ſaid Caſe, and there was the Caſe ſhortly argued again by them; after which arguments the Juſtices at that time did conſer amongſt themſelves, and took further time to conſider of the ſaid Queſtions in the next Vacation until the beginning of Trinity Term then next following; and accordingly in the beginning of Trinity Term after great ſtudy and conſideration of the ſaid Record of the ſpecial Verdict, all the ſaid Juſtices and Barons met again in Serjants Inn in Fleetſtreet, at which time upon conference amongſt themſelves all the Juſtices of England, the Lord chief Baron, and the Barons of the Exchequer, except one of the puiſne Juſtices of the Court of Common Pleas, agreed that the entry of the Defendant was lawful upon the ſaid Richard the uncle; and four or five days after their laſt meeting, one of the Defendants Counſel came to the Bar in the Queen's Bench, and moved the Juſtices to know their Reſolutions in the ſaid Caſe, for their Reſolution was not before known to the Defendant nor to his Counſel. And Sir Chriſtopher Wray Knight, Lord chief Juſtice anſwered, that they were reſolved, and demanded of the Plaintiffs Counſel being then at the Bar, if they could ſay any more on the Plaintiffs part, who anſwered, That they had ſaid as much as they could: And alſo demanded of the Defendant's Counſel if they had any new matter to ſay for the Defendant, who ſaid, No. And then the ſaid chief Juſtice gave judgment, that the Plaintiff ſhould take nothing by his Bill: And becauſe the Counſel of both ſides who were preſent, were deſirous to know upon what points the Reſolution did depend, the ſaid chief Juſtice openly declared, That as to the firſt point, the better and greater part of all the Juſtices and Barons was, that execution might be ſued againſt the iſſue in tail, becauſe that the right of the eſtate tail was bound by the Judgment againſt Tenant in tail, and the Judgment over to have in value, and that in favour of common Recoveries which are common aſſurances of the land. [b]

As to the ſecond point, they were all agreed, that the Reverſion was not in the Recoverors preſently by the Judgment: But he ſaid, that all the Juſtices of England and Barons of the Exchequer, except one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, were agreed as to the third point. That the uncle was in courſe and nature of a deſcent, although that he ſhall not have his age, nor be in ward, &c. Firſt, becauſe that the original act, viz. the recovery out of which all the uſes and eſtates had their eſſence, was had in the life of Edward Shelley, to which the execution after had a retroſpect: Secondly, becauſe that the uſe and poſſeſſion might have veſted in Edward Shelley if execution had been ſued in his life: Thirdly, the Recoverors by their entry, nor the Sheriff by doing of execution, cannot make inherit whom they pleaſed. Fourthly, becauſe that the uncle claimed the uſe by force of the Recovery, and of the Indentures by words of limitation, and not of purchace. Theſe were as the chief Juſtice ſaid the principal reaſons of their judgment. And it was reſolved by them all, that the Recovery was good notwithſtanding the death of Edward Shelley in the morning between the hours of five and ſix the ſame day. And ſo this Caſe was reſolved by Sir Thomas Bromley Knight, Lord Chancellor of England, Sir Chriſtopher Wray Knight, Lord chief Juſtice of England, Sir James Dier Knight, Lord chief Juſtice of the Court of Common Pleas, Sir Roger Manwood Knight, Lord chief Baron of the Exchequer, Sir Thomas Gawdy Knight, one of the Juſtices of her Highneſs Bench, and by all the Juſtices of the Queens Bench, and by all the Juſtices ſaving one of the Common Pleas, and by all the Barons of the Exchequer, that the right of the Defendant was good, and his entry lawful, and accordingly judgment was given.

Hill. Term. ann. 28 Eliz. between Grendon and Albanie in the King's Bench.

Albanie's Caſe.

IN Treſpaſs brought by John Grendon Plaintiff againſt Thomas Albanie Defendant for a Treſpaſs done in twenty acres of land in W. in the County of Middleſex. The Defendant as to five acres [110] [b] pleaded, that Francis Bunny 1 Maii 20 Eliz. by deed indented did enfeoff Miles Hitchcock unto the uſe of the ſaid Francis for life, and after unto the uſe of one David Bunny in tail, and after to the uſe of one Walter Bunny in tail, and after to the uſe of one Stephen Bunny in fee. And afterwards, viz. 1 Maii 21 Eliz. the ſaid Francis of the ſaid five acres in which &c. did enfeoff one Richard Tompſon in fee upon whom the ſaid David entred for the forfeiture. And afterwards, viz. 1 Maii 22 Eliz. deviſed the ſaid five acres unto Adam Blunt for twenty one years, who enfeoffed the ſaid Thomas Albanie the now Defendant, and juſtified the Treſpaſs, and gave colour to the Plaintiff. And as to the ſaid fifteen acres reſidue, the Defendant pleaded, that the ſaid David ſo ſeiſed as aforeſaid in tail, 2 Maii 22 Eliz. by deed indented and enrolled in the Chancery according to the Statute did bargain and ſell the ſaid fifteen acres to the ſaid Defendant in fee, and juſtified the Treſpaſs, and gave colour to the Plaintiff. The Plaintiff replied and ſaid, that in the ſaid deed of feoffment of the ſaid Francis Bunny, it was provided, that if it ſhould happen one Peter Penruddock to die without iſſue male of his body, that it might be lawful for the ſaid Francis at all times at his pleaſure during his life by his deed indented to be ſealed and delivered in the preſence of four honeſt and credible witneſſes at the leaſt, to alter, change, determine, diminiſh, or amplifie any uſe, or uſes, limitations, intents, or purpoſes limited or appointed in or by the ſaid deed of feoffment, or the uſe of any parcel of the premiſſes. And afterwards, 1 Maii 23 Elizabeth, the ſaid Peter Lumbard died without iſſue male, and after, that is to ſay, 20 Marcii, 24 Eliz. the ſaid Francis by Indenture between him and [111] the ſaid David Bunny, and ſealed and delivered in the preſence of four honeſt and credible witneſſes (naming their names as ought to be) did alter the uſes in the ſaid deed contained; and further covenanted and agreed with the ſaid David, that for ever from thence after the ſaid Miles Hitchcock and his heirs, &c. ſhould ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid twenty acres to the uſe of the Plaintiff in fee, as by the ſaid Indenture more fully appeareth, by force whereof he was ſeiſed until the Defendant did the Treſpaſs prove. The Defendant rejoyned and confeſſed, that in the ſaid deed of feoffment there was ſuch a Proviſo as the Plaintiff in his Replication hath alledged. But he ſaid, that the ſaid Francis Bunny in the life time of the ſaid Peter Penruddock, ſcil. 1 Aprilis, 23 Elizab. by his deed did renounce, relinquiſh and ſurrender unto the ſaid Miles, David, Nicholas, Walter, and Stephen, all ſuch liberty, power, and authority of revocation, that he had after the death of the ſaid Peter without iſſue as is aforeſaid. And further the ſaid Francis by the ſame deed granted unto them and their heirs, that for ever from thenceforth as well the ſaid Condition, Proviſo, Covenant, and Agreement, as the ſaid power, liberty, and authority ſhould ceaſe, and to all intents ſhould be void, &c. Upon which rejoynder the Plaintiff did demur in Law. And Altham and others of Counſel with the Plaintiff did argue, That by the ſaid feoffment, the liberty and power aforeſaid was not extinguiſhed or loſt, for the feoffment is ſufficient to exclude the party of all rights and titles to the land, as well preſent as future; but an authority or power which is collateral unto the right and title of the land was not nor could be given or extinct by the feoffment, nor by that, could he diſable himſelf to make an eſtate according to his authority and power, when the ſame cometh in eſſe. As in 15 H. 7. 1. where Ceſtuy que uſe deviſeth, that his feoffees ſhall ſell his land and dieth, and afterwards his feoffees make a feoffment over, yet the feoffees may ſell againſt their own feoffment, becauſe the power to ſell was meer collateral to the right of the land.

And ſo if Executors have power to ſell lands to J. S. and they enter and diſſeiſe the heir and enfeoff a ſtranger, yet they may ſell to J. S. for the reaſon before. And it was reſembled to the Caſe of Tithes in 42 E. 3. 13. a. where it is holden, that a Prior Parſon in perſonce ſhall have Tithes againſt his own feoffment, becauſe he doth not claim them in reſpect of the ownerſhip of the land, or any right or title
[b] therein, but as Tithes in reſpect that he is Parſon by collateral title. And 12 Aſſ. 41. pendant a Præcipe, the Tenant maketh a feoffment, and after erroneous judgment is given againſt him, yet he ſhall have a writ of Error againſt his own feoffment, for the Error is collateral to the right of the land. And as to the Releaſe they ſaid, that that which ſhould be releaſed is but a poſſibility, which cannot be releaſed. And a diverſity was taken between a Condition precedent, and a Condition ſubſequent; for a Condition ſubſequent before the breach thereof may be releaſed, for there the eſtate paſſeth and the Condition is annexed to that which may be releaſed. But in the caſe of a Condition precedent, there is but a poſſibility; as if I grant to you, that if you do ſuch an act, that you ſhall have annuity of 20 l. per ann. during your life, and before the performance of the Condition you releaſe the annuity to me, this releaſe is void, becauſe that the Releaſe cannot extinct a poſſibility. The Caſe of Littleton Chapter Releaſe 105. where the ſon releaſeth in the life of his Father, the releaſe is void. And 40 E. 3. a future duty as a Relief, &c. is not releaſed by this word demand, 18 E. 3. 26. a. Avowry 99.

On the other part it was argued by one of the Inner Temple; and to the firſt Point he ſaid, That the ſaid feoffment had utterly extinguiſhed the ſaid power and authority, ſo as the feoffor had diſabled himſelf to execute the ſame when it came in eſſe. And therefore the Caſe by way of admittance is no other in effect, but that A. enfeoffeth B. to the uſe of A. for life, and after to the uſe of B. in tail, and after to the uſe of C. in fee, with Proviſo and liberty to revoke the uſes and to limit new uſes, if A. ſurvive B. and afterwards A. maketh a feoffment, and after B. dieth; whether A. may limit new uſes againſt his own feoffment is the Queſtion; and I think that he cannot. And firſt he ſaid, that a Livery is of ſuch force that the ſame giveth and excludeth the feoffor not only of all his preſent rights, but of all future rights and titles. Alſo as the Books are, in the Caſe of Tenant by the Curteſie in 9 H. 7. 1. and in the Caſe of Intruder, and Recovery in a Writ of Deſcent in 9 H. 7. 24. b. and in the Caſe where the ſon diſſeiſeth the father and makes a feoffment, in 39 H. 6. 43. a. And in all actions which are in manner collateral to the land, as 34 H. 6. 44. a. The Caſe of Attaint, 38 E. 3. 16. b. The Caſe of Deſcent, in theſe Caſes theſe actions are extinct by the feoffment of the land, and yet they are collateral to the right of the land, by which no land is demanded, but are only to reform the erroneous proceeding, the falſe oath, and falſe return of the Sheriff; but becauſe that by a mean the poſſeſſion and inheritance of the land, ſhall be alſo removed and deveſted by them, for this cauſe by feoffment of the land, theſe Actions are gone.

[112] So in the Caſe at Bar, although that the power to revoke the former uſes and eſtates, and to limit a new uſe is not properly any intereſt or right in the land, yet it is a mean by which the poſſeſſion and right of the land ſhall be altered and deveſted out of a third perſon. Alſo it is clear, that a future uſe ſhall be given excluſive in the Livery, as 27 H. 8. 29. b. and in Delamor's Caſe Plow. Comm. and then if future right, future action, which is collateral to the right of the land, and future uſe ſhall be given and extinguiſhed by the Livery of the land; So it was ſaid, ſhall it be in the Caſe at the Bar; for let us examine the Caſe by parcels, and put that in the Caſe above the Proviſo had been only, That if A. ſurvive B. that then he might revoke the former uſes, without more it were clear, that after the ſaid feoffment he could not revoke, for then he ſhould have the land againſt his own feoffment, which ſhould be againſt all reaſon, and againſt all the Books aforeſaid.

Then in the Caſe at Bar the Proviſo goeth further, ſcil. That he may alter, change, &c. Put caſe then, that he had power to revoke the ancient uſes, and power to limit new uſes to a ſtranger, how ſhould the ſtranger have this new uſe? Truly by force of the firſt feoffment made by the ſaid A. for out of that all the preſent and future uſes alſo grow. And the ſtranger ſhall have this uſe in manner by the ſaid A. againſt his own late feoffment and livery, which for the cauſes aforeſaid cannot be. And it was ſaid that the Book in 15 H. 7. 11. b. which hath been cited on the other ſide, is not to be reſembled to this Caſe for two cauſes; one, becauſe that there the feoffees having power to ſell, as is aforeſaid, the former feoffment over to the firſt uſes, for ſo is the Book, and then notwithſtanding their feoffment they may ſell as well as the Teſtator may deviſe, and that was the uſe. The ſecond reaſon is, becauſe that when the feoffees ſell the uſe, the vendee is in by the deviſe of Ceſtuy que uſe; as in the Caſe of Executors who have power to ſell, their vendee ſhall be in by the Teſtator and not by them; but in the Caſe at Bar, the new Ceſtuy que uſe, as hath been ſaid before, ſhall be in in a manner by the feoffor, for the feoffor in caſe of an eſtate tail limited in uſe, ſhall be ſuppoſed donor. And as to the Caſe in 12 Aſſ. 41. of Error, he ſaid, That the feoffment cannot bar him of the Writ of Error, becauſe that notwithſtanding his feoffment he remains Tenant as to the demandant, and ſhall plead all pleas which the Tenant may plead, and notwithſtanding the ſame ſhall be received, &c. and Judgment given againſt him as Tenant, by which upon ſuch Judgment given againſt him after his feoffment he ſhall have a Writ of Error; but if after the Judgment given he make a feoffment, he ſhall never have a Writ of Error, nor Attaint; and therefore the reaſon is [b] not in the Caſe of 12 Aſſ. as hath been urged, that the feoffment doth not extinct it, becauſe it is collateral to the right of the land, for then by the ſame reaſon his feoffment after Judgment given ſhould not extinct it; wherefore it ſeemed to him, that the ſaid feoffment had extinguiſhed the ſaid future power.

And

And of such opinion upon conference had with the Lord Anderson and other Justices was Wray chief Justice of England, and all the Court of King's Bench, that is to say, that by the said feoffment, his power as well to revoke, as to limit new uses was utterly gone and extinguished. And to the second Point, he conceived, that the said future power might be released, for it may be resembled to a Condition subsequent, for although that the performance or breach thereof cannot be done without an act precedent; as if A. enfeoff B. and his heirs upon condition, that if B. survive C. if then A. or his heirs pay unto B. his heirs or assignees 40 s. that then he and his heirs shall reenter; in this Case, the same is a Condition subsequent, and although the same cannot be performed but upon a contingency, yet is the Inheritance in him, and the same shall descend to his heir, and therefore may be released, and his heir by his release may be barred. And therefore if a man make a feoffment in fee with warranty, in this Case before that he can vouch, he ought to be impleaded, so as the voucher dependeth upon an act uncertain, that is to say, that he shall be impleaded in a real action by a stranger, yet by the Release of all demands, Littleton in his Chapter of Warranty, fol. 171. saith, That the Warranty is extinct, for it is an Inheritance in him and may descend to the heir, and by consequence may be released.

Also if a man covenant to do a collateral thing, in this Case before the breach thereof, a release of all Actions, Suits, and Quarrels, is nothing worth, for before the breach there is not any duty, nor cause of Action, but the breach ought to go before as it was adjudged, Tr. 4 Eliz. Rot. 1027. in Communi Banco. But in the same Case a release of all Covenants shall bar the same, as it is said in 35 H. 8. 56, 57. Dier. For by his death the Law transfers it to his Executors, and by consequence he may release it. And 16 E. 3. Fitz. Barre 245. A woman hath title of Dower of land, whereof one is Tenant for life, the reversion to another in fee, and the woman releaseth to him in the reversion, it is a good bar in a Writ of Dower against Tenant for life, and yet at the same time she had not present cause of Action against him, but in futuro after the death of Tenant for life. So 21 H. 7. 41. release of annuity to the Patron in time of vacation is good, yet no Action lieth against him, nor against any other till a successor be made; and yet a release shall extinguish it. And put that in the Case at Bar, the power of revocation upon the said contingent had been reserved to the feoffor and his heirs, without doubt, the same was an Inheritance in him, and should descend to his heir, and by consequence his release shall extinct it; But as to this Point the Court gave not any resolution: But it was agreed by the whole Court, that if the power of revocation had been present, as usual provisions of revocation are, that it might be extinguished by release, made by him who had the power, unto any who had estate of freehold in the land in possession, reversion, or remainder, and by it the estates which before were defeasable by the Proviso, are by such release made good. [113]

And he moved another Point, that if it were admitted, that the said future power could not be released, yet as well the power as the Proviso and Covenant might by the same words of defeasance be defeated, for both are executory, scil. the power it self which was created by the said Covenant and Proviso which, &c. and as the Proviso and Covenant it self commence by deed, so by deed they may be adnulled and defeated. And it was said, that in all Cases, when any thing executory is created by a deed, that the same thing by consent of all persons who were parties to the creation thereof, might be by their deed defeated and made void; and therefore it was said, that Warranties, Recognisances, Rent charges, Annuities, Covenants, Leases for years, Uses at the Common Law, and such like, may by a defeasance made with the mutual consent of all those who were parties to the creation of them by deed, be adnulled, discharged, and made void; for it was said, it should be strange and unreasonable, that a thing which is created by the act of the parties, should not by their act or mutual consent be dissolved again. And of the same opinion was Wray Chief Justice, and the whole Court, scil. That by the said defeasance as well the said Covenant which created the said power, as the power it self created thereby was utterly defeated and adnulled; And according to the Resolution Judgment for the causes aforesaid was given.

The Case between Dillon and Freine, commonly called, The Case of Perpetuities; Or, Chudleigh's Case.

[120] WIlliam Dillon Esquire, brought an Action of Trespass against John Freine in the King's Bench for breaking of his Close called Sedon in the Parish of Tavestock in the County of Devon: The Defendant pleaded, Not guilty, and the Jury found a special Verdict to this effect; Sir Richard Chudleigh Knight was seised of the Mannor of Hescot, whereof the place where, &c. was parcel in his demesn as of fee, and had issue Christopher Chudleigh his eldest son, Thomas his second son, Oliver his third son, and Nicholas his fourth son. Sir Richard Chudleigh 26 Aprilis annis 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. by his deed indented, Quadripartite (whereof one part sealed with his seal was shewed forth to the Jurours in evidence) of the said Mannor did enfeoff Sir John Seintlinger Knight, Giles Strangwaie's Knight, and divers others, to have and to hold to them and their heirs, unto the use of the said Sir Richard and his heirs, on the body of Mary then wife of Thomas Carew lawfully begotten, and for default of such issue unto the use of the said Sir Richard, and to his heirs on the body of Elizabeth then wife of Richard Bampfield lawfully begotten, and for default of such issue, unto the use and performance of his will for ten years immediately

ately after his death; and after the ſaid term ended, unto the uſe of the ſaid feoffees, and their heirs during the life of the ſaid Chriſtopher Chudleigh the ſon, and after his death, to the uſe of the firſt iſſue male of the body of the ſaid Chriſtopher lawfully to be begotten, and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of the ſecond iſſue male of the body of the ſaid Chriſtopher the ſon lawfully to be begotten, and to the heirs of [b] the body of ſuch ſecond iſſue lawfully begotten, and ſo with like remainders unto the tenth iſſue male, and for default of heirs males of the body of the ſaid Chriſtopher the ſon, unto the uſe of Thomas ſon of the ſaid Sir Richard, and to the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, and for default of ſuch iſſue, unto the uſe of the ſaid Oliver, and to the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten; and for default of ſuch iſſue, unto the uſe of the ſaid Nicholas, and to the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, and for default of ſuch iſſue, unto the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Sir Chriſtopher for ever. And afterwards, that is to ſay, 17 Nov. 5 & 6 Phil. & Mar. the ſaid Sir Richard Chudleigh died without iſſue on the body of the ſaid Mary and Elizabeth or any of them; and after his death, that is to ſay, 14 Auguſti, 1 Eliz. the ſaid feoffees (the ſaid Oliver Chudleigh then being alive) by their deed ſealed with their ſeal bearing date the ſame day and year, did enfeoff the ſaid Chriſtopher Chudleigh in fee unto the uſe of him and his heirs, which feoffment was made without any conſideration. And the ſaid Chriſtopher then had notice of the ſaid uſes in the ſaid Quadripartite Indenture ſpecified and declared. And afterwards, that is to ſay, 20 Sept. 3 Eliz. the ſaid Chriſtopher had iſſue Strachley Chudleigh his eldeſt ſon. And after, that is to ſay, 3 Marcii 5 Eliz. the ſaid Chriſtopher had iſſue John Chudleigh his ſecond ſon; and afterwards 1 Julii 6 Eliz. by deed indented and enrolled the 4 day of October next enſuing before the Clerk of the Peace, and one Juſtice of Peace within the ſaid County, according to the Statute of 27 H. 8. did bargain and ſell the ſaid Mannor to Sir John Chicheſter Knight and his heirs, to the uſe of him and his heirs: But it was found, that between the date of the ſaid Indenture, and before the enrolment, that is to ſay, 6 Julii anno ſexto ſupradicto, the ſaid Chriſtopher by his deed, ſealed with his Seal, bearing date the ſame day and year, of the ſaid Mannor did enfeoff Sir John Chicheſter and his heirs, unto the uſe of him and his heirs with warranty againſt all: And afterwards the ſaid Strachley, anno 12 Eliz. died without iſſue. And the Jury further found, that Sir John Chicheſter, 6 Sept. 7 Eliz. of the ſaid Mannor did enfeoff Philip Chicheſter in fee. And that the ſaid Philip at the Court of the ſaid Mannor holden 8 Octob. in the fifteenth year of the ſaid Queen, did grant the place where, &c. being cuſtomary land by Copy unto the ſaid John Freine for life according to the cuſtome of the Mannor, by force whereof he entred, upon whom the ſaid John Chudleigh 11 Marcii 28 Eliz. did enter into the ſaid Mannor, and the ſame day and year did thereof infeoff the ſaid William Dillon now Plaintiff in fee, who entred in the place where, &c. upon the poſſeſſion of the Defendant, upon whom he reentred; and whether upon the whole matter the ſaid John Freine be guilty or not, the Jurours pray the diſcretion of the Juſtices, &c.

And this Caſe as to the principal point was ſuch:

[121] Sir Richard Chudleigh having iſſue Chriſtopher, Thomas, Oliver, and Nicholas after the Statute of 27 H. 8. did enfeoff divers of the Mannor of Heſcot in fee unto the uſe of his feoffees and their heirs, for the life of Chriſtopher his eldeſt ſon, and after to the uſe of the firſt ſon which Chriſtopher his ſon ſhould beget in tail, and ſo to the tenth ſon; and after to the uſe of the ſaid Thomas his ſecond ſon in tail; and after to the uſe of Oliver his third ſon in tail; and after to the uſe of Nicholas his fourth ſon in tail; and after to the uſe of the right heirs of Sir Richard: Sir Richard died, and before any iſſue born of the body of Chriſtopher his ſon, the feoffees enfeoff Chriſtopher having notice of the former uſes, and afterwards Chriſtopher hath iſſue Strachley and John. If the uſe which before was in contingency ſhall veſt in the ſaid ſons of Chriſtopher, and ſhall be executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. was the Queſtion, and great doubt of the Caſe. And in this Caſe the point is no other, but whether theſe contingent uſes before their eſſence by the ſaid feoffment of the feoffees be deſtroyed and ſubverted, ſo that they ſhall never riſe out of the eſtate of the feoffees after the birth of the iſſues. And this Caſe was argued many times at the Bar on the part of the Plaintiff, and on the Defendants part in the King's Bench. And becauſe the Caſe was difficult and of great conſequence and importance, it was thought neceſſary that all Juſtices of England openly in the Exchequer Chamber upon ſolemn Argument, ſhould ſhew their opinions in this Caſe. And afterwards, Ter. Hill. 36 Eliz. the Caſe was argued in the Exchequer Chamber before all the Juſtices of England, by Hugh Wiat on the Plaintiffs part, and by Cook the Queens Sollicitor General on the Defendants part. And after in Eaſter Term following, by Robert Atkinſon for the Plaintiff, and by Francis Bacon for the Defendant, but I did not hear their Arguments. And yet it is neceſſary to report what matters were moved at the Bar, to the intent the ſtate of the Queſtion ſhould be better known, and the Arguments and Reaſons of the Judges at the Bench better apprehended.

For the Argument of the principal point four things are to be conſidered.

Firſt, What an uſe is, and the ſeveral natures of uſes, and of what eſteem and account all manner of uſes are in judgment of Law.

Secondly, If contingent uſes (as well as uſes in eſſe) might have been diſcontinued or taken away at the Common Law before the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap. 10.

Thirdly, If our contingent uſe had been continued or deſtroyed, if the ſaid Statute of 27 H. 8. had not been made, in as much as the feoffee had notice of the uſes.

Fourthly, If the ſaid Statute of 27 H. 8. preſerve any contingent uſe, which had been deſtroyed by the Common Law, and in that to conſider the miſchiefs which were before the ſaid Act, and the remedy which the makers of the Act have provided by the purview thereof. What an uſe is, and the ſeveral na-
[b] tures of uſes, and of what eſtimation all uſes are in Law. An uſe is a truſt and confidence which is not iſſuing out of land, but as a thing collateral annexed in privity to the eſtate, and to the perſon, touching the land, ſcil. That Ceſtuy que uſe ſhall take the profits, and that the Terre-tenant ſhall make eſtates according to his direction. So that, he who hath an uſe hath not jus neque in re, neque ad rem, but only a confidence and truſt, for which he hath not any remedy by the Common Law, but his remedy was only only by Subpena in Chancery: If the feoffees would not perform the order of the Chancery, then their perſons for the breach of the truſt were to be impriſoned until they did perform it; and therefore the Caſe of an uſe, is not like unto Commons, Rents, Conditions, &c. which are hereditaments in judgment of Law, and which cannot be taken away or diſcontinued by the alienation of the Terre-tenant, or by Diſſeiſors, or by Eſcheats, &c. as uſes may, as ſhall after be ſaid. There were two Inventors of Uſes, Fear, and Fraud; Fear in times of Troubles and civil Wars to ſave their Inheritances without forfeiture; and Fraud to defeat due Debts, lawful Actions, Wards, Eſcheats, Mortmains, &c.

There are two manners of Uſes; 1. in eſſe, in Poſſeſſion, Reverſion, Remainder: 2. in Contingency, which by poſſibility may fall into Poſſeſſion, Reverſion, or Remainder. To every of theſe uſes there are two inſeparable incidents, Confidence in the perſon, and Privity in eſtate, as appeareth in 14 H. 8. 6. a. And this confidence in the perſon, is either expreſſed by the party, or implied by the Law; and ſo is privity in eſtate expreſſed or implied, as ſhall be after ſhewed: Theſe uſes and confidences to ſome reſpect were reputed as chattels, and therefore were deviſable; and to other reſpects they were eſteemed as hereditaments, of which there ſhould be a poſſeſſio fratris, &c. as 5 E. 4. 7. b. is: But yet in Law, neither chattel, nor hereditament, for they were not Aſſets to Executors, nor Aſſets to the Heir. Whether a contingent uſe might be diſcontinued before the Statute; and it ſeems clearly, that before the Statute uſes in contingency might have been taken away and deſtroyed as well as uſes in eſſe. And therefore if there be feoffee at the Common Law unto the uſe of me for life, and after to the uſe of him who ſhall be my firſt ſon in tail, &c. and ſuch feoffee before the birth of my ſon had been diſſeiſed or made a feoffment upon good conſideration to him who had notice of the uſe; the contingent uſe in the one caſe was ſuſpended, and in the other caſe utterly deſtroyed. For if uſes in eſſe which were of greater value and eſtimation then uſes in contingency (which were but poſſibilities of an uſe) might be diſcontinued or deſtroyed as above as the Books are 24 H. 8. feoffm. al. uſes. 14 H. 8. 6, 7, 24. & 28 H. 8. 9, 10. a multo fortiori uſes in contingency and future might be diſcontinued and taken away. Alſo a contingent uſe was but a truſt and confidence; and therefore, if confidence in the perſon or privity in eſtate fail, the uſe was alſo [122] ſuſpended or deſtroyed; and therefore without queſtion feoffee upon good conſideration without notice, diſſeiſor, or Lord by Eſcheat, Lord of a villein, Corporation, an alien born, a perſon attainted ſhall not ſtand ſeiſed to a contingent uſe no more then to an uſe in eſſe before the Statute of 27 H. 8. And therefore it is agreed in 33 H. 6. 14. b. & 31 E. 3. Colluſion 29. if the father make a feoffment unto his eldeſt ſon upon colluſion, now by the Statute of Marlebridge the Lord had a poſſibility to have the ward if the father dieth his heir within age, there this poſſibility was deſtroyed, becauſe that a ſtranger who had no notice hath gotten the land bona fide: So if A. grant a Reverſion, or Seignory unto B. now he hath a poſſibility to have the Reverſion; but if A. grant the Reverſion or Seignory to another, and he get attornment, then the firſt poſſibility of B. is deſtroyed, as Littleton ſaith fol. 126. a. but more ſhall be ſaid to this point after, in anſwer to certain objections of the other part. And although that in our Caſe the feoffee had not notice, yet becauſe he was in of another eſtate, ſo that the privity of eſtate failed, for this cauſe he ſhall not ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe, for the uſe is a confidence annexed in privity to the eſtate of the land. And therefore there is a difference between things annexed in privity to the eſtate of the land, and things annexed to the poſſeſſion of the land without reſpect of any privity: And therefore diſſeiſor, Abator, or Intrudor ſhall not be ſeiſed unto an uſe, although that he hath notice, for the uſe was not annexed to the poſſeſſion of the land which each of them hath, but unto the privity of the eſtate which is denied to them all, for they are not in privity of eſtate to which the uſe was annexed, but in the Poſſ. Alſo for as much as Ceſtuy que uſe hath no remedy but in Chancery, and the Chancellor had not any power to determine the right of Inheritances for that cauſe they cannot ſtand ſeiſed to an uſe. The Lord by Eſcheat, or Lord of a Villain, or who entreth for Mortmain, or who recovereth in a Ceſſavit, &c. ſhall not ſtand ſeiſed to an uſe, becauſe he is in by title paramount to the uſe, ſcil. by force of a Condition in Law tacite annexed to the land at the time of the creation of the Seignory, and the Tenancy came in lieu of his Seignory which he hath to his own uſe; and the Writ of Eſcheat ſaith, and which ad ipſum reverti debet tanquam eſcaeta ſua. And alſo they are not in in the Per, that is to ſay, in privity of the eſtate to which the uſe was annexed, but in the Poſt. The Lord by eſcheat, &c. loſeth his Seignory; ſo Tenant by Curteſie, and Tenant in Dower ſhall not be ſeiſed unto an uſe, for the Law gives to them their eſtates in conſideration of marriage, and they are not in in privity of eſtate, for which ſee 14 H. 8. 6, 7. & 24 H. 8. Br. Feoffments al uſes 40.

So if there be privity of eſtate, yet if confidence expreſſed or implied fail in the perſon, the uſe is ſuſpended or deſtroyed. If the feoffee unto an uſe upon good conſideration enfeoffeth another who hath no notice, here is privity in eſtate, but here is no confidence in the perſon expreſſed or implied, and therefore the uſe is gone; but if a feoffment be made without conſideration to one who hath notice, there is privity and notice of the truſt and there is alſo privity in eſtate, and therefore there the uſe remaineth, but not as a thing annexed to the land, but unto the privity of the eſtate, 5 E. 4. 7. b. If the husband make a feoffment in fee of the land of his wife upon conſideration, and without expreſſing any uſe, the wife ſhall not have the Subpena; for the feoffment doth diſaffirm the wives right, and the feoffee is not in in privity of the eſtate of the wife. So in the Caſe at Bar, Tenant for life, the remainder in fee to the uſe of another; Tenant for life maketh a feoffment in fee to one who hath notice, he cannot ſtand ſeiſed to the firſt uſe, becauſe that the uſe is annexed to one eſtate, and the feoffee is in of another eſtate. It is agreed in 45 E. 3. 18. that if donee in tail with warranty make a Leaſe for life, and afterwards in a Præcipe brought againſt the Leſſee for life, he is received upon the default of the Leſſee, he ſhall not vouch by force of the ſaid Warranty, for the Warranty is annexed to one, and he is in of another eſtate, and always the Warranty as to voucher requireth privity of eſtate, to which it was annexed. And the ſame Law of an uſe. So it is holden in 10 Eliz. Plowd. Comm. 351. that Ceſtuy que uſe for life or in tail, remainder in tail, with divers remainders over in uſe, maketh a feoffment unto one who hath notice, he ſhall [b] not ſtand ſeiſed to the firſt uſes, cauſa qua ſupra. But of things annexed unto land it is otherwiſe, as of advowſons, and the like appendants or appurtenants. And therefore if Tenant in tail, or the husband ſeiſed in the right of his wife make a feoffment of a Mannor, or part thereof with the advowſon, the advowſon at leaſt after preſentment ſhall paſs as appendant unto the Mannor, or to part of the Mannor, as the Books are in 22 Aſſ. 34 E. 1. Quare imped. 179. 43 E. 3. 25, 26. & 17 E. 3. 5. a. 19. b. and not to the eſtate of the land, for the eſtate of the land is diſcontinued by the feoffment: So Diſſeiſor, Abettor, Entruder, or the Lord by Eſcheat, &c. ſhall have them as things annexed to the land. So note a diverſity between an uſe or warranty, and the like things annexed unto the eſtate of the land in privity, and Commons, Advowſons, and other hereditaments annexed to the poſſeſſion of the land: Then for as much as the Statute of 27 H. 8. had not been made, the contingent uſe in the Caſe at Bar had been taken away. Now is to ſee if the Statute of 27 *H.*8. hath provided for the preſervation and maintenance againſt contingent uſes againſt the rule of Law before; for if this Statute doth not ſupport the contingent uſe in the Caſe at Bar, without doubt the ſame is taken away. And therefore two things are neceſſary to be conſidered for the better diſcuſſion of this point.

not

[123] Firſt, The miſchiefs which were before this Act, the which the makers of the Act did intend to remedy.

Secondly, What manner of remedy they have provided for the ſame, and upon that will riſe the true interpretation and meaning of the Act. For the better apprehenſion of the miſchiefs which were before this Act, certain former Statutes made againſt the abuſes of uſes in particular Caſes (for the treaty ſhall be only of uſes) are to be conſidered. And therefore will appear fully the abuſes of ſuch uſes, and that fraud was the principal cauſe of the invention of them in ſubverſion of Law and Juſtice. By the Statute of 1 *R.*2 *cap.*9. it is provided, That becauſe Diſſeiſors make feoffments unto great men and others, for maintenance, and to other men unknown, to the intent to delay and defraud the diſſeiſees, for ſuch Caſe the diſſeiſee ſhall have his Action againſt the pernor of the profits (which was Ceſtuy que uſe) notwithanding ſuch feoffment by fraud and colluſion within the year: The Statute of 4 H. 4. c. 7. doth inlarge the Statute of 1 R. 2. in the time, and in the Actions alſo. The Statute of 11 H. 6. c. 4. explains it: The Statute of 1 H. 7. c. 1. giveth a Formedon againſt Ceſtuy que uſe who is called pernor of the profits; and by theſe Acts it appeareth, that fraud and deceit to defeat him who had good title and right unto the land, of his lawful remedy was the inventor of theſe feoffments to uſes. It was provided by the Statute De Religioſis 7 E. 1. in enlargement of the Statute of Magna Charta cap. 36. which had provided quod non liceat alicui dare terram alicui domui religioſæ, that they do not acquire to them lands or tenements arte vel ingenio &c. but to defraud both theſe Laws it was invented, that a feoffment ſhould be made to the uſe of religious Men, or Comminalties, and therefore was the Statute of 15 R. 2. cap. 5. made to remedy this fraud. By feoffment to uſes, Lords were defrauded of their Wards, until the Statute of 4 H. 7. c. 17. The Statute of 19 *H.*7. c. 15. recites, that Men were defrauded of their executions, the Lords of their Reliefs and Heriots, and the Lords of Villains of the purchaſes of their Villeins by feoffments to their uſes, and that Statute doth remedy thoſe miſchiefs.

The Statute of 1 R. 3. c. 1. which is more general then the other Statutes, intends to remedy four great miſchiefs by reaſon of ſecret feoffments to uſes: 1. Unſurety to purchaſors and other the King's Subjects: 2. Trouble: 3. Coſts: 4. Greivous vexations: So that it was not only unſurety, but unſurety with trouble; and not unſurety with trouble only, but unſurety with trouble and coſts; and not unſurety with trouble and coſts, but with great vexation. Alſo examples thereof are expreſſed in [b] the preamble of the Act, no purchaſor of lands in perfect ſurety, no wife of Dower, no leſſee of his leaſe, no ſervant of any annuity granted to him for his ſervice, &c. by reaſon of theſe privy and unknown uſes; this Statute intended to provide for theſe miſchiefs, in eſtabliſhing all feoffments, grants, &c. made by Ceſtuy que uſe, &c. But ſo miſchievous and ſiniſter is the invention and continuance of uſes, that they alſo overreached the policy and providence of the makers of this Act alſo: For, for example, the purchaſor was not in better caſe then he was before, for if the feoffor limit to himſelf but an eſtate in life or in tail, or to his wife, or to his ſon, &c. Or if the feoffees made ſecret Leaſes or eſtates, the purchaſor could not have ſure eſtate, by any eſtate that Ceſtuy que uſe could make, ſo that unſurety, trouble, coſts, and great vexation remained in the Realm by theſe covenous and fraudulent uſes, notwithſtanding the ſaid Statute of 1 R. 3. For the remedy of which and many other miſchiefs, was the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap. 10. made, for the general remedy of all miſchiefs, and abuſes of uſes, which Act was divided into two general branches; into the preamble which expreſſeth the miſchiefs, and into the body of the Act which provideth the remedy.

The Preamble containeth theſe miſchiefs:

1. By Common Law, lands and tenements cannot paſs, but by ſolemn livery and matter of Record, or by ſufficient writing, if the thing lieth in grant. Now by divers and ſundry imaginations, ſubtile inventions, and practiſes by fraudulent feoffments, fines, recoveries, and other aſſurances, craftily made to ſecret uſes and purpoſes (ſo that the feoffment, fine, and recovery are called fraudulent, becauſe they were permitted and made to fraudulent uſes) the hereditaments of this Realm were conveyed from one to another upon ſolemn Livery, &c.

2. Laſt Wills were made by bare words, ſometimes by ſigns in great extremities.

3. By fraudulent uſes, heirs have been unjuſtly diſ-inherited.

4. Lords have loſt wards, marriages, reliefs, and in effect all the fruit and benefit of their Seigniories notwithſtanding the ſaid Statutes of 4 Hen. 7. & 19 Hen. 7. which intended to remedy part of this miſchief.

5. No

5. No purchaſor could be aſſured of any lands, notwithſtanding the ſaid Act of 1 R. 3. which intended to remedy the ſame.

6. Nor any man could know againſt whom he ſhould bring his action, or have his execution, &c. notwithſtanding the ſaid Statutes of 1 R. 2. 4 H. 4. 11 H. 6. 1 H. 7. & 19 H. 7. which were made one after the other to provide remedy againſt this miſchief.

7. Eſtates created by Law in conſideration of marriage, were defeated, ſcil. Tenancy in Dower, and by the Curteſie, notwithſtanding the ſaid Statute of 1 R. 3. which intended to remedy the ſame in part.

8. Perjuries for trial of ſecret uſes were committed, and daily encreaſed. [124]

9. The King had loſt the benefit of Eſcheats by Attainder, purchaſes by Aliens, Wards, annum, diem, & vaſtum, &c.

10. And the Lords had loſt their Eſcheats alſo.

11. The Statute ſaith, That many other inconveniencies have happened, and daily encreaſe amongſt the King's Subjects, to their great trouble and inquietneſs, and the utter ſubverſion of the ancient Common Laws. Theſe were the miſchiefs; but what remedy did the makers of the Act provide for all theſe and infinite other miſchiefs, which ſubtile and fraudulent uſes had introduced, ſurely to extirpate and extinguiſh (for ſo ſpeaketh the Statute) theſe ſubtile practiſed fraudulent feoffments, fines, and recoveries, abuſes and errors, and to make plain and perfect reſtitution of the ancient Common Law which was in a manner ſubverted by them; and to the intent that the King or his Subjects (as the Statute ſpeaketh) ſhall not be by any means or inventions deceived, damaged, or hurted by reaſon of ſuch ſecret, ſubtile, and fraudulent uſes, truſts and confidences: ſo that the full intent of the makers of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. was for a remedy of all the ſaid miſchiefs (which any Statute before nor altogether had made ſufficient remedy for) to extirpate and extinguiſh all uſes in manner as the Statute hath limited. For the makers of the Statute of 27 H. 8. did conſider and reconſider the ſaid former Statutes and proviſions by Parliament to reform the great abuſes of uſes in many particular caſes; At laſt reſolving, that uſes were ſo ſubtile and perverſe, that by no policy or proviſion they could be governed or reformed. And therefore as a skilful Gardiner will not cut away the leaves of the weeds but extirpate them by the roots, and as a wiſe houſholder will not cover the fire which is ſecretly kindled in his houſe, but utterly put it out: So the makers of the Statute of 27 H. 8. did not intend to provide remedy for continuance or preſervation, but for the extinguiſhing and extirpation of uſes: and becauſe uſes were ſo ſubtile and ungovernable, as hath been ſaid, they have with an undiſſoluble knot coupled and married them to the land, which of all elements is the moſt ponderous and immoveable. It ſhall be then againſt the expreſs intent and meaning of the makers of the Act to preſerve uſes otherwiſe then they were at the Common Law, for they intended ſub modo to extirpate and extinguiſh them. And if by any conſtruction contingent uſes ſhall be preſerved out of this Act. 1. Greater inconveniencies would follow then were before. 2. Great abſurdities would alſo enſue.

For 1. land ſhould paſs againſt the rule of the Common Law from one to another ſo cunningly, and upon ſuch ſecret conditions and limitations, that none ſhould know in whom the eſtate of the land did remain.

2. Land ſhould paſs and ſhould be transferred by nuncupative Will from one to another, as if a feoffment in fee be made to ſuch perſons as he ſhall name by his laſt Will, &c. he might limit the uſes by Will nuncupative. [b]

3. Heirs ſhould thereby be diſ-inherited: for if theſe perpetuities ſhould be adjudged of force, it is not poſſible (if they be not written in the walls of their houſes, and if the parties which are bound by them have not councel learned in the Law always with them) for them to keep the nice and preciſe points of the uſual proviſoes, and clauſes of reſtraint contained in the perpetuities.

4. Lords ſhall loſe their Wards and the fruits of their Seignories.

5. No purchaſor ſhall be aſſured of his purchaſe, and where the Statute intends to provide that the King nor any of his Subjects ſhall be deceived by theſe uſes; now the purchaſor ſhall be in worſe caſe then he was before, for before the Statute, if he had purchaſed it bona fide as hath been ſaid, he ſhould not ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe; now it is ſaid, that the land ſhall be tied with the uſe in whoſe hands ſoever that it cometh, ſo that where the preamble ſaith, That the Subject ſhould not be endamaged by theſe uſes, he by ſuch conſtruction ſhall be more damnified then he was before.

6. Greater miſchief would follow for ſtrangers actions then was before, for upon ſecret limitation of uſes the land it ſelf ſhould be transferred from one to the other, ſo that no man in the world can know in whom the eſtate of the land is. But before this Statute, although that they might change the uſe, yet they could not convey the land if not upon livery, fine, or recovery, but now the land it ſelf ſhould paſs by performance of a ſecret Condition in a Chamber.

7. No perſon ſhall be Tenant by the Curteſie, nor Tenant in Dower, for they do not know in whom the eſtate of the land remaineth.

8. Of neceſſity perjuries by reaſon of them will abound, for then the ſecret imaginations and intents of men, and attempts and goings about ſhall be put in trial upon ſuch clauſes of reſtraint.

9. The King and Lords ſhall loſe their Wards and Eſcheats, for ſuch deviſe may be made if the Statute ſhall be conſtrued for the preſervation of contingent uſes, that neither the King nor any other Lord ſhall ever have any eſcheats or wards, or in effect any profit or fruit of their Seignories. It ſhall be abſurd to ſay, that the makers of this Act intend to preſerve uſes, when they expreſly ſay, that they intend to extirpate and extinguiſh uſes. Alſo it is abſurd to think, that the makers of the Act intend to preſerve & quodam modo to revive the ancient Common Law, and yet intend to preſerve and continue any ſuch abuſe and fraud which tendeth to the overthrowing of the Common Law. For they have judged that the invention of theſe uſes was ſubtile, fraudulent, and crafty in diſ-inheriſon of heirs, in defrauding of Lords, of thoſe who had right of their lawful actions, of purchaſors of Tenant in [125]

Dower, of Tenant by the Curteſie, cauſes of manifeſt perjury in defrauding of the King and Lords of their eſcheats, &c. in ſubverſion of the ancien Common Laws, and the cauſe of many other inconveniences, and the occaſion of great trouble and diſquietneſs in the Common wealth. I ſay, it ſhall be abſurd to think that the makers of the Act intend not only to continue, but to increaſe and preſerve ſuch wickedneſs, miſchiefs, and inconveniences. It appeareth alſo by divers branches of the body of the Act, that the makers of the Act did not expect, that any land after the Statute ſhould paſs by limitation of uſes, if not only upon bargain and ſale which they foreſee convenient to continue. And therefore they at the ſame Parliament add to this enrolment of Record, which is agreeable to the preamble, ſcil. matter of Record, but other uſes they did not expect would after the Act have been put in ure, but that land ſhould paſs by ſolemn Livery, Record, &c. as is contained in the preamble. And they thought alſo, that little land would paſs by bargain and ſale enrolled, becauſe ſuch bargainee being in in the Poſt, ſhall never vouch by force of any warranty annexed to the eſtate of the land. And therefore it is to be noted, that in all the body of the Act there is not any ſaving for any Ceſtuy que uſe, or of any uſe. Note alſo, the Act doth not give any benefit of warranty to Ceſtuy que uſe, if not that the uſe were executed before 1 Maii 1536. which was 28 H. 8. as fully appeareth by expreſs clauſe in the end of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. Proviſion alſo is made by another clauſe of the Act for actions then depending that they ſhall not abate by execution of the uſe. And if they had expected that uſes ſhould continue, they would have provided for future uſes alſo. Alſo there is another clauſe in this very Act for the proviſion of the King's Wards now being within age, &c. And the laſt clauſe of the Act concerning Wales, ſcil. (now ſtand or be ſeiſed) prove the ſame alſo, that they did not expect that any uſes ſhould continue, if not in the Caſe of bargain and ſale, and in Caſe of entry of feoffees before the Statute to revive the former uſe. And theſe words in the beginning of the purview of the Act, ſcil. Where any perſon or perſons ſtand or be ſeiſed, or at any time hereafter ſhall happen to be ſeiſed, do not prove that the makers of the Act expected that uſes ſhall be as common and uſual after the Act as they were before, but by theſe words (hereafter ſeiſed) that they in-
[b] tended by entry of the feoffees to revive an uſe created before the Act; and the ſame is notably expounded by the firſt ſaving of this Act, for there is ſaved to all perſons, &c. ſuch right, &c. as they or any of them had or might have had before the making of this Act; ſo that ſuch rights, &c. which precede this Act, and were in eſſe before 27 H. 8. are only ſaved by the Act of 27 H. 8. for they did not intend that lands ſhould paſs by limitation of uſe, but by ſolemn livery, matter of Record, &c. as is expreſſed in the preamble. And therefore if after the Statute A. hath diſſeiſed B. and enfeoffed C. to the uſe of D. the right of B. is not ſaved by the expreſs letter of the Act, for the right was not former or precedent to the Act, ſo that for maintenance and continuance of conveyances by uſes after the Act, there ought to be a conſtruction by equity, for the makers of the Act intended to extirpate and extinguiſh all uſes, if not in the caſe of Bargain and Sale as before is ſaid. The which is ſaid to this intent only to ſhew the expectation of the makers of the Act, and by that to collect their intent and meaning concerning the preſervation of any uſe, and not to draw in queſtion ſuch uſes in eſſe, which are raiſed upon good conſideration after this Act, and lawfully executed by the letter of this Act, for it is not intended to deſtroy any uſe either in eſſe or in contingency, but by the ſaid rule of Law before the Statute of 27 H. 8. Now in as much as the miſchiefs before the Act, and the remedy which the makers of the Act intended to apply are underſtood: The purview, and the words of the Act by which the remedy is provided is to be conſidered; and it is to know that theſe words of the purview, It may pleaſe the King's highneſs that it may be enacted, &c. depend upon two ſentences of the preamble before, ſcil. for the better extirpating and extinguiſhing of all ſuch ſubtile practiſed feoffments, &c. and to the intent that the King's highneſs, nor any of his Subjects may be deceived by reaſon of ſuch truſt, uſes, or confidence. It may pleaſe the King's highneſs. So as the way to extirpate the uſes, and to avoid the deceit of them provided by the Act, is now to be ſeen, and that is, That where any perſon ſtand or be ſeiſed of any lands, tenements, &c. That in every ſuch caſe, all and every ſuch perſon, &c. that have, or hereafter ſhall have any ſuch uſe, &c. ſhall from henceforth ſtand, and be ſeiſed and adjudged in lawful ſeiſin, eſtate, and poſſeſſion of and in the ſame lands and tenements of and in ſuch eſtates as they had in the uſe, and that the eſtate, right, and poſſeſſion that was in ſuch perſons as were, or hereafter ſhall be ſeiſed to the uſe of any ſuch perſon or perſons, be from henceforth clearly deemed in Ceſtuy que uſe, after ſuch quality, manner, form, and condition as they had in the uſe.

[126] And that is the remedy which the makers of the Act have provided to ſalve all the ſaid miſchiefs; by which words of the purview of the Act it clearly appeareth, that every uſe in eſſe, ſcil. in poſſeſſion, reverſion, or remainder is executed by the Statute, and that no contingent uſe or right of an uſe ſhall be executed within this Statute until they come in eſſe. For to every execution of an uſe by force of this Statute four things are requiſite. Firſt, There ought to be a perſon ſeiſed, for the words of the Act are, Any perſon ſtand or be ſeiſed. Secondly, It behoveth that there be a Ceſtuy que uſe in eſſe, for the words of the Act are, Stand ſeiſed to the uſe of any perſon or perſons, &c. Thirdly, There ought to be an uſe in eſſe, ſcil. in poſſeſſion, reverſion, or remainder. Fourthly, The eſtate out of which the uſes riſe ought to be veſted in Ceſtuy que uſe, &c. for the words are, And that the ſtate of ſuch perſon ſeiſed to the uſe, ſhall be adjudged in Ceſtuy que uſe, &c. ſo that when theſe four concur, ſcil. ſeiſin in feoffees, Ceſtuy que uſe in rerum natura, a uſe in eſſe, and that the eſtate of the feoffees may veſt in Ceſtuy que uſe, there is execution of the uſe within this Statute; but if any of them fail, there is no execution of the uſe within this Statute; and therefore it is agreed in 10 Eliz. in Plowden's Comment. Dalamer's Caſe 351. b. that the Statute of 27 H. 8. doth not execute any uſe, but only uſes in eſſe, ſo right of a preſent uſe, or a future, or contingent uſe are excluded until they come in eſſe. It is holden in 36 H. 8. Dier 58. a. that if Ceſtuy que uſe in tail with divers uſes in remainder maketh a feoffment and dieth, and the Statute of 27 H. 8. is made, now the iſſue in tail hath right of an uſe in eſſe, as the Juſtices term it, and in 10 Eliz. Dalamer's Caſe, but no execution thereof until entry by the feoffees. And with that agree the Caſes in 7 E. 6. Stephen Davies Caſe, Dier 88. b. & 15 & 16. of Queen Eliz. Dame Baskervil's Caſe,

Dier

Dier 330. a. that if Ceſtuy que uſe in poſſeſſion make a feoffment before the Statute, no right of an uſe, neither in poſſeſſion nor in remainder ſhall be executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. till regreſs by the feoffees. Quid ita? There ought to be ſeiſin in the feoffee, Ceſtuy que uſe in rerum natura, a uſe in eſſe, and the eſtate of the feoffees ought to be transferred to Ceſtuy que uſe; and therefore admit that our Caſe had been before the Statute of 27 H. 8. and that our feoffment was before the Statute, and after the Statute was made, without queſtion this uſe could never be recontinued, or the repoſſeſſion of the land executed to the ſame by the Statute; Then if the Statute doth not execute but only uſes in eſſe, and neither the right of an uſe in eſſe, nor an uſe in contingency, Ex hoc ſequitur, that the right of an uſe, and uſes in contingency remain at the Common Law, until they come in eſſe, and therefore if the eſtate of the feoffees be deveſted by diſſeiſin, or if the Queen, or Corporation, or alien, or perſon attainted, &c. [b] be enfeoffed before the uſe come in eſſe, or if the land be aliened bona fide, upon conſideration to one who hath no notice, the uſe ſhall never be executed, if not that theſe poſſeſſions be removed by lawful entry or action of the feoffees. And if their entry and right be barred, the uſe is gone for ever, as it was at the Common Law before this Statute. And therefore if Ceſtuy que uſe in tail, remainder in tail, reſtrained with clauſe of perpetuity be diſſeiſed, no uſe in contingency can be executed within this Statute, for a diſſeiſor cannot be ſeiſed to an uſe, and then there wants ſeiſin of the feoffees, and there wants an uſe in eſſe, for there is but a right of an uſe, and it is impoſſible that the eſtate of the feoffees can be veſted in Ceſtuy que uſe by the Act of 27 H. 8. when they have not any eſtate in them when the uſe ſhall be executed. And there is no difference as to the execution of an uſe by force of this Statute when the uſe is diſcontinued before the Statute, and when the eſtate of the land is altered after the Act, and before the contingent uſe came in eſſe. And yet more colourable argument may be made for execution of the right of a preſent uſe by this Act (as where feoffees were diſſeiſed before the Statute) then for the execution of a contingent uſe after the Act being deveſted by diſſeiſin before they come in eſſe, for the words of the Act are, And the eſtate, right, and poſſeſſion that was or hereafter ſhall be in ſuch perſon ſeiſed to any ſuch uſe, ſhall be in Ceſtuy que uſe, &c. So that when the feoffees are diſſeiſed before the Statute and after the Statute is made, now the feoffees have a right to the land, and Ceſtuy que uſe, a right to the uſe, and the Statute ſaith, That the eſtate, right, and poſſeſſion that was in the feoffees ſhall be in Ceſtuy que uſe, and they before the diſſeiſin had the eſtate, and after the diſſeiſin had right, but this clauſe is to be conjoyned with the firſt branches of the Act, and becauſe that ſeiſin fails in the feoffees, a uſe in eſſe in Ceſtuy que uſe, and the eſtate continues all concurring at the time of the execution, there cannot be any execution within this Statute. And yet at ſeveral times was there ſeiſin in the feoffees, a uſe in Ceſtuy que uſe, and ſeiſin for a time, but they do not meet together when the uſe ſhould be executed, and for this cauſe in the ſaid Caſe, the uſe cannot be executed within this Statute, but the Caſe at the Bar is ſtronger, for in this Caſe there was never an uſe in eſſe in the ſon of Chriſtopher before the diſcontinuance and deveſting of the eſtates. And ſuppoſe, that before the Statute a feoffment in fee had been made unto the uſe of J. S. for life, and after to the uſe of the right heirs of J. N. and the feoffees had been diſſeiſed, and after the Statute was made, and then J. N. died, and after his death J. S. dieth, ſhall this uſe be executed in the right heir of J. N.? No truly, for the cauſes before rehearſed: Then by the ſame reaſon if the diſſeiſin had been in the ſame Caſe after the Statute, and before the [127] death of J. N. (for no execution can be during his life) no poſſeſſion ſhall be executed in the right heir of J. S. within this Statute. By this it appeareth of what moment their Objection is who ſay, That after the Statute of 27 H. 8. the land is bound with the contingent uſe in whoſe hands ſoever the ſame cometh, for this Objection is grounded upon five abſurdities.

1. The uſe ſhall be annexed to the land, and not to the eſtate of the land, and by the ſame reaſon, a perſon attainted, alien, the King, a Corporation, the Lord by eſcheat, &c. might after the Statute be enfeoffed or ſeiſed to the uſe of another, if the land only were bound with the uſe, for they ſhall have Commons, Advowſons, Eſtovers, &c. as things annexed and appurtenant to the land; and what reaſon ſhall it be, that a perſon attainted, Corporation, &c. could not originally be as well enfeoffed to the uſe, as they ſhall ſtand ſeiſed to former contingent uſes, but eadem eſt ratio of the creation of an uſe, and of the continuance of an uſe.

2. The Statute requireth (as hath been ſaid) that there be an uſe in eſſe, and an uſe is but a confidence and truſt, for ſo the words of the Statute expound it in joyning theſe words together, that is to ſay (uſe, confidence, and truſt) but it is abſurd to ſay, That confidence and truſt can be repoſed in land which wanteth ſenſe, and which in regard of ſenſe is inferiour to brute beaſts, and it ſhall be leſs abſurd to ſay, That beaſts may be truſted who have ſenſe and want reaſon, then land which wants ſenſe and reaſon alſo ſhall be truſted.

3. If the land ſhall be bound and charged therewith, as with rent, common, or intereſt in the judgement of Law, then it in effect ſhall overthrow all uſes, for then how can one by the Law, by deed indented made between two, covenant to ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of a ſtranger to the deed; for if it ſhall be as a charge out of the land, it ſhall be void, for it is eſtrange to the deed; And how can a man after the Statute covenant to ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of himſelf for life, or in tail the remainder over? For a man by the rule of the Common Law cannot create in himſelf a particular eſtate, nor give unto himſelf any eſtate in poſſeſſion, or remainder (if not peradventure in Caſes of concluſion) but in as much as uſes after the Statute are but truſts and confidences, the Law tolerates them ſo long as they agree in the declaration and limitation of their eſtates with the rule of Law.

4. If the nature of an uſe be changed, and a new hereditament made by conſtruction upon this Statute, then if a man make a feoffment of land on the part of the mother without conſideration, his heir on the part of the father ſhall have the ſame; but it was agreed of late in the Caſe between Colgat and [b] Blythe in the Common Pleas, M. 29 & 30 Eliz. that the heir on the part of the mother ſhall have the ſame after the Statute, as he ſhall have the ſame before the Statute, as 5 E. 4. 7. b. is.

5. If the Law ſhall be taken, that the land ſhall be bound with the contingent uſe in whoſe hands ſoever it comes, this abſurdity and confuſion would be. Put caſe that Tenant in tail were, the remainder or reverſion over in fee, and he in the remainder or reverſion covenant by deed upon good conſideration, that if Tenant in tail die without iſſue within four years, that he will ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of B. in fee, and afterwards Tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee, and the feoffee covenanteth by deed with C. that if Tenant in tail dieth without iſſue within the ſaid four years, he will ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of C. in fee, Tenant in tail dieth within the four years, who ſhall have the uſe in this Caſe? Certainly, there cannot be two ſeveral uſes in poſſeſſion in two ſeveral perſons at one and the ſame time in one and the ſame land, for then it will follow that there ſhall be two ſeveral eſtates in poſſeſſion in two ſeveral perſons at one time; for if the feoffee unto an uſe before the ſtatute had bargained and ſold the land upon good conſideration to one in fee who had no notice and execute no eſtate, the bargainee ſhall not have any uſe, but the ancient uſe continueth, for there remains privity in eſtate and confidence alſo. And there cannot be two ſeveral uſes of one and the ſame land in one and the ſame degree; and therefore I conceive in the Caſe which hath been put, the uſe of the feoffee ſhall be executed, and not the uſe of the remainder or reverſion, for both uſes cannot meet in eſſe together in one and the ſame land, and therefore they are compelled to confeſs that the future uſe in this Caſe may be taken away. And if it be ſo in the Caſe of Tenant in tail the remainder over, ſo is it in the Caſe of Leſſee for life. And therefore if Leſſee for life be, the remainder over in fee, and he in the remainder covenanteth with B. by deed upon good conſideration, that if Leſſee for life dieth within four years, that then he will ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of B. in fee: And afterwards Leſſee for life maketh a feoffment in fee, and the feoffee maketh the like covenant with C. as is aforeſaid, and afterwards the Leſſee for life dieth within the four years, none can deny but that the uſe of the feoffee ſhall be executed, and not the contingent uſe limited to B. for otherwiſe confuſion would follow. And the ſame is all one with the Caſe at the Bar in effect, for in that before the contingent uſe came in eſſe Leſſee for life maketh a feoffment in fee, ſo as the contingent uſe which ſhould riſe out of the reverſion or remainder cannot riſe until the eſtate be recontinued, and reveſted; And for the reaſon thereof a notable Caſe between John Hunt and Thomas Gatley was adjudged
[128] by all the Juſtices of England M. 34 & 35 Eliz. at Hertford, which Caſe began Paſch. 23 Eliz. And the ſame was in effect, that there was Tenant in tail, the remainder over in tail, he in the remainder chargeth the ſame with a rent charge, and afterwards Tenant in tail ſuffers a common Recovery and dieth without iſſue, the poſſeſſion of the Recoveror ſhall not be charged with the leaſe or rent, for the poſſeſſion and the new eſtate of the Recoveror which he hath gained from the Tenant in tail is ſubject to the charges and leaſes of the Recoveror, and cannot be ſubject unto the leaſes and charges of him in the remainder alſo ſimul & ſemel; So in the ſame Caſe it was agreed, that if Tenant in tail had made a feoffment, the eſtate and poſſeſſion of the feoffee ſo long as the ſame continueth is not ſubject unto the charges and leaſes of him in the remainder, but during the continuance thereof remaineth ſubject only to the charges and leaſes of the feoffee; for there it was holden that until the eſtate out of which the charge or leaſe is derived be recontinued, the leſſee cannot enter, nor the grantee diſtrain, ex quo nota, that although that the uſe ſhall be (as is injoyned as a charge out of the land) yet it cannot begin until the eſtate out of which it iſſueth be recontinued. Then it will be demanded, when the entry of the feoffees is requiſite and lawful after the Statute of 27 H. 8. and when not. And to that there are divers opinions. Some think that the entry of the feoffees is not requiſite after the Statute to the execution of a future uſe, but when the eſtate out of which the uſe riſeth is diſturbed or altered by diſſeiſin, or aliened to one who hath no notice, but if the eſtate continue without ſuch alteration, then there needeth no entry of the feoffees; And with this diverſity agreeth the Lord Dier and Manwood in 17 Eliz. Dier 340. where they both took the ſame difference when the feoffees ought to enter in the lands to awake the ſleeping uſe, and when not, and their reaſon is, becauſe there ought to be an uſe in eſſe, and not a right of an uſe, and the eſtate of the feoffees ought to be transferred to Ceſtuy que uſe, and ſo thought clear without queſtion. Others have taken this difference, when the feoffees by their entry may gain their ancient fee ſimple out of which the uſes riſe, there their entry is congeable, otherwiſe not, for the Law (as they affirm) will not ſuffer fractions of eſtates, and particular eſtates to be created without donors or leſſors; and to prove this difference, firſt they cite Dalamer's Caſe in Plowden's Comm. 350. which was in effect, Robert Dalamer and Beatrice his wife being Ceſtuy que uſe in ſpecial tail, the remainder unto the uſe of Robert Dalamer in general tail, the remainder to the uſe of Simon Dalamer in fee; Robert Dalamer 26 H. 8. did enfeoff Dial, who before the Statute enfeoffed Lyſter, who enfeoffed Simon Dalamer, who 3 E. 6. enfeoffed Barnard in fee, Robert Dalamer died, and Jannings the ſurviving feoffee entred for the reviving of the uſes; and it was adjudged that his entry was lawful, for he had gained his ancient fee ſimple, for it was agreed
[b] by all, that the feoffment of Simon Dalamer was not within the Statute of 1 R. 3. becauſe he had only an uſe in remainder, and he who hath but an eſtate in uſe in remainder or in reverſion (as it is there agreed) cannot make an eſtate over by the Statute of 1 R. 3. although that the words of the Statute are general, Every feoffment, gift, grant, &c. for he cannot make a feoffment, and a grant of the fee ſimple of the land he cannot make, for then would follow fraction of the eſtates of the feoffees, and particular eſtates without donor or leſſor.

And if A. be Ceſtuy que uſe for life, the remainder of the uſe to B. in fee, if B. may grant ſuch eſtate of the land as he had in uſe by the Statute of 1 R. 3. then it would follow that the grantee of B. ſhould have the fee ſimple of the land, and the feoffees who before had the fee ſimple ſhould have now but an eſtate for the life of A. which ſhould be abſurd and inconvenient. Alſo ſome ſay, that if there be Tenant for life the remainder in fee to the uſe of B. and before the Statute he in the remainder diſſeiſeth leſſee for life, and after the Statute is made, the Statute ſhall not execute the uſe of the remainder, for the uſe riſeth intirely out of both the eſtates, and there ſhall not be a fraction neither of the uſe nor of the eſtate, for then he in the remainder ſhould be a diſſeiſor for life only, and the remainder executed to another another which ſhould be againſt the Rule of the Law, and ſuch conſtruction is to be made that the Rules of Law be not broken. So if there be two joynt feoffees to the uſe of another, and one diſſeiſeth the other before the Statute of 27 H. 8. and after the Statute is made, there ſhall not be fraction of the eſtate of the feoffee for one moity, nor a breach of the Joynture, for the Statute of 27 H. 8. ſaveth the warranty, which by ſuch fraction of the eſtate ſhould be loſt. And alſo the Statute ſaith, that the eſtate which was in the feoffee ſhall be deemed in Ceſtuy que uſe, and that cannot be if there ſhall be ſuch fraction of the eſtate of the feoffee. And they cite the Caſe in M. 15 & 16 Eliz. Dier 329, & 330. which was cited for the opinions of Catlyn and Dier chief Juſtices, Saunders chief Baron, and Manwood Juſtice without any open argument upon a Caſe referred to them out of the Chancery, where the Caſe in effect was. A. Ceſtuy que uſe in tail the remainder of the uſe to B. in tail, the remainder of the uſe to A. in fee. A. before the Statute makes a feoffment unto the uſe of himſelf for life, and after unto the uſe of his eldeſt ſon and his wife, and to the heirs of the body of the ſon, &c. and afterwards the Statute is made, the father dieth, the firſt feoffees enter intending to have revived the firſt uſe in tail, and ſo to have excluded the ſons wife, which was the Lady Baskervile, of the uſe limited upon the ſecond feoffment. But it was reſolved, that their entry was not lawful, becauſe that by the feoffment of A. who was Ceſtuy que uſe in tail in poſſeſſion (and alſo had the fee ſimple of the uſe.) The fee ſimple of the uſe was lawfully departed with, and as to that, the right of the feoffees bound by the Statute of 1 R. 3. then the feoffees by [113] their entry cannot have their former eſtate, ſcil. the fee ſimple, but ſhould have a particular eſtate without donor or leſſor, for which cauſe their entry was not lawful, for the ſaid Juſtices took it, that when Ceſtuy que uſe in poſſeſſion maketh a feoffment, the ſame by the expreſs letter of the Statute of 1 R. 3. bars the entry of the feoffees for the fee ſimple, and by conſequence the Law will not ſuffer any diviſion or fraction of the eſtate of the feoffees, for this cauſe their entry was not lawful. But ſee Dalamer's Caſe. 10 Eliz. Plowden's Comm. 350. upon ſolemn argument and great deliberation adjudged contrary. But others ſay it is not impertinent to ſay, That by the Act of Parliament the eſtate of the feoffees ſhall be divided, and it is not to be reſembled to caſes at the Common Law: And if other conſtruction ſhall be made, it ſhall be againſt common reaſon and common allowance, and thereof great abſurdity would follow as they conceived; for they conceived and ſaid, That if a man covenanteth by deed with another, that after his death that his ſon ſhall have his land in tail, that in this caſe the Statute of 27 H. 8. ſhall make a fraction of his eſtate, for he ſhall have an eſtate for life, as parcel of his ancient eſtate, and his ſon ſhould have the uſe and eſtate executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8.

And if the feoffees ſhall never enter but when they ſhall have their ancient fee ſimple, ex hoc would follow, that if a man who hath not any ſon maketh a feoffment unto the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of his 1, 2, 3, 4, &c. ſon in tail, and for default of ſuch iſſue unto the uſe of A. in tail, the remainder over to other perſons in rerum natura, there all the uſes in eſſe limited after the contingent uſes are executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. And in ſuch caſe if by diſſeiſin or other alteration of the eſtate before the being of the future uſes, the entry of the feoffees be taken away, becauſe they cannot have their ancient and former fee ſimple, the ſame ſhall be as they conceive inconvenient and dangerous, and in effect it ſhould take away the entry of all feoffees at this day, for almoſt in all ſuch conveyances and limitations of uſes, ſome of the latter remainders are limited and executed by the Statute in perſons in rerum natura, which cannot be deveſted by the entry of the feoffees. On the other ſide great abſurdity and inconvenience will follow, to ſay the eſtate remaineth in the feoffees to ſerve the future uſe when it ſhall happen: For put caſe a man maketh a feoffment unto the uſe of the feoffor for life, and after unto the uſe of his eldeſt ſon in tail; (he having no ſon at the time) and after unto the uſe of A. in tail, and after to the uſe of B. in fee, in this caſe, if any eſtate ſhall be left in the feoffee to ſerve the future uſe, he ought to have an eſtate in fee ſimple determinable in the mean time, and then the feoffor ſhall have eſtate for life, and the feoffee ſhould have an eſtate to him and his heirs as long as he who is not in eſſe (and who peradventure never ſhall be) ſhall have heir of his body, and yet an eſtate tail ſhall be veſted and executed in A. and [b]
the remainder in B. in fee, which ſhall be abſurd and inconvenient as before is ſaid. And it ſhall be alſo convenient and dangerous, for then the feoffees ſhould puniſh Waſt, and enter for the forfeiture, &c. and yet peradventure the future uſe ſhall never happen; and therefore they conceived, that all the uſes in eſſe were preſently executed, and no eſtate ſhould be left in the feoffee in the mean time till the future uſe come in eſſe. But they conceived a poſſibility of entry ſhould remain in the feoffee, which the Lord Dier in 17 Eliz. 340. b. termeth Scintilla juris, for if the feoffor hath iſſue a ſon, then preſently by the operation of the Act of 27 H. 8. the feoffees ſhould have an eſtate to preſerve this uſe, for the Statute ſaith, That the eſtate, &c. that was in ſuch perſon or perſons, that were, or hereafter ſhould be ſeiſed of any lands to the uſe of any perſon or perſons, ſhould be deemed and adjudged in him or them that have or hereafter ſhall have ſuch uſe: So that when the ſon is born, or when the future uſe cometh in eſſe, they ſay that the Statute giveth the eſtate from the feoffee to Ceſtuy que uſe, and that for neceſſity of reaſon the eſtate after the contingent uſe cometh in eſſe ſhall be in the feoffee to preſerve this future uſe, which by force of the Statute might be deemed and adjudged out of the feoffee to Ceſtuy que uſe; but the feoffees in the Caſe before put have but a poſſibility, becauſe that if the future uſe do not come in eſſe during the particular eſtate, then it ſhall never take effect, for in as much as the ſame is in the nature of a remainder it ought to take effect and veſt during the particular eſtate, or at leaſt at the time of the determination of the particular eſtate. And it was ſaid, at the Bar by the Counſel of the Defendant, that that ſeemeth to be the better opinion.

And it was ſaid, that no uſes ſhall be executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. which are limited againſt the Rules of the Common Law, and the reaſon thereof is apparent, for it appeareth by the preamble of the Statute of 27 H. 8. that it was the intent of the makers of the Act, to extirpate and extinguiſh ſuch ſubtile practiſed feoffments, fines, recoveries, abuſes and errors, tending to the ſubverſion of the good and ancient Common Laws of the land; ſo that it fully appeareth, that this Act of 27 H. 8. ſhall not execute any uſes which is limited againſt the rule of the Common Law, for the intent of the Act was to extinguiſh and extirpate not the feoffment, fine, or recovery, for thoſe were laudable and good conveyances of lands and tenements by the Common Law, as is in effect recited in the beginning of the Preamble; but ſuch uſes which are abuſes and errors, and therefore erroneous becauſe they are againſt the rule of the Common Law, and therefore this Law of 27 H. 8. is a Law of reſtitution, ſcil. to reſtore the good and [130] ancient Common Law which was in a manner ſubverted by abuſive and erroneous uſes. And therefore if a man at this day make a feoffment in fee to the uſe of A. for years, and after unto the uſe of the right heirs of B. or to the uſe of the wife of B. which ſhall be; this limitation to the right heirs and to the wife is void, becauſe it had been void if it had been limited in poſſeſſion, as appeareth M. 2 & 3 Eliz. Dier 190, 191. So in the ſame Caſe if the uſe be limited to A. for life, and after unto the uſe of the right heirs of B. or unto the wife of B. which ſhall be, if A. dieth, and after B. dieth, or taketh wife, this remainder to the right heirs or to the wife is void, for it ſhall be void if it had been limited in poſſeſſion. And the Statute of 27 H. 8. intendeth to reſtore the good and ancient Common Law, and not to give more privilege to execution of uſes then to eſtates, which are executed by the ancient Common Law. And in proof thereof, it was reſolved by all the Juſtices of England, Paſch. 35 Eliz. in the Caſe of the Earl of Bedford referred to them out of the Court of Wards, and was thus in effect, Francis Earl of Bedford made a feoffment in fee of divers Mannors unto the uſe of himſelf for years, and after to the uſe of John Lord Ruſſel his ſon and heir apparent, and to the heirs males of his body begotten, and for want of ſuch iſſue unto the uſe of the right heirs of the Earl, and afterwards the ſaid John Lord Ruſſel died with iſſue male in the life of the ſaid Earl, and it was reſolved, that the uſe and eſtate limited by way of remainder to the right heirs of the Earl was void, for it had been void if it had been limited by eſtate executed at the Common Law, for the remainder ought to veſt during the particular eſtate.

cute

And if a man make a feoffment to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of his eldeſt ſon and his heirs males of his body, and for want of ſuch iſſue unto the uſe of his ſecond ſon in tail, &c. provided that if his eldeſt ſon attempt to ſuffer a recovery, or levy a fine, &c. that then his eſtate ſhall ceaſe as if he were naturally dead and not otherwiſe, and that then the land ſhall deſcend or remain as if he were naturally dead without any forfeiture; the eldeſt ſon hath iſſue a ſon, and attempts to alien, in this Caſe the Proviſo is repugnant and void, for if the ſame had been limited by conveyance at the Common Law in poſſeſſion, without doubt it had been void: And in ſuch Caſe if it ſhould be good, I demand in whom the eſtate tail ſhall be after ſuch attempt, and who ſhall have the Writ of Waſt, or ſhall enter for the forfeiture during the natural life of Tenant in tail. And if a man by deed with livery of ſeiſin giveth land in tail, the remainder in tail, the remainder in fee: Provided always (as above) ſuch Proviſo is repugnant and void as is directly proved by Richil's Caſe in Littleton, 163. and by 21 H. 7. 11. & 21
[b] H. 6. 33. b. And this Caſe of an uſe is not to be reſembled to a rent newly created, or any thing out of the land, but only to land it ſelf, for now the Statute hath with an indiſſoluble marriage united the land and uſe together, and it ſhall be conſonant unto the intent of the makers of the Act of 27 H. 8. to reſtore the ancient Common Law in conſtruction of the execution of the poſſeſſion to the uſe. Then it will be objected, that in as much as that the Statute in the mean time executeth all the uſes in eſſe, and Ceſtuy que uſe is quodam modo in the Poſt, and not in in privity of the eſtate out of which the future uſe riſeth, that for this cauſe, the future uſe ſhall not riſe at all, which ſhall be miſchievous and inconvenient.

The anſwer to this Objection ſhall be plainer, if a Caſe be put of an uſe in eſſe, and in futuro, and upon that the manner how future uſes ſhall be veſted by the Statute of 27 H. 8. ſhall be ſhewn, as by way of demonſtration. A. maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of D. for life, and after to the uſe of him who ſhall be his firſt ſon in tail, and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of B. in tail, and for default of ſuch iſſue to the uſe of C. in fee, in this Caſe preſently by the feoffment A. hath an eſtate for life, the remainder to B. in tail, the remainder to C. in fee, and no eſtate is put in abeiance or left in the feoffees; But if after A. hath iſſue a ſon, then the poſſibility which the feoffee had becometh an eſtate in Law, and preſently the Statute executeth the poſſeſſion according to the limitation of the uſe, but if Tenant for life be diſſeiſed before the birth of the ſon, and after he hath iſſue, now nothing veſts in the ſon, becauſe there ought to be an uſe in eſſe before the Statute can execute the poſſeſſion; but who ſhall enter to remove the impediment, and to reſtore the privity of the eſtates? Certainly, if the Tenant for life ſhall reenter, he ſhall revive all the former eſtates which the Statute of 27 H. 8. hath executed to the former uſes in eſſe, and therefore alſo the Statute doth transfer the eſtate of the land to the ſon in tail, for that is the privity which the Statute requireth, ſcil. privity of eſtates which the ſame Statute hath executed upon the limitation of the uſes in the ſame conveyance before, and after the death of Tenant for life the feoffees may enter and revive the uſe. And as leſſee for years or for life, upon condition to have fee, cannot have an increaſe and enlargement of his eſtate, but upon the privity of eſtate of the leſſee, ſo no remainder of a future uſe can be transferred into eſtate by force of this Act, before the particular eſtates executed by the Statute upon the limitation of the uſes in the ſame conveyance are recontinued. But if Tenant for life maketh a feoffment or dieth before the birth of the ſon, his remainder is deſtroyed. As if a leaſe be made for life, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. if leſſee for life make a feoffment, or dieth during J. S. life, the remainder to the right heirs is deſtroyed, and that as it ſeemeth is the beſt con-
[131] ſtruction of the Statute of 27 H. 8. for other conſtruction ſhall overthrow the eſtate of infinite number of perſons, which ſhall be inconvenient, and againſt the practiſe and common opinion always after the making of the ſaid Act unto this day.

Another Objection hath been made that an uſe in contingency is in the cuſtody of the Law, and therefore cannot be diſcontinued or taken away; but thereof will follow great abſurdities. Firſt, It ſhall be abſurd that a future or contingent uſe might be diſcontinued or taken away by a feoffment bona fide upon notice or diſſeiſin, &c. before the Statute, and ſhall not be taken away or diſcontinued after the Statute, when the Statute doth not extend to the ſame until it come in eſſe: Secondly, It ſhall be abſurd, that the Law, which by its definition is ſanctio ſancta jubens honeſta, & prohibens contraria, ſhall be conſervator or preſerver of a thing impious and fraudulent, for by the judgment of the whole Parliament of 27 H. 8. uſes are ſubtile and crafty, invented by frauds to diſ-inherit heirs, and to defraud the King and all other Lords of their eſcheats, wards, and other profits of their Seignories, &c. and as it is in the preamble to introduce many other inconveniences, and to raiſe trouble and unquietneſs between the Subjects, ſhall that be jubere honeſta, & prohibere contraria? No truly, but ſhall be jubere iniqua, & prohibere contraria; and therefore Fitzherbert in Bokenham's Caſe, 28 H. 8. Dier 12. a. ſaith truly, that uſes are odious in the Law. Thirdly, The Common Law will not keep and nouriſh theſe ſubtile and fraudulent uſes tanquam in gremio legis, becauſe as appeareth by the judgment of all the Parliament in 27 H. 8. they were invented and practiſed in ſubverſion of the ancient Common Law, but the Law will not preſerve a ſubverter and deſtroyer in its boſom; and theſe uſes are termed abuſes and errors by the whole Parliament in 27 H. 8. and therefore cannot remain in gremio legis. So the intent of the Parliament was to extirpate and extinguiſh ſubtile and fraudulent uſes as things tending to the ſubverſion of the ancient Common Law, and as increaſers of fraud, ſubtilty, deceit, trouble, vexation, inquietneſs, errors, and abuſes, beſides many and great miſchiefs and inconveniences; and the letter alſo of the purview of the Act was clearly againſt them, and therefore it ſhall be againſt all reaſon to make conſtruction againſt the expreſs intent and meaning alſo of the ſaid Act of Parliament, but therein to imitate the example of the reverend Judges in times paſt, who always conſtrue all Acts made againſt the fraud of uſes (for of thoſe only it was ſpoken) liberally and by equity, and againſt the letter for ſuppreſſing the fraud and inconveniencies of uſes; And therefore where the Statutes of 1 R. 2. & 4 H. 4. aforeſaid, which gave action for Ceſtuy que uſe (calling him pernor of the profits) and that the Writ ſhall not abate for Non-tenures, yet the Judges M. 4. E. 4. 38. by equity to meet with the fraud of uſes, extend the ſame to joyntenancy as it is there holden, and alſo in 5 E. 4. 44. b. & 45. & 7 H. 6. 10. a. and the Judges in 36 H. 6. 34. extend the ſaid Statutes by like equity to diſclaimer. Alſo the Statute of 1 H. 7. c. 1. gave a Formedon only by expreſs name to Ceſtuy que uſe, but the Judges in 14 H. 7. 17, 31. & 15 H. 7. 8. upon long debate extend the ſame to a Scire facias to execute an eſtate tail in remainder by equity; ſo the Statute of 1 R. 3. cap. 7. which ſpeaketh of leaſes, &c. made by Ceſtuy que uſe is extended by the Judges in 7 H. 7. 6. unto executions by Elegit, &c. by Ceſtuy que uſe, and where the Statute of 1 R. 3. ſaith, All grants, &c. ſhall be good againſt him and his feoffees, yet it was agreed in 4 H. 7. 8. b. that the grant of a rent charge ſhall be good againſt the diſſeiſor of the feoffees. And if Ceſtuy que uſe be enfeoffed by the diſſeiſors of the feoffees, and he make a feoffment over, if the letter of the Act of 1 R. 3. be only conſidered, the ſame is not according to his authority given by the preciſe words of the ſaid Act, for it is ſaid in 8 H. 7. 9. a. that he ought to do it as ſervant and in the right of the feoffees, and yet 27 H. 8. 29. b. it is good to a purchaſor by equity of the Statute. For as it is ſaid in 5 H. 7. 5. b. the ſame Act was made for advantage of the grantees, and not for the advantage of Ceſtuy que uſe. But in the Caſe at Bar, the meaning of the makers of the Act is apparent, and the letter of the Act is expreſly with us, and greater miſchiefs otherwiſe would follow then were before the Act if theſe future uſes ſhall be preſerved in the Caſe at the Bar. The Statute made in 31 E. 1. de donis conditionalibus in manner created perpetuities, and the ſame continued about 200 years, but in 12 E. 4. 19. by the reſolution of all the Judges it was reſolved, That by a common recovery the eſtate tail ſhall be barred, for the miſchiefs which were introduced in the Commonwealth thereby. In the time of R. 2. Juſtice Richil attempted to make a perpetuity, as it appeareth by Littleton in his Chapter of Warranty 263. & 21 H. 6. 33. b. which was ſuch in effect, Juſtice Richil having divers ſons, and intending that none of his ſons ſhould alien thoſe lands, or make any warranty to bar or hurt the others, he made a deed indented to ſuch effect, ſcil. That the lands and tenements were given to his eldeſt ſon in tail upon condition that if his eldeſt ſon alien in fee or in tail, &c. or if any of his ſons ſhall alien, &c. that then their eſtate ſhould ceaſe, and ſhould be void, and that then the lands ſhall remain to his ſecond ſon in tail, and ſo to his other ſons in remainder, and livery and ſeiſin was made accordingly. But all ſuch remainders were void becauſe the limitations of them were againſt the rule of law as appeareth there by Littleton. And ſo it appeareth in 21 H. 6. 33. that Thirning chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas made the like perpetuity for the continuance of his land in his blood without alienation; but the Judges held the ſame againſt the Law. And if after the Statute of 27 H. 8. which hath made an inſeparable unity and conjunction between the uſe and the poſſeſſion, the like conſtruction ſhall be made of eſtates limited in uſe and executed by the Statute as of eſtates executed in poſſeſſion, and by the Common Law, it ſhall be hard in my opinion to maintain ſuch Proviſoes, or Conditions to make eſtates of freehold and inheritance lawfully veſted to ceaſe in one and to veſt and reveſt in others againſt the rule of the Common Law. And ſo I conceive upon the whole matter, that the future uſes in the Caſe at the Bar by the ſaid feoffment of the feoffees was utterly deſtroyed, and by conſequence judgment ought to be given for the Defendant.

when

[b] [132]

And afterwards this Caſe was openly argued by all the Juſtices of England, and the Barons of the Exchequer, in the Exchequer Chamber, at ſix ſeveral days: 1. By Baron Ewens and Juſtice Owen; 2. By Juſtice Beamond and Juſtice Fenner; 3. By Juſtice Walmeſley and Juſtice Gawdy; 4. By Baron Clark and Juſtice Clench; 5. By Sir W. Periam chief Baron of the Exchequer, and by Sir Ed. Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas; And 6. by Sir John Popham chief Juſtice of England. All which Arguments of the Judges and Barons I heard, but only of Juſtice Beamond, and therefore that which I ſhall ſay of that, I ſhall ſay by credible relation of others; but my intent is not to Report any of their Arguments at large, and in the ſame form as they were, delivered by them, but ſuch a ſummary collection of the effect and ſubſtance of them all as the matter (the ſame being the firſt Caſe which was adjudged, and being of great importance) will permit. And becauſe that Juſtice Walmeſley and the chief Baron only argued that Judgment ſhould be given for the Plaintiff, and all the other other Judges and Barons concluded againſt the Plaintff, I begin with the effect of their two Arguments:

Before the Statute of 1 R. 3. the feoffees had not only all the eſtate in the land, but alſo all the power to give and diſpoſe thereof, for Ceſtuy que uſe was a treſpaſſor, if he againſt their will did enter upon the land. And after the Statute of 1 R. 3. Ceſtuy que uſe had power to make a diſpoſition of the land it ſelf, and yet notwithſtanding that, all the power of the land did remain in the feoffee until Ceſtuy que uſe had made ſuch a diſpoſition, for which cauſe the ſaid Act intending to provide for Ceſtuy que uſe had not made ſufficient proviſion for him. For the eſtate of the lands remaining in the feoffees, they many times contrary to the truſt repoſed in them, by ſecret feoffments, eſtates, and other covenous Acts had defrauded Ceſtuy que uſe, and had prevented ſuch diſpoſition of the land that the ſaid Act of 1 R. 3. gave to him; and as Walmeſley ſaid, there was ſometimes fraud in both, for when Ceſtuy que uſe by himſelf without the feoffees by force of the Statute of 1 R. 3. and the feoffees by themſelves without Ceſtuy que uſe by the Common Law had both ſeverally abſolute power to make diſpoſition of one and the ſame land; ſometimes Ceſtuy que uſe by his ſecret eſtates prevented the feoffees, and ſometimes the feoffees by the like
[b] ſecret eſtates prevented Ceſtuy que uſe, ſo that as he ſaid, they played at double hand, and thereby beguiled the true intention of the Act. And the chief Baron and Walmeſley ſaid, that the Statute of 27 H. 8. was not made to extinguiſh or eradicate any uſes, but the Statute of 27 H. 8. hath advanced uſes, and now hath eſtabliſhed ſafety and aſſurance for Ceſtuy que uſe againſt the feoffees, for before the Statute the feoffees were owners of the land, and now the Statute of 27 H. 8. hath made Ceſtuy que uſe owner of the land; before the Statute the poſſeſſion did govern and rule the uſe, but now after the Statute, the uſe doth govern and rule the poſſeſſion; for by the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. the poſſeſſion is a ſubject and follower of the uſe. And no word in the preamble doth condemn uſes, but for the extirpating and extinguiſhing of all ſuch ſubtile practiſed feoffments, fines, recoveries, abuſes, &c. ſo as the uſes are not guilty of the inconvenienceies mentioned in the preamble, but the feoffments, fines and recovery ſubtilly and craftily practiſed, ſo as the intention of the Act was for to extirpate and extinguiſh (which both are ſignificant words) all ſuch feoffments, fines, recoveries, but how? By deſtroying of uſes; no truly, but by deveſting all the eſtate out of the feoffees, conuſees, and recoverors, and veſting the ſame in Ceſtuy que uſe, ſo that it ſhall be againſt the meaning and the letter of the Law alſo, to ſay that any eſtate or right or ſcintilla juris ſhould remain in the feoffees after the Statute of 27 H. 8. for it appeareth by the preamble, that the makers of the Act did intend to extirpate and eradicate all the eſtate of the feoffees, and the letter of the body of the Act is, that the eſtate, right, title, and poſſeſſion that was in ſuch perſon or perſons that were or hereafter ſhall be ſeiſed of any lands to the uſe of ſuch perſon be from thenceforth clearly adjudged and deemed in him or them, &c. ſo that by a Judgment given by all the Parliament the eſtate ſhall be out of the feoffees; and the chief Baron ſaid, that ſcintilla juris which is mentioned in 17 Eliz. is like to Sir Thomas Moore's Eutopia; and they ſaid that after this Statute, that no truſt or confidence was repoſed in the feoffees. For now as Walmeſley ſaid the feoffees non poſſunt agere aut permittere aliquid in prejudice of Ceſtuy que uſe.

Before the Statute the office of the feoffee was to execute the eſtate according to the uſe, but now the Statute hath taken away all the office of the feoffees, and now the Act doth execute the poſſeſſion to the uſe, and takes away all the truſt and power out of the feoffees. And the letter of the Statute of 27 H. 8. is, Where any perſon or perſons ſtand or be ſeiſed, or at any time hereafter ſhall happen to be ſeiſed, and they relied much upon theſe words (at any time) for it ſeemed to them by theſe words, that the ſeiſin which the feoffees have at the beginning by the feoffment ſhall be ſufficient within this Act to ſerve all [133] the uſes as well future when they come in eſſe as preſent, for there needeth not many ſeiſins, nor ſeiſin to continue, but ſeiſin at any time, ſo ſeiſin at one time ſhall ſuffice, for the Statute ſaith, ſeiſed at any time, and it ſhall be hard when the Statute requireth but one ſeiſin at one time only, that many ſeiſins and at ſeveral times againſt the intent and letter of the Act ſhould be required. The Statute of 27 H. 8. extendeth to all lawful and good uſes as well future as in eſſe, and no ſuch uſe is deſtroyed but advanced and extolled, as hath been ſaid before. And Walmeſley ſaid, that if ſuch conſtruction ſhall be made to deſtroy theſe future uſes, the uſual pleading all times in practiſe after the Statute ought to be altered; for the pleading of a feoffment in fee unto future uſes after that they come in eſſe, is virtute cujus & vigore actus Parliamenti, &c. de uſibus in poſſeſſionem transferend', Ceſtuy que uſe was ſeiſed, &c. ſo that one ſeiſin is ſufficient as is proved by the uſual form of pleading, but now the pleading of it ſhall be altered if many ſeiſins ſhall be requiſite, and then more ſeiſins then one ought to be alledged. And he ſaid, as a fountain giveth to every one which cometh in their time to it a juſt meaſure of water, ſo the firſt ſeiſin and eſtate in fee given by the firſt feoffment to the feoffees is ſufficient to yield to all perſons to whom any uſe preſent or future is limited a competent meaſure of eſtate in their time proportionable to their eſtates which they ſhall have in the uſe; ſo that it ſeemeth to them, that the firſt ſeiſin by force of the feoffment by which the fee ſimple is given to the feoffees ſhall be ſufficient to ſerve all the particular uſes as well future as preſent in their ſeveral times, and nothing ſhall remain in the feoffees. But Walmeſley ſaid, that all the eſtate ſhall be firſt veſted in thoſe who are in rerum natura, and the poſſeſſion ſhall be veſted in him who hath the future uſe when the ſame cometh in eſſe by force of the firſt livery, and ſhall divide the eſtates which were conjoyned before. And he agreed that an alien, nor a perſon attainted, nor a Corporation cannot at this day be originally enfeoffed to the uſe of an other, for no uſe can be created out of their ſeiſin. J. S. maketh a feoffment in fee to divers natural perſons to certain uſes, ſome preſent, and ſome future, ſo as the uſes are well created and raiſed, although a Corporation be afterwards enfeoffed of the land, yet the future uſes when they come in eſſe, ſhall be raiſed and executed by force of the firſt livery, and the firſt ſeiſin of the feoffees, and by force of the Act, as he conceived. And Walmeſley further ſaid, that the future uſes in our Caſe cannot be ſuſpended, for a thing which never was in eſſe cannot but be ſuſpen-
[b] ded, but all the eſtate veſts firſt in them who have the preſent uſes, or the uſes in eſſe, and when the future uſes come in eſſe, then they ſhall become and ſhall come in between the other eſtates which were conjoyned before; and in proof thereof they cited the Caſe of Cranmer 14 Eliz. reported by the Lord Dier, fol. 309. and the Caſe of Seniori puero in 16 Eliz. reported alſo by the Lord Dier 337. and the Caſe of 5 H. 7. 6. If Ceſtuy que uſe by force of the Statute of 1 R. 3. make a feoffmene in fee upon Condition, and after entreth for the Condition broken, the feoffees never had the land again, becauſe all the intereſt and privity of the feoffees was once by the feoffment taken out of them; So in the Caſe in 19 H. 6. 76. & 2 E. 4. 2. if a man make a feoffment in fee upon Condition that he ſhall make a feoffment over in fee, in this Caſe if the ſecend feoffee refuſe, the feoffor ſhall enter, for it was the intent of both parties that the feoffee ſhould depart with all his eſtate, and nothing ſhould remain in him: Otherwiſe it is, if the Condition were that he ſhould make a gift in tail; and he ſaid, that if a feoffment be made of Land unto the uſe of A. and there is alſo a rent iſſuing out of the ſame Land unto the uſe of B. although the poſſeſſion of the Land be diſturbed by diſſeiſin, yet the uſe of the rent is not diſturbed thereby, becauſe the diſturbance is done to another ſeiſin, that is to ſay, to the Land and not to the ſeiſin of the rent out of which the uſe is limited. So in the Caſe at Barr, the diſturbance is not the firſt ſeiſin given by the feoffment, out of which all the uſes as out of a fountain flow, but the diſturbance is done to other ſeiſins, ſcil. to ſeiſins executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. and not to the firſt ſeiſin, which by no means can be taken and deveſted, for it hath not any eſſence until the future uſe hath eſſence, which by force of the Statute ſhall draw a ſufficient eſtate to it, but when the future uſe is come in eſſe, now by reference and relation to the firſt ſeiſin there is ſeiſin and uſe within the Statute of 27 H. 8. And in proof thereof he cited Bracebridges Caſe 15 Eliz. which in effect was: A man made a feoffment of a Mannor to diverſe, to certain uſes, upon condition that if certain monies were not paid within a certain time, that then they ſhould ſtand ſeiſed to other uſes; the monies were not paid, and after attornment was to the feoffees when the poſſeſſion of the demeſns were executed before by the Statute; in this Caſe after the condition broken Ceſtuy que uſe had poſſeſſion of the Land by force of the firſt livery; and yet there was not any cotinuance of ſeiſin in the feoffees, nor the feoffees were not ſeiſed of the Land at the time of the execution of the poſſeſſion to the uſe.

ture

And the Caſe of 13 Eliz. Dier 298. b. 22 Eliz. 369. a. Tenant in Capite enfeoffeth one and his heirs, provided that when the feoffor ſhall pay 100. l. to him or his heirs, that then it ſhall be to the uſe of the feoffor and his heirs, the feoffee dieth his heir within age, the 100. l. is paid, office is found, the feoffor ſhall have the uſe by force of the firſt livery, and by relation to it ſhall defeat the Wardſhip of the body and land. And he ſaid, that if a man make a feoffment in fee to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of another in tail, with divers remainders over with power to his leſſee for life to make [134] leaſes for 21. years, or 3. lives, in this Caſe, if the Tenant for life make a leaſe for 21. years or 3. lives, it ought be derived and take his eſſence out of the firſt feoffment, or otherwiſe all leaſes ſhall be determined by the death of the leſſee for life, and in the ſame Caſe there is not any ſeiſin continuing in the feoffees, but the firſt ſeiſin ſufficeth, and the ſame is conſonant to the words of the Act of 27 H. 8. for it ſaith, That the eſtate that was in the feoffee ſhall be adjudged in Ceſtuy que uſe; But Periam chief Baron conceived, that theſe future uſes before their births are not preſerved in the bowels and belly of the Land, but that they were in nubibus, and in the preſervation of the Law; for he well agreed with Walmeſley, that by force of the Act all the eſtate ſhall be out of the feoffees, and then of neceſſity he ſaid it ought to be in ſome perſon, or in abeyance and conſideration of the Law. And it ſhall be abſurd to ſay that the feoffees ſhall have leſs eſtate than they took by the firſt livery. And therefore becauſe nothing remains in the feoffees, and this future caſe cannot be executed until the perſon who ſhall take the ſame be in being, of neceſſity in the mean time it ought to be in the preſervation of the Law. And if any Caſe be doubtful upon a Statute it is good to conſtrue the ſame according to the reaſon of the Common Law, as it is ſaid in Dalamers Caſe in Plow. Com. 351.

And if the eſtate in our Caſe had been limited in our poſſeſſion by livery and ſeiſin, the remainder to the eldeſt ſon, &c. till his birth it ſhall be by the rule of the Common Law in the conſideration of the Law; and by the ſame reaſon the uſe ſhall be in our Caſe, and as the uſe ſhall be, ſo ſhall be the poſſeſſion by force of the Statute, for be the uſe in eſſe, or in the conſideration of the Law, the poſſeſſion ſhall be transferred to it by force of the Statute. And he took a difference between feoffees before the Statute, and feoffees after the Statute; for if feoffees unto an uſe were diſſeiſed before the Statute, no uſe could be executed after the Statute without regreſs of the feoffees, for the Statute ſaith, Which be or at any time hereafter ſhall be ſeiſed, &c. And thoſe who were diſſeiſed before the Statute, were not ſeiſed at the time of the Act, nor at any time after until regreſs; Otherwiſe it is when the feoffment is made after the Statute cauſa qua ſupra. And where the Statute ſaith, To the uſe of any perſon or perſons, the Statute doth not ſay, To the uſe of any perſon or perſons in eſſe, but to the uſe of another perſon, and that ſhall be intended when his time ſhall come; and it ſhall be a hard conſtruction to deſtroy the future uſes in our Caſe which were limited upon good cauſe and conſideration, and eſpecially when the ſons who then were not in eſſe, were not parties to any wrong, covin or practice; but he ſaid, that the uſe by the Common Law was in abeyance and cuſtody of the Law. And the poſſeſſion accordingly by force of the Statute, for no other perſon can take the ſame, and a thing which is committed to the cuſtody of [b] the Law, the Law will lawfully preſerve without any violence or deſtruction. And therefore 32 H. 6. if there be Tenant for life the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. and Tenant for life is diſſeiſed, and a deſcent caſt, and after J. S. dieth, and then the leſſee for life dieth, the entry of the right heir of J. S. is lawful, and he put alſo the Caſe of the Parſon to this purpoſe. And to prove that as well the poſſeſſion as the uſe are in the cuſtody of the Law, he cited Cranmers Caſe 14 Eliz. Dier 309. that the remainder limited to the Executors was in abeyance; and the Earl of Bedfords Caſe, in which Caſe he ſaid it was agreed, that the remainder to his right heirs was in the cuſtody of the Law until the death of John Lord Ruſſel. And 17 Eliz. Dier. Brents Caſe 340. that the remainder limited to the wife that ſhall be was in abeyance in the Lord Brayes Caſe, 2 Eliz. Dier fol. 190, 191. where it was holden, that the remainder limited to the wife that ſhall be ſhould be in abeyance if the particular eſtate had not been but a Term, which cannot by the rule of Law ſupport a remainder in abeyance. And he cited the Caſes in Brooks Abridgement Feoffments to uſes. 30 H. 8. & 50 pl. 3. M. pl. 59. when Brook was chief Juſtice; and he ſaid, that the uſes do extend themſelves into many branches, and are to be reſembled to Nebuchadnezzars tree, for in this tree the fowls of the heaven build their neſts, and the nobles of this Realm erect and eſtabliſh their houſes, and under this tree the infinita pecora campi, and great part of Copyholders and Farmers of land for ſhelter and ſafety, and he ſaid, that if the tree ſhall be overthrown and overturned, it would make a great print and impreſſion in the land. And therefore it was convenient to repreſs the miſchief after by Parliament, and not to have retroſpect to Caſes before.

And he and Walmeſley alſo agreed in their argument, that the uſes in this Caſe ſhall follow the rules of eſtates at the Common Law. And therefore in this Caſe, if Tenant for life dieth before the birth of the ſon, the remainder in uſe ſhall be void, for ſuch remainder ſhall be void by the rule of the Common Law if it had been made in poſſeſſion, if the remainder do not veſt during the particular eſtate, or at leaſt when the particular eſtate determineth, and no difference between uſes and eſtates made in poſſeſſion to this purpoſe. And ſo they did conclude, that Judgement ought to be given for the Plaintiff.

On the other ſide it war argued by Baron Ewens, Juſtice Owen, Juſtice Beamond, Juſtice Fenner, Juſtice Gawdy, Baron Clark, Juſtice Clench, the Lord Anderſon, and Popham Lord chief Juſtice to the contrary. And it was agreed by them all, that the feoffment made by the ſaid feoffees who had an eſtate for life by limitation of uſe deveſted all the eſtates, and the future uſes alſo. And although that Richard [135] Chudleigh their feoffee had notice of the future uſe, yet it is not material, becauſe that all the ancient eſtates were deveſted by the ſaid feoffment; and this new eſtate cannot be ſubject to the ancient uſes which riſe out of the ancient eſtate which was deveſted by the feoffment. And Gawdy Juſtice ſaid, that the uſes limited to the eldeſt ſon, &c. were in abeyance, and he ſaid that the eſtates of the land ſufficient to ſerve theſe future uſes were in abeyance alſo; but he agreed that the ſame was not by the letter of the Statute of 27 H. 8. but ſhall be taken by equity of the ſaid Statute. For he ſaid, that the letter of the Statute is, To the uſe of any perſon or perſons, and here wanteth perſon, &c. alſo in every Caſe ſuch perſon ſhall be adjudged in lawful ſeiſin, &c. alſo, and that the eſtate, &c. ſhall be adjudged in him or them that ſhall have ſuch uſe; and therefore he ſaid, the uſes in abeyance by the equity of the Statute did draw ſufficient eſtate to ſerve them in abeyance alſo, and that for the ſaving and maintenance of future uſes, and that they ſhall be defeated and deſtroyed; and he agreed alſo, that all the preſent uſes as well precedent as ſubſequent were executed preſently; and he agreed with the other Juſtices, that the Statute of 27 H. 8. did not extend to ſubvert and deſtroy uſes in other manner then by the executing and transferring of the poſſeſſion of the land to them. And Gawdy cited the opinion of Fitzherbert in 28 H. 8. 12. a. that it was an inconvenience and impoſſibility in Law before the Statute of 27 H. 8. that two men ſhould have ſeveral powers to make diſpoſition of the ſame land, ſcil. the feoffees by the Common Law, and Ceſtuy que uſe by the Statute of 1 R. 3. and that inconvenience was intended to be remedied by this Act of 27 H. 8. and he conceived, that all the eſtate ſhall be out of the feoffees, for no right of the feoffees is ſaved which they have to other uſes, as it is ſaid 7 E. 6. in Stephen Davies Caſe. Dier 88. b.

And if a feoffment in fee be made unto the uſe of one for life, and after to the right heirs of J. S. the feee ſimple of the land ſhall be in abeyance; and before the Statute if a man had made a feoffment unto the uſe of one for years, and after to the right heirs of J. S. this limitation had been good, for the feoffees remain Tenants of the freehold, but ſuch limitation after the Statute is void, for then the freehold ſhall be in ſuſpence, for nothing can remain in the feoffees; but he ſaid, that theſe remainders in future were deveſted and deſtroyed by the feoffment of the Tenants for life; and although the remainders be within cuſtody of [b] the Law, yet they ought to be ſubject to the rules of the Law, for the Law will never preſerve any thing againſt the rule of Law: And becauſe that the rule of Law is, that he in the remainder ought to take the land when the particular eſtate determineth, or elſe the remainder ſhall be void; and in this Caſe for as much as by the feoffment of the Tenants for life their eſtate was determined, and title of entry given for the forfeiture, and then thoſe in the future remainder were not in eſſe to take it, for this cauſe the remainders in futuro by matter ex poſt facto were utterly deſtroyed and made void, and there is no difference when the eſtate for life determineth by the death of the Tenant for life, and when the ſame determineth in right by his forfeiture, for in both Caſes entry is given unto him in the next remainder, and then if he cannot take the land when the particular eſtate endeth, the remainder is void. And if Chriſtopher Chudleigh at the time of the forfeiture had been born, he could not have entred for the forfeiture.

If there be Tenant for life, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. if in this Caſe Tenant for life maketh a feoffment in fee during the life of J. S. the remainder is deſtroyed, for otherwiſe there ſhould be a remainder without a particular eſtate, which cannot be, no more in the Caſe of an uſe then in the Caſe of an eſtate made in poſſeſſion. And upon that he cited the Caſe 3 Eliz. Dier. Brayes Caſe. And of the ſame opinion was Popham chief Juſtice, Baron Clarke and Owen, as to the ſaid point of forfeiture, admitting that no diſturbance or alteration of the eſtate had been made. And the chief Juſtice denied the opinion of Gaſcoigne in 7 H. 4. 23. b. who thought that ſuch remainder ſhould not be defeated by the feoffment of Tenant for life. And Baron Clarke put the Caſe in 11 R. 2. Fitz. Detinue 46. A gift in tail was made to A. C. the remainder to the right heirs of A. S. the donee made a feoffment unto B. in fee, and after A. S. died, his right heir ſhall never have the remainder nor any Charter which doth concern the ſame, but the eſtate of the land was by the feoffment of the Tenant in tail deveſted and determined, and all eſtates veſted in the feoffee, and there was not any particular eſtate neither in eſſe, nor in right to ſupport the remainder when it fell, for by the feoffment of the Tenant in tail his right is utterly gone, as Littleton ſaid, and then at the time the remainder fell, ſcil. at the death of A. S. there was not any particular eſtate to ſupport the remainder, neither in eſſe nor in right. And in the ſaid Caſe, note the words of Charleton chief Juſtice, and the judgment; But if Tenant in tail be diſſeiſed and dieth, the ſame ſhall not take away the remainder, for there a right of the particular eſtate remaineth to ſupport the right of the remainder, but when the Tenant in tail maketh a feoffment no right remaineth in him. And Juſtice Owen ſaid, If Tenant for life had made a feoffment in our Caſe before the birth of the ſon, he in the next remainder in eſſe ſhould enter for the forfeiture. And Gawdy ſaid, that in divers Caſes a thing in abeyance may be barred and deſtroyed; as if Tenant in tail be diſſeiſed, and releaſe to the diſſeiſor, now Littleton ſaith the ſtate tail is in abeyance, yet it may be barred by a common recovery in which the Tenant in tail is vouched: So if Tenant in tail be, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. if Tenant in tail ſuffer a common recovery, the remainder is barred. So he ſaid upon the Caſe of 17 Eliz. Dier fol. 340. If the husband maketh a feoffment in fee before the taking wife, the wife ſhall never take, for the poſſeſſion and eſtate of the land is altered and charged and transferred to the poſſeſſion of another before the title of the wife doth accrue, but if no deveſting or alteration had been, then the uſe ſhall veſt in the wife, and he reſembled it to the Caſe 22 Aſſ. 37. 26 Aſſ. 8. & 29 Aſſ. 34. If a warranty be made to the poſſeſſion of a villain if the anceſtor dieth, ſo long as it continueth in his poſſeſſion it ſhall bind, but if the Lord of the villain entreth before the warranty doth attach, then the warranty ſhall not bind, for the Lord of a villain is in by force of his title of villainage, and the eſtate and the poſſeſſion of the land doth not continue, but by the entry of the Lord is altered and changed. And it was holden by Baron Ewens, Owen, Beamond, Fenner, Clark, Clench, the L. Anderſon, and Popham L. chief Juſtice, that at the Common Law, by diſſeiſin or by ſuch feoffment as in the caſe at Bar, as well all future uſes or uſes in contingency are deveſted and diſcontinued, as uſes in eſſe until the firſt eſtate out of which the uſes riſe be recontinued. And the Statute of 27 H. 8. doth not transfer any poſſeſſion to any uſe but only to uſes in eſſe, and not to any uſe in future or in contingency until they come in eſſe; and the ſame appeareth by the expreſs letter of the Act, for as there ought to be a perſon in eſſe ſeiſed to the uſe, ſo there ought to be an uſe in eſſe which ſhould riſe out of the eſtate, and there ought to be a perſon in eſſe who ſhall take the uſe, before any poſſeſſion can be transferred and executed to the uſe, for if the perſon who ſhall take the uſe be not in eſſe, or if the perſon be in eſſe, and no uſe be in eſſe, but only a poſſibility (as the Lord Anderſon ſaid) of an uſe, then cannot be any execution of the poſſeſſion to the uſe. And as at the Common Law there cannot be any uſe in eſſe, if there be no ſeiſin out of which the uſe ſhall riſe, ſo no uſe can be executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. if there be no ſeiſin in ſome perſon ſeiſed to ſuch uſe at the time of the execution thereof, for the expreſs words of the Act is, Where any perſon or perſons ſtand or be ſeiſed or hereafter &c. ſhall ſtand or be ſeiſed, &c. to the uſe of any other perſon or perſons, ſo as there ought to be a perſon in eſſe of both parties, ſc. who ſhall be ſeiſed to the uſe, and who ſhall take the uſe, ſo as it behoveth not only to have a uſe limited but a perſon capable of the uſe when the Statute transferreth the poſſeſſion to it, and therefore if the perſon fail, it is not poſſible to have the poſſeſſion executed by this Statute to one who is not in rerum natura, for the Statute ſaith, To the uſe of any perſon or perſons in every ſuch Caſe, all and every ſuch perſon and perſons that have any ſuch uſe in fee ſimple, fee tail, for term of life or years, or otherwiſe, or any uſe in reverſion or remainder, &c. in which words note the word [ſuch] is iterated three times. So that uſes in eſſe, that is to ſay, in poſſeſſion, reverſion, or remainder, for there is no word of poſſibility or contingency, and perſons in eſſe are only within this Act; Shall from henceforth be deemed and judged in lawful ſeiſin, eſtate, and poſſeſſion, and that cannot be any perſon who is not in eſſe, or any perſon who is in eſſe, and who hath but a poſſibility of an uſe, who perhaps ſhall never have an uſe in eſſe. And by theſe words it fully appeareth, that no eſtate by this Statute can be transferred to the poſſibility of an uſe. And that the eſtate that was in ſuch perſon or perſons that were or hereafter ſhould be ſeiſed to the uſe of any ſuch perſon or perſons be from henceforth clearly deemed and adjudged to be in him or them that have or hereafter ſhall have ſuch uſe: ſo that this clauſe doth not deveſt any eſtate out of the feoffees, but when it can be executed in the Ceſtuy que uſe, (that is to ſay) in him or them that have or hereafter ſhall have ſuch uſe, and that cannot one have who is not in eſſe; for he is not a perſon who can have an uſe, and by conſequence cannot have any poſſeſſion by this Act.

nor

[136]

[b]

It was further holden by the ſaid two chief Juſtices, Clenche, Clarke, Fenner, Beamond, Owen, and Ewens, that thoſe who had argued on the other ſide have taken but the firſt part of the ſentence, that is to ſay, that the eſtate ſhall be out of the feoffees, but they have forgot the latter part of the ſentence, ſcil. that the eſtate ſhall be in ſuch perſon who hath the uſe, and that cannot be until the perſon and the uſe alſo be in eſſe. And by this clauſe it alſo appeareth, that no eſtate of the feoffees ſhall be transferred in abeyance out of the feoffees, and veſted in no body, or be transferred to a poſſibility of an uſe which hath not any being, for then an eſtate in eſſe ſhall be transferred to the poſſibility of an uſe which hath not any being, which ſhall be againſt reaſon, and againſt the letter and meaning of the Act, for the words are, And ſhall be adjudged in him or them that ſhall have ſuch uſe, Ergo, the eſtate of the feoffees ſhall not be in abeyance. And the two chief Juſtices, Fenner, Beamond, Owen, and Ewen's ſaid, That if the eſtate ſhall be utterly out of the feoffees, and all veſted in thoſe who have the preſent uſes (as ſome have holden before) then the future uſe ſhall never riſe, for it is not poſſible that it ſhould be raiſed out of the poſſeſſion of Ceſtuy que uſe, for an uſe cannot be raiſed out of an uſe, as is 36 H. 8. tit. Feoffments al uſes, Br. 54. 5 Mar. Dier 155. And if A. enfeoff B. in fee to the uſe of C. and his heirs, with Proviſo that if B. pay to C. 100 l. that C. and his heirs ſhall ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of D. and his heirs, this is utterly void, for the future uſe ought to be raiſed out of the eſtate of the feoffee, and not out of the eſtate of Ceſtuy que uſe. And it was holden by them, that the feoffees after the Statute had a poſſibility to ſerve the future uſe when it came in eſſe, and that in the mean time all the uſes in eſſe ſhall be veſted, and when the future uſe comes in eſſe, then the feoffees (if the poſſeſſion be not diſturbed by diſſeiſin or other means) ſhall have ſufficient eſtate and ſeiſin to ſerve the future uſe when it cometh in eſſe, to be executed by force of the Statute, and that ſeiſin and execution by force of the Statute ought to concur at one and the ſame time.

[137]

And this Caſe is not to be reſembled to Caſes at the Common Law, for an Act of Parliament may make diviſion of eſtates, and for as much as this diviſion is made by Act of Parliament, it is not neceſſary that the feoffees have their ancient eſtates. And they ſaid that this conſtruction is right, and conſonant to reaſon and equity, for by this conſtruction the intereſt and power that every one hath is preſerved by the Act, for if the poſſeſſion be diſturbed by diſſeiſin or otherwiſe, the feoffees ſhall have power to enter to revive the former uſes according to the truſt repoſed in them; and if they by any Act bar themſelves of their entry, then this Caſe (not being remedied by the Act) doth remain as it was at the Common Law. And the chief Juſtice and Fenner ſaid, That if a man make a feoffment in fee to the uſe of one for life, and after to the uſe of the feoffee in tail upon contingency, and after the contingency happeneth, in this Caſe the feoffee is the donor as is proved by 2 E. 6. Br. Formedon 41. 7 E. 6. ib. 46. Plow. Comm. 59. 20 Eliz. Dier 362. but it ſhall be abſurd that the feoffee ſhall be donor, and yet ſhall have nothing, but ſhall be only as an Inſtrument, or as the wind out of an Organ pipe. And Fenner put the Caſes in 7 H. 6. 3. a. 13 R. 2. Dower 55. 29 Aſſ. 64. if Tenant for life make a leaſe to him in the reverſion for the life of him in the reverſion, although that the leſſee had but a freehold and departed with a freehold, yet the leſſee hath a poſſibility which by the death of him in the reverſion may come in eſtate. So although the eſtate of the feoffees be transferred unto the uſes in eſſe, yet a poſſibility doth remain in the feoffees, which may be reduced to an eſtate ſufficient to ſerve the future uſes. And he ſaid, that it was not ſtrange that an action in Law ſhould alter the original eſtate, but then the new eſtate ought to be ſo near the ancient eſtate as might be, ſo that all intereſts may be ſerved and ſaved according to the [b] intent and meaning of the parties; as in the Caſe of Littleton, & 2 H. 4. 5. if a man make a feoffment in fee upon condition to make an eſtate to husband and wife in ſpecial tail, and before any gift made the husband dieth without iſſue, now by this act in Law, the eſtate ſhall be made to the wife without impeachment of waſt, &c. and ſo by an act in Law the original eſtate ſhall be altered.

And Baron Clark ſaid, that ſome have ſuppoſed that future uſes were preſerved in the bowels of the Law, and that the land ſhall be charged with them in whoſe hands ſoever they come; and ſome have ſuppoſed that they were in nubibus, and in the cuſtody of Law, but he ſaid in our Caſe be they below under the land, there they ſhall be perpetually buried and ſhall never riſe again, and be they above in nubibus, in the clouds, there they ſhall always remain, and ſhall never deſcend; for he ſaid that the ſons of Chriſtopher Chudleigh in our Caſe were not born in due time, and as this Caſe is they ſhall never take the future uſe. And he put many good Caſes when the ſon born after fit and due time ſhall not take, and upon that he put the Caſe of Raviſhment in 5 E. 4. 6. where the ſon is born after the entry of the daughter, and 9 H. 7. 25. & 30 Aſſ. 47. when the remainder limited to the right heirs of J. S. firſt veſts in the daughter, and after the ſon is born, and many good Caſes were put by him to the ſame purpoſe. And further he ſaid as in the Caſe of Kidwelly in Plow. Comm. the leſſor by the agreement of the parties may come upon the land to demand his rent, although that the eſtate of the land be transferred to another; ſo by the original agreement of all parties the feoffee may reenter and revive ſuch future uſes, which by the Law may be revived; and in ſuch Caſes he ſaid, that when the future uſes ſhall come in eſſe, the feoffees ſhall have by force of the Act a qualified eſtate ſufficient to ſerve the future uſes, and reſembled it to the Caſe in 21 E. 4. 41. King E. 3. gave lands to the Black Prince and to his heirs Kings of England, in this Caſe the grantee hath a qualified Inheritance, for in as much as the Black Prince died in the life of his father, and his ſon Richard was not then King of England, the land did revert. So all the Juſtices and Barons of the Exchequer, beſides Periam, Walmeſley and Gawdy did conclude, that foraſmuch as the Statute of 27 H. 8. doth not extend but to the uſes in eſſe, and to perſons in eſſe, and not to any uſes which depended only in poſſibility, for this cauſe the contingent uſes in the Caſe at Bar do remain ſo long as they depend in poſſibility, only at the Common Law, and by conſequence they might be deſtroyed or diſcontinued before they came in eſſe by all ſuch means as uſes might have been diſcontinued or deſtroyed by the Common Law.

And all the Juſtices and Barons of the Exchequer did agree with the chief Baron and Walmeſley in this [138] point, ſcil. that the remainders limited in uſe in the Caſe at Bar ſhould follow the rule and reaſon of eſtates executed in poſſeſſion by the Common Law, and therefore they all unanimouſly agreed, that if the eſtate for life in the Caſe at Bar had been determined by the death of the feoffees before the birth of the eldeſt ſon, that the ſaid remainders in futuro were void, and ſhould never take effect although that the ſons were born after, for a remainder in uſe ought to veſt during the particular eſtate, or at leaſt eo inſtante when the particular eſtate endeth, as well as an eſtate in poſſeſſion. And it was holden by all the Juſtices, that if the contingent uſe in the Caſe at Bar had come in eſſe without any alteration of the eſtate of the land, that it ſhall be executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. but the alteration of the eſtate before it cometh in eſſe hath deſtroyed it, as it hath been ſaid, but if any ſuch alteration of eſtate be before the execution, or eſſence of the future uſe, then the uſe ſhall not be transferred into poſſeſſion before the impediment be removed, and the eſtate recontinued.

It was holden by the Juſtices and Barons who argued againſt the contingent uſe, that the Statute of 27 H. 8. ſhall not be (againſt the expreſs letter of the Act) conſtrued by equity for the maintenance and preſervation of theſe contingent uſes, for as well as by ſuch conſtruction, the miſchiefs which were intended to be prevented by the makers of the Act ſhould be continued, or greater brought in, as after by the argument of Popham chief Juſtice as to this point appeareth. And Popham chief Juſtice in his argument ſaid, that by force of the Act of 27 H. 8. ſome uſes are preſently executed, ſome uſes are executed by matter ex poſt facto, and ſome uſes are extirpate and extinguiſhed by the Act; uſes in eſſe draw the poſſeſſion preſently by force of the Act; uſes in futuro limited according to the rule of the Common Law are alſo if they come in eſſe in due time within the purview of this Statute, but uſes invented and limited in a new manner not agreeable to the ancient Common Laws of the land, ſuch uſes are utterly deſtroyed and extirpated and extinguiſhed by this Act: For it appeareth by the expreſs words of the Act, that it was the intent of the Parliament to root out and extinguiſh them, and to reſtore the ancient Common Law of the land. And therefore he ſaid, that if a feoffment be made to the uſe of A. for life, and after to the uſe of every perſon who ſhall be his heir after, for the term of the life of every ſuch heir only, in this Caſe, if this limitation ſhall be good, the inheritance ſhall be in no body, but this limitation is meerly void, for the limitation of an uſe to have a perpetual freehold is not agreeable with the rule of Law in eſtates in poſſeſſion; So if one make a feoffment in fee to the uſe of one in tail with divers remainders over, Proviſo that if any ſhall attempt to purchaſe any Præcipe againſt any Tenant of the freehold, &c. that his eſtate ſhall ceaſe, and that then the feoffees ſhall ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of another, &c. ſuch Proviſo or limitation is againſt the rule of the Common Law if it had been conveyed in poſſeſſion, for he cannot limit new remainders upon ſuch Conditions; and at this day, an eſtate tail in land cannot ceaſe till entry, and no entry or reentry is given to any but only to the feoffor or his heirs and not to any in remainder. And he agreed the Caſe which was put before that the Proviſo that the eſtate in tail by limitation of an uſe ſhall ceaſe as if Tenant in tail were naturally dead, and not otherwiſe, for he ſaid, that ſuch limitation ſhall be void if it were limited in poſſeſſion: And he ſaid, that there was no difference at this day between eſtates conveyed in uſe and eſtates conveyed in poſſeſſion, for the eſtate and limitation of an uſe ought to be known at the Common Law, and governed and directed by the rules thereof. But he ſaid, that the limitation of the uſes in this Caſe as well future as in eſſe were good and lawful, for ſuch eſtates executed in poſſeſſion were good, but the future uſes were deſtroyed by ſubſequent matter as he ſaid: And he ſaid, that if ſuch conſtruction upon the Statute of 27 H. 8. by equity or otherwiſe ſhall be made for the maintenance and preſervation of future uſes as hath been made by thoſe who have argued on the other ſide, greater inconveniencies ſhall be introduced then were before the making of the Statute of 27 H. 8. for he ſaid, that the ſaid conſtruction did tend to the overthrow of noble and great families, and to the diſenheriſon of their heirs, ſo that no land ſubject to ſuch perpetuities can continue four deſcents, for if he who is ſo reſtrained and tied with the Proviſoes of perpetuities ſell any part of his lands for payment of any debts or legacies, or if he be taken priſoner in the war for his ranſom, or for the preferment of his younger ſons, or for advancement of his daughters in marriage, or for any cauſe, or any neceſſity whatſoever, he ſhall forfeit his eſtate: alſo when the eldeſt ſon knoweth that he ſhall have the lands and poſſeſſions of his father in ſpight of him, it is a cauſe that the ſon becomes diſſolute and diſobedient, ſo that he will not depend upon the government of his father, but refuſe to be ruled and directed by him. Alſo it ſhall raiſe variance and diſcord in the ſame blood, and in effect tear the bowels of nature, and ſtir the ſon (upon every ſuppoſition of breach of the Proviſoes) to put his father out of the land, whereof great troubles and ſuits would ariſe, to the waſting and overthrow of the family, and ſo from brother to brother, and from couſin to couſin; and it is needful that he who hath ſuch perpetuity have always a Counſellor at Law at his elbow, for he cannot make any conveyance concerning his lands, but his ſon or he who is next to the land watch for a forfeiture: And alſo he who hath an eſtate ſubject to ſuch perpetuity, if he hath two ſeveral farms whereof two ſeveral rents have been reſerved, and peradventure where the ſeveral rents amount but to 40 s. per ann. and he joyneth both in one leaſe for life, and reſerveth one rent of four Marks per ann. it is a forfeiture of his eſtate. For upon this leaſe the uſual and accuſtomed rent is not reſerved; ſo in many Caſes if he do not obſerve the preciſe form and power which is given to him it ſhall amount unto a forfeiture of his eſtate, and within two or three deſcents the Proviſoes and limitations ſhall not be ſo freſh in memory that every Gentleman can in every leaſe which he maketh follow the preciſe form of the Proviſoes. Alſo if the wives of ſuch perſons become incontinent, and have iſſue by other men then by their husbands, this adulterous generation ſhall inherit the husbands lands in deſpight of them. And the ſame ſhall be a great occaſion for women to offend when they know that their iſſues ſhall inherit, and many other inconveniencies will follow upon ſuch conſtruction in maintenance of theſe perpetuities: And ſo men who intend to overreach the providence of God, and covet to eſtabliſh their lands in their names and in their bloods by theſe ways, they are in truth thereby the cauſe of waſting and overthrowing of their houſes. Alſo no purchaſor ſhall be ſure of his purchaſe without an Act of Parliament; and where at the Common Law if he had purchaſed the land bona fide without notice of the uſe, he had been free of the uſe, he ſhall be now in worſe caſe, for by the conſtruction which hath been made, his lands ſhall be ſubject to theſe future uſes.

Law

[b] [139]

Alſo farmers and leſſees cannot have any certainty or full aſſurance: for put caſe a feoffment in fee be made unto the uſe of one for life, and after to the uſe of another in tail with remainder over, with power to the leſſee for life to make leaſes ſo as he reſerve the accuſtomed rent paiable to all thoſe who have the reverſion: If Tenant for life maketh leaſes according to his power, the leſſees derive their intereſt out of the firſt feoffment, how then can the reſervation of the rent be good, and how can his heir, or he in the remainder come by the ſame? And if ſuch Proviſo be added in the original aſſurance, then the leſſees ſhall pay the rent, or that they ſhall enjoy the land ſo long as they pay the rent, then for as much as the ſame is no rent, it ought to be paid without demand, and if ho do not pay the ſame his intereſt ſhall preſently ceaſe by the limitation of the uſe.

Alſo thoſe who have cauſe of Action ſhall be in worſe caſe then they were before, for before this Statute they might have an action againſt the pernor of the profits, but now all ſuch pernancies of the profits are taken away, as appeareth 28 H. 8. Dier 33. a. & Plow. Comm. in Manxel's Caſe, and thereby ſuch ſubtile devices as in the Caſe before put, he who hath cauſe of Action ſhall never find one that ſhall be Tenant to his Præcipe, and ſo by ſuch conſtruction he ſhall be without remedy.

[b]

Alſo perjury ſhall be increaſed in reſpect of the ſecrecy more than it was before the Statute, for no uſe could have been raiſed before this Act but upon tranſmutation of poſſeſſion, or upon a covenant or full contract contract by apt words upon good conſideration concluded amongſt the parties; but now uſes ſhall be determined and raiſed by words without any conſideration upon a bare imagination and intention only without any concluſion, covenant, or contract. For if one intend, go about or attempt, &c. he ſhall loſe his land, although that he do nothing, or conclude nothing.

Alſo the King and other Lords ſhall loſe their Wards, Eſcheats, and other profits of their Seignories, for if the ſaid Caſe of a perpetual freehold ſhall be maintained, that no heir ſhall have but an eſtate for life, and that the inheritance ſhall be in no body, what Eſcheat, or Wardſhip, or Heriot, or other profit ſhall accrue to the King or other Lords? And he ſaid that it was not the intent of him and the other Juſtices, to overthrow the Tree of uſes, but to lop the rotten and unprofitable boughs and branches dangerous to the eſtate of the Commonwealth and mens aſſurances, ſo as the reſidue of the Tree which is profitable for the uſe of men may the better grow and proſper. And he ſaid, that the reaſon that the Lord by Eſcheat, or the Lord of a villain ſhall not ſtand ſeiſed to an uſe was, becauſe that the Ceſtuy que uſe had not remedy by the Common Law for any uſe, but his remedy was only in Chancery: And becauſe the right of freehold, or inheritance cannot be determined in Chancery, his title ſhall not be drawn into examination there; and for this cauſe a diſſeiſor ſhall not be compelled in the Chancery to execute an eſtate to Ceſtuy que uſe, but Ceſtuy que uſe ſhall compel the feoffees in the Court of Chancery to enter upon the diſſeiſor, or to recover the land againſt him at the Common Law, and then the Chancery ſhall compel the feoffees to execute the eſtate according to the uſe. And the Chancellor ought to direct uſes according to the rules of the Common Law. And he ſaid, that before Richard the ſeconds time, no Act of Parliament or other Record, nor no Book, nor any writing made any mention of uſes of lands, having regard unto the very words of the Statute. And therefore he ſaid, that uſes in ſuch ſenſe as now we take them were not at the Common Law, but were invented in times of trouble for fear, or in times of peace by fraud; but he ſaid, that confidence was at the Common Law, but not that which we now call uſe.

[140]

Periam chief Baron held, that uſes were at the Common Law, but the Lord Anderſon ſaid, that uſes were neither by the Common Law, nor by any Statute, for he ſaid, that uſes were but imaginations, and nothing in the conſideration of Law, or for which the Law hath given any remedy, and that Ceſtuy que uſe hath nothing in the land, for if he come upon the land, by Law he was a Treſpaſſor to the feoffees. And afterwards the ſame Michaelmas Term Judgment was given for the Defendant. And note Reader, that in the Argument of this Caſe five things were reſolved for Law by the Juſtices beſides the principal matter in Law.

Firſt, It was adjudged in this Caſe, that when there is Tenant for life the remainder in tail, the reverſion in fee, and the Tenant for life doth enfeoff him in the reverſion in fee, the ſame is a forfeiture of his eſtate, and doth deveſt the eſtate tail in remainder. So if there be Tenant in tail the remainder in tail; and the Tenant in tail doth enfeoff him in the reverſion in fee it is a diſcontinuance; and the difference was taken and agreed when the eſtate or privity is ſole or immediate, and when not, for which ſee Littleton 141. 9 E. 4. 24. b. F. N. B. 142. a. 41 E. 3. 21. & 41 Aſſ. 2.

Secondly, That for as much as the warranty of Chriſtopher was collateral, yet in as much as it appeareth in computation of time, that the eldeſt ſon of Chriſtopher Chudleigh was within age, and at the time of the death of the eldeſt ſon the youngeſt ſon was alſo within age; and although that the youngeſt ſon cannot enter before the warranty deſcended upon him to defeat the warranty, and that he cannot take benefit of the nonage of his brother, and although that he do not enter within convenient time after his full age; yet this collateral warranty doth not bind him, and as to that the Caſe in effect was ſuch; A. hath iſſue B. and C. infants within age, a leaſe is made to A. for life, the remainder unto B. in tail, the remainder to C. in tail, A. Tenant for life is diſſeiſed, and afterwards releaſeth to the diſſeiſor with warranty and dieth, and the ſame deſcendeth upon B. being within age, afterwards B. dieth within age, C. being then his brother and heir and within age, upon whom the ſaid warranty doth deſcend, and afterwards C. cometh of age, and three years after his full age entreth, his entry is lawful. For it was reſolved, that if the entry of an infant be lawful, and he cannot enter in the life time of his anceſtor, and doth not enter, the warranty ſhall not bind in ſuch Caſe; a fortiori when the warranty deſcendeth upon him his entry being lawful, and no lacheſs to be attributed to him; but if his entry were not lawful, ſo that he was put to his action, there the warranty ſhall bind him; and the ſame Law ſhall be in the caſe of a feme covert where ſhe is put to her action. And if a warranty doth deſcend upon an infant he may enter when he will at his full age, and need not haſtily enter, or in convenient time after his full age, but let him take heed he ſuffer not a deſcent after his full age before his entry, for there the warranty ſhall bind him; for which matter ſee 33 H. 8. Br. Warranty 84. 3 H. 7. 9. 35 H. 8. 63. 18 E. 3. 3. 18 E. 4. 13. Br. Warr. 54. 28 Aſſ. 26.

[b]

Thirdly, If a diſſeiſor or other who hath a diſſeiſible title in a Mannor grant a voluntary eſtate by Copy, as if a Copihold eſtate be forfeit to him, or if a Copiholder dieth without heir, and he granteth thoſe lands again by Copy, thoſe grants ſhall not bind him who hath right after that he hath recontinued the Mannor; but ſuch admittances which a diſſeiſor maketh unto Copiholders of the Mannor, thoſe are good, for thoſe are in a manner judicial acts and ſhall bind the diſſeiſee, 17 Eliz. Dier 343.

Fourthly, That an eſtate made to one and his heirs during the life of J. S. is but an eſtate for life upon which a remainder may depend by the Common Law, as appeareth by the Books of 11 H. 4. 42. a. 39 E. 3. 25. b. 7 H. 4. 46. a, 8 H. 4. 14. b. 8 Eliz. Dier 253. a. 17 E. 3. 48. b.

Fifthly, That an eſtate made to one and his heirs on the body of J. S. begotten is an eſtate tail and no fee ſimple againſt the opinion of Aſcough, 20 H. 6. 36. b. For all theſe points were adjudged in this Caſe, as it may appear upon Conſideration of the Caſe.

Hill.

Hill. 35 Eliz.

Anne Mayowe's Caſe.

IN a Replevin between John Kettle Plaintiff, and George Maſon and Francis Eſtorley Defendants, which began Hill. 35 Eliz. Rot. 498. the Caſe was ſuch; Thomas Mayowe was ſeiſed in fee of the Mannors of Sapers and Hawley in Sutton at home in the County of Kent, and ſo ſeiſed by deed indented did enfeoff Thomas Scot and John Fremling in fee to the uſe of Dioniſe Mayowe ſon and heir apparent of the ſaid Thomas Mayowe and his heirs upon certain conditions, and afterwards, and before the Conditions or any of them broken, the ſaid Thomas and Dioniſe by their deed ſealed with their ſeal bearing date 30 Maii, 19 Eliz. grant to Anne Maxy a yearly rent of 20 l. iſſuing out of the ſaid Mannors for the term of her life with clauſe of diſtreſs; and after the Condition was broken, and Thomas Mayowe thereupon did enter upon the ſaid Dioniſe for breach of the Condition, and afterwards the Defendants as Bailiffs of the ſaid Anne Maxy diſtrained for the ſaid rent, &c. And the great Queſtion in this Caſe was, If the poſſeſſion of the ſaid Thomas Mayowe after his entry for the condition broken ſhall be charged with the ſaid rent. And it was objected by Godfrey and others of Councel with the Plaintiff that his poſſeſſion ſhould not be charged for divers cauſes: Firſt, when the father and the ſaid ſon joyn in the grant of the ſaid rent, it was the grant of the ſon, for he was the Terretenant, and the grant doth enure as the confirmation of the father, for then it was ſaid, that the confirmation can make any eſtate which is ſubject unto a Condition to be abſolute, and a confirmation cannot alter the quality of the eſtate, if it enlarge not the eſtate; and therefore Littleton, fol. 120. a. ſaith, If the diſſeiſee confirm the eſtate of one diſſeiſor, the ſame ſhall not alter the eſtate of the diſſeiſors; and 11 H. 7. 29. a. If the feoffor confirm the eſtate of the feoffee upon Condition before the Condition broken, the ſame doth not alter the eſtate of the feoffee to make the ſame abſolute which was ſubject to a Condition before; So it was ſaid in our Caſe, the grant of the rent made by the feoffee upon Condition was ſubject to the Condition, and then the confirmation of the feoffor, and namely before any Condition broken cannot alter the quality of the eſtate of the rent, and to make the ſame abſolute. And the manner of pleading in the Caſe aforeſaid was urged, for the effect of the Avowry was, that Dioniſe Mayowe was ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannors in fee, and by the deed aforeſaid, granted the ſaid rent charge to the ſaid Anne ut ſupra, and the effect of the bar unto the Avowry was, that before the ſaid Dioniſe had any thing in the ſaid Mannors, Thomas Mayowe was ſeiſed in fee, and enfeoffed the ſaid Dioniſe ut ſupra, and confeſſeth the ſaid grant of the rent charge by Dioniſe, and after the Condition broken Thomas entred; To which the avowant ſaid, that well and true it is that the ſaid feoffment was made upon Condition to Dioniſe, and that he 30 Maii, anno 19. granted the ſaid rent prout, &c. But further he ſaith, that the ſaid Thomas Mayowe prædict' conceſſionem redditus prædict', ac ſtatum ejuſdem Annæ in eodum reddit' adtunc, ſcilicet prædict' 30 Maii anno 19. per quoddam ſcriptum ſuum ſigillo ſuo ſigillat' curiæque hic prolat' geren' dat' iiſdem die & anno præfat' Annæ ratificavit & confirmavit, &c. The Plaintiff prayeth the ſaid grant of confirmation may be entred in hæc verba, and ſo it was, by which it appeareth that both, that is to ſay the feoffor and feoffee joyn in the grant ut ſupra, and upon that the parties demur. And it was ſaid, that by that it appeareth, that the avowant pretended the deed by way of confirmation, ſo that in ſuppoſition of Law the grant of the rent doth precede the confirmation, and then all is one if it had been a day or a year after the grant, and then the Caſe had been clear as he ſaid. For Littleton doubts the Caſe of the diſſeiſor and diſſeiſee, if they both joyn in a grant of a rent charge, if the diſſeiſee after his regreſs ſhall avoid the ſame, and yet there the entry of the diſſeiſee is lawful, and no eſtate ſubject to any Condition. And 11 H. 7. 28. was cited, where a ground is taken, that where I may avoid a thing by my entry, I may make it good by my confirmation; upon which they did imply, that if his entry be not lawful at the time of the confirmation, (as in our Caſe it was not) the confirmation is nothing worth.

[146] [b]

[147]

Againſt which it was argued by the Attorney General and others; and to the firſt reaſon they conceived that there was a difference between the Caſe at Bar, and the Caſes which were put; for when the eſtate of him to whom the confirmation is made is upon an expreſs Condition, there the confirmation made to him cannot take away the Condition, but if ſuch feoffee upon Condition make a feoffment over, ſo as his eſtate is only ſubject to a Condition contained in another conveyance, but no Condition is expreſſed or annexed by his feoffor to his eſtate, there a confirmation of his eſtate which he hath by abſolute words ſhall extinguiſh the Condition which was annexed to the eſtate of the firſt feoffee. And the Attorney ſaid, that this difference is well proved by the Caſe of Littleton and other Books; for if the leſſee for life grant a rent charge in fee, this grant by the words is abſolute, and a fee ſimple not determinable by any thing contained in the deed, but in reſpect of the eſtate of the grantor it is determinable by his death. And yet Littleton fol. 122. a. ſaith, and 26 Aſſ. 38. and 45 Aſſ. 13. agree it alſo, that if he in the reverſion confirm ſuch grant the rent is good in fee, but without queſtion if the determination of the rent had been expreſſed in the deed, the confirmation had not not enlarged the ſame, or made it abſolute. And therefore if leſſee for life had granted a rent to one and his heirs during the life of the leſſee for life, and afterwards the leſſor had confirmed the rent to the grantee and his heirs, and the Tenant for life died, the rent ſhould ceaſe, for the confirmation cannot enlarge that which is determinable by expreſs Condition or limitation, and that fully appeareth by Littleton in his Chapter of Confirmation 124. So that this difference well appeareth by Littleton, for in his Chapter of Confirmation

[b]

he

he puts both the Caſes. The Attorney further ſaid, that if a man be leſſee for life upon Condition, and he grant a rent in fee, and the leſſor confirm it, and then the Condition is broken, and the leſſor entreth, yet the rent doth remain cauſa qua ſupra; And it ſeemeth to him, that if the feoffee upon Condition make a feoffment over abſolutely, and the firſt feoffor confirmeth his eſtate, he ſhall hold it without any Condition, be the confirmation made after or before the Condition broken.

So if feoffee upon Condition grant a rent in fee, and the feoffor by another deed confirmeth it to him and his heirs, and after the Condition is broken, and the feoffor entreth for the Condition broken, yet the rent doth remain, which was granted by Popham chief Juſtice, & totam Curiam. And further he ſaid, it appeareth by Littleton, that it is a principle in Law, that all land in fee ſimple may be charged with a rent charge by one way or other; So in this Caſe, when all thoſe who have intereſt in the land joyn in a grant of a rent, ſo that the grant is made concurrentibus his quæ in jure requiruntur, he conceived the grant is good: And therefore if the Patron and Ordinary charge the Glebe in time of vacation it ſhall bind, becauſe that no other hath intereſt therein during the vacation but they only, and he relied much upon the Book of 11 H. 7. 21. a. Eriches Caſe, which in effect was, That Tenant in tail made a feoffment in fee upon Condition, which feoffment is to the uſe of himſelf and his heirs, and afterwards he binds himſelf in a Statute, which by force of the Statute of 1 R. 3. c. 5. is extended (he having then [148] but an uſe and a Condition) and after the Condition is broken, by which the feoffment is avoided, and he is ſeiſed of an eſtate in tail again, yet he ſhall not avoid the extent; The ſame Law, if he had granted a rent charge, and after the Condition had been broken, the charge had been good although that the eſtate out of which the uſe was limited, and which was the cauſe that the grant of the rent was given by the ſaid Statute were defeated by the Condition; yet he having the uſe and the Condition together at the time of the grant, the grant remaineth good. And the Caſe of diſſeiſor and diſſeiſee which is agreed in 11 H. 7. 28. is all one in effect with our Caſe, and our Caſe is ſtronger becauſe that the grant and confirmation, are all by one deed, ſo that the rent was not ſubject to any Condition; And afterwards Judgment was given by Popham chief Juſtice, Clench, Gawdie, and Fenner Juſtices for the Avowant, that the rent did remain good.

Term. Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz. in B. R. between David Lloyd Plaintiff, and William Wilkenſon Defendant.

The Rector of Chedington's Caſe.

[153] IN an Ejectione firmæ between David Lloyd Plaintiff, of the Rectory of Chedington in the County of Buck. of the demiſe made by David Roberts Rector there, againſt William Wilkenſon Defendant, upon Not-guilty pleaded, the Jurours gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect: Nicholas fitz Williams was Parſon of the ſaid Rectory, and 2 Martii, 2 E. 6. by his Indenture between him on the one part, and Elizabeth Elderker widow, Ralph Elderker, William Elderker, and Thomas Elderker on the other part, did demiſe unto the ſaid Elizabeth the ſaid Rectory to have and to hold to her from the ſaid ſecond day of March, uſque ad finem & durante termino octoginta annorum extunc proxime ſequent' ſi præfat' Eliz. tam diu viveret. And if the ſaid Elizabeth obier' infra prædict' terminum 80 annorum, or ſhall alter the premiſſes that then her eſtate ſhall ceaſe. Ac adtunc prædict' Nicolaus per Indenturam prædict' dedit, conceſſit & dimiſit omnia & ſingula præmiſſa pro tot annis quod tunc inexpirat' remanerent poſt mortem prædict' Eliz. vel alienationem ſuam præfat' Radulpho, pro & durante reſid' termini, prædict' 80. annorum ſi ipſe tam diu viveret ſine alienatione dicti termini & ſi ipſe contingeret obire vel alienare præmiſſa infra terminum prædict, quod tunc ejus ſtatus ceſſaret. Ac adtunc prædict' Nicolaus per Indentur' illam conceſſit omnia & ſingula præmiſſa præfato Willielmo pro & durant' tot annis prædict' termini 80. annorum quot adtunc remanerent ſi ipſe tam diu viveret & non alienaret dictum terminum, & ſi contingeret ipſum Wilielmum obire vel alienare præmiſſa infra dictum terminum quod tunc ejus ſtatus ceſſaret. Et tunc prædict' Nicholaus per Indenturam illam conceſſit præmiſſa prædict' durante tot annis de prædict' 80. annis quod adtunc continuarent & remanerent inexpirat' prædict'
[b] Thomæ execut' & aſſignat' ſuis. Which Indenture of demiſe and all therein contained was confirmed by the Patron and Ordinary, and afterwards the ſaid Nicholas fitz Williams died, and afterwards the ſaid Thomas Elderker 10 Junii, 16 Eliz. died, and after in the ſaid 17 years the ſaid Elizabeth Elderker died, after whoſe death the ſaid Rafe Elderker entred into the ſaid Rectory and died 18 Eliz. and afterwards Rafe Hetherington and Anne his wife adminiſtratrix of Thomas Elderker did aſſign the ſaid Rectory to Rafe Cely, who aſſigned the ſame to John Eden, who aſſigned the ſame to Thomas Tasburgh Eſquire, who aſſigned the ſame to John Agmondiſham Eſquire, who conveyed the term to the Defendant by mean aſſignments. And afterwards the ſaid Roberts was admitted, inſtituted, and inducted to the ſaid Rectory, and made the leaſe to the Plaintiff, who entred upon the Defendant and was poſſeſſed, upon whom the Defendant reentred, and if his entry be lawful or not is the Queſtion.

And this Caſe was argued by the Attorney General, Coventry, and Hughes on the Plaintiffs part, and by Lawrence Tanfield and Francis Moore on the Defendants part, and the Plaintiffs Counſel did argue that the Plaintiff ſhould have Judgment for divers cauſes: 1. That the demiſe to Rafe and William was void, becauſe that the term which Elizabeth had was for 80 years if ſhe ſhould ſo long live, ſo her her term was not for 80. years abſolutely, but for 80. years ſub modo, ſcil. upon this limitation if ſhe ſhould ſo long live, then her term by her death is determined, and by conſequence the dimiſe to Kaſe pro tot annis quot remanerent poſt mortem dičiæ Eliz. pro & durante reſiduo dičti termini prædičtorum 80. annorum is void, for there cannot be a reſidue of the ſaid term of 80. years after the death of Elizabeth, for the term was by expreſs limitation by the death of Elizabeth determined. So it was adjudged in the Common Pleas M. 32. & 33. Eliz. Rot. 1832. between Green Plantiff and Edwards Defendant, for which the Plaintiffs Councel concluded, That the ſaid demiſes to Kaſe and William were void, quod fuit conceſſum per totam curiam. And thereupon the Defendants Coucel did endeavour to maintain the demiſe made to Thomas (for if any of the demiſes be in force the Action ſhall not be maintenable) and they conceived that there was apparent difference betwixt the demiſes to Kaſe and William, and the ſaid demiſe to Thomas, for the demiſe to Thomas is durant' tot annis de præd' 80. annis, and not durant' tot annis de præd' termino 80. annorum, for de præd' 80 annis relates to the ſaid years without any other limitation, but prædičt' termin' 80 annorum referreth to the ſaid term of years ſubject to the ſaid limitation, ſcil. if the ſaid Eliz. ſo long live, and ſo there appeareth difference inter terminum annorum & tempus annorum; and this diverſity is holden for good Law in 2 Eliz. Dier 178. ſcil. inter terminum annorum, & ſpatium ſive tempus annorum. So in Worteſleys Caſe Plow. Com. 198. if one make a leaſe for 21. years, and afterwards maketh another leaſe to begin at the end and expiration prædičt' termini annorum demiſſ. and after the firſt leaſe is ſurrendred, the ſecond leaſe ſhall begin preſently, but if it were at the end and expiration prædičt' 21. annorum, there although that the firſt term be ſurrendred, the ſecond term ſhall not begin, for the terme which continueth the intereſt for years is determined by ſurrender, but the years are not ended but by fluction of time, ſo that terminus annorum includes alſo the eſtate and intereſt in the land, and by grant of the term, the eſtate and intereſt for years ſhall paſs. And 35 H. 8. tit. Expoſition de parols Br. 44. agreeth to this difference, for there it is agreed, if A. make a leaſe to B. for 10. years, and covenanteth that if B. pay 100. l. to A. infra dičtos decem annos, that B. ſhall have fee, if B. ſurrender his terme to A. and afterwards pay the 100. l. within the 10 years he ſhall have fee, otherwiſe where it is covenanted, that if he pay 100. l. infra terminum præd' decem annorum. And the Caſe of the Lord Paget which was adjudged in the Exchequer in M. 33. & 34. Eliz. which began Paſc. 33. before Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, and other Barons of the Exchequer upon conference had with all the Judges of England was ſuch in effect: Thomas Lord Paget being ſeiſed of the Mannors of B. L. &c. in the County of Strafford, by deed indented 10 October 20 Eliz. covenanteth with Thomas Fearmer Eſquire and others, that in conſideration of diſcharge of his funeral, paiment of his debts and legacies out of the profits of his Lands, and for the advancement of his ſons, brother, and others of his blood, that he and his heirs would ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannors unto the uſe of the ſaid Thomas Fearmer, &c. for the life of the Lord Paget, and after his death to the uſe of Ch. P. and others for the term of 24. years, and after the expiration or end of the ſaid term of 24. years, then to the uſe of William Paget his ſon in tail with divers remainders over. And afterwards the Lord Paget was attainted of Treaſon; And in this Caſe it was agreed and adjudged that the ſaid term to Ch. P. was void, becauſe it wanted good conſideration, for as much as Ch. P. and the others were ſtrangers to the conſideration, ſcil. to the payment of his debts or legacies; but if he had made them Executors, ſo as that they had been chargeable to the paiment of them, and ſo privy to the conſideration, then the conſideration had been good. But the doubt of the Caſe was, although that the ſaid term was void, yet in as much as the uſe to Willam Paget was to be raiſed by covenant out of the eſtate of the Covenantor, and not by tranſmutation of the eſtate, if the uſe ſhould be raiſed and veſted in William Paget until the 24. years were expired by effluction of time; for in the ſame Caſe it was ſaid by Sir Roger Manwood cheif Baron, that if a man make a feoffement in fee to the uſe of A. for life, and after to the uſe of B. for life, and after to the uſe of C. in fee, in this Caſe if A. refuſe, B. ſhall take his Eſtate preſently, for the feoffor by his feoffement hath given all his eſtate out of him, and all the uſes are created out of it as out of one root, and therefore as long as any of the uſes can take effect the feoffor ſhall not have any medling with the land; But in the Caſe of a Covenant which raiſeth an uſe, there the conſideration which is the cauſe which raiſeth every ſeveral uſe is ſeveral, and all the uſes grow and riſe out of the eſtate of the Covenantor, and therefore there if one refuſeth he who is next in remainder ſhall not take the land preſently, but the Covenantor ſhall keep it; As if A. covenant that in conſideration that B. is his ſon, he ſhall have it for life, and after his death in conſideration that C. hath given him 100. l. that he ſhall have it in fee, here the conſiderations and grounds of raiſing of theſe uſes are ſeveral; and therfore if B. refuſeth A. ſhall keep the land, and C. ſhall not take preſently. And it was adjudged in the principal Caſe that the Lord Paget himſelf had eſtate for life, for in as much as the remainders were limited by the Covenant after his death, &c. the eſtate cannot paſs out of him during his life; and therefore in Caſe of Covenant he himſelf had an eſtate for his life.

[154]

[b]

And it was alſo agreed in the ſame Caſe, that although the ſaid term was void ab initio, yet if the Covenant had been (and after the end or expiration of the ſaid 24. years that then he would ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of his ſon ut ſupra) that his ſon ſhould not have the ſame till the years be incurred, for although that the term was void, yet the eſtate of the ſon by expreſs limitation ſhall not commence untill the 24. years expired, and that ſtood well with the words and the intent alſo of the words, but for as much as the words of the Covenant were (after the expiration or end of the ſaid term of 24. years,) and the term imports in it ſelf the eſtate and intereſt in the land (as hath been ſaid) for this cauſe the term being void, the eſtate of the ſon ſhall begin preſently. And upon that William Paget had by the rule of the Court an Amoveas manum; for which the Councel of the Defendant concluded, that there was a difference between the demiſes of Kaſe and William, and the ſaid demiſe to Thomas quod fuit conceſſum per totam Curiam, and the Court directed the Plaintiffs Councel to argue only againſt the demiſe made unto Thomas, againſt which the Plantiffs Councel did argue, that the ſame was void for divers cauſes.

Firſt, becauſe the leſſor had not power to contract for the land during the 80. years, for although that the term ſhall determine by the death of Elizabeth, yet ſhe had an eſtate for 80. years, and the leſſor had but a poſſibility to have the land again during the 80. years, that is to ſay, if Elizabeth died, which poſſibility (was ſaid) could not be demiſed. But it was agreed by the Plantiffs Councel, that if a man [155] make a leaſe for life, and after the leſſor maketh a leaſe for years, and after the leſſee for life dieth, the leſſee ſhall have the land for the reſidue of the years: And ſo if a man make a leaſe for 80. years, if the leſſee ſo long liveth, and afterwards leaſeth to another by deed indented for 80. years, and after the firſt leſſee dieth, the ſecond leſſee ſhall have the land for the reſidue of the term as appeareth in Plow. Com. 15. Eliz. fo. 434. But in this Caſe Thomas cannot take any advantage of any concluſion, for a concluſion is to eſtoppe one to ſpeake the truth, but here all the truth appeareth in one and the ſame Indenture, as in 8 Eliz. Dier 244. a. King E. 6. grants unto the Biſhop of Coventry and his ſucceſſors the Advowſon of a Church, and that after the death of the preſent Incumbent he ſhall keep it in proprios uſus. The Biſhop by Indenture made a leaſe to commence after the death of the Incumbent, which is confirmed, and the Incumbent dieth; It was adjudged that the leaſe was void, and that it ſhould not take effect by eſtoppel, becauſe it appeareth in the indenture it ſelf, that the leſſor had nothing at the time of the leaſe made. See 37 Aſſ. 17. & 19 E. 3. 3. Abbot 13. But as to this point the Court did not deliver any opinion, for they reſolved upon the other points following.

Secondly, it was moved that the leaſe to Thomas was void for the incertainty, for it was incertain at the time of the making of the leaſe how many years ſhould be behind at the time of the death of Elizabeth as it is agreed in 7 E. 6. tit. Grants, Br. 154. & Plow. Com. 520. b. A man poſſeſſed of a leaſe for 40. years, grants to B. as many of the years as ſhall be behind tempore mortis ſuæ, it is void for the incertainty: And 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. Gravenor's Caſe, Dier 150. a man made leaſe for life by deed indented, Proviſo that if the leſſee die within 60. years that his Executors ſhall have it for ſo many of the 60. years as ſhall be behind at the time of his death, it is but a covenant, and no leaſe for the incertainty, vide 22 Aſſ. 37. And Juſtice Gawdy ſaid that there was a Caſe late adjudged in this Court in Locroft's Caſe, M. 34 & 35 Eliz. and the Caſe was, One poſſeſſed of certain lands for 90. years in conſideration of a marriage to be had between his ſon and the daughter of another man, did demiſe the land to his ſon for 70. years to begin after his death, and after the leſſor died; and it was adjudged that the leaſe was good; And the reaſon of the difference between this Caſe and the Caſe in 7 E. 6. was becauſe that in Locroft's Caſe he demiſed the land, Habendum after the death of the leſſor for 70. years, in which there was ſufficient certainty, and no apparent incertainty in the deed, but in 7 E. 6. he granted ſo much of his term as ſhould be behind from his death, which was incertain in the grant it ſelf; which difference put by Juſtice Gawdy was agreed by Popham chief Juſtice, and the whole Court.

[b] Thirdly, It was objected againſt the leaſe made to Thomas, that for as much as Thomas was dead in the life of Elizabeth, ſo that it was at firſt incertain and was not reduced to any certainty during the life of Thomas, for this cauſe the leaſe was utterly void. For when an intereſt or an eſtate which is to be reduced to a cerainty upon a contingent precedent, and the leſſor or grantor, or leſſee and grantee die before the contingency fall, the leaſe or grant is void and ſhall never take effect, as in Plow. Com. Say & Fullers Caſe 273. b. If a man make a leaſe to another for as many years as his Executors ſhall name, the ſame is void, for it ought to be reduced to a certainty in the life of the parties. And note there is a difference between a Covenant or other agreement which is perfect and certain, although that it take effect in poſſeſſion upon a future matter precedent, and a covenant and agreement incertain, which is to be reduced to certainty by future matter ex poſt facto, for in the one Caſe the intereſt or eſtate in the land is preſently bound, in the other Caſe not, as in 3 Ma. Br. Feoffement al uſes 59. It is covenanted by Indenture between A. and B. that if the ſon of A. ſhall marry the daughter of B. for which B. ſhall give to A. 100. l. and therefore A. covenants that if the marriage do not take effect, that A. and his heirs will ſtand ſeiſed of certain lands unto the uſe of B. and his heirs until A. pay the 100. to B. his Executors or Adminiſtrators; and afterwards B. hath iſſue within age, and after the marriage doth not take effect, the eſtate is executed in the heir of B. and ſhall have relation to the making of the Indenture. (Note the reaſon) for theſe Indentures the Book ſaith bind the land with the uſe and they were made in the life of B. But if a man grant the reverſion of his leaſe for life to B. and his heirs, and before attornment the grantee dieth, no attornment can veſt it in the heir of B. for by the grant the eſtate of the reverſion was not bound, but is to receive his perfection by the attornment, and the grantor may notwithſtanding ſuch grant transferre the reverſion to whom he will. So in [156] Brets and Rigdees Caſe Plow. Comm. 345. if a man deviſe lands to one and his heirs, and afterwards the deviſee dieth before the deviſor, the deviſe is void; for the Will was alterable at the pleaſure of the deviſor, and the heir cannot be a purchaſor. But in Shelly's Caſe it was adjudged, that where Edward Shelley ſuffered a recovery of the Mannor of Worminghurſt unto uſes declared by certain Indentures between him and others; that is to ſay, unto the uſe of himſelf and the heirs males of his body (for ſo it was in effect) and afterward Edward Shelley died before any execution of the recovery, the wife of his eldeſt ſon (who before him was dead) being great with child with a ſon, and afterwards and before the birth of the ſon of the eldeſt ſon execution of the recovery was had; It was adjudged that in the mean time the uſe veſted in Richard the younger ſon of Edward as heir male of the body of Edward, and that he had it in the nature of a deſcent, and that the ſon of the eldeſt ſon born after ſhould enter upon him, for the agreement was perfected in the life of the parties, and the execution of the recovery was only after the death of Edward.

So

So 11 H. 7. 12. a. if land be rendred by fine to one and his heirs, the land is bound thereby, and although that he to whom the render is made dieth before execution, yet his heir ſhall have it, for the fine was levied in the life of the parties, and the eſtate of the land was ſo bound by it that he who made the render could not alter or defeat it. But if a man make livery within the view, there till entry by the feoffee the eſtate of the land is not bound, no more then by the grant of a reverſion before attornment; and therefore if the feoffor or feoffee die in ſuch caſe before entry by the feoffee, the feoffment ſhall not take effect. So in the Caſe at Bar, the demiſe made to Thomas depends upon a contingency precedent, and upon a meer incertainty, ſo that until the ſame happen the intereſt or term which is intended to be demiſed is not certain nor the Land bound therewith. So that in as much as Thomas died before it was reduced to a certainty the leaſe could never take effect, and cannot veſt in his Executors or Adminiſtrators for the reaſons and cauſes aforeſaid, quod fuit conceſſum per totam Curiam.

Fourthly, it was objected againſt the ſaid demiſe made to Thomas, that if Thomas had been living it could never have veſted in him, for Thomas died before Rafe and William, and William and Rafe ſurvived Elizabeth. And by the expreſs condition precedent Rafe cannot take if not that Elizabeth die within the term, and William cannot take if Rafe die not infra terminum prædict', and that is as much as to ſay, that if Rafe die before Elizabeth, for the term is but for 80. years if Elizabeth ſo long live, and Thomas cannot take if William die not in the life of Elizabeth, ſcil. infra terminum prædict', and William and Rafe alſo ſurvived Elizabeth, ſo that both the contingents precedent fail, ſcil. the death of Rafe and the death of William in the life of Elizabeth, ſo that the demiſe to Thomas could never begin; and although the demiſe unto Rafe and the demiſe to William are void, yet the limitation precedent, (ſcil. if Rafe and William die in the life of Elizabeth) unto the leaſe made to Thomas is not void, for his intereſt may depend upon both the contingents. And ſo was the meaning of the parties, and all this was affirmed by the Court. And Juſtice Popham put this Caſe, If A. demiſe his Lands to B. for 30. years after the death of C. if C. die within 10. years next following, if C. ſurvive the 10. years the term ſhall never take effect: So here the leaſe of Thomas cannot commence, if not that William die before Elizabeth, but he ſurviveth Elizabeth, and therefore the leaſe to Thomas ſhall never begin. And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, that the leaſe to Thomas was void for another cauſe, for he ſaid it cannot commence upon a contingent which dependeth upon another contingent: as here, the leaſe to Thomas dependeth upon the contingent annexed to the demiſe made to William, and the leaſe to William dependeth upon the contingent annexed to the demiſe of Rafe. And to this purpoſe he cited the Caſe in 12 Aſſ. 5. A. leaſes unto B. upon condition that if A. pay unto B. 10. l. within a certain day that he ſhall reenter, and if he do not pay before the ſaid day, and B. pay to him 10. l. at ſuch a day which is after, that he ſhall have fee. A. doth not pay, nor B. pay. A. entreth after one term and the other B. ouſt him, A. brought an Aſſiſe and got nothing by his Writ. And after in this Caſe Judgment was given and entred for the Plaintiff. [b]

Ter. Trinit. 42 Eliz. in a Monſtrans de droit between Chriſtopher Digges and Edward Digges Plaintiffs, againſt Palmer and his Wife Defendants in the Kings Bench.

Digges Caſe.

IN a Monſtrans de droit by Chriſtopher Digges and Edward Digges againſt Palmer and his Wife the grantees of the Ward of Poſthumus Digges ſon and heir of Thomas Digges now dead, in which the iſſue was abſque hoc quod Chriſtopherus Digges father of the ſaid Thomas) obiit ſeiſitus (of Land found in the Office) in Dominico ſuo ut de feodo, upon which a ſpecial verdict was found to this effect; The ſaid Chriſtopher was ſeiſed of the Land in queſtion and of other Land in fee, and by deed indented 6 Maii, 10 Eliz. covenanted (in conſideration of marriage between him and his wife, and for advancement of the ſaid Thomas their ſon, and for 200. l. paid to him before marriage, and for other conſiderations) that he and his heirs would ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of the ſaid Thomas in tail, and after to the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher in tail, with a Proviſo for the conſiderations aforeſaid, &c. that it ſhall be lawful for the ſaid Chriſtopher at any time during his life with the conſent of certain perſons by deed indented to be enrolled in any of the Queens Courts to revoke any of the uſes or eſtates, and to limit new uſes. And afterwards 6 Maii 12 Eliz. Chriſtopher with the conſent, &c. by deed indented and enrolled in the Chancery revoketh the uſes and eſtates in the firſt Indenture in part of the land, and limits the uſe thereof to him and his heirs: Afterwards Chriſtopher by deed indented 20 Sept. 13 Eliz. with conſent, &c. and enrolled in the Common Pleas M. 13 & 14 Eliz. declareth that for the payment of his debts, &c. that from the time of the enrolment of this deed in the Chancery all the uſes in the firſt Indenture ſhall be void, and that the lands ſhall be to the uſe of Chriſtopher in fee: [173] [b]

[b] Afterwards Chriſtopher by Indenture 26 October. 14 Eliz. covenanteth to levy a fine of all his lands, part whereof ſhall be to the uſe of him and to his wife and his heirs, and the reſidue to the uſe of him and his heirs, which fine in the ſame Term was levied accordingly; and after the ſaid Indenture bearing date 20 Sept. 13 Eliz. was enrolled in the Chancery, and afterwards Chriſtopher entred into the land and made his claim. And if Chriſtopher died ſeiſed in fee of the ſaid lands mentioned in the deed of revocation of 20. Septembr. 13 Eliz. was the queſtion. And in this Caſe after many Arguments at the Bar and at the Bench, ſix Points upon good advice and deliberation were reſolved and adjudged.

Firſt, that Chriſtopher might revoke part at one time and part at another time, and ſo of the reſidue till he had revoked all. But he could revoke one part but once, unleſs he had a new power of revocation to the uſes newly limited; for theſe words (at any time) amount to as much and are equivalent, as if he had ſaid, from time to time as often as he ſhould think good. As if a man leaſe 20. acres of wood, and grants that he may cut the timber trees at any time during the term, he may cut part at one time, and part at another. So if a man deviſe that his Executors ſhall ſell his lands, they may ſell part at one time, and part at another: And the chief Juſtice ſaid, that this point had been adjudged before, and it was ſaid it was Sir Richard Lee's Caſe in the Common Ples.

Secondly, it was reſolved, that where the revocation is to be made by Indenture to be enrolled, it is as much as to ſay, by deed indented and enrolled, for no revocation ſhall be in the ſame Caſe untill the deed be enrolled; for if there ſhall be a revocation before the enrolment, then peradventure the deed ſhould never be enrolled, which ſhould be againſt the words and intents of the parties.

Thirdly, it was reſolved, that it was not a perfect and compleat revocation by the Indenture 20 Sept. 13 Eliz. until the Indenture was enrolled in the Chancery, for although that the Proviſo of revocation in the firſt Indenture ſhall be ſatisfied with an enrolment in any of the Kings Courts (as in this Caſe it was in the Common Pleas) yet for as much as the Indenture of revocation it ſelf limiteth the revocation to take effect after the enrolment thereof in the Chancery, for this cauſe until it be enrolled in the Chancery, there was no perfect revocation.

Fourthly, it was reſolved, that the fine levied before the enrolment of the Chancery (which was before the revocation) hath extinct the power of revocation, for it is not to be reſembled to the Caſe in 15 H. 7. 11. b. if Executors or feoffees who have power by the will of Ceſtuy que uſe to ſell the uſe, if they make a feoffement of the land unto the former uſe, yet they may ſell the uſe, for the ſame uſe which was deviſed to be ſold doth remaine not touched by the feoffement, alſo after the ſale, the vendee ſhall be [174] in by the deviſor and not by the feoffees; but in the Caſe at the Bar, the feoffement is made of the land it ſelf, which is to be reveſted to Chriſtopher Digges by the revocation, or is to be transferred to him to whom he ſhall limit the ſame, and he ſhall come in under him, for in ſuch Caſe he who raiſeth and limiteth the uſe ſhall be ſuppoſed to be the donor, 2 E. 6. Br. Formedon 49. 35 H. 8. Dier 55. a. and ſo was it adjudged in this Court between Albany and Grendon for land in Midd. 28 Eliz. that by the feoffment of the land the power of revocation was extinct. And then it was alſo agreed per totam Curiam, that ſuch power of revocation may be releaſed by a releaſe made to any who hath eſtate of freehold in poſſeſſion or remainder. And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, that there was not any queſtion thereof, for his power is not meerly collateral, but ſavoreth and taſteth of the eſtate and intereſt of the land, which was granted by the whole Court. But the chief Juſtice ſaid, that if a feoffment in fee be made by A. to divers uſes, with Proviſo that if B. ſhall revoke, that the uſes ſhall ceaſe, there B. cannot releaſe this power; and a fine levied or a feoffment made by him ſhall not extinguiſh it, for the power of B. is meerly collateral, and the land doth not move from him, nor the party ſhall not be in by him, nor under him; but a fine, or a feoffment, or a releaſe by A. if the power had been referred to him, would extinguiſh the ſame, cauſa qua ſupra.

Fifthly, it was agreed, that if the fine had not been levied, then by the revocation of Chriſtopher the ancient uſes were determined without entry or claim, becauſe he himſelf was tenant for life of the land, ſo that he could not enter upon himſelf, and claim he need not when he himſelf is ſeiſed of the land, and makes expreſs act of revocation which is as ſtrong as a claim can be. And therefore it is agreed in 20 E. 4. 18, & 19. that if a feoffment be made upon a collateral condition, and before the condition performed the feoffee leaſeth the ſame to the feoffor, if after the feoffee perform the condition the land ſhall be in him preſently without entry or claim, becauſe he himſelf is in poſſeſſion of the land. So if a villain purchaſe a rent which is iſſuing out of the Lords land, it ſhall be in the Lord without entry or claim of the Lord; for if he ſhall make an entry or claim, it ought to be upon the land, and that needeth not when he himſelf is ſeiſed thereof. And this very point was agreed M. 40 & 41 Eliz. in the Earl of Shrewſburies Caſe, that the uſes in the like Caſe ſhould ceaſe without entry or claim, he who made the revocation being Tenant for life as in the Caſe at the Bar.

Sixthly, it was ageed, that by the ſame conveyance the uſes are revoked, by the ſame conveyance other uſes may be limited or raiſed, for in as much as the old uſes ceaſe ipſo facto by the revocation
[b] without claim or other act, the Law ſhall adjudge priority of the operation of the ſame deed, although it be ſealed and delivered at one and the ſame inſtant; and therefore it ſhall be firſt in conſtruction of Law a revocation and a ceſſer of the old uſes, and then a limitation or raiſing of the new. As if a Tenant in tail and a ſtranger levy a fine to A. who granteth and rendreth to the ſtranger for years rendring rent, and by the ſame fine granteth the reverſion and rent to the Tenant in tail (which manner of fine is commonly admitted at this day) in this Caſe although the render of the leaſe and the grant of the reverſion be by the ſame fine, and at the ſame inſtant, yet in Law the leaſe ſhall preceed; and the grant of the reverſion ſhall be ſubſequent, vide 36 H. 8. Br. Fines 118. and ſee

M. 41.

M. 41 & 42. Eliz. Rot. 366. adjudged upon a demurrer in the Common Pleas between White and White in a Replevin ajudged accordingly. And here in this Caſe a Judgment was cited, That where A. covenanteth with B. that in conſideration that he will marry his daughter, that A. and his heirs will ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of B. and his heirs, B. entreth and diſſeiſeth A. and maketh a feoffment in fee, A. reenters and afterwards B. marrieth his daughter, yet the uſe ſhall not veſt in him, for he hath extinguiſhed it by his feoffment.

Term. Hill. 24 & 26 Eliz.

Mildmay's Caſe.

THE Caſe in an Information exhibited in the Court of Wards by Richard Kingſmill Eſquire Attorney of the ſame Court, againſt the Lady Anne Sharington late wife of Sir Henry Sharington Knight, and John Talbot Eſquire, and Oliffe his wife, one of the daughters and heirs of the ſaid Sir Henry Sharington, which was reſolved Hill. 24 Eliz. and after Hill. 26 Eliz. in the Court of Common Pleas, Rot. 745. between Anthony Mildmay Eſquire Plaintiff, and Roger Standiſh Gentleman Defendant. in an action upon the Caſe for ſlandring his Title, &c. adjudged; which Judgment M. 26 & 27 Eliz. Rot. 35. in the Kings Bench, in a Writ of Error affirmed, was in effect thus; The ſaid Sir Henry Sharington having wife the ſaid Dame Anne, and three daughters, Grace married to the ſaid Anthony Mildmay, Urſula married to Thomas Sadler Eſquire, and Oliffe married to the ſaid John Talbot by Indenture bearing date 27 Auguſti 15 Eliz. made between the ſaid Sir Henry Sharington of the one part, and Edmond Pirton and James Paget Eſquires of the other part, in conſideration of a Joynture for his wife, and for the advancement of his iſſue male of his body, and for the continuance of the lands in his name, and for other good and juſt conſiderations covenant to ſtand ſeiſed of 600. acres of lands (exempli gratia) unto the uſes, intents and purpoſes, and under the Proviſo following, ſcil. [175] [b] of all to the uſe of himſelf for his life, and after for 300. acres of land in certain to the uſe of his wife for her life for her Joynture; And of the other 300. acres after his death, and of the ſaid 300. acres limited for the Joynture of the wife after their deaths unto the uſe of the heirs males of his body begotten, and for default of ſuch iſſue, then for 300. acres not being limited for Joynture, &c. unto the uſe of his three daughters ſeveral by their ſelves, and to the heirs of their bodies, and for default of ſuch iſſue to the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Sir Henry, with like limitation of the other 300. acres to them of the like eſtate with the reverſion to his right heirs. And if any of his ſaid three daughters die without iſſue, then her portion by moieties ſhall be to the ſurvivors of like eſtate, ut ſupra, with remainder ut ſupra; which Proviſo for the three ſeveral husbands of the ſaid three daughters to have ſeveral portions for their lives, if they ſurvive their wives, and ſhall not be entitled to be Tenants by the Curteſie, with this Proviſo in theſe words following, ſcil. Provided always, and it is covenanted and agreed between all the ſaid parties, that it ſhall be lawful for the ſaid Sir Henry by his Will in writing to limit any part of the ſaid lands to any perſon or perſons for any life, lives, or years, for payment of his debts, performing of his Legacies, preferment of his ſervants, or any other reaſonable conſiderations as to him ſhall be thought good, and all perſons thereof ſeiſed, to ſtand ſeiſed thereof to the uſe of ſuch perſons and for ſuch intereſts as ſhall be ſo limited by his Will. After the ſaid Urſula dieth without iſſue, Grace and Oliffe ſurviving by which her portion by moities came to them: And afterwards the ſaid Sir Henry by his Will in writing for the advancement of his daughter Oliffe, and of her husband, and of the heirs of the body of the ſaid Oliffe, limited a great part, limited by the Indenture for the portion of Grace after the death of his wife, and another great part of land which remained to her by the death of the ſaid Urſula to the ſaid Oliffe and her husband, and to the heirs of the body of Oliffe for 1000. years without reſervation of any rent; and afterwards the ſaid Sir Henry died without iſſue male, and if this limitation for 1000. years being made for the advancement of his daughter Oliffe and her husband, and the heirs of the body of the ſaid Oliffe be good in Law by force of the ſaid Proviſo was the Queſtion. And it was reſolved and adjudged by Sir Chriſtopher Wray Lord chief Juſtice of England, Sir Edmund Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and all the Judges of England, That the limitation for 1000. years was void. And in this Caſe five points were reſolved.

Firſt, That an uſe cannot be raiſed by any Covenant or Proviſo, or by bargain and ſale upon a general conſideration: And therefore, if a man by deed indented and enrolled according to the Statute [176] for divers good conſiderations bargaineth and ſelleth his lands to another and his heirs, nihil operatur inde, for no uſe ſhall be raiſed upon ſuch general conſideration, for it doth not appear to the Court that the bargainer hath quid pro quo, and the Court ought to judge whether the conſideration be ſufficient or not, and that cannot be when it is alledged in ſuch generalty. But note Reader, the bargainee in ſuch Caſe may aver that money or other valuable conſideration was paid or given, and if the truth be ſuch, the bargain and ſale ſhall be good. And ſo if I by deed covenant with J. S. for divers good conſiderations that I and my heirs will ſtand ſeiſed unto the uſe of him and his heirs, no uſe without ſpecial averment ſhall be raiſed by it; but if J. S. be of my bloud, and in truth the covenant were made for advance-advancement of his bloud, he may averr that the covenant was in conſideration thereof, and in both theſe Caſes the perſon who ſhall take the uſe is certain; and that ſuch averment may be taken which ſtands with the deed, although it be not expreſly compriſed in the deed is proved by a Caſe adjudged in an Aſſiſe between Villers and Beamond, Term. Paſch. 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. reported by Bendloes Serjeant at Law, which Caſe you ſhall find alſo Paſch. 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. Dier 146. where the Caſe in effect was, That George Beamont and Jane his wife, as in the right of his wife were ſeiſed of the Mannor of Northall, &c. and had iſſue William Beamont, who had iſſue Richard Beamont, and he and his wife by Indenture 12 H. 8. between them of the one part, and Richard Clark of the other part, in conſideration of 70 l. given by Richard Clark, did bargain and ſell the land to the ſaid Richard Clark for 30. years, the remainder to themſelves for their lives, the remainder to William Beamont for life, the remainder to Richard Beamont and to one Collet the daughter of Richard Clark in tail, &c. and afterwards a recovery was had to the ſame uſes; Richard Beamont and Collet did entermarry; and it was found and averred that the ſaid Indenture was made tam in conſideratione maritagii prædict' inter Richardum Beamont & Colletam, habend' & celebrand (to make it a Joynture within the Statute of 11 Hen. 7.) as for the ſaid ſumm of 70. l. and it was adjudged, That although there was a particular conſideration mentioned in the deed, yet the averment in the ſame caſe might be made of another conſideration which ſtood with the Indenture, and which was not contrary to it, a fortiori in the ſaid Caſe; for in the deed is no certain conſideration, but the deed is general for divers good conſiderations; then the averment that the bagainee gave money, &c. or that the covenantee was of his blood is but explanation and particularizing of the general words of the deed, which include every manner of conſideration, and in all of the ſaid caſes, the matter ſo averred is traverſable and iſſuable.

[b]

Secondly, it was reſolved, that when uſes are raiſed by covenant in conſideration of paternal love, &c. to his ſons and daughters, or for the advancement of any of his blood, and after in the ſame Indenture a Proviſo is added, that the covenantor for divers good conſiderations may make leaſes for years, &c. that the covenantor in ſuch caſe cannot make a leaſe for years to his ſon or daughter, or unto any other of his blood (much leſs to any other perſon) becauſe that the power to make leaſes for years was void when the Indenture was ſealed and delivered; for the covenant upon ſuch general conſiderations cannot raiſe the uſe for the cauſes aforeſaid, and no particular averment can be, becauſe that his intent was as general as the conſideration was, and his intent was not at the time of the delivery of the deed to demiſe to any perſon in certain, to one more then other, but to demiſe general to whom he pleaſed, and therefore his power to make leaſes (the uſes being created and raiſed by covenant upon the conſiderations aforeſaid) was void ab initio. But if the uſes had been limited upon a recovery, fine or feoffment, there needeth not any conſideration to raiſe any of the uſes, and ſo a manifeſt difference. And the Caſe at Bar is ſtronger, becauſe that the Proviſo which gave power to make leaſes ſhall defeat or at leaſt incumber the eſtates veſted and ſetled upon good conſiderations in ſtrangers by the covenants of the ſame Indenture. So note a difference when the conſideration is general, and the covenant or bargain made with a perſon certain, there averment according to the truth of the Caſe may be taken as aforeſaid; but when the conſideration is general and the perſon uncertain, there no averment can help: And therefore if I for good conſiderations covenant with you that I will ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of ſuch a one as you ſhall name, now although you name my ſon, or my couſin, yet no uſe ſhall be raiſed thereby; for, for the generality and incertainty it was void ab initio, and never could be made good to any purpoſe after; and no averment can make the ſame good, or reduce it to any certainty, for the intent of the covenantor was as general as the words were. But if I covenant with you that in conſideration of fatherly love, or for the advancement of my blood I will ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of ſuch of my ſons, or to the uſe of ſuch of my couſins as you ſhall name, upon the nomination the uſe ſhall be raiſed, for there the conſideration is particular and certain, and the perſon by matter ex poſt facto may be made certain.

[177]

Thirdly, upon theſe words in the Proviſo (other conſiderations) it was holden, that this word (other) ought to be other in nature, quality, and perſon, and the advancement of his daughter is the conſideration mentioned before.

Fourthly, it was reſolved, that the ſaid limitation of 1000. years was as well againſt the intent of the parties, as againſt the words of the Proviſo, for the intent and ſcope of the Indentures was to make diſtribution of his lands amongſt his three daughters, and the heirs of their bodies, and every of them upon good conſideration and agreement between their Parents had her portion by her ſelf; but if this limitation for 1000. years ſhall be good, it ſhall be rather to fruſtrate the eſtate of the other ſiſter, and to defraud the intent of the parties grounded upon a conſideration of marriage, then to perform and follow the intent and meaning of the Proviſo, for the intent of the Proviſo was never to give any power to make void the eſtates of the other ſiſters; but it appeareth by all parts of the Indenture, that each daughter ſhould be advanced equally; And ſo this limitation for 1000. years without any rent reſerved was againſt the intent and meaning of the parties; It ſeemeth alſo it was againſt the words of the Proviſo, for that cannot be ſaid a reaſonable conſtruction which tendeth to the ſubverſion of eſtates veſted and ſetled by the ſaid Indentures upon ſo good and juſt conſiderations againſt the meaning of the parties. After the reſolution of the Juſtices certified in the Court of Wards, it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, and alſo affirmed upon a Writ of Error in the Kings Bench in an Action upon the Caſe brought by the ſaid Anthony Mildmay againſt Roger Standiſh, becauſe the ſaid Roger had ſaid, and openly publiſhed that the ſaid land was lawfully aſſured to the ſaid John Talbot and Oliffe his wife for 1000. years, and that they were lawfully poſſeſſed of the intereſt of the ſaid term, whereas in truth the ſaid land was not lawfully aſſured for the term aforeſaid, nor the ſaid John Talbot and Oliffe were not lawfully poſſeſſed thereof, and ſo for ſlandering of the eſtate and title which was conveyed to his wife by the ſaid Indentures, and ſhewed all in certainty, and how he was prejudiced by the ſaid ſpeeches he brought the ſaid Action. And Standiſh pleaded the ſaid Proviſo in the ſame Indentures, and the ſaid limitation for 1000. years by the ſaid Will, &c. according to the ſaid Proviſo (as he pretended) by force whereof he and the ſaid Oliffe had intereſt for 1000. years, and juſtified the ſpeeches, upon which the Plantiff demurred. And it was adjudged, that the Action upon the Caſe was maintainable: And in this Caſe two points were reſolved in both the Courts: Firſt, that the ſaid leaſe for the cauſes aforeſaid was void in Law. Secondly, although de facto the ſaid John Talbot and Oliffe his Wife had a limitation of the land by the ſaid Will of Sir Henry Sharington for 1000. years, which was the occaſion that Standiſh being a man not learned in the Law, did affirm and publiſh that Oliffe had a term for 1000. years, yet foraſmuch as he hath taken upon him the knowledge of the Law, and medling with a matter which did not concern him had publiſhed and declared, That Oliffe had a good eſtate for 1000. years, in ſlander of the title of Mildmay, and thereby hath prejudiced the Plaintiff, as appeareth by the Plaintiffs Declaration; for this cauſe the firſt Judgment given for the Plaintiff was affirmed in the Writ of Error, Et ignorantia juris non excuſat. [b]

to

THE

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke Kt. &c.

PART II.

Paſc. 26. Eliz. Rot. 1608. in the Common Pleas.

Manſer's Caſe.

BEtween Painter and Manſer the Caſe was ſuch; Painter brought an Action of Debt againſt Manſer upon an Obligation: the Defendant pleaded that the Bond was with Condition, ſcil. That where the Defendant hath enfeoffed the Plantiff of certain Lands, that if the Plantiff ſhall at all times then after enjoy thoſe lands diſcharged, or otherwiſe ſaved harmleſs from all incumbrances, &c. and alſo if the Defendant and John Manſer his ſon ſhall do all acts and deviſes for the better aſſurance of thoſe lands to him, as by the Plaintiff or his Councel learned in the Law ſhall be deviſed, that then the Obligation ſhall be void: And pleaded that the Plantiff hath enjoyed the ſaid lands diſcharged and kept harmleſs from all incumbrances, &c. And that the Plaintiff deviſed a writing of releaſe to be made by the Defendant and John his ſon to the Plaintiff, which the Defendant ſealed and delivered as his deed, and becauſe that John his ſon was not lettered, nor could not read, the ſaid John prayed the Plaintiff to deliver the ſame to him to be ſhewed to ſome man learned in the Law that might enform him if it were made according to the Condition; and further he ſaid that if it were made according to the Condition he would deliver it, which the Plaintiff refuſed for which he did not deliver it as it was lawful for him, upon which the Plaintiff did demurre. And it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe three points were reſolved. [3]

1. If a man not lettered be bound to make a Deed, he is not bound to ſeal and deliver any writing which ſhall be tendred to him, if any be not preſent who can read the ſame to him if he require the writing to be read to him; And if the Deed be in Latine, French, or other Language which the party who ſhould make the Deed underſtandeth not, in this Caſe if the party require that one read and expound the writing to him, and none be there preſent who can read and expound the tenor thereof in the ſame language that the party who is to deliver the Deed underſtandeth, there the party may refuſe to deliver the ſame. So although a man can read, ye if the Deed be in Latine, French, or other ſuch language as the party who would make the Deed cannot underſtand, if he require that the Deed be read or expounded to him in ſuch language as he may underſtand it, and none be there ready ſo to do, the party may refuſe to deliver the ſame. And it is to be known that ignorantia eſt duplex, viz. facti & juris; & rurſum ignorantia facti (quoad rem noſtram attinet) eſt duplex, viz. lectionis, & linguæ. Note Reader, that ignorance in reading, or ignorance of the language, which are ignorantia facti may excuſe, but it is commonly ignorantia juris non excuſat. For notwithſtanding that there it was ſaid, that although the party can read and knoweth the language alſo in which the writing was made, yet he doth not know the ſenſe and operation of the words in Law, and whether they agree with the Condition of his Obligation or not; And therefore ſome of the Juſtices thought that in ſuch Caſe the party ſhall have reaſonable time to ſhew the writing to his Councel at Law to be inſtructed by them, whether it be according to that which he be bound to do, and eſpecially when there is no time limited in which the ſame is to be done; ſo that in as much as the other party may requeſt the doing thereof when he pleaſeth, it is not poſſible for the party to have his learned Councel all times with him; And therefore prima facie it ſeemed reaſonable that the party ſhould have reaſonable time as afore is ſaid. But at length upon view of a Record of a Judgment in the ſame Court, 16 Eliz. in the Lord Diers time, between Sir Anthony Cook and Wotton, that upon ſuch requeſt [b] made to Sir Anthony Cook by Wotton to ſeale an Indenture, Sir Anthony who was not learned in the Law, was to ſeale the ſame peremptorily at his peril, and could not have convenient time to conſult upon it with his Councel; upon that it was reſolved in the Caſe at the Bar according to the ſaid Judgement. See the Caſe reported by the Lord Dier. Trinit. 16 Eliz. Dier 337, 338. And it was ſaid that the Caſe at Bar was a ſtronger Caſe then the Caſe of Sir Anthony Cook; for in this Caſe the Defendant was bound, that his ſon who was a ſtranger to the bond, ſhould make, &c. in which caſe he hath taken upon him, his ſon ſhall do it at his peril, for he who is bound taketh upon him more for a ſtranger then for himſelf [4] in many caſes. Vide 33 H. 6. 16. b. 36 H. 6. 8. 2 E. 4. 2. 15 E. 4. 5. b. 22 E. 4. 43. & 10 H. 7. 14. b. It was reſolved that the pleading was inſufficient, for he hath pleaded that the Plaintiff had enjoyed the lands diſcharged and kept harmleſs from incumbrances, where he ought to have ſhewed how: So if he had pleaded, that he had ſaved him harmleſs, he ought to have ſhewed how; but in ſuch caſe if he had pleaded in the negative, Non fuit damnificatus, there it is otherwiſe. Secondly, he hath pleaded, Quod quoddam ſcriptum relexationis was ſealed and delivered, and doth not ſhew whether the releaſe concern the land mentioned in the condition, and for all theſe cauſes the Plaintiff had Judgment for to recover.

Note Reader, it is great reaſon, that the writing be expounded in ſuch language that the party may underſtand it, although he could read, becauſe by the Law he is at his peril to deliver the ſame, and to deliver it preſently upon requeſt, and hath not time to conſult upon with his learned Councel.

Hill. 26 Eliz. Rot. 1038. in the Common Pleas.

Goddard's Caſe.

[b] Goddard adminiſtrator of James Newton brought an Action of Debt againſt John Denton upon a Bond made to the inteſtate bearing date 4 Aprilis 24 Eliz. The Defendant pleaded, that the inteſtate died before the date of the Bond, and ſo concluded, that the ſaid writing was not his Deed, upon which they were at iſſue; the Jury found that the Defendant did deliver it as his deed 30 Julii, anno 23 Eliz. and found the tenor of the deed in hæc verba, Noverint univerſi, &c. dat. 4 Aprilis, anno 24 Eliz. and that the inteſtate was living 30 Julii 23 Eliz. and that he died before the date of the Bond: And prayeth the advice of the Court, if it were the Defendants deed. And it was adjudged by Anderſon chief Juſtice, Windham, Periam and Walmeſley that it was his deed, and the reaſon of their Judgment was, That although that the obligee cannot alledge the delivery before the date, as it was adjudged in 12 H. 6. 1. which caſe was affirmed to be good Law, yet the Jurors who are ſworn to ſay the truth ſhall not be eſtopped, for an eſtoppel is to conclude one to ſay the truth; and therefore Jurors cannot be eſtopped, becauſe they are ſworn to ſay the truth. Vide 1 H. 4. 6. b. 35 Aſſ. 8. 17 E. 3. 6. Plow. Comm. 515. a. but if the eſtoppel or admittance be within the ſame record in which the iſſue is joyned upon which the Jurors ſhall give their verdict, there they cannot find any thing againſt that which the parties have affirmed and admitted of record, although the truth be contrary; for the Court ought to give Judgment upon a thing confeſſed by the parties, and the Jurors are not to be charged with any ſuch thing, but only with things in which the parties differ. Vide 28 Aſſ. 34. 9 H. 6. 37. 3 & 4 Phil.
[5] & Mar. Dier 147. And the date of a deed is not of the ſubſtance of the deed; for if it want date, or if it have a falſe or impoſſible date, as the thirtieth day of February, yet the deed is good; for there are but three things of the eſſence and ſubſtance of a deed, that is to ſay, writing in paper or parchment, ſealing, and delivery, and if it have theſe three, although that it wanteth, In cujus rei teſtimonium ſigillum ſuum appoſuit, yet the deed is ſufficient, for the delivery is as neceſſary to the eſſence of a deed, as the putting of the ſeal to it, and yet it needeth not to be contained in the deed, that it was delivered. And note the order of making a deed is, firſt to write it, then to ſeal it, and after to deliver it, and therefore it is not needfull that the ſealing and delivery be mencioned within the writing, for as much as they are to be done after. And ſo it was reſolved in Henry the eighths time. See Reader 40 E. 3, 2. and an opinion in 7 H. 7, 14. to the contrary; but ſee the Caſe cited in the time of H. 8. now reported by the Lord Dier 28 H. 8. 19. and beleive Reader the late Judgments are grounded upon full and pregnant reaſon. And when a deed is delivered, it takes effect by the delivery, and not from the day of the date. And therefore be the deed without date, or of a falſe or impoſſible date, yet the deed is good. Secondly, by this Judgement it is to be obſerved, That if a man bring an Action of Debt, and declare that the Defendant 4 Aprilis 24 Eliz. made a Bond bearing date the ſame day and year, and the Defendant plead, Non eſt factum, and it is found that the deed was delivered at another day before or after then the Plaintiff hath declared, that yet Judgment ſhall be given for the Plaintiff, for as much as the date is not material, and the Defendant cannot be twice charged. And many times Bonds are delivered at other days then they bear date. So it appeareth by this Judgment, that the miſtaking of the date of the Bond ſhall not hurt, upon Non eſt factum pleaded.

Trin.

Trin. 29 Eliz. in the Common Pleas. Rot. 928.

Throughgoods Caſe.

Throughgood brought an Action of Treſpaſs for breaking of his Cloſe againſt Cole Defendant, who pleaded, That long time before the Treſpaſs, the Plaintiff did releaſe to William Chicken all demands whatſoever, &c. whoſe eſtate he had in the land, and ſo juſtified the Treſpaſs. The Plaintiff ſaid, that he was a Lay man not lettered, and that at the time of ſaid releaſe made, divers arrearages of an annuity were due to him by the ſaid William Chicken, and that the ſaid writing of Releaſe was read and declared to him as a writing of acquittance for thoſe arrerages onely; and that he (giving credit thereunto) did ſeal and deliver the ſame to the ſaid William Chicken, and ſo, not his deed, upon which iſſue was joyned; and the Jury found a ſpecial verdict to this effect: That is to ſay, that the Plaintiff was a Lay man, not lettered, and that divers arrerages of the ſaid annuity were behind, and that the writing was never read to him; but after that one Thomas Ward had begun to read it to the Plaintiff, and before he had read a line of the writing, one William Ward took the writing out of his hands ſaying to the Plaintiff, Goodman Throughgood you are man unlearned, and I will declare it to you, and make you underſtand it better than you can by hearing of it read; And then ſaid further to him, Goodman Throughgood the effect of it is this, That you do releaſe to William Chicken all the arrerages of rent that he doth owe you, and no otherwiſe, and then you ſhall have your land again: To which the Plaintiff ſaid, If it be no otherwiſe I am content; and thereupon the Plaintiff giving credit to the ſaid William Ward delivered the ſaid deed of releaſe to the ſaid William Chicken, and if upon the whole matter it be the Plaintiffs deed, the Jury doth refer to the conſideration of the Court. And it was adjudged, that it was not the Plaintiffs deed; and in this Caſe three points were reſolved: Firſt, that although the party to whom the writing is made, or other by his procurement doth not read the writing, but a ſtranger of his own head read the ſame in other words then in truth it is, yet it ſhall not bind the party who delivereth it; for it is not material who readeth the writing, ſo as he who maketh it be a Layman and being not lettered, be (without any covin in himſelf) deceived; and that is proved by the uſual form of pleading in ſuch Caſe, that is to ſay, That he was a Lay man and not learned, and that the Deed was read unto him in other words, &c. generally without ſhewing by whom it was read. And if a ſtranger menace A. to make a Deed to B. A. ſhall avoid the Deed which he made, as well as if B. himſelf had threatned him, as it is adjudged 43 E. 3. 6. Vid. 39 H. 6. 36. [14] [b]

Secondly, That ſuch lay man not learned is not bound to deliver the Deed, if there be not one preſent which can read the Deed unto him in ſuch language that he who ſhould make the Deed may underſtand it; and that is the reaſon that if it be read in other words then are contained in the writing, it ſhall not bind the party who delivereth it, for it is to the peril of the party to whom the writing is made, that the true effect and purport of the writing be declared if it be required, but if the party who ſhould deliver the Deed doth not require it, he ſhall be bound by the Deed, although it be penned againſt his meaning.

Thirdly, Although that the writing be not read to the party, yet if the effect be declared to him in other form then is contained in the writing, and upon that he deliver it, he ſhall avoid the Deed; for it is all one in Law to render the ſame in other words, and to declare the effect thereof in other manner then is contained in the writing, if the party who maketh the writing (being not learned) deſire one to read the writing to him, and he read it, or declare the effect thereof to him in other manner then the writing doth purport, the ſame (if there be no covin betwixt them) ſhall not bind him.

Trin. 27 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Rot. 1354.

Wiſeman's Caſe.

BEtween Wiſeman Plaintiff, and Bernard Defendant in Debt, upon a Leaſe for years, the Caſe was ſuch, Tenant in tail of certain land, the remainder in fee; he in the remainder by Deed indented and enrolled, in conſideration and to the intent; That all his lands and tenements for ever after ſhould continue and remain in his family, name, and blood: as for other good conſiderations doth covenant, that he himſelf will ſtand ſeiſed of all his lands, &c. to the uſe of himſelf and of the heirs males of his body begotten, and after to the uſe of divers of his brothers in tail, and for default of ſuch iſſue unto the the uſe of the Queen, Her Heirs and Succeſſors, Kings and Queens of this our Realm; and afterwards the Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion doth ſuffer a common Recovery with voucher; and if the ſame [15] ſhall bar the iſſue in tail or no was the Queſtion: And it was adjudged, that the iſſue in tail by this recovery was barred. And in this Caſe ſix points were reſolved.

1. That no uſe by the ſaid Indenture was raiſed to the Queen; for the words, that is to ſay, for other good conſiderations, are too general to raiſe any uſe as it hath been adjudged, without ſpecial averment that valuable or other good conſideration was given.

2. The conſideration that the land ſhall remain in the name and blood, notwithſtanding the uſe limited to the Queen, is for the benefit and preſervation of the eſtates in tail, as well againſt diſcontinuances, as againſt barres, as it was ſaid, it was reſolved to be no conſideration to raiſe the uſe to the Queen, for there wanteth Quid pro quo, &c. & contractus dicitur quaſi actus contra actum.

[b] 3. Admit that the Covenantor had ſaid in his Indenture, In conſideration that the Queen is the head of the Commonwealth, and hath the care and charge as well to preſerve the peace of the Realm, as to repeal forraign hoſtility (which is implied in the word Queen) yet it is not a good conſideration to raiſe an uſe for the cauſe aforeſaid, for there wanteth Quid pro quo, and Kings ex officio ought to govern and preſerve the Subjects in peace and tranquillity.

4. It was reſolved, that admit the conſiderations had been ſufficient to raiſe the uſe to the Queen, yet it doth not preſerve the eſtate tail in poſſeſſion by force of the Act of 34 H. 8. for no eſtate tail is preſerved by the ſaid Act, if not that the eſtate tail be created by the Kings Letters Patents, or the eſtate tail be by the Kings proviſion, and not where the eſtate tail is of the gift or proviſion of a common perſon without the Kings proviſion; and the ſame appeareth fully by the preamble of the Act. And note Reader, this word (ſuch) through the whole body of the Act which couples it with the preamble, extends only to gifts made by the King or by the Kings proviſion. And it was no miſchief at the Common Law (as it appeareth by the preamble) that the donees of common perſons ſhould bar their iſſues. See the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 26. that a fine levied by Tenant in tail ſhall barre his iſſue, if not that the eſtate tail be created by the Kings Letters Patents: And the Statute of 34 H. 8. doth preſerve no eſtate, if not that it be of the Kings gift, or by the Kings proviſion. Alſo the Queen doth not loſe any primer ſeiſin, or livery, when the eſtate tail is of the gift of a common perſon, as ſhe loſeth when her donees are barred by Recovery, ſo the diſadvantage of the Queen is not equal, and therefore without queſtion it ſhall not be taken by equity. And in this Caſe it was ſaid, that if one make a gift in tail, and afterwards the Crown deſcended to him, this gift is out of the Statute, for it was made by a Subject. So if the Anceſtor of the King who was not King make a gift in tail, and afterwards the Reverſion deſcended to the King, ſuch gift is out of the Statute; for the words of the Preamble are, Whereby ſuch heirs ſhould have in ſpecial memory &c. the profit that they have and take by the ſervice of their Anceſtors done to the Kings of this Realm; By which it appeareth that the intent of the Act was not to extend to the gift of any Anceſtor of the King who was not King. Alſo there is more miſchief to the Subject in one Caſe then in the other. For by the limitation of the remainder to the King, the meſnalties of the Subjects are in ſuſpence, or extinct, by which they loſe their Eſcheats, Wards, Heriots, Reliefs, &c. but no ſuch miſchief is in the Kings gifts. Alſo by ſuch ſecret and unknown limitations of remainder to the Queen purchaſors are deceived, and the Tenant in tail in poſſeſſion deprived of the power which the Law giveth unto him to cut off the Remainder, but when the King maketh the gift in tail there is no ſuch miſchief.

[16] 5. It was reſolved, that the true interpretation of theſe words (whereof the Reverſion or Remainder at the time of ſuch Recovery had ſhall be in the King, &c.) is, where the King createth the eſtate by his Letters Patents, reſerving the Reverſion; or when the King in conſideration of money, or of aſſurance of other lands, or for other conſideration procureth a Subject to make a gift in tail to one of his ſervants or ſubjects, for recompence of ſervice or other conſideration, the remainder to the King; And therefore, where the Preamble of the Act ſaith, Where the King &c. hath given, &c. or otherwiſe provided to his ſervants or ſubjects; theſe words, Reverſion to the King in the body of the Act, have reference to the gift of the King in the Preamble: and theſe words, Remainder to the King in the body of the Act, referre to proviſion mentioned in the Preamble of the Act made by the King, when he procureth a Subject to make the gift with the remainder to him, and ſo the body of the Act well expounded by the Preamble.

6. It was reſolved, that before the Statute of 34 H. 8. a common Recovery did barre the eſtate tail which was created by the Kings Letters Patents, whereof the reverſion did continue in the King. And with this Reſolution agreeth 33 H. 8. tit. Recovery in value 31 Br. and 29 H. 8. 32. Dier.

Mich. 28 & 29 Eliz. in the Common Pleas

Lanes Caſe.

[b] BEtween Smith Plaintiff and Lane Defendant in the Common Pleas, the Caſe in effect was ſuch; The King ſeiſed of a Mannor in fee in the right of his Crown, by his Steward granted Copihold lands parcel of the Mannor to one by Copy of Court Roll according to the cuſtome of the Mannor in fee. And afterwards the King by his Letters Pattents under the Exchequer Seale made a Leaſe of of thoſe lands for 21. years to another who granted his term to the Copiholder: And afterwards the Queen that now is, reciting the ſaid leaſe for years granted the Reverſion in fee, the term for years expired, the Patentee of the Reverſion entred upon the Copiholder, and if his entry were lawful or no was the Queſtion. And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved by the whole Court.

1. That although by the Common Law no grant of any land by the King is available or pleadable but under the great Seal of England, and although that in this Caſe it was not alledged, That in the Exchequer the common courſe of the Court was to make ſuch Leaſes under the Seal of the Court, yet it was adjudged, that the ſaid Leaſe under the Exchequer Seal was good, and that by the common uſage of the Court of Exchquer; for the cuſtoms and courſes of every of the Kings Courts are as a Law, and the Common Law for the univerſality thereof doth take notice of them, and it needeth not to alledge or plead any uſage or preſcription to warrant the ſame. And ſo it is holden in Long 5 E. 4. 1. & 11 E. 4. 2. b. that the courſe of a Court is a Law; and in 2 R. 3. 9. it is holden, that every Court of Weſtminſter ought to take notice of the Cuſtomes of other Courts, otherwiſe is it of Courts in the Country. And vide 8 H. 6. 34. & Br. Leaſes 71. where it is ſaid, The order of the Exchequer is to make [17] their Leaſes by this word Committimus ſuch lands, Habendum & reddendum ſuch Rent, or Farm, and it is a good Leaſe there by uſage. By which it appeareth, that the ancient uſage maketh a Leaſe to be good and available in Law; and if ſuch Leaſes ſhould not be good, great inconvenience would follow, for infinite number of Leaſes and grants under the Exchequer Seal ſhall be otherwiſe ſaid void, and a great number of grants of Reverſions expectant upon Leaſes under the Exchequer Seal ſhall be alſo void: For if the King granteth a Reverſion where he hath a poſſeſſion, his grant is void. And the Judges in general Caſes have great reſpect and conſideration that their Judgments ſhall not impeach the eſtates and inheritances of many men againſt ancient and common approbation. In a Patent of King Hen. 7. four letters, viz. H. R. F. H. of the firſt words were left out, intending afterwards propter honorem to be drawn and limmed with gold, but the great Seal was put to the grant leaving out the ſaid letters. And yet the Patent was adjudged good for the multitude of Preſidents.

Note Reader, in every Commiſſion to make Leaſes under the great Seal is a ſpecial grant, that Leaſes made by the Commiſſioners under the Seal of the Exchequer ſhall be good, but that was not touched in this Caſe, nor do I think was it material; for if the Leaſes were not good for the cauſes aforeſaid, certainly the clauſe in the Commiſſion will not remedy it.

2. It was reſolved that by the acceptance of the term by the Copiholder, the Copihold eſtate was determined, as well as if the Copiholder had accepted immediately a leaſe for years of his Copihold, as hath been adjudged in Hides Caſe, for it is all one reaſon in both Caſes, viz. that a Copihold intereſt and an eſtate for years of the ſame land cannot ſtand together in one perſon at the ſame time, without confounding the leſſer. Alſo they are of divers natures, and therefore they cannot ſtand together in one and the ſame perſon.

3. That the ſeverance of the freehold and inheritance of the land holden by Copy of the Mannor, hath not extinguiſhed or determined the Copihold eſtate; for notwithſtanding that his eſtate is taken but for an eſtate at will, yet the cuſtom hath ſo eſtabliſhed the Copiholders eſtate, that he is not removable at the Lords will, ſo long as he performs the cuſtoms and ſervices, and by the ſame reaſon the Lord cannot determine his intereſt by any act that he can do, and ſo it hath been adjudged divers times [b] in the Kings Bench: But for that the eſtate of the Copiholder was determined by the acceptance of the leaſe for years it was adjudged againſt the Copiholder.

Note Reader, the Law to ſeveral purpoſes and intents taketh notice of divers of the Kings Seals. 1. Of the great Seal. 2. Of the Seal of the Exchequer, as appeareth before. 3. Of the Privy Seal: F. N. B. 26. b. The King may grant to one to make Attorney by his Letters Patents under his Privy Seal, and therewith agreeth 37 H. 6. 27. b. and the King may command under his Privy Seal that one do not go beyond the Sea out of the Realm, as appeareth by F. N. B. 85. a. But it is holden in 35 H. 6. that a protection or warrant of an Eſſoin is worth nothing under the Privy Seal. And it appeareth by the Statute of Articuli ſuper chartas cap. 6. that no Writ ſhall be ſealed with the petit Seal.

4. The Law taketh notice alſo of the privy Signet, vide F. N. B. 85. a. That the privy Signet is ſufficient to prohibit one to go beyond the Sea. And ſee a Record in the Exchequer Hil. 1. E. 4. ex parte Rememoratoris dom' Reginæ Rot. 14. that the diſcharge of a debt under the privy Signet by the Sheriff of London was not ſufficient, but it ought to have been under the privy Seal, and then it had been a good diſcharge in Law.

Know Reader, that of ſmall things (as the Caſe at Bar was) and to poor men, Leaſes have been made under the Exchequer Seal, as appeareth by many old preſidents before and in the time of King E. 3. and by infinite preſidents after to this day, And ſuch Leaſes made according to ſuch preſidents have been allowed good. And there were three cauſes of the beginning of the uſage. 1. For the multiplicity, that every poor man ſhall not be driven by ſuch infinite number of Leaſes to ſue for Cottages to the King, and other ſmall things to paſs by the King ſigning, the privy Signet, privy Seal, or great Seal. 2. For neceſſity, leſt if a poor Subject be driven to ſuch tedious ſuit, the land lie freſh many times without a Tenant to the Kings damage. 3. For the impoſſibility, becauſe many times the Subject was not able, nor the thing leaſed was not of value to paſs the great Seal. But to you who are rich, my advice is to paſs your Leaſes under the great Seal for that is the ſure way.

Paſc. 31 Eliz. in the Common Pleas. Rot. 151.

Baldwin's Caſe.

[23] BEtween Baldwin and Morton in Treſpas in the County of York, and adjudged in the Common Pleas, the Caſe was ſuch; the Prior of Boulton, anno 25 *H.*8. with the aſſent of his Covent by Indendenture demiſed the land in queſtion to Hugh Baldwin and Anne his wife for 21. years. And afterwards the Priority by ſurrender came to King H. 8. and after Hugh Baldwin died, King H. 8. ann. 33. granted the land in queſtion to Henry Earl of Cumberland and his heirs, who 37 H. 8. by his Indenture covenanted, granted, demiſed and to Farm let the ſaid land to the ſaid Anne, and to one Anthony Baldwin her ſon, and to the heirs of the ſaid Anthony Habendum to them from the date of the ſame Indenture until the end of 99. years, and ſo from 99. years to 99. years until 300. years be expired without impeachment of Waſt in as ample and large manner and form as the ſaid Hugh Baldwin and Anne, or any Tenant or Farmer ever had or enjoyed the ſame. And the leſſee covenanted to pay during the ſaid term 5. s. 8. d. if it were demanded: And the leſſee covenanted that he and his Heirs and Aſſigns at the end of the term of 300. years, would make unto the Heirs and Aſſigns of the ſaid Anthony Baldwin ſuch Leaſe for other 300. years, &c. And the Jury found, that no livery and ſeiſin was made for the ſaid Anthony or Anne according to the ſaid Indenture; Anne died, and Anthony ſurvived, Henry [b] Earl of Cumberland died, George his Son and Heir, anno 14 Eliz. did enfeoff the defendant thereof; the ſaid Anthony at the time of the feoffment being in poſſeſſion of the land, upon whom the Defendant entred, upon which entry the ſaid Anthony brought this Action of Treſpas. And the doubt in this Caſe was, If for as much as that the fee ſimple was limited and expreſſed by the premiſes unto Anthony and his Heirs, if the limitation of the term for years in the Habendum were contrary and repugnant to the premiſes. And firſt it appeareth, that the entent of the parties was, that but a term ſhould paſs; for in the premiſſes the parties uſe the uſual words of a Leaſe, ſcil. grant, demiſe, and to farm let, and a certain term for years is limited by the Habendum; alſo it is limited without impeachment of Waſt; alſo the leſſee binds himſelf by covenant to pay the rent during the term; And the leſſor covenants, that a new Leaſe ſhall be made at the end of the term, and that the leſſees ſhall enjoy the land, &c. as other Farmers, &c. had enjoyed the ſame. Then ſuch conſtruction ſhall be always made, that the intent of the parties ſhall take effect, if the ſame by any conſtruction may ſtand with the rule of Law; And it was objected, that the rule of Law was, That an Habendum being contrary or repugnant to the premiſes is void, and the premiſſes ſhall ſtand: As if a man by deed give lands by the premiſſes to one and his heirs Habendum to him for his life, this Habendum is void, becauſe that a fee ſimple is expreſſed in the premiſes, and but an eſtate for life in the Habendum, which is repugnant and void, which Caſe was agreed on all ſides. But it was adjudged by Anderſon cheif Juſtice, Windham, Periam and Walmeſley Juſtices, that the Habendum in the Caſe at Bar was not repugnant; and that by the ſaid demiſe both the leſſees had a leaſe for years therein expreſſed: and in this Caſe theſe differences were taken and agreed for good Law.

1. When things which take their eſſence and effect by the delivery of the deed without other ceremony, and which lie in grant, there in ſuch limitation as in Caſe at Bar, the Habendum was repug- and void. As if a man grant Rent, or Common, &c. out of his land by the premiſſes of the deed to one and his heirs, Habendum to the grantee for years or for life, the Habendum is repugnant, for a fee paſſeth by the premiſſes by the delivery of the deed, and therefore the Habendum for years or life is void.

[24] 2. If one by deed grant a rent in eſſe, or a Seignory in the premiſſes to one and heirs, Habendum to the grantee for years, or life; although that another thing or ceremony is requiſite, that is to ſay, (Attornment) beſides the delivery of the deed, yet for as much as the thing lieth in grant, and both eſtates that is to ſay, as well the eſtate in fee, as the eſtate for years or for life ought to have one and the ſame ceremony, that is to ſay (Attornment) to paſs it as a Seignory, &c. and for this cauſe the Habendum in ſuch Caſe is repugnant and void.

3. When a man gives land by deed in fee by the premiſes, Habendum to the leſſee for life, there the Habendum is void, as hath been ſaid; for one ceremony, ſcil. livery is requiſite to both the eſtates: and therefore when livery is made according to the form and effect of the deed, it ſhall be taken ſtrongeſt againſt the the feoffor, and more for the advantage of the feoffee, and the Habendum in ſuch Caſe is void, and till livery be made the feoffee hath but at will.

4. When to the eſtate limited by the premiſſes a ceremony is requiſite unto the perfection of the eſtate, and to the eſtate limited by the Habendum, nothing is required to the perfection and eſſence thereof but only the delivery of the deed, there, although that the Habendum be of leſſer eſtate then is mentioned in the premiſſes, the Habendum ſhall ſtand, as in the Caſe at the Bar: Unto the fee ſimple limited by the premiſſes it is requiſite to have livery and ſeiſin, and till livery be made nothing ſhall paſs but an eſtate at will (if the deed had not gone further) and therefore the Habendum for years is good preſently by the delivery of the deed, and ſo it appeareth it was the intent of the party that it ſhould take effect by the livery of the deed for years.

Note

Note Reader, a difference between an estate in the premises implied, and an estate expressed; for if A. grant a rent to B. generally, the same by explication and construction of Law is an estate for life: but if the Habendum be for years, it is good, and shall qualify the generality and implication of the premisses. And note in the Case at Bar, the Habendum cannot be good to Anne only, and void to Anthony, for Mala expositio quæ corrumpit textum. Also it is to be observed, that although that Anne Baldwin had an estate for years in possession, and had sole and lawful possession and Anthony nothing, and therefore it might be objected, that this deed should enure to Anne only by way of confirmation or release, yet it was adjudged that the lease was good to both, scil. to Anthony and Anne, for so are the words and the intention of the parties; and these words, And to the Heirs of Anthony, upon consideration of the whole deed are void, and both lessees shall have a good estate for years. And if livery and seisin had been made to the lessees, it had not changed the Case, for it was a lease for years at the beginning; and Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. [b]

Trinit. 31 Eliz.

The Case of Bankrupts.

GRegory Smith Cullamor, and other good Merchants of London, brough an Action upon the Case upon Trover and Conversion of divers goods in London against Thomas Mills, and upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a special verdict to this effect: John Cook of Spalding was possessed of the same goods, and exercising the Trade of a buyer and seller 30 Januarii 29 Eliz. became Bankrupt, and absented himself secundum formam Statuti (which was found at large) and the said 30 Januarii was endebted to the Plaintiff being a Subject born in 273. l. 12. d. pro merchandizis per quemlibet eorum quibus venditis; and then also was endebted to Robert Tibnam being also a Subject born in 64 l. Afterwards 12 Februarii 29 Eliz. the Plaintiff exhibited a Petition to the Lord Chancellor to have a Commission upon the Statute of Bankrupts, and 17 Feb. 29 Eliz. a Commission was granted according to the said Statute under the great Seal to William Watson and others. And afterwards 21 Feb. 29 Eliz. John Cook gave and delivered the said goods to Tibnam in satisfaction of part of his due debt, the goods being of the value of 24 l. And afterwards ultimo Martii 29 Eliz. the Commissioners by deed indented sold to the Plaintiffs joyntly the said goods, and at the same time the said Mills then Factor to Tibnam in ea parte refused to come in as Creditor, but claimed the said goods as the proper goods of his Master by the gift aforesaid; and afterwards the goods came to the Defendants hands and he converted them, but whether the said sale of the said Commissioners, notwithstanding the said gift and delivery to Tibnam be good or not, that was the doubt referred to the consideration of the Court. And Judgment was given by Wray chief Justice, and the whole Court for the Plaintiffs. And in this Case divers points were resolved: [25] [b]

1. That the said sale made by the said Commissioners was good; and because the doubt rose upon the words and intent of the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 7. only, the Court had consideration of divers parts and branches of the same. First, the Act describeth a Bankrupt, and whom he defraudeth, scil. the Creditors: 2. To whom the Creditors should complain for relief, scil. to the Lord Chancellor: 3. How and by what way relief and remedy is provided scil. by force of a Commission under the great Seal, &c. 4. The authority of the Commissioners, scil. to sell &c. that is to say, to every one a portion rate and rate like according to the quantity of his or their debt. So that the intent of the makers of the Act expressed in plain words was to relieve the Creditors of the Bankrupt equally, and that there should be an equal and ratable proportion observed in distribution of the goods of the Bankrupt amongst the Creditors having regard unto the quantity of their several debts, so that one should not prevent the other, but all should be in equali jure. And so we see in divers Cases, as well at the Common Law as upon the like Statutes such constructions have been made; for as Cato saith, Ipsæ eteninm leges cupiunt ut jure regantur: And therefore it is holden in 35 H. 8. tit. Testaments Br. 19. a man holdeth three Mannors of three several Lords by Knights service, each Mannor of equal value, he cannot devise two Mannors and leave the third to descend according to the generality of the words of the Acts of 32 & 34 H. 8. of Wills, for then he should prejudice the other two Lords, but by a favourable and equal construction he can devise but two parts of each Mannor, so that equality between them shall be observed. And in 4 E. 3. Assise 178. the Lord of a Town cannot improve all the same, leaving sufficient Common in the lands of other Lords within the Statute of Merton cap. 4. And so in Cases at the Common Law an equality is to be required as in 11 H. 7. 12 b. a man binds himself in an obligation and his heirs, and hath heirs and lands on the part of his Father, and on the part of his Mother, both heirs shall be equally charged. 48 E. 3. 5. in Dower if the heir be vouched in three several Wards within the same County, he shall not have execution against one only, but all shall be equally charged. 29 E. 3. 39. the like Case. So here in our Case there ought to be an equal distribution secundum quantitatem debitorum suorum, but if after that the Debtor come Bankrupt he may perform one (who peradventure hath least need) and defeat and defraud many poor men of their true debts, it should be unequal and unconscionable, and a great defect in Law if after that he hath discredited himself by becoming a Bankrupt, the Law should credit him to make distribution of his goods to whom he pleased, being a Bankrupt man and of no credit, but the Law as hath been said before hath appointed certain Commissioners of indifferency and [26]

credit

credit to make the diſtribution of his goods, To every one of his Creditors rate and rate like a portion according to the quantity of their debts as the Statute ſpeaketh. Alſo the Caſe is ſtronger becauſe that this gift is an aſſignment of the Bankrupt after the Commiſſion awarded unde the great Seal, which Commiſſion is matter of Record, whereof every one may take conuſance.

Laſtly and principally, the Court relied upon other words in the Act, ſcil. And that every direction, bargain and ſale, &c. given by the perſons ſo authorized as is aforeſaid in form aforeſaid ſhall be good and ſufficient in Law, &c. againſt the ſaid offender, &c. and againſt all other perſons claiming by, from, or under ſuch offender by any Act had, made, or done after any ſuch perſon ſhall become Bankrupt, &c. So that in as much as this aſſignment and delivery of the goods was after the ſaid Cook became Bankrupt, notwithſtanding that the Commiſſioners may ſell them. And the Cort reſolved, that the Proviſo concerning gifts and grants bona fide maketh not any gift or grant good which the Bankrupt maketh after he becomes Bankrupt, but excludes them out of the penalty inflicted by the ſame Proviſo, And divers exceptions were taken to the verdict by the Defendants Councel.

1. That it was not found, that the ſaid ſale by the ſaid Commiſſioners of the goods was by deed enrolled, as they objected the words of the Act require: but to that it was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, That the words of the Act concerning enrolment of the deed next comming after theſe words, goods and chattels, are, or otherwiſe to order the ſame for true ſatisfaction and paiment, &c. and that every direction, order, &c. ſhall be good and effectual, ſo this ſale without deed inrolled is ſatisfaction.

2. It was objected, that it was not found that the Commiſſioners firſt before their ſale had ſeen the goods, for the words of the Act are, ſcil. to be ſearched and viewed, &c. To that it was anſwered and reſolved, that the ſaid words, Or otherwiſe to order, &c. and that every direction, &c. referre the ſame to the diſcretion of the Commiſſioners, and peradventure they cannot come to the ſight of them.

3. That the Commiſſioners ought to make ſeveral diſtribution to the ſeveral Creditors, and not to make a joint ſale or aſſignment to ſeveral Creditors; for if he owed to A. 20. l. and to B. 20. l. and [b] to C. 5. l. a joint ſale or aſſignment to A. B. and C. is not according to the power given to the Commiſſioners by the Act, for the Act limits them to make diſpoſition amongſt the Creditors, viz. to every one a portion rate and rate like according to the quantity of their debts; but in this he who hath the leaſt debt ſhall have as great intereſt in the goods as he who hath the greateſt, and ſo ſuch aſſignment in the ſaid Caſe put of ſeveral debts is void, quod fuit conceſſum per Curiam. But it was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, that in the Caſe at the Bar it appeareth by the verdict, that the debt due to the Plaintiffs was joint, for they found ut ſupra, that the ſaid John Cook was indebted to the Plaintiffs in 273. l. 12. d. which ſhall be intended a joint debt, and ſo the ſale good in the Caſe at the Bar.

4. That for as much as the words of the Act are, To every of the ſaid Crditors a portion, rate and rate like, it behoveth that diſtribution be made to all the Creditors: But here it appeareth that the ſaid Tibnam was a Creditor, and 64. l. due to him, and yet nothing is alloted or aſſigned to him, ſo the ſale is void. To that it was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, that in this Caſe the Factor of the ſaid Tibnam in ea parte refuſed to come in as a Creditor but claimed all the goods: And this Act giveth benefit to thoſe who will enquire and come in as a Creditor, and not thoſe who for obſtinacy refuſe, or for careleſneſs neglect to come before the Commiſſioners and pray the benefit of the Statute; for vigilantibus & non dormientibus jura ſubveniunt, for otherwiſe one debt might be concealed, or one Creditor might abſent himſelf, and avoid all the proceedings of the Commiſſioners by force of the Act. And every Creditor may take notice of the Commiſſion, being a matter of Record as is aforeſaid; and ſo no incovenience may happen to any Creditor who will be vigilant, but great inconvenience will follow, and the whole effect of the Act ſhould be overthrown if other conſtruction ſhall be made.

Paſch. 22 Eliz. Rot. 738. and adjudged in the Common Pleas Trinit. 33 Eliz.

Bettiſworth's Caſe.

[31. b] IN a Replevin between Hayward and Bettiſworth in the Common Pleas, which began Paſch. 22 Eliz. Rot. 738. the Caſe was ſuch; A Leaſe for years was made of a houſe, of a Cloſe called Reginalds, and of divers other lands in Dale, which Cloſe called Reginalds was incloſed and ſevered by it ſelf; and afterwards the leſſee being in the houſe, the leſſor entred into the Cloſe and made a feoffment of the houſe and of all the land ſo demiſed, and made livery in the ſaid Cloſe, the leſſee continuing in the ſaid houſe, and not put out thereof, and afterwards the leſſee did reenter into the ſaid Cloſe, and if the ſame were a good feoffment and livery of ſeiſin of the ſaid Cloſe the leſſee nor other for him being upon the Cloſe, was the doubt. And it was adjudged that the livery and ſeiſin was void, as well for the Cloſe as for the houſe and other lands ſo demiſed. For when a Meſſuage with land is intirely demiſed the Meſſuage is the principal, for that ſerves for the habitation of man, and in a Præcipe ſhall be demanded as the more worthy before land; and the demand for rent behind ſhall be at the houſe as the moſt principal and notorious thing. So that the Meſſuage being more worthy, and the principle, the land

but

but as acceſſory, without queſtion the poſſeſſion of the houſe is a good poſſeſſion of the land demiſed with it.

Secondly, the leſſee cannot be upon every parcel of the land for preſervation and continuance of his poſſeſſion, for it may be that divers parcels of the lands lie in ſeveral parcels, and diſtinct one from the other by ſeveral diſtances; and therefore it ſhall be reaſonable, that his continuance, not only in the houſe, but alſo upon any other part of the land demiſed ſhall be a good poſſeſſion of the reſidue. And ſo it [32] was reſolved by the whole Court.

Thirdly, peradventure the leſſee durſt not for fear of force be upon the land to preſerve his poſſeſſion, but his houſe is his Caſtle which he may by Law ſafely keep, and therefore the Caſe of the houſe is ſtronger. And this difference was taken when a man lawfully departeth with his poſſeſſion, and when a man keeps his poſſeſſion againſt unlawful and torcious entry. For when a man maketh a feffoment of a Meſſuage cum pertinentiis, he departs with nothing thereby but what is parcel of the houſe, ſcil. the buildings, Curtilage, and Garden; but in the Caſe at Bar the keeping of the poſſeſſion of the houſe or any part of the thing demiſed againſt torcious entry and expulſion by the leſſor is not only a poſſeſſion of all that which might paſs by the name of the houſe or of ſuch parcel, but of all lands, &c. which are demiſed by one intire demiſe in one County for the reaſons and cauſes aforeſaid. And it is not material whether the thing where the livery was made be within the view or not: but if the leſſee for years in the ſame Caſe make a leaſe for a certain term of any parcel, and ſo divide the poſſeſſion thereof from the reſidue, if of ſuch parcel ſo ſevered livery be made, the poſſeſſion in the reſidue by the firſt leſſee is not any impediment to the livery of this parcel; otherwiſe it is if the leſſee make a leaſe at will of any parcel, for there his poſſeſſion of the reſidue ſhall hinder the livery made in ſuch parcel. And with this Judgement agreed all the other Judges and Serjeants of Serjeants Inne in Fleetſtreet.

Ter. Mich. 36 & 37 Eliz.

Doddington's Caſe.

[b] William Hall brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt John Peart and James Peart, upon a demiſe made by William Doddington of lands in the Pariſh of Dynder in the County of Somerſet 16 Martii 24 Eliz. for 7 years, from the feaſt of St. Micheal the Archangel then paſt; and upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect: King H. 8. was ſeiſed of the ſcite of the late Hoſpital of St. John of Wells in the ſaid County of Somerſet, and of all the lands and tenements appertaining to the ſaid late Hoſpital (whereof the tenements aforeſaid in which, &c. was parcel) and that the tenements aforeſaid in which, &c. lay in the Pariſh of Dynder, and are diſtant from the ſcite of Wells, and from the ſuburbs and liberty thereof by the ſpace of a league; And afterwards the ſaid King by his Letters Patents bearing date 26 Martii 36. of his reign under the great Seal (ex certa ſcientia & mero motu ſuis) & in conſideratione de 300. l. dedit & conceſſit Johanni Ayleworth & Radulpho Duckinfield, omnia & ſingula illa meſſuagia, tofta, cotagia, terras, tenementa, ædificia, & gardina ſua quæcunque cum pertinentiis tunc vel nuper in ſeperalibus tenuris ſive occupationibus Thomæ Gibbes, Johannis Brown (and divers other by ſpecial names) ſcituat', jacent' ſeu exiſten' in Civitate Wells in dicto Com' Somerſet, ac in ſuburbiis ejuſdem Civitatis & extra eand' Civitatem infra juriſdictionem & libertat' ejuſdem Civitatis dicto nuper Prioratui ſive Hoſpitali dudum ſpectant' & pertinent', quæ quidem meſſuagia, tofta, &c. in dicta Civitate Wells ac ſuburbiis dicto nuper Hoſpitali ſpectant' tunc extendebanur ad clarum annuum valorem 40. l. 3. s. 8. d. Habend' & tenend' omnia & ſingula præmiſſa præfato Jo. A. & Ra. D. & hæredibus ſuis, ad opus & uſum prædict' J. A. & hæredum ſuorum. And the Jury further found, that at the time of the particular made [33] by the Auditor of the late King upon which the ſaid grant was made, and at the time of the grant aforeſaid, the ſaid John Brown was Tenant of the Tenements aforeſaid, in which, &c. for the yearly rent of 6. s. 8. which John Brown was named in the ſaid particular, and that he paid the ſaid rent. And the Jury found that the ſaid John Brown at the time of the ſaid particular and grant was Farmer of the Tenements in which, &c. and had not any other lands parcel of the ſaid late Hoſpital in Wells, but only the Tenements in which, &c. And that the ſaid rent of 6. s. 8. d. was parcel of the value of the ſaid 40. l. 3. s. 8. d. mentioned in the ſaid particular, and in the ſaid Letters Patents. And that the ſaid John Ayleworth died, and that Aſhton Ayleworth his ſon and heir demiſed the Tenements aforeſaid unto the Defendants for their lives. And that the Queen that now is 5 Jul. 30. of her reign did grant unto Edward Borough the reſidue of the Tenements appertaining to the ſaid late Hoſpital not granted to John Ayleworth and Ralph Duckinfield who by deed enrolled ſold them to the ſaid William Doddington, who leaſed them to the Plaintiff, prout, &c. upon whom the Defendants entred. And if their entry were lawful or not was the Queſtion. And in this Caſe two Points were moved:

1. If this grant of the King were good by the Common Law or not.
2. If it were void by the Common Law, if the Statute of 34 H. 8. cap. 21, hath made it good.

And as to the firſt Point it was reſolved by Popham chief Juſtice, Clench, Gawdy, and Fenner Juſtices, that the grant was void by the Common Law, as this Caſe is, as well in the Caſe of a common perſon as in the Caſe of the King. For to that, the Point is no other, but the King or a common perſon granteth omnia illa meſuagia in tenura Johannis Brown, ſcituat' in Well', nuper Prioratui de W. ſpectant', and in truth the lands lie in D. in this Caſe, becauſe that the grant is general, and is reſtrained to a certain Town, the Patentee or grantee ſhall not have any lands out of the Town to which the generallity of the grant doth referre. And this Caſe is the ſtronger by reaſon of this Pronoun (illa) for omnia illa meſuagia, &c. maketh ſuch a neceſſary reference as well to the Town as to the tenure of John Brown, that if one or the other fail, the general grant is void; for (illa) is not ſatisfied till the ſentence be ended, and (illa) governeth all the ſentence till the full ſtop. For which it was unanimouſly agreed by the [b] whole Court, that this grant was void by the Common Law. But the greater doubt was conceived upon the ſecond Point; for the ſaid act of 34 H. 8. maketh all Letters Patents which ſhall be made within 7 years after good, notwithſtanding the miſnaming of any Town wherein the Honours, Mannors, &c. granted do lie. And it was ſaid, that here the Town was miſnamed, for the Tenements lay in D. and are ſuppoſed by the Patent to lie in W. and ſo the Town is miſtaken. And to this purpoſe the Book in 3 Mar. Dier 127. b. was cited, Heydons Caſe, where it is conceived that the miſpriſion of the Town and of the name of the Tenant alſo are remedied by the ſaid Act. And in this Caſe at the Bar it appeareth that the Tenements in the tenure of John Brown were contained within the particular, and were parcel of the value mentioned in the Letters Patents which John Aylesworth and Ralph Dukenfield purchaſed of the King. And by the Letters Patents all lands in the tenure of John Brown, &c. are granted as appeareth before. And ſo it appeareth as it was objected, That it was the Kings intent to paſs them, and the King was not deceived in his grant, for they were parcel of the value which the Patentees purchaſed, and the King hath accepted a conſideration of money from the Patentees for the ſame.

But it was reſolved by the whole Court, that notwiſtanding that theſe lands were in the tenure of John Brown for the rent of 6. s. 8. d. and were parcel of the value mentioned in the Letters Patents; and if this miſpriſion of the Town be not remedied by the ſaid Act, the Patentees ſhould loſe ſo much of their value as was in the tenure of John Brown; and the ſaid grant of all the lands in the tenure of John Brown ſhall be by the miſpriſion of the Town or be utterly void; yet the ſaid grant was not remedied by the ſaid Act. And difference was taken between a general grant as our Caſe is, and a grant which compredendeth convenient certainty: For ſuch general grants are not remedied by the ſaid Statute, nor by any other Act of Confirmation of Letters Patents, but ſuch grants only which comprehend convenient certainty, and that for two cauſes:

1. Becauſe that generale nihil certum implicat; For if a common perſon be bound to demiſe or grant all his lands in the tenure of J. B. in W. the obligor may ſay, that he hath not any lands there, for generale nihil ponit: and with that agreeth the Book in 21 E. 4. If a man be bound to be Nonſuit in all Actions which he hath againſt him in the Common Pleas, he may ſay, that there is no Action there;
[34] otherwiſe if the Condition be particular, ſcil. that he ſhall be Noſuit in a Formedon, &c. So that it appeareth, that general words do not imply any cetainty, nor ſhall conclude any perſon to ſay that he had nothing there. And the difference between general grants and particular appear in Plow. Comm. in Worteſley's Caſe 191 b. 20 Aſſ. 8. 9 H. 6. fol. 11, 12. 2 Ed. 4. 27. b. Then for as much as the eſſence of this general grant in the Caſe at Bar dependeth upon the Town, if the Town be miſtaken nothing is granted. And in this Caſe it cannot be ſaid that the Town in which the Tenements lie, as the Statute ſpeaketh, is miſtaken; for no Tenements are granted or mentioned to be granted by theſe Letters Patents, becauſe the general grant being entire was referred to a falſity, it cannot be conſtrued to extend to any lands or tenements, and therefore it cannot be ſaid, that the Town in which the lands lay, &c. is miſnamed.

Secondly, great inconvenience will follow, if ſuch general grants ſhall be remedied by the Act; for put, That the King being ſeiſed of 1000 acres of lands of the yearly value of 100. per ann. in D. in the County of N. parcel of the poſſeſſions of the late Priory of N. and one will deſire the King to grant to him all his lands in F. in the County of S. appertaining to the ſaid Priory, and in truth the King hath nothing in F. and becauſe none of his offices can find any lands there appertaining to the King he was the more eaſily induced to make the grant. But in ſuch Caſe, if by ſuch conſtruction all the land which the King hath in D. in the ſaid County ſhall paſs it ſhall be inconvenient. For as it is ſaid, Doloſus verſatur in generalibus; and the King and his Officers ſhall be by ſuch conſtruction utterly deceived. And therefore when the general words of the Patent do not comprehend content, number, nature, quality, certain name, nor any convenient certainty of the land, but the Town is the principal thing which reſtraineth the generality of the grant, and reduceth the ſame to certainty, it ſhall be dangerous to extend the ſame out of the Town compriſed in the grants by any conſtruction upon the ſaid Statute. But otherwiſe is it when the grant doth comprehend any convenient certainty, as of a Mannor, Farm, land known by certain name, or containing ſo many acres, &c. ſo as there may appear in the Letters Patents ſome convenient certainty of the thing which the King intended to paſs, for there the ſaid Act doth remedy the ſame, and the King cannot in ſuch Caſe be deceived. And as to the particular, the Judges in this Caſe did not give any regard to the ſame, for in this Caſe they ought to ground their [b] Judgments upon their Letters Patents, and not upon the particular, for the particular is prima intentio Regis, and the Letters Patents are ultima intentio Regis. And to this purpoſe the Book in 16 Eliz. Dier 331. was cited, where the Judges took no regard to the particular. But note, the principal Caſe there is not to be likened to the Caſe at Bar; for there the words of the Patent are ſatisfied, but not in this Caſe, and therefore the greater doubt was conceived upon it; but the ſaid Caſe of 16 Eliz. was agreeed to be good Law by the whole Court. And afterwards Judgment was given for the Plaintiff.

Note Reader, it is the moſt ſure way for the Patentee to expreſs in the Kings grant before the general words as much as he can in certain. Vide 38 H. 6. 38. b. a difference between a ſpecial confirmation by Patent, and general. And the Attorney General and others were of Councel with the Plaintiff, and Godfrey and others with the Defendants.

Paſch.

Paſch. 35 Eliz. in the Court of Wards.

Sir Rowland Heyward's Caſe.

SIR Rowland Heyward Knight ſeiſed in fee of the Mannors of Doddington, alias Ditton, Round Acton, and Wenlock in the County of Shrewsbury, and divers other lands and tenements, whereof part was in the demean, part in leaſe for years with rent reſerved, and part in Copihold, by Indenture dated 2 die Septembris, anno 34 Reginæ Eliz. in conſideration of a certain ſum of money paid to him by Richard Warren, Edward Pilſworth, and Willam Cotton, demiſed, granted, bargained and ſold to the ſaid Warren, Pilſworth and Cotton the ſaid Mannors, Lands, Tenements, and the Reverſions and Remainders of them with all rents reſerved upon any demiſe, to have and to hold to them and their aſſigns preſently after the deceaſe of the ſaid Sir Rowland Heyward, for the term of 17 years, yeelding to the Heirs of Sir Rowland a red Roſe at the feaſt of St. John Baptiſt; which Indenture was acknowledged to be enrolled, and afterwasds the ſaid Sir Rowland by another Indenture covenanted with Thomas Fanſhaw and others to ſtand ſeiſed of the premiſſes to the uſe of himſelf and the heirs of his body; And no Attornment was ever had to the ſaid Warren, Pilſworth and Cotton. And afterwards the ſaid Sir Rowland died ſeiſed of the premiſſes, his heir within age, and left a third part to deſcend to his heir: In the Court of Wards the Queſtion was, If Warren and the other leſſees ſhall have the demeans, and the rents of the Copiholders, as an intereſt at the Common Law, and the rents of the leſſees for years by bargain and ſale by the Statute of 27 H. 8. without Attornment; or if any Attornment by the Common Law were requiſite at all to the future intereſt, or that the bargainees ſhall have election to take the ſame by bargain and ſale in toto, or by demiſe in toto, notwithſtanding their general entry; or if the intereſt which paſſeth as an intereſt at Common Law ſhall be preferred before the raiſing of the uſe. And after many arguments and great deliberation, it was reſolved by Popham and Anderſon cheif Juſtices, and the whole Court of Wards: [35] [b]

Firſt, if it ſhall paſs as a future intereſt at the Common Law, there ought to be Attornment of the leſſees for years, and the attornment in this Caſe ought to be in the life of Sir Rowland Heyward which is before the intereſt beginneth. But if a man make a leaſe of a Mannor to beging at a day to come, the Tenants may attorn either before or after the day, ſo as the Attornment be in the life of the parties. And in the Caſe at Bar becauſe there was not any Attornment of the leſſees for years in the life of Sir Rowland Heyward, it was reſolved, that if they take this future intereſt as a demiſe at Common Law, they ſhall not have the rents reſerved upon the ſaid leaſes for years. [a]

Secondly, that it ought to take effect intirely as a demiſe at Common Law, or intirely by bargain and ſale, by raiſing of an uſe, and not part by the Common Law, and for other part by raiſing of uſe, for by that the Mannor ſhall be diſmembred, which ſhall be againſt the expreſs demiſe and bargain; for both parties agree that a Mannor ſhall be wholly demiſed and bargained, and one Mannor accepted by the leſſee without any fraction or diviſion thereof.

Thirdly, it was reſolved that in this Caſe Warren, Pilſworth and Cotton had election to take the ſame, either by demiſe at Common Law, or by bargain and ſale; for although that at the Common Law, if Ceſtuy que uſe and his feoffeer joyn in a feoffment, grant, or demiſe generally, the ſame ſhall be by conſtruction of Law, the feoffment, grant or demiſe of the feoffees who were owners of the lands, and who paſs the eſtate by Common Law, and not by Ceſtuy que uſe who hath nothing but a truſt and confidence, and who deriveth only his authority by the Statute of 1 R. 3. as it is agreed in 21 H. 7. and the feoffee by Common Law be in ſuch Caſe by his own conſtruction preferred, yet when a man ſeiſed of lands in fee, for money demiſeth, granteth, bargaineth and ſelleth his lands for years, he who is owner of the land by his expreſs grant giveth election to the leſſee to take the ſame the one way or the other, for he hath ſole power to paſs the ſame by demiſe or by bargain; And therefore the Law ſhall not make conſtruction againſt ſuch expreſs grant, and namely in this Caſe, when it ſhall trench to the prejudice of the leſſees, for if the the Law ſhould enforce them to take it by demiſe, then they ſhould looſe the rents reſerved upon the ſaid leaſes for years; for it was agreed, if this intereſt ſhall take effect by bargain and ſale, then there needeth no attornment; for the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap. 10. of uſes, doth execute the poſſeſſion to it. And the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap. 16. of Enrolments doth not extend to the ſame becauſe that no eſtate of freehold paſſeth, but only an eſtate for years. Alſo at this day the uſe and intereſt paſs in a manner uno flatu together in an inſtant. [36]

Fourthly, it was reſolved, that this election doth remain to them, notwithſtanding the alteration of the eſtate by the ſecond Indentures, and notwithſtanding the death of the leſſor, and notwithſtanding alſo the Queen was entituled to the Wardſhip of the heir, as appeareth before: for they had an intereſt in them preſently, which they before election might aſſign over, and which the Executors of the ſurvivor ſhould have, although they all died before election; for here is not election to claim one of two ſeveral things by one and the ſame title, but to claim one and the ſame thing by one of the two ſeveral titles; for where the things are ſeveral, nothing paſſeth before election, and the election ought to be precedent; but when one and the ſame thing ſhall paſs, there it paſſeth preſently, and the election of the title may be ſubſequent; and therefore if I have three horſes, and I give unto you one of my horſes, in this Caſe election ought to be in the life of the parties, for in as much as none of the horſes is given in certain, the certainty, and therefore the property beginneth by election. And with that agreeth 10 Eliz. 281. Bullock's Caſe; The Biſhop of Shrewsbury having a great wood of 1000. acres (called Berewood) enfeoffed another of an houſe and 17. acres parcel of the ſaid wood, and made livery in the houſe, none of the wood paſſed before election, and therefore his heir ſhall not make election: But when one only thing is granted, and the party hath election to take the ſame in one manner or other, there the intereſt veſteth preſently, and it ſhall be always in the election of the grantee or his Executors at any times to elect in what manner and degree he will claim the ſame: As if I grant to you a rent of 40. s. out of my Mannor of D. for years, you ſhall have in this Caſe but one ſum of 40. s. but you ſhall have election to take it in what manner or degree you will, that is to ſay, either as a rent-charge to charge the Mannor by diſtreſs, or to charge the perſon of the grantor in a writ of Annuity, and therefore the intereſt paſſeth preſently, and you or your Executors at any time ſhall make election at your pleaſure, and in the mean time the Law will not determine it one way or other. And therefore it was reſolved by all [b] the Juſtices of England, and afterwards adjudged in the Common Pleas in a writ of Annuity between George Fulwood Gent. Plaintiff, and William Ward Gent. Defendant, where the Caſe was; That William Ward being Tenant for years determinable upon the life of Thomas Lord Paget of a Barn and certain Tithes in Stretton in the County of Stafford, granted a rent of 10. l per annum, by his deed bearing date 30 Junii 29 Eliz. out of the ſaid Barn and Tithes to George Fulwood for 15. years, with clauſe of diſtreſs; and afterwards 32 Eliz. the Lord Paget died, and the writ of Annuity was maintenable for the arrerages after the death of the Lord Paget, for there was not election given to have one of two ſeveral things, but to have one ſum in one degree as a Rent, or in another as an Annuity: And therefore preſently by the grant the thing veſted in the grantee, and his election doth always remain, either to make a real thing to charge the land, or a perſonal thing to charge the perſon. And there in the principal Caſe the act of God, ſcil. the death of the Lord Paget by which the rent was determined, was no determination of the Annuity. So in the principal Caſe, election being given to the ſaid leſſees to have one thing by one means or another, there the leſſees have intereſt veſted in them preſently, and election doth remain in them in what manner they will take the ſame. But when election is given to ſeveral perſons, there nothing veſted before election, and the firſt election ſhall ſtand. And it was ſaid, that if a man maketh a leaſe for life of two acres, the remainder of one acre to I. S. and of the other acre to I. N. he who firſt maketh election ſhall enjoy the one acre, and therefore the other acre hath veſted in the other. And it was ſaid, That if a man giveth two acres to another, Habendum one acre to him in fee, and the other acre to him in tail, and he alieneth both and hath iſſue and dieth, in this Caſe the iſſue may bring a Formedon in diſcender, for which acre he will, for the election is not determined by his death: for an eſtate paſſeth preſently by the livery, and the iſſue ſhall take by diſcent. But in the Caſe of 10 Eliz. 281. Bullocks Caſe, if the heir of the feoffee ſhould make the election, he ſhould be in as a purchaſor, for there nothing paſſeth of the 17. acres unto the feoffee before election, and by the Law he cannot be a purchaſor; for there theſe words (his heirs) were words of limitation. So that note Reader theſe differences concerning election.

[37] 1. When nothing paſſeth to the feoffee or grantee before the election, to have one thing or the other, there the election ought to be in the life of the parties, and the Heir or Executor cannot make the election. But when an eſtate or intereſt paſſeth preſently to the feoffee, donee or grantee, there election may be made by them, or by their Heirs or Executors.

2. When one thing paſſeth to the donee, or grantee, and the donee or grantee hath election in what manner or degree he will take it, there the intereſt paſſeth preſently, and the party his Heirs or Executors may make election when they will.

3. When election is given to ſeveral perſons, there the firſt election made by any of the parties ſhall ſtand.

4. In caſe election be given of two ſeverall things, always he who is the firſt agent, and who ought to do the firſt act ſhall have the election. As if a man grant a rent of 20. s. or a robe to one and his heirs, the grantor ſhall have the election, for he is the firſt agent by paiment of the one, or delivery of the other. So if a man make a leaſe yealding rent, or a robe, the leſſee ſhall have the election, cauſa qua ſupra. And with that agreeth the Books 9 E. 4. 36. b. 13 E. 4. 4. b. L. 5 E. 4. 6. b. 11 E. 3. Annuity 27. 11 Aſſ. 28. 29 Aſſ. 55. 3 E. 3. Aſſiſe 175. 43 E. 3. Barre 195. But if I give to you one of my horſes in my ſtable, there you ſhall have election, for you ſhall be the firſt agent by taking or ſeiſure of one of them, 2 H. 7. 23. a. And if one grant to another 20. loads of Haſel, or 20. loads of Maple to be taken in his wood of D. there the grantee ſhall have election, for he ought to do the firſt act, ſcil. to cut and take it.

5. When the things granted are annual things and are to have continuance, there the election remaineth to the grantor (in caſe the Law give him election) as well after the day as before; otherwiſe when the things are to be performed unica vice. And therefore, if I grant to another for life an annuity or a robe at the feaſt of Eaſter, and both are behind, the grantee ought to bring his Writ of Annuity in the disjunctive, for if he ſhall bring his Writ of Annuity for one only and recover, this Judgement ſhall determine his election for ever; for he ſhall never have a Writ of annuity after, but a Scire facias upon the ſame Judgement; which reaſon Fitzherbert in his N. B. not obſerving, held opinion contrary. But if I conttract with you to pay you 20. s. or a robe at the feaſt of Eaſter, after the feaſt you ſhall bring debt for the one or the other, Vide 9 E. 4. 36. 13 E. 4. 4. and the Books before.

6. The feoffee, &c. by his act and wrong may loſe his election, and give the ſame to the feoffor, &c. As if one enfeoff another of two acres, to have and to hold, one for life, the other in tail, and he be-
[b] fore election maketh a feoffment of both, in this Caſe the feoffor ſhall enter into which acre he will for the act and tort of the feoffee.

7. Al-

7. Although that the leaſſees in the Caſe in queſtion enter generally, yet they after may elect either to take by the demiſe, or by the bargain and ſale, for their general entry cannot be any determination of the election, no more then if one be Executor and demiſee of a term and he entreth generally, it is no determination of his election; and after the leſſees made their election, to take it by bargain and ſale, and thereupon they had the rents reſerved upon the leaſes for years, which otherwiſe they could not have.

Paſch. 38 Eliz.

The Biſhop of Wincheſters Caſe.

IN a Prohibition between Robert Wright Plaintiff, and John Wright Defendant, which began Paſch. 38 Eliz. the Caſe was ſuch; the Plaintiff ſhewed that Stephen Gardiner Biſhop of Wincheſter the 4th day of July 38 H. 8. was ſeiſed in the Mannor of Eaſtmean in Eaſtmean in the County of Southampton in the right of his Biſhoprick; and that the ſaid Biſhop and all his predeceſſors of the ſaid Biſhoprick ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor had holden and enjoyed the ſcite of the ſaid Mannor, and all the demeans of the ſaid Mannor time whereof the memory of man was not to the contrary, for him his Tenants and Farmers for years, or at will, exonerat' acquietat' & privilegiat' de & a ſolutione decimarum quarumcunque de in vel ſuper præd' ſcit' & terr' dominic' & qualibet ſeu aliqua inde parcel' annuatim quoviſmodo per totum tempus præd' creſcent', contingent', ſive renovant'. And the Plaintiff conveyed to himſelf an intereſt for years in parcel of the demeans of the ſaid Mannor by the demiſe of the ſaid Biſhop; And that the Defendant being Farmer of the Rectory of Eaſtmean had libelled againſt him for Tithes growing within parcel of the demeans of the ſaid Mannor before the Judges delegates, and how that the Plaintiff hath ſhewed all the matter, and pleaded the ſame before them, and offered with inevitable proof to prove it; yet prædicti Judices delegati in prædict' Cur' Chriſtianitatis coram eis placitum allegationes & probationes prædict' Roberti Wright admittere recuſaverunt. The defendant to have a conſultation, confeſſed that the ſaid Plaintiff had alledged all the matter before the Judges delegates, and that the Judges delegates allowed the plea and allegation of the Plaintiff, and admitted him to his proof therof, abſque hoc quod prædict' Judices delegati in Curia Chriſtianitatis coram eis placitum allegationes & probationes prædict' Roberti Wright admittere recuſaverunt. And upon this plea the Plaintiffs Councel did demurre in Law; and in this Caſe three Points were removed. [43. b]

1. If the ſaid preſcription for diſcharge of Tithes were good or not.
2. If the Plaintiff being a Lay man ſhall take benefit thereof.
3. If the ſaid traverſe were good or no. And as to the firſt Point three things were conſidered:

1. Who were by the Common Law capable of Tithes in pernancy and who not.
2. Who was capable of a diſcharge of Tithes at the Common Law, and who not.
3. How he who was capable of a diſcharge might be diſcharged of Tithes, ſcil. either by preſcription, or by compoſition, &c.

As to the firſt it was reſolved, That none by the Common Law had capacity to take Tithes but only ſpiritual perſons, or a mixt perſon, and regulary no meer Layman was at the Common Law capable of them if not in ſpecial Caſes; for no Layman but in ſpecial Caſes could ſue for them at the Common Law in the ſpiritual Court, ſcil. for the ſubtraction of them. See the Books in 7 E. 3. 5. 11 Aſſ. 9. 44 E. 3. 5. 10 H. 7. 18. & 7 E. 3. 6. Dier 84. and the Books in 43 E. 3. 34. & 44 E. 3. 39. that a Farmer of a Parſon may ſue for Tithes; but it appeareth that ſuch Farmer was a ſpiritual man, as Vicar, &c. And ſo it was ſaid by ſome are all the other Books in 31 H. 6. 11. 35 H. 6. 39. 2 E. 4. 15. 6 E. 4. 3. 12 H. 7. 24. (in which in truth there are but opinions) to be intended: And if the Common Law had generally enabled a Layman to be capable of Tithes, the Common Law would have given him remedy for the recovery of them: but regularly a Layman had not any remedy for the ſubſtraction of Tithes till the Statut of 32 H. 8. cap. 7. But ſee 22 Aſſ. 75. that the King was capable of Tithes at the Common Law, for he was perſona mixta, and his Patentee alſo by his Prerogative as it there appeareth.

To the ſecond Point it was reſolved, That a meer Layman who who was not capable of Tithes in pernancy, yet was capable of a diſcharge of Tithes at the Common Law in his own land as well as a ſpiritual man; for by the Common Law, the Parſon, Patron, and Ordinary might have diſcharged a Pariſhioner of Tithes in his land, &c. or the Pariſhioner might have given part of his land to the Parſon for diſcharge of Tithes in the reſidue. And for proof thereof ſee the Book in 8 E. 4. 14. and Regiſter 38. where it appeareth that a Layman might be diſcharged of Tiths at the Common Law; but a Layman might be dicharged of Tithes at the Common Law by grant, or compoſition, as it appeareth in the ſaid Books, but not by preſcription to be diſcharged of Tithes; for it is commonly ſaid in our Books, that he may preſcribe in modo decimandi, but not in non decimando, and the reaſon thereof is, becauſe he is not [b] but in ſpecial Caſes capable of Tithes at the Common Law, and therefore without ſpecial matter ſhewed it ſhall not be intended that he hath any lawful diſcharge. And for this cauſe in favour of holy Church, although it may have a lawful be beginning, the Law will not ſuffer ſuch preſcription in this Caſe, to put it to the trial of Laymen, who rather will ſtrain their conſciences for their private benefit, then yeeld to the Church the duties which belongs thereunto. And the Law had great policy therein, for the decay of the Revenues of men of holy Church, in the end will be the overthrow of the ſervice of God and of his Religion. And therefore it is recorded in Hiſtory that there were (amongſt others) two greivious Perſecutions, one under Diocleſian, the other under Julian called the Apoſtata; for it is recorded that one of them intending to have rooted out all the Profeſſors and Preachers of the word of God, occidit omnes presbyteros, but notwitſtanding that Religion flouriſhed, for ſanguis Martyrum eſt ſemen Eccleſiæ; and yet the ſame was a fearful and grievious Perſecution: But the Perſecution under the other was more grieveous and dangerous, becauſe (as the Hiſtory ſaith) ipſe occidit presbyterium, for he robbed the Church, and ſpoiled ſpiritual perſons of their Revenues, and took all from them whereon they might live; and thereupon in ſhort time did follow great ignorance of the true Religion and ſervice of God, and thereby great decay of the Chriſtian Profeſſion; for none will apply themſelves, or their ſons, or any other who he hath in charge to the ſtudy of Divinity, when they ſhall have after long and painful ſtudy nothing to live upon. And it was ſaid, that if a perſcription in Non decimando ſhall be ſuffered, the Church will loſe more then gain in theſe days. And for this cauſe ſuch preſcription was not allowed of. But a ſpiritual perſon who was capabe of Tithes at the Common Law in pernancy may preſcribe to be diſcharged of Tithes generally: for as he may preſcribe to have a portion of Tithes in the land of another, ſo they may preſcribe to diſcharge their own lands of Tithes; for it is commonly ſaid in our Books, that before the Councel of Lateran, every man might have given his Tithes to any Eccleſiaſtical perſon he would, and that appeareth by the Books aforeſaid. And note, that it is recited by the Statute of 2 E. 6. cap. 13. that land may be diſcharged of Tithes by preſcription, but that cannot be in Caſe of a Layman, Ergo it ought to be in Caſe of a ſpiritual man, Vide 10 Eliz. Dier [45] 277. The Orders of the Ciſtercians, Templars, & Hoſpitularii were diſcharged of Tithes ſub modo, ſcil. quamdiu propriis manibus excolutur, &c. and 18 Eliz. Dier 349. And as to the ſecond Point the ſame dependeth upon the firſt, for if the land of the Biſhop were diſcharged in his hands abſolutely by preſcription, then the demiſing thereof to a Layman cannot make the ſame chargeable which was diſcharged before; and in that it may be more beneficial to the Biſhop, for in reſpect of that he might reſerve the greater rent.

Caſe,

To the third Point it was reſolved, that the traverſe was inſufficient, for as it is ſaid in 8 E. 4. 14. the Spiritual Court will not allow any plea in diſcharge of Tithes, and therefore the refuſal in ſuch Caſe is not material, for the party may have a prohibition before any ſuch plea pleaded by him in diſcharge of tithes, and therefore in ſuch Caſes the allegation of the refuſal of the Eccleſiaſtical Judge are words more of courſe then of effect or ſubſtance; but in ſome caſe the refuſal is traverſable, as it was adjudged M. 30 & 31 Eliz. in this Court between Morris and Eaton, where the Caſe was, that Morris was ſued by Eaton in the ſpiritual Court for Tithes; Morris did alledge that Eaton did not read the Articles according to the Statute, and that the Eccleſiaſtical Judge did refuſe to allow the ſame; and this refuſal was traverſable by the Judgement of the Court, for otherwiſe upon ſuch ſurmiſe all matters might be prohibited in the Spiritual Court; although the Spiritual Judge do all that belongeth to Law and Juſtice. And in the ſame Caſe the party grieved may have his remedy by his appeal; but in the other Caſe of diſcharge of Tithes, or de modo Decimandi, the Judges of out Law well know, that the Eccleſiaſtical Judges will not allow ſuch allegation, and ſo is the difference.

Note Reader, a man may preſcribe, that he and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath in the Mannor of D. in D. whereof, &c. have paid to the Parſon for the time being a certain penſion yearly for maintenance of Divine Service there, in contentation of all Tithes renewing or ariſing within the ſame Mannor: and further preſcribe, that he and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath in the ſaid Mannor time out of mind, &c. have uſed in reſpect of the ſaid penſion ſo paid to the Parſon, to have all the Tithes accruing and ariſing within the ſaid Mannor, or any part thereof, ſcil. of all lands holden of the ſaid Mannor, or parcel thereof: And ſuch preſcription was adjudged good in the Kings Bench M. 39 & 40 Eliz. Rot. 199. in an Action upon the Caſe between Pigot and Hern, in which Caſe two Points were reſolved.

1. That in ſuch ſpecial Caſe, a Lay perſon owner of the ſaid Mannor ſhall ſue for the Tithes upon the ſpecial matter aforeſaid in the Spiritual Court, for it ſhall be intended at the beginning, the Lord was ſeiſed of the whole Mannor before the Tenancies were derived thereout, and then by compoſition or other lawful means the Lord ſhould have all the Tithes within the Mannor for the ſaid penſion paid [b] to the Parſon; and the Law intendeth that at the beginning it was for the maintenance of Divine Service, and pro bono Eccleſiæ, the reaſon of which intendment is the continual uſage of time, &c.

2. It was reſolved, that upon this ſpecial matter adjudged, a man may have Tithes as appurtenant to a Mannor; for he preſcribeth by a Que eſtate in the Mannor, and therefore cannot have them in groſs. But it was adjudged in Winſcombes Caſe in this Court in a Prohibition Hill. 35 Eliz. that a man cannot preſcribe generally in him and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath in the Mannor to have any Tithes appertaining to the ſame; for without ſuch ſpecial matter ſhewed, Tithes which are Spiritual things, and due jure Divino, for the ſubſtraction of which remedy lieth only in the Spiritual Court, and no remedy at the Common Law, cannot be parcel or appurtenant to a Mannor, or any other temporal Inheritance. And the Attorney General was of Councel with the Plaintiff, and Walter of the Inner Temple with the Defendant.

Trin.

Trin. 38 Eliz. in B. R.

The Archbiſhop of Canterburys Caſe.

IN a Prohibition in the Kings Bench between Green and Balſer the Caſe was, That in Maidſtone was a Religious Colledge, to which the Rectory of Maidſtone was appropriated. And the ſaid Colledge had divers lands and tenements within the ſaid Pariſh of Maidſtone, and all was given to the King by the Statute of 1 E. 6. And afterwards the ſaid Rectory was conveyed to the Biſhop of Canterbury, and the lands parcel of the poſſeſſions of the ſaid Colledge were conveyed to the Lord Cobham; and now the Farmer of the Lord Cobham brought a Prohibition againſt Balſer Farmer of the ſaid Rectory to Whitegift Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and in his Prohibition he alledged the branch of the Statute of 31 H. 8. concerning diſcharge of Tithes, and ſhewed that the Maſter of the ſaid Colledge was ſeiſed of the ſaid lands, and of the ſaid Rectory ſimul & ſemel, as well at the time of the making of the Act of 31 H. 8. as at the making of the ſaid Act of 1 E. 6. and held them diſcharged of Tithes; and ſhewed the ſaid Act of 1 E. 6. by which the ſaid Colledge was given to King E. 6. and that thereupon the Defendant did demur in Law. And in this Caſe divers Queſtions were moved. [46]

1. If the ſaid Colledge came to the King as well by the Statute of 31 H. 8. as by the Statute of 1 E. 6. for if this Colledge came to the King by the Statute of 31 H. 8. then without queſtion the branch of the ſaid Act concerning diſcharge of Tithes extendeth to it: And it was objected by the Plaintiffs Councel, that the words of the ſaid Act are general, ſc. That all Monaſteries, Colledges, &c. which hereafter ſhall happen to be diſſolved, &c. or by any other means come to the Kings highneſs, &c. ſhall be veſted, deemed, and adjudged by authority of this preſent Parliament in the very actual and real poſſeſſion of the King, &c. And when this Colledge came to the King by the Statute of 1 E. 6. it came unto the King within theſe words of the Act (by any mean.) But it was anſwered by the Defendants Councel, and reſolved by the Court, That that could not be for divers cauſes: [b]

1. When the Statute ſpeaks of diſſolution, renouncing, relinquiſhing, forfeiture, giving up, &c. which are inferiour means by which ſuch religious Houſes came to the King, then the ſaid latter words (or by any other means) cannot be intended of an Act of Parliament, which is the higheſt manner of conveyance that can be; and therefore the makers of the Act would have put that in the beginning, and not in the end after other inferiour conveyances, if they had intended to extend the Act thereunto. But theſe words (by other means) are to be ſo expounded, ſcil. by any other ſuch inferiour means. As it hath been adjudged, that Biſhops are not included within the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. for the Statute beginneth with Colledges, Deans and Chapters, Parſons, Vicars, and concludes with theſe words, And others having ſpiritual promotions; theſe latter words do not include Biſhops, cauſa qua ſupra. So the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 41. the words of which are, Statuit Rex, quod ſi Abbates, Priores, cuſtodes Hoſpital' & aliarum domorum religioſarum, &c. theſe latter words do not include Biſhops, as it is holden 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar. Dier 109. for the cauſe aforeſaid.

2. The ſaid clauſe of 31 H. 8. That the ſaid Religious houſes ſhall be in the King by authority of the ſame Act; and the Statute of 1 E. 6. enacts, That all Colledges, &c. ſhall be by authority of this Parliament adjudged and deemed in the actual and real poſſeſſion of the King, ſo that the latter Parliament being of as high nature as the firſt was, and providing by as expreſs words, That the Colledges ſhall be by authority of the ſaid Act in the actual poſſeſſion of the King, the ſaid Colledge cannot come to the King by the Act of 31 H. 8. It is ſaid in 29 H. 8. Parliament & Statutes Br. if lands be given to tenant in tail in fee, his iſſue cannot be remitted, for the latter Act doth take away the Statute of Donis, &c. 3. The uſual form of pleading of them which came to the King by the Statute of 1 E. 6. and by the Act of 31 H. 8. doth manifeſt the Law clearly, ſcil. to plead ſurrender or relinquiſhment, &c. virtute cujus ac vigore of the Statute of 31 H. 8. the King was ſeiſed, but to plead the Act of 1 E. 6. of Chauntries, virtute cujus ac vigore of the Statute of 31 H. 8. was never heard or ſeen, and for all theſe cauſes it was reſolved, that this Colledge came to the King by the Act of 1 E. 6. and not by the Act of 31 H. 8.

The ſecond Queſtion was, for as much as the ſaid Colledge came to the King by the Act of 1 E. 6. and not by the Act of 31 H. 8. if the ſaid branch of diſcharge of Tithes ſhall extend to ſuch Colledges which came to the King by any other Act, and not by the Act of 31 H. 8. and it was objected, that the ſaid branch ſhould extend to Colledges which came to the King by any other act, for it was ſaid, that although the preamble of the ſaid branch ſaith, The late Monaſteries, &c. yet this is not literally to be underſtood of Monaſteries only which were diſſolved before the Act, for (late) is to be conſtrued according to the body of the Act, ſc. of thoſe which were diſſolved before, or which ſhall come to the King afterwards by the ſaid Act, that when they are diſſolved and in the King by force of this Act, this Act may call there (late) quod fuit conceſſum per Curiam. Alſo they ſaid, that the words of the branch it ſelf are general, ſcil. any Monaſteries and Colledges, &c. without any limitation, ſo that they conceived that the words of the ſaid branch made for them, and that this clauſe of diſcharge ſhall extend to all Monaſteries, &c. Colledges, &c. quæcunque, by what means ſoever they came to the King; and they ſaid that the intent of the Act was ſo, for the intent of the Act was to benefit the King, and to make the Subject [47] to have more deſire to purchaſe them, &c. Againſt which it was ſaid by the Defendants Councel, and reſolved by the whole Court, that neither the words, nor the meaning of the ſaid branch did extend to any Monaſteries, &c. but to thoſe only which came to the King by the Act of 31 H. 8. for it ſhall be abſurd, that the branch of the Act of 31 H. 8. ſhall extend to a future Act of Parliament which the makers of the ſaid Act of 31 H. 8. without the ſpirit of Prophecy could not have foreknowledge of; but this clauſe of diſcharge ſhall extend only to thoſe poſſeſſions which came to the King by the ſame Act. And where it was ſaid, that the firſt words of the Act are general, the ſame is true, but the concluſion of that branch is, In as large and ample manner as the late Abbots, &c. ſo that (late) being ſo intended as it hath been agreed on the other ſide, ſcil. only of Religious houſes which came to the King by 31 H. 8. It is clear that that branch cannot extend to this Colledge which came to the King by the Act of 1 E. 6.

to

The third Queſtion was, admitting that the ſaid Colledge had come to the King by the Statute of 31 H. 8. If ſuch general allegation of unity of poſſeſſion of the Rectory and of the lands were ſufficient; and it was reſolved by the Court, That it was not ſufficient, for no unity of poſſeſſion ſhall be ſufficient within the ſame Act, but a lawful and perpetual unity of poſſeſſion time out of mind, &c. as it was adjudged M. 34 & 35 Eliz. in a Prohibition between Valentine Knightly Eſquire Plaintiff, and William Spencer Defendant, where the Caſe was, The Plaintiff in a Prohibition ſhewed, that Philip Abbot of Eveſham, and all his predeceſſors time out of mind, &c. were ſeiſed as well of the Rectory impropriate of Badby cum Newnam in the County of Northampton, as of the Mannor of Badby cum Newnam in Badby aforeſaid in [b] his demean as of fee in the right of his Monaſtery ſimul & ſemel until to the ſuppreſſion of the ſame Monaſtery, quodque ratione inde the ſaid Abbot and all his predeceſſors until to the diſſolution of the ſame Monaſtery had holden the ſaid Mannor diſcharged from the point of Tithes until to the diſſolution of the ſame houſe, and ſhewed the branch of the Statute of 31 H. 8. concerning diſcharge from the point of Tithes, and conveyed the ſaid Mannor to Knightly, and the ſaid Rectory to Spencer, who libelled in the Spiritual Court for Tithes of the demeans of the ſaid Mannor againſt Knightly, who upon the matter aforeſaid brought the Prohibition, and it was adjudged that the Prohibition was maintainable; For the ſaid branch of the Act of 31 H. 8. was made to prevent two miſchiefs, one, that otherwiſe all the Impropriations of Rectories to houſes of Religion had been diſappropriate; for if the body to which the Rectory had been appropriated had been diſſolved, the impropriation to ſuch body had been diſſolved alſo, as appeareth by 3 E. 3. 21 E. 4. a. 21 H. 7. a. F.N.B. 33. k. l. Another miſchief was, that many religious perſons were diſcharged of payment of Tithes, ſome by their Order, as the Ciſtercians, Templars, Hoſpitallers of S. Johns of Jeruſalem, as appeareth by 10 Eliz. Dier. 277. Some by Preſcription, ſome by Compoſition, ſome by the Popes Bulls, &c. And the greater part of Religious houſes, as the ſaid Abby of Eveſham was, were founded before the Councel of Laterane; and before time of memory, it ſhall be infinite, and in a manner impoſſible by any ſearch to find all the diſcharges and immunities which ſuch Religious houſes had. And for this alſo the ſaid branch was made. And the great doubt of the ſaid Caſe was conceived upon this word (diſcharge) for it was ſaid, that unity of poſſeſſion was not any diſcharge of Tithes, and by conſequence was not ſuch diſcharge as was within the intent of the ſaid Act. And for the force of this word (diſcharge) 18 Eliz. 3. Bar 247. 35 H. 6. 10. 22 E. 4. 40. & 6 H. 7. 10. were cited. But as to that it was reſolved by the Court:

1. That the Statute doth not ſay diſcharge of Tithes, but diſcharge of payment of Tithes.

2. The Statute doth not ſay, diſcharge of payment of Tithes abſolutely, but as freely as the Abbot, &c. held the ſame at the day of diſſolution, and then this word (diſcharge) being referred to a certain time, cannot be intended of a ſuſpenſion by unity. As if a man ſeiſed of a rent diſſeiſe the tenant of the land, and maketh a feoffment with warranty, the feoffee ſhall vouch as of land diſcharged of the rent, and yet the rent was but ſuſpended, but every ſuſpenſion is a diſcharge for a time, and there diſcharge being referred to the time of the warranty extendeth to ſuſpenſion. Vide 30 E. 3. 30. 3 H. 7. 41. 21 H. 6. 9. F. N. B. 135. c.

[48] 3. The Statute ſaith, as freely as the Abbot, &c. retained the ſame. And it was ſaid, that it was the intent of the King, and of the makers of the ſaid Act to diſcharge the land of payment of Tithes in ſuch caſe of unity of poſſeſſion, being a general Caſe to induce purchaſors the rather to purchaſe the land for greater prizes.

4. For the infinite impoſſibility, and the impoſſible infiniteneſs as hath been ſaid, all the diſcharges which ſuch Religious houſes had, could not be known; and the ſame conſtruction was made in this Court, Hill. 24 Eliz. in a Prohibition between John Roſe and William Gurling for tithes in Flixton in the County of Suffolk. See 18 Eliz. Dier 349. the Parſon of Peykirck's Caſe. And it was reſolved in the ſaid Caſe of Knightly, that nothing could be traverſed but the unity, for ratione inde, &c. is but the concluſion and the judgment of the Law upon the precedent matter; but it was alſo reſolved, that if before the diſſolution the Farmers of the demeans have paid tithes, &c. unto the Abbot, &c. then the intendment of the Law by the reaſon of the ſaid unity of poſſeſſion (which ought to be time out of mind, &c.) that the land was diſcharged of the payment of Tithes will not hold place. For as Bracton ſaith, Stabitur præſumptio donec probetur in contrarium. But if the lands were always occupied by the Abbots or demiſed over, and no Tithes paid for the ſame before the Act, although the land be conveyed to one, and the Rectory to another, yet the land is diſcharged of the payment of Tithes; And if the Farmers of the demeans have paid Tithes before the Act, the ſame ſhall be pleaded by the Defendant in the Prohibition, and iſſue thereupon may be taken, as it was in the like Caſe, Trin. 38 Eliz. in this Court between Edward Grevil Eſquire, poſſeſſor of the demeans of the Mannor of Naſing in the County of Eſſex Plaintiff, and Martin Trot proprietor of the Rectory of Naſing Defendant, where againſt ſuch unity of poſſeſſion in manner and form aforeſaid, alledged by the Plaintiff in the Abbot of Waltham and his predeceſſors, deceſſors, &c. in the Rectory and demeans, and with like concluſion as aforeſaid: The Defendant alledged paiment of Tithes by the Farmers of the ſaid demeans (without any traverſe by the rule of the Court) and iſſue was joined thereupon, and was tried againſt Trot, and therefore the Prohibition ſtood. And it was reſolved, that although the Plaintiff in the Caſe at Bar alledged that the Maſter of the ſaid Colledge at the time of the making of the ſaid Act of 1 E. 6. held them diſcharged of Tithes; and although that the lands of ſuch Religious perſons may be diſcharged of Tithes by preſcription, as it hath been late adjudged in the caſe of one Wright in this Court, or by compoſition, &c. yet ſuch general allegation that he was diſcharged of Tithes was not ſufficient without ſhewing how he was diſcharged, either by preſcription, compoſition, or other lawful means. But if the land come to the King by the Statute of 31 H. 8. then by force of the ſaid branch of dicharge of the paiment of Tithes ſuch general allegation that ſuch Prior, &c. held the land at the time of the diſſolution of the ſaid Priory diſcharged of the paiment of Tithes without ſhewing how, had been ſufficient, and ſo is the Common uſe in Prohibitions. [b]

The fourth Queſtion in the Caſe at Bar was, If any houſe which was Eccleſiaſtical and not Religious, as Biſhops, Deans and Chapters, Archdeacons, and the like ſhall be within the Act ſaid of 31 H. 8. for no houſe within the Act of 31 H. 8. is ſaid Religious, but ſuch which was regular, and which conſiſted of ſuch perſons which had profeſſed themſelves, and vowed three things, that is to ſay, Obedience, Voluntary poverty, and perpetual Chaſtity; and thoſe were ſaid in our Law, dead perſons in Law. For after ſuch profeſſion their heirs ſhall have their lands, and their Executors or Adminiſtrators their goods, and that was called civil death, which was the cauſe that when a leaſe for life was made, always the Habendum was, To have and to hold to him durante vita ſua naturali, for it was then taken, that if the Habendum had been durante vita ſua (without ſaying naturali) the civil death, that is to ſay, the entry into Religion had determined the ſame. But it was reſolved by the Court, that no Eccleſiaſtical houſe, if it be not Religious, is within the Act of 31 H. 8. for divers cauſes.

1. The words of the Act are always through the whole Act in the copulative, Religious and Eccleſiaſtical, ſo that if it be Eccleſiaſtical only it is out of the Act.

2. The makers of the Act gave to the King as well thoſe Religious and Eccleſiaſtical houſes as were diſſolved, as thoſe which ſhould be afterwards diſolved, but none were diſſolved before the Act but only Religious houſes, and no houſe Eccleſiaſtical only, for no Biſhoprick, Deanery, Archdeaconry, &c. or like Eccleſiaſtical and Secular Corporation was diſolved before; therefore no Eccleſiaſtical houſe which was not Religious, which after the Act ſhall be diſſolved, was within the intent and meaning of the ſaid Act.

Thirdly, it is enacted by the Statute of 31 H. 8. that all Religious and Eccleſiaſtical houſes which after ſhall be diſſolved, &c. ſhall be in the actual poſſeſſion of the King in the ſame ſtate and condition as they were at the time of the making of the ſaid Act, upon which clauſe of the Statute it was adjudged Paſch. 5 Eliz. Rot. 129. reported by Serjeant Bendloes. And Mic. 6 & 7 Eliz. Dier. 231. and Plow. Comm. 207. that if an Abbot after the ſaid Act grant the next avoidance of a Church, or maketh a leaſe for years, and afterwards ſurrendereth, ſo that by the Act the poſſeſſions of the Abby ought to be in the King in the ſame ſtate and condition as they were at the time of the making of the Act; and at the time of making of the Act the land and the advowſon were diſcharged of all intereſts, for this cauſe it was adjudged in both Caſes that the leaſe and the grant were void by the ſaid Act. But if a Dean and Chapter and other ſuch Eccleſiaſtical and Secular Corporations ſhall be within the ſaid Act, then if they will ſurrender their poſſeſſions they ſhall avoid all their own grants and leaſes, which ſhall be dangerous. And that was one of the principal reaſons that Colledges, Chanteries, &c. which came to the King by the Acts of 37 H. 8. or 1 E. 6. ſhall not veſt in the King by the Act of 31 H. 8. for the miſchief before, for avoiding of their leaſes, grants, &c. And to conclude this Point it was holden in the Common Pleas in Parret's Caſe concerning the Priory of Fridiſwide, that if the houſe be not Religious and regular, that it is not within the Act of 31 H. 8. [49]

And as to the opinion of 10 Eliz. Dier 280. Corbet's Caſe, concerning the Priory of Norwich, it ſeemeth to differ much from other Deans and Chapters, for the Dean and Chapter of Norwich was once Religious, for they were Prior and Covent before; and yet this Caſe was denied by Popham cheife Juſtice, and ſome other of the Judges for the cauſes aforeſaid.

Fifthly, it was holden by the Court, that although it is provided by the Statute of 1 E. 6. that the King ſhall have the lands of the Colledges, &c. in as ample and large manner as the ſaid Prieſts, Wardens, &c. had or enjoyed the ſame, that theſe general words ſhall not diſcharge the land of any Tithes, for theſe are not iſſuing out of land, but are things diſtinct from the land. For as the Book is 42 E. 3. 13. the Prior ſhall have tithes of land againſt his own feoffment of the ſame land; and it is not good cauſe of Prohibition to alledge unity of poſſeſſion in a Colledge which came to the King by the Statute of 1 E. 6. as a man may by Statute 31 H. 8. in an Abbot, Prior, &c. as is aforeſaid; for the Statute of 1 E. 6. hath no ſuch clauſe of diſcharge of paiment of Tithes as the Statute of 31 H. 8. hath. And therefore ſuch perpetual unity, as hath been ſaid before, will not ſerve upon this Act of 1 E. 6. And afterwards a Conſultation was granted: And another Conſultation was granted the ſame Term in another Prohibition upon the ſame matter, between Green and Buffken. And Laurence Tanfield and others were of the Councel with the Plaintiff, and the Attorney Genearl and others with the Defendant. [b]

Paſch. 39 Eliz. in the Exchequer.

Sir Hugh Cholmley's Caſe.

[50] SIR Hugh Cholmley Debtor to the Queen, brought an Action of Treſpaſs in the Exchequer againſt Randal Hamner and others, Quare clauſum fregit in Bettifield in the County of Flint, quo minus, &c. And upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect; Thomas Holford had iſſue two ſons, Chriſtopher the eldeſt, and George his younger ſon; Chriſtopher had iſſue Mary wife of the ſaid Sir Hugh Cholmley now Plaintiff; and that the ſaid Thomas Holford was ſeiſed in fee of the land in queſtion amongſt others; and he and Jane his wife, and Chriſtopher their ſon did levy a fine of the ſaid lands 7 Eliz. to John Warren and Thomas Stanley, &c. to the uſe of the ſaid Thomas Holford for life, and after to the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher and his heirs males of his body, and afterwards to the uſe of the ſaid George, and to the heirs males of his body, &c. and after to the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Thomas. And after, that is to ſay, in Sept. 11 Eliz. the ſaid Thomas Holford died; 23 Jan. 12 Eliz. the ſaid George by Indenture between him and John Warren enrolled within ſix months in the Chancery for 20 l. bargained and ſold the Tenements aforeſaid, and all his eſtate, right, title and intereſt in them to the ſaid John Warren to have and to hold the tenements aforeſaid and all his eſtate, right, title, in them to the ſaid John Warren for the life of the ſaid Chriſtopher, and after his death the remainder to the Queen her heirs and Succeſſors for ever upon condition that the eſtate ſhall be [b] void upon tender of 20 l. at the Chappel of the Rolls to the ſaid Warren, or to the Queen her heirs or Succeſſors; 14 Martii 12 Eliz. the ſaid Chriſtopher did enfeoff Sir Hugh Cholmley father of the Plaintiff and others to the uſe of them and their heirs, and 17 Aprilis 12 Eliz. at the great Seſſions holden within the County of Flint a common Recovery was had againſt the ſaid feoffees, who vouched to warranty the ſaid Chriſtopher who vouched over the common vouchee, and execution was had accordingly, which was to the uſe of Chriſtopher and his heirs. And afterwards, that is to ſay 21 Novemb. 14 Eliz. George Holford tendred 20 l. to Warren at the Chappel of the Rolls, which he received. After which tender the Queen by her Letter Patents bearing date 14 Decemb. 14 Eliz. reciting the grant made by the ſaid George Holford to Warren, the remainder to her upon the condition aforeſaid; and that the ſaid grant and remainder to her was by fraud and covin, &c. prout nobis ſatis liquet, the Queen ex certa ſcientia & mero motu granted the remainder which ſhe had in the premiſſes to the ſaid Chriſtopher in fee. And afterwards 15 Decemb. 14 Eliz. George Holford by Indenture delivered at Weſtminſter and enrolled within ſix months in the Chancery, bargained and ſold to John Bruin the tenements aforeſaid, to have and to hold for the term of the life of Chriſtopher the remainder to the Queen in fee upon condition to ceaſe upon tender of 30 s at the Church of St. Dunſtans, &c. to which grant 18 Decemb. 14 Eliz. Bruin agreed; and afterwards 4 Feb. 14 Eliz. another Recovery with double voucher in which the ſaid Chriſtopher was vouched again was ſuffered, which Recovery was to the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher and his heirs, anno 19 Eliz. Chriſtopher died without iſſue male, 27 Jan. 23 Eliz. George paid the 30 s. to Bruin according to the condition which was found by Inquiſition, found by force of a Commiſſion under the great Seal of England, upon which the ſaid George ſhewed his title to the Court. And thereupon the Defendants by the commandment of the ſaid George entred upon the Plaintiff, who claimed in the right of his wife, whereupon the Plaintiff brought his Action of Treſpaſs, and if the entry of the ſaid George was lawful or not was the Queſtion.

And after many Arguments at the Bar, the Caſe was argued at the Bench by Ewens, Clark, and Periam chief Baron. And it was agreed by them, that the entry of the ſaid George Holford was not lawful, for which cauſe Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe divers Points were re-[51] ſolved by the Court.

1. That the remainder limited to the Queen after the death of Warren was void for three cauſes:

1. Becauſe that Warren who was party to the firſt Indenture took nothing, and by conſequence the Queen who is not party to the Indenture, but named by way of remainder after the Habendum, the particular eſtate being void, ſhall take nothing; for the eſtate which is limited to Warren is for the life of Chriſtopher. And as to this Point the Caſe is ſuch, Chriſtopher being Tenant in tail, the remainder to George in tail, George by Deed indented and enrolled doth bargain and ſell his remainder to Warren for the life of Chriſtopher, this grant is void, becauſe it can never take effect in poſſeſſion, nor the grantee can never have the benefit thereof; And therefore difference was taken between ſuch grant of a reverſion, and the ſaid grant of remainder, for the grant of a reverſion during the life of tenant in tail is good, becauſe he ſhall have the ſervices which the tenant in tail ought to do during the life of the tenant in tail; but ſuch grant of a remainder can never to any purpoſe take effect, and therefore it is void. Alſo manifeſt difference appeareth between this Caſe at Bar, and a Leaſe to Chriſtopher for his life, the remainder to another for the life of Chriſtopher, for by poſſibility the remainder may take effect, ſcil. if the Tenant for life maketh a feoffment in fee, or commit any forfeiture, he in the remainder may enter for the forfeiture, and that is proved by the Book in 41 Fitz. Waſt E. 3. 83. and (remanere dicitur quaſi terra remanens) and that cannot be when a remainder cannot by any poſſibility fall into poſſeſſion. For a remainder ough to veſt in eſtate, during the particular eſtate, and ought to take effect in poſſeſſion when the particular eſtate endeth, for vana eſt illa potentia quæ nunquam venit in actum. It was objected, that Chriſtopher might enter into Religion, and then might Warren enter during his natural life, for as much as as Chriſtophher hath no iſſue male. But it was anſwered and reſolved, that ſuch poſſibility of poſſeſſion ſhall not make the remainder good for two cauſes:

for

1. Becauſe it is a remote poſſibility which ſhall be intended may never happen; but a poſſibility which ſhall make a remainder good ought to be a common poſſibility, and potentia propinqua, as death, or death without iſſue, or coverture, or the like. And therefore as the Logician ſaith, Potentia eſt duplex, remota & propinqua, 2 H. 6. 24. the remainder to a Corporation which is not at the time of the limitation of the remainder is void, although it be erected during the particular eſtate, for it was potentia remota: And this difference appeareth in a Common Caſe in our Books. If a leaſe be made for life, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. this is good, for by common poſſibility J. S. may die during the life of the Tenant for life: But if at the time of the limitation of the remainder there by not ſuch J. S. but during the life of the Tenant for life J. S. is born and dieth, his heir ſhall never take as it is agreed in 2 H. 7. 13. And in 10 E. 3. 46. the Caſe was, That upon a fine levied to R. he granted and rendred the tenements to one I. and Florence his wife for their lives, the remainder to G. ſon of I. in tail, the remainder to the right heirs of I. and in truth at the time of the fine levied I. had not any ſon called G. but after he had a ſon named G. and died: And in a Præcipe againſt Florence it was adjudged that G. ſhould not take the remainder in tail, becauſe he was not born at the time of the fine levied, but long after, for which another who was right heir to I. by Judgment of the Court was received; for when I. had not any ſon named G. at the time of the fine levied, the Law will not expect that he ſhall after have a ſon named G. for the ſame is potentia remota. Note Reader, a difference between a remainder limited by particular name, and by a general name, for a remainder limited by a general name may be good, although that the perſon be not in eſſe at the time of the remainder limited. For if a leaſe for life be made, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. who is alive, this remainder may be good, and yet he hath no heir at the time of the remainder limited. The ſame Law of a remainder primogenito filio. But a remainder limited in particular by name of Baptiſm and Surname is not good, if the party be not in eſſe. It is holden in 7 E. 3. that if the advowſon of the Church of D. be granted to the Parſon of D. and his Succeſſors, it is void as to the Succeſſor, becauſe the Succeſſor cannot take it, nor can have any benefit by way of Preſentation. [b]

The ſecond reaſon wherefore the remainder limited to the Queen is void, was becauſe that the Law will never adjudge a grant by reaſon of a poſſibility or expectation of a thing which is againſt Law, for the ſame is potentia remotiſſima & vana, which by intendment of Law nunquam venit in actum.

Thirdly, the remainder to the Queen is void, becauſe that George having a remainder in tail hath granted all his eſtate to Warren, Habendum all his eſtate during the life of Chriſtopher the remainder to the Queen, in which Caſe when he hath granted all his eſtate to Warren, he cannot limit any remainder thereof to the Queen; becauſe a remainder is but a remnant of the eſtate of the grantor, and the Queen cannot have any remnant of the eſtate of George, when he having a remainder in tail has granted all his eſtate to Warren. And Littleton fol. 145. ſaith, That in ſuch Caſe the eſtate tail is in abeyance. And 19 H. 6. 60. it is ſaid, That if Tenant in tail be attainted of felony, and the King after office found ſeiſeth, the eſtate tail is in abeyance. And vide 13 H. 7. 10. a. if there be Tenant for life, the remainder in tail, if he in the remainder in tail releaſe to tenant for life all his right, it putteth the eſtate tail ſo into abeyance that no right remaineth in him who releaſeth to have an Action of Waſt, for in the ſame Caſe by his releaſe he hath put all his eſtate out of him. It was agreed, Hill. 35 Eliz. in Blitheman's Caſe, that if tenant in tail in conſideration of paternal love covenanteth by deed to ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of himſelf for his own life, and after his death to the uſe of his eldeſt ſon in tail, and after this covenant the covenantor taketh wife and dieth, the wife ſhall be endowed, for when tenant in tail hath limited the uſe to himſelf for the term of his own life, he cannot limit any remainder over, for an eſtate for his own life is as long as he can limit by the Law, and therefore the limitation of the remainder is void. For which it was concluded, that upon coſideration of the firſt Point Warren had nothing. And upon conſideration of this later if he ſhall take at all, he ſhall take too much, and by conſequence the remainder to the Queen is void quacunque via data. And it was agreed that the limitation to Warren by the Habendum for the life of Chriſtopher was void and repugnant. [52]

2. Admitting that the remainder to the Queen were good; yet it was reſolved, that the common recovery did bar the eſtate of Warren, and by conſequence the condition alſo during his life; and therefore as to that, the Point is no other, but a man maketh a gift in tail, the remainder in fee, the remainder to the Queen in fee upon condition ut ſupra, Tenant in tail ſuffereth a common recovery, if this recovery ſhall bar the eſtate of Tenant for life in the remainder and the Condition alſo is the Queſtion. And it was reſolved, that the recovery doth bar not only the eſtate tail, but alſo the eſtate for life of Warren, although that the remainder in fee was in the Queen, for it is out of the Statute of 34 H. 8. becauſe that the eſtate tail was not of the Queens gift, nor of any of her Anceſtors Kings of England as it hath been adjudged Mich. 15 & 16 Eliz. in a Partitione facienda, between Jakſon and Drury; and 27 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Wiſeman and Jennings. And if the eſtate of Warren be bound and barred, the Condition alſo annexed to his eſtate is barred during his life. And therefore if one giveth lands in tail, and after granteth the reverſion upon condition, if tenant in tail ſuffereth a Common Recovery, it barreth the reverſion and condition alſo. And therefore it was adjudged Mich. 34 & 35 Eliz. between Gately and Hunt being an Exchequer Chamber Caſe by all the Judges of England, That if he in the Reverſion with a remainder expectant upon an eſtate tail grant a rent charge, or common, or maketh a leaſe for years, or acknowledgeth a Statute, and afterwards tenant in tail ſuffereth a common recovery and dieth without iſſue the poſſeſſion of the reverſion ſhall not be ſubject to the Charges, Leaſes, or Statutes of him in the remainder. 1. Becauſe the recoveror, ſo long as the recovery remaineth in force is in under the eſtate of Tenant in tail, which eſtate was not ſubject to any of [b]

the ſaid incumbrances of him in the remainder: For put caſe, that before the recovery Tenant in tail had made a Leaſe for years, or acknowledged a Statute, and afterwars had ſuffered the recovery and died without iſſue, without queſtion the poſſeſſion of the recoveror ſhall be ſubject unto the Leaſe and Statute of the Tenant in tail, and ſhall not be Subject unto the Leaſes and Statutes of him in the remainder alſo, for then there ſhall be confuſion. Alſo the charges of him in the remainder or reverſion cannot take effect in poſſeſſion until the remainder or reverſion come in poſſeſſion, and that cannot fall after the recovery. The ſame Law is of a condition annexd to a reverſion or remainder for the reaſons aforeſaid; then this payment to Warren cannot veſt the remainder out of the Queen for three cauſes:

1. Becauſe the condition during the life of Warren was diſcharged.

2. Becauſe he who taketh benefit of a condition ought to have the whole eſtate given to be reveſted in him as in his firſt eſtate, and that cannot be here; for the eſtate after the life of Warren was barred by the recovery: Alſo the tender to Warren was to the intent to reveſt his eſtate, and that cannot be when his eſtate is barred, and cannot be reveſted, for which cauſe this paiment cannot deveſt the remainder out of the Queen.

A third Point was argued be the Defendants Councel, That there needed not in this caſe any Office, or Monſtrance de droit to deveſt the remainder out of the Queen by force of the Condition for the Condition is to be performed by one Subject to another Subject by matter in pais, and in as much as the eſtate for life cannot be reveſted by force of the condition, if the whole eſtate to which the condition trencheth be not defeat, for this cauſe for neceſſity, and by the operation and working of the Law, the eſtate for [53] life being defeated, the remainder to the Queen which dependeth upon it ſhall be defeated alſo, as in 49 E. 3. in Iſabel Goodcheaps Caſe. One deviſed houſes in London deviſable by cuſtome, and holden of the King in tail, and if the donee died without iſſue, that the land ſhould be ſold by his Executors, and died; and the deviſee died without iſſue, now the land eſcheated to the King, yet the bargain and ſale of the Executors ſhall deveſt the Kings eſtate for neceſſity, and that without Petition, or Monſtrance de droit; and alſo their vendee is in by the deviſor paramount the eſcheat: So the bargainor in this Caſe ſhall be in of his ancient eſtate paramount the remainder to the Queen. 25 E. 3. 48. If a diſſeiſor, or one who hath no title maketh a leaſe for life, the remainder to the Queen; if the diſſeiſee, or he who hath got good right, recovereth againſt Tenant for life, and entreth, by that the Queens remainder ſhall be defeated; otherwiſe if the recovery be by feigned or no title, there the Queens remainder is not touched; and Plow. Comm. 553. agreeth therewith. So if tenant in tail granteth the land to the King in fee with warranty, and the King granteth the ſame for life, tenant in tail dieth, and the iſſue in tail doth recover in a Formedon againſt tenant for life, the Kings eſtate ſhall be defeated, as it appeareth by 7 R. 2. Aide del Roy 61. 22 E. 3. acc. And ſo it was ſaid, if the diſſeiſee in ſuch Caſe enter, it ſhall defeat the Kings remainder, ſee Plow Comm. 489. And note the principal Caſe of the Lord Lovel, an eſtate veſted in the King ſhall be defeated by force of a Condition by an Act in Law without Office, or Monſtrans de droit. And mark there the Caſes of Remitter put in the end of the Caſe. Againſt which it was argued by the Plaintiffs Councel, That admitting the remainder out of the Queen
[52] to be good, that this tender in pais to a Subject ſhall not deveſt the remainder to the Queen. For as Bracton ſaith, Nihil tam inconvens eſt naturali æquitati unumquodque diſſolvi eo ligamine quo ligatum eſt: And as no eſtate could be veſted in the Queen without matter of record, ſo no eſtate can be deveſted out of her without matter of record, See Plow. Comm. 553. in Walſinghams Caſe, and Plow. Comm. 380. Nevils Caſe, 12 H. 7. and many other Books. And it was ſaid that when an eſtate ſhall be deveſted out of a common perſon, and veſted in another, without action, entry, or claim, it ſhall be deveſted out of the King without a Petition, or Monſtrans de droit, as it is agreed in Plow. Comm. 489. in the Lord Lovel's Caſe cited by the other ſide, but when in the Caſe of a common perſon the eſtate ſhall not be deveſted out of him without without action, entry, or claim, there it ſhall not be deveſted out of the King without Petition, or Monſtrans de droit, &c. And the principal Caſe in Plowdens Commentaries in the Caſe of the Lord Lovel was agreed, for there by force of the condition if it
[b] had been in the Caſe of a common perſon the eſtate gained by Eſcheat ſhall be deveſted by Act in Law without entry or claim: And ſo by the ſame reaſon the Caſes of Remainder, and the Caſes in 49 E. 3. were well agreed. And alſo in as much as the Executors in 49 E. 3. had but a power, they have no other mean but only to ſell, for they could not have a Petition, or Monſtrans de droit, or other remedy. But in this Caſe George Holford the grantor had clear and apparent remedy, either by Petition or Monſtrans de droit. And it was ſaid, that the Queens remainder doth ſo priviledge the eſtate of the Tenant for life, that the grantor cannot enter upon the Tenant for life. And it was ſaid, that if land upon condition commeth to the Queen, the condition is broken, the Queen maketh a leaſe for life, he who hath the condition cannot enter but ought to have a Petition or Monſtrans de droit, &c. and that appeareth in the Book in 9 H. 4. 4. A man bound in a Statute conveyeth land to the King, who leaſeth for life, the conuſee ſhall not extend upon the poſſeſſion of the Tenant for life. And it was ſaid, that if the Caſes put before when he who hath right doth recover againſt Tenant for life, the reverſion or remainder being in the King by defeaſiable title ſhall deveſt the Kings eſtate ſhall be granted, yet they are not to be compared to our Caſe, for in our Caſe, the party himſelf who hath conveyed the land lawfully to the King would defeate the eſtate which himſelf hath made by entry, which as was ſaid he cannot do; but when a diſſeiſor conveyeth land to the King, and the King granteth the ſame over for life, there if the diſſeiſee who is a meer ſtranger by his entry or action ſhall deveſt the Kings defeaſiable title, yet it is not to be reſembled to our Caſe. But this Point was not reſolved, for the Barons gave Judgment upon the two other Points.

But it was agreed in this Caſe, although that the remainder paſſed by bargain and ſale, ſo as in Judgment of Law an uſe paſſed firſt, and although that it were of a thing which lieth in grant and not in livery; and that the words of the condition are that upon paiment of the money that the eſtate ſhall ceaſe

and

and ſhall be void, yet the eſtate ſhall not be reveſted in the grantor without claim; for the eſtate of inheritance cannot be determined by condition without entry or claim. In Newis and Scolaſticas Caſe in Plow. Comm. 413. difference is taken between a Condition and a Limitation; for a limitation ſhall determine an eſtate without entry or claim, otherwiſe of a Condition. See Browning and Beſtons Caſe, [54] Plow. Comm. 133. & 136. Another difference is taken between a rent in eſſe granted upon condition, and a rent newly created granted upon condition. And although that an uſe at the Common Law might have ceaſed without claim, yet now the uſe is transferred to the poſſeſſion, for the pleading is, vigore Statuti, &c. de uſibus in poſſeſſionem transferendis, ſo that now after the Statute to ſuch qualities to which the eſtates by the Common Law are ſubject to ſuch qualities uſes are ſubject, for the uſe is transferred and incorporated to the poſſeſſion. And Baron Ewens ſaid, That upon this reaſon it was adjudged in the Kings Bench, that where one by deed indented, bargained, and ſold to another and his heirs land rendring rent, that the reſervation was good, for now the uſe and the poſſeſſion paſs tanquam uno flatu, and therefore it is all one with a grant of the land it ſelf; for if the uſe ſhall paſs firſt, then rent cannot be reſerved out of the uſe, and then the reſervation of the rent ſhould be void. Alſo it was reſolved, that this claim of the remainder by force of the condition ought to have been made upon the land, and that claim made out of the land was not ſufficient. And therefore the ſaid bargain and ſale to Bruyn by Deed indented being made at Weſtminſter out of the land cannot in this Caſe enure to two effects: ſcil. Firſt, to make a claim, and then to paſs the remainder, as it was objected by the Defendants Councel. See Litt. 40. If a Villain purchaſe a reverſion, the claim by the Lord ought to be made upon the land. And the Book in 15 Aſſ. 12. is good Law, that a diſtreſs upon the land after a condition broken amounteth to a claim of the Seigniory to which it was annexed. So it was concluded, firſt, becauſe the remainder to the Queen was void, by conſequence the common recovery hath barred the remainder to George, and by conſequence the Plaintiff claiming under the recovery ought to have judgment to recover. Secondly, admitting the remainder good to the Queen, and that the condition was not diſcharged during Warrens life, and that the remainder to the Queen ſhall be defeated without Petition or Monſtrans de droit, yet the ſame is not determined till claim made upon the land, and then the grant of the Queen is good, and the ſecond grant of George Holford to the Queen is void, and by conſequence the ſecond recovery is a good bar. But againſt the grant by Letters Patents divers Objections were made by the Defendants Councel.

1. For as much as the Queen reciteth that the ſaid bargain and ſale to Warren, the remainder to the Queen was upon fraud and covin, and it was not found it was upon fraud and covin. It was ſaid, that the Patent was void becauſe the Queen was deceived in her grant, and then admitting the remainder to the Queen to be good, the land doth yet remain in the Queen, and then the Defendant not guilty to the Plaintiff.

Secondly, the Queen reciteth her eſtate to be upon condition, and in truth at the time of the making of the Letters Patents the condition was diſcharged during the life of Warren, And for this cauſe alſo the Patent was void, becauſe the Queen alſo in that was deceived. For peradventure, if the Queen had known that her eſtate was diſcharged of the condition during the life of Warren, and had not been ſubject to the pleaſure of George Holford to be revoked when he would, the Queen would not have granted the ſame. To the firſt Objection it was reſolved that the grant is good notwithſtanding that for [b] three cauſes:

1. Whether the ſame were upon fraud or no, it was not material, for if the recital be of a thing which ſoundeth to the Queens profit, and is falſe, it maketh the Patent void. But recital of a matter in pais, and not of record which is paſt, not material, nor valuable ſhall not impeach the grant.

Secondly, it appeareth to be covenous, and needeth not to be averred, for it appeareth to be made upon a condition to be defeated at his will, and the intent and purpoſe of it was to prevent Chriſtopher of his birthright, ſcil. of his power which he had to cut off the remainder to George by a common recovery.

Thirdly, the Queen reciting the ſame to be upon fraud prout nobis ſatis liquet, and the Letters Patents are ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, ſo that the Queen takes ſpecial knowledge thereof, and it cometh not upon the ſuggeſtion of the party. And to the ſecond Objection againſt the grant it was reſolved, That notwithſtanding that, the Patent is good: For the Queens recital is true, for at firſt the ſaid bargain and ſale was conditional as it was recited, and it is not affirmed by the recital that it doth ſo remain. Alſo the condition might be determined by matter in pais, ſcil. by releaſe to Warren, or by many other ways; ſo that it ſhall be hard for the Patentee to take knowledge thereof; and a thing which may be done or performed by matter in pais ought or needeth not to be recited. And Warberton Serjeant at Law, the Attorney general, and Harris of Lincolns Inn were of Councel with the Plaintiff; And Williams Serjeant at Law, Damport and others with the Defendant.

Mich.

Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz.

Buckler's Caſe.

[55] THE Caſe between Buckler and Harris in the Common Pleas, which began Trinit. 37 Eliz. was ſuch; In an Ejectione firmæ it was found by ſpecial verdict, That Buckler was Tenant for life, the remainder over in fee; Tenant for life made a Leaſe for four years, in March 20 Eliz. the leſſee entred, Tenant for life granted tenementa prædicta to C. Habendum tenementa prædicta from the feaſt of the Nativity of S. John the Baptiſt next following for life, after the ſaid Feaſt the leſſee for years attorned; the years expired, C. entred and made a leaſe at will to D. to whom the Tenant for life levied a fine come ceo, &c. he in the remainder in fee entred, and made a leaſe to the Plaintiff, the Tenant at will entred upon him and he brought the Ejectione firmæ. And Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe five Points were reſolved.

1. The grant to C. was void, for the Law ſhall make conſtruction upon the whole grant; and an eſtate of freehold cannot begin in futuro. And the Habendum in this Caſe is not contrary to the premiſſes, for no certain eſtate is contained in the premiſſes, but generally the land given and granted
[b] which might be qualified by the Habendum to an eſtate for years, or at will. For the office of the premiſſes of a Deed of feoffment is to expreſs the grantor, grantee, and thing to be granted, and the office of the Habendum is to limit the eſtate: So that the general implication of the eſtate which ſhall paſs by the conſtruction of the Law by the premiſſes, is always controlled and qualified by the Habendum. As a leaſe to two, Habendum to one for life, the remainder to the other for life, ſhall alter the general implication of joyntenancy of the freehold which without Habendum ſhall be done. And although that the Habendum be void, and be in effect as no Habendum, yet no eſtate ſhall paſs by implication of Law againſt the expreſs limitation of the party, although his limitation be void; and ſo was it adjudged in the Kings Bench between Hogge and Croſs for houſes in London, M. 33 & 34 Eliz. in an Ejectione firmæ.

Secondly, that the grant being void at the beginning, the attornment after Midſommer ſhall not make the reverſion to paſs; For Quod ab initio non valet, tractu temporis non convaleſcet.

Thirdly, when C. entreth by colour of this void grant, he is a diſſeiſor. And a differenee was taken betwixt a general grant made by agreement of the parties which ſtands not with the rules of Law, and which never can by any ſubſequent act, as by Livery, or Attornment be made good, and a grant good at the beginning but to have his perfection by a ſubſequent ceremony. As in caſe of a Charter of feoffment, if the feoffee entreth before livery, he is no diſſeiſor, for the Charter is good; and the agreement of the parties accords with the Law, and it may be made good by livery and ſeiſin ſubſequent. Note there is difference between a good beginning or a foundation capable of a building, and an evil, which wanteth foundation upon which no building can ſtand.

Fourthly, It was was agreed, that if the fine had been levied to the diſſeiſor himſelf come, &c. he who had the right of remainder might enter for the forfeiture; for it was agreed, that the right of a particular eſtate might be forfeited, and entry given for the ſame to him who had but only a right to the remainder: As if leſſee for years be ouſted, or leſſee for life be diſſeiſed, and the leſſee for years bring an Aſſiſe, or real action, and the leſſee for life bringeth a Writ of right, it is a forfeiture of their right, and he who hath but a right of reverſion may enter for the forfeiture.

Fifthly, It was agreed, that in the Caſe at Bar, the fine levied to the Tenant at will was a forfeiture, and he who had the right of remainder might enter upon the Tenant at will, and by that purge the diſſeiſin; And the Tenant for life, and the Tenant at will alſo ſhall be eſtopped to ſay quod partes finis nihil habuerant, and of ſuch eſtoppels which are by matter of Record, and trench to the diſenheriſon of them [56] in the reverſion or remainder, they ſhall take advantage although they be not parties to it, as of an Aid prayer of a ſtranger, or by acceptance of a fine ſur conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. Although that he in the reverſion or remainder be not party to the recovery, yet he is privy in eſtate to take advantage of any forfeiture by any matter of Record done to his diſ-enheriſon.

Sixthly, it was ſaid, That if the diſſeiſee levy a fine to a ſtranger, that in this Caſe the diſſeiſor ſhall hold the land for ever; for the diſſeiſee againſt his own fine cannot claim the land, and the conuſee cannot enter, and the right which the conuſor had cannot be transferred to him, but by the fine the right is extinct, whereof the diſſeiſor ſhall take advantage.

Trin.

Trin. 27 Eliz. Rot. 750.

Beckwith's Caſe.

IN a Replevin between Colgate and Blithe of the taking, &c. in a place called Rye croft in Fooldſtray in the County of Lancaſter, the Defendant made conuſans as Bayly to Robert Beckwith, becauſe that [b] Elizabeth Beckwith his Mother was ſeiſed in fee, and died ſeiſed, by which the ſame deſcended to him as to her ſon and heir who entred and was ſeiſed, and for damage feaſant the Defendant as Bayly to the ſaid Robert did diſtrein, &c. In bar of which avowry the Plaintiff ſaid, that to ſay that the ſaid Elizabeth died ſeiſed in fee, the Defendant ſhall not be received, for long time before the diſtreſs, &c. the ſaid Elizabeth was ſeiſed in fee, and took to husband Chriſtopher Kenne, who levied a fine to the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher Kenne, and the ſaid Elizabeth his wife for their lives, after to the uſe of the conuſees, to the intent that they ſhould ſuffer the ſaid Robert Beckwith to take the profits of the tenements in which, &c. for his life, with divers remainders over, &c. Againſt which the Defendant ſaid, that the ſaid fine was levied to the uſe of the ſaid Elizabeth in fee, without that that it was levied to the ſaid Chriſtopher and Elizabeth for their lives, ut ſupra; And the Jurors found a ſpecial verdict to this effect: Chriſtopher Kenne and Elizabeth his wife was ſeiſed of the Tenements aforeſaid in fee in the right of the ſaid Elizabeth; And that an Indenture was made by the ſaid Elizabeth without the aſſent of her husband, between her by the name of Elizabeth Beckwith one of the daughters and heirs of Roger Cholmley Knight on the one part, and William Vaviſour and other conuſees in the ſaid fine on the other part, bearing date the 14 day of March in the 14 year of the reign of our Soveraign Lady the Queen that now is (which ſhe ſealed and delivered as her deed in Auguſt after without aſſent of her husband) by which Indenture the ſaid Elizabeth alone limits and declares the uſes of a fine which after ſhall be levied, to be in form [57] following, That is to ſay, To the uſe of the ſaid Elizabeth for her life without impeachment of Waſt, and after to the uſe of the ſaid Conuſees for their lives, and after to ſuch uſes as in the Replication is alledged: And further found, that the ſaid Chriſtopher Kenne after the marriage, and before the fine levied, made another Indenture without the conſent of the ſaid Elizabeth his wife, bearing date the 13 of February in the year of the ſaid Queens Reign the 22. by which it was mentioned, that the ſaid Indenture was made between the ſaid Chriſtopher and Elizabeth his wife on the one part, and one Robert Wrote and Nicholas Brook and others of the other part, which Indenture was ſealed and delivered by the ſaid Chriſtopher only as his deed. By which Indenture it was declared, That the uſes of the ſaid fine ſhould be unto the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher and Elizabeth for their lives without impeachment of Waſt, and after to the uſes of the Conuſees, as in the Replication was alledged. And further it was found, that afterwards the ſaid fine mentioned in the ſaid bar was levied by the ſaid husband and wife of the Tenements aforeſaid to the ſaid Conuſees in the Indenture of the wife, and that there were no other uſes of this fine. And if upon the whole matter aforeſaid, the ſaid fine was levied to the uſe of the ſaid Chriſtopher and Elizabeth for their lives was the Queſtion. And it was adjudged, that both the ſaid limitations and declarations of the uſes in both the Indentures were void, and that the ſaid fine was by conſtruction of Law unto the uſe of the ſaid Elizabeth and her heirs as if no uſe had been declared: And in this Caſe theſe Points were reſolved:

1. If the husband and wife levy a fine of the land whereof they are ſeiſed in the right of the wife, and the husband only declare the uſe of the fine, this declaration of the uſe ſhall bind the wife if her diſaſſent doth not appear, although that her aſſent to the declaration of the uſes cannot appear. For when ſhe joyneth with her husband in the fine it ſhall be intended, if the contrary cannot appear, that ſhe joyned alſo with him in agreement in declaration of the uſes of the fine,

Secondly, it was reſolved, that if the husband and wife ſell the wives land to another for money by word, and afterwards levy a fine to the vendee and his heirs, in this Caſe it is good, and ſhall [b] bind the wife without any writing proving her aſſent, a multo fortiori when the uſe is declared by the husbands deed, and no other declared by the wife, it ſhall bind; Vide 12 Eliz. Dier 290. Husband and wife were ſeiſed of a Tenement in London to them and to the heirs of the husband, and the huſband covenanted by Indenture in conſideration of 20 l. that he and his wife would ſuffer a common Recovery by Writ of Right according to the cuſtom of London which bindeth as a fine at Common Law, and that the recovery ſhould be to the uſe of the recoverors until they had made a good and ſufficient Leaſe by Indenture for 40 years, and after the making of the ſaid Leaſe then to the uſe of the husband and wife, and the heirs of the husband, and the recovery was had accordingly; And the opinion of all the Judges was, That the Leaſe was good and not defeiſable by the wife who ſurvived her husband, and ſo was the opinion of all the Juſtices in the Kings Bench, and yet in ſuch Caſe the huſband was only party to the deed, which declared the uſes, and the ſame bound the wife for the reaſon aforeſaid.

Thirdly, it was reſolved, that every one may declare and diſpoſe the uſe of the land according to the eſtate which he hath in the land, for the declaration and diſpoſition of the uſe doth follow the ownerſhip of the land, as the ſhadow followeth the body, and now by the Statute of 27 H. 8. the ſhadow or the acceſſory draweth to it the body and the principal, that is to ſay, the uſe draweth to it the eſtate of the land, and therefore in all reaſon the owner of the land ought to limit the uſe, for by it the eſtate of the land it ſelf ſhall be transferred to the uſe; and therefore in the principal Caſe the wife wife alone although that she is owner of the land, yet for as much as she is sub potestate viri, she cannot in respect of her coverture without her husband limit the use; and on the other side the husband who hath not any estate in his own right cannot against the agreement of the wife limit the use, for he is not owner of the land: So one is not sui juris and hath the estate, and the other is sui juris and hath not the estate, and therefore when they differ in the limitation it is void. And it is to be noted, that when the husband and wife levy a fine of the wives land, that all the estate passeth from the wife, and the conusee is by the wife only; and if the fine be reversed for the nonage of the wife, all the estate which passed by the fine shall be restored to the wife presently, for all the estate passeth from the wife, as it was [58] adjudged in the Kings Bench in Worsley's Case: And therefore it shall be against all reason that the husband against the agreement of the wife should limit the uses of the wives land. And if the husband may declare the use of his wives land great inconvenience would follow, and wives might be dis-inherited and deceived by their husbands, which shall be inconvenient; As if they perswade their wives that the uses shall be in one form, and therefore draws them to consent to levy a fine, and after the husband alone declareth other uses varying altogether from the uses to which the wife agreed, and so deceive and dis-inherit their wives; And truly if the Law require such ceremony of secret examination of married women before a Judge touching their voluntary and free assent, as if she were sole, it shall be against reason, that the husband against the assent of the wife do dispose of the use of the wives land, which is all the fruit of the land now. And it was said, that if an infant do levy a fine and declare the use thereof, this declaration shall bind him as long as the fine remaineth in force; for in as much as he hath been admitted by the Judges as a man of full age to levy a fine, the Law as long as the fine remaineth in force permitteth him to limit the use thereof, so is it of a man non compos mentis.

Fourthly, It was resolved, that although that the variance was in the first particular use (the wife limiting it only to her alone for her life, and the husband limiting it to him and his wife for their lives) and all the other uses in remainder limited in both the Indentures are according to both their consents, yet all the uses are void: But if there be two joyntenants, or two having several estates joyn in a fine, and one declare the use in one manner, and the other in another manner, the same is good for each of their parts, for the declaration of the use shall be directed and governed according to their estates and interests, but between husband and wife, the estate is only in the wife, and so the difference. But if the husband and wife agree in the limitation of the use of part of the land, and vary in the limitation for the residue of the land, it is good for part, and void for the residue.

So note Reader, a difference between variance, touching the limitation of the use of part of the estate of the land, and touching the limitation of the use of part of the land it self. And it was said, that if a man at this day seised of land on the part of the Mother maketh a feoffment in fee without consideration, he shall be seised as he was before on the part of the Mother. And if there be two joyntenants, one for life, and the other in fee, and they levy a fine without declaration of any use, the use shall be to them of the same estate they had before in the land. So if A. Tenant for life, and B. in reversion or remainder levy a fine generally, the use shall be to A. for life, the reversion or remainder to B. in fee, for each granteth that which he may lawfully grant, and each shall have the use which the Law vesteth in them according to the estate which they convey over. If A. seised in fee of an acre of land, and he and B. levy a fine of it to another without consideration, the use implied shall be to A. only and his [b] heirs; for an use is but only a trust and confidence, and a thing in equity and conscience shall be by operation of the Law to him who in truth was owner of the Land without having regard to estoppels or conclusions which are averse to truth and equity. So it was adjudged in the principal Case. When husband and wife levy a fine without declaration of any use (which was sufficient in Law) the Law shall revest the use in the wife only, because that the estate of the land passeth only from her, and the husband joyneth with her but for conformity.

Note Reader, that although the husband may dispose of the wives lands during the coverture, yet in this Case for the reasons beforesaid his declaration was meerly void, quod nota.

Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Julius Winnington's Case.

James Pilkington brought an Ejectione firmæ upon a demise made by Thomas Winnington, of a house and land in Binchees in the County of Chester before the Judge there, and upon Not guilty pleaded, the [59] Jurors gave a special verdict to this effect: Robert Winnington had issue three sons, John who had issue Julius, one of the Defendants, Robert who died without issue, and Thomas the lessor of the Plaintiff; Robert the Father was seised of the Tenements in which, &c. in fee, and thereof did enfeoff by deed indented 1 Eliz. Richard Birket to have and to hold to him and his heirs upon condition that the feoffee or his heirs should reinfeoff the feoffor for life, the remainder to John his son and heir apparent and his heirs, by force whereof the feoffee was thereof seised in fee, post quod quidem feoffamentum, the Jury found that the feoffee entred and took the profits absque contradictione, sive agreamento of the feoffee; and afterwards 11 Eliz. the feoffor by deed indented made a Lease to D. and P. for 21 years, and yet the the feoffor continued in poſſeſſion. Birket the feoffee 19 Eliz. acknowledged a Statute Staple to one I. the feoffor. The feoffor 24 Eliz. did enfeoff divers perſons to the uſe of himſelf for life, the remainder to Robert the ſecond ſon in tail, the remainder to Thomas his third ſon in tail. The feoffor 27 Eliz. died, Birket the feoffee after his death entred and enfeoffed John the eldeſt ſon and his heirs. Robert the ſecond ſon died without iſſue, John had iſſue Julius and died. Thomas entred and made the Leaſe to the plaintiff, upon whom Julius entred and ejected him. And upon this ſpecial verdict Sir Richard Shutleworth Juſtice of Cheſter gave Judgment for the Defendant, upon which the Plaintiff brought a Writ of Error in the Kings Bench. And in this Caſe theſe Points were moved and reſolved by the whole Court.

Firſt, When the feoffor entred after the feoffment and took the profits, and made a leaſe for years, upon all this matter the Law doth adjudge it a diſſeiſin, although the intent of the parties was, that the feoffee ſhould make a demiſe to him for his life; For this entry by wrong and taking of the profits without the agreement of the feoffee, is a diſſeiſin. And the Caſe is the ſtronger becauſe he took upon him as the owner of the land to make a leaſe.

Secondly, It was agreed, that when he maketh a leaſe for years by deed indented, he hath thereby diſpenſed with the Condition during the term, ſo that during the term he cannot for any cauſe take advantage of the Condition.

Thirdly, When the feoffor diſſeiſeth the feoffee upon condition, and during the diſſeiſin the feoffee acknowledgeth a Statute or Recogniſance, the ſame is no diſability to him, or any cauſe for the feoffor to reenter; for the feoffee having but a right, the poſſeſſion in the hands of the diſſeiſor is not ſubject to his Statute or Recognizance, and therefore no cauſe of entry for any diſability is given to the feoffor in this Caſe: But when the feoffee being in poſſeſſion taketh a wife, or granteth a Rent charge, or acknowledgeth a Statute, there the land is preſently ſubject to the title of Dower, and charged with the Rent or Statute: But when the feoffee is diſſeiſed, and taketh a wife, or acknowledgeth a Statute, there the land is not tied therewith. And although it was ſtrongly objected, that it was not poſſible that the feoffee could perform the Condition if he do not enter, and if he do enter the land is charged, ſo he hath diſabled himſelf to perform the Condition; yet it was reſolved, that it was not any diſability until he enter in facto, ſo that the poſſeſſion of the land be charged. But if the wife die, or the conuſee releaſe the Statute, then the feoffee may enter and perform the Condition without any diſability; then when the feoffor maketh [60] a feoffment over, he hath extinguiſhed the Condition, ſo that when the feoffee entreth and enfeoffeth John the eldeſt ſon, he hath good and rightful eſtate in the land which deſcendeth to the Defendant; and ſo the Judgment given by Sir Richard Shuttleworth was affirmed. The Attorney general and Tamfield were of Counſel with the Plaintiff, and Hesket Attorney of the Wards and Damport with the Defendant.

Hill. 41 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Wiſcot's Caſe.

IN an Ejectione firmæ between Giles Plaintiff, upon a demiſe made to him by the Husband and Wife, [b] and Wiſcot Defendant, upon the general iſſue a ſpecial verdict was found, upon which the Caſe was ſuch: A. tenant for life, the remainder to B. and three other for life, the reverſion to C. and his heirs expectant, C. levieth a fine Sur conuſans de droit come ceo to A. and B. unto the uſe of A. for life, and after his death to the uſe of B. in fee, A. dieth, and afterwards B. dieth; and if the Joynture were ſevered or not, ſo that after the death of A. B. was Tenant in common, was the Queſtion. And it was reſolved, that the Joynture was ſevered, and this difference taken, when the fee is limited by one and the ſame conveyance, there the one may have the fee ſimple, and the other an eſtate for life joyntly; but when they are firſt Tenants for life, and afterwards one of them doth get the fee ſimple, or the fee ſimple doth deſcend to one, there the Joynture is ſevered. As if a man make an eſtate to three, and to the heirs of one of them, there one of them hath fee ſimple, and yet the Joynture doth continue, for all is but one entire eſtate created at the ſame time, and therefore the fee ſimple cannot drown the Joynture which took effect with the creation of the remainder in fee; but when there are joyntenants for life, and one purchaſeth the fee, or the fee deſcendeth to him, there the fee ſimple drowneth the eſtate for life, for the eſtate for life was in eſſe before, and might be drowned or ſurrendred, and ſo cannot the [61] eſtate for life in the firſt Caſe. But in the ſame Caſe that is to ſay, when an eſtate is made to three, and to the heirs of one of them, and he who hath the fee dieth, and one of the ſurvivors purchaſeth the remainder, the Joynture is ſevered, cauſa qua ſupra; And when one Tenant for life purchaſeth the reverſion in fee, if the Joynture ſhould remain he ſhould have a reverſion in fee, and an eſtate for life alſo in part, which reverſion in fee he may grant over, and his eſtate for life ſhould remain in part, which ſhould be abſurd and againſt reaſon; for in the firſt Caſe when an eſtate is made to three, and to the heirs of one, he who hath the fee cannot grant over his remainder and continue in himſelf an eſtate for life, as it holden in 12 E. 4. 2. b. But if there be tenant in tail, the remainder to his right heirs, he may grant his remainder over, or deviſe it, as it is holden in 27 Aſſ. 60. for an eſtate tail cannot drown, nor be ſurrendred nor be extinct by acceſſion of a greater eſtate. Vide 42 E. 3. 9. b. 29 H. 8. Mortdaunceſter 59. 11 H. 4. 55. & 31 E. 3. Scire facias 19. by the better opinion of all the Books, he who hath the fee dying, and afterwards tenant for life dying, it is in election of the heire to have a Mortdanceſter, (which proveth that his anceſtor died ſeiſed in fee) or a Scire facias, or a Formedon in remainder at his pleaſure. It is agreed 39 H. 6 2. b. if the reverſion be granted to Tenant for life and another in fee, the reverſion is extinct for a moity, for Tenant for life cannot purchaſe or get the reverſion or remainder of the ſame land, but the eſtate for life ſhall be drowned, having regard unto the eſtate which he hath gotten in reverſion.

Note Reader, It ſeemeth by the reſolution of this Caſe, that if Tenant for life granteth his eſtate to him in the reverſion and a ſtranger, that the ſame is a ſurrender for one moity, for it appeareth here, that by getting of the reverſion, and the particular eſtate at ſeveral times, the reverſion expectant upon his particular eſtate for life cannot remain diſtinct in him, and grantable over, but the one ſhall drown the other, and benefit of ſurvivorſhip not regarded, as it appeareth in the Caſe at Bar, and ſo the doubt in 7 H. 6. well reſolved as I think. And then it was moved in Arreſt of Judgment, that the leaſe was made by the husband and wife generally, without alledging the ſame to be by Deed, as it ought to be, as appeareth Dier 1 Mar. 91. b. Vide 26 H. 8. 2. a. 15 E. 4. 18. a. & 21 H. 6. 24. b. But upon a ſight of a Judgment given Trin. 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Bateman and Allen Rot. 339. And of another preſident ſhewed by Maſter Brownlow chief Preignotary, between Moſeley and Guilbert, Paſch. 33 Eliz. in the Common Pleas; And of another Judgment between Digges and Withers in the Kings Bench, [b] in all which precedents Judgment was given for the Plaintiff upon a demiſe made by the husband and wife, without alledging the ſame to be by deed; Upon the view of the precedents Judgment was given in the Caſe at Bar for the Plaintiff.

Hill. 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Tooker's Caſe.

[66. b.] IN an Action of Treſpaſs for breaking of his Cloſe, in the Kings Bench, between William Rud Plaintiff and Edward Tooker Defendant, which began Mich. 36 & 37 Eliz. Rot. 136. upon Not guilty pleaded, a ſpecial verdict was found, and upon the whole matter the Caſe was ſhortly ſuch: John Arundel Eſquire was ſeiſed of the Barton of Sprecomb in Morthoe in the County of Devon in fee, and demiſed the ſame to John Tooker, and to the ſaid William Rud for the term of their lives, and died; after whoſe death the reverſion deſcended to Sir John Arundel as ſon and heir, who by deed indented granted to the ſaid Edward Tooker the reverſion of the ſaid Barton for term of his life, to with grant the ſaid John Tooker then being joyntenant ſeiſed of the ſaid Barton with the ſaid William Rud did attorn; And afterwards the ſaid John Tooker by his deed ſurrendred to the ſaid Edward Tooker all his eſtate, title, and intereſt in the ſaid Barton, and died: The ſaid Edward Tooker entred into the ſaid Barton claiming to hold in common with the ſaid William Rud, and if his entry were lawful or not, was the Queſtion. And the Point was, if by the attornment of one Tenant for life, the reverſion was veſted in Edward Tooker or not. For if the attornment of one doth not veſt the reverſion in him, then the ſurrender aforeſaid made to him was void. And after many Arguments at the Bar by the parties Councel, at the Bench by the Juſtices, Judgment was given againſt the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved by the Court.

Firſt, That the attornment of one Tenant for life ſhall veſt the whole reverſion in the grantee for divers cauſes, becauſe the eſtate of joynt leſſees is intire; for every joyntenant is ſeiſed throughout the whole, and by conſequence the reverſion which is dependant and expectant upon ſuch eſtate is intire alſo.

[67] Secondly, The attornment is a lawful act; 3. The attornment doth not paſs any intereſt from him who attorneth, but only perfecteth a grant made by another. See 7 H. 6. 34. 8 E. 3. 38. Fitz. Dower 110. 10 E. 2. Dower 139. If one joyntenant aſſign Dower, the ſame is good. So Dower aſſigned by an Abator or Diſſeiſor ſhall not be avoided by the diſſeiſee, as it is agreed 12 Aſſ. 20. for theſe are lawful acts. So it was ſaid by the ſame reaſon: If a diſſeiſor attorn, or giveth ſeiſin unto the grantee of a Seigniory, it ſhall bind the diſſeiſee, yet the grantee of the Seigniory cannot compel the diſſeiſor to attorn to him, or to give him ſeiſin, if he had not ſeiſin before within time of limitation. See for that 8 H. 6. 17. 8 Aſſ. 16. 8 E. 3. 52. 11 H. 4. 29. 39 H. 6. 2. And it was ſaid, that if the leſſor diſſeiſe his two leſſees for life, and enfeoffeth another, and one leſſee reentreth, this act of the one is an attornment in Law for both. Ergo, an expreſs attornment of one ſhall bind both. So if one joyntenant give ſeiſin of the rent to the Lord, it ſhall bind his companion, as it is agreed in 39 H. 6. 2. If a leaſe be made unto two, and after the reverſion is granted to one of them, and he accept the deed, Baldwin 28 H. 8. Dier 12. b. holdeth that a good attornment in Law for both, which opinion was affirmed for good Law by Popham chief Juſtice and the whole Court. And in 4 E. 3. 22. in Hollands Caſe it is ſaid, that the attornment of one joyntenant is the attornment of the other. Littleton Ch. Attornment 129. holdeth, that if there be Lord and two joyntenants by certain ſervices, and the Seigniory is granted over, and one joyntenant attorn, it is as good as if both had attorned, becauſe the Seigniory is intire, which opinion of Littleton in his Book (which is the ornament of the Common Law, and the moſt perfect and abſolute work that was ever written in any humane Science) the Court did prefer before the ſubtile opinions in 39 *H.*6.2. & 33 E. 3. Quid juris clamat 5. But if the reverſion of two Tenants for life, or the rent, or Seigniory of two joyntenants be granted by fine, there in a Quid juris clamat, Quem reddium reddit, or Per que ſervitia againſt ſuch joyntenants, the one ſhall not be ſuffered to attorn without his companion for two cauſes:

of

1. Becauſe the Plaintiff ought to have attornment in the ſame manner as he hath demanded it, as it is holden in 9 H. 6. 21.

2. If one attorn only he may prejudice his companion; as if he will not claim to be unpuniſhed for waſt, or a condition to have fee, or future term, &c. for upon general attornment in a Court of Record, the leſſee ſhall loſe all advantages which are not claimed of Record; for the Queſtion is demanded of him, Quid juris clamat? and therefore he ſhall not have more then he claimeth of Record; and for this cauſe one joyntenant ſhall not be ſuffered to attorn of record for the manifeſt prejudice which might grow to his companion if it ſhould be the attornment of both. But in the Caſe of a grant by deed, no ſuch prejudice can happen, and therefore the attornment of the one ſhall bind the other, becauſe it cannot prejudice his companion. So, and for the ſame cauſe, if one joyntenant attorn in pais to the conuſee where the grant is by fine, it ſhall bind both. And in proof that the reverſion in the Caſe at Bar was intire, to follow the reaſon of Littleton it was ſaid, If husband and wife be joyntenants for life, and the leſſor granteth the reverſion of the land which the husband holdeth for life, the grant is void, as it is agreed in 13 E. 3. Grants 63. The ſame Law as it was agreed by Popham chief Juſtice, and the whole Court of two joyntenants leſſees. See 32 E. 3. Quid juris clamat 5. So if a man hold three acres by 12 d. and the Lord granteth the ſervices of the third acre, the grant is void, as it is agreed in 27 E. 3. 79. and 7 E. 4. 25. [b]

Secondly, It was reſolved by the whole Court, that if the Tenant having perfect notice of the grant (as he by Law ought to have, as it was agreed in Vivians Caſe 13 Eliz. Dier 302.) there, if the Tenant give his aſſent, or attorn for any part, the ſame is good for all, for in as much as an attornment is but an aſſent to perfect the grant of another, he who attorneth cannot apportion, divide, or alter the grant, but the attornment ought to be according to the grant, and therefore if he attorn in part, it ſhall not be taken void, but ſhall be taken ſtrongeſt againſt him, and ſhall be in Law an attornment for the whole, and therewith agreeth Littleton Attorn. 127. And therefore if a reverſion or Seigniory be granted to two, and the Tenant attorneth to one of them, it is good to both againſt the opinion of Huſſey and Danvers 11 *H.*7.12. So if the reverſion of 3 acres be granted, and the leſſee attorneth for one of them, it is good for all, vi. 18 E. 3 Var. 63. and 22 E. 3. 18. So if a reverſion be granted for 40 years, and the leſſee attorneth for part of the years, it is good for all. So if it be granted for life, with divers remainders over, if the leſſee attorn to the grantee for life only, it ſhall enure to all in the remainder. But if a reverſion be granted for life, the remainder in fee by deed, and the grantee for life dieth, the attornment to him in the remainder is void, for it is not according to the grant: Otherwiſe if the grant be by fine, for there by the fine the eſtate was veſted in them, and the attornment was only to make privity; but if the reverſion be granted to two, and one dieth, there the attornment to the ſurvivor is good. So if a reverſion be granted to J. S. and Ja. G. and afterwards they entermarry, and the Tenant attorneth, now they ſhall not have moieties according to the purport of the grant, but the ſame is by the act of the grantees themſelves. And if the leſſee attorn upon condition ſubſequent, the condition is void; for if the reverſion be once ſettled it cannot be deveſted by any condition annexed to attornment, becauſe that the grantee is not in but by the grantor; but if one attorn upon condition precedent, there is no attornment till the condition be performed. But in all the Caſes aforeſaid, if the Tenant hath notice that the Seigniory was granted but to one, or that the reverſion was granted but of an acre, or that the reverſion was granted for fewer years, or that the reverſion was granted for life only with no remainder over, there general attornment without true notice of the grant is void, for the uſual pleading (the ſure Oracle of Law) is, to which grant he attorneth, and therefore if he have no notice of the grant, or if he hath not true notice of the grant which is all one, his aſſent which he giveth to it, which in truth was but part of of the grant, the Law (which abhorreth falſity) ſhall not conſtrue the ſame to be attornment to the true grant. [68]

And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, that every act done by one joyntenant in benefit of him and his companion is good, as payment of rent, &c. to the Lord by one, doth diſcharge the other: But one joyntenant cannot prejudice his companion as to any matter of inheritance or freehold, but as to the profits of the freehold the one may prejudice the other, for there is a privity and truſt between joyntenants; and therefore if one taketh all the profits of the land, or the whole rent, &c. the other hath no remedy, for it was his folly to joyn himſelf in eſtate with ſuch a perſon as would break the truſt. And he ſaid, if two joynt Lords and Tenant be by Knights ſervice, and the Tenant dieth his heir within age, now the Lords have election to ſeiſe the Ward, or to diſtrain for the ſervices, and ſo wave the Wardſhip, as it is agreed in 1 E. 3. But he ſaid, that if one Lord ſeiſeth the Ward, and the other Lord diſtraineth for the Services, he who firſt ſeiſed, or diſtrained, ſhall bind the other. Alſo in perſonal Actions, one joyntenant may releaſe all, but if the perſonalty be mixt with the realty it is otherwiſe. As in Aſſiſe by two, the releaſe of all Actions perſonal by one is no bar againſt the other; for although the Aſſiſe is an Action mixt in the realty, and perſonalty, yet omne majus trahit ad ſe minus, as it is adjudged in 30 H. 6. Bar 49. So in a Writ of right of Ward for the body brought by two, the releaſe of the one ſhall not prejudice the other, but ſhall give his companion the whole Ward as it is holden in 45 E. 3. 10. & 30 H. 6. Bar 59. But in an Action of Waſt brought by two, the releaſe of one ſhall bar the other as it is holden in 9 H. 5. 15. per Curiam. for in Waſt the perſonalty is the principal. But note Reader, if in a Quid juris clamat, the Defendant as to parcel be ready to attorn, and as to the reſidue claimeth fee, there he ſhall be admitted to attorn for parcel, becauſe he ſhall never attorn for the reſidue; for if it be [b] found with the Plaintiff, he ſhall enter for the forfeiture, and if it be found with the Defendant, he ſhall never attorn, but when to parcel he is ready to attorn, and as to the reſidue pleadeth ſuch a plea, that if it be found againſt him he attorn, there the attornment ſhall not be taken by parcels, 11 H. 6. 47. 11 R. 2. Attornment 9. 22 E. 3. 18. And it is true, that to every attornment true notice of the grant is requiſite, but it is to know, that there is notice in fait, and a notice in Law. For in ſome Caſes the Law ſhall imply notice without any expreſs notice given by any perſon as in the Caſe of Littleton, Attornment 130. If he in the reverſion ouſteth his leſſee for life, and maketh a feoffment in fee, and the leſſee reentreth, it is a good attornment, and yet perhaps he had not notice neither of the feoffment, nor of the eſtate given by the feoffment. And Littleton giveth two reaſons thereof.

1. Becauſe that the leſſee by the Law ſhall not be miſconuſant (Note the Law implieth notice) of feoffments which are made of and upon the land.

[69] 2. By his entry, he cauſed the reverſion to be to him to whom the feoffment was made, who was ſeiſed in demeſn, and had not any reverſion before. And with Littleton agreeth the whole Court in 9 H. 6. 16. And that the agreement of the leſſee there pleaded upon his reentry was not material, for without it the Juſtices were agreed, that the reverſion and the rent were in the feoffee, and 18 E. 3. Feoffments & Faits 62. acc. by Wilby and all the reſt. And although that prima facie in 2 H. 5. 4. the Court ſeemed that it was not an attornment; yet after in 5 H. 5. 12. it is adjudged, that the reentry is a good attornment, and that the Action of Waſt brought by the feoffee was maintenable, 46 E. 3. 32. b. & 34 H. 6. 6. b. acc. And there it is ſaid, that if the leſſee for life recovereth in Aſſiſe againſt the feoffee, that the ſame ſhall not be ſaid attornment. And if the Tenant hath notice of the grant by a ſtranger, he may attorn, and aſſent to the grant in the abſence of the grantee. And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, that it hath been ſo adjudged againſt the opinion in 28 H. 8. Br. Attornment 40.

And note Reader a difference between an attornment which is an agreement, for that may be done in the abſence of the grantee, but in Caſe of a diſagreement it ought to be done to the party himſelf, as it appeareth in Wheelers Caſe, 14 H. 8. 23. And the reaſon and cauſe of the difference is, becauſe that in caſe of diſagreement, the party might perſwade and move the other by reaſon, by entreaty, or other means to give his conſent, or good will; and therefore the Law requireth that the diſagreement be made to the party for the prejudice, which otherwiſe might happen to him; but in the caſe of conſent (and namely in caſe of attornment, which is to ſettle and perfect the eſtate of the grantee, and ſo for his benefit) there the ſame being done in his abſence, is as well as if it were made in his preſence.

Hill. 34 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

The Lord Cromwel's Caſe.

[b] IN an Aſſiſe brought by Edward Lord Cromwel againſt Edward Androwes of Grays Inn Eſquire, and others, of lands and tenements in Alaxton in the County of Leiceſter, upon nul tort nul diſſeiſin pleaded, the recognitors of the Aſſiſe gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect: John Blunt Eſquire ſeiſed of the Mannor of Alaxton in the County of Leiceſter whereof the lands and tenements put in view are parcel, to which Mannor the Advowſon of the Church of Alaxton was appendant by deed indented 10 Aprilis 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar. between him and Anthony Androwes (father of the ſaid Edward) did grant, bargain, and ſell the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances, by the name of the Mannor of Alaxton, and of the Advowſon of Alaxton appendant to the ſaid Mannor to Anthony Androwes, To have and to hold to him and his heirs, to the uſe of him and his heirs in the ſame manner and form as in the ſaid Indenture is

[70] mentioned. And Blunt by the ſaid Indenture covenanted, that the Mannor was of the value of 42 l. per ann. and that he was thereof owner of an eſtate of inheritance, and that it ſhall be diſcharged of incumbrances, except Leaſes, upon which the ancient rent was reſerved. And further, Blunt covenanted that he would permit William Rud and Richard Elſon to recover by common recovery the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances againſt him, which recovery ſhall be to the uſes and intents following, ſcil. To the uſe of Anthony Androwes and his heirs, rendring for the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances 42 l. per ann. to have and receive to Blunt and his heirs at two Feaſts, &c. according to the covenants in the Indenture, and 10 l. Nomine pœnæ, and diſtreſs for both. And further it was covenanted and agreed by the ſame Indenture between the ſaid parties, and each covenanteth aad granteth with other in manner and form following, that is to ſay, as well for the aſſurance of the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances unto Anthony Androwes and his heirs, as of the ſaid rent to Blunt and his heirs: Blunt before Eaſter then next following ſhould levy a fine of the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances to Anthony Androwes and his heirs, and that by the ſame fine Anthony Androwes ſhould rent a rent of 42 l. in fee, payable at two feaſts with nomine pœnæ and diſtreſs. Provided always that the ſaid Anthony Androwes ſhall dy his deed ſufficient in the Law give the Advowſon and Parſonage of the ſaid Church to the ſaid John Blunt during his life, and if it happen not void in his life, then one turn to his Executors. And further it was covenanted and agreed by the ſame Indenture, between the ſaid parties, and the ſaid Anthony Androwes doth covenant with the ſaid Blunt, to give unto Blunt 840 l. for the ſaid Rent and Patronage, to be paid within a year after after notice that he will ſell it the notice to be within 7 years after the ſaid ſale. And further it was covenanted, granted, and agreed, between the parties by the ſame Indenture, That all manner of eſtates, aſſurances, and conveyances after to be made and conveyed of the ſaid Mannor and other the premiſſes, ſhall be to the uſes and intents compriſed in that Indenture, and to no other uſe or intent; and that is the order and courſe and the effect of all the covenants and clauſes of the ſaid Indenture.

And afterward Ter. Paſch. next following, a Recovery was had by Rud and Elſon againſt Blunt of the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances according to the ſaid Indenture. By force of which Anthony Androwes was ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances (prout lex poſtulat) And afterwards Octab. Mich. 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Blunt and Androwes levied a fine to Richard Perkins and his heirs of the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances, and he granted and rendred a rent of 42 l. per ann. out of the ſaid Mannor to Blunt in tail, with the remainder to the Lord Mountjoy in fee with clauſe of diſtreſs and nomine pœnæ, to be paid as the firſt rent was limited to be paid, and granted and rendred the Mannor with the appurtenances to Anthony Androwes in fee, and proclamations were made according to the Statute. And further it was found by the Recognitors of the Aſſiſe, that this fine was not levied for a new ſum of money, or upon any new conſideration, but was levied to the uſes in the Indenture mentioned. Anthony Androwes in his life doth not grant the Advowſon according to the Indenture; and afterwards Anthony Androwes died, and after his death, in the life of Blunt the Church became void; Edward Androwes ſon and heir of Anthony Androwes entred into the Mannor; Blunt doth not requeſt Anthony Androwes in his life to grant to him the ſaid Advowſon according to the ſaid Proviſo, Blunt entred into the Mannor for the condition broken. And 6 December 16 Eliz. in conſideration of 848 l. by deed indented and enrolled in the Common Pleas, granted, bargained, and ſold the ſaid Mannor with the Advowſon to Henry Lord Cromwell in fee, by force whereof he entred, upon whom the ſaid Edward Androwes entred; and afterwards Henry Lord Cromwel died, and the ſaid Edward Lord Cromwell his ſon and heir entred upon the ſaid Edward Androwes, who with the other Defendants entred upon him and put him out of poſſeſſion; And if this entry were a diſſeiſin to the Plaintiff or not was the Queſtion. [b]

And this Caſe was oftentimes argued in the Common Pleas by Telverton, Glanvill, and Williams Serjeants on the Plaintiffs part, and by Drew the Queens Serjeant and others on the Defendants part. And afterwards it was argued Mich. 39 & 40. Eliz. by the Lord Anderſon, Walmſley, Beamond, and Owen Juſtices at two ſeveral days in the Common Pleas, and the Court was divided in opinion. And thereupon the Caſe was argued before all the Judges of England in the Exchequer Chamber by Serjeant Williams, and Coke Attorney General for the Plaintiff, and by Fleming Sollicitor General, and Francis Bacon for the Defendant. And afterwards the Caſe was openly argued in the Exchequer Chamber by all the Juſtices of the one Bench and of the other, and by the Barons of the Exchequer. And it was there adjudged, that Judgment ſhould be given for the Plaintiff. And Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. Judgement was given by the Juſtices of the Common Pleas according to the ſaid Reſolution. And for avoiding prolixity I will omit all the Arguments at the Bar, and Report only thoſe matters in Law that were reſolved by the Juſtices in this Caſe, and the reaſons and cauſes of their Judgment: Four matters were reſolved in this Caſe.

Firſt, That the ſaid Proviſo maketh a Condition; for the Law hath not appointed any place in a deed proper or peculiar to a Condition, but his place is where it pleaſeth the parties. And it appeareth by Littleton, that Proviſo is as apt a word to make a Condition, as ſub Conditione, or any other word of Condition; But notwithſtanding that, when this word (Proviſo) ſhall make an eſtate or intereſt conditional, three things are to be obſerved. 1. That the Proviſo do not depend upon another ſentence, nor participate thereof, but ſtand originally of it ſelf. 2. That the Proviſo be the word of the bargainor, feoffor, donor, &c. 3. That it be Compulſory to enforce the bargainee, feoffee, donee, &c. to do an act; and becauſe that they all concur in this Caſe, it was reſolved that it was a Condition in what place ſoever it be placed: But that this Proviſo ſhall not make a Condition in the Caſe at Bar divers Objections were made. [71]

1. That the Indenture in which the Condition is contained was not enrolled, ſo that no eſtate paſſeth it, and then (as it was objected) the Condition cannot be annexed to an eſtate which after was conveyed by the Recovery, for the Indenture was ſealed and delivered in February, and the Recovery paſſed in Eaſter Term, and the Condition could not precede the eſtate, but a Coudition ought to be in the ſame conveyance, or compriſed in another delivered at the ſame time, as the Books are agreed in 17 Aſſ. 2. and 43 Aſſ. for Quæ incontinenti fiunt, ineſſe videntur. 2. It was objected, that Androwes had nothing but Covenants of Blunts part, and therefore it ſhall be equal that Blunt have like remedy, ſcil. Covenants on Androwes part. 3. It was objected, that the precedent ſentence as it appeareth before is to this effect. And further it is covenanted and agreed between the ſaid parties, and each of them covenanteth with the other in manner and form following. And then the fine upon grant and render is appointed, and immediately after that the Proviſo is added, and next after the Proviſo this clauſe followeth. And further it is covenanted and agreed between the ſaid parties, containing covenant for purchaſe of rent. And it was ſaid, that ex antecedentibus & conſequentibus fit optima interpretatio; but it appeareth by the precedent clauſe that all which followeth after that ſhall be but Covenants; but the Proviſo followeth, and therefore ſhall be but a covenant. Then the ſubſequent ſentence explaineth it alſo, for there it is ſaid, And further it is covenanted and granted between the ſaid parties, &c. Ergo, the next clauſe before was but a Covenant, for ſo much this word (further) implieth. 4. It was objected, that if the Proviſo ſhall be a Condition it ſhall refer to the clauſe next precedent, ſcil. to the fine to be levied according to the purport of the Covenant next before, and not to the recovery which is more remote and diſtant from it by the interpoſition of the ſaid Covenant concerning the fine, Et ad proximum antecedens fiat relatio niſi impediatur ſententia.

As

As to the firſt Objection it was anſwered and reſolved, That the intent of the parties was not, that that the eſtate ſhould paſs by the bargain and ſale, but that the eſtate ſhould be conveyed by the recovery; and that the Indentures ſhould direct the uſes and intents as well of the recovery, as of all other conveyances after to be made: Then it is apt and natural that the Indentures which direct the uſes which cannot be raiſed till the recovery be had and executed ſhould comprehend the Conditions and Limitations annexed to the uſes; and as well as the Indentures may direct the uſes of the recovery ſubſequent, ſo may they declare the Conditions and Limitations alſo to the ſame uſes: And the Statute of 27 H. 8. doth execute the eſtate according to the manner, condition, and quality of the uſe, ſo that by force of the ſaid Act the eſtate it ſelf is conditional, and that is approved by the general allowance and experience in all the conveyances of the whole Realm. [b]

To the ſecond Objection it was anſwered and reſolved. That it was not unjuſt or unequal that the bargainor ſhould annex ſuch condition as pleaſed him to the eſtate of the land, for the land moveth from him, Et cujus eſt dare, ejus eſt diſponere, and the bargainee hath accepted it.

To the third Objection it was anſwered and reſolved, that neither the precedent, nor the ſubſequent covenant do take away the force of the Proviſo; for although that words of covenant have been contained in the ſame clauſe of the Proviſo it ſelf, yet Proviſo being in judgment of Law a conditional word, ſhall not loſe his force. And therefore it hath been adjudged between Simpſon and Titterel in the Common Pleas, where the Caſe was, That Serjeant Bendloes 13 Nov. 26 Eliz. deviſed unto Titterel certain lands in Eſſex for 40 years, Provided always and it is covenanted and agreed between the ſaid parties, that the leſſee, &c. ſhould not alien, and it was adjudged, that it was a condition by force of the Proviſo and a covenant alſo by force of the other words. Alſo it was adjudged in the Kings Bench Paſch. 36 Eliz. Rot. 351. between Henry Earl of Pembroke Plaintiff, and Sir Henry Barkley Knight, and Symons Defendants; And the Caſe was, that the Earl of Pembroke granted the Office of Lieutenantſhip of the weſt part of the Foreſt of Fronſelwood in the County of Somerſet to Sir Morice Barkley (father of the ſaid Sir Henry) in tail, Provided always, and the ſaid Sir Morice Barkley for him, &c. doth covenant and grant to and with the ſaid Earl, that neither he the ſaid Sir Morice, nor any of the heirs males of his body ſhall cut down any wood growing upon any part of the premiſſes; And it was reſolved by all the Judges of England upon argument before them at Serjeants Inn, that although the Proviſo were coupled with the expreſs covenant of the grantee, and every condition ought to be created by the words of the grantor, donor, feoffor, &c. yet in the Judgment of Law this word (Proviſo) was a condition created by the grantor, although that all the reſt of the ſentence was the words of the grantee, for Proviſo being an apt word of condition, the ſame ſentence doth contain the words of the grantor purporting a condition, and the words of the grantee comprehending a covenant, which Judgment was afterwards reverſed in the Exchequer Chamber for defect in the declaration, and not for the matter in Law, for that was reſolved by all the Juſtices. And in this Caſe at Bar the ſpecial Habendum was obſerved, ſcil. To have and to hold to Androwes and his heirs in the ſame manner and form as afterwards in the ſaid Indenture is mentioned; by which it appeareth, that the intent of the parties was that the eſtate of Androwes ſhall be ſub modo, which ſhall not be, if the ſaid Proviſo make not a condition, or conditional limitation, as Popham chief Juſtice called it. Note in this Caſe 27 H. 8. 18. a. Dockwrays Caſe, Littleton Chap. Conditions, 14 Eliz. Dier 311. 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. Dier 152. that this word (Proviſo) maketh a Condition, but when Proviſo dependeth upon another ſentence, or hath reference to another part of the deed, yet it maketh not a condition but a qualification or limitation of the ſentence or part of the deed to which it is referred. As in 5 Eliz. Dier 122. between Eyre and Orme, a notable Caſe. 17 H. 9. a leaſe without impeachment of Waſt, Proviſo that he ſhall not do voluntary Waſt, Litt. Chap. Rents. Grant of a rent, Proviſo that the grantee ſhall not charge his perſon. Tramingtons Caſe in the Kings Bench Paſch. 16 Eliz. Rot. 273. there a Proviſo tending to qualifie and explain a ſentence precedent maketh not a condition 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Dier 150. Parkers Caſe. Proviſo amounteth to a Covenant, 28 H. 8' Dier 13. b. [72]

Note Reader, the Caſe in 35 H. 8. Br. Condit. 159. commonly cited to prove that a Proviſo makes not a condition when it cometh inter alias conventiones, doth not warrant it, but if it be well obſerved, the opinion there is good Law, and ſtandeth well with the Judgment. For there it is ſaid, Nota pro lege, that Proviſo put (this is to be performed or not done) upon the part of the leſſee upon the words of the Habendum was a condition, yet contrary of a Proviſo (to be performed or not done) on the part of the leſſor: As if it be covenanted in the Indenture, that the leſſee ſhall make the reparations, Proviſo ſemper that the leſſor ſhall find great Timber, it is not a Condition. Nor by ſome is it a Condition when it cometh enter alias conventiones, upon the part of the leſſee, although it is covenanted after the Habendum, and after the Reddendum, that the leſſee ſhall ſcour the ditches, or the like, Proviſo ſemper that the leſſee ſhall carry the dung to ſuch a field, it is not a condition to forfeit the Leaſe, (and it is true, for that depends upon a precedent Covenant, and without the precedent Covenant could not ſtand) Contrary if ſuch Proviſo be immediately after the Habendum which maketh the eſtate, and after the Reddendum (and true it is alſo, for then as much as it ſtandeth upon it ſelf and doth not depend upon a precedent clauſe it maketh a Condition) and all this is good Law, and ſtandeth well with the reſolution of the ſaid Juſtices, and ſo the quære which Brook made there is now reſolved, and made without Queſtion. [b]

To the fourth Objection it was anſwered and reſolved, That the Proviſo being a Condition ought to do the proper office of a condition, and that is to make the eſtate conditional, and therefore in what place ſoever it be put, it having the force of a Condition ſhall have reference to the eſtate, and ſhall be annexed to it; And it was ſaid, Quod Proviſo eſt providere præſentia & futura, & non præterita. The ſecond Point which was reſolved by the Juſtices was, that after the recovery ſuffered, the Statute of 27 H. 8. did execute the eſtate of the ſaid Mannor to Androwes according to the limitation of the uſe directed by the ſaid Indentures ſubject to the ſaid Condition or Proviſo: And alſo by force of another clauſe of the the ſaid Act created a rent of 42 l. per ann. in Blunt and his heirs, for it is provided by a ſpecial branch of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. as followeth, That where divers perſons ſtand and be ſeiſed of and in lands, &c. in fee ſimple, or otherwiſe, to the uſe and intent that ſome other perſon and perſons ſhall have and perceive yearly to his or their heirs one annual rent out of the ſame lands, &c. in every ſuch caſe ſuch perſon, &c. be adjudged and in poſſeſſion and ſeiſin of the ſame rent, &c. as if a ſufficient grant, &c. had been made, &c. by ſuch as were or ſhall be ſeiſed to ſuch uſe or intent, &c. 20 Eliz. Dier 362. acc. And although in the Caſe at Bar the uſe of the recovery was firſt limited to Androwes and his heirs by the Indentures, and then came the clauſe, Yeelding for the ſaid Mannor 42 l. per ann. to Blunt and his heirs; and although that it was objected, that the rent ought to be limited out of the eſtate of the recoverors, and not out of the poſſeſſion which Androwes had executed to him by the Statute according to the uſe limited to him by the Indenture, yet it was agreed that Blunt ſhould have the ſaid rent by force of the ſaid clauſe of the Act of 17 H. 8. for the intent of the parties appeareth, that Blunt ſhould have the rent, and then the Law ſhall make ſuch conſtruction notwithſtanding the Reddendum cometh after the limitation of the uſe that he ſhall pay the ſame who ought to pay it, ut res magis valeat quam pereat.

Thirdly, It was reſolved, that the fine levied to Perkins by Blunt and Androwes hath not extinct the Condition, and that was the great Queſtion and doubt of the Caſe; and although it is true which the Philoſopher ſaith, Quod fucatus error nuda veritate in multis eſt probabilior, & ſæpenumero rationibus vincit veritatem error, and although as much was objected againſt the Condition as the art and wit of any man could invent or imagine, yet it was reſolved that the Condition remained for many notable reaſons; and all the Objections were well and fully anſwered and ſatisfied. [73] Firſt, becauſe that by the general Covenant it is declared, that all manner of eſtates, aſſurances, and conveyances after to be made of the ſaid Mannor ſhall be to the uſes and intents compriſed in the Indenture, and to no uſe, or intent, within which Covenant the fine levied to Perkins is included, for that is one manner of eſtate of conveyance and aſſurance, and therefore ought to be the uſe and intent of the Indenture, and the uſe and intent of the Indenture was that the Condition ſhould remain, and that the eſtate of Anthony Androwes ſhould be ſubject to the ſame Proviſo; and therefore the firſt general reaſon of their reſolution was, that by the Common Law the fine was ſo directed by the general Covenant to have ſuch ſpecial operation according to the intent of the parties in this Caſe of a common aſſurance that the Condition ſhall not be touched thereby, but that the fine ſhall extinct all other rights and titles to the Mannor ſaving the ſaid Condition only, which ſhall not be extinguiſhed thereby, and that is proved by the like Caſes at the Common Law. And therefore in 9 E. 3. 1. b. & 12 E. 4. 3. the Lord by deed may releaſe all his right in the land, ſaving to him his rent. So 2 E. 2. Voucher 108. one may enter into the warranty ſaving to him his rent; And 50 E. 3. 12. a man may enter into warranty ſaving to him his Condition. And Putnams Caſe 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. Dier 157. was cited; where Putnam by deed indented did enfeoff Duncombe and his heirs of the Mannor of Duncombe, rendring to Putnam and his heirs a rent with a clauſe of diſtreſs, and for not payment a reentry, &c. And by another Indenture of the ſame date, Putnam covenanted with Duncombe to levy a fine of the ſaid Mannor before ſuch a feaſt, &c. which fine ſhould be to the uſes, intents, and purpoſes and conditions expreſſed in the former Indenture, and to no other; And after the fine was levied accordingly by Putnam to Duncombe come ceo, &c. with uſual words of releaſe of all his right. And it was reſolved, that neither the condition nor the rent were touched by the fine levied of the land by reaſon of the former Indenture which ruled the fine: And there it is ſaid, that it is like a releaſe made by the Lord to the Tenant of the land Salvo ſibi dominio; and all this appeareth in the Reports of the Lord Dier: [b] The like judgment was given Trinit. 23 Eliz. as the Lord Dier there reporteth per opinionem omnium Juſticiar' de banco, upon an evidence to a Jury in Eſſex, between Tuſſer Plaintiff, and others Defendants, notwithſtand a general entry into the warranty by Bradborne and his life upon a voucher in a Writ of Entry in the Poſt, and the iſſue was utrum recuperatio præd' fuit ad opus & uſum dict' the Recoveror tantum, &c. but ad uſum etiam that a rent reſerved by the husband and wife by fine before the recovery by them to Tuſſer levied, ſhall be aſſured to Bradbourn and his wife in fee, and not to be extinguiſhed, upon which propter opinionem Curiæ Tuſſer was Nonſuit. So there it appeareth by the opinion of the Court, that the aſſent and agreement of the parties did preſerve the rent notwithſtanding the general entry into the warranty; and by the eſpecial agreement of the parties the recovery is ſo directed that the rent is not touched by the general entry into the warranty. And it was adjudged in the Kings Bench Trinit. 34 Eliz. between Clever and Childe Rot. 805. according to the reſolution in Putnams Caſe; and ſo for the ſame reaſon was it adjudged in this very Caſe now in Queſtion, Paſch. 14 Eliz. Dier 311. in a Quare impedit for the Advowſon of Alaxton that the Condition was not extinct by the ſaid fine; ſo that as is commonly ſaid, Modus & conventio vincunt legem, and the Covenant and agreement of the parties hath power to raiſe an uſe, as in Baintons Caſe Plow. Comm. 2. To declare uſes upon a fine or recovery as common experience hath allowed: 3. To preſerve rents and conditions, and to direct fines and recoveries, &c. to enure to certain purpoſes, as in Putnams and other Caſes before hath been cited.

Againſt which it was objected, 1. That the condition or rent cannot be ſaved by the Indenture, for no ſaving can be in a collateral deed or record, but ought to be ſaved in the ſame deed or record, as in the Caſe ſet before, where the Lord releaſeth to the Tenant, it ought to be ſaved by a ſaving in the ſame deed, and not by any covenant or ſaving in any collateral deed or record: And ſo the Books are in 50 E. 3. 12. 2. & 4 E. 2. Voucher, that a man may enter into the warranty, ſaving to him his rent or action, but the ſame ought to be in the ſame record, for it cannot be ſaved in any collateral record or deed. And therefore if a man by deed covenanteth that he will make a feoffment, and that the feoffment ſhall be upon condition that if the feoffee do not pay a certain ſum before ſuch a Feaſt that he ſhall reenter, and after he maketh a feoffment without comprehending any condition dition in it, the feoffment ſhall be abſolute, and ſhall not be ſubject to the condition compriſed in the firſt deed.

To that it was anſwered and reſolved, 1. That the general Covenant ſhall rule and direct the fine to have his operation to extinct his right and title whatſoever ſaving the ſaid Condition, although that the ſaving be not within the ſame record, and that for divers reaſons.

1. The Objection which hath been made might have been made againſt the Reſolution of the Juſtices in the time of Queen Mary in Putnams Caſe, and of the Court of Common Pleas in the Queens [74] time in Bradburies Caſe, Clevers Caſe, and in this very Caſe; for in all theſe Caſes it was agreed, that neither the condition nor the rent were extinct or touched, but continued, notwithſtanding the fine ſur conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. and the general entry into the warranty; but it appeareth alſo in our Books, that it is not of neceſſity that the ſaving be always in the ſame record or deed, but in ſome Caſes may be contained in another deed, although that by the Law it might have been ſaved in the ſame deed or record. As in 17 Aſſ. 2. & 43 Aſſ. 12. if the diſſeiſee releaſe his right to the diſſeiſor, the ſame may be defeated by a condition contained in another deed delivered at the ſame time. So the ſame Law of ſaving. And F. N. B. 205. if a woman make a feoffment in fee by deed, rendring rent, and hath no other deed to ſhew that the intent of the feoffment was, that the feoffee ſhould marry her, the ſame is good, and that by reaſon of the collateral deed, and ſhe may have a Writ of cauſa matrimonii prælocuti, or ſhe may enter if ſhe will, and that is in the Caſe of a particular aſſurance, but in the general Caſe of common aſſurances, that is to ſay, in the Caſe of a common Recovery, he who entreth into the warranty may ſave his rent, and yet if he enter into the warranty generally it may be ſaved by covenant and agreement in an Indenture made before the recovery, as it appeareth before in Braburies Caſe, and that in favour of common Recoveries which are the common aſſurances of the land, the uſual form of which ſhall not be altered by a ſpecial manner of entry ſaving his rent or condition, but may be ſaved by an Indenture debors: And conveyances which are uſed for common aſſurances of land ſhall be expounded and conſtrued according to common allowance without looking into them with Eagles eyes. And therefore Paſch. 35 Eliz. in Dormers Caſe it was adjudged in the Kings Bench, that a common recovery might be had of an Advowſon. So it was adjudged in the Exchequer in Sir William Pelhams Caſe, that if a common Recovery be ſuffered by Tenant for life it is a forfeiture of his eſtate. And the reaſon of both the ſaid Judgments was, becauſe that a common recovery is by uſage a common conveyance as a fine or feoffment, &c. And it is ſaid in Plow. Comm. in Trivilians Caſe 514. that in common Recoveries the common uſage and intent of the parties is to be reſpected; for a common recovery had againſt husband and wife ſhall bar the wife of her Dower, and yet the wife ſhall not have any recompence in value, and therefore in ſtrictneſs of reaſon it is hard to maintain it, but common uſage and the [b] intent of the parties maketh it a bar. And therefore it is wiſely ſaid of a Lawyer, Non eſt recedendum a communi obſervantia, & minime mutanda ſunt quæ certam interpretationem habuerunt. But the Caſe of fine in our Caſe is ſtronger then the Caſe of Recovery; for in the Caſe of a Recovery the vouchee may enter ſpecially ſaving his Action, Rent, Condition, &c. and yet becauſe the uſage before this time hath allowed it, it may be ſaved by covenant and agreement precedent, as it hath been ſaid; but in the Caſe of a fine, no ſaving can be contained in it, and therefore for neceſſity (and according to common uſage always allowed) it may be ſaved by the direction and rule of a precedent covenant and grant. And therefore it is adjudged in 6 R. 2. Eſtoppel 2. That if a man and his wife enfeoff two by deed, to have and to hold to them and their heirs, and afterwards the feoffor and his wife levy a fine ſur conuſans de droit to them and the heirs of one of them, that the ſame is no concluſion, but that both ſhall have the fee ſimple as they had before: And there Skipwith chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, ex aſſenſu Belknap, & ſociorum ſuorum, gave four reaſons of their Judgment.

1. Becauſe they had fee before by the feoffment, and therefore that the fine ſhould enure but as a releaſe.

2. The conuſans to them and the heirs of one of them come ceo, &c. might well ſtand with the eſtate which they had before, for whereas the fine acknowledgeth it to be the right of one (this is the fee of one) it is true, for the tenements were the right of the one and other, Ergo the right of one.

3. We cannot take other fines, for the fee ſimple ought to be determined in one perſon certain by the fine.

4. The fine is not executory but to extinct the right of the wife only, wherefore it is no eſtoppel. Note from this, that the precedent feoffment doth rule and direct this ſubſequent fine; Alſo for as much as the fine by Law cannot be levied in other form, it ſhall be ruled and directed according to the precedent agreement and covenants of the parties. So if two Parſons of two ſeveral Churches by one Inſtrument in writing change their Benefices, by way of exchange, and to that purpoſe reſign them into the hands of the Ordinary, and the Patrons preſent accordingly, and one of the Parſons is admitted, inſtituted, and inducted, and the other is admitted and inſtituted, and dieth before induction, although the induction of the other were abſolute, yet it was directed by the precedent agreements which was by way of exchange, which ought to be executed on both parts in the life of the parties; and the inſtitution and induction cannot be upon expreſs condition, nor in other form then was done, vide 45 E. 3. Eſtoppel 10.

Secondly, it was anſwered, that in this Caſe, that the bargain and ſale, the recovery and the fine, [75] although they be made, ſuffered, and levied at ſeveral times, yet all of them by the mutual agreement of the parties make but one aſſurance of the Mannor according to the ſame original bargain and contract, and therefore each of them doth tend to perfect the ſaid bargain, none of them to deſtroy any part of it, or to overthrow the true intent and meaning of the parties in any thing, but ſhall be taken as one aſſurance made at one time. As if a man make a leaſe by Indenture for life, of lands lying in ſeveral Counties,

Counties, and maketh livery of the land in one County, yet one entire rent ſhall iſſue out of the lands in both Counties, and yet the livery by which the eſtate paſſed was made at ſeveral times, and therefore it might be argued that preſently by the firſt livery, the rent ſhall iſſue out of that, but the Law ſhall not adjudge by parcel in ſubverſion of the intent and agreement of the parties, but when all acts are done in performance of the original contract and agreement of the parties, the Law ſhall judge upon them as executed at one time: So if a man maketh a deed of feoffment with warranty, and delivereth the deed to the feoffee, and afterwards at another time maketh livery ſecundum formam chartæ, the warranty is good, and yet it may be objected, that when the deed was delivered, no eſtate paſſed to which the warranty could be annexed; nor no eſtate was in the feoffee upon which the deed might enure as a releaſe with warranty, but the deed which comprehended the warranty took effect preſently by the delivery of the deed before the livery of ſeiſin; and ſo by nice conſtruction upon diſtinction of time, the warranty ſhould be overthrown, but the warranty is good for the cauſe aforeſaid. And in theſe common aſſurances praxis juriſperitorum is to be obſerved, and the ſentence of Theophraſtus in Metaph. is true, Qui rationem in omnibus quærunt, rationem ſubvertunt; and for as much as the end of the Law is to ſettle, repoſe, and make peace between man and man concerning their poſſeſſions, it ſhall be a dangerous thing to make any conſtruction againſt the general allowance of common aſſurances, for thereupon would riſe infinite contentions, quarrels and ſuits, which would be inconvenient.

The ſecond Objection which was made againſt it was, that this fine was upon a grant and a render, and therefore without writing could not be averred to be to an uſe, for that implieth conſideration in it ſelf, and therefore by naked averment by word, cannot be averred to be to any other uſe or intent then is compriſed in the fine it ſelf, but by deed it may be; Alſo the finding of the Jury is not material, for their finding ought to ſubmit to the judgement of the Law, as in Amy Townſends Caſe Plow. Comm. it is agreed. So holdeth F.N.B. 205. b. If a woman maketh a feoffment in fee by deed rendring rent, ſhe cannot by word averr that it was cauſa matrimonii prælocuti, for it appeareth by the deed that [b] the reſervation was the cauſe of the feoffment, but if ſhe hath a deed to ſhow that the deed was to the intent that he ſhould marry her, then ſhe may well maintain a Writ cauſa matrimonii prælocuti, but without ſhe cannot, as it is adjudged in 8 E. 2. Vouch. 78. ſee 8 Aſſ. 34. and thereupon the Caſe of Wilks 1 Ma. Dier, and many other Caſes were cited to this purpoſe; but they did rely upon the opinion of the whole Court of Common Pleas 14 El. Dier 311. in this very Caſe, That without writing a fine upon a grant and render cannot be averred to be to any uſe or intent then the fine it ſelf doth import; And then they object in this Caſe, that for as much as the Indentures which ſhould direct this fine were levied by Blunt and Androwes to Perkins, who rendred a rent to Blunt, and the Mannor to Androwes, the ſaid Indentures cannot declare any uſe or intent of the land from Perkins, who is a ſtranger to the Indentures, and of a fine levied to him, by which he rendreth a rent to one, and the land to the other, as is aforeſaid, which cannot be directed by any naked averment, for the expreſs conſideration and intent after in the fine, and no deed to which Perkins was not party can direct it, becauſe that now by the mutual agreement of Blunt who had the condition and the rent, and of Androwes who had the land, this fine is levied to Perkins, by which they make him abſolute owner of the land, and that he ſhould render a rent to Blunt, and the Mannor to Androwes, ſo that now Blunt hath the rent of the grant of Perkins, and Androwes hath the Mannor by the grant and render of Perkins alſo, Ergo, the eſtate of Perkins cannot be ſubject to any uſe or intent compriſed in the Indentures made before between Blunt and Androwes, but ought to have a deed to which Perkins ſhall be party, and this Objection was urged by many reaſons.

1. It was ſaid, that notwithſtanding the ſaid general Covenant, if Blunt or Androwes had made a feoffment, or levied a fine upon any new agreement or conſideration, although that ſuch a new agreement were but by word, that the general Covenant ſhould not rule any conveyance or aſſurance made upon new conſideration or agreement, and therefore if Blunt and Androwes had enfeoffed Perkins, or levied a fine to him for any ſum, or other conſideration, this feoffment or fine ſhall not be ruled or directed by the general Covenant, nor the general Covenant ſhall direct or rule any conveyance, but thoſe which are made upon the firſt conſideration, and in performance of the firſt bargain, and not for any new conſideration, quod fuit conceſſum; then a conceſſis, they object, That this fine levied imports in it ſelf a new agreement and conſideration, and that for divers cauſes.

1. This fine, as it hath been ſaid, importeth an expreſs conſideration in it ſelf, ſcil. in conſideration of a fine levied by Blunt and Androwes to Perkins, he granteth and rendreth a rent to Blunt, and the Mannor to Androwes, and no averment by word ſhall be received to ſhew that this fine was levied to other uſe or intent then is contained in the fine, ſo that the manner of the fine importeth a new [76] agreement.

2. This is a fine by both to a ſtranger to the Indenture, whoſe eſtate cannot be ſubject to declarations and covenants made between Blunt and Androwes, and this new perſon maketh a new agreement.

3. The firſt bargain and ſale and original contract between the parties is altered in ſubſtance and effect: for by the firſt bargain Blunt was to have a rent of 42. l. to him and his heirs, and by this fine the rent is rendred by Perkins to him in tail, the remainder over to a ſtranger, ſo that this eſtate tail which is new, and limited in remainder to a new perſon in fee, doth manifeſt that there was a new agreement between the parties, then ex conſequenti the ſaid Indentures cannot rule or guide the intent or uſe of this fine, the averment by word cannot be by Law, and the finding of the Jury is not material, for here is a new agreement of record, and none will affirm, that there ſhall be two rents to Blunt, one in fee, and the other in tail, for that ſhall be againſt the intent of the parties, and againſt all Law and reaſon.

To this it was anſwered and reſolved, that it is true that a fine upon a grant and render, if not in ſpecial Caſes, cannot be averred by word to be to another uſe or intent then it expreſſed in the fine, feoffment or other conveyance: But there is difference between uſe and conſideration, for when a fine, feoffment, or other conveyance importeth an expreſs conſideration, a man may averr by word another conſideration, which ſtands with the conſideration expreſſed; But yet in ſome Caſes a fine upon a grant and render may be ruled and directed in part to an averment by word. And therefore when the original bargain and contract between the parties is by Indenture or other deed, as where it is agreed by Indenture that a fine ſhall be levied of certain lands, by the name of certain number of acres to divers perſons, and that they ſhall grant and render the land again in fee ſimple which ſhall be to certain uſes; the fine is levied of the land, but ſome variance is in the number of the acres compriſed in the fine, or the fine is levied to one of the parties only who granteth and rendreth the land, ſo as there is variance betwixt the Covenant and the fine in number and perſon; and yet God defend but that this fine ſhall be averred to be to the uſe of the Indenture, for the original bargain and agreement of the parties was declared by writing, and although ſome ſmall variance be in quantity, perſon, time, or the like, betwixt
[b] the fine and the Indenture, yet the Law (which in common aſſurances hath great reſpect and regard to the intent of the parties, and to the ſubſtance and effect of their original bargain and agreement) will ſuffer an averment to agree to the fine and the Indenture, notwithſtanding theſe petit circumſtances of number, perſon, time, and the like, when the party averreth that there was not any new conſideration, nor any new agreement between the parties, but that the fine was levied according to the Indenture, and to the uſes and intents contained therein; And it is agreeable to Juſtice and Equity, and principally in common aſſurances of lands between party and party that ſome petit variance or circumſtance ſhall not overthrow all the ſubſtance and agreement of the parties in their Indentures to the diſ-enheriſon of one of them. And it was agreed in Taverners Caſe now of late referred to the Juſtices out of the Chancery, that if A. hath 10. acres in D. and B. hath 10. acres in the ſame Town, and A. levieth a fine to B. of 20. acres, and B. granteth and rendreth 20. acres to A. in fee, yet A. ſhall not have the 10. acres of B. if not that there were a ſpecial agreement between them to ſuch purpoſe, for otherwiſe the conuſee ſhall not be ſaid to render more then he received.

And to that which is ſaid, that Perkins is a ſtranger to the Indenture, and that Blunt and Androwes cannot limit the uſe or intereſt of the land, which by the fine was abſolutely the Indenture of Perkins, and that Perkins only hath the power to limit the uſe and to diſpoſe of the land and no other; To that it was anſwered and reſolved, that the ſcope and purpoſe of the Indenture, and of the original agreement of the parties was, that Androwes ſhall have the Mannor, and Blunt a rent out of it, and for performance of it, it was adviſed, that both ſhould joyn in a fine to Perkins, and that he ſhould render the rent to Blunt, and the Mannor to Androwes, ſo that it appeareth Perkins was but an inſtrument to perform the original agreement of the parties, and had not any power to limit any uſe, or to make other diſpoſition of the land then Blunt and Androwes had directed him, for if he had not agreed to make the render in the ſame fine as it was demiſed by Blunt and Androwes, they would never have levied the fine to him, ſo that he is but an inſtrument to perform the agreement of the parties, and all ſhall be ſaid to be done by the order and diſpoſition of Androwes and Blunt according to their original bargain and agreement, As in the Caſe in 2 Eliz. Dier 172. Lane held of the Mannor of Walgrave by Knights ſervice, whichMannor was holden over of the King in Capite, Lane levied a fine of the Tenancy to one, who granted and rendred it to Lane for life, the remainder to his wife for life, the remainder to the right heirs of [77] the husband. And it was reſolved in the Court of Wards, that although that the wife were immediately in by the render of the conuſee, yet becauſe that it appeareth that he was but an inſtrument to render the land as Lane ſhould direct him, it was by the judgment of the Law the diſpoſition of the husband for the advancement of the wife. And it appeareth, that Perkins in the Caſe at the Barr was but an inſtrument to perform the original contract and agreement of the parties, and that he had not any power to overthrow the ſaid contract and agreement of the parties, which would be more apparent if firſt the parties of the fine, and then the ſeiſin of Perkins be examined and conſidered.

As to the firſt, if any part of the fine ſhall deſtroy the Condition, it ſhall be the conuſans of the fine, for that is made by Blunt who hath the condition, and by Androwes who hath the Mannor; put caſe then, that Perkins had refuſed to make any render, then it ſhall be clear that this conuſans to Perkins might be directed by the firſt covenants in the ſaid Indenture, although that Perkins were a ſtranger to it, and that is proved by the common aſſurances. For if A. by deed indented between him and B. bargain and ſell lands to B. and his heirs, and it is covenanted between them that A. ſhall levy a fine to B. and that C. who is a ſtranger ſhall recover the ſaid lands againſt B. in a common recovery, which recovery ſhall be to the uſe of B. and his heirs, the ſame is good without queſtion, for that hath been agreed by them who have argued on the contrary part; That the ſaid Recoverors in the Caſe at Barr, although they were ſtrangers to the Indenture, yet their eſtate was ſubject to the uſes of the Indenture: And it is uſual if Tenant in tail with remainder will bargain and ſell the land by deed indented and enrolled to his friend and his heirs, who ſuffer a common recovery with double voucher in which the bargainor is vouched, and yet all that is to the uſe of the Tenant in tail and his heirs, and ſo is uſual to be averred; for now upon the matter the bargainee is but an inſtrument to be Tenant to the Præcipe in the recovery which ſhall be ſuffered to bar the eſtate tail and all the remainders, and the bargain and ſale was only to this purpoſe; then if no render had been made, this conuſans might have been ruled and directed by the Indenture: Then it is to be conſidered what ſeiſin Perkins had, and truly he had not ſeiſin but at one inſtant, and only to this purpoſe to make the render, for his wife ſhall not be endowed, nor the land ſubject to his Recogniſances or Statutes; and the render is to Androwes who was party to the Indenture, ſo as the render of Perkins cannot extinct the condition which Blunt had, but the conuſans of Blunt ſhall extinct it if any thing ſhall extinct it, becauſe that Blunt at the time of the making thereof was abſolute owner of the Mannor, and had abſolute power to declare to what uſes and intents the ſaid recovery and all other aſſurances (without new agreement as hath been ſaid) ſhall be. Alſo although that Perkins were a ſtranger, yet the render was to Androwes who was party. [b]

but

Further it was ſaid, that in this Caſe Blunt joyned with Androwes in the fine for neceſſity; for if he had not been party to the fine, the render of the rent could not be made unto him, ſo that for this ſpecial purpoſe to have aſſurance of the rent by the render of the fine he joyned with Androwes, ſo that he might ſhew the whole ſpecial matter, by which it appeareth to what intent and purpoſe he joyned in the fine. And the reaſon of the Book of 6 R. 2. is to be obſerved. For there the Juſtices (to avoid an Eſtoppel) regard the ſcope and purpoſe of the parties which levied the fine; And although that the fine be of ſo high nature that it will not ſuffer a bare averment againſt the purport and conuſans of the fine, yet when the Law requireth one of neceſſity, and for conformity to joyn with another in a fine, the Law will ſuffer him to ſhew the truth of the matter to avoid prejudice and concluſion: Mich. 30 & 31 Eliz. in a Writ of Error, between Worſely and his wife Plaintiff, and Charnocke Defendant for the reverſing of a fine levied by the husband and wife, it was adjudged, that the fine being reverſed for the nonage of the wife, the husband and wife ſhould have preſent reſtitution, and the conuſee ſhould not keep the land during the coverture, and the reaſon and cauſe of the Judgment was, becauſe that when the huſband and wife joyn in a fine, yet all the eſtate paſſeth from the wife, and the husband joyneth of neceſſity and for conformity, and therefore the Law doth permit that the truth of it be ſhewed, and the whole eſtate ſhall be reſtored to the wife during the life of the husband, againſt the opinion of Chandiſh 50 E. 3. 6. & Hill. 33 Eliz. in the ſame Court: And for the ſame reaſon between John Harvey Plaintiff, in an Ejectione firmæ againſt Rafe Thomas Defendant, for lands in St. Madryn in the County of Cornwall, it was adjudged, That where the husband is ſeiſed of land in the right of the wife, and the husband made a leaſe to the Defendant for 21 years, and afterwards he and his wife levied a fine ſur conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. to Thomas Saint Tawbyn and his heirs, the husband died, that the leaſe was ended by his death, and the conuſee ſhould avoid it, for the husband joyned but for conformity and of neceſſity; And there it was ſaid, that it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, where a recovery is had againſt the husband and wife of the lands of the husband whereof he is ſeiſed in tail, with a voucher over, the intent and purpoſe of joyning of the wife might be ſhewed; ſcil. to bar her of her Dower, and yet the whole recompence in value ſhall go to the iſſue in tail; and the Caſe before of 6 R. 2. ſerveth to this purpoſe. [78]

And to the Objection which hath been made, that for as much as now the rent is rendred in tail with remainder over, that for this cauſe the fine doth import a new agreement of record, it was anſwered and reſolved, that as to the ancient rent it was extinct, becauſe another rent of another eſtate, and in another manner, by the mutual agreement of the parties was granted and rendred, for two Blunt ſhall not have; and the eſtate tail cannot be by expreſs limitation to the uſe of another, as it appeareth 24 H. 8. Br. Feoffm. al uſes 40. 27 H. 8. 10. where it is ſaid, that ſo it was of late adjudged by the advice of all the Juſtices according to the ſaid Reſolution in 24 H. 8. And according to that it is adjudged in Parliament, as it appeareth by the Statute of 1 R. 3. And ſo it was reſolved by the greater part of the Juſtices in this Caſe; but although that the rent was altered, yet it is no cauſe for alteration of the eſtate of the land, for the Jurors have found that there was not any new conſideration or new agreement for the land, but that the fine was to the uſe and intent of the firſt Indentures; and Perkins, Androwes, or any other hath not any prejudice by it, for Blunt contenteth himſelf with an eſtate tail in a rent which was of ſuch ſum, as he had in fee before, and therefore appointed Perkins to limit the remainder in fee over to himthat he ſhall nominate to him, but the ſame is not any cauſe to alter the quality and condition of the eſtate of Androwes; for Blunt hath not any benefit, nor Androwes any prejudice by the alteration of the render of the rent; and Androwes hath not given any conſideration to have an eſtate abſolute, or to extinguiſh the Condition.

And another reaſon to maintain the Reſolution in Putnams Caſe, Bradburies Caſe, and Clevers Caſe was made upon the Statute of 27 H. 8. of uſes; for before that Statute, if Blunt had by deed enfeoffed another of the Mannor to the intent that he himſelf ſhould have a rent of 42 l. to him and his heirs, and that the feoffee ſhould ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of Androwes and his heirs upon certain conditions to be performed by Androwes; and further it was covenanted and agreed between the ſame parties, That all aſſurances after to be made ſhall be to the uſes and intents of the ſame Indentures, and afterwards Blunt had levied a fine accordingly; this fine ſhall not extinct the rent or the condition, for that ſhould be againſt the original agreement of the parties, and the fine which they intended to perfect the former aſſurance, if the rent or condition ſhould be extinct, ſhould deſtroy the intent and meaning of the parties, and ſhould be againſt all equity and conſcience; and therefore the rent or uſe, being but a thing of truſt and confidence, for which there was not any remedy in Court of Equity, ſhall not be by ſuch fine levied to former uſes and intents extinct: Then if it ſhall not be extinct by the Common Law, now the Statute of 27 H. 8. doth execute the poſſeſſion to the uſe in the ſame manner, quality, and condition as he had in the uſe. [b]

And further it was ſaid, That at the Common Law before the ſaid Act, if a man had made a feoffment by deed indented to another rendring rent, and with condition to reenter, and further it were covenanted and agreed between the parties, that notwithſtanding any fine or other conveyances made by the feoffor to the feoffee, by which the Rent and Condition ſhould be extinct, that the feoffee and his heirs ſhall be ſeiſed to the intent that they ſhall pay the like rent, and to be ſeiſed of the land upon the like condition as before, in this Caſe if the feoffor had levied a fine, or releaſed his right, or made any other conveyance unto the feoffee, by which the rent or condition were extinct, yet by original agreement of the parties, a new rent and a new condition annexed to the uſe of the land ſhould riſe, and the feoffor ſhould have remedy in equity preſently for the rent: And when the Condition was broken, the uſe of the land ſhall be newly raiſed to the feoffor by the breach of the Condition, and by original agreement of the parties, notwithſtanding his releaſe, or other conveyance. And the ſame is touched and moved in Putnams Caſe in part cited before; And if the ſame might have been done before the Statute, now the poſſeſſion is executed to the uſe by the ſaid Act in the ſame manner, quality, and condition as he had in the uſe; And therefore although that a fine which enureth by way of releaſe, or which goeth by Mitter le droit, or by way of extinguiſhment, cannot be (without more) to an uſe, no more than the ſurrender of a particular eſtate may be, yet after ſuch releaſe which extinguiſheth the firſt rent or condition, another may be by original agreement of the parties then owners of the land, and who had the abſolute diſpoſition to raiſe and direct it as is aforeſaid. And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, that always the declaration of the uſe made by the owner of the land ſhall be preferred before the declarations of all other; and therefore if the diſſeiſor and the diſſeiſee levy a fine, and the diſſeiſee limit the uſe to A. and the conuſee of the fine to the uſe of B. and the diſſeiſor to the uſe of C. and A. limit the uſe to one, the recoveror to another, and the vouchee to a third, the limitation of A. ſhall ſtand.

Fourthly, it was reſolved that by the death of Androwes the Condition was broken, for when the feoffee or grantee upon condition is to make an eſtate to the feoffor or grantor, and no time is limited, regularly it is true that the feoffee hath time to do it during his life, if the feoffor or grantor do not
[79] haſten it by requeſt, and upon requeſt and day or time limited when he will have it, the feoffee or grantee ought to make it, and if no requeſt be made, and the feoffee or grantee who ought to perform the condition dieth, the condition is broken, for he hath not performed the condition within the time preſcribed to him by the Law, which was during his life: But yet this general rule doth admit of divers exceptions and limitations. For in this Caſe of an Advowſon Androwes had not time during his life, although no requeſt were made, but upon contingent, that is to ſay, if no avoydance fell in the mean time, for if the grantee ſhall ſtay till the avoydance fall, then ipſo facto the condition is broken, becauſe Blunt cannot have all the effect which by the grant he ought to have, and that is to have all the preſentations during his life, and the Advowſon is become in another plight then it was: So if A. enfeoff B. 1 Maii upon condition that he grant to B. an annuity, or rent during his life payable yearly at the feaſt of S. Michael and the Annunciation, in this Caſe the feoffee hath not time during his life to make this grant, but he ought to make it before the feaſt of S. Michael, or otherwiſe he ſhall not have the annuity or rent during his life. And that may be gathered upon the Book of 14 E. 3. Det 138. that in Caſe of grant of a rent he ſhall not have time during his life: And if two not married be enfeoffed upon condition to reinfeoff the donor or feoffor, and one of them dieth, yet the other may perform the condition, but if he who ſurviveth hath a wife, the condition is broken, for if he ſhall make the reinfeoffment, his wife ſhall be endowed: And in all the ſaid Caſes when the condition is that the feoffee ſhall make the eſtate, and the feoffee dieth, there the condition is broken, and none can perform it, for the condition extendeth only to the feoffee, but if the condition be that the feoffee or his heirs ſhall make an eſtate to the feoffor and no day is limited, there although the feoffee dieth, the condition is not broken, for the feoffee only is not bound by the condition during his life to make the feoffment, ſo as by his death the time appointed to perform the condition ſhall be paſt, but the condition doth extend alſo to his heirs indefinite without limitation of time, and the Condition in ſuch Caſe being without limitation of time or perſon cannot be broken by not making the eſtate; but upon requeſt
[b] made by the feoffor and his heirs, and with that agreeth the Book in 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. Dier 138, 139. the Earl of Surries Caſe; for the condition there (admitting it to be a condition) being without limitation of perſon and time, was not to be performed before requeſt: But in the Caſe at Bar, if day had been limited before which Androwes ſhould grant the Advowſon by the Proviſo, there if before the day Androwes had died the condition ſhould not be broken, for when the parties by their mutual agreement give a certain time within which the condition ſhall be performed, and within that time he who ought to perform it dieth, ſo that the condition becometh impoſſible by the act of God, there the eſtate doth remain abſolute diſcharged of the condition. See 15 H. 7. 13. 33 H. 6. 26, 27. 2 Eliz. Dier 262. and Sir Thomas Wrothes Caſe, Plow. Com. 456. And therefore it is requiſite in ſuch Caſes that when a day is limited that the condition do extend not only to the feoffee or feoffees, but to their heirs for fear of death before the day: but if one intend to enfeoff another upon condition that the feoffee before ſuch Feaſt, or within a year, &c. ſhall give back the land to the feoffor, &c. it is requiſite that the condition be that the feoffee or his heirs before ſuch feaſt, &c. give back, &c. otherwiſe if the feoffee dieth before the Feaſt the condition is become impoſſible, and the feoffor hath not remedy by the Law to compel the heirs of the feoffee to give back the land.

Another difference was alſo agreed, when the eſtate is to be made by the condition to the feoffee, and when to a ſtranger; for when the eſtate is to be made to a ſtranger, the feoffee ought to make the ſame within convenient time, for he to whom the feoffment is to be made being a ſtranger ought not to make any requeſt, as the feoffor who is party ought to do. And in ſuch Caſe when a ſtranger is to be enfeoffed, the feoffee ought within convenient time to require the ſtranger to appoint a time when he will have the feoffment made to him, and at that time he ought to make it; and ſo the feoffees ought to give notice to the ſtranger, and requeſt him to appoint a time as is aforeſaid. And therewith agreeth 44 E. 3. 9. 9 E. 4. 22. 2 E. 4. 3. & 4. 19 H. 6. 67, 73, 76. And in the Caſe of Littleton fol. 82. where a feoffment is made upon condition that the feoffee ſhall enfeoff many, &c. there it doth not appear that thoſe who ſhould be enfeoffed were ſtrangers, or if they were ſtrangers, whether they died before the feoffee could enfeoff them.

An-

Another difference was taken by ſome when the feoffee dieth, and when the feoffor dieth before any eſtate made according to the condition, in the one Caſe the condition is broken, and in the other not. As if A. enfeoff B. upon condition that B. ſhall give back the land to A. and his wife, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten, the remainder to C. in fee, in this Caſe if B. dieth the condition is broken, as afore is ſaid; but if A. dieth the condition is not broken, for the feoffee hath time during his life if he be not haſtned by requeſt, by the feoffor, his heirs, &c. and that appeareth by Littleton in his Chapter of Conditions, fol. 82. for in the ſame Caſe Littleton ſaith, that if ſuch feoffee will not make ſuch eſtate when he is reaſonably required by them who ought to have the eſtate by force of the condition, then may the feoffor or his heirs enter, by which it appeareth, that as long as the feoffee liveth the condition cannot be broken by the death of the feoffor; For Littleton put in his Caſe that the feoffor was dead. But againſt that 18 Aſſ. ultimo was cited; where the Caſe was, That the Lord Clifford held his Barony and the Sheriffwick of Weſtmerland of the King by grand Serjeanty in Capite, and the King gave a licence to the Lord Clifford that he might thereof enfeoff two Chaplains in fee, ſo that they gave back the ſame to the ſaid Lord Clifford and the heirs males of his body the remainder over. The Lord Clifford according to the ſaid licence did enfeoff the Chaplains, and before they had given the ſame back again the Lord Clifford died, his ſon and heir within age, and in Ward to the King by reaſon of other lands; and all the ſaid matter was found by Writ of Diem clauſit extremum, and returned into the Chancery, out of which, and of the Charter of licence a Scire facias iſſued againſt the ſaid Chaplains, if they could ſay any thing why the ſaid lands ſo occupied by them in diſ-heriſon of the heirs and from taking the Wardſhip thereof from the King, ſhould not be ſeiſed into the Kings hands; who appeared and pleaded the Kings licence, and the feoffment of the Lord Clifford, and ſo they were the Kings Tenants by his licence; and as to the reinfeoffment it was at their will to do it, with that that they were always ready to have made the eſtate to the Lord Clifford in his life, and that he would have it by fine, and thereupon brought a Writ of Covenant, and died pendant the Writ; and after his death they endowed the wife of the Lord Clifford, and were always ready if they had the Kings licence to make the re-gift to the ſon and heir to make the eſtate according to the condition: And Judgment was given that the tenements ſhould be ſeiſed into the Kings hands, and that he ſhould have the profits thereof from the death of the Lord Clifford. But note Reader (as I conceive) the ſaid Judgment doth not contradict the opinion of Littleton; for Sadlier who pronounced the Judgment gave two reaſons and cauſes of the ſaid Judgment. [80]

1. Becauſe that by the licence of the King which is here of Record, and by the office alſo returned, it appeareth upon Record that the Chaplains had not other eſtate then upon condition.

2. That it appeareth by their plea that they had time in the life of the Lord Clifford to have performed the condition; the effect of the firſt reaſon is, for as much as the land was holden in Capite, and the licence was ſpecial to enfeoff the Chaplains, ſo as they gave back to the feoffor in tail, &c. if they had made the gift in tail to the Lord himſelf they had preſerved the licence, but when the Lord himſelf died, they could not by force of the ſaid licence make the gift to his ſon: Then for as much (as it appeareth by the ſecond reaſon) that they had time in the life of the Lord Clifford to have performed it, and the not doing of it drew a charge to the heir to purchace a licence, and perhaps the King would never give licence, and then the eſtate never (without charge, and cauſe of ſeiſure for want of licence) ſhould be made, and all that in default of the feoffees who had time to make it, and if they had preſerved the licence they ought to have made the regift to the Lord himſelf; and therefore it is as much as if the feoffees had bound themſelves in a Statute or Recogniſance, which after their feoffment ſhould charge the land; ſo if they without licence ſhould give it back to the heir, his lands ſhould be ſeiſed into the Kings hands for alienation without licence; for this cauſe the entry of the heir was lawful. And note in the ſaid Caſe, that the feoffees in their plea ſaid, That they were alway ready to have enfeoffed the heir if they had had licence ſo to do, by which it appeareth that the ſaid licence did not warrant them to make the gift to the heir. [b]

Alſo it is ſaid in the ſaid Caſe by Hampton, That if the King ſeiſe the land, it ought to be in his own right, and the heirs of the Lord Clifford diſ-inherited, for at this time he thought as it ſeemeth, that land holden by grand Serjeanty aliened without licence ſhould be forfeited to the King: For that ſee the Statute de Prærogativa Regis cap. 7. de Serjeantiis alienatis ſine licentia Regis conſuevit Rex arrentare hujuſmodi per rationabilem extentum inde faciendum. And agreeing to this I have ſeen a precedent, 26 E. 1. Exam' Rememorat' dominæ Reginæ in Scaccario, That land in Cheſterton in the County of Warwick, and temps E. 1. of lands in Hadnet in the County of Shrewsbury were ſeiſed and granted in fee by Juſtices in Eyre, for alienation without licence, for then Juſtices in Eyre might have granted ſuch land in fee rendring rent, as a Juſtice of a Foreſt (which in effect as to this purpoſe are Juſtices in Eyre) at this day may of lands encloſed within a Foreſt without the Kings leave. And Wilby in 14 E. 3. Quare impedit 54. ſaith, That if land holden by grand Serjanty be aliened without licence they are forfeited by the Common Law, becauſe that ſervice of body cannot be transferred to another.

But note Reader, at this day it is without queſtion, that land holden by grand Serjanty ſhall not be forfeited for alienation without licence; for if it were admitted that they were forfeited as Wilby ſaid at the Common Law, yet it is declared contrary, and remedied by the Act of 1 E. 3. cap 12. by which it is provided, Whereas divers people of the Realm complain themſelves to be grieved by that that lands and tenements holden of the King in chief (as all which are holden by grand Serjanty are) and aliened without licence have been ſeiſed heretofore and holden as forfeit, in ſuch Caſe a reaſonable fine ſhall be taken. And ſo at all times after that Statute, when land holden by grand Serjanty hath been aliened without licence, a fine hath been taken and no ſeiſure made for the forfeiture; Et optimus legum interpres conſuetudo. And ſo it was holden M. 38 & 39 Eliz. by the two chief Juſtices Popham and Anderſon, Periam chief Baron, and all the other Juſtices. And the reaſon for which I collect [81]

the

the land was holden by grand Serjanty is, firſt, beccauſe the Book ſaith, that he aliened great part of his heritage, and the Sheriffwick of Weſtmerland which is parcel of his Barony; and every Barony in ancient time was holden by grand Serjanty. Secondly, Hampton there (either forgetting the Statute of 1 E. 3. or not conceiving the ſame to extend to grand Serjanty) ſaith, That the King ſeiſed in his own right, and diſ-inherited the heirs (ſcil. If an eſtate ſhall be made without licence) which without queſtion by the expreſs letter of the Act of 1 E. 3. could not be, if it were holden in Capite and not by grand Serjanty. So it appeareth that the Book of 18 Aſſ. is reſolved upon other reaſons, and doth not oppoſe the opinion of Littleton, who without queſtion had ſeen the Book. And I perceiving the Book of 2 H. 4. 5. to agree with Littleton, cauſed ſearch to be made for the record of the Caſe: Et inter recorda de Theſaur' recept' Scaccarii ſub cuſtodia Theſaur' & Camer' remanen' inter placit' de juratis & Aſſ. de ann. 1 H. 4. in Com. Devon. the Record of the ſaid Caſe was found, and the Caſe was, That Robert French brought an Aſſiſe againſt William Dean and Thomaſine his wife, and others, of his freehold in Chudleigh, and the Aſſiſe was taken by default, and a ſpecial verdict found, that is to ſay, Quod quidam Thomas Glaſier fuit
[b] ſeiſitus de præd' tenementis cum pertinentiis in eorum viſu poſitis in dominico ſuo ut de feodo, & ſic inde ſeiſit' exiſtens eadem tenementa cum pertinen' dedit & conceſſit quibuſdam Jo. Prous & Rogero Cockſhead, habend' ſibi & hæredibus ſuis, ſub conditione quod iidem Johannes & Rogerus ipſum Thomam & prædict' Thomaſinam adtunc uxorem ipſius Thom' de eiſdem tenementis refeoffaret, habend' eiſdem Thomæ & Thomaſinæ & hæredibus de corporibus ſuis exeuntibus, remanere rectis hæredibus ipſius Thomæ; virtute cujus iidem Johannes & Rogerus de tali ſtatu fuerunt inde ſeiſiti, & poſtea prædictus Thomas obiit ſine hærede de corpore ſuo & de corpore ipſius Thomaſinæ exeunt' abſque aliquo refeoffament' eiſdem Thom' & Thomaſ. juxta conditionem præd' fac', ſive per ipſum Thomam in vita ſua exact', poſt cujus mortem præd' Thomaſina cepit in virum præd' Will. Dean: Poſtmodumque iidem Will. Deane & Thomaſina petierunt a præfato Johanne & Rogero feoffamentum eidem Thomaſinæ de præd' tenementis juxta conditionem præd' fieri: Super quo iidem Johannes & Rogerus per quoddam ſcript' ſuum indentatum anno 14 R. 2. conceſſerunt & confirmaverunt præfatis Willielmo Deane & Thomaſinæ præd' tenementa cum pertinentiis habend' & tenend' eiſdem Willielmo & Thomaſinæ, ad totam vitam ipſius Thomaſinæ, remanere inde rectis hæredibus præd' Thom' ſecundum formam conditionis præd': ſuper quo Johannes Vyen & Mariotta uxor ejus, in jure ipſius Mariottæ, ut ſororis & hæredis præd' Thomæ ſupponend' prædict' feoffamentum prædict' Will. Deane & Thomaſinæ de tenemen' præd' in forma præd' factis fuiſſe contra formam conditionis præd' in tenementa illa intraverunt, & inde præd' Robertum French per cartam ſuam, &c. feoffaverunt, &c. virtute cujus idem Robertus in tenementa præd' intravit, & iidem Willielmus Deane & Thomaſina ipſum inde recenter amoverunt; Et ſi amotio illa diſſeiſina adjudicari debeat necne, dicunt quod ipſi omnino ignorant, & petunt diſcretionem Juſticiar', &c. And Judgment was given for the Plaintiff.

Out of this Record I obſerve four things; Firſt, that in the ſpecial verdict there is no mention made at what time the feoffment was made upon Condition, ſo that (if the time were material) it might appear how long time was paſt between the feoffment upon condition and the death of the feoffor; and that anſwereth the Objection which ſome make, That in the ſaid Caſe of Littleton that thoſe to whom the eſtate by the condition ſhould be made, died preſently, ſo that the feoffees had not convenient time to make the eſtate according to the condition; for if the Law ſhould be ſuch, then the time ſhould be material, and by conſequence the verdict which found no time was imperfect, upon which no judgment could be given. But the contrary appeareth by the ſaid Book of 2 H. 4. 5. for there it appeareth, that by the advice of all the Judges Judgment was given for the Plaintiff, by which it appeareth that the death of the feoffor at what time ſoever that it be, is no breach of the condition, if no requeſt were made by him, for ſo it appeareth by the ſaid Record.

Secondly, That the feoffees needed not make the eſtate either to the feoffor in his life, or unto any other after his death until requeſt made, becauſe that the ſecond husband and his wife made a requeſt, as it is expreſly found by the Aſſiſe.

Thirdly, That although by the Law the eſtate made to the wife for life ought to have been with-[82] out impeachment of Waſt, as it appeareth by Littleton fol. 82. and that the wife is covert, and it trencheth to her prejudice, yet for as much as it was the folly of the wife being ſole to take ſuch a husband who would accept of ſuch eſtate; and alſo becauſe the eſtate for life is the ſubſtance of the eſtate which ſhould be made by the feoffee, and the priviledge to be without impeachment of Waſt is a thing collateral, and only for the benefit of the husband and wife, and the omitting of it being for the benefit of the heir of the feoffor, it is not any breach of the condition to give him cauſe of reentry, for then the wife ſhould loſe her eſtate alſo, which ſhould not be reaſonable.

Fourthly, That although the moſt ſure way had been that the eſtate ſhould be made to the wife alone, yet the eſtate being made to the ſecond husband and the wife, for the life of the wife, it is no breach of the condition, for none is prejudiced thereby; And if the eſtate had been made only to the wife, the husband ſhould have had as much power and benefit as he now hath, and therefore it is all one in ſubſtance and effect.

Trin. 43 Eliz. which began Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. Rot. 144.

Bingham's Caſe adjudged in the Kings Bench.

IN an Ejectione firmæ between George Strode Eſquire Plaintiff, upon a demiſe made by William Albert againſt Sir Raphe Horſey Knight, and others Defendants; upon the general iſſue a ſpecial verdict was found to this effect; Robert Bingham the Grandfather, Robert Bingham the Father, Richard Bingham the ſon within age. Robert Bingham the Grandfather held the Mannor of Binghams Melcum by Knights [91] ſervice of Sir John Horſey Knight as of his Mannor of Horſeys Melcum. And anno 12 Eliz. levied a fine of the ſaid Mannor of Binghams Melcum unto the uſe of himſelf and Jane his wife, and of the heirs of the ſaid Robert the Grandfather: 20 Eliz. the ſaid Robert the Grandfather levied another fine of the ſaid Mannor of Binghams Melcum unto the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of Robert the Father (being his ſon and heir apparent) in tail, and for default of ſuch iſſue to the uſe of the right heirs of the Grandfather: Robert the Father 30 Eliz. died, Richard his ſon and heir then and yet within age, by which the remainder in tail deſcended to him. 31 Eliz. Sir John Horſey ſuffered a common recovery of his Mannor of Horſeys Melcum unto the uſe of himſelf and Dorothy his wife in tail, and after to the uſe of the Defendant Sir Raphe Horſey and Edyth his wife in tail, and after to the uſe of the right heirs of Sir John. 32 Eliz. Sir John and Dorothy his wife died without iſſue, Sir Raphe the Defendant entred into the Mnanor of Horſeys Melcum; 36 Eliz. Robert Bingham the Grandfather died, by which the reverſion in fee deſcended to Richard the ſon; 41 Eliz. Jane wife of Robert Bingham the father died, Richard Bingham within age entred into the ſaid Mannor of Binghams Melcum, and made a Leaſe of part of the demeans thereof to Albert by deed indented for 7 years, yeilding 40 l. rent per ann. who demiſed to the ſaid George Stroude who entred, upon whom Sir Raphe and the other Defendants entred, againſt whom the Plaintiff brought the Ejectione firmæ for part of the demeans of the ſaid Mannor of Binghams Melcum: And upon great deliberation and conference had with divers other Juſtices, Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe four Points were reſolved.

Firſt, when Robert Bingham the Grandfather 20 Eliz. levied a fine to the uſe of himſelf and Jane his wife for life, and after to the uſe of Robert the father in tail, and after to the uſe of the right heirs of the Grandfather, the Grandfather had a fee expectant upon the eſtate tail as a reverſion and not as a remainder. And therewith agreeth 32 H. 8. Br. Garde 93. 4 H. 6. tit. Done & Remainder 15. 28 H. 8. Dier 7. Bucknam's Caſe. And ſo it was adjudged Mich. 31 Eliz. in the Kings Bench between Fenwick and Mytford, where the Caſe was, That Anthony Mytford ſeiſed of land in fee, levied a fine thereof unto the uſe of Margaret Mytford for life, and after to the uſe of Jaſper Mytford in tail, and after to the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Anthony; and afterwards tenant in tail died without iſſue, Anthony in the life of Margaret made a leaſe to one Robert Holman for a 1000 years and died, and if this leaſe were good or not againſt the heir was the Queſtion. And it was adjudged that the leaſe was good, for Anthony had it as a reverſion. And ſo was it reſolved in the like Caſe by all the Judges of England in the Caſe of the Earl of Bedford in the Court of Wards.

Secondly, it was reſolved, That Sir Raphe Horſey ſhall not have the Wardſhip of the land, becauſe a reverſion in fee is expectant upon it, and the reverſion is immediately holden of the Lord and not the eſtate tail: But it was objected, that in this Caſe by the death of Robert the grandfather, the reverſion in fee deſcended to Richard, who is alſo the heir of the donee in tail, and the land is holden by Knights ſervice, and ought to be in Ward to ſome, or otherwiſe many Lords may be defeated of the Wardſhip of lands holden of them: and Richard cannot hold the eſtate tail of himſelf, and therefore Sir Raphe Horſey in this Caſe ſhall have the Warſhip of the land. As if tenant by Knights ſervice maketh a gift in tail, and afterwards releaſeth to the donee and his heirs, now the donee hath the eſtate tail, and the reverſion expectant; in this Caſe if the donee dieth, his iſſue within age, the Lord ſhall have the Wardſhip of the body and of the land: And in proof thereof the Book in 38 E. 3. 7. was cited, where in a Writ of Ward of the land and of the heir of R. C. the Defendant pleaded that R. C. levied a fine to the Defendant, come ceo, &c who granted and rendred the land to him in tail, ſaving the reverſion to the Defendant, and ſo R. C. the donee held of him; To which the Plaintiff replied, That the Defendant releaſed to R. C. all his right, and ſo R. C. became his tenant; To which the Defendant by way of rejoynder ſaid, That he did not releaſe, upon which they were at iſſue: And it was held no good iſſue, for which he ſaid he did not releaſe but continued his eſtate all times in tail by force of the fine, and thereupon iſſue was taken; and upon that it was inferred, that for as much as the Writ of Ward was brought as well for the land as for the heir, that the replication ſhall not be good, if not that the Lord have the Wardſhip of the land in the ſame Caſe: But the Court upon conſideration of the ſaid Book gave no great regard to it, as well becauſe the ſaid point as to the Wardſhip of the land was not moved in the Caſe, as becauſe it appeareth by the joyning of the iſſue that it was pretended that by the releaſe the eſtate tail was extinct, for the iſſue is, whether he continued his eſtate tail by force of the fine, and that without queſtion he did, although the releaſe were made. Note Reader, if the ſaid Book were agreed to be Law, yet it is not to be likened to the Caſe at Bar, for when the donor doth releaſe to the donee in tail, the ſame doth enure by increaſing of his eſtate. And therefore if the Law ſhall be, that the Lord in the ſame Caſe ſhall have the Wardſhip of the heir and land of the donee, for as much as [92]

the

the heir claimeth both the eſtates by deſcent from one and the ſame anceſtor: Yet in the Caſe at the Bar, when the donee hath an eſtate tail by deſcent from his father, and the reverſion as heir to his grandfather; and ſo two diſtinct eſtates deſcend to him from two ſeveral anceſtors, the land ſhall not be in Ward to the Lord, for the father held the eſtate in tail of the grandfather, and the grandfather his reverſion of the Lord. But it was holden by the whole Court, that if tenant in tail be with the reverſion expectant to him and his heirs of land holden by Knights ſervice of a common perſon, and afterwards he dieth his heir within age, he ſhall be in Ward for his body, but the Lord ſhall not have the Wardſhip of the land, for the Wardſhip is holden immediately of him, and not the eſtate tail. And if he grant over the reverſion, he ſhall hold the eſtate tail of his grantee, and although that the Seigniory of the eſtate tail is ſuſpended, yet the donee hath two diſtinct eſtates in him, that is to ſay, the eſtate tail
[b] and the reverſion in fee; and the reverſion is as a Meſnalty betwixt the Lord and the donee, and it cannot be ſaid, that in this and other the like Caſes the Lord may be defeated of the Wardſhip of the land, for as much as the Law doth not give in ſuch Caſes any Wardſhip of the land to the Lord, and the Law doth wrong to no man. But if it were admitted that the tenure between the donee and him in the reverſion, by unity were determined, yet nothing ſhall be holden of the Lord but the reverſion, and in ſome Caſe the donee in tail ſhall hold of no body; for where the Tenant of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury made a gift in tail, the remainder to the King in fee, the donee held of no body, as it was holden 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. Dier 154.

Thirdly, it was reſolved, that if the Caſe were admitted that Robert the grandfather was Tenant for life, the remainder to Robert the father in tail, and Robert the father had iſſue Richard within age and died, and afterward Sir John Horſey the Lord conveyed the Seigniory to Sir Raphe Sadler the Defendant, and afterwards Robert the grandfather died, that Raphe the Defendant ſhall not have the Wardſhip of Richard, becauſe Robert the father held not of him (nor any of his anceſtors whoſe heir he is) the day of his death, nor was the land within the fee or Seigniory of Sir Raphe the Defendant or any of his anceſtors whoſe heir he is, at the time of the death of Robert the ſon; and a man ſhall never have the Wardſhip of the heir, when the land was not in his fee or Seigniory, or of ſome of his anceſtors at the time of the death of the Tenant, and the ſame is proved by the words of the Writ of Ward, that is to ſay, Præcipe quod reddat cuſtodiam terræ & hæredis C, quæ ad ipſum pertinet, eo quod C. terram illam de eo tenuit die quo obiit. And of ſuch effect are the words of the Writs of Diem clauſit extremum, and Mandamus: And although that during the life of the Tenant for life, the heir of him in the remainder ſhall not be in Ward, becauſe the Tenant for life is Tenant to the Lord paramont, and the Lord ſhall not have the Wardſhip ſo long as he hath a Tenant for life; yet the death of the Tenant for life is not the cauſe of the Wardſhip, but is a removal of the impediment for which for the time he was not in Ward: As it was holden Paſch. 39 Eliz. in the Common Pleas in a Writ of Waſt betwixt Paget and Cary, That if there be Tenant for life, the remainder for life, the remainder in fee, and the Tenant for life committeth Waſt, and afterwards he in the remainder for life dieth, now he in the remainder in fee ſhall have an Action of Waſt, for the mean eſtate for life which was the impediment is removed. Alſo it was ſaid, when to the perfection of a thing two accidents are requiſite, and one happeneth in the time of one, and [61] the other in the time of another, in ſuch Caſe neither the one nor the other ſhall take benefit of it, becauſe that both do not happen in the time of any of them, and both are requiſite to the conſummation of the thing. As if Lord and Tenant be by certain rent, and the Tenant ceaſeth for one year, and then the Lord granteth over his Seigniory, and then the Tenant ceaſeth for another year, in this Caſe none of them ſhall take benefit of this ceſſer, quod fuit conceſſum.

And a Caſe was adjudged in this Court, Trinit. 25. Eliz. in Lacy's Caſe, That whereas Lacy ſtrook Peacock and gave him a mortal wound upon the Sea, of which Peacock did at Scarborough in the County of York, and Lacy was diſcharged of it, for thoſe of the County of York could not enquire of his death, without enquiry of the ſtroke, and of the blow they could not enquire becauſe it was not done within any County: and thoſe of the Admiralty could not as a felony enquire of the ſtroke, without enquiry of the death, and they could not enquire of the death becauſe it was not infra corpus comitatus; And it was ſaid, when divers accidents are requiſite to the conſummation of a thing, the Law in many Caſes will rather reſpect the original cauſe then any other. As 6 E. 3. 41. if a man preſent one to a Church in the time of War, and upon it the preſentee is admitted and inſtituted in the time of Peace, the Law giveth regard to the original act, that is to ſay, the preſentment, and all that followeth thereupon, although it were in time of Peace, ſhall be avoided: And now upon the whole matter this uſurpation ſhall be conſtrued to be in time of War, and ſhall not put the right Patron out of poſſeſſion. And upon the ſame reaſon was Shelley's Caſe adjudged in this Court. And it appeareth alſo by the Caſe of Dower in 4 H. 8. and cited in 5 Eliz. Dier 224. if the husband levieth a fine with Proclamations and dieth, and five years paſs after his death, the wife is barred of her Dower againſt the opinion in Plow. Comm. 373. for although to the conſummation of Dower three things are requiſite, that is to ſay marriage, ſeiſin, and the death of the husband; and although that at the time of the fine levied, his title was not conſummate, yet the Law reſpecteth the firſt and original cauſes, ſcil. marriage and ſeiſin. So in the Caſe at Bar, it may be ſaid, that the Law ſhall look back to the death of him in the remainder, and the deſcent from him to one within age which is the original cauſe of the Wardſhip, then unto the death of the Tenant for life who is but the cauſa ſine qua non, and rather a removal of the impediment as hath [b] been ſaid then a cauſe. But it was reſolved, as it hath been ſaid, that neither the one nor other for the cauſe aforeſaid in this Caſe ſhall have the Wardſhip.

And it was ſaid, that if there be Tenant for life, the remainder in fee to a ſtranger of a Seigniory, and Tenant for life, the remainder in fee of the Tenancy holden by Knights ſervice, and he in the remainder in fee of the Tenancy dieth his heir within age, and afterwards the Tenant for life of the Seigniory dieth, he in the remainder in fee of the Seigniory ſhall have the Wardſhip, becauſe that th land at the time of the death of the Tenant in remainder was in his fee and Seigniory: So for the ſame reaſon, if there be Tenant for life, the remainder in fee of lands holden as above, and the Lord granteth his Seigniory for life, and afterwards he in the remainder in fee dieth his heir within age, and afterwards the grantee for life of the Seigniory dieth, and then the Tenant for life dieth, he in the reverſion of the Seigniory ſhall have the Wardſhip: So if he in the remainder dieth, his heir within age as above is ſaid, and afterwards the Lord dieth, and then the Tenant for life dieth, the heir of the Lord in this Caſe ſhall have the Wardſhip, for an Act in Law ſhall not prejudice any one; and his Executor cannot have it, for it was but a Chattel in the Teſtator. And of ſuch opinion as to this third Point in the principal Caſe were Sir Edward Anderſon, and Walmeſley Juſtices of the Common Pleas, upon conference with them as the Lord Popham reported.

lane

Fourthly, it was reſolved, That Sir Raphe the Defendant ſhall not have two parts of the lands by the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. For although that Robert the grandfather hath limited the uſe to Robert the father which is within the ſaid Statutes, yet when Robert the ſon dieth in the life of the grandfather, the ſaid Statutes do not extend further, for the heir of the father who is in by deſcent ſhall be in Ward by the Common Law, and not by the ſaid Statutes. And if the Statute ſhall extend to the ſon and heir of him in the remainder, pari ratione it ſhall extend to all the heirs of him in the remainder in infinitum. As if a common perſon be Lord and Tenant by Knights ſervice, and the Tenant maketh a gift in tail to his younger ſon and dieth, and the reverſion deſcendeth to the eldeſt, in this Caſe hac vice the Lord ſhall have the Wardſhip of two parts of the land of the donee: But if the donee dieth, now the eldeſt, ſon having the reverſion, ſhall have the Wardſhip of the heir of the donee, and the Statutes do not extend but only to the child firſt advanced if he overlive the father, and be then owner of the land. For if the father conveyeth the land to the uſe of another of his ſons, and the ſon ſo advanced, alieneth or maketh any eſtate of the land bona fide in the life of the father, the King or the Lord of whom the land is holden ſhall not have the Wardſhip by force of the ſaid Statutes; for the Statutes are expounded to give two parts to the King or Lord when the advancement continueth in the perſon advanced without alteration by act in Law as by deſcent, or by act of the party as by conveyance.

The ſame Law is, when land is conveyed for the advancement of the Tenants wife, or for payment of his debts, if after the land be aliened bona fide before the death of the Tenant, the King nor other Lord ſhall have the Wardſhip. And ſo was the Statute of Marlebridge Cap. 6. de his quem qui primogenit' feoffare ſolent, &c. expounded: Fo if the father had enfeoffed his ſon, yet if the ſon in his fathers life had aliened bona fide, it was out of the remedy of that Statute, and in ſuch Caſe the Lord ſhall not have the Wardſhip, as appeareth by 33 H. 6. 16. in Andrew Woodcocks Caſe. So in the ſame Caſe if the ſon had died in the life of the father: But otherwiſe it is, if the conveyance made by the ſon be after the death of the Tenant, for then the Lord had his own cauſe of Wardſhip, and therefore the alienation after ſhall not take away his benefit from him. [94]

Alſo for another reaſon Sir Raphe cannot take benefit of the conveyance to the uſe of the ſon, becauſe Robert the father hath conveyed the land to the uſe of his wife for her life who ſurvived him, and ſo the Statute once ſatisfied. Vid. 14 Eliz. Dier 308. Accord. And ſo it was reſolved in the Caſe of one Northcote Paſch. 32 Eliz. in the Court of Wards, that if the King by force of the Acts be intituled to have two parts of the land conveyed to one ſon in tail after his death without iſſue, he ſhall not have the benefit of the Statute again againſt any ſon in remainder: And ſo the doubt in Shawes Caſe, 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Dier 130. is adjudged and reſolved. The Attorney General, John Doderidge, and John Strode and others were of Councel with the Plaintiff: And Laurence Tanfield, Laurence Hide and others with the Defendant.

P THE

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke Kt. &c.

PART III.

Trin. 25 Eliz. between the Queen and the Marquess of Winchester, which began Mich. 21 & 22 Eliz.

The Marquess of Winchester's Case.

[1] THE Queen brought a Writ of Error against the Marquess of Winchester, the effect of the writ of Error was, That John Horne and others by their deed bearing date the 10 day of July, an. 6 H. 8. gave to Lionel Norreis Esquire, and to one Anne Milles. the Manor of Marleston with the appurtenance in Marleston in the County of Berk. To have and to hold to the said Lionel and Anne, and to the heirs of the body of the said Lionel, and for default of such issue the remainder to Henry Norreis and to the heirs males of his body: And that Term. Pasch. 19 H. 8. the Bishop of Winchester and divers others did recover (in the life of the said Anne) the said Manor of Marleston in Marleston, against the said Lionel in a Writ of Entry in the Post, in which the said Lionel did vouch one Thomas Chappian then the common vouchee, and Judgment was given and execution had according to the usual form of common Recoveries: And afterwards the said Henry Norreis having issue Henry now Lord Norreis of Ricote (who is now living) Pasch. 28. was attainted of high Treason; and afterwards the 22 day of May in the same year was executed. And afterwards at a Parliament holden the 18 day of June in the same year it was enacted, That the said [b] Henry Norreis the father for divers Treasons by him done, should forfeit to the said King H. 8. his Heirs and Successors, all such Mannors, Messuages, Lands, Tenements, Rents, Reversions, Remainders, Uses, Possessions, Offices, Rights, Conditions, and all other his Hereditaments which he or any other person to his use then had or ought to have of any estate of Inheritance in fee simple, fee tail, in use or in possession the day of his Treasons committed or at any time after: And afterwards the said Anne died, and afterwards the said Lionel died without issue of his body; and thereupon the Queen brought a Writ of Error against the Marquess of Winchester the heir of the survivor of the Recoverors; And the Error which was assigned was, because that the Original Writ of Entry in the Post failed, and the Record which was removed out of the Common Pleas of the Mannor of Marleston with the appurtenances was general, and not restrained to any Town. And the said Marquess in bar of the said Writ of Error pleaded, That the Queen that now is (if she had any right to any Writ of Error in the Case aforesaid) by her Letters Patents bearing date in the 14 year of her reign, of her special grace, certain knowledge, and meer motion did give, grant, and restore for her and her Successors to the said Henry Lord Norreis, the said Mannor with appurtenances; and also all her right, estate, title, claim, interest and demand in the said Mannor, To have and to hold to him and his heirs. And upon this Plea Popham the Queens Attorney did demur in Law, And this Case was argued by Popham the Queens Attorney, and Egerton the Queens Sollicitor in maintenance of the Writ of Error; and by Ployden and Coke for the Defendant. And the Defendants Councel took five Exceptions to the Writ of Error.

1. That the Writ of Error was brought to reverse a Judgment for all the Mannor, where it should be but of a moity, for it appeareth by the Writ that the Recovery was void for a moity, because that Anne Miller the other joyntenant was not named with Lionel in the writ, by which one moity was forfeited to the Queen by his Attainder, the which the Queen by her Letters Patents hath granted over to the said said Lord Norreis, and so for as much as the Register hath one form of writ for the whole, and another form for the moity, three parts, &c. this writ brought of the whole, where it should be brought of the moity ought to be abated. And principally as it was said by one of the Defendants Councel, because it cometh of the Plaintiffs own shewing, and not by the shewing of the other side, nor by the Enquest of the Jury as in 36 H. 6. 27. it is agreed, that in maintenance if it appear by the shewing of the party himself, that the maintenance be several, the writ shall abate, otherwise if it be found by verdict, Vid. 10 E. 4. 8. 11 H. 7. 6. 11 Ass. 9. 19 Ass. 14. 22 Ass. 86.

The second Exception was, because it was not shewed that Henry Norreis to whom the remainder was entailed had the remainder at the time of the recovery, for the gift in tail was made in 6 H. 8. and the recovery was in 19 H. 8. and no continuance of estate, either of the estate tail in possession, or in remainder is alledged; and that the said estates shall not be intended to continue, the Book in 7 H. 7. 3. Stradling's Case, fol. 199. & 10 H. 7. 28. in Hewbade's Avowry were cited. [2]

The third Exception was, because that the Record of the said recovery was of the Mannor of Marleston cum pertimentiis, and the writ of Error was to remove a recovery of the Mannor of Marleston in Marleston cum pertimentiis, and so the true Record was not removed by the writ of Error, as the like Case is agreed in 9 H. 6. 1. where it is said, that in all Cases where a man is to execute a Record, or to defeat a Record, there no variance ought to be between the Writ and the Record, and with that agree the Books in 7 Ass. 5. & 26 Ass. 31.

The fourth Exception was because the Act of 28 H. 8. upon which the writ of Error was founded, gave to the King all the Mannors, &c. which the said Henry Norreis then before attainted had the day of his Treason committed, or at any time after; and it is not shewed when the Treasons were committed, nor that then he had any thing in the Mannor, which ought to have been averred precisely, as it is agreed in Nichol's Case in Plow. Comm.

The last Exception was because, that although all the rights, &c. hereditaments, &c. which the said Henry Norreis had, &c. were given to the King, yet it doth not appear without Office, whether he had any right to this Mannor: And note, that although that after the said Henry Norreis was executed, so as by reason of his attainder he died without heir, yet this writ of Error cannot be in the King without office, for by the Common Law such hereditament as a writ of Error shall not be forfeited, nor can escheat, and therefore this Case is out of the reason of the Book in 19 H. 7. for there the land escheated, and a freehold cannot be in suspense. But the Court did not deliver any opinion touching any of these Exceptions to the writ of Error, but only that it was unanimously agreed, that by this writ of Error the Record of the Recovery was removed into the Kings Bench; for Judgment was given against the Queen upon the substance of the matter. And in this Case two Points were resolved by Sir Christopher Wray chief Justice, and Sir Thomas Gawdie Knight, and the whole Court of Kings Bench.

First, that this writ of Error was not given to the King by any of the words of the said Act of 28 H. 8. for three causes, First, because that in this Case, the Terre-tenant is in by title, and the entry of the person attaint is not congeable; and therfore this right of Action if he had any was not given to the King by any of the said words. So if the said Henry Norreis the father had right of Formedon in the descender after discontinuance made by his father; or if Henry the father had been disseised, and the disseisor had died seised before the said Act, such right of Action was not given to the King by any of the said words; but if the Act had been made after the disseisin and before the descent, such right had been given to the King by the Act. For the Justices said, That such right for which the party had not any remedy but by action only to recover the land is a thing which consisteth only in privity, which cannot escheat, nor be forfeited by the Common Law, 3 R. 2. Entre congeable 38. 32 H. 6. 27. 2 H. 4. 8. 7 H. 4. 6. & 17. 7 H. 5, 9. 21 E. 3. 47. a. 27 Ass. 32. 49 E. 3. 13. 49 Ass. 4. F. N. B. 144. Stamford 188. So that by the general words of an Act of Attainder of all rights, &c. and hereditaments, &c. (although that in truth the party attainted had a right which also is an hereditament,) shall not be given to the King; for that shall because of great vexation and inconvenience, that estates of purchasors and others after many descents and long possession shall be impeached at the Kings suit by such general words against the reason and rule of the Common Law, where all the words may by reasonable intendment be well satisfied, scil. such rights, &c. which may lawfully escheat, or be forfeited. And it was observed by the Justices, That by no Act of Attainder that ever hath been made, Actions were given, but rights of Entries, &c. Also the Statutes of 27 H. 8. & 31 H. 8. of Monasteries, and the Statute of 1 E. 6. of Chauntries, give to the King all rights, entries, &c. which give not Actions to the King. And therefore it was agreed by the Court, That a right of Action after discontinuance, descent, &c. where the entry was not lawful, was not given to the King by the general words of any of the said Acts. So it was said, have the said Statutes always been expounded. The same construction hath been made upon the Statutes of 33 H. 8. cap. 28. by which it is enacted, That the Kings Majesty, his Heirs and Successors shall have as much benefit and advantage of such attainders of Treasons, as well of uses, rights, entries, conditions, as possessions, reversions, remainders, and all other things, as if it had been done and declared by Parliament. That a right which consisteth only in Action where the entry is taken away, is not given to the King by that Act. [b]

It was also agreed by them, That before this Act of 33 H. 8. by the general words of any Act of Attainder of all hereditaments, a Condition was not given to the King; and therefore by the same Act by express words, conditions are given to the King, and yet without question a condition is an hereditament. Also although that an use were an hereditament (for there shall be a possessio fratris of it) yet by the general words of all hereditaments, an use was not given to the King by any Act of Attainder, but the condition, nor the use were things forfeitable by the Common Law; and therefore by the general words of all hereditaments, they were not given to the King by any Act of Attainder.

Note a diverſity between Inheritance and Chattels; for as it hath been ſaid, a right of Action concerning inheritance is not forfeit by Attainder, but Obligations, Statutes, Recognizances, &c. and other ſuch things in Action are forfeited to the King by Attainder or Outlawry. And it was agreed by the whole Court, That if Lionel had made a feoffment in fee without warranty, that had been a diſcontinuance for a moity, for by the feoffment the Joynture was ſevered. And note, that in this Caſe at Bar, conditions and uſes are given by expreſs words, for the makers of the Act know, that they would not be given by general words of hereditaments.

The ſecond Reſolution was, That in this Caſe Henry Norreis had not any right in the moity of the ſaid Mannor, for although the recovery were erroneous for want of an original (for it was agreed it was not void, but voidable by Error) that notwithſtanding as long as the recovery ſtood in its force, he in the remainder had not any right to the remainder in reſpect of the intended recompence, but till the recovery be reverſed by Writ of Error, the remainder is barred for one moity, and he in the remainder hath not any right unto it. And therefore if Tenant in tail ſuffer a common recovery erroneouſly, and afterwards diſſeiſeth the recoveror and dieth, his iſſue ſhall not be remitted, for as long as the recovery remains in its force, the eſtate tail is barred, quod fuit conceſſum per totam Curiam. And it was ſaid by one of the Defendants Councel, that neither Action without right nor right without Action with a decent, &c. ſhall make a remitter, the firſt is apparent and reſolved by the Court in the Caſe at Barr. As to the ſecond it was ſaid, That a man ſhall never be remitted, but where if the right and poſſeſſion were in ſeveral perſons, he who had the right might have an action to recover the poſſeſſion. And that appeareth by Littleton 147. for he ſaith, That one of the principal cauſes for which the eſtate in tail ſhall be remitted is, becauſe there is no perſon againſt whom he can bring his Writ of Formedon, and for this [b] cauſe the Law ſhall adjudge him in his remitter in ſuch plight as if he had lawfully recovered the land againſt another, 5 H. 7. 38. A man ſhall not be remitted to an advowſon appendant (although he hath right to it) before he hath recontinued the Mannor to which, &c. becauſe that before he hath recovered the Mannor, he hath not an action to recover the advowſon. So if a man purchaſe an advowſon in fee, and ſuffereth an uſurpation, and ſix months to paſs, now he hath right, but for as much as he hath not remedy for it, he ſhall never be remitted to it, although the advowſon be caſt upon him either by deſcent, or any other act in Law, & ſic de ſimilibus. And it was reſolved by the Court, that in as much as Henry had no right, a fortiori, this writ of Error being a bare action which conſiſteth more in privity then an action which is accompanied with a right, is not given to the King by the general words of the Act. It is adjudged in Paſch. 3 E. 3. 74. that whereas all the poſſeſſion of the Templers were by Act of Parliament anno 17 E. 2. given and tranſlated to the Hoſpitlers, to hold them in the ſame manner as the Templers held them, yet they had not by the ſaid general words a Rectory which was appropriate to the Templers, for that was an inheritance inſeparable in privity annexed to them. So it is holden in 35 H. 6. 56. that upon the ſaid words of the ſaid Act, To hold them as the Templers held, they ſhall not hold by Frankalmoigne, becauſe that that tenure conſiſteth only in privity, and for that cauſe without ſpecial words, ſhall not be againſt the rule and reaſon of the Common Law created. The ſame Law of a Writ of Error. And although the ſaid Anne Milles was joyntly ſeiſed with the ſaid Lionel for her life, ſo that as well Lionel as the vouchee might have abated the Writ, yet when the vouchee entreth generally into the warranty, and thereby admitteth the writ good, and Lionel recovereth in value againſt the vouchee who entreth according to the eſtate of him who voucheth with the remainder over: For this cauſe it was reſolved, that for one moity the recovery ſhall be a bar to the eſtate tail, and to the remainder alſo, becauſe that by the recovery againſt Lionel the Joynture was ſevered. And it was ſaid, That common recoveries by a benign interpretation of the Law ought to be maintained, becauſe they are the common aſſurances of the land. But it was agreed, that for the other moity whereof Anne Milles was Tenant for life, the recovery was not any bar either to the eſtate tail which Lionel had expectant upon the eſtate of Anne Milles, or to the remainder of Henry, becauſe that for this moity Lionel was not Tenant to the Præcipe; but the recovery had his operation againſt him by eſtoppel and concluſion, which ſhall not bind the iſſue in tail who claimeth per formam doni.

The third cauſe was becauſe that Henry at the time of his attainder was not entituled to have any writ of Error. And as to that it was agreed, that he who had the remainder expectant upon the eſtate tail ſhall have a Writ of Error upon a Judgment given againſt Tenant in tail, although there were no ſuch remainder at the Common Law; for when the Statute of Donis conditionalibus doth enable the donor to limit a remainder upon an eſtate tail, all actions which the Common Law gave to privies in eſtate are by the ſame act as incidents tacite given alſo, according to the rule of the Common Law; and therefore as thoſe in reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate for life had a Writ of Error by [4] the Common Law upon a Judgment given againſt Tenant for life, although they were not made parties, by aid preyer, voucher, or receit: So after the Statute of Donis, &c. ſhall he have who hath a reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate tail. 2. It was agreed by them, that in none of the ſaid Caſes he in the reverſion who was not party to the firſt record by voucher, &c. ſhould have any Writ of Error by the Common Law till after the particular eſtate determined, for then he in the reverſion or remainder ought to have the land in poſſeſſion, and take the profits; but if he in the reverſion or remainder be made a party to the Record by aid preyer, receit, or voucher, then he ſhall have a writ of Error preſently during the life of the Tenant for life, in reſpect that he was party to the record, Vide 4 Aſſ. 7. 17. Aſſ. 24. 18 E. 3. 25. 30 E. 3. Error 2. 32 E. 3. Error 73. 43 Aſſ. 41 8 H. 4. 4. 21 H. 6. 29. 22 E. 4. 31 F.N.B. 21. c. 99. e. And by the ſaid differences you may reconcile all the ſaid Books and many other, betwixt which, to ſome who obſerve not the ſaid diſtinctions, ſeemeth to be contrariety; but when erroneous Judgment was given againſt Tenant for life, by that his reverſion or remainder was deveſted, ſo that he could not grant or tranſfer it by any means to another. And it was doubted he could not punish Waſt after the recovery, and divers other miſchiefs, and yet he had no remedy to reverſe it during the life of the Tenant for life, 45 E. 3. 21. b. 8 H. 6. 13. b. F. N. B. for Waſt. For the remedy of which miſchiefs the Statute of 9 K. 2. cap. 3. was made, by which it is provided, That if tenant for life, tenant in Dower, tenant by the Curteſie, or tenant in tail after poſſibility of iſſue extinct loſe in a Præcipe, &c. that he in the reverſion his heirs or ſucceſſors ſhall have an Attaint or a Writ of Error, as well in the life of ſuch tenants as after their deaths, and that the tenant for life if the Judgment be reverſed ſhall be reſtored to the poſſeſſion of the tenements ſo loſt with the profits in the mean time, &c. Provided always, that if the party ſuing will alledge that the tenant for life was of covin and aſſent with the demandant who recovered, that ſuch tenements ſhould be loſt, that then although ſuch tenants be living, yet reſtitution ſhall be made to the party ſuing for the poſſeſſion with the mean profits, &c. upon which Act two Points were reſolved by the Court.

not

Firſt, that although the Statute ſpeaketh only of reverſions, yet remainders are taken to be within the purview thereof.

Secondly, that a reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate tail is out of the words, and alſo out of the meaning of the ſaid Act. For in as much as the makers of the Act by ſpecial words have provided remedy for thoſe in reverſion expectant upon eſtates for life, or in Dower, or by the Curteſie, or in tail after poſſibility of iſſue extinct, by this preciſe numbring of thoſe four particular eſtates for life (Vide 33 H. 6. 22. the like point in Caſe of receit) their meaning appeareth to exclude reverſion and remainder expectant upon eſtate tail to have a writ of Error during the continuance of ſuch eſtate, which by ſpecialty may continue for ever. Note Reader, upon the Proviſo of the ſaid Act, that if tenant for life ſuffer a recovery in a Præcipe by covin and aſſent, if he in the reverſion or remainder reverſe the recovery, he ſhall be reſtored to the poſſeſſion and mean profits: Unde colligo, that the Parliament did adjudge ſuch recovery by covin and aſſent to be a forfeiture. For otherwiſe it ſhall be hard to reſtore him not only to the poſſeſſion, but alſo to the mean profits; and with that agree the Books in 5 Aſſ. 3. 14 E. 3. Receit 135. 22 Aſſ. 31. 9 H. 5. 14. Now for as much as it appeareth in the Caſe at Bar, that Lionel ſurvived Henry who was in remainder, it was reſolved, that Henry had but a poſſibility to have a writ of Error, that is to ſay, If Lionel had died without iſſue in the life of Henry, and becauſe Lionel ſurviveth him, this poſſibility was deſtroyed. Alſo no word of the ſaid Act doth extend to give a poſſibility to the King. Secondly, admitting in this Caſe the writ of Error had been given to the Queen, yet it was reſolved, that by the general grant of the ſaid Manor of Marleſton, and of all her intereſt, claim, and demand in it, although that it were de gratia ſpeciali, & ex certa ſcientiâ, & mero motu; that the writ of Error did not paſs, becauſe if the King may grant it, it ſhall be by his prerogative, for no common perſon can do it, and therefore it ought to be granted by expreſs words. And it was ſaid, it was adjudged in Cromers Caſe 8 Eliz. that whereas by the attainder of a diſſeiſee, a right of certain land eſcheated and was forfeited to the Queen, and after the death of the diſſeiſee, the Queen by her Letters Patents de gratia ſpeciali, ex certa ſcientiâ, & mero motu, granted all the lands, tenements, rights, and hereditaments which ſhe had by the attainder of the diſſeiſee, that in that Caſe ſuch a bare right ſhould not paſs by the ſaid general words of the King; but if it may be granted at all, it ought to be granted with a ſpecial recital by expreſs and ſpecial words; which Caſe was affirmed to be good Law by the whole Court. And therewith agreeth 33 H. 8. Br. Choſe in Action 14. If an Abbot before the diſſolution was diſſeiſed, and the King after the diſſolution granteth over the land by general words, the right ſhall not paſs. And Sir Chriſtopher Wray ſaid, that he had conferred with the Lord Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron of the Exchequer, and with divers other Juſtices, and they were all of their opinion. And afterwards for as much as it appeared to the Court, that the ſaid common recovery was erroneous for want of an original; for that cauſe a ſpecial Judgment was entred, that is to ſay, becauſe upon the matter no writ of Error in this Caſe was given to the Queen, Ideo domina Regina nihil capiat per breve.

Note Reader, for the ſaid payment of [illegible] mmon Recovery there was a Caſe in the Common Pleas, Trin. 27 Eliz. Rot. 276. between Owen and Morgan, and the Caſe was ſuch; George Owen brought a Scire facias againſt Edward Morgan to execute a remainder of certain lands limited to him by fine, and ſhewed, That Rice Owen was ſeiſed of the ſaid land in fee, and levied a fine thereof to Richard Owen and Thomas Momington, and to the heirs of Richard, who granted and rendred the ſame to Rice and Lettice his wife (who was not party to the writ or conuſans) and to the heirs of the body of the ſaid Rice, and Lettice died, and afterward Rice died without iſſue, for which he prayed to have execution. The Defendant pleaded in bar a common Recovery had againſt the ſaid Rice as tenant with voucher over of the common vouchee, which recovery was to the uſe of the Defendant and his heirs, and that Rice ſurvived Lettice: The Plaintiff replied and ſaid, That the ſaid Lettice was alive at the time of the ſaid Recovery, upon which the Defendant did demur in Law. And it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved.

1. Although that Lettice was not party neither to the Writ nor to the Conuſans, and although it appeareth in the ſame Record that ſhe was a ſtranger and not party; yet the grant and render by fine to her was not void but voidable by Error.

2. That this Recovery againſt the husband only ſhould not bind the remainder, for between husband and wife there are no moities, and the husband hath not power to ſever the Joynture, nor to diſpoſe of any part of the land, and he during the wives life is not ſeiſed by force of the tail, and by no act that he can do, can he execute it for any part, ſo that the Præcipe being brought againſt him alone, the recompence cannot for any part enure to the eſtate tail, or to the remainder, for to the whole eſtate it cannot enure, becauſe the wife hath a joynt eſtate with him in poſſeſſion at the time of the Recovery who was not party to it, and for a moity it cannot be good, for there are no moities between husband and wife, and the eſtate of him in the remainder doth depend upon the entire eſtate made to the husband band and wife, and not upon any part made to the husband alone, or which resteth in the dispose of the husband for any part; and therefore the recompence recovered only by the husband in this Case cannot enure to him who hath the remainder, which dependeth upon a joynt and undivided estate made to the husband and wife, and the joyntenancy between the husband and wife cannot be severed by the judgment given against the husband, and although the husband hath the sole estate of inheritance, yet because by no possibility it can be executed, nor the joynture severed during the wives life, for this cause it is as much as if the husband had had a remainder in tail expectant upon an estate for life, in which Case a common recovery had against him shall not bind, because he was not tenant to the Præcipe, nor seised by force of the tail, but the recovery as to the estate of the husband took his effect by estoppel and conclusion: And therewith agreeth 12 E. 4. 14. that against a common Recovery against the ancestor in tail, the issue may say, That the ancestor was not tenant tempore brevis.

Also if tenant in tail do discontinue the tail, and take back an estate to himself, and afterwards a writ of Right is brought against him, and he vouch the common vouchee, and Judgment be given accordingly, in this Case it is adjudged, scil. in 12 E. 4. 19. 14 E. 4. 1. that the issue in tail shall not be barred for the first intail, because that his father was not at the time of the Recovery seised by force of that intail, in lieu whereof recompence can enure: So if lands be given to the husband and wife, and the heirs of their two bodies begotten, and the husband alone suffereth a common Recovery, it shall not bind the estate tail causa qua supra. And although that the husband who suffered the common Recovery in the principal Case of Morgan and Owen survived the wife, it is not material, for the Law shall adjudge upon the Case, as it was at the time of the Recovery.

Pasch. 44 Eliz. in the Court of Wards, upon the Point of common Recovery, between Thomas Cuppledike the Queens Ward, Plaintiff, and Edward Cuppledike Defendant. The Case was such;

Cuppledike's Case.

[6] Francis Cuppledike and Elizabeth his wife were seised of the Mannor of Harrington in the County of Lincoln, to them and to the heirs males of the body of Francis, the remainder to Thomas Cuppledike, father of Thomas Cuppledike the now Ward to the Queen in tail, with a remainder over in tail, the reversion to Francis and his heirs: Francis levied a fine, Oct. Mich. 36 & 37 Eliz. to Thomas Seaton, Robert Becket, and to the heirs of Thomas, unto the use of them and their heirs: Hill. 37 Eliz. Curtise and Dudley by writ of Entry in the Post recovered against Seaton and Becket the said Mannor, who vouched Francis, who vouched over the common vouchee, and Judgment and seisin had accordingly, the said Elizabeth then being alive, which recovery was to the use of Francis for life, and after to the use of Elizabeth for life, and after to the use of the said Francis and his heirs: Francis by his Will in writing devised the said Mannor to the said Edward Cuppledike, and died without issue male: And now the Question was, If by this common Recovery the remainder in tail were barred or not, for as much as the wife who had an estate with Francis was not vouched. And after argument before the two chief Justices Popham and Anderson, Pepis Surveyor, and Herbert Attorney of the Court of Wards, it was resolved, that this Recovery should bind the remainder, for here was a lawful tenant to the Præcipe; and although that Francis who had the estate tail be only vouched and not Elizabeth who had joynt estate with him, yet Francis coming in as vouchee, he comes in in privity of the estate tail, and not of any other estate, and the recovery in value gave recompence to the tail which Francis had, and to the remainders over: So it was holden. If A. be tenant in tail, the remainder to B. in tail, the remainder to C. in tail, the remainder to D. in fee, A. maketh a feoffment in fee, the feoffee suffereth a Recovery in which B. is vouched, and he voucheth the common vouchee, in this A. is not bound but B. and all the remainders are barred. For although by the feoffment of A. all the remainders were discontinued, and the estates of B. C. and D. become converted to meer rights, and although that the remainders can never be remitted before the particular estate in possession be continued; yet in Case of a common Recovery, which is the common assurance of the land, he who cometh in as vouchee shall be in judgment of Law in privity of estate which he had, although the precedent estate upon which the estate of the vouchee dependeth be devested or discontinued.

So in the Case at Bar, although that the estate of the wife be not recontinued, yet the husband as vouchee shall be in judgment of the Law in of his estate tail, and the Case is the stronger, for as much as the estate of the wife was put to a right, so that now the husband cometh in as sole tenant in tail, and cannot be joyntly seised with his wife, for as much as she is not vouchee, and cannot be in of another estate, because once he had a estate tail, and now cometh in as vouchee. But if the husband and [b] wife had had a joynt estate to them and to the heirs of their two bodies with the remainder over, and the husband only had been vouched, there it may be doubted if the estate tail shall be barred, because the wife hath a joynt estate of inheritance with him, but here the inheritance was only to the husband. And the Case which Plowden puts arguendo in Mannels Case 8. that if a gift be made to J. and to the heirs males of the body of his wife begotten, and he hath iſſue a ſon, and afterwards the wife dieth, and he diſcontinueth, and taketh an eſtate back to him and to the heirs females of the body of his ſecond wife, and he diſcontinueth again, and taketh an eſtate back to him and to the heirs females of his body, and afterwards diſcontinueth again, againſt which laſt diſcontinuee a common Recovery is had, in which the tenant in tail is vouched and voucheth over the common vouchee, and afterwards dieth, and his three iſſues bring ſeveral Formedons in the deſcender, they ſhall be all barred by the recovery; for in judgment of Law when he generally entreth into warranty, he cometh in of all his ſeveral eſtates, which ſhall be all barred in reſpect of one and the ſame recompence: It was agreed for good Law by the two chief Juſtices; but the opinion of Ployden in the other Point, If tenant for life be, the remainder or reverſion over in tail, that if a common Recovery be had againſt him in the remainder or reverſion, that it ſhall barr the eſtate tail was denied by them all; for there, there is not any tenant to the Præcipe, but only by admittance and concluſion, which ſhall not bind the iſſue in tail. And this Caſe at the Bar is not to be likened to the Caſe of Owen and Morgan, for in this Caſe thoſe againſt whom the Præcipe is brought are lawful tenants to the Præcipe; and when the husband who hath the eſtate only is vouched, he comes in as ſole tenant in tail, and all the eſtate is in him, and nothing then remaineth in the wife but a right, and when he who hath the eſtate tail is vouched, he cannot be in of another eſtate being vouchee, as it appeareth before. Vide 8 Eliz. Dier 225. Knivertons Caſe, which in effect was, That tenant for life, and he in the remainder in tail ſuffered a common Recovery, in which they both vouched the common vouchee, it ſhall not bind the eſtate tail, for he in the remainder in tail is not tenant to the Præcipe, but the tenant for life, and in truth the land is recovered againſt the tenant for life only, and the recompence cannot veſt in him in the remainder only, for as much as the land is in truth recovered againſt the tenant for life, and he in the remainder was never ſeiſed by force of the tail. And according to that it was adjudged in the Common Pleas between Leach and Cole in a Replevin M. 41 & 42 Eliz. Rot. 1703.

to

Paſch. 26 Eliz. which began Paſch. 20 Eliz. Rot. 140. in the Exchequer.

Heydon's Caſe.

IN an Information upon an intruſion in the Exchequer againſt Heydon, for intruding into certain lands in the County of Devon: upon the general iſſue the Jurors gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect: [7]

Firſt, they found that parcel of the lands in the Information were ancient Copiholds of the Mannor of Otlery, whereof the Warden and Canons regular of the late Colledge of Otlery were ſeiſed in the right of the ſaid Colledge; and that the Warden and Canons of the ſaid Colledge 22 H.7. at a Court of the ſaid Mannor granted the ſame parcel by Copy to Ware the father, and Ware the ſon for their lives at the will of the Lord according to the cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor; and that the reſt of the land in the information was occupied by S. and G. at the will of the Warden and Canons of the ſaid Colledge for the time being, in the time of H. 8. And further that the ſaid S. and G. being poſſeſſed, and the ſaid Ware and Ware ſo ſeiſed as aforeſaid, the ſaid Warden and Canons by their deed indented, dat. 12 Jan. ann. 30 *H.*8. did leaſe to Heydon the Defendant the ſame for 80. years, rendring certain rents ſeverally for ſeveral parcels; and found that the ſaid ſeveral rents in Heydons leaſe reſerved were the ancient and accuſtomed rents of the ſeveral parcels of the lands, and found that after the ſaid leaſe they did ſurrender their Colledge and all the poſſeſſion thereof to King *H.*8. And further found the Statute of 31 *H.*8. and the branch of it, ſcil. by which it is enacted, That if any Abbot, &c. or other Religious and Eccleſiaſtical houſe, or place within one year next before the firſt day of this preſent Parliament hath made or hereafter ſhall make any leaſe or grant for life, or for term of years, of any Mannors, Meſſuages, Lands, &c. and in the which any intereſt or eſtate for life, year, or years, at the time of the making of ſuch grant or leaſe, then had his being or continuance, and not determined at the making of ſuch leaſe, &c. Or if the uſual or old rents and forms accuſtomed to be yeelden and reſerved by the ſpace of 20. years next before the firſt day of this preſent Parliament, is not, or be not, or hereafter ſhall not be thereupon reſerved or yielded, &c. that all and every ſuch leaſe, &c. ſhall be void. And further found that the particular eſtates aforeſaid were determined, and before the intruſion Heydons leaſe began; and that Heydon entred, &c. And the great doubt which was often debated at the Bar and Bench in his Caſe was, If Copyhold eſtate of Ware and Ware for lives, at the will of the Lords according to the cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor, in judgment of Law ſhall be ſaid an eſtate or intereſt for lives within the ſaid general words and the meaning of the ſaid Act. And after all the Barons openly argued in Court in the ſame Term, ſcil. Paſch. 26 Eliz. And it was reſolved by Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, and the other Barons of the Exchequer, That the ſaid leaſe made to Heydon of the ſaid parcels whereof Ware and Ware were ſeiſed for life by copy of court roll was void; for it was agreed by them, that the ſaid Copihold eſtate was an eſtate for life within the words and meaning of the ſaid Act. And it was reſolved by them, that for the ſure and true interpretation of all Statutes in general (be they penal or beneficial) reſtrictive or enlarging of the Common Law, four things are to be diſcerned and conſidered. [b]

1. What

1. What was the Common Law before the Act.

2. What was the miſchief and defect for which the Common Law did not provide.

3. What remedy the Parliament hath reſolved and appointed to cure the diſeaſe of the Commonwealth.

And 4. The true reaſon and remedy; and then the Office of all the Judges is always to make ſuch conſtruction as ſhall repreſs the miſchief, and advance the remedy, and to ſuppreſs ſubtil inventions and evaſions for continuance of the miſchiefs, and pro privato commodo, and to add force and life to the cure and remedy, according to the true intent of the makers of the Act pro bono publico. And it was [8] ſaid that in this Caſe the Common Law was, That Religious and Eccleſiaſtical perſons might have made Leaſes for as many years as they pleaſed, the miſchief was, that when they perceived that their Houſes ſhould be diſſolved, they made long and unreaſonable Leaſes: Now the Statute of 31 H. 8. doth provide the remedy, and principally for ſuch Religious and Eccleſiaſtical Houſes which ſhall be diſſolved after the Act (as the ſaid Colledge in our Caſe was) that all Leaſes of any land whereof any eſtate or intereſt for life or years was then in being ſhall be void; and their reaſon was, That it was not neceſſary for them to make a new leaſe ſo long as a former had continuance, and therefore the intent of the Act was to avoid doubting of eſtates, and to have but one ſingle eſtate in being at a time: For doubting of eſtates imputeth in it ſelf deceit, and private reſpect, to prevent the intention of the Parliament. And if the Copihold eſtate for two lives, and the leaſe for 80. years ſhall ſtand together, here ſhall be doubting of eſtates ſimul & ſemel, which ſhall be againſt the true meaning of Parliament.

And in that Caſe it was debated at length, in what Caſes the general words of Acts of Parliament ſhall extend to Copihold or Cuſtomary eſtates, and in what not; and therefore this Rule was taken and agreed by the whole Court, That when an Act of Parliament doth alter the ſervice, tenure, intereſt of the land, or other thing in prejudice of the Lord, or of the cuſtom of the Mannor, or in prejudice of the Tenant, there the general words of ſuch an Act of Parliament ſhall not extend to Copiholds: But when an Act of Parliament is generally made for the good of the Weal publick and no prejudice can accrue by reaſon of alteration of any intereſt, ſervice, tenure, or cuſtom of the Mannor, there many times Copihold and Cuſtomary eſtates are within the general purview of ſuch Acts. And upon theſe grounds the chief Baron put many Caſes, where he held, that the Statute of Weſt. 2. De donis conditionalibus did not extend to Copiholds; for if the Statute alter the eſtate of the land, the ſame ſhall be alſo alteration of the tenure, which ſhall be prejudicial to the Lord; for of neceſſity the donee in tail of land ought to hold of the donor, and to do him ſuch ſervices (without ſpecial reſervation) as his donor doth to the Lord.

2. Littleton ſaith lib. 1. cap. 9. That although that ſome Tenants by copy of Court Roll have an eſtate of inheritance, yet they have but at will of the Lord according to the courſe of the Common Law. For it is ſaid, that if the Lord put them out, they have not other remedy but to ſue to their Lord by Petition, and ſo the intent of the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus was not to extend (in prejudice of Lords) to ſuch baſe eſtates, which as the Law was then taken, was not but at the will of the Lord. And the [b] Statute ſaith, Quod voluntas donatoris in carta doni ſui manifeſte expreſſ. de cætero obſervetur: So that which ſhall be entailed ought to be ſuch an hereditament, which is given, or at leaſt might be given by deed or charter in tail.

3. For as much as great part of the land within the Realm is granted by Copy it ſhall be a thing inconvenient, and cauſe of great ſuit and contention, that Copiholds ſhall be entailed, and yet neither fine nor common Recovery barr it; ſo as he who hath ſuch eſtate cannot (without the aſſent of the Lord by doing of a forfeiture and of taking a new eſtate) of himſelf diſpoſe of it, either for the payment of his debts, or the advancement of his wife, or of his younger children; for which it ſeemed to him, that the Statute of Donis conditionalibus did not extend to Copihold, quod fuit conceſſum per totam Curiam. But it was ſaid, that the Statute without ſpecial cuſtom doth not extend to Copiholds; but if the cuſtom of the Mannor doth warrant ſuch eſtates, and a remainder hath been limited over and enjoyed, or plaints in the nature of a Formedon in the Deſcender brought within the Court of the Mannor, and land ſo entailed by Copy recovered thereby, then the cuſtom co-operating with the Statute maketh it an eſtate tail; ſo that neither the Statute without the Cuſtom, nor the Cuſtom without the Statute can create an eſtate tail.

And to this purpoſe is Littleton lib. 1. cap. 8. for he ſaith, That if a man ſeiſed of a Mannor, within which Mannor there hath been a cuſtom which hath been uſed time out of mind of man, that certain tenants within the ſame Mannor have uſed to have lands and tenements, to have to them and their heirs in fee ſimple, or fee tail, or for term of life, &c. at the will of the Lord according to the cuſtom of the ſame Mannor; and a little after, That Formedon in Deſcender lieth of ſuch Tenements, which Writ as it was ſaid was not at the Common Law.

To which it was anſwered by the chief Baron, That if the Statute (without cuſtom) ſhall not extend to Copiholds, without queſtion the cuſtom of the Mannor cannot make it extend to them: For before the Statute, all eſtates of inheritance, as Littleton ſaith lib. 1. cap. 2. were fee ſimple, and after the Statute no cuſtom can begin, becauſe the Statute being made in 13 E. 1. is made within time of memory, Ergo the Eſtate tail cannot be created by cuſtom; and therefore Littleton is to be intended (in as much as he groundeth his opinion upon the cuſtom, That Copiholds may be granted in fee ſimple or fee tail) of a fee ſimple conditional at the Common Law: For Littleton well knew, that no cuſtom can [9] commence after the Statute of Weſtm. 2. as it appeareth in his Book lib. 2. cap. 10. and 34 H. 6. 36. And where he ſaith that Formedon in Deſcender lieth, he alſo ſaith that it lieth at the Common Law. And it appeareth in our Books, that in ſpecial Caſes a Formedon in the Deſcender lay at the Common Law before the Statute of Weſt. 2. which ſee 4 E. 2. Formedon 50. 10 E. 2. Formedon 55, 21 E. 3. 47. Plowd. Com. 246. b. &c.

And

And where it was further objected, That the Statute of West. 2. cannot without custom make estate tail of Copiholds, because without custom such estate cannot be granted by Copy, for it was said, That estates have been always granted to one and his heirs by Copy, that a grant to one and the heirs of his body is another estate not warranted by the Custom: So that in such Mannors where such estates of inheritance have been allowed by Custom, the Statute doth extend to them, and makes them which before were fee simple conditional, now by the Statute they are estates tailed, and that the Statute cannot, as hath been agreed before, alter the custom, or create a new estate not warranted by the custom.

To that it was answered by the chief Baron, That where the custom of the Mannot is to grant lands by Copy in feodo simplici (as the usual pleading is) without question by the same custom lands may be granted to one and the heirs of his body, or upon any other limitation or condition, for these are estates in fee simple, & eo potius, that they are not so large and ample as the general and absolute fee simple is, and therefore the generality of the custom doth include them, but not e converso, ad quod non fuit responsum. But it was agreed by the whole Court, That another Act made at the same Parliament, cap. 18. which gave Elegit, doth not extend to Copiholds, for that shall be prejudicial to the Lord, and against the custom of Mannor, that a stranger shall have interest in the land holden of him by Copy, where by the custom it cannot be transferred unto any without surrender made to him, and by the Lord allowed and admitted. But it was agreed by them, and other Statutes made at the same Parliament which are beneficial for the Copiholder, and not prejudicial to the Lord, may be by a favourable interpretation extended to Copiholds, as cap. 3. which giveth to the wife Cui in vita, and Receit, and cap. 4. which giveth to the particular tenant Quod ei deforceat; and therewith agreeth 10 E. 4. 2. b.

And in this Case it was resolved, That although it was found that the said rents were the usual rents, and accustomed to be reserved within 20 years before the Parliament, yet in as much as they have found, that the accustomable rent was reserved, and a custom goeth to all times before, for this cause it shall be intended, that that was the accustomable rent within the 20 years, and so shall it be intended, if the contrary be not shewed of the other side. And Judgment was entred for the Queen.

Trin. 26 Eliz. adjudged in the Exchequer.

Dowtie's Case.

IN an Information upon an Intrusion in the Exchequer against John Dowtie, who intruded into five [b] Messuages or Cottages in the Parish of S. Sepulchres in London; upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jurors gave a special verdict to this effect: That John late Viscont Lisle (who after was Duke of Northumberland) was seised of the said Messuages in fee, and so seised, by his deed indented and enrolled within six months, in consideration of mony did bargain and sell unto the Lady Johan Lea, all his Tenements and Cottages scituate in the Parish of S. Andrews in Holborn in the occupation and tenure of William Gardiner, To have and to hold to the said Lady Johan for her life, the remainder to Katherine her daughter and to her heirs: And further found, that by force of the said bargain and sale the said Lady Johan did enter into the said five Messuages or Cottages, and was thereof seised, prout lex postulat, and took to husband Sir Thomas Challener; And afterwards the said Sir Thomas and Dame Johan, 18 Aprilis 5 E. 6. demised the said five Messuages to one Pahen for 21 years, by force of which the said Pahen entred, and took the profits. And afterwards, scil. the first year of the reign of Queen Mary, the said Duke was attainted of high Treason, &c. And afterwards Queen Mary died; and afterwards, scil. 20 Julii, 18 Eliz. the Queen by her Letters Patents under the Great Seal granted the said five Messuages to John Farneham and his heirs, with a Proviso in the same Letters Patents, That if the said Tenements, Rents, and profits were not from the Queen that now is, or from her sister Queen Mary, or from E. 6. concealed, subtracted, or unjustly detained, and so remained till the first Inquisition or Certificate, that then the Letters Patents shall be void; and the Defendant claimed under the said Letters Patents: And further found, that the said five Messuages or Cottages lay in the Parish of S. Sepulchres, and that at the time of the said bargain and sale they were in the occupation of the said William Gardiner. And if upon [10] the whole matter, the Queen granted by the said Letters Patents the Tenements aforesaid to the said Farneham, then they found the Defendant not guilty; and if the Queen did not grant the said five Messuages or Cottages by the said Letters Patents, then they found the Defendant guilty. And upon many Arguments at the Bar and Bench, Judgment was given for the Queen by Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, and all the Court of Exchequer. And in this Case three Points were unanimously resolved.

First, that nothing passed by the said bargain and sale, for notwithstanding that the later certainty, scil. in the tenure of William Gardiner was true, yet because that the first certainty, scil. in the Parish of S. Andrewes in Holborne was false, for this cause the bargain and sale was utterly void. But other had it been, if true certainty had been in the first place, as if he had bargained and sold (the tenements, &c. in the tenure of William Gardiner in the Parish of S. Andrews Holborne) there it was agreed that the tenements shall pass well enough notwithstanding the addition of the fallity, for utile per inutile non vitiatur:

But in the Case at the Bar it was agreed, that the bargain and sale was void, and that the said Lady Lee was a disseiseress; But the great doubt of the Case was, When the disseisee is attainted of high Treason, if the land it self shall be presently in the actual possession of the King by force of the Statute of 33 H. 8. or if the King until seisure, &c. shall have only a meer right: And the doubt riseth upon the purview and words of the Act; for by the same Act, all rights, &c. are given to the King. And further it is enacted, that the King shall be in actual possession without any office found thereof, &c. saving to all strangers all such rights, &c. possession, &c. as if the Act had not been made: And it was declared, that there were three causes of making of the said branch of the Act of 33 H. 8. First, by the Common Law for lands in fee simple, and by the Statute of 26 H. 8. cap. 13. for lands in tail, the actual possession was not in the King by attainder before Office, for the words of the Act are, That every offender shall lose and forfeit to the King all such lands, &c. by which words the lands shall not be in the actual possession of the King until office; and with that agreeth the judgment in Plowd. Comm. 486. 15 Eliz. Dier 326. Sir William Say's Case, 28 H. 8. Br. Office 17. 4 E. 4. 22. 29 H. 8. Br. Charter of Pardon 52. But when tenant in fee simple is attainted of Treason and dieth, there the fee and the freehold [b] without any office found is cast upon the King for necessity that the freehold shall not be in suspense, and therewith agreeth 9 H. 7. 1. And it was also agreed in the same Case, that although the land which such person attainted hath in fee simple be not holden of the King but of a Subject, yet presently by the death of the person attainted, and without any office, the fee and freehold shall be presently vested in the King, and shall not escheat to the Lord of whom the land is holden till office found (as obiter it is said in Nichol's Case) for the escheat of all lands for high Treason appertaineth to the King only and to no other, as well of lands holden of others as of himself, as it is declared and adjudged in Parliament anno 23 E. 3. cap. 2. so that the land cannot escheat to the Lord, for escheat in such Case is not by the Law given to him, nor descend to the heir, because the blood is corrupted, and in abeyance it cannot be. Ergo it shall vest in the King: But it was agreed, That if Tenant in tail be attainted of high Treason, and dieth, the land shall not vest in the King before office, but it shall descend to the issue in tail till office is found, for the Act of 28 H. 8. giveth the forfeiture of it. But neither the Act nor the attainder doth make any corruption of blood as to descent of land in tail: For Popham Attorney General said, that so it was agreed in the Case of the Lord Lumley, that where there was Grandfather, father, and son, and the Grandfather was Tenant in tail, and the father was attainted of high Treason, and died in the life of the Grandfather, and afterwards the Grandfather died, that the land should descend to the son notwithstanding the attainder of the father, which Case was affirmed for good Law by the whole Court; for the father had not the land, neither in possession nor in use, in which two Cases the Act of 26 H. 8. gave the forfeiture only, and his attainder is not any corruption of blood for the land in tail: But now the Statute of 33 H. 8. in all the said Cases doth transfer, and vest the actual possession in the King presently by the attainder as well in the life, as after the death of the person attainted, and as well of lands in tail as of land in fee simple, which was one of the causes of the making of the said Act. Another cause was, that the Act of 26 H. 8. extended only to lands, &c. which the person attainted had in possession or in use, and did not extend at all to Rights, Conditions, &c. And lastly the Act of 26 H. 8. extended only to attainders of Treason by confession, verdict, or process of utlagary, and by the same attainders by Parliament, or when the party stood mute (in which Case such Judgment shall be given as if he had confessed the Treason, or that he had been found guilty by verdict) were out of that Act. But the Act of 33 H. 8. extendeth to all manner of attainders of Treason.

Secondly, it was resolved, that although it be provided by the Statute of 33 H. 8. that the King shall be in actual possession without any office found thereof, &c. yet when the disseisee is attainted of high Treason, presently by his attainder, the King had not but a right, for the said words shall have such construction, scil. That the King shall be in actual possession without office, id est, as if an office had been found thereof. And at the Common Law if the disseisee had been attained of Treason; and the seisin and disseisin had been found by office, the possession should not be in the King without a Scire facias sued, [11] &c. or seised at the least, because that when a stranger is seised at the time of the office found, the King shall not be in possession until seisure; and therewith agreeth Stamf. Prærog. 54. 17. E. 3. 10. 29 Ass. 30. 21 E. 4. 1. Also all possessions, &c. are saved by the said Act, as if the said Act had not been made; and therefore the possession of the disseisor is saved thereby in the same manner as if a special office had been fobud by the Common Law.

Thirdly, it was resolved, that the Queen having but a right, that it shall not pass by the grant of the five Messuages, as in the like Case it was adjudged in the Marques of Winchester's Case in the Kings Bench. And Popham the Attorney General, and Coke and others were of Councel with the Queen. And Robert Atkinson, Henry Beamont and others with the Defendant. And a special office was found of the seisin and disseisin aforesaid; and thereupon a Scire facias was brought against him who was found Tenant-tenant, and thereupon Judgment was given, and the Tenant seised into the Queens hands: And afterwards the Queen by new Letters Patents granted the said Tenements to one Saxie and his heirs, who had purchased the estate of the said Katherine, and had newly built the said tenements, and was expelled by the said Dowtie by colour of the said Letters Patents made to Farnham. And after this Judgment and the said Letters Patents Saxie peaceably enjoyed the Tenements.

Mich.

Mich. 26 & 27 Eliz. in the Exchequer.

Sir William Harbert's Caſe.

Mathew Harbert 4 E. 6. acknowledged a Recogniſance of 3000 l. to the King in the Court of Augmentation; and after his death a Scire facias iſſued 18 Eliz. out of the Court of Exchequer againſt the Executors teſtamenti & ultimæ voluntatis præd' Mathæi & hæred' terrarum & tenementorum quæ ſua fuerunt, &c. And upon that the Sheriff returned, that Mathew Harbert had no Executors within his Bailywick; and further quod Scire fecit Will. Harbert militi, filio & hæredi dicti Mathæi Harbert per I. D. & D. R. quod ſit coram Baronibus, &c. And at the day of Retorn the ſaid William Harbert made default, upon which the Barons gave Judgment, Quod dicta domina Regina recuperet verſus dict' Will Harbert dicta tria millia lib. & quod ipſe idem Willielmus de eiſdem 3000 l. erga dictam dominam reginam nunc oneratur, & ei inde ſatisfaciat. And thereupon the ſaid Sir William Harbert brought a Writ of Error, and aſſigned three Errors: 1. In the Scire facias. 2. In the Retorn. The 3. in the Judgment. And this Term the Erros were moved by Plowden of Councel with Sir William Harbert before Sir Thomas Bromley Lord Chancellor of England, and the Baron of Burleigh Lord Treaſurer of England, and the two chief Juſtices Wray and Anderſon in the Exchequer Chamber. And in that Caſe divers Points were reſolved. [b]

Firſt, That at the Common Law, where a common perſon ſueth a Recogniſance or a Judgment for debt or damages, he ſhall not have the body of the Defendant, nor his lands (if not in ſpecial Caſe) in execution: But at the Common Law he ſhall have execution in ſuch Caſe only of his goods and chattels, and of corn, and the like preſent profit which ſhall grow upon the land, to which purpoſe the Common Law gave to him two ſeveral Writs: 1. A Levari facias, by which Writ the Sheriff was commanded, Quod de terris & catallis ipſius A. &c. Levari faciat, &c. and another Writ called Fieri facias, which was only de bonis & catallis, both which Writs ought to be ſued within the year after the Judgment, or the Recogniſance acknowledged; and if he had not the one or the other within the year, the Plaintiff or the conuſee was put to his Action of debt. And now by the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 45. a Scire facias is given; and by the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 18. cum debitum fuerit recuperatum, &c. the Elegit is given of the moity of the land, which was the firſt Act which ſubjected land to the execution of a Judgment, or of a Recogniſance, which is in the nature of a Judgment, and therewith agreeth F. N. B. 265. g. And by the Statute of 13 E. 1. de Mercatoribus. 27 E. 3. cap. 9. & 23 H. 8. cap. 6. it is provided, That in caſe of a Statute Merchant, and Statute Staple all the lands which the conuſor had at the day of the conuſance ſhall be extended in whoſe hands ſoever they after come, either by feoffment or other maner. But in debt againſt the heir upon obligation made by his anceſtor, the Plaintiff by the Common Law ſhall have all the land which deſcendeth to him in execution againſt him, and yet he ſhould not have execution of any part of the land againſt the father himſelf; but the reaſon thereof was, becauſe the Common Law gave an Action of debt againſt the heir; and in ſuch caſe if he ſhould not have execution of the land againſt the heir, he ſhould not have any fruit of his Action: for the goods and chattels of the debtor do belong to his Executors and Adminiſtrators, and ſo for neceſſity in ſuch caſe only land was liable to execution of the debt of a common perſon at the Common Law. Alſo the body of the Defendant was not liable to execution for debt at the Common Law, vide 13 H. 4. 1. But the Common Law which is the preſerver of the common peace of the land did abhor all force as a capital enemy to it: and therefore againſt thoſe who committed any force the Common Law did ſubject their bodies to impriſonment which is the higheſt execution, by which he loſeth his liberty till he agree with the party, and pay a fine to the King; and therefore it is a rule in Law, That in all Actions Quare vi & armis, Capias lieth, and where Capias lieth in proceſs, there after Judgment Capias ad faciendum lieth, and there the King ſhall have Capias pro fine; with that agreeth 8 H. 6. 9. 35 H. 6. 6. 22 E. 4. 22. 40 E. 3. 25. 49 E. 3. 2. and many other Books. Then by the Statutes of Marlebridge cap. 23. and Weſt. 2. cap. 11. Capias was given in accompt, for at the Common Law proces in accompt was diſtreſs infinite, and after by the Statute of 25 E. 3. cap. 7. the like proceſs was given in debt as in accompt, for before that Statute the body of the Defendant was not liable to execution for debt, for the reaſon and cauſe aforeſaid; but it was reſolved, that at the Common Law the body, the land, and the goods of the accomptant, or the Kings debtor were liable to the Kings execution, for Theſaurus Regis, eſt vinculum pacis, & bellorum nervi. And therefore the Law gave to the King full remedy for it; and therewith agreeth 5 Eliz. Dier 224. and Plow. Comm. 321. Sir William Cavendiſhes Caſe who was Treaſurer of the Chamber. 24 E. 3. Walter de Chirtons Caſe, and infinite precedents in the Exchequer, to prove that for the Kings debt the body and the land of the debtor ſhall be liable by the Common Law before the Statute of 33 H. 8. cap. 39. [12] [b]

Secondly, it was reſolved, that in Caſe of a common perſon, the heir of the conuſor, or he againſt whom the Judgment is given in debt ſhall be only charged, and ſhall not have contribution againſt the Terre-tenant in ſome Caſes, and in ſome Caſes he ſhall have contribution, and ſhall not be only charged. As if a man be ſeiſed of three acres of land, and acknowledgeth a Recogniſance or a Statute, and enfeoffed A. of one acre, B. of another, and the third deſcendeth to his heir, in this Caſe if execution be ſued only againſt the heir, he ſhall not have contribution, for he cometh to the land without conſideration, and the heir ſits in the ſeat of his anceſtor. Et hæres eſt alter ipſe, & filius eſt pars patris, and as it is said, Mortuus est pater, & quasi non mortuus, quia reliquit similem sibi; and therefore the heir shall not have contribution against any purchasor, although in truth the purchasor cometh to the land without valuable consideration, for the consideration of the purchase is not material in such case. And so it was of late resolved in the Case of Thomas Gawdie late Marshal of the Kings Bench, that the heir can only be charged, and shall not have contribution against purchasors. For although in Case of Recognisance, Statute, or Judgment, the heir is charged as Terre-tenant and not as heir, as it appeareth by 27 H. 6. Execution 135. 15 E. 3. Age 95. and the reason is, because that by Recognisance or Statute the heir is [13] not bound, but the conusor concedit quod dict' pecuniæ summa de terris, &c. levetur, yet he shall not have contribution against a purchasor, against the opinion of Finchden 48 E. 3. 5. b. But yet in some Cases the heir shall have contribution, and shall not be only charged; and therefore if a man be seised of two acres, one of the nature of Borough English, and bindeth himself in a Statute, or Recognisance: Or if Judgment in debt be given against him, and he dieth, having issue two daughters who make partition, in this case if one only be charged she shall have contribution; for as one purchasor shall have contribution against others, and against the heir of the conusee also, so one heir shall have contribution against another heir, for they are in æquale jure, Trin. 24 E. 3. 28. in a Scire facias to have execution of damages recovered in a Writ of intrusion of a Ward, the Sheriff returned that the Defendant against whom the Judgment was given is dead, for which a Writ issued to warn the Tenants of the lands who were Defendants at the time of the Judgment, who were returned warned, one of the Tenants said that his cousin (who was another then him against whom the Judgment was had) died seised whose heir he is, and is within age, and preyed his age, and that the parol might demur against all the other Terre-tenants till he was of age. Unde colligo, That if there be Grandfather, father, and two daughters, and Judgment is given for debt or damages against the Grandfather, and he dieth, and the father dieth, one of the daughters within age, and the other of full age, partition is made, the eldest sister shall not be only charged, but shall take advantage of the infancy of her sister, for both heirs are in one degree. The same Law if a man be bound in a Recognisance, and hath issue two daughters and dieth, they make partition, one alone shall not be charged, but shall have contribution, and if one be within age, the other shall take benefit thereof, for in such Case although he be charged as Terre-Tenant, yet he shall have his age. See for this 11 E. 3. Age 4. 15 E. 3. Age 95. 29 Ass. 37. 29 E. 3. 50. 47 Ass. 4. in Sir Richard Walgraves Case. So if a man be bound in Recognisance, and after his death some of the land descendeth to the heir on the part of the father, and some to the heir on the part of the mother, in this Case the one alone shall not be charged, and if he be, he shall have contribution against the other. And so therewith agreeth 11 H. 7. 22. Br. in Dower, That if the tenant vouch the heir in three several wards, every one shall be equally charged, as it is agreed in 48 E. 3. 5. But it was resolved in the Case at Bar, that although the heir in this Case was charged as Terre-tenant, yet for the causes aforesaid, the Writ which issued against him only, and not against the other Tenants was good enough by the rule of the Court. Note Reader, if two, four, or more men be severally seised of lands, and they all joyn in a Recognisance, in this case the conusee cannot extend the lands of any of the conusors only, but all ought equally to be charged: For although the lands of the conusor it self may be only charged, when divers men have purchased any of the land subject to the Recognisance, because the purchasor is in other degree then the conusor himself, yet one of the conusors shall not be only charged, for he standeth in equal degree with the other conusors, and that appeareth by 29 Ass. 37. and 29 E. 3. 50. Sir John [b] Langford's Case, where the Case was, That four were bound in a Recognisance of debt acknowledged in the Court of Chester to Sir John Langford, and afterwards one of the conusors died his heir within age; Sir John Langford brought a Scire facias against the other three survivors to have execution, who pleaded that the heir of the conusor who was dead was within age, and in as much as during his minority he cannot be charged, and the survivors only ought not to be charged, they demanded Judgment, &c. And because Sir John Langford did not deny it, it was awarded that the parol should demur; upon which Sir John Langford brought a Writ of Error in the Kings Bench, which Judgment was there affirmed. Out of which Judgment I observe:

1. That amongst the conusors themselves there shall be an equal charge, and the land of any of them shall not be only extended,

2. That the heir of any of them shall not have greater priviledge in Law then the conusor himself, for it appeareth by that Judgment that he shall be equally charged with the conusors themselves, which well agreeth with the said Resolution, that he shall not have contribution against a purchasor.

3. That the heir is not charged only as Terre-tenant, but in some respect as heir, for otherwise he should not have his age, as it was adjudged in that Case. It is a rule in 17 E. 3. 43. that the heir of the conusor shall have Audita querela before execution sued, as well as the conusor himself, and shall have a Supersedeas, but so shall not have a strange purchasor until he be ousted by execution, and therewith agreeth 17 Ass. 24. & 18 E. 3. 25. And with the said Judgment in 29 Ass. agreeth 19 E. 3. Execution 81. that if Judgment be given against two disseisors in Assise for the land and damages, and one disseisor dieth, the execution shall not be awarded against the surviving disseisor who was party to the wrong, but as well the heir as the disseisor shall be equally charged: Now for as much as no land was subject to execution for the debt of a common person at the Common Law, but only by the said Statutes; It is worthy consideration what shall be the reason of the said differences concerning contribution, and by what Law the purchasor shall have greater priviledge then the conusor himself, or his heir, and that one heir only shall not be charged, but all the heirs together, & sic de cæteris; As to that, it is to know, that the Judges and Sages of the Law have always expounded general Statutes according to the rule of the Common Law, which is built upon the perfection of reason, and not according to any private or sudden conceit or opinion: And because in as much as the said Statutes have subjected

the

the land to execution for his debt, the Judges and Sages of the Law conſidered the rule and reaſon of Law in caſe of the heir of an obligor, in which Caſe the land was ſubject to execution at the Common Law. And it appeareth to them, that if a man bind himſelf and his heirs in an obligation, and dieth ſeiſed of land as well on the part of the mother as on the part of the father, in that Caſe the Law doth require equality, and neither the heir on the part of the father, nor the heir on the part of the mother ſhall be only charged, and therewith agreeth 11. H. 7. 12. e. [14]

So in the Caſe in 48 E. 3. when the heir is vouched in the Ward of three ſeveral heirs, every one ſhall be equally charged pro rata. So if two men alien lands with warranty, the lands of one only ſhall not be rendred in value, nor if one dieth, the land of the ſurvivor ſhall not be only rendred in value, but the charge ſhall be equal upon them. For a joint lien which bindeth the land ſhall not ſurvive, or lie only upon the ſurvivor, as in Caſe of a joynt warranty, where two for them and their Heirs warrant lands unto another and his heirs, the ſurvivor ſhall not be only vouched. And the Sheriff cannot deliver the land of the one or the other at his pleaſure; for in executions which concern the realty, and charge the lands, the Sheriff cannot do execution upon the land of one only. And ſo if two bind themſelves to warranty, and both die, both their heirs ought to be vouched, and they ſhall be equally charged: But againſt this two Objections were made:

1. That becauſe each of them warranteth the whole, that both their lands, or the lands of the one or the other may be put in execution: And ſo it is obiter ſaid in 16. H. 7. 13. But to that it was anſwered and reſolved, That although that each be bound to warrant the whole, yet non ſequitur, that the recompence in value ſhall be made by one of them only; for if the heir be vouched in the Ward of three ſeveral perſons, one alone ſhall not be charged, but all equally, as is holden 48. E. 3. and yet the anceſtor did warrant the whole. And where two are bound in a Recognizance, or Statute, now is each of them bound in the whole, yet the land of one only ſhall not be extended. But it was objected, the Caſe of Recognizance, or Statute, is not like to the Caſe of warranty: For by the Statute or Recognizance the land is preſently bound in whoſe hands ſoever it ſhall come, but ſo it is not in Caſe of a warranty: To which it was anſwered and reſolved, That for as much as by the ſaid Book of 16. H. 7. and all other Books it appeareth, that the ſurvivor and the heir ought to be vouched together, and ſo of the heirs of both; And Littleton Chapter Homage Anceſtrel ſaith, That the land which the vouchee had at the time of the voucher ſhall be liable to render in value, from thence it followeth that the charge ſhall be equal; and that is a ſtronger Caſe than the Caſe of the Statute and Recognizance, for the warrantty extendeth to the render in value lands of inheritance: but if the husband and wife and the heirs of the wife be bound to warranty, and the wife dieth, the lands of the husband may be alone put in execution, becauſe there are no moieties between the husband and wife, and thus are divers opinions in our Books, ſome whereof being ill reported are well reconciled, 17 E. 3. 41. 29 E. 3. 46. 12 H. 7. 3. b. 16 H. 7. 13. a. 22 E. 3. 1. 17 E. 3. 8. 30 E. 3. 40. 19 H. 6. 55. But in a binding perſonal it is otherwiſe. As if two be bound in an obligation, there the charge ſhall ſurvive: So it appeareth by theſe Caſes, that when land ſhall be charged by any tie, the charge ought to be equal, and one ſhall not bear all the burthen; and the Law in this point is grounded upon great equity: But in all the Caſes at the Common Law, if the party who ſhould be charged hath aliened the land bona fide before any Action brought, the lands in the hands of the purchaſor was not ſubject to any charge or execution; and that was the reaſon that the Judges and Sages of the Law in conſtruction of the ſaid Statutes, although that the Lands of purchaſors after the Judgment, Recogniſance, or Statute were ſubject to execution, yet that gave greater privilege to them, than to the conuſor himſelf or to his heir. [b]

Alſo the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 18. doth provide, Quod vicecomes liberet ei medietatem terræ, which ought to be intended of his land; ſo the Statute of 13 E. 1. enacteth, That all the lands of the conuſor ſhall be delivered to Merchants, &c. and that is another reaſon that the land of one Terre-tenant only ſhall not be charged with the whole debt, for as much as by the ſaid Statute all the land is liable. And the reaſon wherefore the Conuſor himſelf at the will of the conuſee may be only charged, is becauſe he himſelf is the perſon who was the debtor, and who was bound, and therefore it is ſubject to execution, and it is reaſon that he may be only charged; the ſame Law of his heirs for the reaſons before rehearſed.

Note Reader, when it is ſaid before, and often in our Books, That if one purchaſor be only extended for the whole debt, that he ſhall have contribution; it is not thereby intended that the others ſhall give or allow unto him any thing by way of conſideration, but ought to be intended, that the party who is only extended for the whole, may have Audita querela or Scire fac' as the Caſe requireth to defeat the execution, and thereby ſhall be reſtored to all the mean profits, and drive the Conuſee to ſue execution of the whole land, ſo in this manner every one ſhall be contributory, that is, the land of every Ter-tenant ſhall be equally extended: And afterwards the Council of Sir Will. Herbert moved three Errors within the Record.

The firſt was, that the Writ of Scire facias was Scire facias hæred' terrarum & tenementorum, &c. which was improper and againſt Law; for always one is ſaid heir to his anceſtor, and not to the land, for anceſtor and heir are relativa, and it cannot be ſaid that one is filius, or conſanguineus & hæres manerii de Dale: but that A. was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Dale in fee, and died ſeiſed, after whoſe death the Mannor of D. deſcended to B. as conſanguineo & hæredi prædicti A. (and ſhew how) and not prædicti manerii. [15]

The ſecond Error was, admitting the Writ good, then for as much as the Writ requireth quod Scire fac' hæred' terrarum & tenementorum, &c. the return of the Sheriff, quod Scire fecit Willielmo Harbert Militi, fil' & hæred' prædict. Matthæi, is not good, becauſe he doth not return him heir of any lands or tenements as the Writ requireth; for his warrant is not to ſummon the heir of the ſaid Matthew, but the heir of the lands and tenements of the ſaid Matthew, and every return ought to anſwer the point of the Writ.

The

The third Error, admitting the Writ and the Return good, was, That the Judgment it ſelf was erroneous. For the Judgment is given generally againſt Sir William Harbert, Quod dicta Domina Regina recuperet verſus præd' Will' Harbert dicta tria millia librarum; Et quod ipſe idem Willielmus de eiſdem tribus millibus librar' erga dictam dominam Reginam nunc oneretur, & ei inde ſatisfaciat. And it was moved by the Defendants Council, that the Judgment ought to have been ſpecial, for by this general Judgment his own land ſhall be liable, where by the Law, the land only which came to him by his father ſhall be liable; and as hath been ſaid, he is charged as Terre-tenant, for the conuſee cannot have an Action of debt upon Recogniſance againſt the heir, for the Recogniſance is, Quod tunc vult & concedit quod dicta pecuniæ ſumma, de bonis & catallis, terris & tenementis, &c. levetur: So that the charge is impoſed upon his goods and lands; ſo that debt doth not lie upon it againſt the heir, no more than in a Recovery in debt, for there Scire facias lieth againſt the heir, but no Action of debt: Then although that the heir maketh default, yet the Judgment ought to have been ſpecial, for it was ſaid in this Caſe, if the heir had appeared, and pleaded a falſe plea, yet the Judgment ought to have been ſpecial, for he is not charged merely as heir, but rather as Terre-tenant. And with that agreeth 33 E. 3. Execution 162. in debt the Plaintiff recovered, and before execution the Defendant died, the Plaintiff prayed a Scire facias againſt A. who was Terre-tenant of the Defendants lands, and had it, who came and counterpleaded the execution, and they were at iſſue, and afterwards did not follow it, for which execution was awarded againſt [b] him, and the Plaintiff prayed execution as well of his own lands which he had the day he pleaded, as of the debtors lands in his hands, becauſe he pleaded a falſe plea. But by the rule of the Court he could have but only the lands of the debtor. Vide 16 E. 3. 15. But theſe Points were not reſolved by the Court, but afterwards, upon a Petition made to the Queen, Sir William compounded with her. Plowden and Coke were of Council with Sir William Harbert; And note well the new Writ of Error after the entry of the firſt was not brought, quod coram vobis reſidet, becauſe the Record is not removed out of the keeping of him who had the cuſtody thereof before, but it remained in the ſame cuſtody after the Writ of Error purchaſed as it was before.

Hill. 29 Eliz. Rot. 790. in the Kings Bench, between Hinde and Ambray.

Boraſton's Caſe.

[19] BEtween Richard Hinde Plaintiff, and William Ambrey Defendant, in an Ejectione firmæ in the King's Bench, of lands in Aldenham in the County of Hertford upon a Leaſe made by Thomas Brand and Conſtance his Wife, and William Davies and Margaret his wife to the Plaintiff for ſeven years. The Defendant pleaded, Not guilty, and the Jury gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect: Thomas Boraſton was ſeiſed in fee of the Lands aforeſaid, and held them in Socage, and had iſſue Humphrey Boraſton his eldeſt ſon, Henry Boraſton his younger ſon; and Humphrey had iſſue Conſtance the wife of the ſaid Brand, and the ſaid Margaret wife of the ſaid Davies; and the ſaid Henry Boraſton had iſſue Hugh. And afterwards the ſaid Thomas Boraſton 12. Auguſt, 1559. by his Will in writing deviſed the Tenement in theſe words, viz. Item, I give to Thomas Amery and Amphillis his wife, all that my upper part of my Cloſe called Reading for eight years next after my deceaſe. And that the ſaid Thomas Amery, nor his aſſigns ſhall during the ſaid Term, fell none of the ſaid Wood or Timber in or upon the ſaid upper part, but ſhall preſerve the woods to the uſe and behalf of the heir in remainder: And after the term of the ſaid [b] eight years, the ſaid upper part to remain to my Executors until ſuch time as Hugh Boraſton ſhall accompliſh his age of 21. years, and the mean profits to be employed by my Executors towards the performance of this my laſt Will and Teſtament: And when the ſaid Hugh ſhall come to his full Age of 21 years, then I will he ſhall enjoy the ſaid upper part to him and to his heirs for ever.

And afterwards the ſaid Thomas Boraſton 14 Auguſti anno 1 Eliz. died, and the ſaid Hugh died before his full Age of 21 years, about the Age of 9 years. And that Philip Boraſton was brother and heir of Hugh Boraſton; and the ſaid Philip after the end and expiration of the ſaid terms, that is to ſay, of Thomas Amery and Amphillis his wife, and of the ſaid Executors entred into the ſaid lands as brother and heir of Hugh Boraſton, and demiſed the ſaid Lands to the ſaid William Ambrey, &c. by force whereof he was poſſeſſed, upon whom the ſaid leſſors of the Plaintiff in the right of their wives entred in the ſaid lands; And by Indenture bearing date the ſame day and year mentioned in the Declaration demiſed to the Plaintiff, prout in the Declaration, by force whereof he was poſſeſſed, till the Defendant by the commandment of the ſaid Philip, entred upon him, &c. And if the ſaid entry of the Defendant were lawful or not was the doubt which was referred to the conſideration of the Court. And this caſe was argued by the Council of the Plaintiff. And it ſeemed to them, that no remainder was veſted in the ſaid Hugh Boraſton until he attained his age of 21 years, and in the mean time, that the lands did deſcend to the daughters of the eldeſt ſon who are general heirs to the deviſor; and for as much as Hugh did never accompliſh his ſaid age, for this cauſe the land ſhall never ſettle in him, but remain in the heirs general; and in proof that the remainder doth not veſt in Hugh before his ſaid age, they ſaid, that it appeareth by the words of the Will that he ſhall not have it until his ſaid age of 21 years. For the words are, And when the ſaid

Hugh

Hugh ſhall accompliſh his ſaid age of 21 years, then I will he ſhall enjoy the ſaid upper part to him and to his heirs for ever: So that it fully appeareth, that this deviſe to Hugh doth depend upon a contingent, that is to ſay, upon the accompliſhment of Hugh's full age of 21 years, and that ought to precede before the remainder can begin, and whether Hugh ſhall attain to his age is ſo incertain that no man can know, but it dependeth upon the providence of God. And it was ſaid, that if Thomas Boraſton in this Caſe had made a leaſe till Hugh attain his full age, Hugh then being of the age of 9 years, the leſſee ſhould not have an abſolute leaſe for twelve years: for if Hugh ſhall die before his full age, the leaſe ſhall be ended, Quod fuit conceſſum per curiam.

It was alſo ſaid, That when a particular eſtate (which doth ſupport a remainder) may determine before the remainder can begin, there the remainder ſhall not preſently veſt, but ſhall depend in contingency: as if one make a Leaſe to J. S. for life, and after the death of J. D. to remain to another in fee, this remainder doth depend in contingency; for if J. S. die before J. D. the particular eſtate is determined before the remainder can begin. So and upon the ſame reaſon it is adjudged in Colthirſt and Beaufhings Caſe in Plow Com. where the Caſe in effect is, That a leaſe is made to A. for life, the remainder to B. for life, and if B. die before A. that it ſhall remain to C. for life, this is a good remainder upon contingent if A. ſurvive B. which Caſe is all one in reaſon with the common Caſe which is very often agreed in our Books. A leaſe is made to one for life, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. this remainder is good upon a contingent, that is to ſay, if the leſſee for life overlive J. S. otherwiſe not. So and for the ſame reaſon, if a man having iſſue a ſon of the age of 9 years, make a leaſe until his ſon ſhall attain to his full age, and after that he ſhall accompliſh his full age, that it remain over to another fee, nothing veſts (without queſtion preſently) in him in the remainder, which was granted by the Court. And it was ſaid by the Plaintiffs Council, that ſuch remainder is utterly void, and yet may take effect: For in as much as the remainder ought to paſs out of the leſſor preſently, either to him in the remainder, or to be in abeyance or cuſtody of the Law, and a freehold cannot in ſuch Caſe be in abeyance, for this cauſe the remainder is utterly void; As if a man make a leaſe to A. for 21 years, if B. live ſo long, and after the death of B. that it remain over in fee, this remainder is void: So if a leaſe for years be made, the remainder to the right heirs of J. S. this remainder is utterly void, quod fuit conceſſum per curiam. [20]

Alſo it was ſaid, That when the remainder is limitted to take effect upon the doing of an act, which act ſhall be the determination of the particular eſtate, yet if the act depend upon caſualty and meer incertainty whether it ſhall ever happen or not, there alſo the remainder doth depend in contingency, and ſhall not preſently veſt: As if A. make a feoffment to the uſe of B. until C. come from Rome into England, and after ſuch return from Rome into England, to remain over in fee, this remainder doth depend in contingency: for it is incertain whether C. ſhall ever return into England or not, which was granted by the whole Court. And ſo it was concluded by the Plaintiffs Council, that for all theſe cauſes Judgment ought to be given for the Plaintiff. Againſt which it was argued by the Defendants Council, and they conceived that the remainder did ſettle in Hugh preſently by the death of the deviſor, and by his death without iſſue the land did deſcend to Philip his brother who leaſed to the Defendant. For it was ſaid, that in this Caſe, that although that Hugh died before his full age, yet the intereſt and term of the Executors did not ceaſe; and their reaſon was becauſe that in Wills the intent of the deviſor is to be conſidered; and when he deviſeth his lands to his Executors until Hugh his ſon ſhall come to full age for payment of his debts, and to perform his Will, it is to be intended, that he hath made computation, that the profits to be taken of his lands by his Executors during the minority of his ſon (which was for the ſpace of 12 years) would ſuffice to pay his debts, and to perform his Will, and that he did not intend to determine it by the death of his ſon; for then the means which he preſcribeth to ſatisfie his debts, and to perform his Will ſhall be defeated, and by conſequence, his debts ſhall remain unſatisfied, and his Will unperformed; and therefore this Caſe of a deviſe doth differ from a leaſe or a grant made in the like manner. For the deviſor is intended to be inops conſilii, and therefore the Law ſhall be his counſel, and according to his intent appearing in his Will ſhall ſupply the defect of the words: And therefore where the deviſor ſaith, Until ſuch time as Hugh Boraſton ſhall accompliſh his full age of 21 years, the Law which favoureth the performance of Wills (according to the intent of the deviſor) in conſtruction ſhall make it, until ſuch time as Hugh Boraſton ſhould have come to his full age of 21 years: For when the deviſor by apt words might have by good advice made his Will good and ſufficient in Law according to his true intent, there, although that the deviſor being hindred by ſickneſs, or that he wanteth good advice, make his Will in a diſordered manner, and in barbarous and unfit words, the Law in ſuch caſe ſhall reduce the words which want order into order, and ſentence his unfit words to words ſufficient in Law according to his intent as appeareth by his own words. As Mich. 32 & 33 Eliz. in the Kings Bench it was adjudged between Wellocke and Hamond in Treſpaſs, upon Not guilty pleaded the Caſe upon ſpecial verdict was ſuch: A Copiholder in fee of land diſcendible in Borough Engliſh, having three ſons and one daughter deviſed his land to his eldeſt ſon, paying to his daughter and to every of his other ſons 40 s. within two years next after his death, the deviſor made a ſurrender according to the cuſtom of the Mannor to the uſe of his Will, and died, the eldeſt Son is admitted, and doth not pay the mony within two years, the youngeſt ſon now Plaintiff entred into the Land, and it was adjudged that his entry was lawful: And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved. [b] [21]

1. Although the yearly profits of the lands for two years exceed the money to be paid to his ſons and daughter, yet the eldeſt ſon hath a fee ſimple: for the recompence and conſideration, although it be not to the value of the land, in caſe of a Will doth make it in conſtruction a fee ſimple; And in the Book of 4 E. 6. Eſtates Br. 18. & 29 H. 8. Teſtaments 18. 22 Eliz. Dier 371. no mention is made of the value of the land, no more than in the Caſe of Bargain and Sale of land in 4 E. 6. Eſtates 78. yet the fee ſimple of the uſe ſhall paſs.

2. It

2. It was reſolved, That in the Caſe of a Will this word (paying,) maketh a condition; yet in this Caſe the Law ſhall conſtrue this unapt word (paying) to a limitation, for if it ſhall be a condition, then it ſhall deſcend upon the eldeſt ſon, and then it ſhall be at his pleaſure whether the brothers or ſiſter ſhall be paid or not; and therefore it was adjudged, that in that caſe the Law ſhall conſtrue it for a limitation, of which the youngeſt ſon in Borough Engliſh might take advantage, and to amount to as much as if he had made the deviſe of the land to his eldeſt ſon until he ſhal make default of payment, &c. and ſo the doubt of 14 Eliz. Dier 317. moved by Manwood is well reſolved. Upon which it was concluded in the Caſe at Bar by the Defendants Council, that the Executors had a good term for 12 years, which was not determined by the death of Hugh Boraſton, which was granted by the whole Court. And the general Rule put by the Council of the other ſide was agreed, That the Remainder ought to commence in poſſeſſion when the particular eſtate endeth, as well in Wills as in Grants, and there cannot be a mean time between them, but that did not concern the Caſe at Bar, for here in as much as the term did not end by the death of Hugh Boraſton, the remainder did begin in poſſeſſion at the end of the term. And as to the incertainty it was ſaid, that the Caſe at Bar is no other in effect, but that a man deviſeth his lands to his Executors (for the payment of his debts) until his ſon ſhall or ſhould have come to his age of 21 years, the remainder to his ſon in fee; for although that theſe are adverbs of time, when, &c. and then, &c. yet they do not amount to make any thing to precede the ſetling of the remainder no more than in the common Caſe. A man leaſeth land for life or years, and after the deceaſe of the leſſee, or term ended, the remainder to another, yet it ſhall remain preſently; for when theſe adverbs refer to a thing, which of neceſſity ought to happen, there they make no contingency, and it is certain that
[b] every man ſhall die, for Statum eſt hominibus ſemel mori, and every term ſhall end; for Tempus edax rerum: And in the Caſe at Bar, certain it is, that Hugh ſhall accompliſh, or might have accompliſhed his age of 21 years, which are in this Caſe of a Will all one in conſtruction of Law. And ſo theſe adverbs (Then and When) in our Caſe are demonſtrations of time, when the remainder to Hugh ſhall take effect in poſſeſſion, as in the ſaid Caſes of a leaſe for life, and leaſe for years, and not when the remainder ſhall veſt, quod fuit conceſſum per totam Curiam. And Judgment was given, That the Plaintiff ſhould take nothing by his Bill.

Egerton, the Queens Sollicitor, and Thomas Foſter and others were of Council with the Plaintiff, and Coke and others with the Defendant: and note in the Declaration it doth not appear which husbands and wives made the leaſe to the Plaintiff by deed, and no exception taken to it.

Paſch. 29 Eliz. between Walker and Harris in the Kings Bench.

Walker's Caſe.

[22] THE Caſe was thus in effect; Walker leaſed certain lands to Harris for years, the leſſee aſſigned all his intereſt to another, Walker brought an Action of debt againſt Harris for rent behind after the aſſignment, and if the Action were maintainable or not was the queſtion. And it was objected againſt the Action that the land was debtor, and not the perſon but in reſpect of the land; and a difference was taken between a perſonal contract and a real contract, for if a man let a ſtock of Cattel and other goods for years, rendring rent at ſeveral days, he ſhall not have an Action of debt till all his days be incurred. So if a man make an obligation or other contract to pay ſeveral ſummes at ſeveral days, he ſhall not have an Action of debt till all the days are paſt. But in the Caſe of a leaſe for years which is a real contract, the leſſor ſhall have an Action of debt after every day as it appeareth by 45 E. 3. 8. 2 E. 4. 11. which proveth that the leſſee is not charged in reſpect of any perſonal contract, but in reſpect of reality. And therefore when the leſſee aſſigneth over all his term or intereſt, all the realty which always followeth the land is gone. Alſo if a man ſelleth goods to be paid at ſeveral days, in ſuch Caſe, although that the goods be taken by one who hath right before the day, yet the ſeller ſhall have an Action of debt in reſpect of the contract: But if a man make a leaſe for years rendring rent,
[b] if before the day incurred the land be evicted by title paramount, the leſſor ſhall not have an Action of debt, becauſe the ſame is a real contract, and followeth the eſtate of the land, and the rent iſſueth out of the land, and the perſon is not the debtor but in reſpect of the land, for if the leſſee grant over all his intereſt the leſſor may have an Action of debt againſt the Aſſignee with whom there was no contract by deed. But for as much as the rent iſſueth out of land, the aſſignee who hath land, and is privy in eſtate is debtor in reſpect of the land: So that if a man leaſe three acres rendring rent, and the leſſor ouſt the leſſee of one acre, he ſhall not have an Action of debt for any part, but if the leſſor recover part in an Action of Waſte, or enter in part by forfeiture, or by ſurrender, or by ſpecial condition for entry in part, or if part of the land be evicted by title paramount, in all theſe Caſes the rent reſerved upon the leaſe for years which is a rent ſervice, ſhall be apportioned. Ergo, the contract followeth the land, for otherwiſe the leſſor might in all theſe Caſes have an Action of debt for the whole rent in reſpect of the contract, as he ſhall not have upon a ſale of goods; for which matter ſee 23 H. 6. 23. 9 E. 4. 1. 21 E. 4. 29. which Book is to be intended of a lawful entry as for forfeiture, or by ſurrender, and not of a tortious entry

4 H. 7. 6. Apporcionment Br. 26. 25 H. 8. 36. 13 H. 8. 30 H. 8. Apporcionment Br. 7. 3 H. 7. 17. And ſo all the Books are well reconciled. So it appeareth, that although in every leaſe for years there is a contract between the leſſor and leſſee, yet that contract is annexed to an eſtate and followeth the land. So on the other ſide if the leſſor grant over his reverſion, the contract runneth with the eſtate, and therefore the grantor ſhall not have any Action of debt for rent due for his aſſignment, but the grantee ſhall have the ſame, for the privity of the contract followeth the eſtate of the land, and is not annexed to the perſon, but in reſpect of the eſtate: As where there be divers parceners of an Advowſon, the eldeſt hath prerogative to make the firſt preſentment, but it is not in reſpect of her perſon only, but as it is annexed to her eſtate. For as 5 H. 5. 10. is agreed, her husband who is Tenant by the curteſie ſhall have it: So if one coparcener hath a rent granted to her for owelty of partition, ſhe may diſtrain for the ſame of common right without any words of diſtreſs, and ſo ſhall her grantee, for it was not annexed to her perſon only, but to the eſtate alſo, as it is holden in 21 H. 6. 11. So the grantee of reverſion, and the Lord by eſcheat ſhall have an Action of debt for the rent as it is holden in 5 H. 7. 18. for the contract is incident to the eſtate: But upon great deliberation and conference with others, it was adjudged by Wray Lord Chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdie, and the whole Court of Kings Bench, That the Action would lie.

And firſt for the true apprehending of the reaſon of this Caſe, and of all the other Caſes which have been urged on the other ſide (for the Law always and in all Caſes, is conſonant to it ſelf) It is to know, that as to the matter now in Queſtion there are three manner of privities, ſcil. privity in reſpect of eſtate only, privity in reſpect of contract only, and privity in reſpect of eſtate and contract together: Privity in eſtate only; as if the Leſſor grant over his reverſion (or if the reverſion eſcheat) between the grantee (or the Lord by eſcheat) and the leſſee is privy in eſtate only, ſo between the leſſor and the aſſignee of the leſſee, for no contract was made between them. Privity of contract only is perſonal privity, and extendeth only to the perſon of the leſſor and to the perſon of the leſſee, as in the Caſe at Bar, when the leſſee aſſigneth over his intereſt, notwithſtanding his aſſigning the privity of contract remaineth between them, although the privity of eſtate be removed by the act of the leſſee himſelf, and the reaſon thereof is. [23]

Firſt, becauſe the leſſee himſelf ſhall not prevent by his own act ſuch remedy which the leſſor hath againſt him by his own contract, but when the leſſor granteth over his reverſion, there againſt his own grant he cannot have remedy, becauſe he hath granted the reverſion to another to which the rent is incident.

Secondly, the leſſee may grant the term to a poor man who ſhall not be able to manure the land, and who will for need or for malice ſuffer the land to lie freſh, and then the leſſor ſhall be without remedy either by diſtreſs or by action of debt, which ſhall be inconvenient, and ſhall in effect concern every man (for, for the moſt part every man is a leſſor or a leſſee) and for theſe two reaſons all the Caſes of entry by wrong, eviction, ſuſpenſion and apportionment of rent are anſwered: For in ſuch Caſes either it is the act of the leſſor himſelf, or the act of a ſtranger; and in one of the ſaid Caſes the ſole act of the leſſee himſelf ſhall prevent the leſſor of his remedy, and bring in ſuch inconvenience as hath been ſaid.

The third privity is of contract and eſtate together, as between the leſſor and the leſſee himſelf; And Wray chief Juſtice and Sir Thomas Gawdy ſaid, That as he who is a baſtard born hath not any couſin, ſo every Caſe doth import ſuſpition of its legitimation, if he have not another Caſe which ſhall be as a couſin German to ſupport it, and prove it. And therefore it was agreed by the whole Court, that if there be Lord and Tenant, and the Tenant maketh a feoffment in fee, in this Caſe betwixt them for the arrearages due as well before the feoffment as after till notice, &c. is only privity as to Avowry, and not any privity in eſtate, or in tenure, which privity ſhall not go with the eſtate, and yet it is more in the realty than the Caſe at Bar, a fortiori in the Caſe at Bar, when the leſſee aſſigneth his intereſt, yet privity of contract between the leſſor and leſſee as to the Action of debt remaineth. And at the Common Law before the Statute of Quia emptoris terrarum, if the Tenant maketh a feoffment in fee to hold of the chief Lord, the feoffee by no tender that he can make ſhall compel the Lord to avow upon him, but the Lord always may avow upon the feoffor as it appeareth in 33 E. 3. Avowry 255. For by his own act he cannot change the Avowry of his Lord, which is a ſtronger Caſe than the Caſe at Bar: And in the ſame Caſe if the Lord grant over his Seigniory, or if the feoffer dieth, there the privity as to avowry is deſtroyed, for it is perſonal and holdeth only between the Lord himſelf, and the feoffee himſelf: So if after the aſſignment of the leaſe, the leſſor grant over his reverſion, the grantee ſhall not have an Action of debt againſt the leſſee, for the privity of contract as to the Action of debt held only betwixt the leſſor himſelf, and the leſſee himſelf: So in ſuch Caſe if the leſſee dieth, the leſſor ſhall not have an Action of debt againſt his Executors, for the privity conſiſteth only between the leſſor and the leſſee. See for the Caſe of Avowry, Littleton Chap. Releaſes 106, 107. 4 E. 3. 22. 2 E. 4. b. 34 H. 6. 46. 37 H. 6. 33. 7 E. 4. 28. 29 H. 8. tit. Avowry Br. 111. [b]

So if Tenant in Dower, or Tenant by the Curteſie grant over their eſtate, yet privity of contract remaineth between the heir and them, he ſhall have an Action of Waſt againſt them for Waſt after the aſſignment: But if the heir grant over the reverſion, the privity of the Action is deſtroyed, and the grantee cannot have any Action of Waſt, but only againſt the aſſignee; for between them is privity in eſtate, and between the grantee and the tenant in Dower or Tenant by the Curteſie is no privity at all. See F. N. B. 56. f. Temp. E. 1. Waſt. 122. 18 E. 3. 3. 30 E. 3. 16. 36 E. 3. 23. 11 H. 4. 18. And it was agreed, that if the leſſor enter for condition broken, or if the leſſee ſurrender to the leſſor, the eſtate and term is determined, and yet the leſſor ſhall have an Action of debt for the arrearages due before the condition broken, or the ſurrender made, as it appeareth by F. N. B. 120. 30 E. 3. 7. 6 H. 7. 3. b. F. N. B. 122. (againſt the Book of 32 E. 3. Bar 262. which is not Law, and that in reſpect of the contract between the leſſor and the leſſee. Note Reader, that ſo great was the authority and conſequence of this Judgment, that after this time not only the Point hath been adjudged and confirmed after, but all the differences in this Caſe taken by Wray chief Juſtice and the whole Court have been adjudged, as you may learn by the Caſes following, Hill. 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, 420. between Vngle and Glover it was adjudged, That if the leſſee for years aſſign over his term, and the leſſor by deed indented and enrolled according to the Statute, bargain and ſell the Reverſion to another, that the bargainee ſhall not have an Action of debt againſt the leſſee, for there is no privity betwixt them. But it was agreed by [24] Popham chief Juſtice, Clench, Gawdy and Fenner Juſtices, that after the aſſignment the leſſor himſelf may have an Action of debt againſt the leſſee for rent due after the aſſignment. Trinit. 37 Eliz. in the Kings bench, Rot. 1042. between Overton and Sydhall two Points were reſolved by Popham chief Juſtice and the whole Court.

1. That if the Executor of a leſſee for years aſſign over his intereſt, that an Action of debt doth not lie againſt him for rent due after the aſſignment.

2. If the leſſee for years aſſign over his intereſt, and dieth, the Executor ſhall not be charged for rent due after his death, for by the death of the leſſee the perſonal privity of contract as to the Action of debt in both Caſes was determined. And Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz. between George Brome Eſquire Plaintiff, and Hore Defendant, the Caſe in effect was ſuch; A. leaſed to C. three acres of land for years rendring rent, the ſaid C. aſſigned all his intereſt in one acre to another, A. ſuffered a common recovery to the uſe of B. in fee who brought an Action of debt againſt the firſt leſſee, and it was adjudged by Popham chief Juſtice and the whole Court, that the Action did lie; for in as much as the leſſee hath aſſigned his intereſt but in part, and remaineth poſſeſſed of the reſidue, that not only the leſſor, but alſo his aſſignee, or he who claimeth under him ſhall have an action of debt for the whole rent againſt the leſſee, for there was not privity of contract only, but alſo privity in eſtate and contract together, and therefore the action in this Caſe ſhall go with the eſtate; As if at Common Law, if before the Statute of Quia emptores terrarum the tenant had made a feoffment in fee of part of the tenancy, there was not any apporcionment, but the Lord, or his grantee ſhall avow upon the feoffor, for as much as he remaineth tenant in reſpect of the reſidue: But if he had made a feoffment of the whole, then the grantee of the Lord ſhall not avow upon him, as it hath been ſaid before: See 22 Aſſ. 52. 24 H. 8, 4. b. 32 H. 8. Br. Acceptance for this matter. And Popham chief Juſtice in this Caſe ſaid, That in Caſe when rent upon a leaſe for years ſhall be apporcioned, if in an Action of debt the leſſor demand more quam oportet; yet upon Nihil debet the leſſor ſhall recover as much as ſhall be apporcioned and aſſeſſed by the Jury, and ſhall be barred for the reſidue. And Paſch. 41 Eliz. Rot. 2485. in the Common Pleas, Samuel Marrow brought an Action of Debt againſt Fr. Turpin, and W. Turpin Executors of George Turpin, and declared upon [b] a demiſe made by the Plaintiff by deed indented of certain land to the inteſtate for years rendring rent, and for rent behind after the death of the inteſtate the Action was brought; The Defendant pleaded that before the rent behind, one of the Defendants had aſſigned all his intereſt to Thomas Boorde, of which aſſignment the Plaintiff had notice, and accepted the rent by the hands of the aſſignee due at a day after the aſſignment, and before the day at which the rent now in demand was due, upon which the Plaintiff did demur. And it was adjudged againſt the Plaintiff, becauſe that the privity of the contract as to the Action of debt was determined by the death of the leſſee; and therefore after aſſigment made by the adminiſtrator, debt did not lie againſt the adminiſtrator for rent due after the aſſignment according to the Judgment given in Overton and Sydhals Caſe before.

Alſo it was ſaid, that if the leſſee aſſign over his term, the leſſor may charge the leſſee or his aſſignee at his election; and therefore if the leſſor accept the rent of the aſſignee, he hath determined his election, and ſhall not have an Action againſt the leſſee after for rent due after the aſſignment, no more then if the Lord once accept of the rent of the feoffee, he ſhall not avow upon his feoffor: And by theſe Judgments and Reſolutions you ſhall the better underſtand your Books, betwixt which prima facie ſeem to be ſome diverſity of opinions, Vide 44 E. 3. 5. & 44 Aſſ. 18. 9 H. 6. 52. by Paſton, which agree with the Judgment of Sir Criſtopher Wray. See 8 Eliz. Dier 247. and the Quære there made, is now well reſolved.

Mich. 32 & 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Butler and Baker's Caſe.

[25] IN an Action of Treſpaſs brought by John Butler againſt Thomas Baker and Thomas Delves Defendants for Treſpaſs in parcel of the Mannor of Thoby in the County of Eſſex, and upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect; William Barners ſeiſed of the Mannor of Hynton in the County of Glouceſter, had iſſue William his eldeſt ſon, Thomas and Leonard Barners, and that William the ſon married Elizabeth Eden; and afterwards 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. William the father in conſideration of the ſaid marriage, and for a Joynture for the ſaid Elizabeth, did enfeoff of the ſaid Mannor of Hynton Robert Rocheſter Knight, and others unto the uſe of the ſaid William the ſon and Elizabeth his wife and the heirs of their two bodies begotten; And afterwards William the father died, by which the reverſion of Hynton deſcended to William the ſon; and that William the ſon was alſo ſeiſed of the Mannor of Thoby (whereof the place in which is parcel) and of certain lands in Fobbing in the County of Eſſex in fee, and had iſſue Thomas and Griſild now the wife of Baker one of the Defendants; And afterwards William the ſon by his laſt Will in writing deviſed, that Elizabeth his wife ſhould have and hold during her life the Mannor of Thoby in conſideration of her Joynture and Dower in all his other Mannors and lands; Provided always, that if the ſaid Elizabeth ſhall take her ſelf to any former Joynture of any lands of William the ſon, that then the ſaid Will of the Mannor of Thoby as to the ſaid Elizabeth ſhould be void: And after the death of the ſaid Elizabeth, the ſaid Mannor of Thoby ſhould remain to Thomas his ſon, and to the heirs males of his body, the remainder to the heirs males of the body of the ſaid William the ſon, the remainder to Thomas his brother for life, the remainder to his eldeſt ſon in tail, the remainder to Leonard Barners, and to the heirs males of his body, the remainder to Richard Barners in tail, the remainder to the right heirs of William Barners the ſon. And that William the ſon ſo [b] as aforeſaid ſeiſed of all the premiſſes, died thereof ſo ſeiſed; and that the Mannors of Thoby and Hynton were holden of the Queen in Capite by Knights ſervice, and that after the death of William the ſon, his wife by word in the Country did wave her eſtate in Hynton, and agreed to the Mannor of Thoby and entred into it; And that the Mannor of Hynton and the lands in Fobbing were an entire third part of all the lands and tenements whereof William the ſon died ſeiſed. And that Thomas ſon of William, and Thomas ſon of the father were dead without iſſue, by which Leonard entred into the Mannor of Thoby, and took to wife Mary Gedges and died, Anthony his ſon aſſigned the Mannor of Thoby to the ſaid Mary for her Dower now the wife of Butler the Plaintiff. And that Thomas Delves one of the Defendants by the command of Baker the other of the Defendants entred, &c. And if the entry of the ſaid Delves were lawful is the doubt; and the Caſe in effect is ſuch: William ſeiſed of Thoby and Fobbing, and William and Elizabeth his wife ſeiſed of Hynton to them and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten by eſtate made to them before the marriage for the Joynture of the wife, the reverſion to William in fee, Thoby amounting to the value of two parts, and Fobbing and Hynton to a full third part. Thoby and Hynton are holden in Capite; William by his Will deviſeth in writing Thoby to his wife for her life, upon condition that ſhe ſhall not take her former Joynture, with divers remainders over and dieth; The wife in the Country refuſeth her former Joynture in Hynton. If the Will be good for the whole of Thoby, or but for part. And two Queſtions were moved in this Caſe.

by

1. If the refuſal in the Country ſhall deveſt the eſtate tail which was ſetled in the Wife.

2. Admitting the refuſal in the Country ſhall deveſt it, if the refuſal ſhall have ſuch relation that the Will ſhall be good for the whole Mannor of Thoby by the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. or ſhall be void for part. And this Caſe was argued in the Kings Bench by Egerton the Queens Sollicitor and Thomas Buckley for the Plaintiff, and by Popham the Queens Attorney and Coke for the Defendant. And afterwards Mich. 33 & 34. Eliz. the Caſe was argued by the Court, and Fenner and Clench argued for the Plaintiff, and Wray chief Juſtice, and Gawdy for the Defendant. And after the ſame Term the Caſe was argued by the Councel of the one and the other ſide in the Exchequer Chamber before all the Juſtices of England; and Wray chief Juſtice told me, that Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, [26] and Manwood chief Baron did agree with him; And afterwards Wray chief Juſtice the laſt day of Eaſter Term 34 Eliz. died, who was a moſt reverend Judge, of profound and judicial knowledge, accompanied with a ready and ſingular capacity, grave and ſenſible elocution, and continual and admirable patience; and Sir John Popham the Queens late Attorney General did ſucceed him. And afterwards in Michaelmas Term 34 & 35 Eliz. Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron died, who was alſo a reverend Judge of great and excellent knowledge in the Law, and accompanied with a ready invention and good elocution; and Sir William Periam Knight, late one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas ſucceeded him. And afterwards the Caſe was oftentimes argued as well in the Exchequer Chamber as at Serjeants Inn before all the Juſtices of England and Barons of the Exchequer; and after many conferences between themſelves, Judgment was commanded to be entred for the Defendant, which was done in the Kings Bench accordingly; and in this Caſe divers Points were reſolved.

Firſt, That at the Common Law, if lands be given to the husband and wife in tail, or in fee, and the husband dieth, there the wife cannot deveſt the freehold out of her by any verbal waver or diſagreement in the Country: As if before any entry made by her, ſhe ſaith that ſhe utterly waveth and diſagreeth to the ſaid eſtate, and will never take, or accept thereof; yet the freehold doth remain in her, and ſhe may enter when ſhe pleaſeth: So if before her entry, ſhe reciting her eſtate, had ſaid by word in pais that ſhe doth aſſent and agree to the ſaid eſtate, or as much, yet after ſhe might wave the ſame in a Court of Record; for a verbal aſſent and agreement in pais as it was holden by divers in ſuch Caſe is not of any effect in Law, for the Law doth more reſpect an act without words, then words without act, and therefore if ſhe enter into the land and taketh the profits, although ſhe ſaith nothing, it is a good agreement in Law, for the Law doth reſpect deeds, but words without deeds are not in this Caſe regarded in Law, as it is adjudged in M. 34 E. 1. Avowry 232. That if a man take a diſtreſs for one thing, yet when he commeth into a Court of Record he may avow for what thing he pleaſeth, a multo fortiori [b] where a freehold is veſted in him the ſame cannot be deveſted by bare word in the Country, and therewith agreeth 17 E. 3. 6. & 17 Aſſ. where the husband alieneth his land, and taketh back an eſtate to him and his wife in tail, the husband dieth, the Lord of whom the land was holden by Knights ſervice ſuppoſing the husband died ſole ſeiſed, by word aſſigned Dower to the wife which ſhe accepted, yet it was adjudged that the refuſal of the eſtate of inheritance, and acceptance of her Dower in pais, ſhall not deveſt the freehold out of her. Alſo in 13 R. 2. Jointenancy, the Caſe was; A Charter of feoffment was made to four, and ſeiſin was delivered to three in the name of all, and after the ſeiſin was given, the fourth came and ſaw the Deed, and ſaid by word that he would have nothing in the land nor agree to the Deed, but diſagree; and it was adjudged that this diſagreement by word in pais ſhould not deveſt the freehold out of him. And Thorpe in 35 E. 3. tit. Diſclaimer ſaith, that in ſuch Caſe the Tenancy doth remain in all notwithſtanding diſagreement in a Court of Record. Another reaſon was alledged, That a freehold ſhall not ſo eaſily be deveſted by bare word in pais, to the end that the Tenant to the Præcipe may be the better known: But as an act in pais may amount to an agreement, ſo an act in pais may amount to a diſagreement, but that is always of one ſame thing: As if Lord and Tenant be, and the Tenant by deed doth enfeoff the Lord and a ſtranger, and maketh livery to the ſtranger in the name of both, in this Caſe if the Lord by word diſagree to the eſtate, it is nothing worth; and on the other ſide, if he entreth into the land generally and taketh the profits, this act ſhall amount to an agreement to the feoffment; but if he enter into the land, and diſtrain for his Seigniory, this act amounteth to a diſagreement to the feoffment, and ſhall deveſt the freehold out of him, and therewith agreeth 10 E. 4. 12. by all the Juſtices: And yet in ſome Caſe a claim by word ſhall direct an entry to be an agreement to one eſtate, and a diſagreement to another. As if lands be given to the husband and wife in tail, and after the Statute of 32 H. 8. the husband alieneth the land to the uſe of him and his heirs, and afterwards deviſeth the ſame to the wife for life and dieth, the wife entreth claiming by word the eſtate for life, this is a good diſagreement to the eſtate of inheritance, and a good agreement to the eſtate for life, and therewith agreeth 18 Eliz. Dier 351. b. for there is not any doubt of Tenant to the Præcipe, and the act and words work together. But if the wife before her entry agree by word to an eſtate, and diſagree to the other, it is nothing worth; But if A. maketh an obligation to B. and delivereth the ſame to C. to the uſe of B. this is the deed of A. preſently: But if C. offer it to B. there B. may refuſe the ſame in pais, and thereby the obligation ſhall loſe its force (but perhaps in ſuch Caſe A. in an Action brought upon this obligation cannot plead that it was not his deed, becauſe it was once his deed) and therewith agreeth Hill. 1 Eliz. Rot. 442. in Tawes Caſe Reported by Serjeant Bendloes, and by the Lord Dier Hill. 1 Eliz. 167. The ſame Law of a gift of goods and chattels, if the deed be delivered to the uſe of the donee, the goods and chattels are in the donee preſently before notice or agreement, but the donee may make refuſal in pais, and by that the property and intereſt ſhall be deveſted, and ſuch diſagreement need not to be in Court of Record. Note Reader by this Reſolution, leſt you be drawn to error by certain opinions delivered by the way in 7 E. 4. 7. & 19. b. 8 E. 4. 29. 8 H. 7. 13. 39 H. 6. 44. b. and divers other Books obiter.

[27]

Secondly, it was reſolved, that though the eſtate is created by limitation of uſe, by limitation made after the Statute of 27 H. 8. which Statute hath transferred the uſe unto poſſeſſion, for ſo is the uſual pleading, de uſibus in poſſeſſionem transferendis, and although that an uſe might have been waved by word in pais before the ſaid Statute, yet now the Statute doth incorporate the uſe and poſſeſſion of the land, and hath coupled them together with an indiſſoluble conjunction, and therefore no more then an eſtate created by feoffment, gift, or grant can be waved in pais, no more can ſuch eſtate created by limitation of uſe, which matter upon theſe words of the ſaid Act (in ſuch manner, form, and condition) is well and at large explained and reſolved in Dillon and Freins Caſe, and in Corbet's Caſe: And therefore it was reſolved in this Caſe at Bar, the refuſal in pais to have the Mannor of Hynton, and the entry and agreement to the Mannor of Thoby was a good agreement to one, and a refuſal to the other, and by the inheritance was deveſted, and that by force of the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap. 10. verſus finem, concerning Joyntures of wives, by which it is provided, That if any wife ſhall have any Mannors, &c. unto her given, or aſſured, after marriage for term of her life, &c. that then ſuch wife over living her husband, ſhall and may at her liberty after the death of her ſaid husband refuſe to have, and take the lands, &c. and to have, demand, and take her Dower, any thing in this Act to the contrary notwithſtanding. By which words it was unanimouſly agreed by all the Juſtices and Barons of the Exchequer, That the wife may refuſe her Joynture in pais, and be endowed by conſent in pais, or by Writ of Dower. And therewith agreeth Whorewoods Caſe 33 H. 8. Dier 61. b.

The third Point, and the great doubt of the Caſe was upon a branch of the Statute of 34 & 35 H. 8. of Wills, by which it is enacted, That the Act of 32 H. 8. of Wills, Shall be extended and expounded, and taken as hereafter enſueth, that is to ſay, That the King ſhall have and take for his full third part of all ſuch Mannors, lands, &c. whereunto he is or ſhall be intituled by the ſaid former Act, and by this preſent Act ſuch Mannors, lands, and tenements as ſhall by any means deſcend, or come by deſcent, as well of eſtate of inheritance in fee tail as fee ſimple, or in fee tail only, &c. immediately after the death of the ſame deviſor or owner thereof. And that the Will, &c, ſhall ſtand good and effectual in Law albeit the ſame Will, &c. be had and made of all his fee ſimple lands, &c. or of the more part of them, And if in this the refuſal of Hynton hath ſuch relation or operation in Law, that now upon the matter, Hynton and Fobbing do deſcend immediately after the death of the deviſor; And it was ſtrongly objected, that now upon the matter Hynton and Fobbing deſcend immediately after the death of the deviſor within the intention and meaning of the ſaid branch of the Act of 34 & 35 H. 8. and that for divers reaſons and cauſes.

[b]

1. Becauſe this Caſe doth conſiſt upon conſtruction of an Act of Parliament, and of a Will or Teſtament, both which are always conſtrued and expounded according to the intent and meaning of the parties thereto, and not by any ſtrict or ſtrained conſtruction.

2. This refuſal ſhall have ſuch relation and operation in Law, that now upon the matter Hynton immediately deſcend, and now ab initio the husband was ſeiſed ſole of the Mannor of Hynton. And many Caſes were put upon the general ground of relations. But I will report thoſe only which I conceive to be moſt material. It was ſaid, that of a joynt eſtate a woman ſhall not be endowed: But if lands be given to husband and wife, and the heirs of the husband, or the heirs of their two bodies, or to their heirs, and afterwards the husband dieth; now if ſhe will wave and refuſe the joynt eſtate, the wife may bring her Writ of Dower, and thereby by Judgment of Law the husband ſhall be ſaid ſole ſeiſed ab intio, for otherwiſe the wife cannot be endowed, and yet in truth the husband and wife were joyntenants during all the coverture; but now the refuſal ſhall have ſuch relation, that in judgment of Law the husband was ab initio ſole ſeized: And therewith agreeth the Book in 11 E. 3. tit. dower 63. where the Caſe was, Lord and Tenant of a houſe holden by homage and 10 s. rent, the Tenant enfeoffed W. the Lord granted the Seigniory to the husband and wife in tail, W. attorned, the husband died, the Lord ſurvived the wife, and ſhe brought a Writ of Dower, in barr of which the Lord pleaded acceptance of homage, by which it was admitted that the Writ of Dower did lie. In an Action of Waſte brought by Robert Thetford againſt Andrew Thetford, Paſch. 28 Eliz. Rot. 122. in the Common Pleas, the Plaintiff counted that J. A. gave to John Thetford and Thomaſin his wife, and to the heirs of their bodies (whoſe heir the Plaintiff is) and that John and Thomaſine 3 & 4 Phil. & Mary made a demiſe unto the Defendant for 21 years, and that the donees were dead, and that the Plaintiff was heir in tail, and that [28] the Defendant had done Waſte: The Defendant pleaded quod prædicti' Johannes & Thomaſina non demiſer', &c. upon which they were at iſſue; The Jury found, that the ſaid John and Thomaſine by their Deed indented made the leaſe to the Plaintiff for 21 years ut ſupra, and that John died, and after his death Thomaſine entred and diſagreed to the ſaid leaſe; and the iſſue was found for the Plaintiff, for as much as it was found that both made the leaſe, as the Plaintiff had counted, which was the point of the iſſue; or if it were found for the Defendant by matter ex poſt facto, that is to ſay, by the diſagreement of the wife, that was the Queſtion.

were

And after great conſideration, and many arguments at the Bar and Bench, the Juſtices of the Common Pleas gave Judgment for the Defendant; for now by the diſagreement of the wife, in judgment of Law it was the leaſe of the husband only, and yet in truth during the life of the husband it was the leaſe of both, as it appeareth by 7 H. 4. 13. in Waſt. 3 H. 6. 53. in Waſt. 22 H. 6. 24. But now by the diſagreement ſubſequent, and by relation and operation of Law it was ab initio the leaſe of the husband only, for if it ab initio had not been the leaſe of the husband only, the iſſue had been found for the Plaintiff: and the Caſe of Whorewood 38 H. 8. Dier 61. was ſtrongly urged, where the Caſe was, That W. Whorewood the Kings late Attorney General being ſeiſed of the inheritance of lands of the value of 630 l. in which the wife is joynt purchaſor with the husband of 60 l. by his laſt Will in writing declared, That his wife ſhall have during her life the third part of all his lands and tenements, with the ſaid lands which ſhe had in Joynture, the ſaid part to be aſſigned by his Executors, and died, the wife refuſed her Joynture, and demanded a third part of the whole land, that is to ſay, 120 l. as a legacy, and 80 l. per ann. as a third part of the reſidue for her Dower: And it was ordered and decreed in the Court of Wards that ſhe ſhould have her legacy, ſcil. the third part of the whole: by which it appeareth, that the refuſal of the wife ſhall have relation ab initio to make the husband ſole ſeized of the whole, or otherwiſe the ſaid deviſe cannot extend to that whereof ſhe was joyntly ſeized. And ſo in the Caſe at Bar, the refuſal of the wife hath ſuch relation and operation in Law, that now upon the matter the husband was ab initio ſole ſeiſed of the Mannor of Hynton, had by conſequence the ſame doth deſcend after the death of the husband, and ſo the deviſe of the whole Mannor of Thoby good and effectual in Law; for now it amounts to ſo much as if the uſe had been limited only to William, and to his heirs on the bo- [b] dy of Elizabeth begotten; And where the Statute of 34 H. 8. ſpeaketh of deſcent, immediately after the deceaſe, &c. the ſame is true, for now upon the matter the Mannor of Hynton deſcends immediately, for now the impediment, that is to ſay, the eſtate of the wife is removed ab initio; and yet this word (immediately) ſhall not have ſuch ſtrict conſtruction, that it ought to be in ipſo articulo temporis, but ſhall be ſatisfied if it be done in convenient time: As in 18 E. 4 22. a man is bound to make an obligation immediately, yet he ſhall have convenient time to do it: But it was anſwered and reſolved, That the ſaid refuſal in the Caſe at Bar ſhall not have ſuch relation or operation in Law, that the deviſe ſhall be good for the whole Mannor of Thoby, and that for two general cauſes:

1. Upon the reaſon of the Common Law, and 2. upon the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. As to the firſt it was reſolved, that relation is a fiction of Law, to make a nullity of a thing ab initio (to a certain intent) which in rei veritate had eſſence, and the rather for neceſſity, ut res magis valeat quam pereat; And therefore in the ſaid Caſe of Dower in 11 E. 3. to this intent that the wife ſhall have Dower, which it is not poſſible for her to have, if her refuſal ſhall not have relation ab initio; for this cauſe, and for neceſſity the Law ſhall make a nullity of it; but as to any other collateral intent, the Law ſhall not make any nullity thereof: As if a man make a gift in tail to husband and wife, and afterward granteth the reverſion of the lands and tenements which the husband and wife held in tail, and after the husband dieth, and the wife to have her Dower wave and diſagree to the eſtate tail; Now as to her there is a nullity of the eſtate ab initio, and to ſuch intent the Law feigneth that the eſtate was made only to the husband; but as to the grantee of the reverſion, which is a collateral act, the refuſal ſhall not have any ſuch relation, for ſhe may be endowed, although this act ſtand, and ſo no neceſſity, and therefore without neceſſity ut res magis valeat quem pereat, the Law ſhall not feign any nullity, but in deſtruction of a lawful eſtate veſted, the Law will never make any fiction. So in the Caſe at Bar, for the Mannor of Hynton only the Law ſhall make ſuch a fiction, but for the Mannor of Thoby which is a collateral thing, no ſuch fiction ſhall be made, for relatio eſt fictio juris, & eſt intenta ad unum, and that was the firſt reaſon. And as to Whorewood's Caſe it was ſaid, that the decree was made by agreement, as it appeareth by the ſaid Caſe; and the ſcope of the caſe was, that ſhe would have the third part as a legacy, and her Dower alſo, and by agreement ſhe took compoſition for the whole; and it doth not appear by the ſaid Caſe, whether the wife were joynt purchaſor for life, in tail, or in fee, nor whether any part of the land were holden in Capite, or by Knights ſervice. The ſecond reaſon was, that relations in many Caſes ſhall help acts in Law, [29] as in the Caſe of Dower, &c. but ſhall never help acts of the parties, that is to ſay, to make void acts of the parties good, by relation, or fiction of Law; and therefore if a man doth enfeoff an infant, or a feme covert, and afterwards give, or grant, or deviſe the land, or any other thing out of the land to another, and afterwards the infant, or the husband diſagree, the ſame without queſtion ſhall have relation between the parties ab initio, to this intent that the infant or husband ſhall not be charged in damages, or receive any prejudice; but as to the void grant or deviſe of the party it ſhall never make the void grant, gift, or deviſe, good. Alſo if one deviſe land to one by deed for life, the remainder to the King in fee, and the King granteth the remainder over in fee, and afterwards the deed is enrolled, in this Caſe the enrolment ſhall have relation for neceſſity, and ut res magis valeat quam pereat, that the remainder quaſi ab initio ſhall paſs by fiction of Law, for otherwiſe it ſhould never paſs, and therefore to this intent only it ſhall have relation: but to make the Patent (which was void at the time of the grant) good, it ſhall have no relation. So if a diſſeiſor maketh a feoffment in fee by deed to A. and B. and maketh livery to A. in the name of both, and afterwards A. dieth, in this Caſe B. to diſcharge himſelf of damages may refuſe it, as hath been ſaid; and it ſhall have relation ab initio to diſcharge him of damages; but to make any leaſe, gift, or grant, or deviſe good, or any other act of the party good, it ſhall not have relation.

the

And it was ſaid, that as relations ſhall extend only to the ſame thing, and to one and the ſame intent, ſo they ſhall extend only between the ſame parties, and ſhall never be ſtrained to the prejudice of a third perſon who is not party, or privy to the ſaid act. And therefore if a man maketh a feoffment of a Manor by deed, or without deed, and long time after the livery the Tenants attorn to the feoffee, in this Caſe the Attornment for neceſſity, and ut res magis valeat ſhall have relation by fiction of Law to paſs ab initio, for otherwiſe they can never paſſe. And if they ſhall not paſs ab initio by a fiction of Law, they ſhall not be parcel of the Mannor according to the intent and purpoſe of the feoffment, if they ſhall paſs at ſeveral times: But yet this relation ſhall not charge the tenants for the arrearages in the mean time: So if feoffee upon condition grant a rent charge out of the land, and afterwards the Grantee bringeth a Writ of Annuity, now ab initio it was an Annuity between the grantor and grantee; but as to the feoffor who by the grant was entituled to enter for the condition broken, it ſhall not have any relation to his prejudice. So it is adjudged in 30 E. 3. 17. in a Dum fuit infra ætatem againſt Richard Spellow, the Tenant [b] ſaid that his father was ſeiſed and died ſeiſed, and prayed his age, the Defendant counterpleaded the age, becauſe that his father and he himſelf were joyntly enfeoffed, and to the heirs of the father: And it was adjudged, that he ſhall not have his age, for although that this refuſal ſhall have relation as to himſelf, yet as to the demandant who is a ſtranger, it ſhall not have relation to delay his Action, when in truth he had the free-hold by purchaſe. Further it was ſaid, that no relation ſhall make that torcious which was lawful; for as it hath been ſaid, relations are fictions in Law, which will never do wrong: Upon all which matter it was concluded, That this refuſal ſhall have relation only as to the Mannor of Hynton, and not as to the Mannor of Thoby, and to the intent only that the wife ſhall not be prejudiced for any thing concerning the Mannor of Hynton; and this relation ſhall not prejudice the heir who is a third perſon, upon whom by the death of the deviſor part of the Mannor of Thoby did deſcend, and it ſhall not deveſt that which the Law by deſcent hath lawfully ſetled by the death of the deviſor in the Mannor of Thoby: But as the Will took effect at the time of his death, it ſhall remain, for omne Teſtamentum morte conſummatum eſt, and the refuſal of the wife as to the Mannor of Hynton cannot make the deviſe as to the third part of the Mannor of Thoby good, which was void when the deviſe took effect, ſcil. at the time of the death of the deviſor.

Note Reader, not only in this Caſe of relation, which is a fiction of Law, but alſo in all other fictions of Law they are to certain reſpects and purpoſes, and extend only to certain perſons. As the Law ſuppoſeth, that the vouchee is Tenant of the land, whereas in truth he is not, but the ſame is as to the demandant himſelf, and to enable him to do all things as to the demandant, as which the demandant may do to him: and therefore a fine levied by the vouchee to the demandant, or a fine or releaſe from the demandant to the vouchee is good; but a fine levied by the vouchee to a ſtranger is void, and therewith agreeth 7 E. 4. 13. So if the Tenant hanging a Præcipe againſt him maketh a feoffment as to the demandant, the Law doth ſuppoſe him Tenant of the land, and he ſhall plead all pleas which the Tenant of the land may plead; but in rei veritate the feoffee is Tenant of the land as to ſtrangers: So if donee in tail maketh a feoffment in fee, in rei veritate the donee hath not neque jus in rei veritate, neque jus ad rem, and yet the donee may extinguiſh or diminiſh his rent by releaſe or confirmation made to him; as [30] it is agreed 14 H. 4. 38. 1 H. 5. Grants 53. in all which Caſes, and other the like the Law ſhall never make any fiction, but for neceſſity and in avoidance of a miſchief, for if the vouchee ſhall not be tenant as to the demandant, or that the tenant after the feoffment ſhall not be as to the demandant tenant of the land, the demandant in the one Caſe and the other can never have the effect of his ſuit but ſhall be for ever delayed; And in the latter Caſe notwithſtanding the feoffment the donee ſhall remain Tenant as to him, and for neceſſity he ſhall avow for his rent upon him, for he cannot avow upon the diſcontinuee, for then upon his own ſhewing, the reverſion to which the rent is incident ſhould be deveſted out of him by the feoffment, and by conſequence he cannot maintain his Avowry for the rent, and therefore for neceſſity he ſhall avow upon the donee, and his feoffment which is his own act, and by which wrong is done ſhall not avail him to bar the donor of his rent, for a man ſhall never take benefit of his own wrong, and that is (as to this Point) as it ſeems to me the better opinion of the Books. As to the Statutes of 32 & 33 H. 8. it was reſolved, that after the Statute of 27 H. 8. and before the Statute of 32 H. 8. the Mannor of Thoby was not deviſable; and becauſe that William Barners the deviſor hath not followed the power and authority (which the Statute of 32 H 8. and the Statute of 34 H. 8. which explaineth it) hath given to him, it was reſolved, that the Will was void for part of the Mannor of Thoby. And the ſame was collected upon four parts of the ſaid Acts, the effect of which I have abridged as followeth.

The firſt Branch of the Act of 34 H. 8.

1. That all and every perſon having a ſole eſtate in fee ſimple of any Mannors holden in chief, &c. ſhall have full and free liberty, power and authority to give or diſpoſe by his laſt Will in writing as much as in him of right, as much of, &c. as ſhall amount to the full and clear yearly value of two parts in three parts to be divided.

The ſecond Branch.

2. The ſame diviſion to be ſet out by the deviſor, owner, or in default thereof by Commiſſion to be granted out of the Court of Wards.

The third Branch.

3. And that the King ſhall take for his full third part ſuch Mannors, &c. of eſtate of inheritance, as well in fee tail as in fee ſimple, as ſhall deſcend, or come by deſcent, &c. immediately after the death of ſuch deviſor.

The fourth Branch.

4. And if in Caſe the Mannors, &c. which ſhall immediately after his death deſcend, &c. ſhall not extend to the value of a full third part, the King may take, &c. to make up, &c.

And upon theſe four parts it was concluded for divers notable reaſons, That the deviſor had not [b] power to deviſe the whole Mannor of Thoby by force of the ſaid Statutes: And to this purpoſe four reaſons were collected upon the ſaid firſt Branch.

Firſt upon this word (having) and therefore it was demanded, quis poteſt ligare? The makers of the Act anſwer, Every perſon having Mannors, &c. ſo that it is not ſaid every perſon generally, but every perſon having, &c. And this word (having) importeth two things, ſcil. ownerſhip, and time of ownerſhip, for he ought to have the land at the time of the making of his Will, and the Statute giveth to ſuch perſon having, &c. authority to deviſe two parts of his lands which he hath, and more he cannot deviſe, for his authority doth not extend to more: And in our Caſe the deviſor had not the Mannor of Hynton, for he and his wife were joynt-tenants of it during the coverture, between whom are no moieties: ſo that he and his wife had it, but himſelf had it not, and is not owner thereof, nor is it to be accounted any of his lands: And every deviſor ought to be a perſon having, &c. at the time of the making of his Will within the purview of this Act. This appeareth 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. Dier 158. a man ſeiſed in fee of land of Socage tenure, aſſured the ſame to his wife in Joynture in anno 32 H. 8. and 8 years after in 2 E. 6. he purchaſed lands in fee holden in Capite in Knights ſervice, and of two parts thereof made his Will, and died his heir within age; and it was reſolved, that the Queen ſhall not have any part of the joynture of the wife, and that by force of theſe words in the Act of Explanation of 34 H. 8. and having no lands holden by Knights ſervice, becauſe he was not a perſon having any lands holden of the King by Knights ſervice in Capite at the time of the Joynture made. It was reſolved upon the ſame reaſon in the Court of Wards, and in Trinit. 29 Eliz. Carre's Caſe, was reſolved by the chief Juſtices Wray and Anderſon, upon conference with divers other Juſtices, and the Caſe was ſuch: King E. 6. by his Letters Patents granted the Mannor of Congresbury unto G. Owen in fee Farm, to hold of the Mannor of Eaſt Greenwich in Socage; and rendring the annual rent of 95 l. per ann. And afterwards Queen Mary in the firſt year of her reign granted divers Mannors which came to the Crown by the attainder of Margaret Counteſs of Salisbury, and alſo 54 l. per ann. parcel of the ſaid rent of 95 l. to Francis Earl of Huntington and to Katharine his wife, and to the heirs males of the body of the ſaid Katharine, the remainder to Winifred Haſtings in tail, to hold in Socage, the reverſion of the fee being in the Crown: And afterwards King Philip and Queen Mary recited the ſaid grant made by the ſame [31] Queen, as to the ſaid rent, granted the reverſion of the ſaid rent, to the ſaid Earl of Huntington and Katherine his wife, and to the heirs of the ſaid Katherine to hold in chief by the 20th part of a Knights fee; and afterwards G. Owen being ſeiſed of the Mannor of Congresbury purchaſed the ſaid rent of 54 l. per ann. by which it was extinct; And afterwards G. Owen died ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor, and the ſame deſcended to Richard his ſon in fee, who by his Will in writing deviſed the ſame to divers perſons for payment of his debts, and died his heir of full age; and although the ſaid rent was extinct between the parties, yet it was ſaid that in conſideration of Law, it was in being as to the King for the benefit of his tenure: As in 26 Aſſ. there the King was ſeiſed of the Honor of Pickering, and granted the Bayliwick thereof in fee, and afterwards the Baily forfeited his Office of Bailywick, after the ſaid Honor was granted over to another, whereof the Patentee took advantage, for which it was utterly void: But as to the King for the preſervation of the rent it had continuance: 11 H. 7. a meſnalty deſcends to the tenant paravail, and although it be extinct, yet the Lord paramount ſhall have the Ward, 31 E. 3. tit. Aſſets, a rent extinct ſhall be Aſſets, 10 E. 3. Mortmain 17. 38 Aſſ. 17. F. N. B. 223. A rent extinct by releaſe to an Abbot is Mortmain; yet it was reſolved, and ſo decreed, that the deviſe was good for all the land in reſpect of this word (having) for Richard Owen was not a perſon having the rent at the time of the making of his Will, but he was a perſon having the Mannor, and therefore he might deviſe the ſame; and for as much as it was holden in Socage the deviſe was good in all; and that was the reaſon of the Lord Dier in Brets Caſe Plowd. Com. That the deviſe there in the principal Caſe was not good, becauſe that the deviſor had not the land at the time of the deviſe, and grounded his reaſon upon this word (having.) And Wray chief Juſtice in his argument (which was the laſt argument that ever he made) held that this word (having) importeth, That the deviſor ought to have the land, either to the time of the making of his Will, or at the publication thereof, which amounteth in Law to a making.

of

And that the Statute of 34 H. 8. which is but an Act of explanation of the Act of 22 H. 8. ſhall not be conſtrued by any ſtraining ſenſe againſt the letter of the Act; for if any expoſition ſhall be made againſt the direct letter of the expoſition made by Parliament, there ſhall never be end of expounding; and therefore he ſaid, he hath not ſeen any Caſe adjudged, that the Act of 34 hath been interpreted againſt the letter by other conſtruction than the makers of the Act have made; and therefore he ſaid, that if a man hath lands holden in Capite of the yearly value of 20 l. and land in Socage of the yearly va-
[b] lue of 10 l. that he may deviſe all the land holden in Capite, for the ſame is within the expreſs words of the Act; and therefore he denied the opinion of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas concerning ex improviſo in 21 Eliz. Dier 366.

Note Reader, the reaſon of ſuch opinion (as I conceive) was becauſe, that if the deviſe ſhall be good for all the land holden in Capite, the King as it ſeemeth prima facie, ſhall not have in ſuch Caſe, neither Wardſhip, nor Primer ſeiſin, becauſe that the heir hath not any land holden in Capite whereof he may ſue Livery, for only the land in Socage deſcendeth to him. And therefore the Judges there ſaid, that if the deviſe ſhall be good for all the land holden in Capite, the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. ſhould be fruſtrate and defrauded. But as I conceive, the opinion of Wray chief Juſtice is good Law; for although the deviſe be good for all the lands holden in Capite, yet the Queen ſhall have Wardſhip and Primer ſeiſin as the Caſe requireth, by force of the ſavings of the ſaid Acts: For if in ſuch Caſes the Tenant by Act executed, had conveyed all the land holden in Capite, unto the uſe of his wife, or for the preferment of any of his children, or for the payment of his debts, in this Caſe the heir ſhall ſue Livery for one acre of land holden in Capite, and yet none of the land holden in Capite deſcendeth to the heir: And ſo it was reſolved and decreed in the Court of Wards in Calthrop's Caſe 20 Eliz.

And he ſaid, that two things are requiſite to the perfection of a Will, by which land ſhall paſs; that is to ſay, the writing, for that is initium, and the death of the deviſor, and that is finis vel conſummatio; and he ſaid, that initium ought to be plenum & perfectum, or otherwiſe it is worth nought; And therefore if one command another to make his Will, and by the ſame to deviſe W. acre to J. S. and his heirs, and B. acre to J. N. and his heirs, and he writeth the deviſe to J. S. in the life of the deviſor, and before the other is written the deviſor dieth, yet it is a good Will to J. S. But if he command one to make his Will, and to deviſe W. acre to J. S. and his heirs upon condition, and the deviſor dieth, this deviſe is void, for in no Caſes the deviſes are ſeveral and diſtinct, and in ſuch Caſe the deviſe to J. S. is full and perfect, but in the latter Caſe the deviſe is not full, but maimed and unperfect, for the whole deviſe as to J. S. was not fully put in writing, and ſo initium in ſuch Caſe non fuit plenum.

So it was reſolved in the Caſe at Bar, That neither the beginning, nor the end of the Will was full or perfect; For at the time of the writing, and at the time of the death of the deviſor, he had not power in reſpect of the joynt eſtate in Hynton to diſpoſe all the Mannor of Thoby which amounted to the [31] value of two parts of the whole, & omne Teſtamentum morte conſummatum eſt, and becauſe that by the death of the deviſor Hynton ſurvived to the wife, part of Thoby preſently by the death of the deviſor deſcended to the heir; and as the deviſe in this caſe took effect by the death of the deviſor, ſo it ſhall continue.

The ſecond reaſon out of the firſt Branch, was upon the word (ſole) for the Teſtator ought to have a ſole eſtate, as well in the land which he leaveth to deſcend to the heir, as in the land which he deviſeth: But in the Caſe at Bar, the deviſor neither at the time of the making of his Will, nor at the time of his death, had a ſole eſtate in the Mannor of Hynton, which he did intend ſhould deſcend to his heir, but he had a joynt eſtate in tail with his wife, and the wife had not any power to diſagree during the coverture, but her time of diſagreement came after the death of her husband, as it is holden 19 Eliz. Dier 358. ſo that without queſtion the deviſor had not a ſole eſtate in the Mannor of Hynton, neither at the time of making of his Will, nor at the time of his death; and therefore the deviſor had not power by the Act to deviſe but two parts of the reſidue, that is to ſay, whereof he was ſole ſeiſed, either at the time of the making of his Will, or at leaſt of his death.

The third reaſon upon the firſt Branch was upon theſe words (ſhall have full and free liberty, Power and authority, by Will to deviſe or diſpoſe of two parts of the ſaid Mannors, &c.) by which words it appeareth, That the intent of the makers of the Act was, to give liberty and authority to the party (who peradventure had not time to make diſpoſition by act executed in his life) to deviſe the ſame by his Will: But without queſtion that which he cannot diſpoſe of by act executed in his life time, the ſame ſhall not be taken for any of his Mannors, &c. whereof he may deviſe two parts by authority given him by this Statute: But here in our Caſe the deviſor by reaſon of his individed eſtate with his wife, cannot make any diſpoſition of the Mannor of Hynton, but only during the Coverture.

The fourth reaſon upon the firſt Branch, upon conſideration of both Statutes, the deviſor hath liberty to deviſe two parts of the clear yearly value, and the third part of the clear yearly value is ſaved to the King, &c. In which it was noted, that the words as to two parts, and as to the third part are all one as to the clear yearly value; ſo that it appeareth fully by the letter and intention of the Act, that the King ſhall have owel and equal benefit for his third part as the deviſee ſhall have for his two parts: yea, the Statute adds more ſpecial words for the value of the third part, than for the two parts, for he ſhall have [b] clear yearly value of the third part without any diminution, &c. or ſubſtraction of the third part of the full, &c. profits thereof, as the words of the Statute of 32 H. 8. are. But in our Caſe, the King ſhall

not

not have equal benefit; yea, the King ſhall be in worſe caſe, for the deviſee ſhall have his two parts abſolutely, and the King ſhall have but a poſſibility of his third part, and that ſhall depend upon the will of the wife, whoſe will and pleaſure is not reſtrained to any time, ſo that againſt the expreſs letter and intent of the Acts, and and againſt all reaſon, the deviſee ſhall have two parts preſently of the clear yearly value, and the King ſhall not have the poſſeſſion of Hynton, but ſhall have a poſſibility to have it if the wife will diſagree, and that ſhall be an injurious and unequal conſtruction; for Cato ſaith, Ipſæ etenim Leges cupiunt ut jure regantur; and this very Statute hath been ſo conſtrued, that owelty and equality ſhall be obſerved, and inequality avoided, 35 H. 8. tit. Teſtaments Br. 19. If a man hold three Mannors of three ſeveral Lords by Knights ſervice, he cannot deviſe two Mannors, leaving the third, for it ſhall not be equal to the two other Lords, but two parts of each Mannor. And upon theſe words (clear yearly value) it was ſaid, That of inheritances which are not of any annual value ſome are deviſable, and ſome are not deviſable within the Statute. And therefore if the Queen grant to one and his heirs, bona & catalla felonum & fugitivorum, or utlagatorum, fines, amerciamenta, &c. within ſuch a Town or Mannor, in this Caſe he cannot deviſe thoſe to another, nor leave them to deſcend for a third part, becauſe they are not of any annual value, and therefore the ſaid Statute doth not extend to them.

But if a man be ſeiſed of Mannor to which a Leet, or Waiſe and ſtray, or any other hereditament which is not of any annual value is dependant or appurtenant, there by the deviſe of the Mannor with the appurtenances, theſe ſhall paſs as incidents to the Mannor, for in as much that the Statute enableth him by expreſs words to deviſe the Mannor, by conſequence it ſhall enable him to deviſe the Mannor with all incidents and appurtenances to it: And it was never the intent and meaning of the Parliament, that when the deviſor had power to deviſe the principal, that he ſhould not have power to deviſe that which was incident and appendant to it, but the Mannor, &c. ſhould be diſmembred, and fractions made of things which by lawful preſcription had been united and annexed together. And it was ſaid that all was reſolved by Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and Periam then one of the Juſtices of the ſame Court upon a conference had with divers other Juſtices, Paſch. 25 Eliz. in Baker's Caſe, concerning di- [33] vers franchiſes and liberties within the Mannor of Cranford, which Report was made to the Lords of the Council in the ſaid Term after dinner in the Star-chamber. And with their reſolution agreeth the opinion of Priſot in 32 H. 8. 22. in the like Caſe: It is enacted by the Statute of 1 H. 4. cap. 6. that thoſe who demand of the Kings lands, or tenements, offices, &c. make expreſs mention of the value of them; But Priſot there held, that if the office be of a certain value, there he behoveth to make mention of the value, but if it be of a caſual thing there it needeth not; As if the King grant to me a Market, I need not to ſet the value thereof, becauſe it is not yearly certain; ſo that when the King requireth, that value be mentioned, it is to be intended of a thing which is of a certain yearly value: But if a man hath a Hundred, with the goods of felons, outlaws, fines, amerciaments, return of Writs, and ſuch like caſual hereditaments within the Hundred, and ſuch Hundred with the ſaid caſual hereditaments have been accuſtomably let to farm for a yearly rent, then the ſame may be demiſed within the purview of the ſaid Acts; upon which differences it was concluded, that the third part of the yearly value ought to be left to the heir, and not any thing which dependeth upon incertainty. For if the franchiſe to have the goods and chattels of felons and perſons outlawed, which were never demiſed for a certain rent, are left to the heir for his third part, in that the Statute is not followed, and yet it may be that they may happen every year; a fortiori in the Caſe at Bar, as to the Mannor of Hynton, the ſame doth depend upon incertainty, for it may be the wife will not refuſe, and no time is limitted when ſhe ſhall refuſe, and therefore the Statute is not followed by reaſon of the incertainty.

Alſo it was ſaid, that if a man ſeiſed of three acres, each of the yearly value of 12 d. and he deviſeth rent of 3 s. out of all 3 acres the deviſe is void for all, and ſhall not be good for two parts, becauſe he hath not purſued the Statute of 34 H. 8. by which it is enacted, that he may deviſe any rent, common, or other profit out of the ſame two parts, viz. of his Mannors, Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, or out of any part thereof, as much thereof as ſhall amount to the full clear yearly value of two parts thereof: So when he deviſeth a rent out of all, he doth not purſue the power and authority which the Statute preſcribeth, but in ſuch caſe, if he deviſe a rent of 3 s. which is to the value of all out of two parts, it is good, for in this branch the value doth extend to the land, and not to the rent, for the words [b] are, any rent, without any reſtraint: And it was obſerved upon the Statute of 32 H. 8. That if a man deviſe all his land it had been good for a third part, as it was adjudged in Unton and Hyde's Caſe, Dier 150. becauſe that the land was ſeverable, and might be divided by the deviſor during his life, or by commiſſion after his death: But a rent deviſed out of land is an entire thing, and power to deviſe it is given only by the Statute of 34 H. 8. for the Act of 32 H. 8. doth not extend to it; and therefore when the Statute enableth him to deviſe a rent out of two parts, if he ſhall deviſe it out of the whole, he doth not purſue the Statute: And it was concluded upon the firſt Branch, that the deviſor in the Caſe at Bar at the time of the making of his Will, was not a perſon having, and having ſole eſtate who had power and authority to diſpoſe two parts of the ſame lands of clear yearly value, and the King, &c. ſhall have the third part of clear yearly value without any diminution, &c. but as to the Mannor of Hynton he was joyntly ſeiſed with his wife as is before ſaid.

Their reaſon upon the ſecond Branch was, That the deviſor by any thing in his life cannot aſſign the Mannor of Hynton for the third part, nor after his death can the ſame by Commiſſion be aſſigned for the third part, for during all the coverture the wife was joyntly ſeiſed with him, and after his death it ſurvived to his wife, and the words of the Act are, The ſame diviſion to be ſet out by the deviſor or owner, &c. and in default thereof by Commiſſion; in which Branch this word (owner) is alſo to be obſerved, which he added, to ſhew that every deviſor ought to be owner, and he who ſhall make any diviſion of the three parts, &c. ought to be owner, which he is not in our Caſe of the Mannor of Hynton, and therefore he cannot aſſign the ſame to the King for his third part.

Their reaſon upon the third and fourth Branches, was upon this word (immediately) which for the enforcing of the intent of the makers of the Act is twice inſerted; And by the words of the third Branch it is enacted, That the third part ought (in two ſeveral cauſes) immediately deſcend after the death of the deviſor, or owner; immediately is as much as to ſay without any mean time: But in our Caſe the Mannor of Hynton ſurviveth to the wife, and till diſagreement nothing thereof doth deſcend. Ergo, it doth not deſcend immediately. And in that the judgment of the Law upon this Will, and of the eſtate of the ſe Mannors and lands after the death of the deviſor, and before the diſagreement are to be conſidered; and without queſtion in the mean time the Mannor of Hynton doth ſurvive to the wife, and therefore of neceſſity in the mean time, a part of the Mannor of Thoby ſhall deſcend, for if before this diſagreement office had been found of all this matter, without queſtion the Queen ſhould have had part of the Mannor [34] of Thoby, and then for as much as every deviſe ought to take effect by the death of the deviſor, as it is holden in 9 H. 6. and many other Books, becauſe that omne Teſtamentum morte conſummatum eſt, for this cauſe the deviſe being void at the time of the death for part of Thoby, and lawfully veſted in the heir by deſcent, it cannot be made good and deveſt by the ſubſequent diſagreement of the wife; But this word (immediately) maketh it clear, for add it to the words precedent, viz. that the King ſhall have a third part of clear yearly value immediately after the death of the deviſor or owner, all theſe words, and principally the word (immediately) prove that the King ought to have the third part preſently by the death, and ſhall not ſtay or expect upon any incertainty, as in our Caſe he ſhall do, if he ſhall expect it upon the refuſal of the wife, for peradventure ſhe will not refuſe within a year, peradventure two years, &c. Littleton ſaith, if a woman diſſeiſereſs take a Husband, and hath iſſue and dieth, and afterwards the Tenant by the Curteſie dieth, this dying ſeiſed ſhall not take away an entry, for the iſſue came not to his lands immediately after the death of his mother.

And it was agreed, That if a man be ſeiſed of three acres by Knights ſervice in Capite, and maketh a leaſe of one acre for life, and afterwards deviſeth other two acres and dieth, and afterwards Tenant for life dieth, yet the deviſe is void for the third part of the two acres, becauſe the third Acre did not deſcend immediately after the death of the deviſor to the heir, as the Statute ſaith; that is to ſay, by deſcent immediately after the death of the deviſor. In 17 Eliz. Dier, the Earl of Arundel's Caſe, where a gift in tail was made upon condition, that if the donee or his iſſues, aliquam rem facerent, &c. quo minus prædict' maner' præfato Comiti & hæredibus ſuis, &c. immediate reverti debeat, &c. In this Caſe they held clearly, that if the donee do any act by which when he dieth without iſſue the donee ſhall be put to ſuit, or to entry, ſo that the Mannor immediately ſhall not revert, he is without any mean time, &c. that the donor may reenter: And as to the Caſe in 18 E. 4. the ſame was affirmed for good Law, when a man is to do an act immediately after an award, in this Caſe in as much as the party is bound to do an act of neceſſity, he ought to have ſuch time for the doing thereof as the doing of the thing does require. And therefore there of neceſſity there ought to be a mean time between the award and the performance of the thing, but here in the Caſe at Bar immediately by the death of the deviſor, land without any mean time may deſcend, and that was the intent of the makers of the Act: For as the deviſee
[b] ſhall have two parts immediately, ſo the heir ſhall have his third part immediately, 8 E. 4. 71. & 21 E. 3. 27. that he who is immediate heir doth exclude all mean heirs; the ſame Law of an immediate Tenant.

And againſt the opinion of Wray chief Juſtice, it was after objected in the Exchequer Chamber, That the Statute of 34 H. 8. hath been conſtrued by equity againſt the letter; And to this purpoſe a Caſe Trin. 26. Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Rot. 1916. between Ive and Stacie was cited, the effect of which Caſe was, That a man ſeiſed of lands, part holden in Capite, and part in Socage, made a feoffment of his lands holden in Capite unto the uſe of himſelf and his wife for life, with divers remainders over, and afterwards (the ſaid Capite lands being full two parts) deviſed the Socage land; It was adjudged the deviſe was void; and yet it was ſaid, the ſame is againſt the letter of the Act. To which it was anſwered and reſolved, that the reaſon of the ſaid Caſe was, becauſe it appeareth by the words of the ſaid Act, that the Statute gave authority to one to make diſpoſition, either by act executed, or by his Will of two parts, ſo that if he hath executed his authority by act executed of two parts to the uſe of the wife, he hath not any authority by the Statute to make any deviſe of the third part, for by the conveyance in his life, he hath executed the power and authority which the Statute gave to him, and therefore he cannot make any deviſe of the reſidue, which was applied to prove that he ought to purſue the authority which the Statute gave him, &c.

Another Caſe was cited out of a Reading, That the King granted certain lands to one and his heirs during the life of the Grantee by Knights ſervice in Capite, and after his death in Socage, in this Caſe he may deviſe all this land; and yet it was ſaid, it was againſt the letter of the Act, for at the time of the making of his Will and day of his death he held by Knights ſervice, which Caſe was agreed to be good Law. For although that the Statute ſpeak at the beginning generally of lands holden by Knights ſervice, yet there is a ſaving of Ward, &c. to the Lord; ſo that it appeareth fully by the letter of the Act, that there ought to be ſuch a Tenure by Knights ſervice by which the Lord ſhall have Ward, &c. or otherwiſe it is not any Tenure within the Act; But in the ſaid Caſe the Lord was not to have any Wardſhip, becauſe the Tenure determined by his death, and the reaſon of Wardſhip failed, ſcil. that an infant within age cannot do Knights ſervice, as Littleton ſaith, fol. 22. So e converſo, if land be given to hold in Socage during his life, and after his death by Knights ſervice, there ſhall not be any Wardſhip, becauſe the Tenure by Knights ſervice beginneth in the ſon, and the father during his life held in Socage.

[35] And another Caſe was cited out of a Reading alſo, ſcil. A man ſeiſed of lands holden in Capite, and of other lands holden in Socage, deviſeth the land in Socage, and afterwards alieneth the land holden in Capite bona fide, this deviſe is good for all the land holden in Socage; which Caſe was alſo agreed for good

Law

Law for all the land in Socage, when no title of the Wardſhip, &c. doth accrue to the Lord in reſpect of other land. And it was objected, That if the Statute of 34 H. 8. ſhall not be taken by equity, then the Statute may be eaſily defrauded; For if a man held one acre of land by Knights ſervice in Capite; and 1000 acres in Socage, and is diſſeiſed of the acre holden in chief, and then maketh his Will of all the land in Socage and dieth, in this Caſe according to the letter of the Act the deviſe ſhall be good for all the land holden in Socage: And thereupon they did infer upon theſe words, Every perſon having a ſole eſtate in fee ſimple, &c. holden by Knights ſervice in chief, and in this Caſe he had not any land holden in chief at the time of the making of his Will, or at the time of his death, but only a right to the land, and ſo out of the letter of the Act, of which he cannot make any diſpoſition or deviſe; and yet if this Caſe ſhall not be taken by equity, all the Act ſhould be to little or no purpoſe; to which it was anſwered, That the ſaid Caſe was within the letter of the ſaid Act, for the diſſeiſee in the judgment of Law hath the land to many purpoſes.

For firſt, he hath the land to forfeit, and therefore if he be attainted of Treaſon or Felony he ſhall forfeit the land.

2. If he dieth without heir the land ſhall eſcheat to the Lord, 37 H. 6. 1. 6 H. 7. 9. 32 H. 6. 27. 2 H. 4. 13.

3. The diſſeiſee ſhall compel the Lord to avow upon him as his very Tenant, Litt. Releaſes 106. b. And Littleton there ſaith, that the diſſeiſee is Tenant in Law.

4. If he die his heir within age, the Lord ſhall have the Wardſhip; and the Lord ſhall have a Writ of right of Ward, and the Writ ſhall ſay, terram illam tenuit; and therewith agreeth F. N. B. in the Writ of Eſcheat 144. Litt. 107. 36 E. 3. Gard. 10. And ſo in the judgment of Law the diſſeiſee had the land holden in Capite, ſo that he may deviſe all his Socage land. And as to the Caſe in 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. Dier 155. that if lands in London, or lands which are deviſable by cuſtom are holden in Capite, yet all may be deviſed. To that it was anſwered, That that was not by force of the Statute, but becauſe the lands were deviſable by cuſtom before the Statute, and the Statute is in the affirmative, and doth not take away any cuſtom: But it was agreed, that in the ſaid Caſe, the ſaving in the Act gave in ſuch Caſe the third part to the King for Wardſhip, &c. and yet the heir ſhall be barred by the cuſtom.

And after that the Caſe had been argued 21 times ſeverally, ſcil. Paſch. 37 Eliz. Judgment was given according to the ſaid Reſolutions againſt the Plaintiff. You have (good Reader) many notable Rules and Caſes of Relations put in this Caſe, by which you may better underſtand your Books which treat of Relations, to which I will add one Caſe now of late, ſcil. Trin. 37 Eliz. adjudged in the Common Pleas in an Ejectione firmæ between Jennings and Bragge, where upon a ſpecial verdict found the Caſe was ſhortly thus; A diſſeiſee made an Indenture purporting a leaſe for years, and delivered the ſame to a ſtranger off of the land as an eſcroul, and commanded him to enter in the land, and to deliver the ſame upon the land as his deed to the leſſee, which was done accordingly, it was adjudged it was a good leaſe. And in this Caſe, [b]

1. This difference was agreed, when the perſon at the firſt delivery hath not power or ability in Law to make the leaſe and contract, and before the ſecond delivery he attaineth to it, there the leaſe or contract is void: But when the perſon at the firſt delivery hath power and authority in Law to contract, but cannot perfect the ſame till an impediment be removed, there if the impediment be removed before the ſecond delivery, the contract is good. As if at the time of the firſt delivery the leſſor be an infant, or feme covert, and at the time of his ſecond delivery he came to his full age, or to be ſole, in both the ſaid Caſes the deed ſhall not bind, for at the time of the firſt delivery he was not a perſon who had ability in Law to make a contract; But in the Caſe at the Bar the leſſor was able to make a contract as well in reſpect of his perſon, as of his right and intereſt in the land, but was hindred only by the diſſeiſin, which being removed before the ſecond delivery the contract is good.

2. It was reſolved that to ſome intent, the ſecond delivery hath relation to the firſt delivery, and in ſome not, and yet in truth the ſecond delivery hath all its force by the firſt delivery; and the ſecond is but an execution and conſummation of the firſt: And therefore in ſuch Caſe of neceſſity, ut res magis valeat quam pereat, it ſhall have relation by fiction to be made his deed ab initio by force of the firſt delivery; and therefore if at the time of the firſt delivery the leſſor be a feme ſole, and before the ſecond delivery ſhe take husband, or if before the ſecond delivery ſhe dieth, in this Caſe if the ſecond delivery ſhall not have relation to this intent to make it the deed of the leſſor by ab initio, but only from the ſecond delivery, the deed in both Caſes ſhould be void; and therefore in ſuch Caſe for neceſſity, and ut res magis valeat quam pereat, to this intent by fiction of Law, it ſhall be a deed ab initio, and yet in truth it was not his deed till the ſecond delivery: But in the Caſe at the Bar, if it ſhall have relation by fiction of Law to the firſt delivery, then the ſame ſhall avoid the leaſe, for then it ſhall be made by one who was out of poſſeſſion, and as one ſaid fictio legis inique operatur alicui damnum vel injuriam; and therefore to this intent it ſhall not have relation but according to the truth to be a deed from the time of the ſecond delivery, ut res magis valeat quam pereat, and by that appeareth, that the reaſon of the Law (which to ſome intent the ſecond delivery ſhall have relation, and to other intent no relation) is all one, ſcil. for neceſſity, and ut res magis valeat quam pereat. [36]

3. It was reſolved, that as to collateral acts there ſhall be no relation at all; for if the obligee do releaſe before the ſecond delivery, ſuch releaſe is void, vide 18 H. 6. 9. & 27 H. 6. 7. Note Reader, that if in the Caſe of the infant after the ſecond delivery, full age ſhall make the gift good, then it ſhall be in the power of him to whom it was delivered to make it bind or not at his pleaſure, for if he deliver it during the minority it ſhall not bind, and if he deliver it after full age, it ſhall bind; and it ſhall be inconvenient that he who to this purpoſe was but a ſervant ſhould have ligandi, & non ligandi poteſtatem.

And touching Wills, whereof you have much good matter in the said Case of Butler and Baker, my advice to all who have lands, is, That by advice of learned Council by Act executed you make assurances of your lands according to your true intents in full health and memory, to which assurances you may add such Conditions, or Provisoes of revocation as you please. For I find great doubts and controversies daily arise upon devises made by last Wills, sometimes in respect of Tenures of lands, sometimes by pretences of revocations which may be made so easily by word; also in respect of obscure and insensible words and repugnant sentences, the Will being made in haste; And some pretend that the Testator in respect of long sickness was not Compos mentis, and divers other scruples and questions are moved upon Wills. But if you please to devise your lands by Will,

1. Make it by good advice in your perfect memory, and inform your Council truly of the estates and Tenures of your lands, and by Gods grace the resolution of the Judges in this Case will be a good direction to learned Council to make your Will according to Law, and thereby prevent Questions
[b] and Controversies.

2. It is good, if your Will concern inheritance to make it indented, and to leave one part with a friend, lest after your death it be suppressed.

3. At the time of the publication of the Will, call credible Witnesses to subscribe their names to it.

4. If it may be, let all the Will be written with one hand, and in one parchment or paper, for fear of alteration, addition or diminution.

5. Let the hand and seal of the devisor be set to it.

6. If it be in several parts, let his hand and seal and the names of the witnesses be subscribed to each part.

7. If there be any interlining or rasure in the Will, let a Memorandum be made of it.

8. If you make any revocation of your Will, or of any part of it, make it by writing by good advice, for upon revocation by word, follow controversies, some of the Witnesses affirming it to be in one manner, some in another manner.

Hill. 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Ratcliffe's Case.

[37] Luke Norton brought an Ejectione firmæ against William Rowland of a dimise made by Edward Ratcliff 10. Decemb. 31 Eliz. of the moiety of a house, 100 acres of land, 40 acres of meadow, 100 acres of pasture, and 40 acres of wood in Wye and Braborn in the County of Kent, &c. And upon special pleading of the Act of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. cap. 8. &c. the issue was, Whether Elizabeth Ratcliffe wife of Ralph Ratcliffe had the custody of Martha wife of the said Edward Ratcliffe the lessor, at the time of the contract and marriage between the said Edward and Martha; for if the said Elizabeth then had the custody of the said Martha within the said Act, then by the pretence of the Defendant, Martha by force of the said Act hath lost the inheritance of the said lands, and then Judgment ought to be given against the Plaintiff. And upon the said issue the Jurors gave a special verdict to this effect: William Wilcocks Esquire took to wife Elizabeth Edolfe, daughter and heir apparent of John Edolfe and Alice his wife, which William Wilcocks had issue on the body of the said Elizabeth, John, Elizabeth, and the said Martha; And afterwards, scil. ultimo Martii 16 Eliz. William Wilcocks by his Will in writing devised and appointed the order, custody, education and government of the said John his son, and of the said Elizabeth and Martha his daughters, to the said John Edolfe and Alice his wife, durante vita eorundem Johannis & Alicie, and died. After whose death, Elizabeth the relict of the said William Wilcocks took to husband the said Ralph Ratcliffe; And afterwards John Edolfe died, and that the said Alice was seised of the said
[b] tenements in fee, and held them in Socage, and 20 Eliz. by her Will in writing devised the tenements aforesaid to the said John Wilcocks in tail, the remainder to the said Elizabeth and Martha daughters of the said William Wilcocks, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten by equal portions, equally to be divided, the remainder to the said Elizabeth the mother, daughter and heir apparent of the said Alice, and to her heirs. And afterwards anno 26 Eliz. the said Alice died, and afterwards the said John Wilcocks, 1 August 28 Eliz. died without issue; and that the said Elizabeth daughter of the said William Wilcocks, 10 Juiii 28 Eliz. took to husband William Androwes, by force whereof the said William and Elizabeth his wife, and the said Martha did enter into the Tenements aforesaid, and were therefore seized accordingly; and afterwards the said Martha 8 October 29 Eliz. then remaining in the house of the said Ralph Ratcliffe at Hitcham in the County of Hertford, and then being above the age of 14 years, and within the age of 16 years, with the consent and good will of the said Ralph Ratcliffe voluntarily and of her good accord, between the hours of two of the clock of the same day before noon did leave the house of the said Ralph Ratcliffe for the space of 8 miles to Bramfield in the said County of Hertford, where at the 12 hour of the same day she was espoused and married to the said Edward Ratcliffe; and that the said Edward Ratcliffe did enter, and made the lease to the Plaintiff, prout, &c. But whether upon the whole matter the said Elizabeth Ratcliffe had the custody and governance of the said Martha at the

the time of the contract and marriage aforeſaid or not, the Jurors pray the advice of the Court. And it was fully agreed by Sir Chriſtopher Wray chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, that the ſaid Elizabeth had the cuſtody and governance of the ſaid Martha at the time of the ſaid contract and marriage, within the intent and meaning of the ſaid Act. And in this Caſe ſix Points were reſolved by the whole Court.

1. That there were two manner of Cuſtodies or Guardianſhips, one by the Common Law, the other by the Statute; and alſo that at the Common Law there are four manner of Guardians, ſcil. Guardian in Knights ſervice, Guardian in Socage, Guardian in Nature, and Guardian in Nurture. The firſt two and the laſt are fully deſcribed in our Books; But as to Guardian in Nature, great controverſie was betwixt thoſe who have argued in the Caſe at Bar, and all roſe through the ill underſtanding of both ſides. For ſome held that the father only ſhall have the cuſtody of his ſon and heir apparent within age, and neither the Mother nor the Grandfather, nor any other Anceſtor ſhall have any cuſtody of his heir apparent: Alſo the father ſhall not have the Wardſhip of his daughter and heir apparent, for according to them it ought to be ſuch heir who ought to continue heir and ſole heir-apparent, and that a daughter [38] is not, for a ſon may be born, and then the daughter is not heir. As if lands in Borough Engliſh be holden in Knights ſervice, the father ſhall not have the Wardſhip of his younger ſon, becauſe he may have a younger ſon, no more than the younger ſon can endow his wife of land in Borough Engliſh ex aſſenſu patris, for he ought in ſuch Caſe to be heir apparent, who in judgment of Law ſhall continue heir apparent, and not heir apparent who by accident is heir, and by accident may not be heir; And in reſpect the ſole cauſe which gave the Wardſhip in the one Caſe, and enabled the heir to make the endowment in the other Caſe is, becauſe he is heir apparent, the ſame ſhall be intended in Law (which abhorreth incertainty) of a certain and perdurable heir apparent; And they relied principally upon the words of Littleton in his Chapter of Knights ſervice, who ſpeaketh only of father and ſon in ſuch Caſe, and not of daughter or any other heir: And on the other ſide, it was affirmed, That the father ſhall have the Wardſhip not only of his ſon, but of his daughter alſo as it is agreed 8 E. 2. Treſpaſs 235. 31 E. 1. Gard 154. & F. N. B. 143. o. But alſo every Anceſtor male or female ſhall have the Wardſhip of his heir apparent male or female; and all that was ſaid appeareth not only by the Regiſter of Writs, within which foundations (as Juſtice Fitzherbert in his Preface to his Book called Natura Brevium ſaid) all the Law dependeth, but alſo in our Books by the judgments and opinions of the Sages and Judges of the Law, 32 E. 3. tit. Garde 32. in Treſpaſs, Quare I. conſanguineum & hæredem (the Plaintiff) cujus maritagium ad ipſum pertinet, tali loco rapuit & abduxit contra pacem. 31 E. 3. Barre 257. And 31 E. 3. Brief 327. The mother although ſhe had no land brought a Writ of Raviſhment of Ward of I. her eldeſt ſon and heir raviſhed, againſt the Grandfather of I. who had land which might deſcend to I. And it was ſaid, that where it was objected, that the father ſhall not have the Wardſhip of his daughter and heir apparent, becauſe peradventure ſhe ſhall not continue heir, or at leaſt ſole heir: The ſame reaſon may be objected againſt the Wardſhip of the eldeſt ſon, for peradventure he ſhall not remain heir apparent, for if the father be attainted of felony or Treaſon, in ſuch Caſe his ſon is not his heir apparent, and then the Lord of whom the land is holden ſhall have the Wardſhip of the ſon in the ſame Caſe as Littleton putteth it: For then the ſon is not heir apparent to the Father, and therefore the father ſhall not have the Wardſhip of him, and by conſequence the Lord ſhall have it; for it appeareth by Littleton and all the Books, that he ought to be his heir apparent? [b] And the Court reſolved that the one part and the other had erred by miſtaking the true ſenſe of the Books; for it is true that every Anceſtor male or female, ſhall have treſpaſs, or a Writ of Raviſhment of Ward againſt a ſtranger, who wrongfully raviſheth the heir apparent of any perſon, be they male or female, and the Writ ſhall ſay, Cujus maritagium ad ipſum pertinet, and the Law in that hath great reaſon, for whereas in truth all the eſtate of the Anceſtor and the eſtabliſhing of his inheritance principally conſiſteth in providing of a covenable marriage for his heir apparent, for that cauſe the Law giveth remedy againſt him, who wrongfully depriveth him by their Raviſhment of the means to accompliſh the ſame: And therefore it is not material of what age the heir apparent in ſuch caſe is, as it appeareth by the ſaid Book in 32 E. 3. but ſuch Action lieth not againſt the Guardian in Chivalry by any Anceſtor, but only for the father, and for him the Action lieth againſt the Lord of whom land is holden by Knights ſervice, where his ſon and heir apparent is raviſhed from him, as it appeareth by Littleton, and 18 E. 3. 25. 30 E. 3. 17. 29 E. 3. 7. & 19. And the Book in 9 E. 4. 53. that a woman ſhall not have a Raviſhment of Ward of her daughter and heir apparent taken and raviſhed is to be intended againſt the Guardian in Knights ſervice, and upon this difference the ſaid Books are well reconciled; But as to the Caſe of the daughter and heir apparent the Court gave not any Reſolution: So in this Caſe, the Court reſolved, that the mother cannot be Guardian in Socage if the land had deſcended to the daughter, nor for Nurture, becauſe the daughter was above the age of 14 years, but the Common Law gave to her remedy againſt every ſtranger who took her away by wrong as is aforeſaid.

2. It was reſolved, that in this Caſe the mother had the cuſtody of the ſaid Martha within the proviſion of the ſaid Act; for now the ſaid Act hath ordained two manners of Cuſtodies, ſcil. by reaſon of nature, and by aſſignation: By reaſon of nature the father, and after the death of the father the mother, having the governance of ſuch daughter by aſſignation made by the father, either by his Will, or by any Act in his life: And to this purpoſe three Branches of the ſaid Act were conſidered; The firſt Branch doth prohibit the taking of any damoſel under the age of 16 years out of the poſſeſſion, cuſtody and governance, and againſt the will of the father, or of ſuch perſon to whom the father by his Will, or by any act in his life ſhall deviſe, aſſign, or give the order, cuſtody, education or governance of her, which firſt [39] Branch containeth only a prohibition; but by that it is proved that the father may appoint the cuſtody of any of his daughters under the age of 16 years by his Will, or by any act in his life, to ſuch purpoſe only that he who taketh ſuch damoſel out of ſuch cuſtody ſhall incurr the penalty of the Act. The ſecond

Branch

Branch doth inflict puniſhment by fine and impriſonment upon him who taketh ſuch damoſel unmarried out of the poſſeſſion and againſt the will of the father and mother, or of ſuch perſon which then ſhall have byany lawful means the order, cuſtody, &c. of ſuch damſel. And it was agreed, that theſe words (father and mother) ſhall be underſtood father or mother after the death of the father, which is well expounded by the ſubſequent clauſe. The third Branch upon which this Caſe does depend, impoſeth puniſhment and forfeiture, as well upon him who taketh ſuch damoſel and deflloureth her, or againſt the will, or without the knowledge of the father if he be alive, or of the mother having the cuſtody of ſuch damoſel, contracteth matrimony with her; or upon the damoſel if ſhe exceed the age of 12 years, if ſhe aſſent to ſuch contract, by forfeiture of her land during her life: Note this latter Branch doth extend only to the cuſtody of the father and mother having the cuſtody of her, that is to ſay, if the father had not diſpoſed the cuſtody of her to others: and the ſame extendeth to him who taketh any damſel although ſhe were not heir or heir apparent, and although ſhe did depart with his aſſent after the age of 12 years, for which the Common Law gave not any remedy: And it is to be obſerved, that the clauſe which giveth forfeiture to ſuch damſel which conſenteth, referreth only to the third Branch, and not to the firſt or ſecond; ſo that for as much as the father in this Caſe upon the matter had not the diſpoſe of the cuſtody of the daughter, the daughter was in the cuſtody and governance of the mother within the proviſion of this Act; and alſo ſhe was at the time of the ſaid taking heir apparent to the ſaid Elizabeth.

3. It was reſolved, that the aſſent of Ralph Ratcliffe the husband was not material, for the Statute hath annexed the cuſtody to the perſon of the mother Jure naturæ, which is inſeparable, and cannot by the marriage be transferred to the husband, but the ſame after the marriage doth remain only in the mother; for as it is agreed in 33 H. 6. 55. b. the father who hath the Wardſhip of his ſon and heir apparent jure naturæ, cannot forfeit the ſame by outlawry, neither ſhall his Executors or Adminiſtrators have ſuch Wardſhip; And it was ſaid if there be Lord and feme Tenant by Knights ſervice, and the Tenant maketh a leaſe for life, and afterwards the Lord and Tenant entermarry, and have iſſue between them a ſon, and the wife dieth, and afterwards the father dieth the ſon within age, that his Executors ſhall not have the Wardſhip by reaſon of the Seigniory, for the father hath the Wardſhip of his eldeſt ſon jure naturæ which is inſeparable, and cannot be waved, and he cannot have the Wardſhip of his ſon by the death of his wife by reaſon of his Seigniory, for that was inſeparably veſted in him as father preſently by the birth of his ſon jure naturæ: And Littleton ſaith, That the father during his life ſhall have the marriage of his ſon and heir apparent, and not the Lord.

4. It was reſolved, that although that the iſſue was, Whether the ſaid Elizabeth had the cuſtody of the ſaid Martha at the time of the contract; and it appeareth by the verdict, that ſhe did depart out of the houſe of the ſaid Elizabeth ſix hours before the contract; yet in judgment of Law, the ſaid Elizabeth had the cuſtody of her at the time of the contract, for as hath been ſaid, this cuſtody is inſeparably annexed to the perſon of the mother.

5. It was reſolved, that in this Caſe Martha and Elizabeth were Tenants in common in tail, the reverſion to Elizabeth the mother and her heirs; for theſe words in a Will (equally to be divided) maketh a Tenancy in common according to the intent of the deviſor, although they never make any partition in facto, and his intent appeareth that it ſhall be divided, and by conſequence, that there ſhall be no ſurvivor, and ſo hath it divers times been adjudged before this time.

6. It was reſolved, that upon this Verdict it appeareth, that Edward Ratcliffe and Martha his wife had good title to the land againſt Androwes and Elizabeth his wife; and that one daughter as this Caſe is ſhall not take benefit of the forfeiture of the other. For the Statute gave the forfeiture to the next of kin, to whom the inheritance ſhould deſcend, or come after her deceaſe, &c. during the life of ſuch perſon that ſo ſhall contract matrimony. So that firſt there ought to be blood, and 2. he ought to be next of blood to whom the Inheritance ſhall deſcend, or come, &c. And although Elizabeth the daughter be of blood, yet in this Caſe by the death of Martha, the land if ſhe hath iſſue ſhall deſcend to her iſſue, and if ſhe have no iſſue it ſhall revert to Elizabeth the mother, 5 E. 4. 5. Aſſiſe 27. in the like Caſe upon the Statute of 6 R. 2. agreeth with this Reſolution. Then it was moved, if the mother in this Caſe ſhall enter for the forfeiture; and it was objected, that ſhe cannot enter, for ſhe is not of the blood
[40] of the daughter, for the daughter deriveth her blood from the mother, and not the mother from the daughter. And therewith agreeth 5 E. 6. Adminiſtration Br. 47. where it is holden, That the father or mother are not next of blood, to whom adminiſtration of the goods of their ſon or daughter ſhall be granted; and there it is ſaid, Quod pueri ſunt de ſanguine parentum, ſed pater & mater non ſunt de ſanguine puerorum, and that is the cauſe that no land can deſcend from the ſon to the father or mother, but ſhall rather eſcheat to the Lord, becauſe the father or mother are not of the blood of their ſon. Againſt which it was argued, that the mother ſhall take advantage of this forfeiture. And the ſaid Book of 5 E. 6. was utterly denied to be Law, and that oftentimes it had been reſolved againſt it, ſcil. that adminiſtration may be granted of the goods of the ſon or daughter to the father or mother as to the next of blood; and that is proved by Littleton in his firſt Chapter in his firſt Book, where it appeareth, that if there be father, unkle and ſon, and the ſon dieth, that the unkle ſhall be heir to the ſon, and yet the father is more near of blood, which are Littleton's words, which as was ſaid, decide the point in queſtion. And upon the words of Littleton it was concluded, that in the ſame Caſe of father, unkle and ſon, if a leaſe be made to the ſon, the remainder to the next of his blood, that the father in this Caſe of purchaſe ſhall have the remainder, for by the judgment of Littleton he is the next of blood. And although in every Art and Science there are principia & poſtulata, of which it is ſaid, Altiora ne quæſiveris, & principia probant, & non probantur, becauſe that every proof ought to be by a more high and ſupreme cauſe, and nothing can [b] be more high and ſupreme than principals themſelves, and therefore ought to be approved, becauſe they cannot be proved. And Littleton ſaith, that it is a Maxim in Law, That inheritance may lineally deſcend, and not aſcend; and that appeareth by Glanvile who wrote in the time of H. 2. lib. 7. cap. 1. fol. 44. b.

quælibet

Quælibet hæreditas, naturaliter quidem ad hæredes hæreditabiliter descendit, nunquam autem naturaliter ascendit; And by Bracton, who also wrote in the time of Hen. 3. lib. 2. cap. 29. Descendit itaque jus quasi ponderosum, quod cadens deorsum recta linea vel transversali, & nunquam reascendit ea via, qua descendit post mortem antecessorum. And therewith agreeth Britton who wrote in the time of E. 1. cap. 119. de Successione. Yet because the Common Law doth differ in this point from the Civil Law, these reasons of this principal of the Common Law were alledged, scil. that in this Point as almost in all others the Common Law was grounded upon the Law of God, which was said, was causa causarum, as it appeareth in the 27 Chap. of Numbers, where the Case which was in Judgment before Moses was, that Salphaad had 5 daughters, and having divers brothers, died, to whom the Inheritance should descend was the Question, the daughters claiming de jure propinquitatis, as their birthright and next heirs to their father; and the brothers claiming the same as heir male jure honoris, to celebrate and continue the name of their Ancestors: And this Case seemed of great difficulty to Moses, and there for the deciding of that Question Moses consulted with God, for the Text saith, Retulitque Moses causam earum ad judicium Domini, qui dixit ad eum, justam rem postulant filiæ Salphaad: Da eis possessionem inter cognatos patris sui, & ei in hæreditatem succedant: Ad filios autem Israel loqueris hæc: Homo cum mortuus fuerit absque filio, ad filiam ejus transibit hæreditas, si filiam non habuerit, habebit successores fratres suos, quod si fratres non fuerint, dabitis hæreditat' fratribus patris ejus, sin autem nec patruos habuerit, dabitur hæreditas his qui ei proximi sunt, eritque hoc filiis Israel sanctum lege perpetua; sicut præcepit Dominus Mosi. By which general Law (which extends not only to the said particular Case but to all other Inheritances, to all persons, and at all times) it appeareth that the father himself and all lineal ascension is excluded. [b]

Another reason of the said principal was alledged, for avoiding of confusion in case of descents, if not only lineal and collateral descent shall be allowed, but lineal ascention also, which is one of the causes of such diversity of opinions in Cases of Descents in the Civil Law, and the contrary is one of the causes of certainty of the Rules of the Common Law in Case of Descents and Inheritance, being ponderosum quoddam, as Bracton said, jure naturæ descendit, and not ascendit, for omne grave fertur deorsum. And it was said at the Bar, That if in this Case he in the reversion had been brother of the half blood to the daughter, that consented, &c. that he might enter as proximus de sanguine, as yet he cannot inherit lands in fee simple as heir to his sister in such Case, in which point also the Common Law doth differ from the Civil Law: for by the Common Law of England, if a common person hath issue a son and a daughter by one venter, and a son by another venter, and dieth seised of lands in fee simple, and the eldest son entreth into the land and dieth without issue, the sister of the whole blood shall inherit to him, and not the brother of the half blood. And that was the ancient Common Law of this land, and always continued as appeareth by Glanvile lib. 7. cap. 1. Bracton lib. 2. cap. 30. and by Britton cap. 119.

And the reason of the Common Law is notable, and may be collected by the said ancient Authors of the Law, that every one who is heir to another, aut est hæres jure proprietatis, as the eldest son shall inherit before all the other brothers, aut jure repræsentationis, as where the eldest son dieth in the life of his father, his issue shall inherit before the younger son, for although that the youngest son is magis propinquus, yet Jure repræsentationis, the issue of the eldest son shall inherit, for he doth represent the person of his father, and as Bracton saith, Jus proprietatis which his father had by birthright shall descend to him, aut jure propinquitatis, as propinquum excludit remotum, & remotus remotiorem; aut jure sanguinis, and by force thereof in the said Case the daughter shall inherit before the son, and that for divers causes, in as much as the blood which is betwixt every heir and his Ancestor makes him heir, for without blood none can inherit: And therefore it is great reason that he who hath full and whole blood should inherit before him who hath but a part of the blood of his Ancestor, for ordine naturæ, totum præfertur unicuique parti. And there Bracton saith, Quod propter jus sanguinis duplicatum, tam ex parte patris, quam ex parte matris, dicitur hæres propinquior soror, quam frater de alia uxore. And Britton saith, That the right of blood in this Case maketh the female, and excludeth the male. [41]

2. As none can be begotten but a of father and mother, and ought to have in him two bloods, that is to say, the blood of the father and the blood of the mother, these bloods commixt in him by lawful marriage constitute and make him heir; so that none can be heir to any, if he hath not in him both the bloods of him to whom he will make himself heir, and therefore the heir of the half blood cannot inherit, because he wanteth one of the bloods which should make him inheritable, as Aristotle lib. Topicorum; Parte quacunque integrante sublata, tollitur totum, quod verum est si accipias partem integrantem pro parte necessaria: As in this Case the blood of the father and of the mother are but one inheritable blood, and both are necessary to the procreation of the heir, and therefore deficiente uno, non potest esse hæres. And upon this reason it seems to Britton cap. 5 if a man be attainted of felony by Judgment, that the heirs begotten after the attainder shall be excluded of all manner of succession of heritage, as well on the part of the mother, as of the part of the father, and the reason thereof was, that the son begotten after the judment had not two inheritable bloods in him, for at the time of the begetting of him the blood of the father was corrupted, for ex leproso parente, leprosus generatur filius; and where the father is attainted of felony, the blood in respect of which he should inherit being corrupted, the son as seemed to him had but a half blood, that is to say, the blood of the mother in him uncorrupted; and therefore he held that such son should not inherit to his mother. And with him agreeth Bracton lib. 3. cap. 13. Non valebit felonis generatio, nec ad hæreditatem paternam, vel maternam; Si autem ante feloniam generationem fecerit, talis generatio succedit in hæreditatem patris, vel matris, a quo non fuerit felonia perpetrata; because at the time of his birth he had two lawful bloods commixt in him, which cannot be corrupted by the subsequent attainder, but only as to him who offendeth.

The

The third reaſon was for avoiding of confuſion, for if as well the half blood as the whole blood ſhall be equally inheritable, then in many Caſes confuſion and incertainty will follow who ſhall be the next heir, and if any would advance any of his half blood, he may eaſily convey ſome of his inheritance to him at his pleaſure; And therefore it was concluded, that the Common Law which preferreth the whole blood before the half blood, was grounded upon greater reaſon then the Civil Law in this Point: Aut jure ſive ratione doni, and in that the Common Law doth admit the half blood to inherit. For if a man maketh a gift to one and the heirs of his body, and he hath iſſue a ſon and a daughter by one woman, and a ſon by another woman, and the father dieth, and the eldeſt ſon entreth and dieth, the younger ſon ſhall inherit per formam doni, for he claimeth as heir of the body of the donee, and not generally as heir to his brother, and the ſame is the reaſon that Littleton ſaith, Quod poſſeſſio fratris de feodo ſimplici facit ſororem eſſe hæredem: in which Rule every word is to be obſerved:

1. That the brother ought to be in actual poſſeſſion of the fee and freehold, either by his own act, or by the actual poſſeſſion of another, but if neither by his own act, nor by the poſſeſſion of another, he gain more then deſcendeth to him, the brother of the half blood ſhall inherit; And therefore if land, rent, advowſon, &c. deſcend to the elder brother, and he dieth before any entry by him made into the land, or receive the rent, or preſent to the Church, the younger brother ſhall inherit: And the reaſon thereof is, that of all inheritances in poſſeſſion, he who claimeth ſuch hereditaments as heir, ought to make himſelf heir to him who was laſt actually ſeiſed, as it is holden 11 H. 4. 11. 10 Aſſ. 27. 34 Aſſ. 10. 19 E. 3, Quare Imp. 177. 45 E. 3. 13. and Littleton cap. 1. For if there be father, unckle, and ſon, and the ſon purchaſeth land and dieth without iſſue, and the land deſcend to the unckle, if the unckle dieth before entry, the land ſhall not deſcend to the father, for then he ought to make himſelf heir to him who was laſt actually ſeiſed, and that was the ſon; and therefore Littleton ſaith in ſuch Caſe, If the [42] unckle enter, &c. then the father ſhall have the land as heir to the unckle; And in this Caſe the father was laſt actually ſeiſed, and the ſiſter cannot claim the land as heir to the father, for the younger ſon is heir to him: But if the eldeſt ſon enter, and by his own act hath gained the actual poſſeſſion, or if the lands were leaſed for years, or in the hands of a Guardian, and the leſſee or Guardian poſſeſs the land, there the poſſeſſion of the leſſee or Guardian doth veſt the actual fee and freehold in the elder brother, and in ſuch Caſe the ſiſter ſhall inherit as heir to her brother who was laſt actually ſeiſed: But of a reverſion, or a remainder expectant upon an eſtate for life or in tail, there he who claimeth the reverſion as heir, ought to make himſelf heir to him who made the gift, or leaſe, if the reverſion or remainder deſcend to him: Or if a man purchaſe ſuch reverſion or remainder, he who claimeth as heir ought to make himſelf heir to the firſt purchaſor; and all this appeareth, 24 E. 3. 24. 37 Aſſ. 4. 40 E. 3. 9. 42 E. 3. 10. 45 E. 3. Releaſes 28. 49 E. 3. 12. 7 H. 5. 3 & 4. 8 Aſſ. 6. 35 Aſſ. 2. 5 E. 4. 7. 3 H. 7. 5. 40 Aſſ. 6. 21 H. 7. 33. And by theſe Rules (good Reader) you ſhall well underſtand your Books, and the true reaſon of them; and by that which hath been ſaid it appeareth, That if the King by his Letters Patents create one a Baron, and giveth the Dignity to him and his heirs, and he hath iſſue a ſon and a daughter by one woman, and a ſon by another, and dieth, and afterwards the eldeſt ſon dieth without iſſue, in this Caſe the Dignity ſhall deſcend to the younger, for it cannot be ſaid that the eldeſt ſon was in poſſeſſion of the Dignity, no more then of his blood, for the Dignity is inherent to his blood, and neither by his own act nor by the act of any other doth he gain more actual poſſeſſion (if it may be ſo termed) then by the Law deſcendeth to him; and then the younger brother ſhall make himſelf heir to his father, and not to his brother, ſo that this word (poſſeſſio) which is nothing elſe but pedis poſitio, extendeth only to things of which a man by his entry or other act may get the actual poſſeſſion.

2. Littleton ſaith, Poſſeſſio fratris de feodo ſimplici, and theſe words, feodum ſimplex, exclude eſtate tail.

3. Facit ſororem hæredem, by which is implied, that in this Caſe, ſoror eſt hæres facilus, and that the Law without an act doth not make the ſiſter heir; but the younger brother is after the death of the elder brother hæres natus to his father. But the act by which the elder brother gaineth actual poſſeſſion facit
[b] ſororem hæredem, ſo that when the eldeſt ſon hath not actual poſſeſſion, or if it be ſuch an inheritance of which there cannot be gained an actual poſſeſſion, per pedis poſitionem, or by ſome other act, the ſame by Law ſhall deſcend to the brother of the half blood; And ſo it was concluded by the Plaintiffs Councel, That the father, or mother, or brother of the half blood, may be next of blood within the purview of the ſaid Act; and that in this Caſe it appeareth by the Verdict, that the mother and not the other ſiſter ought to take advantage of this forfeiture: But the Court reſolved, that the ſaid Points upon the Statute who ſhould be next of blood to enter for the forfeiture, cannot come in judgment in this Caſe, becauſe the iſſue was joyned upon a collateral Point, ſcil. Whether Elizabeth the Mother had the cuſtody of the ſaid Martha, at the time of the ſaid contract; and therefore all the other matter concerning the forfeiture, and who ſhould take benefit thereof was out of the iſſue, and the finding of the Jury (as to that) was without warrant and not material: And for this cauſe although that in truth the Plaintiff, as here appeareth, hath good right againſt the Defendant, yet for as much as the iſſue was found againſt him, Judgment was given that the Plaintiff, Nihil capiat per billam.

Coke and others were of Councel with the Plaintiff, and Godfrey and other with the Defendant.

Mich.

Mich. 34 & 35 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Boyton's Caſe.

THomas Boyton Clerk, Parſon of Heſſet in Suffolk, brought an Audita querela againſt William Andrewes and Lewes Sympſon, ſetting forth how the Defendants in the Kings Bench had recovered againſt the Plaintiff 50 l. debt and damages, and that after the Judgment, ſcil. 2 Julii, 31 Eliz. at Bury S. Edmunds in the County of Suffolk, within the liberty and franchiſe of Sir Roger Townſhend Knight, and William Dixe Eſquire, by Purdey and Dey, Virtute cujuſdam warranti nuper ante eiſdem præd' Roger' & Will' fact', per Philippum Tilney Armig' tunc Vicecom' prædict' Com' Suff. ſub ſigill' officii ſui confect', de & ſuper quoddam breve de Capias ad ſatisfaciendum præfat' Willielmo Andrewes & Lodovico Sympſon de debit' & damnis præd', ad proſecutionem ipſius Will' Andrewes & Lodovic' a præd' curia noſtra coram nobis emanen', & Vic. prædict. Suff. nuper direct', &c. the ſaid Thomas Boyton was taken and arreſted in Execution, till the ſaid Roger and William Dixe the ſaid Thomas Boyton at Lambeth in the County of Surrey, the ſaid debt and damages not ſatisfied, extra priſonam prædict' evadere & ad largum quo voluit ire permiſerunt. The Defendants pleaded, That the ſaid Roger and William, non permiſerunt eundem Tho. Boyton extra priſonam præd' evadere, & ad largum ire quo voluit, modo & forma prout, &c. And thereupon the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect: That the Plaintiff was in Execution prout, &c. and that the ſaid Roger and William Dixe, Bayliffs of the ſaid Franchiſe adduxerunt him to Weſtminſter within the County of Middleſex, ante retorn' brevis de Capias ad ſatisfaciend', (the day of the Return being die Lunæ poſt craſtin' animarum) ſo that the Bayliffs miſtook the day of the Return: and that the ſaid Bayliffs in the interim before the return of the Writ, at the requeſt of the Plaintiff carried him to Lambeth within the County of Surry; which Town of Lambeth is next adjoyning to Weſtminſter, but out of the way, and not in the way from the County of Suffolk to Weſtminſter. And at the return of the Writ the Bayliffs did deliver the ſaid Boyton to the Priſon of the Kings Bench by virtue of the ſaid Writ; And that the Plaintiff from the time of the arreſt, until the return of the ſaid Writ and delivery of him to Priſon aforeſaid, did remain and continue with the Bayliffs by virtue or colour of their warrant. And if upon the whole matter the Plaintiff were at liberty, and out of Priſon it was the Queſtion: And Judgment was given againſt the Plaintiff; And in this Caſe theſe Points were reſolved by the Court, [43] [b]

Firſt, It was objected, That the command of the Writ of Capias ad faciendum was, to have the body of the Plaintiff at the Court of Kings Bench which then was at Weſtminſter; and for as much as they carried the Priſoner beyond Weſtminſter, that is to ſay, to Lambeth in another County which was not warranted by the Writ, of neceſſity it ought to be an Eſcape: For the Writ gave them warrant to bring him to Weſtminſter, for there was the Kings Bench; and therefore when they carry them farther to Lambeth in another County, it is without warrant, and by conſequence an Eſcape; For the Bayliffs cannot have the cuſtody of him as Bayliffs of the Franchiſe, for that was out of the Franchiſe; and by force of the Writ they cannot have the cuſtody of him, becauſe they have not purſued the Writ; and if the Bayliffs ſhall be ſuffered to bring him to Lambeth, by the ſame reaſon they may carry him to York, or to any other remote part of the Realm at their pleaſure.

Secondly, It was ſaid, That in as much as the Writ, which is his warrant, was to have his body at the Court of Kings Bench ſuch a day, he ought to bring the body the uſual way to Weſtminſter where the Kings Bench was, for ſo much is implied by the Writ; and therefore the carrying of his body to Lambeth in another County was without warrant, and by conſequence an Eſcape, and the Plaintiff by that out of their cuſtody.

To which it was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, That, firſt, there was a difference between the cuſtody of one in Execution within the Franchiſe or County where the Common Goal is, or where the Office of the Sheriff or Bayliffs extend; and where the Sheriff or Bayliff hath the cuſtody of one in Execution out of their Franchiſe or County, as in the Caſe at Bar by force of a Writ: For if the Sheriff or Bayliff of a Liberty aſſent that one who is in Execution and under his cuſtody go out of the Goal for a time, and then to return, although that he return at the time, yet the ſame is an Eſcape. So if the Sheriff or Bayliff ſuffer him to go by bail or baſton, for the Sheriff, or Bayliff ought to keep him in ſalva & arcta cuſtodia: And the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 11. ſaith, Quod carceri manucipentur in ferris, ſo as the Sheriff may keep them who are in Execution in fetters and irons, to the end they may ſatisfie their Creditors. And with that agreeth a Reſolution, Trin. 24. H. 8. by the advice of Fitz James and Norwich Juſtices, and Fitzherbert and Spilman Juſtices, that by the Law, thoſe who are in Execution ſhall not go at liberty within the Priſon, nor out of the Priſon with their Keepers, but ſhall be kept in ſtrict Ward, Vide Dier 249. b. and the Statute of 2 R. 2. cap. 12. & Weſtm. 2. cap. 11. But it was adjudged, where the Sheriff hath one in Execution for debt, and a Habeas corpus iſſueth out of the Kings Bench to have the body of him who is in Execution in the ſame Court at a certain day, by force of which Writ the Sheriff before the return of the Writ, bringeth the body to an Inn in Smithfield towards Weſtminſter, and the Priſoner of his own head go without any Keeper to Southwark in the County of Surrey, and the next morning cometh again to the Sheriff to Smithfield, and at the return of the Habeas Corpus the Sheriff delivereth his body in Court, the ſame is no eſcape. [44]

And ſo it was adjudged in this Court 31 Eliz. in Chalnocks Caſe who was Sheriff of Bedford, for the effect of the command of the Writ was performed, ſcil. to have his body in the Kings Bench ſuch a day; and the ſame ſtandeth with great reaſon, for the Sheriff, &c. may ſtronger keep his Goal than any Inn or other place through which he travelleth; a fortiori in the Caſe at Bar, for he was always under the cuſtody of the Bayliffs. And the Writ doth not command the Sheriff to bring him the direct or uſual way to Weſtminſter, &c. but only to have his body at the Kings Bench, &c. ſuch a day. And therefore if one be Sheriff of two Counties, and hath arreſted and taken ſeveral perſons in Execution in the ſeveral Counties by force of ſeveral Capias directed to him, he may in this Caſe bring one Priſoner out of one County into another, to carry both together to the Kings Court at Weſtminſter without any Eſcape; and what way or place the Sheriff thinketh moſt ſure for him he may take.

And ſome conceived that the Caſe at Bar was ſtronger, becauſe the Priſoner went to Lambeth upon his own requeſt, and therefore he ſhall not diſcharge himſelf by Audita querela in this Caſe. And for as much as Eſcapes are ſo penal to Sheriffs, Bayliffs of Liberties and Goalers, the Judges of the Law
[b] have always made ſuch favourable conſtruction as the Law will ſuffer, in favour of Sheriffs, Bayliffs of Liberties, and Keepers of Priſons, who are Officers and Miniſters of Juſtice. And to the intent that every one bear his own burthen, the Judges ſhall never adjudge one to make any Eſcape by any ſtrict conſtruction.

And therefore if one in Execution eſcape out of Priſon, and fly into another County, it may be argued, that the ſame ſhall be an Eſcape, although he be taken again upon freſh ſuit, becauſe the Sheriff cannot have the cuſtody of him in another County, becauſe he is not Sheriff there, neither doth his authority extend thither. But the Judges ſhall adjudge the ſame to be no Eſcape, if the Sheriff doth all that he can, and by his freſh ſuit hath taken him again, before any Action brought. So in the Caſe at Bar, when the Priſoner is once out of the proper County, although he goeth into another County which is not in the way to Weſtminſter where the Kings Bench is, the ſame by a favourable conſtruction cannot be an Eſcape, if at the day of the Return he have the body of the Defendant in Court. And if the Sheriff, &c. ſhall be compelled to bring his Priſoners to the Kings Courts as in recta linea, it ſhall be very perilous and dangerous to Sheriffs.

Secondly, It was reſolved, That if one in Execution eſcape of his own wrong and be taken, he ſhall never have Audita querela to diſcharge himſelf of the impriſonment, becauſe he ſhall not take advantage of his own wrong; and in ſuch Caſe it was lawful for the Goaler to take him again as it fully appeareth in a Caſe following. And where it was objected, That the Writ was not good, becauſe it doth not appear that the Warrant made by the Bayliffs was in writing; for the words of the Writ are, Virtute cujuſdam warranti, and doth not ſay in writing as hath been ſaid. But this Exception was diſallowed by the Court; for the ſentence is, Virtute cujuſdam warranti per præfat' R. & W. fact' & direct'; by which words (fact' & direct') is implied that it was in writing.

Another Exception to the Writ was taken, That it doth not appear thereby when the Judgment was given, nor when the Capias ad ſatisfaciendum, nor when it was returned, ſo that it may appear that the Defendant was arreſted by force of it after the Teſte of the Writ, and before the return thereof: But this Exception was alſo diſallowed by the Court, for as much as it appeareth by the Writ, That the ſaid Thomas Boyton the Plaintiff, virtute brevis præd' captus & areſtatus fuit in executione, by theſe words is implied, that it was lawfully and duly done. And it was agreed, that Writs are more compendious than Counts, and Counts than other pleadings, for Writs do comprehend the effect and ſubſtance without circumſtance of time or place, and other circumſtances. Et ideo dicuntur brevia, propter eorum brevitatem.

Hill. 36 Eliz. Rot. 445.

Sir George Brown's Caſe.

[50. b] IN an Ejectione firmæ by Thomas Lynch upon a demiſe made by Sir George Brown, againſt William Spencer, upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jurors gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect: Sir Richard Bridges ſeiſed of certain lands in fee did thereof enfeoff Winſcombe and others, upon Condition that they ſhould give back the ſame to him and his wife, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten, the remainder to the right heirs of Sir Richard, which was done accordingly; Sir Richard had iſſue on the body of his wife Anthony Bridges and died. Anthony in the life of his mother levied a fine (which in truth was with proclamations, although the proclamations were not found) to Sir George Brown in fee, the wife living, the ſaid Anthony made a leaſe of the land for three lives (which leaſe was not warranted by the Statute 32 H. 8. cap. 28. upon whom Sir George Brown entred, and made the leaſe to the Plaintiff; And if the entry of Sir George Brown were lawful or not was the Queſtion; and after many Arguments at the Barr and Bench, Judgment was given for the Plaintiff; And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved.

1. That

1. That the Leaſe made by the wife for three lives, although the leaſe were without warranty was within the Statute of 11 H. 7. cap. 20. the words of which Act is; If any woman, &c. have or ſhall hereafter being ſole, or with any other after taken husband, diſcontinued or diſcontinue, aliened, releaſed or confirmed, alien, releaſe or confirm with warranty, &c. For theſe words, with warranty, refer to Releaſes and Confirmations which are no diſcontinuances without warranty; for the intent of the Act was to prohibit not only every bar but every manner of diſcontinuance alſo which put the heir to his real Action, by which ſometimes the heir was diſ-inherited, and always greatly delayed; and for as much as Releaſe and Confirmation do not make diſcontinuance without warranty, for this cauſe the warranty ſhall be referred to them, to make them equivalent to ſuch eſtate which paſſeth by livery, which of it ſelf without a warranty is a diſcontinuance. Note, the Title of the Act is, Diſcontinuance of right or eſtate; and afterwards in the Act it is ſaid, Lands, Tenements or Hereditaments being diſcontinued, aliened or ſuffered to be recovered. And after, as if no ſuch Diſcontinuance, Warranty nor Recovery had been had; by which it appeareth that Diſcontinuance ſtood in equal degree with Warranty or Recovery, Vide Dier Paſch. 4. Mar. 148. Beamont & Villers Caſe, & Plow. Comm 50. b. [51]

2. It was reſolved, if Anthony had granted over his remainder in fee only, he might have entred for this forfeiture by the expreſs purview of the Act, the effect of which is; That it ſhall be lawful to every perſon and perſons to whom the intereſt, title or inheritance after the deceaſe of the ſaid woman, of the ſaid Mannor, &c. being diſcontinued, aliened or ſuffered to be recovered in the form aforeſaid ſhould appertain, to enter into all and every the premiſſes, and peaceably to poſſeſs and enjoy the ſame in ſuch manner and form, as he or they ſhould have done, if no ſuch diſcontinuance, warranty or recovery had been had nor made: And if no Diſcontinuance had been made the land ſhould deſcend to the iſſue. And therefore by the expreſs letter of the Act he ſhall enter upon the diſcontinuee, and not the grantee of the remainder.

Thirdly, It was reſolved, that in this Caſe Sir George Brown ſhall enter upon the diſcontinuee, for if no diſcontinuance had been made he ſhould enjoy the land againſt the ſaid Anthony and all the heirs of his body; for when the iſſue in tail levieth a fine with proclamations in the life of the Tenant in tail to another; and afterwards Tenant in tail dieth, this fine ſhall bar the tail. For the words of the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 36. are in any wife intailed to the perſon or perſons ſo levying the ſame fine, or to any of the Anceſtor or Anceſtors of the ſame perſon or perſons. But it was objected that the fine in the life of the wife doth operate in part by concluſion; for after it the wife doth remain Tenant in tail, and in part by conveyance of an eſtate as to the remainder in fee; And he who hath nothing but by concluſion or eſtoppel ſhall not take benefit of this Act, becauſe that the words are, To whom the intereſt, title or inheritance after the deceaſe of the ſaid woman ſhould appertain: And in this Caſe as to the eſtate tail, the feme being Tenant in tail, the conuſee had nothing but by concluſion, and right or title in this Caſe of entry cannot be given to a ſtranger. But it was reſolved, that in this Caſe Sir George Brown ſhall take advantage thereof; for he who hath the immediate title, intereſt or inheritance at the time of the forfeiture ſhall enter by force of this Statute; And now by fine with proclamations the eſtate was barred and extinct, and againſt that Anthony nor any of his iſſue inheritable by force of the eſtate tail can enter; and by conſequence, he who hath the remainder in fee ſhall enter, for he is the perſon to whom the intereſt, title and inheritance after the deceaſe of the ſaid woman doth appertain. And now, upon the matter the Caſe is no other, but that the woman Tenant in tail within the Statute of 11 H. 7. the reverſion, or remainder in fee, the feme doth make a diſcontinuance, he in the reverſion or remainder ſhall enter for the forfeiture, for he is the perſon to whom the intereſt, title and inheritance after the deceaſe of the ſaid woman doth appertain. The ſame Law in Caſe at Bar, although the fine were without proclamations; yet after the death of the woman, Anthony himſelf cannot enter, but the entry of the conuſee is lawful, becauſe he ſhall take the benefit of this Act, by the expreſs words thereof. [b]

And it was ſaid by Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, That where it was intended to make evaſion out of this Act, that ſuch woman Tenant in tail ſhould accept a fine upon conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. and thereby grant and render the land for 1000 years, pretending that that was within the words of the Act, ſcil. which prohibiteth diſcontinuance, alienation, releaſe, &c. That that was an alienation within the intent of this Act, or otherwiſe the Statute ſhould ſerve to little purpoſe; And ſo was it upon conference with the other Judges reſolved by Wray chief Juſtice and himſelf in the Court of Wards, and decreed accordingly. And ſo it was holden in the Common Pleas 18 Eliz. by Sir James Dier, Manwood and Mounſon Juſtices, as I my ſelf heard. Vide Dier 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. 148. Penicocks Caſe.

Paſch. 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Rigewaie's Caſe.

[52] IN Debt by William Grils, againſt Thomas Rigeway late Sheriff of Devon of 309 l. 6 s. 8 d. which he had recovered in the ſame Court for Treſpaſs for taking of his goods, againſt Thomas Chawner alias Chaundeler, and that the body of Chawner was taken in Execution 20 April. 33 Eliz. by the Defendant then Sheriff at Stoke Cannon in the ſaid County; and that afterwards the Defendant 10 Decem. 34 Eliz. then Sheriff of the ſame County ſuffered him to eſcape in Parochia S. Mariæ de Arcubus in Warda de Cheape London, & ad largum quo voluit ire permiſit, &c. The Defendant pleaded and confeſſed, that Chawner was taken in Execution the ſaid 20 April. 33 Eliz. and ſo continued in his cuſtody till the eighth day of December following, at which day at Stoke Cannon aforeſaid he broke the Priſon, & a cuſtodia ipſius Th. Rigeway contra voluntatem ipſius Th. evaſit, ſuper quod præd' Thomas adtunc & ibidem recenter inſecutus eſt præd' Johannem, & in recenti inſecutione ipſius Johannis in forma præd', præd' Thomas Rigeway 11 de Decemb. tunc proxime ſequent' apud Stoke Cannon præd', ratione & virtute executionis præd' & prioris captionis & executionis prædict' cepit & arreſtavit præd' Johannem, &c. The Plaintiff by way of Replication, by proteſtation that the Defendant did not make freſh ſuit, for plea ſaid, quod poſt evaſionem præd' & antequam præd' Johannis Chawner receptus fuit, idem Johannes per totum unum diem & unam noctem, viz. apud London in parochia & Warda præd. fuit extra viſum ipſius Thomæ, &c. And thereupon the Defendant did demurr in Law.

1. In this Caſe it was agreed by the whole Court, That although that the priſoner who eſcaped was out
[b] of ſight, yet if freſh ſuit be made, and he be taken in recenti inſecutione, he ſhall be in Execution, for otherwiſe at the turn of a corner, or by entry into a houſe, or by ſuch means, the Priſoner might be out of ſight; and although the Priſoner flyeth into other Counties where the Sheriff hath no power, and where it may be objected, the Sheriff cannot have the cuſtody of him, yet for as much as the eſcape was of his own wrong, whereof he ſhall not take advantage, the Sheriff may upon freſh ſuit take him in any other County, and he ſhall be ſaid in Execution. But if the Plaintiff bring an Action againſt the Sheriff for an Eſcape before that the Sheriff can take him; or if the Sheriff doth not make freſh ſuit, yet in both theſe Caſes the Sheriff may take him, and keep his body under his cuſtody, till he hath agreed with him, or may have an Action opon the Caſe for his tortious eſcape. And although the Defendant be taken upon a Capias ad ſatisfaciendum, yet if the Writ be never returned, nor filed, the Plaintiff may have a new Capias ad ſatisfaciendum againſt him, and take him again, and he ſhall not take advantage of his own wrong, but if the Plaintiff will, he may charge the Sheriff for Eſcape if he have not taken him again upon freſh ſuit before the Action brought; And when the Priſoner eſcapeth of his own wrong, and is taken again, he ſhall never have an Audita querela againſt the Sheriff; But otherwiſe it is, when he eſcapeth with the conſent of the Goaler, for then he cannot take him again, and in ſuch Caſe for his diſcharge he ſhall have an Audita querela. And upon theſe differences are all the Books, ſcil. 8 E. 2. Corone 40. 6 E. 2. Eſcape Br. 49. 41 Aſſ. 5. 45 E. 3. 9. 2 E. 4. 6. 10 E. 4. 10. 11 E. 4. 4. 13 E. 4. 8. 21 E. 4. 67. 6 H. 7. 11. 10 H. 7. 25. 28. 13 H. 7. 2. 14 H. 7. 1. 16 H. 7. 2. 12 H. 8. 90. Br. Eſcape 45. Plow. Com. Plats Caſe. F. N. B. 130. b. 10 Eliz. Dier 275. and other Books.

2. It was reſolved, That the bar was inſufficient, for the Plaintiff hath declared of an Eſcape in London, and the Defendant juſtifieth the retaking of him at Stoke Cannon, and ſo the eſcape at London is not anſwered; but for as much as the Plaintiff not denying the freſh ſuit, but by proteſtation hath only relyed upon that matter, that the Priſoner was out of his ſight, the Court ſhall not intend other matter to maintain his Action than he himſelf hath ſhewed; and now upon the Record it doth not appear that the Plaintiff hath cauſe of Action, for this cauſe the Plaintiff perceiving the opinion of the Court, did diſcontinue his ſuit: But it was agreed that if the Plaintiff had demurred upon the Bar, that he ſhould have had judgment.

3. It was reſolved, That after demurrer there ſhall be no repleader, for the parties have by their mutual aſſent put themſelves upon the Judgment of the Court, and therefore without their mutual aſſent they cannot replead. And ſo was it adjudged between Kendal and Heyer in the Kings Bench, M. 35 & 36 Eliz. by Wray chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court of the Kings Bench. And in the ſame Court in Debt between Gallis and Burbry Mic. 29 & 30 Eliz. againſt the opinion of 9 H. 6. 35. in an Avowry, which Record had been ſeen, and did not warrant the Report of the Book.

Mich.

Mich. 37 & 38 Eliz. in the Common Pleas. Rot. 81.

Lincoln Colledge Case.

IN a Formedon in Descender by Robert Chamberlain, Cousin and heir male of the body of Richard Chamberlain, against the Rector and Scholars of Lincoln Colledge in the University of Oxford for the Mannors of Petsore and Ekeney in the County of Buckingham, upon the pleading the Case was such: Richard Chamberlain did enfeoff Corneborough and others of the said Mannors, to the intent that they should give back the same to the said Richard Chamberlain and Sibill Fowler whom he intended to marry, and to the heirs male of the body of Richard, which was done accordingly. Richard and Sibill do entermarry, and have issue Edward, Richard died, Edward in the life of Sibill adtunc tenens liberi tenementi, &c. which was intended by disseisin, ann. 4 H. 1. suffered a common Recovery with single voucher by agreements amongst all, to the intent that the Recoverors should enfeoff Lister and others to divers uses; and that Sibill (for better assurance) should release to them with warranty, which feoffment and release with warranty were made accordingly anno 11 H. 8. And afterwards Sibill died, Edward then being alive; and if this collateral warranty shall bar the demandant or not, or shall be void by the Statute of 11 *H.*7. cap. 20. was the Question; for in as much as the common Recovery was had against Edward in the life of Tenant for life, it cannot be intended, that Sibill did surrender her estate, or that Edward had entred for the forfeiture, and therefore shall be seised by force of the tail if not that it had been alledged in pleading: But for as much as it was generally alledged that then he was Tenant of the freehold, it shall be intended strong against him who pleadeth, that is to say that it was by disseisin, or by feoffment of a disseisor, so that he was in of another estate, and then the recovery with single voucher will not bind it; And therefore the sole Question was, upon the collateral warranty. And it was strongly objected, That this warranty shall be void, not only within the expres words, but also within the meaning of the Act. [58 b] [59]

For first, there is no doubt but the heir male of the body of Edward is a person to whom the inheritance after the death of Sibill shall appertain: And the words of the Act are, That such person shall enter, and peaceably possess the land as he ought if no such warranty had been made. And the meaning of the Act was not to save the estate for him only who is heir apparent at the time of the forfeiture, but to preserve the same for the benefit of all the issues inheritable by force of the tail. As if A. make a feoffment in fee to the use of himself and his wife, and the heirs of the body of A. A. hath issue B. and dieth, the wife is disseised, the heir in tail by deed releaseth to the disseisor, and afterwards the wife releaseth also with warranty and dieth, B. hath issue C. and dieth; although that B. hath by his release disabled himself to take advantage of the forfeiture during his life, yet it shall not prejudice his issue, for he is the person to whom the inheritance of the estate tail doth appertain, and now by the Statute he shall enter as if no warranty had been made.

2. It is to be observed, That by the Statute, not only entry is given to him to whom the interest, title, or inheritance shall appertain, as if no warranty had been made; but by the Branch next before the purview, That every discontinuance, alienation, release, or confirmation with warranty, and recovery made or suffered by such woman shall be utterly void and of no effect: And if the warranty in this Case, by the expres letter of the Act be utterly void and of none effect, it is void as to all, and by consequence against every issue in tail, and it is void also as to Edward himself, but in respect of the said Recovery he hath barred himself that he cannot enter into the land; And Doctor and Student was strongly urged, That if a woman tenant in tail suffer a common Recovery, and the issue in tail release to the recoveror, yet his issue may enter, which proveth, that although that he to whom the immediate right of the estate tail doth belong, will by his own act exclude himself from the benefit that the Statute would have given him; yet his issue shall not be prejudiced by it.

And it was further objected, That if any Error had been in the recovery that Edward suffered, and had brought a Writ of Error, the collateral warranty of the woman should not be a bar to him, for the Statute by expres words hath made the warranty utterly void, and of no effect; a fortiori, the warranty shall not bind the demandant who claimeth as cousin, and heir male of the body per formam doni. To which it was answered and resolved, as to the first Branch; That the office of a good expositor of an Act of Parliament is to make construction upon all the parts together, and not of one part only by it self; Nemo enim aliquam partem recte intelligere possit, antequam totum iterum atque iterum perlegerit: And although the first branch make the discontinuance, alienation, warranty and recovery utterly void, and of no effect; yet the clause following being connexed to it with this conjunction, And that it shall be lawful, expounds the generality of the words of the precedent branch; And therefore the sense of both together is, that they shall be utterly void and of no effect by the entry of him to whom the interest, title, or inheritance, after the woman doth appertain; but the discontinuance, alienation, warranty or recovery shall not be void between the parties, but shall stand in force between themselves, and against all others, but only against such to whom the interest, title, or inheritance after the death of such woman doth appertain, and they only may make it void, and of no effect by their entry: And so before that time have other Statutes been expounded by the ancient Judges and Sages of the Law. As the Statute of 8 H. 6. cap. 10. by which it is provided that all outlawries shall be holden for null and void, and that the party, &c. be not indamaged, nor put to loss [b] of his goods and chattels, &c. if not that a Capias be awarded againſt the party in the County in which by indictment, or appeal he is expreſſed to be dwelling, yet it ought to be avoided by the means which the Law hath appointed, and the ſame is by Writ of Error.

of

In the ſame manner in the Caſe at Bar, eſtates of freehold or inheritance cannot be defeated without an entry, and therefore by entry they ought to be made void. So the Statute of 23 H. 6. cap. 10. makes an obligation taken in other manner then the Statute preſcribed void; yet it is holden in 7 E. 4. 5. that the party cannot plead, non eſt factum but it is voidable by plea, with ſuch apt concluſion as the Law doth appoint. So upon the Statute of 1 Eliz. which provideth, That all grants, leaſes, &c. made by Biſhops in other manner then is mentioned in the Act ſhall be utterly void, and of no effect to all intents and purpoſes; Notwithſtanding theſe preciſe words it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, M. 32 & 33 Eliz. in a Quare Impedit between Sale and the Biſhop of Coventry and Lichfield, That a grant of the next avoidance of an Advowſon is not void as to the grantor himſelf, but as to the ſucceſſor; for ſo was the intent of the Act to provide for the ſucceſſor and not for the party himſelf. So and upon the ſame reaſon [60] was it reſolved in the Common Pleas, Paſch. 39 Eliz. between Hunt and Singleton for a houſe in Foſter-lane in London whereof the inheritance was in the Dean and Chapter of Pauls, That if the Dean and Chapter make a leaſe not warranted by the Statute of 13 & 14 Eliz. in which Caſe it is provided by the ſaid Acts, that ſuch leaſe ſhall be abſolutely void, and of no effect to all intents and purpoſes; In this Caſe of a Corporation aggregate of many perſons which never dieth, it was greatly doubted, if the leaſe ſhall not be utterly void preſently according to the expreſs letter of the Act; but it was at laſt reſolved, for as much as the Act was made for the benefit of ſucceſſors, that the leaſe ſhall not be void till after the death of the Dean who was party to the leaſe: And although the ſucceſſor of the Dean is not ſucceſſor to the whole Corporation who made the leaſe, yet becauſe the whole Corporation never dieth, ſuch leaſe by conſtruction ſhall be void after the death of the Dean who is the principal member of the Corporation, and the Succeſſor with the Chapter ſhall avoid it. So in the principal Caſe, although it be provided by the Statute of 11 H. 7. That the diſcontinuance, alienation, warranty, and recovery ſhall be void, yet they are not void preſently, but are to be made void by ſuch perſons to whom after the death of the woman the intereſt, title, or inheritance appertaineth. And with this Reſolution agreeth 27 H. 8. 23. upon this Statute of 11 H. 7.

2. It was anſwered and reſolved, That this Caſe was out of the intention of the ſaid Act for divers cauſes:

Firſt, Becauſe the intent of the Act was for to reſtrain women to make diſcontinuance, warranty, and recovery in bar, or prejudice of the heir in tail, or of them in the remainder, &c. But when the heir in tail in the Caſe at Bar doth convey and aſſure the land to others, and the releaſe or confirmation of the woman with warranty, is but to perfect, and to corroborate the eſtate which the heir in tail hath made, ſuch warranty is not reſtrained by this Act; for the ſame ſhall be intended to the benefit of the heir, and not to his prejudice; And that was the reaſon that a common Recovery in reſpect of the intended recompence was not reſtrained by the Statute of Weſt. 2. And therefore when the iſſue in tail in the Caſe at Bar, hath ſuffered a common Recovery, and the warranty of the woman doth extend but to ſtrengthen the ſame, this warranty is not reſtrained by the Act of 11 H. 7.

[b] The ſecond reaſon was, that the wife with the heir in tail might have joyned in a fine, and ſo barred the eſtate tail; or if the wife had ſurrendred to the heir in tail, he might have ſuffered a common Recovery, and by that the eſtate tail ſhould be cut off, and ſo they both had power to bar the eſtate tail, and the remainder or reverſion expectant thereupon: Then it was not the intention of the Act to reſtrain the warranty the wife made to him who had the land by conveyance of the heir in tail. And upon the ſame reaſon was it adjudged M. 38 & 39 Eliz. in the Kings Bench between Jennings and Wiſeman; and Hill. 39 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, but the Plea began Trin. 38 Eliz. Rot. 1302. between Wiſeman and Crowe, and the Caſe in both Courts was one, ſcil. Thomas Wiſeman had iſſue William his eldeſt ſon by one woman, and Thomas and a daughter by another woman, and ſeiſed of lands in Eſſex holden in Socage, deviſed the ſame to Dorothy his wife for life, the remainder to T. in tail, and died, by which the wife was Tenant for life, the remainder to T. in tail, and the reverſion in fee deſcended to William, Dorothy after the Statute of 14 Eliz. ſuffered a common Recovery, in which Thomas was vouched, who vouched over the common vodcuee, which Recovery was to the uſe of Thomas and his heirs; The daughter married Jennings, Thomas died without iſſue, now between Jennings and Crowe his fermor, and Wiſeman ſon and heir of William was the queſtion for the land; Wiſeman objected that the ſaid common Recovery was void by the expreſs letter of the Statute of 14 Eliz. cap. 8. Where divers perſons being ſeiſed, &c. of any lands, &c. only for life or lives, or of eſtates determinable upon life or lives have ſuffered other perſons by agreement or covin to recover the ſame lands againſt the ſame particular Tenants, &c. or as vouchees to the great prejudice of thoſe to whom the reverſion or remainder hath appertained, or ought to appertain: Be it enacted, that every ſuch Recovery, as of ſuch perſon in reverſion or remainder thereof, &c. be clearly and utterly void and of none effect: Provided that every ſuch Recovery had by the aſſent of any perſon in reverſion or remainder, ſo the ſame aſſent appear of Record in any Court, &c. ſhall ſtand in force againſt ſuch perſon ſo aſſenting, &c. And the ſaid Recovery was had againſt Dorothy being tenant for life; and the ſaid William Wiſeman who had the reverſion in fee never aſſented to the ſaid Recovery according to the ſaid proviſo: And therefore the ſaid Recovery ſhall not bind by the expreſs letter of the Act: But it was adjudged in both Courts, that the reverſion in fee was barred by the ſaid Recovery. And the ſaid Act of 14 Eliz. did not extend to it: And the principal reaſon was, becauſe it was not the intent of the Act to extend to ſuch Recovery in which he in the remainder in tail was vouched, becauſe that tenant in tail hath an eſtate of inheritance which may continue for ever; and he hath power by a common Recovery to cut off all remainders and reverſions expectant upon his eſtate; and if Dorothy had ſurrendred unto him, then without queſtion the Recovery ſhall bar him in the reverſion in fee: So Dorothy and Thomas had power to bar the reverſion in fee, and neither the Statute of Weſt. 2, cap. 3. which gave receit extended to him in the reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate tail, 33 H. 6. 22. 41 E. 3. 12. nor the Statute of 9 R. 2. cap. 2. which gave the Writ of Error to him in the reverſion, nor the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 31. made againſt common Recoveries had againſt Tenants for life, extend to remainders or reverſions expectant upon an eſtate tail. So in the Caſe at the Bar, for as much as he who hath the eſtate tail hath ſuffered a common Recovery, and the wife hath releaſed to the Recoverors with warranty, the Act of 11 H. 7. doth not extend to it, becauſe the heir in tail hath power in himſelf to bar the tail, and the warranty of the wife is but to perfect his conveyance.

ſhall

Thirdly, It was reſolved, that in the Caſe at Bar when the ſaid Edward by the common Recovery had againſt him by his own agreement diſabled himſelf to take benefit of the forfeiture given by the Statute after the death of Edward, his iſſue ſhall not take benefit thereof, becauſe his father was in being at the time of the forfeiture, and cannot enter, and a perſon who is not in rerum natura, or who hath not immediate intereſt, title, or inheritance at the time of the forfeiture ſhall never take benefit of this Act, when another was in being at the time of the forfeiture, and cannot enter, and yet had power to bar by fine or Recovery him who would claim the benefit of the Act; And the ſame was in effect adjudged in Sir George Browns Caſe, where the iſſue in tail in the life of his mother having the reverſion in fee levied a fine without proclamations. And if Error was in the ſaid Recovery, the warranty of the wife ſhall bar Edward of his Writ of Error, becauſe by his own act he hath barred himſelf of entry which the Act preſcribed. And the Caſe of Doctor and Student was affirmed to be good Law; for there preſently by the Recovery the iſſue hath title to enter upon the recoveror, and therefore his releaſe by deed could not bar his iſſue; but in the Caſe at Bar the iſſue in tail firſt ſuffered the Recovery, and ſo diſabled himſelf before the warranty made, as alſo it was done in Sir George Browns Caſe, by the fine levied in the life of the mother, and therefore in thoſe Caſes title of entry was never given to the iſſue in tail, as it was in the Caſe of Doctor and Student; and ſo manifeſt diverſity: But if Sibill had releaſed after the death of Edward, then the iſſue in tail might have avoided the warranty by force of this Act. [b]

Note Reader, I conceive, that if a man make a feoffment in fee to the uſe of him and his wife in tail, and to the uſe of the husband in fee, and hath iſſue a daughter, his wife with child with a ſon, by which the reverſion in fee deſcendeth to the daughter, the wife before the birth of the ſon levieth a fine, or ſuffereth a common Recovery, in this Caſe although the daughter enter or not, or although the daughter had joyned in the fine, or was vouched in the Recovery, or by any other act hath diſabled her ſelf to take benefit of this Act, yet the ſon after born ſhall take benefit of this Act; and that well agreeth with this Reſolution. For by no act that the daughter can do, can ſhe bar the ſon againſt the eſtate tail, as Edward might in the Caſe at Bar; and therefore it ſtands with reaſon and equity that no act which ſhe may do ſhall be prejudicial to the ſon, which was in utero matris. And this Caſe is not to be compared to the Caſe in 5 E. 4. 6. For by the Statute of 6 R. 2. cap. 6. it is provided, Quod proximus de ſanguine eorundem rapientium & raptorum, cui hæreditas deſcendere, remanere, vel accidere deberet poſt mortem rapientis vel raptæ, habeat titulum immediate ſtatim ſcilicet poſt raptum intrandi ſuper rapientem vel raptum, &c. & tenere de ſtatu hæreditario; in this Caſe if the daughter enter, ſhe ſhall keep it for ever againſt the ſon after born: But although that the daughter enter by force of the Statute of 11 H. 7. yet the ſon born after ſhall enter upon her; and the cauſe and reaſon of this difference is, that the daughter by the Statute of 6 R. 2. hath the land meerly as purchaſor, and a perquiſite in fee ſimple: And by the expreſs words of the Act, ſhe ſhall enter and keep the land, for the Statute ſaith, intrabit, &c. & tenebit de jure hæreditario. And it is like the Caſe in 9 H. 7. 25. if a remainder be limited to the right heirs of J. S. and he dieth having a daughter, the daughter ſhall have it as a purchaſor, and ſhall keep the land againſt the ſon born after. But when the daughter entreth by force of the Act of 11 H. 7. ſhe is in of an eſtate tail per formam doni, and ſo in nature of a deſcent, and not meerly as a purchaſor, and that by the expreſs words of the Statute of 11 H. 7. which are, That the perſon to whom the lands appertain after the deceaſe of ſuch woman, ſhall enter into the tenements, and poſſeſs and enjoy them according to ſuch intereſt, title, or inheritance, as they ſhall have if ſuch woman had been dead, and no diſcontinuance, warranty, or recovery had; ſo that the daughter in this Caſe doth not claim the land meerly as a perquiſite, as ſhe doth upon the Statute of 6 R. 2. but by force of the Act of 11. H. 7. ſhe claims according to her title, ſo if the woman had been dead, and that is per formam doni, and per formam doni the ſon after born is to be preferred before the daughter: And therefore this Caſe is to be compared to Shelley's Caſe; in which Caſe although the uſe veſted in Richard the younger ſon, yet the ſon of the eldeſt ſon after born ſhall enter upon him, becauſe that Richard in that Caſe was in the nature of a deſcent, and not meerly as a purchaſor. And if the makers of the Act of 11 H. 7. had been asked if in ſuch Caſe the woman may prejudice the ſon ſhe goeth with all of the benefit which they by the Act had provided, they would have anſwered, abſit quod licitum fuerit matri nocere filio qui in utero ſuo eſt. And with this opinion agreeth Montague chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Plow. Comm. 56. And the opinion of the Court of Wards 20 Eliz. Dier. 362. is not repugnant to it, for there the opinion is, That if the iſſue in tail enter by force of this Act upon a fine levied by his mother, and her ſecond husband, he ſhall not be in Ward, which well may be, for in ſuch Caſe he hath the land but during the coverture, and therefore is in a manner a purchaſor; Alſo although that he ſhould have the land in nature of a deſcent, yet it doth not follow that he ſhall be in Ward: for in the Caſe of Wardſhip, there ought to be death natural, or civil; alſo it behoveth that the Anceſtor die in the Lords homage: And by this difference you ſhall better underſtand your Books. in 9 H. 6. 25. 9 H. 7. 25. & Doctor and Student. [62]

4. It

4. It was resolved, That if tenant in tail being in of another estate suffer a common Recovery, and a collateral ancestor of Tenant in tail releasé with warranty to the Recoveror, and afterwards the Recoveror maketh a feoffment to uses which are executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. and afterwards the collateral ancestor dieth, in this case although the estate of the land be transferred in the Post before the descent of the warranty, yet the warranty shall bind, and the Terre-tenants may take advantage thereof by way of Rebutter: So if he to whom the warranty is made suffer a common Recovery, and afterwards the ancestor dieth, the Recoveror shall rebut by this warranty; And yet it is adjudged in 22 Ass. 37. that if Tenant in Dower doth enfeoff a Villain with warranty, and the Lord of the Villain entreth into the land before the descent of the warranty, and afterwards the wife dieth, this warranty shall not bind the right heir: So it is agreed by the Justices in 29 Ass. 34. if a collateral warranty be made to a bastard and his heirs, and living the ancestor, the bastard dieth without issue, and the Lord by escheat entreth, and afterwards the ancestor dieth, this warranty shall not bind. And although in the Case at Bar, as in these two Cases, before the warranty descend the estate of the land is transferred in the Post, yet
[b] there is a great difference between these two Cases and the Case at Bar; for he who hath the land by limitation of use, and by a common Recovery, cometh to the land by limitation and act of the party; and therefore he who hath a reversion by limitation of use, or by common Recovery, although he be in the Post in both Cases; yet he shall take benefit of a Condition as an assignee within the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 34. But when the Lord of a Villain entreth, he cometh to the land in respect of a title paramount, that is to say, in respect of Villeinage, and the Lord by Escheat in respect of a Seigniory which was a title paramount, and both these are in meerly in the Post, and not by any limitation or act of the party, and so manifest difference. And although some presume to say that those Books are erroneous, and against Law, and their reasons are, scil. because it was holden in the time of E. 3. scil. in 18 E. 3. 10. a. That the tenant shall not take advantage of a warranty by way of Rebutter, without shewing how the warranty extendeth to him, which is as much as to say, to make him assignee of the land, so that one who cometh in in the Post shall not Rebut. And in 10 E. 3. 42. 10 Ass. 5. in an Assise the tenant pleaded a warranty made to one W. &c. concluded upon the warranty as assignee to W. and demanded Judgment, &c. and was charged by the party, and by the Court to shew how he was assignee, and so did: And in 22 Ass. 88. in the same year when one of the said Cases was adjudged, it was holden that one shall not take advantage of a warranty made to another and the assignees by way of Rebutter, although he be an assignee in fact, and that in Case of Rebutter, as well as in Case of Voucher he ought to shew as well the deed which comprehendeth the warranty, as the deed which proveth the assignment: And these errors were the cause, as they said, that it was then holden, that neither the Lord of the Villain, or the Lord by Escheat should take advantage of a warranty by way of Rebutter: But I conceive, that the true reason of the said Books is utterly mistaken. For true it is that some Judges in those times thought, that none should take advantage by Rebutter of a warranty made to one, his heirs and assignees, but he who was heir or assignee; And that the Terre-tenant ought in Case of Voucher and Rebutter shew deeds of the same assignments; which opinion had great semblance of reason, because that the warranty extended only to the feoffee his heirs and assigns. And a thing which of its nature cannot be created without deed, cannot be assigned without deed: But I well agree the said opi-
[63] nions were against the true sense and judgment of Law in both points: For he who hath the possession of the land shall Rebut the demandant himself without shewing how he cometh to the possession, for it is sufficient for him to defend his possession, and to bar the demandant; and the demandant against the warranty cannot recover the land: And so was it holden 35 Ass. 9. that tenant by the Curtesie shall Rebut. And in 45 E. 3. 18. it is adjudged, that the donees in tail, although they be in of another estate shall Rebut the demandant. And in 38 E. 3. 26. it is adjudged that the assignee shall Rebut by force of a warranty, made to one and his heirs: And 7 E. 3. 34. & 46 E. 3. 4. feoffee of the donee in tail shall Rebut: I well agree, that if A. enfeoff B. his heirs and assignees with warranty, and B. enfeoff C. without deed, C. shall vouch A. as assignee, for the warranty extendeth to B. and his assignees of the land, and C. is his assignee thereof, and the assignment is not made of the warranty, for then it ought to be had by deed, but the warranty cannot be assigned, but extends to assignees of the land; and if the feoffment to C. was by deed, it is only of the land, and not of the warranty; and C. shall vouch A. as assignee of the land, because that the warranty by expres words extendeth to him; that is to say, to B. and his assignees of the land; and if the feoffee without deed shall not vouch as assignee, truly the feoffee by deed shall not vouch, for one of them is as well assignee of the land as the other, and none of them hath or can have assignment of the warranty.

And so it was resolved Pasch. 39 Eliz. in the Kings Bench between Auder and Noke upon a Writ of Error upon a Judgment given in a Writ of Covenant in the Common Pleas, by Popham chief Justice, Gawdy, and the whole Court, upon conference had with divers other Justices; That if a man make a lease for years, and covenanted with him and his assignees, his assignee by word shall have an Action of Covenant: So feoffee by word shall vouch as assignee; And therefore the Books which speak of shewing of the Deed comprehending the warranty, and of the Deed of assignment, are to be extended to things which lie in grant, which cannot be assigned without Deed. And so may all the Books be reconciled, 8 Ass. 33. 9 Ass. 11. 10 Ass. 5. 10 E. 3. 42. 11 E. 3. Br. Monstrans de faits 164. 13 E. 3 Voucher 17. 14 E. 3. Garr. 33. 12 E. 3. Condition 11. 17 E. 3. 68. 22 Ass. 88. 40 E. 3. 22, 23. 40 Ass. 30. 42 E. 3. 19. 3 H. 7. 13, & 14. 3 H. 6. 21. Statham Assignee 1.

But note Reader, that these were not the reasons of the said Books in 22 Ass. 37, and 29 Ass. 34. which have been alledged, for it appeareth by both the Books, that if the warranty had bound, and had [b] been a bar in right in the one Case against the Villain, hoc est, if the warranty had descended before the Lord of the Villain had entred; and in the other Case, if the Ancestor had died before the Tenant (so that the warranty had descended before the Escheat) the Lord by Escheat in the one Case, and the Lord of the Villain in the other Case, should lose advantage of the warranty by way of Rebutter: and that appeareth by the Rules of both Books. And therefore those who condemned the said Books understood not well the reason of them. And I dare not take upon me, or presume to oppose the Authority of the said Books. For Master Littleton seemeth to agree with the reason of them in his Chapter of Discontinuance 143. for he saith, Nota, if there be Lord and Tenant, and the Tenant giveth the tenements to another in tail, the remainder to another in fee; and afterwards the donee maketh a lease for life, and grants the reversion to another in fee, and the Tenant for life attorneth, and afterwards the grantee dieth without heir, by which the Reversion escheateth to the Lord; in this Case if the Tenant for term of life dieth, and the Lord by escheat entreth in the life of the Tenant in tail, it is no discontinuance, because that the Lord is in by way of escheat, and not by the Tenant in tail (and therefore the entry of the issue in tail in such Case was lawful, because that the Lord by escheat cannot take advantage of any warranty which Tenant in tail as was intended had made.) But Littleton saith, secus esset, if the reversion had been executed in the grantee, in the life of Tenant in tail, for he was in by the Tenant in tail.

of

Trin. 38 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Thomas Harvy and Walter Oswald.

Pennant's Case.

IN an Ejectione firmæ between Harvy Plaintiff, and Oswald Defendant, of a demise made 37 Eliz. by John Pennant to the Plaintiff, of certain lands in Ardeley in the County of Essex for three years, [64] from the feast of All Saints ann. 39. The Defendant pleaded, that the said John Pennant was seised of the said land in fee. And anno 35 demised the same to the Defendant for 10 years, yeilding the yearly rent of 33 l. 10 s. at the feast of S. Michael, and the Annunciation of our Lady; and that he was possessed till Pennant put him out, and made the lease to the Plaintiff, and he reentred, &c. The Plaintiff replied and confessed the said lease, but further said, that the said lease was upon condition, that if the Defendant, his Executors, or Administrators, at any time without the assent of the said John Pennant his heirs or assigns, grant, alien, or assign the said land, or any part thereof, that then it should be lawful for the said Pennant and to his heirs to reenter: And that the Defendant anno 35. granted to one Taylor parcel of the said land for 6 years without the assent of Pennant, for which he reentred, and made the lease to the Plaintiff, prout, &c.

The Defendant by way of rejoynder, saith, That before the reentry Pennant accepted the rent due at the feast of the Annunciation of our Lady after the assignment by the hands of the Defendant Peter Oswald: To which the Plaintiff by way of surrejoynder said, that Pennant before the receipt of the said rent had notice of the said demise to Taylor, upon which plea the Defendant did demur in Law; And Trin. 39 Eliz. it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. And in this Case these Points were resolved:

1. That the Condition being collateral, the breach of it may be so secretly contrived, that it is [b] not possible for the lessor to come to the knowledge of it, and therefore notice in this Case is material and issuable, for otherwise the lessee shall take advantage of his own fraud, for he may make the grant or demise so secretly, and so near the day in which the rent is to be paid, that it is not possible for the lessor to have notice of it: But if a man make a lease for years rendring rent, upon condition that if the rent be behind, that it shall be lawful for him to reenter; in that Case if the lessor demand the rent, and it is not paid, and afterwards he accept the rent (before the reentry made) at a day after, he hath dispensed with the Condition, for there the Condition being annexed to the rent, and he having made demand for the rent, he well knew that the Condition was broken: But in such Case, although he accept the rent (due at the day for which the demand was made) yet he may enter, for as well before as after his entry he may have an Action of debt for the rent upon the contract between the lessor and lessee, and that was the first difference between a Collateral Condition and a Condition annexed to rent, vide 45 Ass. 5.

The second difference was, That in Case of a Condition annexed to rent, if the lessor distrain for the same rent for which demand was made, by that also he hath affirmed the lease, for his distress for the rent hath affirmed the lease to have continuance after the rent received; for after the lease determined he cannot distrain for the rent, vide 14 Ass. 11. Accord.

The third was, That as well in Case of Condition annexed to rent, as in Case of a Condition annexed to any collateral act, if the conclusion of the Condition be, that then the lease for years shall be void, there no acceptance of rent (due at any day after the breach of the Condition) will make the void lease good. And so is difference between a lease which is (ipso facto) void without any reentry, and a lease which is voidable by reentry; for a lease which is ipso facto void by the breach of the Condition cannot be made good by any acceptance after, Plow. Com. in Browning and Beston's Case 133.

The fourth was, As affirmation of a voidable leaſe by word for money (or other conſideration) ſhall not avail the leſſee; ſo the acceptance of a rent (which is not in eſſe, nor due to him who accepteth it) ſhall not bind him: As if land be given to the husband and wife, and to the heirs of the body of the husband, the husband maketh a leaſe for 40 years and dieth, the iſſue in tail accepteth the rent in the life of the wife, and afterwards the wife dieth; yet the iſſue ſhall avoid the leaſe, for at the time of the acceptance no rent was in eſſe, or due to him, vide 32 H. 8. Br. Acceptance.

The fifth was between a leaſe for life and a leaſe for years, for in the Caſe of a leaſe for life, if the concluſion of a Condition annexed to rent (or other callateral act) be, that then the leaſe ſhall be [65] void, there (becauſe that an eſtate of freehold being created by livery cannot be determined before entry) in ſuch Caſe acceptance of rent due at a day after, ſhall bar the leſſor of his reentry, for this voidable leaſe may well be affirmed by acceptance of rent: And therefore, if a man make a leaſe for years upon Condition that if the leſſee do not go to Rome, or any other collateral Condition, with concluſion that the leaſe ſhall be void, in this Caſe, if the leſſor grant over the reverſion, and after the Condition is broken, the grantee ſhall take benefit thereof, for the leaſe is void, and not voidable by reentry; and therefore the grantee who is a ſtranger may take benefit thereof; but if the leaſe be made for life with ſuch Condition, there the grantee ſhall never take benefit of it, for the eſtate for life cannot determine before entry, and entry or reentry in no Caſe (by the Common Law) can be given to a ſtranger, 11 H. 7. 17. Br. Cond. 245. 10 E. 3. 52. per Stone, 21 H. 7. 12. So if a Parſon, Vicar, or Prebend make a leaſe for years rendring rent, and dieth, the ſucceſſor accepteth the rent, it is nothing worth, for the leaſe was void by his death, otherwiſe is it of a leaſe for life: But if a Biſhop, Abbot, Prior, or ſuch like, maketh a leaſe for years and dieth, if the ſucceſſor accepteth the rent, he ſhall never avoid the leaſe, for the leaſe was voidable, 11 E. 3. Abbot 9. 8 H. 5. 9. 37 H. 6. 3. 24 H. 8. Br. Leaſes 19. F. N. B. 50.

But note Reader, I conceive, that in the Caſe of a leaſe for life, if the leſſor accept the ſame rent which was demanded, he hath affirmed the leaſe, for he cannot receive it as due upon any contract, as in the caſe of a leaſe for years, but he ought to receive it as his rent, and then he doth affirm the leaſe to continue; for when he accepteth the rent, he cannot have an Action of debt for it, but his remedy then was by Aſſiſe, if he had ſeiſin, or by diſtreſs. And therefore I conceive in ſuch Caſe, the acceptance of the rent ſhall bar him of his entry: And it appeareth by Littleton cap. Conditions fol. 79. a. that in ſuch Caſe, if the leſſor bring an Aſſiſe for the rent, he relinquiſheth and waveth the benefit of his reentry, although it be for the rent due at the ſame day; but if he reenter firſt, then he may have an Action of debt for the rent behind, 17 E. 3. 73. 18 E. 3. 10. 30 E. 3. 7. 38 E. 3. 10. And afterwards Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, the which began Hill. 38 Eliz. Rot. 1302. in Treſpaſs between March and Curteis, for land in Eſſex, the like Judgment was given by Anderſon (chief Juſtice there) Walmeſly Juſtice, and the whole Court, That a leaſe for years was made rendring rent, and with [b] condition that if the leſſee ſhall aſſign his term, that the leſſor ſhall reenter, and the leſſee aſſigned his term, that although the leſſor accept the rent by the hands of the leſſee, yet for as much as the leſſor had not notice of the aſſignment, the acceptance of the rent did not conclude him of his entry; So this Point hath been adjudged in both Courts. See for the difference (which lie covertly in our Books) 45 Aſſ. 5. the Caſe of Waſt, 22 H. 6. 57. 6 H. 7. 3. b. F. N. B. 120, 122. Plow. Comm. 133, 545. 14 Aſſ. 11. 40 E. 3. Entry Congeable 41. 11 H. 7. 17. 17 E. 3. 52. 21 H. 7. 12. 21 H. 6. 24. 39 H. 6. 27. 26 H. 8.

And in theſe two Caſes many good Caſes and differences were taken, when acceptance of a rent (or other thing) ſhall bar him who accepteth it of the arrerages of the Rent, of Reentry, of Action, or of Execution, and the reaſon of the old Books ſhort Reported, and in an obſcure manner, well explained. If he who hath a rent Service or a rent Charge, accept rent due at the laſt day, and thereof make Acquittance, by that all the arrerages due before are diſcharhed: And ſo was it adjudged beween Hopkins and Morton in the Common Pleas Hill. Rot. 950. Vide 10 Eliz. Dier 271. but there the Caſe is left at large; and therewith agreeth 11 H. 4. 24. & 1 H. 5. 7. b. But note, it appeareth by the ſaid Record of 10 Eliz. that the bar unto the avowry ought to be in ſuch Caſe, with concluſion of Judgement, if againſt this deed of acquittance he ought to make avowry; ſo that it appeareth that the acquittance is the cauſe of the barr or eſtoppel in ſuch Caſe. For it appeareth by 8 Aſſ. ult. 9 E. 3. 9. 29 E. 3. 34. that if a man make a leaſe for life rendring rent, or if the Lord and Tenant be by fealty and rent, and the rent is behind for two years; and afterwards the leſſor or the Lord diſſeiſe the Terre-tenant, and afterwards the Tenant recovereth againſt him in Aſſiſe, and the rent which incurred during the diſſeiſin is recovered in damages, yet the Lord, or leſſor ſhall recover in the Aſſiſe the arrerages before the diſſeiſin; and the barr of the latter years is no bar of the arrerages before, vide 39 H. 6. Barr 79. where the principal Caſe of Annuity may be good Law, either becauſe that there the Defendant pleaded the acquittance by the laſt day, and demanded Judgment if Action, where he ought to have relied upon the acquittance. Or becauſe in the Caſe of Annuity he is not bound to pay the Annuity without acquittance: But in the Caſe of rent ſervice, or rent charge, he who receiveth it is not compellable to make an acquittance, but the making thereof is his voluntary act, to which the Law doth not compel him.

[66] If there be Lord and Tenant, and the rent is behind, and the Tenant maketh a feoffment in fee, if the Lord accept the rent or ſervice of the feoffee, he ſhall loſe all the arrerages in the time of the feoffor, although he make no acquittance; for after ſuch acceptance he ſhall not avow upon the feoffor at all, nor upon the feoffee, but for the ſervices which incurred in his time, as it appeareth in 4 E 3. 22. 7 E. 3. 8. 7 E. 4. 27. 28 H. 8. Br. Avowry 111. But in ſuch Caſe if the feoffor dieth, although that the Lord accept of the rent or ſervice by the hand of the feoffee he ſhall not loſe the arrerages, for now the Lord cannot avow upon other but the feoffee; and that which the Law compelleth one to do, ſhall not prejudice him.

So

So and for the same reason, if there be Lord, Mesn, and Tenant, and the rent due by the Mesn is behind, and afterwards the Tenant doth forejudge the Mesn, and the Lord receive the services of the Mesn, which now issue immediately out of the Tenancy, yet he shall not be barred of his arrerages which issued out of the Mesnalty: So if the rent be behind and the Tenant dieth, the acceptance of the services by the hands of the heir shall not bar him of his arrerages; for in these Cases although that the person be altered, yet the Lord doth accept the rent and services of him who only ought to do them. And all this appeareth in 4 E. 3. 22. 7 E. 3. 4. 7 E. 4. 27. 29 H. 8. Avowry Br. 111. But acceptance of a rent or services by the hands of the feoffee shall not bar the Lord of the Relief before due, for Relief is no service but a fruit and approvement of services, for if it were part of the services, then an Action of debt should not lie for the same so long as the rent continueth, but it is as a blossom or fruit fallen from the Tree; and for Relief it behoveth not to avow upon any person certain: And the Book in 4 E. 3. 22. is to be intended, that the father made a feoffment in fee by collusion and died; And there it is holden that if the Lord hath accepted the services by the hands of the feoffee in the life of the father, he shall lose his Relief.

But note Reader, that Relief was not taken within the equity of the Statute of Marlebridge, as it is adjudged in 27 E. 3. 63. but now it is remedied by the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. of Wills. But in the Case before, the Lord (before acceptance of the rent or service by the hands of the feoffee) might have avowed upon the feoffee for all the arrerages incurred, as well in the time of the feoffor, as in the time of the feoffee, as it is adjudged in 7 H. 4. 14. 19 E. 3. Avowry 222. And by that which hath been said, it appeareth that acceptance of Homage or any other service of the heir, shall not bar the Lord of Relief, vide temp. E. 1. Relief 13. 15 E. 3. ibid. 5. 16 E. 3. ibid. 10. 3 E. 2. Avowry 190.

And it was further said, That if there be Lord and tenant by Knights service, and the tenant enfeoffeth his son and heir apparent within age by collusion, if the Lord accept of the services by the hands of the feoffee, he shall lose the Wardship: But against that was objected:

1. That the feoffee might compel the Lord for to avow upon him by giving of notice and tender of the arrerages, and that which the Law enforceth one to do, shall not prejudice or estopp him. [b]

2. That acceptance doth not conclude before title accrued, and no title of Wardship in this Case was accrued to the the Lord at the time of the acceptance, but it came after the death of the feoffor.

As to the first, it was answered, That the feoffee by no tender that he can make, can compel the Lord for to avow upon him, for the Lord may shew, that the feoffment was by collusion, against the Statute of Marlebridge cap. 6. and therefore he shall maintain his Avowry upon the feoffor, for the Law doth not compel him to avow upon the feoffee to his prejudice.

As to the second it was answered, That the Statute of Marlebridge hath made such feoffment made by collusion as void and of no effect as to the Lord: And therefore if the Lord will affirm the feoffment, and wave the benefit of the Act, by accepting of the feoffee for his Tenant, he shall purge the collusion, and lose the Wardship. And the reason of Prisot 33 H. 6. 16. that such acceptance shall not conclude the Lord was, because that the feoffee in such Case shall compel the Lord to avow upon him, but that is not Law; And against the opinion of Prisot, see 31 E. 3. Garde 154. 32 E. 3. Garde 33. F. N. B. 142. And now the doubt in 36 E. 3. Garde 11. is well explained.

Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, which began Hill. 34 Eliz. Rot. 169.

Westby's Case.

[71.b.] JOhn Westby brought an Action of debt against Skinner and Catcher late Sheriffs of London for an Escape, and the Case was: One Bustard was severally in Execution under the custody of the Defendants then Sheriffs of London, as well at the suit of one Dighton, as at the Plaintiffs suit, and the Defendants at the end of their year delivered over the body of Bustard amongst others to the new Sheriffs by Indenture, in which Indenture the Execution of Dighton was mentioned, but the Execution at the suit of the Plaintiff was omitted; And afterwards Bustard always being in the Gaol in the times of the new Sheriffs escaped. And if the Defendants shall be charged with this Escape was the Question. And it was strongly objected on the Defendants part, that they could not be charged. For they had delivered the body of the Defendant then being in the Gaol to the new Sheriffs, and therefore the escape did begin in their time by which they ought to be charged, and not the old Sheriffs; and for as much as the new Sheriffs had the party in their custodies, they ought at their peril to take notice of all Executions (being matters of Record) against him, and ought to keep him till all are satisfied. But it was adjudged that the Defendants being the old Sheriffs shall be charged, and in this Case four Points were resolved by the Court.

1. Where the body of Bustard was delivered to the new Sheriffs as in Execution at the suit of Dighton only, by that he was out of custody of the old Sheriffs; and he cannot be within the custody of the new Sheriffs for the Plaintiffs Execution, because he was not delivered to them, nor they charged with him for the Plaintiffs Execution; and although he was within the walls of the Prison, yet it was an escape in [72] Law as to the Plaintiff: For the Plaintiff in whom was no default, ought not to be without remedy in this Case, but because the default was in the Defendants in as much as they omitted the Plaintiffs Execution in the Indentures, for this cause it is reason that they shall be charged: And as to that which was asked, When the Escape began in this Case? It was answered and resolved, That eo instante, that the old Sheriffs deliver their Prisoners to the new Sheriffs they cease to have the custody of any of them; and eo instante doth the Escape begin as to the Plaintiff. So Reader, you may observe, that the Law doth adjudge one who remaineth in Prison to escape. See Plow. Comm. 37. Plat's Case, the opinion of Chomeley chief Baron.

2. It was resolved, That the old Sheriffs ought to give notice to the new Sheriffs of all the Executions against any who are in their custody although their Executions be of Record, yet the new Sheriffs shall not take notice of them at their peril, but shall be charged only with such whereof the old Sheriffs gave them notice: For it was observed, that in the general Case of Sheriffs of England, when the King maketh a new Patent to another to be Sheriff, although the old Sheriff had his office but durante beneplacito, yet it appeareth by the Register, that presently after the Patent a Writ de Commitatu Commiss. which is commonly called a Writ of Discharge issueth: The effect of which Writ is, Rex omnibus ad quors &c. salutem, Sciatis quod commissimus dilecto nobis S. (who is the new Sheriff) Com' nostr' N, cum pertinentiis custodiend', quamdiu nobis placuerit, &c. In cujus rei, &c. And then is another Writ directed to the old Sheriff, and the effect thereof is, Et mandatum est N. nuper Vic' Com' præd' quod eidem S. Com' prædict' cum pertinen', una cum rotulis, brevibus, memorandis, & omnibus aliis officium illud tangent' quæ in custodia sua existunt, per indent. inde modo debit' conficiend' liberet custodiend' in forma prædict', Teste, &c. And all this appeareth in the Register 295. a. & b. by which appeareth the great care the Law hath of Executions, which are the fruit of every suit. But it was resolved, that till the Prisoners are delivered to the new Sheriffs, they remain in custody of the old Sheriffs, notwithstanding the new Letters Patents, the Writ of Discharge, and the Writ of Delivery. And although it was said by some in the Case at Bar, That if the old Sheriffs had given notice to the new Sheriffs by word of the Plaintiffs Execution, the same had been sufficient; yet it appeareth by the Register, that the new Sheriff [b] may compel the old Sheriff to make the delivery by Indenture. Note in London the Major and Comminalty have the Office of Sheriffs of London and Middlesex by Charter, and two Sheriffs are yearly chosen: So it was agreed that after their Election, and before the delivery over of the Prisoners to the new Sheriffs, they remain in custody of the old Sheriffs.

3. It was resolved, That if the Sheriff hath in his custody divers persons in Execution, and dieth, and afterwards a new Sheriff is made, he ought to take notice at his peril of all the Executions which are against any person which he findeth in the Goal, and that for necessity; for there is no person to make delivery of them to him, or to give him notice: And there is no mischief to the Sheriff if he keep them well, until he have perfect notice of all the Executions, but if he without punishment may suffer them who are in Execution to escape, great inconvenience would hereupon follow.

4. It was resolved, If the Sheriff dieth, and before that another is made, one who is in Execution breaketh Prison and goeth at liberty, it is no Escape; for when the Sheriff dieth, all the Prisoners are in the custody of the Law till a new Shriff be made, and therefore although they were in the interim out of the walls of the Prison, yet the Law hath the custody of them, and keepeth them in Execution without any fresh suit in what place soever they are, and they may be taken in Execution at any time after. For no escape can be to the Plaintiffs prejudice, but when some person may be charged for the same; and the Law deceiveth no man.

Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz.

The Case of the Dean and Chapter of Norwich.

[73] KIng H. 8. by his Letters Patents bearing date 2 Maii, anno 30. of his reign, Authoritate sua regia, ac authoritate sua in terra Supremi capitis Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ quæ tunc fungebatur, de gratia sua Speciali, &c. Cœnobium de Priore & Conventu Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ Trin' Norwici, in Decanum & Capitulum Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ Trin' Norwici transposuit & mutavit. And by the said Letters Patents the King discharged the Prior and Covent by their special and particulars names, tam de habitu suo, quam de regula, (the said Priory being of the Order of S. Bennet:) ipsosque Decanum, Prebendarios, & Canonicos in Ecclesia prædict. realiter posuit & constituit, & concessit eisdem Decano, Prebendariis & Canonicis; Quod ipsi & successores sui sub nomine, & per nomen Decani & Capituli Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ Trin' Norwici, sint de cætero imperpetuum unum corpus corporat' in re & nomine; Ac

Ac eosdem Decanum & Capitul' perpetuis temporibus duratur' corporavit, &c. Et ulterius concessit quod idem Decanus & Capitulum, & successores sui omnia & singula dominia, maneria, terras, &c. & hæreditament' quæcunque, &c. quæ ad prædictum nuper Priorem in jure Ecclesiæ Cathedralis prædict' spectabant & pertinebant, habere, tenere, gaudere, & possidere sibi & successoribus suis imperpetuum, &c. possint & valebant, &c. And further granted, that they shall be the Chapter of the Bishop of Norwich, and his successors. [b] And upon the sight of the foundation, and divers other ancient Instruments of the said Priory was great Question who was Founder, scil. the King, or Herbert, sometime Bishop of Norwich. But it was admitted without any prejudice to any party, that Herbert was Founder; And afterwards the said Dean and Chapter by their deed enrolled surrender to King E. 6. in the second year of his reign their Church and all their possessions: And afterwards the King in the same year doth anew incorporate them, per nomen Decani & Capituli Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ & individuæ Trinitat' Norwici, ex fundatione Regis Edw. 6. And afterwards the King in the same year doth regrant their Church and all their possessions (except certain Mannors, &c.) to them by the name of Dean and Chapter Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ & individuæ Trinitatis Norwici, (omitting these words, ex fundatione Regis Edw. 6.) and to their successors. And one William Downing and other needy and indigent persons who endeavour to repair their poor declining estates by the dissolution of the said Cathedral Church, and of all the possessions of the said Dean and Chapter did pretend, That the said Cathedral Church and all the said possessions were concealed from the Queen. And that they were (in the Queens great deceit under general and obscure words) passed by Letters Patents of concealment. And they did pretend that these possessions were concealed for two causes.

First, That the said Translation was void, and then the old Corporation of Prior and Covent remained till the death of all the Monks (which happened anno 18 Eliz.) And that by the death of all the Monks, the said possessions came to the Queen by the Statute of 31 H. 8. of Monasteries.

Secondly, Admitting that the Translation was good, yet by the said surrender made to King Edw. 6. the King was seised of all their possessions, and the regrant aforesaid was void; for the said misnosmer of the Corporation of the Dean and Chapter, scil. by reason of the omitting the said words (Ex fundatione Regis Edw. 6.) And this great Case concerning a Cathedral Church and all the possessions thereof, and concerning interest mediate and immediate a great number of the farmers and lessees were by the command of the Queen (who was very greatly offended that she was so deceived, and especially of a Cathedral Church which was of the erection of her most happy father) she her self also much favouring the said Cathedral Church referred the consideration of this Case to Sir Tho. Egerton Keeper of the Great Seal, Popham and Anderson chief Justices, and Periam chief Baron. And now Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz. at the Lord Keeper of the Great Seals house, called York-house, before them this Case was [74] argued by the Council of the said Concealors; and the effect of their Objections and Arguments here follow.

First, They did admit that the said Priory was of the foundation of Herbert late Bishop of Norwich; and then they said, that for as much as the Founder was not party to the said Translation, the said Translation was void. And to prove that the Founder of a Priory hath such interest that he ought to joyn, divers Books were cited; that is to say, 39 H. 6. 1. 4. 50 Ed. 3. 27. 11 E. 3. Quare Impedit 157. 22 H. 6. 25. 9 H. 6. 33. 24 Ed. 3. 77. b. 30 Ed. 3. 21. b. 6 E. 3, 34. A Quare Impedit brought by the Founder of a Priory. But as to this Point it was answered by Coke Attorny General, That first, if the King be Founder, as he affirmed upon the sight of the Foundation and other Records he was, notwithstanding the admittance in 3 H. 7. then the Case is without Question. But admit that the Bishop were Founder, yet the Translation was good; for it appeareth by the old Books, that the Pope might have discharged a Monk, or other dead person in Law of his Profession, as it appeareth in 3 H. 6. 23. by Martin, 26 H. 8. Nonability, 14 H. 8. 16, &c. And by consequence by the Statute of 25 H. 8. cap. 21. King H. 8. might so do. And accordingly he hath discharged the said Prior, and Monks of their Profession, and translated them into Dean and Chapter by the said Letters Patents, and so none of the said Books which were cited by the adverse party may be applied to this Case. Also there is not any prejudice to the Founder, for he remaineth Founder notwithstanding this Translation, and nothing is altered but only the rule and profession; and where the Prior and Covent was the Chapter of the Bishop, now the Dean and Chapter do supply the same. And that this Translation was good the Case of 11 Eliz. Dier 280. Corbets Case proveth it; where the Case was of the Translation of this same Deanery; and by the judgment of the Parliament in 33 H. 8. cap. 29. it appeareth, that such Translations made by King H. 8. from Prior and Covent into Dean and Chapter were good. Further it appeareth, 17 E. 3. 40. & 10 E. 3. 1. b. that all Chapters were Monks, and notwithstanding the translation of them into Prebends and Canons, and change of their habit, the advowson did remain as it was before; And for such Translations see 9 H. 6. 13. 38 Ass. 22. 49 Ass. 8. 49 E. 3. 14. 20 E. 3. Nonability 9. 22 R. 2. Brevè 936. 14 H. 4. 10. 7 E. 4. 32. But admit this Translation were void for this or some other cause; yet the same is made good by the Statute of 35 Eliz. cap. 3, in which the preamble which declareth the mischiefs, and the parts of the purview and body of the Act are to be considered. It appeareth by the preamble, that divers doubts and ambiguities had been moved concerning two things: [b]

1. Touching surrenders, grants and conveyances made to King H. 8. by Abbots, Priors and other Religious and Eccleastical persons after the fourth day of February 27 H. 8.

2. Touching the validity of erections of such Deans and Chapters, and Colledges which were erected, ordained, made or founded, by H. 8. after the said fourth day of February; to explain and remove which doubts two remedies were provided by the said Act. First, to settle and establish all the possessions of such Religious persons in the King. Secondly, to perfect and establish the Deans, Chapters and Colledges, erected, founded, incorporated and endowed by King H. 8. as is aforesaid.

And

And this Case is within the latter clause; For first when the King created them into Dean and Chapter, here is a Dean and Chapter newly created and erected by the King: also it is within this word incorporate; for without question the King by his Letters Patents hath incorporated them per nomen Decani & Capituli, &c. And in two places of the said Foundation the King useth the same word, viz. (Corporations) and it is to be well observed, how beneficially and learnedly the Statute of 35 Eliz. is endited, for the remedy of the said doubts and ambiguities. For the Act doth not make all erections, foundations, &c. made by King H. 8. &c. good, &c. for then it may be objected, that there was not any erection, foundation, &c. in Law, Et quod contra legem factum est, pro infecto habetur: And yet such objection (if the Act had been so penned) had been material: But in our Case to take away all Objections, the words of the Act are; All Letters Patents made, &c. for the erection, foundation, incorporation and endowment of any Dean and Chapter, or Colledge, were and shall be reputed, taken and adjudged to have been good, perfect and effectual in Law, for all things therein contained, according to the true intent and meaning of the same: Any thing, matter or cause to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

And without question the said Letters Patents of 30 H. 8. were made for the erection and incorporation of the Dean and Chapter. And the said Letters Patents are by the Act adjudged to be good for all things therein contained; and in them is contained not only their incorporation into a Dean and Chapter, but also a grant to them and their successors that they shall enjoy and have all Lordships, Mannors, Lands, &c. as appeareth by the Charter before: So that the incorporation, and all which is contained in the said Letters Patents is adjudged good: and it is also adjudged by Parliament, that they shall enjoy all the Lordships, Mannors, Lands, &c. which [75] were parcel of the possessions of the Priory aforesaid; and there is no saving but only for rights, &c. before the fourth day of February anno 27 H. 8. So it is manifest that this Act of 35 Eliz. being an Act of explanation (which always is beneficially to be interpreted) adjudgeth the Corporation good, and establisheth their possessions in them against all titles which may accrue to the King or any other after the fourth day of February, anno 27 H. 8. And therefore all those who pretend any title by any Letters Patents of concealment, are for ever barred of their pretences and claims which they can make to any of these possessions.

Secondly, It was objected, That although the Translation was good, yet the Dean and Chapter had not any estate or right in the said possessions, for by their surrender to King Edw. 6. of their Church, and all their Mannors, Lands and Possessions, the King was seised of them in fee; then the King new incorporateth them, Per nomen Decani & Capituli Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ & individuæ Trinitat' Norwicens. ex fundatione Regis Ed. 6. And afterwards the King regranteth their possessions to them by the name of Dean and Chapter, Sanctæ & individuæ Trinit. Norwici, &c. omitting these words, ex fundatione Regis Edw. 6. which grant was void, as it was objected, by reason of misnosmer of the Corporation, in as much as the name of the Founder being material, part of the name of the Corporation was omitted.

To which it was answered by the Attorney General, That the said Dean and Chapter had good estate and right in the said Possessions for divers causes.

1. Although they had surrendred their Church and possession, yet their Corporation doth continue, and they remain the Chapter of the Bishop; For although there cannot be a Warden of a Chappel, if the Chappel and all their possessions be aliened as seemeth by 15 Ass. 8. because he cannot be Warden of nothing, yet the same is not like, nor can be applied to the Case now in question. And for the better apprehending of that which was said, That in as much as it was impossible that the Church of God should continue without Sects and Heresies, it was in Christian policy thought and rethought necessary, that every Bishop should be assisted with a Council, scil. with a Chapter, and that for two causes:

1. To consult with them in matters of difficulty, and to assist them in deciding of controversies concerning Religion, to which purpose every Bishop habet Cathedram.

2. To consent to every grant, &c, which the Bishop shall make to bind his successor. For it was not reasonable to impose so great a charge, or to repose such confidence in any sole person, or to give power
[b] to one person only to prejudice his successor. And therefore it appeareth in 25 Ass. 8. 17 E. 3. 40. 10 E. 3. 10. 50 E. 3. 16. that at the first all the possessions were to the Bishop, afterwards a certain portion was assigned to the Chapter; Ergo, the Chapter was before that they had any possessions. And of common right, the Bishop is Patron of all the Prebends, because that their possessions are derived from him, Et Præbenda dicitur a præbendo, quia præberet auxilium Episcopo; So that although the Dean and Chapter depart with their possessions, yet for necessity the Corporation doth remain as well to assist the Bishop in his calling, as to give their assent to their estate, &c. which he shall make, &c. of his Temporalties; and so long as the Bishoprick remaineth, they being his Chapter and Council, they may well remain, although they have not any possessions, and shall be now as they were at the first without any possessions; and especiall when the Episcopacy doth consist of all Spiritualty, as Stouf saith in 10 E. 4. 1. b. in the Case of the Bishop of Norwich, and 25 Ass. 8. by Fisher. And in 17 E. 3. 59. The Prior and Friers Carmelites had not any place nor possessions: And Br. tit. Corporation 78. ann. 32 H. 8. Fitz holdeth, that if an Abbot, Prior and Covent sell all their possessions, yet the Corporation doth remain, which without question is good Law if they were the Chapter to a Bishop. And in 15 Ass. 8. it is holden, That if the body of a Prebend be a Mannor, and no more, and the Mannor be recovered from him by title paramount, yet his Corporation doth remain, for he hath Stallum in choro, & vocem in Capitulo, and he is a Prebendary, although he have not possessions; which is all one with our Case, for all the Chapters are Prebends.

Also

Also the Attorney said, that it appeareth in this very Case; that after the Dean and Chapter had granted and surrendred their Church and possessions to King E. 6. the King by his Letters Patents doth incorporate them per nomen Decani & Capituli Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ & individuæ Trinitatis Norwicens. ex fundatione Regis E. 6. And three days after, the King by other Letters Patents granteth their Church and possessions as is aforesaid; by which and many like foundations it appeareth, That there may be a Dean and Chapter without a Church or any possessions; and if the Law should not be so, many great inconveniences would follow. And in 10 Eliz. Dier 273. although that the Dean and Chapter of Wells by expres words grant and surrender Diaconatum de Wells, &c. yet it was not thought sure till the grant and surrender was established and confirmed by Act of Parliament.

And although that all Bishopricks were of the foundations of the Kings of England, and therefore in ancient time they were donative, and given by the Kings, as appeareth in 17 E. 3. 40. and by the Statute of 25 E. 3. de Provisoribus, yet afterwards (as it appeareth by the said Book and the said Act) the Bishopricks came by the grants of Kings eligible by their Chapters: And therefore if by the surrender of the Dean and Capter their Corporation shall be dissolved, it will bring in three inconveniences; 1. To the Bishop concerning his assistance in his Episcopal function: 2. To Bishops and others, touching the confirmation of his Grants: 3. To all the Church in general; for how shall the Bishop be chosen in such Case? And therefore to shun such and many other inconveniences, it was concluded that the Corporation made by King H. 8. did remain, and so the grant made to them by such name was good and well made. Vide F. N. B. 195. that the Bishop and Chapter are but one body, although their possessions be several. But to make this Case clear, the Attorney moved, that admitting the Corporation newly made by King E. 6. was good, and that their old Corporation was surrendred, and that the said words which were omitted, scil. ex fundatione Regis E. 6. were material, and not words of ornament only; yet the Kings grant to them was good, notwithstanding this misnosmer by the Statute of 1 E. 6. cap. 8. of Confirmations; which Statute reciteth, That where King E. 6. had made divers grants as well to bodies Politick and Corporate as to divers and sundry of his loving and obedient Subjects, &c. in avoiding of which sundry and many ambiguities, &c. have and might be moved, &c for lack of true naming of the same bodies Politick or Corporate; It is enacted, that all such grants made, or during his life to be made shall be good, notwithstanding any of the Causes above mentioned: So that the lack of the true meaning of the said Corporations, &c. to which the King had granted, or after should make any grant is remedied by the expres words of the said Act. [76]

And after these Arguments upon conference between the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, and the said Justices, and upon great consideration had of the said Points, it was unanimously agreed and resolved by them, That if any imperfection were in the said Translation, that the said Act of 35 Eliz. had made it without question. And so was it resolved as to this Point in this very Case of the Dean and Chapter of Norwich, Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. at S. Albans by all the Judges of England.

2. If the Corporation of the Dean and Chapter made by King H. 8. were gone by the said surrender made to King Ed. 6. And if the misnosmer were material, and not an additional ornament; yet it was resolved and agreed, That the said Act of Confirmation of 1 E. 6. hath made the same good, notwithstanding the said misnosmer; and upon these two Points they resolved without any question.

3. It was holden by the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal and the said Justices, That the old Corporation of Dean and Chapter did remain, notwithstanding the said surrender of their Church and of all their possessions. [b]

Note, Reader, the great assurance and establishment which is made by the good and strong Act of Parliament of the said most illustrious, and most noble Queen Elizabeth in the 34th year of her reign, not only of all Foundations of Cathedral Churches and Colledges in any manner founded or translated, or mentioned to be founded or translated by the said King H. 8. but also of all subjects which have any estate or interest in any possessions of any Abbot, Prior, or any other such Religious persons, notwithstanding that they made not any surrender to King H. 8. or that their surrender was insufficient; or that the Record of the same be imbezilled or lost. And notwithstanding divers other defects, all which are remedied by the said most excellent Act of Parliament, the fatal Plea to all Concealments as to those possessions. And although that these Resolutions properly concern the Meridian of the Cathedral Church of Norwich; yet it will well serve as well for many other Cathedral Churches, as for divers Colledges in the University of Cambridge and Oxford.

Hill.

Hill. 44 Eliz. in the Chancery.

Fermor's Caſe.

[77] IN a Caſe depending in Chancery, between Richard Fermor Eſquire Plaintiff, and Thomas Smith Defendant upon the hearing of the Cauſe before Sir Thomas Egerton Knight Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, the Caſe was ſuch: Richard Fermor the Plaintiff being ſeiſed of the Mannor of Somerton in fee, by Indenture 6 Julii 20 Eliz. demiſed a Meſſuage parcel of the ſame Mannor to Thomas Smith the Defendant for 21 years, rendring the yearly rent of 3 l. during the term, by force of which the Defendant entred and was poſſeſſed; He was alſo poſſeſſed of divers other parcels of the ſaid Mannor at the will of the Plaintiff, rendring 20 s. per ann. and held divers other parcels of the ſaid Mannor by copy of Court Roll according to the cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor, rendring 40 s. rent per ann. all which lay in Somerton; And the ſaid Thomas Smith was ſeiſed in his demean as of fee of divers lands in the ſame Town which were his proper inheritance. And afterwards by his deed 15 Octob. 25 Eliz. demiſed the ſaid houſe and all the ſaid land which he held for years, at will, and by copy to one Chappel for his life, Paſch. 35 Eliz. Smith levied a Fine with proclamations of as many of the meſſuages and lands as comprehended as well all the ſaid lands which he held for years, at will, and by copy, as his own inheritance, by covin and practice to bar the Plaintiff of his inheritance; the proclamations and five years paſſed, Smith at all times [b] before and after the Fine continued in poſſeſſion, and paid the ſaid ſeveral rents to the Plaintiff. Chappel died, the 21 years expired, and now Smith claimed the inheritance of the land which he held by leaſe, at will, and by copy, and would have barred the Plaintiff by force of the ſaid fine with the proclamations, and four years paſt. And the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal thinking and conſidering of the great miſchiefs which might enſue by ſuch practices, and on the other ſide conſidering that the fines with proclamations are general aſſurances of the Realm, referred the Caſe (being a thing of great importance and conſequence) to the conſideration of the two chief Juſtices Popham and Anderſon, and after conference amongſt them, they thought it neceſſary that all the Juſtices of England, and Barons of the Exchequer ſhould be aſſembled at Serjeants Inn in Fleetſtreet for the reſolution of this great Caſe. And accordingly the ſame Term all the Judges of England and the ſaid Barons of the Exchequer met at Serjeants Inn, where the Caſe was debated amongſt them. And at length it was reſolved by the two chief Juſtices, Popham and Anderſon, and by Gawdy, Walmeſley, and all the other Juſtices of England and Barons of the Exchequer (except two) that the Plaintiff was not barred by the ſaid fine with proclamations, and that for four cauſes.

1. The makers of the Act of 4 H. 7. cap. 24. did never intend that ſuch fine levied by fraud and practice of leſſee for years, tenant at will, or tenant by copy of Court roll, who pretend no title to the inheritance, but intend the diſ-enheriſon of their leſſors or Lords, ſhould bar them of their inheritance, and that appeareth by the preamble of the Act of 4 H. 7. where it is ſaid, That fines ought to be of greateſt ſtrength to avoid ſtrifes and debates, &c. But when leſſee for years, or at will, or tenant by copy of Court roll make a feoffment by aſſent and covin that fine ſhall be levied, the ſame is not to avoid ſtrife and debate; but by aſſent and covin to begin ſtrife and debate where none was; And therefore the Act doth not extend to eſtabliſh any eſtate made by ſuch fraud and practice.

2. It was never the intent of the makers of the Act, that thoſe who could not levy a fine, ſhall by making of an eſtate by wrong and fraud be enabled by force of the ſaid Act to bar thoſe who had right by levying of a fine: For if they themſelves without ſuch fraudulent eſtate cannot levy a fine to bar them which have the free hold and inheritance, certainly the makers of the Act did not intend that by making of an eſtate by fraud and practice they ſhould have power to bar them; and ſuch fraudulent eſtate is as no eſtate in the judgment of Law.

3. As it is ſaid in Dalamer's Caſe in Plow. Comm. 352. if any doubt be conceived upon the words or meaning of an Act of Parliament it is good to conſtrue the ſame according to the reaſon of the Common [78] Law; but the Common Law doth ſo abhor fraud and covin, that all Acts as well Judicial as others, and which of themſelves are juſt and lawful, yet being mixt with fraud and deceit, are in judgment of Law wrongful and unlawful: Quod alias bonum & juſtum eſt, ſi per vim vel fraudem petatur, malum & injuſtum efficitur: And therefore if a woman hath title to dower which is one of the things favoured in Law, and by covin between her and another cauſeth a ſtranger to diſſeiſe the tenant of the land, to the intent that ſhe may bring a Writ of Dower againſt him, which is done accordingly, and the woman recover againſt him upon a juſt and good title, yet all the ſame is void and of no force to bind the Terre-tenant; a fortiori in the principal Caſe when the leſſee for years maketh a feoffment by covin, which amounteth to a wrong and Diſſeiſin, a fine levied by him who is particeps criminis, and who had not, nor pretended any right to the land ſhall not be a bar to the leſſor. And that recoveries in Dower, or any other real Action ſhall be made a good title againſt the Tenant who cometh to the land by wrong and covin are void and of no force appeareth by 41 Aſſ. 28 44 E. 3. 25 Aſſ. 1. 22 Aſſ. 92. 11 E. 4. 15 E. 4. 4. 7 H. 7. 11. 18 H. 8. 5. 12 Eliz. Dier 295. For although that his right be lawful, and that he hath purſued his Recovery by judgment in the Kings Court, yet his covin maketh all that unlawful and wrongful, and yet Recoveries and chiefly upon good title are much favoured in Law: Alſo the right of inheritance of feme Coverts, and infants, are much favoured in Law; and yet if a feme covert, or an infant be of covin and conſent, that the diſcontinuee ſhall be diſſeiſed, and that the diſſeiſor ſhall enfeoff them, them, and all the ſame is done accordingly, they are not remitted, as appeareth by Littleton, Chap. Remitter 151 & 19. H. 8. 12. And there it is holden by ſix Juſtices, that in ſuch caſe if the diſſeiſor enter by covin to the intent to enfeoff an infant, although that the infant be not of the covin, &c. yet he ſhall not be remitted, becauſe he who is in by him who maketh the covin ſhall be in the ſame plight as he who did the covenous act. And it is agreed in 19 H. 8. 12. that if a man make a diſſeiſin to the intent to make a feoffment with warranty, although he maketh the feoffment in 20 months after, yet it is a warranty which commenceth by diſſeiſin.

So if one make a gift in tail to another, and the unkle of the donor diſſeiſeth the donee, and maketh a feoffment with warranty, and the unkle dieth, and the warranty deſcendeth upon the donor, and afterwards the donee dieth without iſſue, the donor bringeth a Formedon in the Reverter, and the Tenant pleadeth the feoffment with warranty, the demandant ſhall avoid the ſame, becauſe it began by diſſeiſin, and yet the diſſeiſin was not immediately done to the donor, but to the donee, but by it his reverſion was deveſted, and yet warranties are much favoured in Law. And it appeareth in 8 Eliz. 249. Dier, that a vacat was made of a recovery in the Common Pleas had by covin. The Law hath ordained, that he who will be aſſured of his goods buy them in open market, and this ſale ſhall bind all ſtrangers as well as the ſeller; yet it is agreed in 33. H. 6. 5. that a ſale in Market overt ſhall not bind him who hath right to the goods, if the ſale be by fraud, or if the vendee hath notice that the property of the goods was belonging to another: So the Law hath ordained the Court of Common Pleas as an open Market for aſſurances of land by fine, ſo that he who will be aſſured of his land not only againſt the ſeller but all ſtrangers, it is good for him to paſs the ſame in this Market overt by fine; for as it is ſaid, finis finem litibus imponit; And yet covin and deceit in the Caſe at Bar ſhall avoid it. In 4 E 2. Cui in vita 22. it is holden, That a Reſignation made by an Abbot by covin ſhall not abate the Writ. 34 E. 1. Warranty 88. & 19 E. 2. Aſſets 3. & 31 E. 1. voucher 301. a covenous conveyance that Aſſets ſhall not deſcend is nothing worth. And it appeareth in 17 E. 3. 49. & 21 E 3. 3. 46. that an eſtate made to the King, and Letters Patent granted over, and all by covin by him who granted to the King and the Patentee to make evaſion out of the Statute of Mortmain, ſhall not bind, but ſhall be repealed. And 17 Eliz. Dier 339. a preſentation obtained by colluſion is void. And 17 Eliz. Dier 339. Letters of Adminiſtration obtained by colluſion are void and ſhall not repeal a former Adminiſtration: See 13 Eliz. Dier 295. many Caſes put concerning covin. [b]

And thereupon it was concluded, That if a recovery in Dower or other real Action, if a remitter to a feme covert or infant, if a warranty, if a ſale in open Market, if the Kings Letters Patents, if a preſentation, adminiſtration, &c. ſcil. temporal acts and Eccleſiaſtical, ſhall be avoided by covin; by the ſame reaſon a fine in the principal Caſe levied by fraud and covin as is aforeſaid ſhall not bind; for fraus & dolus nemini patrocinari debent.

Note Reader, in 33 & 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench between Robert Launе Plaintiff, and William Toker Defendant in Ejectione firmæ of lands in Ilfordcoome in the County of Devon, it was adjudged, that where Tenant for life levieth a fine with proclamations, and 5 years paſs in his life, that the leſſor ſhall have 5 years to make his claim after the death of the leſſee. And although that this Statute of 4 H. 7. hath a ſaving for the leſſor in ſuch Caſe, yet the ſaving is of ſuch right (as firſt ſhall grow and remain, &c.) and the right firſt accrued to the leſſor after the fine and the forfeiture, but notwithſtanding that, in as much as by the Covin of the leſſee he in reverſion or remainder may be barred of his reverſion or remainder (for they do not expect to enter till after the death of the leſſee) and eſpecially when the leſſee hath lands of his own inheritance in the ſame Town, (as in the Caſe at Bar he had) there the leſſor ſhall have 5 years after the death of the leſſee. [79]

So it was agreed in the ſame Caſe, if Tenant for life maketh a feoffment in fee to one who hath lands in the ſame Town, and the feoffor levieth a fine with proclamations, it ſhall not bind the leſſor, but he ſhall have five years after the death of the leſſee, for the leſſor cannot know of what land the fine is levyed, for he is not party to the Indenture, or agreement between the conuſor and conuſee: So in the ſame Caſe, the Judges make conſtruction againſt the letter of the Statute in ſalvation of the ſtate and inheritance of him in the reverſions. And ſo it hath been adjudged before in Some's Caſe in the Common Pleas, in Sir James Dier's time, as Plowden told me. Alſo it was ſaid, that if leſſee for years make a feoffment in fee by practice and covin, that the feoffee ſhall levy a fine with proclamations to another (the feoffee having other lands in the ſame Town) and all is done accordingly; and yet the leſſee doth continually pay the rent to the leſſor, the ſame ſhall not bind for the reaſons aforeſaid. [c]

Laſtly, The Judges in this reſolution did greatly reſpect the general miſchief which would follow if ſuch fines levied by practice and covin of thoſe which have the particular intereſts ſhould bar thoſe who had the inheritance, and eſpecially in the Caſe at Bar, when after the fine levied the conuſor continually payeth the rent to the leſſor, which maketh the fraud and practice apparent, and therefore the leſſor, was ſecure, and had not any fear of doubt of ſuch fraud. But it was reſolved, if A. purchaſe lands of B. by feoffment, or bargain and ſale, and enrol the ſame; and afterwards perceiving that B. hath but a deſeiſible title, and that C. hath right to it, B. levieth a fine with proclamations to a ſtranger, or taketh a fine from another with proclamations, to the intent to bar the right of C. this fine ſo levied by conſent ſhall bind, for nothing was done in this Caſe which was not lawful; and the intent of the makers of the Act of 4 H. 7. was to avoid ſtrifes and debates, and by expreſs purview ſhould bind all ſtrangers which do not purſue their right by Action, or entry within 5 years. So if one pretending title to land entreth, and diſſeiſeth another, and afterwards with intent to bind the diſſeiſee levieth a fine with proclamations, this fine ſhall bind the diſſeiſee by the expreſs purview of the Act, if he do not enter nor purſue his Action within 5 years; and the ſame cannot be ſaid a fine levied by covin, becauſe the levying of the fine is lawful, and the diſſeiſee may reenter, or bring his Action within the five years. [b]

The fourth reaſon was, becauſe the leſſee hath contrived his fraud and deceit in ſo ſecret manner, that he hath deprived the leſſor of the remedy which the Statute gave him, that is to ſay, to make his entry or bring his Action within the five years: For how can he make his entry or bring his Action when he knew not of the feoffment which did the wrong. As to the fine, in as much as the leſſee had lands in the ſame Town every one ſhall preſume that the fine was levied of that whereof he might lawfully levy a fine. And although the ſame containeth more acres than his own lands, the ſame is uſual in all fines, and peradventure the leſſor did not know the juſt quantity of the leſſees land, for that doth not appertain to him; and therefore it ſhall be unreaſonable in this Caſe of Nonclaim of the leſſor to give the leſſee benefit, when the wrong and covin of the leſſee is the cauſe of his Nonclaim. And a man ſhall not take advantage of his own wrong or covin. The poſſeſſion of the leſſee is not any mean for the leſſor to take any notice of this wrong, for he cometh to the poſſeſſion of the land by lawful grant and demiſe; and after the feoffment he continueth in the poſſeſſion as leſſee, for he payeth his rent as a leſſee doth, yea, the poſſeſſion of the leſſee, and the payment of the rent, was the cauſe that the leſſor knew not, nor ſuſpected the fraud.

Alſo it was ſaid, that the fraud and covin in this Caſe made it the more odious, becauſe that between the leſſor and the leſſee, and the Lord and his Copyholder there is a truſt and confidence, and fraud and deceit by him who is truſted is moſt odious in Law. And if the makers of this Act had been asked, if their intent was that ſuch a fine levied by ſuch practice and covin ſhould bind the leſſors, they would have anſwered, God defend that they ſhould intend to patronize any ſuch iniquity practiſed and compaſſed by thoſe in whom was truſt and confidence repoſed. But when a diſſeiſor (although he gaineth the poſſeſſion by wrong) levieth a fine with proclamation, yet it ſhall bind as is aforeſaid, for a diſſeiſor venit tanquam in arena, and it is not poſſible but that the diſſeiſee to whom the wrong is done, and who hath loſt his poſſeſſion ſhould be knowing of it; and therefore it ſhall be his folly that he make not his claim, and not accompany with fraud and practice one who cometh to the poſſeſſion lawfully, by grant or demiſe, and who hath truſt repoſed in him by his leſſor or grantor, which fraud and practice is ſo ſecretly contrived that the leſſor by common preſumption cannot have knowledge to make his claim, be-[80] cauſe that his leſſee doth continue in poſſeſſion, and payeth his rent, as a leſſee ought to do. And as to that which was objected, That it ſhall be miſchievous to avoid fines upon ſuch bare averments; It was anſwered, That it ſhall be a greater miſchief, and principally in theſe days in which the Poet ſaith,

——Fugere pudor, rectumque fideſque
In quorum ſubiere locum, fraudeſque dolique
Inſidiæque, & vis, & amor ſceleratus habendi.

if fines levied by ſuch covin and practice ſhould bind. And ſuch objection may be made, if a fine be levied to ſecret uſes to deceive a purchaſor, an averment of fraud may be taken againſt the ſame by the Statute of 27 Eliz. cap. 4. So if a fine be levied upon an uſurious contract, it may be avoided by averment by the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 8. And Sir Tho. Egerton Lord Keeper of the Great Seal commended the Reſolution of the Juſtices, and agreed in opinion with them.

Mich. 44 Eliz. in the Star-Chamber.

Twine's Caſe.

[b] IN an Information by Coke the Queens Attorney General againſt Twyne of Hampſhire in the Star-chamber, for making and publiſhing of a fraudulent gift of goods: The Caſe upon the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 5. was ſuch; Pierce was indebted to Twyne in 400 l. and was indebted alſo to C. in 200l. C. brought an Action of Debt againſt Pierce, and pendant the Writ, Pierce being poſſeſſed of goods and chattels of the value of 300 l. in ſecret made a general deed of gift of all his goods and chattels real and perſonal whatſoever to Twyne in ſatisfaction of his debt; and notwithſtanding Pierce continued in poſſeſſion of the ſaid goods, and ſome of them he ſold; and he ſhore the ſheep and marked them with his own mark: And afterwards C. had judgment againſt Pierce, and had a Fieri facias directed to the Sheriff of Southampton, who by force of the ſaid Writ, came to make Execution of the ſaid goods, divers perſons by the command of the ſaid Twyne with force did reſiſt the Sheriff, claiming them to be the goods of the ſaid Twyne by force of the ſaid gift; and openly declared by the commandment of Twyne, that it was a good gift, and made upon good and lawful conſideration: And if this gift upon the whole matter were fraudulent and of no effect by the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. or not, was the Queſtion. And it was reſolved by Sir Thomas Egerton Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, and by the chief Juſtices Popham and Anderſon, and the whole Court of Star-chamber, That this gift was fraudulent within the Statute of 13 Eliz. And in this Caſe divers Points were reſolved:

1. That this gift hath the ſigns and marks of fraud.

2. Becauſe the gift is general, without exception of his apparel or other thing of neceſſity; for it is commonly ſaid, quod doloſus verſatur in generalibus.

3. The

3. The donor doth continue in poſſeſſion, and uſeth them as his own, and by reaſon thereof he tradeth and trafficketh with others, and defrauds and deceives them.

4. It was made in ſecret, Et dona clandeſtina ſunt ſemper ſuſpicioſa.

5. It was made pendant the Writ.

6. Here was truſt between the parties, for the giver doth poſſeſs all, and uſe them as his proper goods, and fraud is always apparelled and clad with truſt, and truſt is the cover of fraud.

7. The deed containeth, that the gift was made honeſtly, truly, and bona fide; Et clauſulæ inconſuetæ ſemper inducunt ſuſpicionem.

Secondly, It was reſolved, that notwithſtanding here was a true debt to Twyne, and good conſideration of the gift, yet it was not within the Proviſo of the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. by which it is provided, That the ſaid Act ſhall not extend to any eſtate, or intereſt in lands, &c. goods or chattels made upon good conſideration, and bona fide, for although it is upon a true and good conſideration, yet it is not bona fide, for no gift ſhall be ſaid to be bona fide within the ſaid Proviſo which is accompanied with any truſt: As if a man be indebted to five ſeveral perſons in the ſeveral ſumms of 20 l. and hath goods of the value of 20 l. and maketh a gift of all his goods to one of them in ſatisfaction of his debt, but there is a truſt between them that the donee ſhall deal favourably with him in regard of his poor eſtate, either to permit the donor, or ſome other for him, or for his benefit to uſe, or have poſſeſſion of them, and is contented that he ſhall pay his debt unto him when he is able; The ſame ſhall not be ſaid bona fide within the ſaid Proviſo; for the Proviſo ſaith upon good conſideration, and bona fide; ſo good conſideration doth not ſuffice, if it be not alſo bona fide; And therefore Reader, when any gift ſhall be to you in ſatisfaction of a debt by one who is indebted to others alſo; 1. Let it be made in publick manner, and before the neighbours, and not in private, for ſecrecy is a mark of fraud. 2. Let the goods and chattels be appriſed by people to the very value, and take a gift in particular in ſatisfaction of your debt. 3. Preſently after the gift take the poſſeſſion of them, for continuance of the poſſeſſion in the donor is a ſign of truſt. And know Reader, that the ſaid words of the Proviſo, upon good conſideration and bona fide, do not extend to every gift made bona fide; and therefore there are two manner of gifts upon good conſideration, ſcil. Conſideration of nature or blood, and valuable conſideration: As to the firſt in the Caſe before put, if he who is indebted to five ſeveral perſons, to each party in 20 l. in conſideration of natural affection give all his goods to his ſon or couſin, in this Caſe for as much as others ſhall loſe their debts, &c. which are things of value, the intent of the Act was, that the conſideration in ſuch Caſe ſhould be valuable; [b] for equity requireth that ſuch gift which defeateth others, ſhould be upon ſo high and good conſideration as the things which are defeated thereby are; And it is to be preſumed, that the father if he had not been indebted to others would not have diſpoſſeſſed himſelf of all his goods; and to ſubject himſelf to his creditors; and therefore it ſhall be intended that it was made to defeat his creditors: And if conſideration of nature or blood, ſhould be a good conſideration within this Proviſo, this Statute ſhould be to little or no purpoſe, and no Creditor ſhall be ſure of his debt. And as to gifts made bona fide, it is to know, that every gift made bona fide, either is upon truſt between the parties, or without any truſt, every gift made upon truſt is out of this Proviſo; for that which is betwixt the donor and donee called truſt, per nomen ſpecioſum, is in truth as to all the creditors fraud, for thereby they are defeated and defrauded of their true and due debts. And every truſt is either expreſſed, or implied; An expreſs truſt is, when in the gift, or upon the gift the truſt by word or writing is expreſſed, Truſt implied is, when a man maketh a gift without any conſideration, or upon conſideration of nature, or blood only: And therefore if a man before the Statute of 27 H. 8. had bargained and ſold his land for valuable conſideration to one and his heirs, by which he was ſeiſed to the uſe of the bargainee, in this Caſe the Law implieth a truſt and confidence that he ſhall be ſeiſed to the uſe of the bargainee; So in the ſame Caſe, if the feoffees either in conſideration of nature, or of blood, had without valuable conſideration enfeoffed their ſons, or any who had not notice of the firſt bargain, the ſame ſhould not take away the uſe raiſed upon valuable conſideration; for a feoffment made only upon conſideration of nature or blood, ſhall not take away any uſe raiſed upon valuable conſideration, but ſhall take away an uſe raiſed upon conſideration of nature, for both conſiderations are in æquali jure, and of one nature.

And when a man being greatly indebted to ſundry perſons, maketh a gift to his ſon or any of his blood without conſideration, but only of nature, the Law intendeth a truſt betwixt them, ſcil. that the donee would in conſideration of ſuch gift being voluntarily made to him, and alſo in conſideration of nature, relieve his father, or couſin, and not ſee him want, who hath made ſuch a gift to him, Vide 33 H. [82] 6. 33. by Priſot, if the father enfeoff his ſon and heir apparent bona fide, yet the Lord ſhall have the Wardſhip of him: So note, valuable conſideration is a good conſideration within this Proviſo; and a gift made bona fide is a gift made without any truſt either expreſſed or implied: By which it appeareth, that as a gift made upon good conſideration, if it be not bona fide, is not within the Proviſo; ſo a gift made bona fide, if it be not upon good conſideration is not within the Proviſo, but it ought to be upon good conſideration, and bona fide.

To one who marvelled what ſhould be the reaſon that Acts and Statutes are continually made at every Parliament without intermiſſion, and without end, a wiſe man made a good and ſhort anſwer, both which are compriſed in verſe.

Quæritur, ut creſcunt tot magna volumina Legis?
In promptu cauſa eſt, creſcit in orbe dolus.

And becauſe that fraud and deceit increaſeth in theſe days more than in former times, it was reſolved in this Caſe by the whole Court, That all Statutes made againſt fraud, ſhall be liberally and beneficially expounded to ſuppreſs the fraud. Note Reader, according to their opinions divers Reſolutions have been made.

Between Paunceſoot and Blunt in the Exchequer Chamber, Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. the Caſe was: Paunceſoot being indicted for Recuſancy and not coming to Divine Service, and having an intent to flee beyond Sea, and to defeat the Queen of all which might accrue to her for his Recuſancy or flight, made a gift of all his leaſes and goods of great value, coloured with feigned conſiderations: and afterwards he fled beyond the Sea, and afterwards was outlawed upon the ſame indictment: And if this gift ſhall be void to defeat the Queen of her forfeiture, either by the Common Law, or by any Statute was the Queſtion: And ſome conceived, that the Common Law which abhorreth all fraud, ſhould void this gift as to the Queen, vide Mich. 12 & 13 Eliz. Dier 295. 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. 160. And the Statute of 50 E. 3. cap. 6. was conſidered; but that extended only in releif of creditors, and extends only to ſuch debtors as flee to Sanctuaries, or other privileged places: But ſome conceive, that the Statute of 3 H. 7. cap. 4. extendeth to this Caſe. For although that the preamble ſpeak only of Creditors; yet it is provided by the body of the Act generally, That all gifts of goods and chattels made or to be made upon truſt to the uſe of the donor ſhall be void and of no effect, but that is to be intended as to ſtrangers which are to have prejudice by ſuch gift, but between the parties themſelves it ſtandeth good: But it was reſolved by all the Barons of the Exchequer, That the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 5. extended to it, for by the ſame it is enacted and declared, that all feoffments, gifts, grants, &c. to delay, hinder, or defraud Creditors, or others of their juſt and lawful Actions, Suits, Debts, Accounts, Damages, Penalties, Forfeitures, Mortuaries, Heriots and Reliefs ſhall be void, &c. So that, this Act doth not extend only to creditors, but to all others who had cauſe of action, or ſuit, or any penalty, or forfeiture.

And it was reſolved that this word (forfeiture) ſhall not be intended only of a forfeiture of an Obligation, Recogniſance, or ſuch like (as it was objected by ſome that it ſhould in reſpect it came after damages and penalties) but alſo to every thing which ſhall by the Law be forfeited to the King or Subject. And therefore if a man to prevent a forfeiture for felony, or by outlawry, maketh a gift of all his goods, and afterwards is attainted or outlawed, theſe goods are forfeited notwithſtanding this gift: The ſame Law of Recuſancy, and ſo the Statute expounded beneficially to ſuppreſs fraud. Note well this word (declare) in the Act of 13 Eliz. by which the Parliament expoundeth that this was the Common Law before. And according to this Reſolution it was decreed Hill. 36 Eliz. in the Exchequer Chamber.

Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. in the Common Pleas upon evidence to a Jury between Standen and Bullock theſe points were reſolved by the whole Court upon the Statute of 27 Eliz. cap. 4. Walmſley Juſtice ſaid, That Sir Chriſtopher Wray late chief Juſtice of England reported to him, that he and all his Companions of the Kings Bench were reſolved, and ſo directed a Jury upon evidence before them; That where a man had conveyed his land to the uſe of himſelf for life, and afterwards to the uſe of divers others of his blood, with future power of revocation, as after ſuch feaſt, or after the death of ſuch one, and afterwards, and before the power of revocation began, he for valuable conſideration bargained and ſold his land to another and his heirs, this bargain and ſale is within the remedy of the ſaid Statute. For although the Statute ſaith, The ſaid firſt conveyance not by him revoked, according to the power by him reſerved, which ſeemeth by the literal ſenſe to be intended of a preſent power of revocation, for no revocation can be made by force of a future power till it come in eſſe; Yet it was holden that the intent of the Act was, that ſuch voluntary conveyance which was originally ſubject to power of revocation, be in præſenti, or in futuro, ſhould not ſtand againſt a purchaſor bona fide, for valuable conſideration: and if other conſtruction ſhall be made, the ſaid Act ſhould ſerve for little or no purpoſe, and it ſhould be no hard thing to make evaſion out of the ſaid Act: So if A. hath reſerved to himſelf power of revocation with the aſſent of B. and afterwards A. bargaineth and ſelleth the land to another, this bargain and ſale is good, and within the remedy of the ſaid Act, for otherwiſe the good proviſion of the Act, by a ſmall addition, or evil invention ſhall be defeated.

[83] And upon the ſame reaſon it was adjudged 38 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Lee and his wife Executrix of Smith Plaintiff, and Mary Colſhil Executrix of Thomas Colſhil Defendant, in debt upon an Obligation of 1000 Marks. Rot. 1707. the Caſe was, Colſhil the Teſtator had the Office of one of the Cuſtoms of the Queen by Letters Patents to him and his Deputies, and by indenture between him and Smith the Teſtator of the Plaintiff, and for 600 l. paid, and 100 l. per ann. to be paid during the life of Colſhil, made a deputation of the ſaid office to Smith; and Colſhil covenanted with Smith, that if Colſhil ſhould die before him, that then his Executors ſhould pay back to him 300 l. And divers Covenants were in the ſaid Indenture concerning the ſaid Office, and the enjoying of it: And Colſhil was bound to the ſaid Smith in the ſaid Obligation to perform the Covenants; and the breach was alledged in the not payment of the ſaid 300 l. for as much as Smith overlived Colſhil: And although the ſaid Covenant to repay the ſaid 300 l. was lawful, yet for as much as the reſt of the Covenants were againſt the Statute of 5 E. 6. cap. 16. and if the addition of a lawful Covenant ſhould make the Obligation of force, the Statute ſhould ſerve for little or no purpoſe; for this cauſe it was adjudged, that the Obligation was utterly void.

2. It was reſolved, that if a man hath power of revocation, and afterwards to the intent to defraud a purchaſor he levieth a fine, or maketh a feoffment, or other conveyance to a ſtranger, by which he extincts his power, and afterwards bargaineth and ſelleth the land to another for valuable conſideration, the bargainee ſhall enjoy the land, for as to him the fine, feoffment, or other conveyance, by which the Condition was extinct, was void by the ſaid Act; and ſo the firſt clauſe, by which all fraudulent and covenous conveyances are made void as to purchaſors, extends to the laſt clauſe of the Act, ſcil. when he who maketh the bargain and ſale had power of revocation. And it was ſaid, that the Statute of 27 Eliz. hath made voluntary eſtates made with power of revocation as to purchaſors, in equal degree with conveyances made by fraud and covin to defraud purchaſors.

Between

Between Upton and Baſſet in Treſpaſs, Trinit. 37 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, it was adjudged, That if a man make a leaſe for years by fraud and covin, and afterwards make another leaſe bona fide, but without fine or rent reſerved, that the ſecond leſſee ſhall not avoid the firſt leaſe.

For firſt it was agreed, that by the Common Law an eſtate made by fraud ſhall be avoided only by him who hath former right, title, intereſt, debt, or demand, as 33 H. 6. a ſale in open Market ſhall not barr a right which is more ancient; nor a covenous gift ſhall not defeat execution in reſpect of a former debt as it is agreed in 22 Aſſ. 72. but he who hath right, title, intereſt, debt, or demand puiſne ſhall not avoid a gift or eſtate precedent by fraud by the Common Law.

2. It was reſolved, that no purchaſor ſhall avoid a precedent conveyance made by fraud and covin, but he who is a purchaſor for mony or other valuable conſideration; for although that in the preamble it is ſaid (for mony or other good conſideration) and likewiſe in the body of the Act (for money or other good conſideration) yet theſe words (good conſideration) are to be intended only of valuable conſideration; and that appeareth by the clauſe which concerneth thoſe who had power of revocation: For there it is ſaid, for money or other good conſideration paid, or given, and this word (payed) is to be referred to (money) and (given) is to be referred to (good conſideration) ſo that the ſenſe is for mony paid, or other good conſideration given; which words exclude all conſiderations of nature, or blood, or the like, and are to be intended only of valuable conſideration which may be given; and therefore he who maketh purchaſe of land for valuable conſideration is only a purchaſor within this Statute. And this clauſe doth well expound theſe words (other good conſideration) mentioned before in the preamble and body of the Act. [b]

And ſo it was reſolved, Paſch. 32 Eliz. in a Caſe referred out of the Chancery to the conſideration of Windham and Periam Juſtices, between John Needham Plaintiff, and Beaumont Serjeant at Law Defendant, where the Caſe was; Henry Babington ſeiſed in fee of the Mannor of Lit-Church in the County of Derby, by Indenture 10 Feb. 8 Eliz. covenanted with the Lord Darcy for the advancement of ſuch heirs males which he had begotten, or which after he ſhould beget upon the body of Mary then his wife (ſiſter to the ſaid Lord Darcy) before the feaſt of S. John Baptiſt then next following, to levy a fine of the ſaid Mannor to the uſe of the ſaid Henry for life, and afterwards to the uſe of the eldeſt iſſue male of the bodies of the ſaid Henry and Mary begotten in tail, &c. and ſo to the three iſſues of their bodies, &c. with remainder to his right heirs. And afterwards 8 Maii ann. 8 Eliz. Henry Babington by fraud and covin to defeat the ſaid covenant made a leaſe of the ſaid Mannor for a great number of years to Robert Heyes; and afterwards levied a fine accordingly; And upon Conference had with the other Juſtices, it was reſolved, That although the iſſue was a purchaſor, yet he was not a purchaſor in vulgar and common intendment: Alſo conſideration of natural affection is a good conſideration, but not ſuch a good conſideration which is intended by the Statute of 27 Eliz. for a valuable conſideration is only a conſideration within that Act: In this Caſe Anderſon chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas ſaid, That a man who was of ſmall underſtanding, and not able to govern the lands which deſcended unto him, and being given to riot and diſorder, by mediation of his friends openly conveyed his lands to them upon truſt and confidence that he ſhould take the profits for his maintenance, and that he ſhould not have power to waſt and conſume the ſame; and afterwards he being ſeduced by deceitful and covenous perſons, for a ſmall ſum of mony bargained and ſold his land being of a great value; This bargain although it was for mony, yet it was holden to be out of this Statute, for this Act is made againſt all fraud and deceit, and ſhall not help any purchaſor which cometh not to the land for good conſideration lawfully, and without fraud and deceit; and ſuch conveyance made upon truſt is void as to him who purchaſeth the land for valuable conſideration bona fide, without deceit or cunning.

And afterwards by the Judgment of the whole Court Twyne was convicted of Fraud, and he and the others of a Riot.

A Reſolution of the Juſtices after hearing of many Arguments of Council on both ſides, and divers Conferences amongſt them upon the Statute of Fines, Paſch. 44 Eliz.

The Caſe of Fines.

[84] A Tenant for life of certain land, the remainder to B. in tail, the reverſion to B. and his heirs expectant, B. levieth a fine to C. and D. and to the heirs of C. to the uſe of them and their heirs, and hath iſſue and dieth before all the Proclamations are paſt, the iſſue in tail then being beyond the Seas, the proclamations are made, and afterwards the iſſue returneth, and preſently upon the land maketh claim to the remainder in tail, and if in this Caſe the eſtate tail were barred or not was the Queſtion; and in this Caſe four Points were reſolved.

1. That the eſtate which paſſeth by the fine, as to the eſtate tail, was not determined by the death of B. for it was ſaid, If one be Tenant in tail of a Rent, Advowſon, Tythes, Common, or other ſuch things which lie in grant, and by deed granteth them in fee, and dieth, the Grant is not abſolutely determined by his death, but is at the election of the iſſue in tail to make it voidable or void at his pleaſure. For if he bring a Formedon for the rent, &c. he maketh the grant voidable; but if he diſtrain for the rent, or claim the ſame upon the land, by that he determineth his election to make it void, & ſic de cæteris. But until he hath made election the grant is not determined, for then it ſhall prevent his election; and true it is, that Littleton ſaith, That of ſuch things which paſs from Tenant in tail by way of grant, or by confirmation, or by releaſe, nothing can paſs to make an eſtate to him to whom ſuch grant, confirmation or releaſe is made, but that which the Tenant in tail may lawfully do, and that but for the term of his life. And if Tenant in tail be of an Advowſon, and he by Deed granteth the Advowſon to another fee, it is no diſcontinuance, for in ſuch Caſe the grantees have eſtate but for the life of Tenant in tail, and that (as was ſaid) is as much as to ſay, that the grant is no diſcontinuance, but is determinable by the iſſue after the death of the Tenant in tail at his election, either by claim, or by Action. And Littleton is not to be litterally intended, that the grantee in ſuch Caſe hath only eſtate for the life of Tenant in tail, and then the Tenant in tail in ſuch Caſe had the reverſion in tail, and ſhall have an Action of Waſt, or ſhall enter for forfeiture upon alienation made by ſuch Grantee; Or if Tenant in tail of a reverſion expectant upon an eſtate for years, or life, grant the ſame in fee, and the leſſee attorneth, and afterwards the particular eſtate determineth, and the grantee doth waſt, or maketh a feoffment, &c. that the Tenant in tail ſhall puniſh the waſt, or ſhall enter for the forfeiture; for Littleton himſelf 145. is againſt that, for he ſaith, That if tenant in tail granteth all his eſtate over to another, in this Caſe the grantee hath not eſtate but for the life of tenant in tail, and the reverſion of the tail is not in the tenant in tail, becauſe he hath granted all his eſtate and his right, &c. And if the grantee doth waſt, the tenant in tail ſhall never have an Action of waſt, becauſe that no reverſion is in him, but the reverſion and inheritance of the tail during the life of tenant in tail is in abeyance.

[b]

Note Reader, the office of an interpreter is to make ſuch conſtruction, not only that the Author be not againſt himſelf, but alſo that the Reſolutions and Judgments reported in one Book, be not by literal interpretation expounded againſt the Judgments and Reſolutions in another Book, but that all (ſi fieri poſſit) may ſtand together. So here the intent of Littleton was not that the grantee had not an eſtate but for life, and that his eſtate ſhould be determined by the death of tenant in tail, but that the iſſue after his death might at his pleaſure determine the ſame: And if the grantee ſhall not in ſuch Caſe have eſtate but for the life of tenant in tail, then the wife of ſuch grantee ſhall not be endowed, againſt which it is adjudged in 24 E. 3. 28. Alſo if the eſtate of the grantee ſhall be abſolutely in judgment of Law determined by the death of tenant in tail, then the iſſue in tail after the death of the father cannot have a Formedon againſt ſuch grantee; for although the demandant and the tenant will admit the eſtate which paſſeth by the grant to continue, yet the Court who ought to judge according to Law, and is not concluded by the admittance of the party from any thing which generally appeareth to them to the contrary, ought ex officio in ſuch Caſe to abate the Writ. But it is agreed in 13 H. 7. 10. pl. 8. by all the Juſtices, If tenant in tail of a rent granteth the ſame with warranty, that it is no diſcontinuance although Aſſets do deſcend, but he may diſtrain; but if he bring a Formedon in the Deſcender he ſhall be barred, 33 E. 3. Formedon 47. acc. By which it appeareth in ſuch Caſe, the grant of tenant in tail is determinable by his death upon claim upon the land, or by Action tried: So when tenant in tail granteth a rent, reverſion, or common, &c. in fee, he hath an indefeaſible eſtate during the life of tenant in tail (and that Littleton intendeth) and after the death of tenant in tail, it is defeaſible at his election; for if he cometh upon the land and diſtrain, or by claim upon the land determineth his election, then upon the matter it is void by the death of tenant in tail, for otherwiſe the warranty in ſuch Caſe ſhould make a diſcontinuance: As if tenant in tail be diſſeiſed, and releaſeth to the diſſeiſor with warranty, and dieth, now that is a diſcontinuance, becauſe that the eſtate upon which the warranty doth enure doth continue after the death of tenant in tail: But when tenant in tail of a rent, reverſion, &c. granteth the ſame in fee with warranty, and dieth, now if the iſſue in tail determineth his election to have it void, it is void by the death death of the tenant in tail, and by consequence the warranty also: But if the issue bringeth a Formedon and determineth his election to make the estate to have continuance, and not to be determined by the death of tenant in tail, then the estate doth continue, and by consequence the warranty doth remain, and if assets descend, the issue shall be barred, vide 19 E. 3. Brief 468. 24 E. 3. 28. 36 Ass. 8. 22 R. 2. Discontinuance 50. 8 H. 4. 9. 33 E. 3. Formedon 47. 48 E. 3. 23. 32 E. 3. Discontinuance 2. 23 Ass. 8. 16 H. 7. 4. 21 H. 7. 40. 38 H. 8. Br. Discontinuance 35. for this matter: And there is no difference between a grant of tenant in tail of a Rent, Advowson, Common, Tithes, &c. in possession, and a grant of tenant in tail in reversion or remainder expectant upon an estate for life: for although that in the first Case, the issue may have a Formedon presently by the death of the tenant in tail, and in the other Case not, till after the death of the tenant for life, yet all is one; for by the death of the tenant in tail the grant is not determined till election made by the issue in tail, for after the death of tenant for life he may bring a Formedon if he will.

[85]

Note Reader, if you be desirous to know the reason, why upon the words of the Act of West. 2. cap. 1. de Donis condicionalibus, that is to say, (Non habeant illi quibus tenementum sic fuerit datum sub conditione, potestatem alienandi tenementum sic datum, quo minus ad exitum illorum quibus tenementum sic fuerit datum remaneat post illorum obitum, vel ad Donatorem, &c. revertatur.) such sundry constructions have been made; As if tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee, it is a discontinuance and avoidable by Action only: If tenant in tail of a rent or other thing which lieth in grant, grant the same in fee, it is no discontinuance, but is voidable by claim or by Action: If tenant in tail of land grant a rent out of it, the rent is absolutely determined by his death: If tenant in tail be disseised, and releaseth to his disseisor, it is no discontinuance, but the estate is avoidable by entry or Action of the issue of the tenant in tail: But if a release be with warranty it is a discontinuance, if the issue in tail be heir to the warranty: But if tenant in tail maketh a lease for the term of his own life, or for years, and releaseth to the lessee and his heirs, the same is no discontinuance although it be with warranty: So if tenant in tail maketh a lease for life, and afterwards granteth the reversion in fee, it is no discontinuance of the fee, if it be not executed in the life of the grantor. And all these, and (many other) divers constructions have been made upon the words aforesaid, scil. Non habeant illi quibus tenementum sic fuerit datum sub conditione, potestatem alienandi, &c. this is the reason which is worthy of observation; for the Judges have construed the said words according to the rule and reason of the Common Law (which always is optimus interpretandi modus:) For at the Common Law, if a Bishop, Abbot, &c. or Husband seised in the right of his wife make a feoffment in fee, it is by the Common Law a discontinuance, and doth put the successor, or the wife to her Action, for the favour which the Law giveth unto an estate which passeth by livery and seisin, because it is publick and notorious, and in ancient times was the common and usual assurance of the land; But if a Bishop, &c. or Husband seised of a rent, or any thing which lay in grant, by deed granteth the same in fee, it is no discontinuance, and yet it is not absolutely determined by the death of the Bishop, &c. or Husband, for the successor or the wife hath election to determine it and make it void, or by the bringing of his Writ to make it voidable, or by claim upon the land to make it void: But if a Bishop, &c. or Husband granteth a rent in fee out of the wives land, or Bishoprick, it is absolutely void by the death of the Bishop, or of the Husband: Also if a Bishop or the husband and wife be disseised, and the Bishop or husband releaseth to the disseisor, it is no discontinuance; If the Bishop or husband maketh a lease for years, and releaseth to the lessee and his heirs, it is not absolutely determined by the death of the Bishop or husband, but it is void or voidable at the election of the successor, or of the wife. But if a Bishop or the husband make a lease for life, and afterwards grant the reversion fee, and the lessee for life dieth in the life of the Bishop, or of the husband, it is a discontinuance; otherwise if the lessee surviveth the Bishop, or the husband; Vir bonus est quis? Qui consulta patrum, qui leges, juraque servat.

[b]

[86]

And it was holden by Popham chief Justice, and divers other of the Justices, that the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 36. hath enforced the Case; that the estate which passeth by the fine shall not be determined by the death of the tenant in tail, for in as much as the Statute hath provided, That fines levied of any lands, tenement, or hereditament entailed, &c. in possession, reversion, or remainder immediately after the fine engrossed, and proclamations past, shall be a barr, &c. if the fine with proclamation cannot bar the estate tail, if not that the estate given by the fine continue, the same Statute which provided, that the fine with proclamations shall be a bar, provideth also for all things which are necessary and incident to the perfection and consummation thereof: And therefore in 28 Eliz. in a Quid juris clamat brought by Francis Windham then one of the Justices of the Common Pleas, the Case was thus in effect; That the Lady Gresham was tenant for life of the Mannor of West Bradenham in Norfolk, the remainder to Richard Read in tail, the reversion to William Read in fee. Richard Read levied a fine of his remainder to Justice Windham and his heirs, and before the engrossing thereof (as oportet) Justice Windham brought a Quid juris clamat against the Lady Gresham, who pleaded that Richard Read the conusor, at the time of the fine levied had but an estate tail in the remainder, and shewed how; and demanded Judgment thereupon if she shall be compelled to attorn, upon which the Plaintiff demurred. And although that before the Statutes of Fines of 4 H. 7. & 32 H. 8. it was a good plea, as appeareth 37 H. 6. 33. b. 2 E. 2. Age 77. 2 E. 3. 23. & 22 E. 3. 18. yet it was adjudged that now after the said Statutes which make the fine (after the engrossing and proclamations past) a barr of the estate tail; although that the Quid juris clamat ought to be brought before the engrossing, and by consequence before the estate tail be barred; and that it doth not appear at the time of the Quid juris clamat brought, that it shall be a fine at the Common Law, or a fine levied with proclamations: yet it was adjudged that she should attorn.

See Reader 17 E. 3. 7. pl. 20. if alienation be made in Mortmain; and 31 E. 3. Ancient demesn 16. if a fine be levied of a reversion of land in Ancient demesn, 36 H. 6. 24. pl. 19. if an infant levy a fine, fine, 45 E. 3. 6. if a fine be levied of a reversion, of land holden in Capite without licence, or as in our Case; if tenant in tail of a reversion or remainder levy a fine thereof, in all these Cases, and other like, the tenant was not compellable to attorn, because the estate which passed by the fine was not lawful, but either prohibited by the Common Law, or by some Statute, and for the greater part was voidable: But now the Statutes have made a fine levied by tenant in tail to be lawful, and after the engrossing thereof, and proclamations past, hath made the estate which passeth by the fine unavoidable: And in the said Case two Points were resolved for good Law.

[b]

1. That every fine levied shall be intended to be levied with proclamations according to the said Statutes, for it is most beneficial for the conusee; and all fines being general assurances of the land are levied accordingly.

2. That the Statutes which make the fine after the engrossing thereof, and proclamations past, a bar to the estate tail giveth all things incident thereto; and in as much as the connusee cannot have a Quid juris clamat after the engrossing, from thence it followeth that he shall have it before; And now the said Statutes have altered the reason of the Common Law, and given greater force and strength to a fine than it had before. For the reason of the Common Law was, That the particular tenant shall never be compelled to attorn to an unlawful, torcious, or avoidable grant; which Judgment in the Case of Justice Windham was affirmed by all the Judges in this Case. So it was resolved by all the Judges of England and Barons of the Exchequer, for the one cause or for the other, that the estate which passed by the fine as to the estate tail was not absolutely determined by the death of the Tenant in tail.

2. It was resolved by all the Justices and Barons of the Exchequer nullo contradicente, that although by the death of Tenant in tail, a right of estate tail doth descend to the issue, in as much as he died before all the proclamations were past; yet when the proclamations pass without any claim made by the issue in tail upon the land, this right which descended to him is barred by the Statutes of 4 H. 7. & 32 H. 8. For although the fine without the proclamations, nor the proclamations without the fine cannot bar an estate tail; and although that after the fine levied, and before all the proclamations be past, a right is descended to the issue in tail per formam doni, which is paramount the fine, and there is no fine with proclamations levied after the death of tenant in tail to bar this right so descended to the issue in tail; yet
[87] for as much as it is provided by the Statute of 32 H. 8. that all fines levied with proclamations of any lands, tenements or hereditaments intailed to the person so levying the same, or to any of his ancestors in possession, or reversion, or remainder, or in use, shall be immediately after the fine levied, ingrossed, and proclamations made, adjudged a sufficient bar against the said persons and their heirs, claiming the same only by force of such entail: And the issue in tail in this Case claimeth as heir by force of the estate in tail; therefore by the express letter of the said Act he is barred: With this agreeth the Judgment in Smith and Stapleton's Case, Plow. Com. 430.

3. It was resolved be Popham and Anderson chief Justices, and all the other Justices and Barons of the Exchequer but three, that in this Case the issue in tail being heir and privy, cannot by any claim that he can make save the right of the estate tail which is descended to him; but that after the proclamations are past, the estate tail shall be barred by the Satutes of 4 H. 7. & 32 H. 8. notwithstanding any claim that can be made by him; For it is enacted by the Statute of 4 H. 7. That every fine after the engrossing of it, and proclamations had and made, shall be a final end, and conclude as well privies as strangers: And if no saving or exception had been after in the Act, the right of all as well strangers as privies had been bound and barred by this Act. And therewith agreeth the opinion of five Justices, 19 H. 8. 2. scil. Fitz-James, Brudnel, Fitzherbert, Brook, and Moore. Then if all the exceptions and savings in the Act do extend to strangers to the fine, and not to parties, or privies, from thence followeth that the heir, or other privy cannot by any claim avoid the fine of his ancestor. The first Exception as to feme coverts doth not extend to this Case; The second Saving by express words extendeth to strangers; The third saving extends also to strangers who are not parties or privies to the fine, for the words are, And also saving to all other persons all such Action, Right, &c. as first shall grow, remain, descend, or come after the said fine ingrossed, &c. by force of any gift in tail, &c. so that it appeareth by these words (saving to all other persons, &c.) that he who shall take benefit of this saving ought to be another person, and not party or privy to the fine: And therewith agreeth the opinion of the said five Justices in 19 H. 8. But if Tenant in tail maketh a feoffment, and the feoffee levieth a fine with proclamations, the issue in tail after the death of his father, as it is there holden, shall have five years within this third saving, for he is the [b] first to whom the right doth accrue, and descend after the fine levied. But if tenant in tail be disseised, and the disseisor levieth a fine with proclamations, and five years pass, and afterwards tenant in tail dieth, there the issue in tail is barred as it is there also holden: For there after the fine levied the tenant in tail himself had right, so that the issue in tail was not the first to whom the right did accrue and descend after the fine levied, but after the feoffment in fee he himself had not any right: And with this diversity agreeth the opinion in Stowel's Case in Plowden's Commentaries; but in none of those Cases the issue was privy, but a stranger to him who levied the fine. Also the Statute of 32 H. 8. which is but an explanation and interpretation of the Act of 4 H. 7. (as appeareth by the preamble thereof) expoundeth the said Act in such manner, that is to say, that all fines levied with proclamations according to the Statute of 4 H. 7. of any lands, &c. in any wise entailed to the person so levying the same fine, or to any of his ancestors, shall be immediately after the same fine levied, ingrossed, and proclamation made, adjudged a sufficient bar, &c. And in all this Act there is no saving for the issue in tail. Ergo, after the proclamations past, by the express provision of this Statute the issue in tail is barred, and no power is left to him to make claim, for the intent of the Act was (as appeareth by the preamble) to bar him by the fine, and therefore it was never intended intended to save his right: But against this it was objected, That although the letter of the said Acts, and chiefly of the Act of 32 H. 8. were against the issue in tail in this Case, yet he may make his claim by the equity and intent and meaning of the said Acts; for otherwise to what purpose shall the proclamations be made, if not that those who had lawful Rights, Action, Entry or Claim might pursue it, for proclamations are made to this end and purpose, and the making of them with such solemnity as they are made should be utterly vain, if the issue in tail after the death of his father may not pursue his Action, Entry or Claim before all the proclamations do incurr: For the Act of 32 H. 8. doth not bar any stranger, but he who levieth the fine, and the issue of his body. And therefore if the issue after the death of his father cannot pursue his Action, Entry or Claim before the proclamations incurr, the proclamations in such Case shall be utterly idle and vain.

To which it was answered, That the Act of 32 H. 8. being an Act which explaineth and expoundeth the Act of 4 H. 7. as to the fine by the tenant in tail, shall not be taken by any strained construction against the letter, for then it will be requisite to have another new Act to make explanation and exposition what was done by the former Act, and so in infinitum. [88]

2. It appeareth by the Statute of 4 H. 7. the last clause, that every person hath liberty to pursue his fine according to the said Act, scil. with proclamations in four several Terms after the fine engrossed, or without proclamations, for so was the use before the said Act; and therefore the Act of 32 H. 8. which explaineth the Act of 4 H. 7. of necessity doth prescribe that proclamation shall be made according to the Act of 4 H. 7. to distinguish it from a fine at the Common Law, which was not a bar to the estate in tail, and not to enable the issue to make claim. For as hath been said, it shall be against the intention of the Act expressed in the preamble, and against the express purview of the body of the Act; so that it was material that the fine shall be levied with proclamations, otherwise it should not be levied according to the Statute of 4 H. 7. which was interpreted and expounded by the said Act of 32 H. 8.

3. It shall be greatly inconvenient, that when tenant in tail levieth a fine of a reversion or remainder, &c. expectant upon an estate for life, or upon a bargain and sale upon valuable consideration, or for the advancement of his children, or for the payment of his debts, &c. and dieth before proclamations passed, that all shall be avoided by claim of the heir in tail, when the conusee cannot have better assurance, either by common Recovery (in that he was not tenant to the Præcipe) or otherwise.

4. It is proved by divers Judgments and Resolutions given before this time, that the issue in tail in such Case shall not make claim to save the estate tail, but that after proclamations had he shall be barred, Pasch. 28 Eliz. Rot. 13. Edward Lord Zouch brought a Formedon in the Descender of the moiety of a Mannor, &c. against Bampfield, who pleaded in bar, that John great Grandfather of the demandant levied a fine sur conusans de droit come ceo, &c. with proclamations of the said moity, Pasch. 30 H. 8. which was by the same fine granted and rendred to the said John and his heirs, whose estate the tenant had; The demandant replied, and said, That at the time of the fine levied, and at all times after (and shewed how) the said Richard Bampfield now tenant, was seised of the land in demand in his demesn as of fee: And upon solemn Argument it was agreed by Anderson, Periam, Windham and Rhodes Justices, That the demandant being heir in tail against such fine levied by his ancestor, whose heir he is, was estopped to aver his seisin and continuance thereof in a stranger at the time of the said fine levied, nor to averr, Quod partes finis nihil habuerunt: And in the same Case the Justices did consider, if before the Statutes of 4 H. 7. & 32 H. 8. such averment were avowable in Law. And it seemed by the opinion of the Books, that before the Statute of 4 H. 7. & 32 H. 8. that the issue in tail was not admitted to such averments against a fine levied by his ancestor. And that appeareth by the Statute of 27 E. 1. cap. 1. de Finibus levatis, which reciteth, Quod per aliquod tempus præteritum, &c. partes finium, & earum partium hæredes (contra leges & consuetudines Regni nostri antiquius usitat') super hujusmodi finibus adnullandis & evacuandis, admittebantur proponere quod ante finem levatum & tempore levationis ejusdem, & postea petentes seu querentes aut eorum antecessores de tenementis in finibus content', aut de aliqua parte earundem semper fuer' seisiti, & sic fines hujusmode rite levatos per Jurat' patriæ falsè, subordinate, & malicioſe procurat' multotiens evacuabant & adnihillabant, & hac minus juste: Statuimus quod dictæ exceptiones seu responsiones, vel inquisitiones patriæ super hujusmodi exceptionibus seu responsionibus, nullo modo contra hujusmodi recognitiones & fines de cætero admittantur. But against that, three Exceptions were made. [b]

1. That it is provided by the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus, quod (as to the issue in tail) finis ipso jure sit nullus.

2. That the said Act of 27 E. 1. doth not extend to heirs in tail, but only to heirs in fee simple, as arguendo dicitur in 8 H. 4. 7. for the issues in tails are not bound by fines, or any other Record which enureth by way of estoppel or conclusion.

3. The said Act of 27 E. 1. speaketh de finibus rite levatis, and a fine is not said rite levatus, when there wanteth seisin in the one part or the other, so that partes finis nihil habuerunt; but so hath the said Act by the Judges in ancient times been interpreted, as appeareth by the Book in 46 E. 3. 41. pl. 20. where in a Formedon in the Descender the tenant pleaded a fine with warranty in bar, the demandant replied, quod partes finis nihil habuerunt. And 13 Ass. 8. it is said, that it hath been adjudged a good plea for the issue in tail against a fine and render of his father, to alledge the continuance in his father, and that he died seised, and that he entred as son and heir. And Br. tit. Fines 109. a fine levied with proclamation by tenant in tail may be avoided by the issue, si partes finis nihil habuerunt, for the Statute is intended de finibus rite levatis; and therefore the issue in tail may plead quod partes finis nihil habuerunt, for then it is but a fine by conclusion between the parties: And in 13 E. 3. Replication 62. and 17 E. 3. 53. some held that a fine is not rite levatus, when partes finis nihil habuerunt, for seisin in one of the parties is of the essence of a fine rightfully levied.

[89] To the first Objection it was answered, that the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus was made 13 E. and the Statute de Finibus was made 27 E. 1. in which the issue in tail is not excepted. Ergo, he sh be bounden by the latter Act, and therewith agreeth good opinion in 8 H. 4. 8.

To the second Objection, although the issue in tail was not bound by any fine by his ancestor before the Statute of 4 H. 7. yet as hath been said, he was ousted to aver in such Case, quod partes finis nihil habuerunt, and being privy as heir to him who levied the fine, was by the Statute of 27 E. estopped and concluded to annihilate the fine of his ancestor by such plea; and although it is provided by the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus, Quod finis ipso jure sit nullus, that is to say, to bar the right the issue in tail, yet it is an estoppel for him to say, Quod partes finis nihil habuerunt. And therefore the Case is remarkable in 33 E. 3. Estoppel 280. where the Case in effect was: Grandfather, father and son; the son brought a Formedon of a gift in tail made to the Grandfather, the tenant voucheth one T. as cousin and heir of E. within age, and prayed that the parol might demurr, and the demandant said that the vouchee nor any of his ancestors, &c. were seised after the seisin of the Grandfather, of which seisin, &c. The tenant said, that the Grandfather of the demandant levied fine of the tenements in demand to E. and demanded Judgment, if against the fine levied by his Grandfather, whose heir he is, he shall be restrained to such averment. The demandant said that the Statute Scil. De donis conditionalibus, voided the fine by the ancestor in tail; and yet by Judgment of the Court he was ousted of the said averment; for there it was said that the Statute voided the fine as to bar the heir in tail of Action, nevertheless the fine remained in force to restrain the heir in tail to aver a thing contrary to the fine as well as the heir in fee simple; and therewith agreeth 22 E. 3. 17. & 33 H. 6. 18. Yelverton and others.

As to the third Objection, a fine may be said rite levatus, although that partes finis nihil habuerunt, for rite levatus is as much as to say within the said Act, as duly levied, that is to say, due form of Law: For the same Act doth oust the parties of such averment, and therefore rite levatus ought to be so expounded; and a fine may be said levied in due form of Law, although it be a fine merely by conclusion: And as to the said Case in 46 E. 3. it ought to be intended of a fine levied by a collateral ancestor, from whom the demandant doth not claim the land, and then the averment is good, for hæres dicitur ad hæreditate, vide 19 H. 8. 6. b. by Inglefield and others; and

[b] 38 E. 3. 10. 36 H. 6. View 30. And in the said Act it is said earum partium hæredes, it is to be intended of such an heir who claimeth the inheritance from the ancestor who levieth the fine: As in Formedon of a gift made to the father of the demandant, the tenant pleaded the fine of the Grandfather of the demandant with warranty, &c. the demandant may plead, Quod partes finis nihil habuerunt, but that himself was seised at the time; and therewith agreeth 33 H. 6. 18. 13 Ass. 8. 13 3. Replication 62. 22 E. 3. 17. 17 E. 3. And as to the said Book of 13 Ass. 8. it was affirmed for good Law; for there is a difference when tenant in tail levieth a fine sur conusans de droit come ceo, &c. and when he accepteth such a fine, and maketh a grant and render, for against a fine levied by tenant in tail sur conusans de droit come ceo, &c. his heir cannot averr continuance, &c. in his ancestor for that shall be contrary to the fine, which is restrained by the Statute de Finibus, as Fairfax, Littleton, and Brian held in 12 E. 4. 15. 8 H. 4. 8. & 9. And so Shard said in the same Book of 13 Ass. 8. But when tenant in tail accepteth a fine, and granteth and rendreth the land by the same fine (which is but executory) there if no execution be sued in the life of tenant in tail, his issue may averr continuance of possession, &c. in his father, for that well stands with the fine, for acceptance of a fine sur conusans de droit come ceo, &c. which presupposeth a gift precedent, shall not alter the estate and the grant and render until it be executed doth not devest any estate out of the tenant in tail, and by consequence, he continueth tenant in tail, and therewith agreeth 41 E. 3. 14. 42 E. 3. 9. 8 Ass. 33. 11 H. 4. 85. a. And according to this difference was it adjudged M. 3 & 4 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Rot. 1483. Conisbies Case, where the Case was such; Palmer and Mary his wife seised for the life of the wife as of her right, the remainder unto Elizabeth Conisbie in tail, the remainde to the said Elizabeth in fee; Palmer and his wife levied a fine sur conusans de droit come ceo, &c. to the said Elizabeth with Proclamations, who granted and rendred a rent of 27l. 10s. to the conusor for the term of their lives with clause of distress; and afterwards Elizabeth died, and the land descended to Henry Conisbie her son and heir in tail, who leased the land to Parker for years; and afterwards Mary died; Palmer distrained for the rent, and he brought a Replevin: And in this Case two Points were resolved and adjudged.

1. That against such fine accepted by tenant in tail, the issue may averr continuance of seisin by force of the tail, and the issue in tail is not estopped by the admittance and acceptance of his ancestor.

[90] 2. That the grant and render of the rent was not within the Statute of 4 H. 7. or 32 H. 8. because the fine was not levied of the land it self which was entailed but of a rent newly created out of the land: But in the Case of the Lord Zouch it was resolved by all the Judges of the Common Pleas, that the Statutes of 4 H. 7. & 32 H. 8. extend to fines levied by conclusion, and shall bind the estate tail, although partes finis nihil habuerunt; As if tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee, or be disseised, and afterwards levieth a fine with proclamations to a stranger, it shall bind the estate tail, and the issues in tail are barred for ever. And it is to be observed, that the Statute of 32 H. 8. saith, All fines levied of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, in any wise entailed to the person so levying the same, or to any of his ancestors, &c. and the land is entailed to the person who levieth the fine, although he were not seised thereof at the time. And in the Statute of 4 H. 7. (which

(which is expounded by the Act of 32 H. 8.) is a saving to every person or persons not party or privy to the said fine, their exception, quod partes finis nihil habuerunt; and the issue in tail is privy, for he claimeth as heir and by descent. And afterwards, scil. M. 29 & 30 Eliz. Judgment was given accordingly, scil. that the demandant should be barred; which Case I have Reported more at large, because it is remarkable, and the first Judgment which was given in the said Point upon the said Statutes. And it was said, that the said Judgment did rule the Point now in debate, for thereby it appeareth, If tenant in tail be disseised, and levieth a fine and dieth before all the proclamations are past, although the issue enter into the land, yet after the proclamations are made he shall be barred, for he cannot say, quod partes finis nihil habuerunt; And it was said, that if in case when tenant in tail hath nothing at the time of the fine levied that the issue shall be barred by the said Statutes, a fortiori, when tenant in tail at the time of the fine levied is seised of an estate tail (be it in possession, reversion or remainder) which may in truth (and not by conclusion only) pass by the said fine, the issue shall be barred by the said Statutes.

Also in ann. 20 Eliz. the Case of one Archer in the Common Pleas, it was resolved by Sir James Dier, Manwood, Monnson and Mead, that where lands were given to the Grandfather and his wife in special tail, the Grandfather died, the father disseised the Grandmother, and levied a fine with proclamations; the Grandmother died, the father dieth, that the son was barred; and yet the father at the time of the fine levied had but a possibility (the Grandmother living) to the estate tail. Yet the Judges did expound the Statute of 31 H. 8. (being an Act of explanation) according to the letter, scil. that for as much as the land was entailed to his ancestor, although his ancestor were alive; so that no estate in right was descended to him which he might pass or execute, yet because the said Statute saith, intailed to the person so levying or to any of his ancestors in the disjunctive, it was holden that the fine with proclamations did bar the right, which after the fine should descend to him, not only as to himself, but as to all the heirs in tail; pari ratione, it was said that in the Case in Question, for as much as it is provided, That after the proclamations past the estate shall be barred without any saving for the issue; the issue shall be barred notwithstanding any claim by him according to the letter and purview of the Act. And upon these two Cases of the Lord Zouch and Archer it followeth, That if the Grandfather be tenant in tail, and the father in his life having nothing in the land, levieth a fine with proclamations, and the Grandfather dieth, and afterwards the father dieth; That this fine shall bind the issue, which as was said was the stronger Case, than the Case now in Question. [b]

And in the Term of S. Michael, 23 & 24 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, the Case was such; Sir George Blunt was tenant in tail of divers Mannors in the Counties of Shrewsbury and Stafford, and had issue a daughter who was married to one Purslowe: And afterwards in Easter and Trinity Term, 23 Eliz. Sir George levied a fine of the said Mannors to one Lacon of Worcestershire, and died in August following. Purslowe and his wife brought a Formedon, and pendant the plea proclamations passed; it was agreed by the whole Court, that the Defendant should plead the fine and proclamations which passed pendant the Writ, and should bar the demandant; and yet in the said Case a right of intail descended to the wife of Purslowe, and presently they sued their Formedon, which was as much as they could do, for the fine is the conveyance which passeth the estate, and the proclamations are but a short repetition of the fine, and are by the Statute of 32 H. 8. only added (as hath been said) to declare that it is a fine according to the Statute of 4 H. 7. which barreth the estate tail, and not a fine at the Common Law: Ex hoc four things are to be observed.

1. That though that after the fine levied a right of intail descended to the wife of Purslow, yet after the Proclamations past, the right which descended is barred by force of the fine.

2. That although a Formedon be brought and pursued, yet when after the proclamations pass the fine is a bar; and what reason shall there be that the issue in tail shall be more barred of his right which descends to him, and of his rightful Action which he hath pursued for the recovery of his right, then the issue should be barred in the Case in question after the proclamations past, notwithstanding his entry or claim in pais. [91]

3. When tenant in tail levieth a fine and dieth before proclamations, that the issue in tail is not within any of the savings of 4 H. 7. for if he shall be, then the bringing of his Formedon before all the proclamations passed, and the pursuing of it should avoid the bar which the Statute made after the proclamations past.

4. That in such Case the proclamations serve to no purpose, but only to distinguish that it is a fine levied according to the Statute of 4 H. 7. For although that the issue having notice of the proclamations bringeth his Formedon, yet it shall not avail him.

Trin. 4 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, a Case was, as Bendloe's Serjeant at Law reporteth to this effect: Tenant in tail doth discontinue in fee, and disseiseth the discontinuee, and levieth a fine sur conusans de droit come ceo with proclamations to a stranger, and taketh back an estate by render in the same fine; and the discontinuee before all the proclamations past entreth, and claimeth the land, and avoideth the estate which passeth by the fine, and afterwards proclamations pass, tenant in tail continueth his possession and dieth seised within the year after the entry and claim; The Question was, if the heir in tail be remitted, or if the entry of the discontinuee were lawful; And the opinion of the Justices was, That the heir in tail was not remitted, but that he was barred by the Statute of 32 H. 8. although the estate which passed by the fine was utterly avoided before the proclamations passed. By which it appeareth, that although that the estate which passeth by the fine be utterly defeated before the proclamations, yet when after the proclamations pass, the estate tail shall be passed. And so the doubt which was conceived in the Kings Bench, M. 38 & 39 Eliz. in an Ejectione firmæ, between Harvy Plaintiff, and Facy Defendant, upon a demise made by Robert Bret Esquire, of land in Northpedderton, where the same Point was in question, and not adjudged; for the said Robert Bret, and Arthur Acclam Esquire, who was the Defendants lessor, did agree, and Bret who claimed by the fine had good part of the inheritance, was well resolved.

5. It was resolved, that although the issue in tail be beyond the Sea, yet for as much as he is privy and out of all the savings of the Statute of 4 H. 7. he is bound, although he be beyond the Sea, in the same manner as the issue in tail was within age, or under coverture, or Non compos mentis, or in Prison; [b] and that was agreed by all the Justices nullo contra dicente; Ex hoc sequitur, that the entry or claim of the issue in tail before all the proclamations are past is not material, for if the entry or claim of the issue in tail shall be of any force, then it shall be hard to bind them for want of claim, which have not power or intelligence to make entry or claim, and their Nonclaim was not prejudicial to them by the rule and reason of the Common Law. And if Infancy, Coverture, Non sanæ memoriæ, or imprisonment of the heir in tail, in such Case shall give him power to avoid the fine, in this Case no man shall be assured of lands conveyed to him by fine.

Note Reader, there was never any Judgment or Resolution of any Court against the third Point resolved in this Case; but the opinion of Councellors arguendo in Smith and Stapleton's Case, Plow. Comm. 430. And the opinion of Brook tit. Assurance 6. and Fines 109. But those opinions are not only against and contrary to the said Judgments and Resolutions aforesaid, of the Courts aforesaid, but would bring in great inconvenience in weakening of the general Assurance of lands: And observe well all these points now resolved, and the said former Judgments and Resolutions cited in this Case, for as I conceive they are grounded upon deep and pregnant reason, tending to the repose and quieting of infinite inheritances,

THE

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke Kt. &c.

PART IV.

Mich. 14 & 15 Eliz.

Vernon's Case.

IN a Writ of Dower brought by Mary Vernon againſt John Vernon Eſquire, of the Mannor of Sudbury in the County of Darby; The Tenant pleaded, that her husband was alſo ſeiſed of certain lands in the ſame County in his demeſn as of fee; and by deed indented did thereof enfeoff Sir Thomas Gifford Knight, and others, and their heirs to the uſe of himſelf for the term of his life without impeachment of Waſt; And after his deceaſe to the uſe of the demandant then his wife for the term of her life; and after her deceaſe to the uſe of the right heirs of the husband; And averred that the ſaid eſtate limited for life to the demandant was for her Joynture, and in full ſatisfaction of her Dower; and that after the death of her husband the demandant entred into the ſaid land ſo limited to her for her Joynture and agreed to the ſame. To which the demandant replied, and confeſſed the ſaid feoffment, and the limitation of uſes, ſcil. to the uſe of the husband for life without impeachment of Waſt, and afterwards to the uſe of the demandant for her life; but further ſaid, That the ſaid limitation to the wife for life was upon condition that ſhe ſhould perform the laſt Will of her husband; and ſhewed all the Will in certain, in which divers things were to be performed by the demandant, and demanded Judgment if the tenant ſhall be admitted, and received to aver that this eſtate ſo limited to the wife upon condition, was for the Joynture of the wife, and in ſatisfaction of her Dower. Upon which matter the tenant did demur in Law: And in this Caſe five Points were reſolved. [1]

1. That by the Rule of the Common Law, a right or title that any one hath to any lands or tenements of any eſtate of inheritance or freehold, cannot be barred by acceptance of any manner of collateral ſatisfaction or recompence: As if A. diſſeiſe B. tenant for life or in fee of the Mannor of Dale, and afterwards giveth the Mannor of Sale to B. and his heirs in full ſatisfaction of all his Rights and Actions which he hath in or for the Mannor of Dale, which B. accepteth: yet B. may enter into the Mannor of Dale, or recover the ſame in a real Action. For a right or title of freehold or inheritance cannot be barred by any collateral ſatisfaction, but by Releaſe or Confirmation, or an act which doth tant amount; And therefore it is commonly ſaid in our Books, that Accord with ſatisfaction is a good plea in perſonal Actions where damages are only to be recovered, and not in real Actions: Vide 13 H. 7. 13, 20, &c. And that was the reaſon that no collateral ſatisfaction or recompence made to the wife in ſatisfaction of her Dower, was any bar of her Dower by the Common Law: But Dower ad oſtium Eccleſiæ, or Ex aſſenſu patris did conclude her of her Dower, if ſhe did enter into the land aſſigned her after the death of her husband, for the Law doth allow them, being made in ſuch form as the Law doth require Dower in Law to be. But if a man in conſideration of a marriage after to be had with A. make an eſtate of certain lands to her for her life, in full ſatisfaction of all the Dower which after marriage [b]

may

may accrue unto her in any of his lands, and after they do intermarry, it was not any bar of her dower at the Common Law for two cauſes; One, becauſe ſhe had not any title of Dower at the time of the acceptance of the ſatisfaction, but it accrued after: Secondly, becauſe that no collateral ſatisfaction can bar any right or title of any inheritance or freehold, as hath been ſaid; And by that the doubt in 29 E. 3. 3. is well reſolved. So if the husband purchace, or cauſe an eſtate to be made to him and his wife for life, or in tail in full ſatisfaction of her Dower and dieth, it was not any bar of her Dower at the Common Law, cauſa quæ ſupra. So if after the death of the husband the heir maketh an eſtate to the wife for life of any land whereof ſhe is not dowable) in full ſatisfaction of her Dower, it is not any bar of her Dower: See the Caſe now in the Reports of the Lord Dier, 1 Mar. 91. acc. and vide 31 E. 3. Scire facias 99. Before the making of the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap 10. The greateſt part of the land in England was conveyed to ſundry perſons to uſes, and for as much as a wife was not dowable of an uſe, her father or friends upon marriage did procure the husband to take eſtate from his feoffees, or others ſeiſed
[2] to his uſe, to him and to his wife before or after marriage for their lives, or in tail for a competent proviſion for the wife after the death of the husband: Then came the Statute of 27 H. 8. which transferreth the poſſeſſion and eſtate of the lands to the uſe, by which the husbands were ſeiſed accordingly, and by conſequence if further proviſion had not been made, the wives ſhould have as well their Dowers as their Joyntures for the reaſons aforeſaid. And for this cauſe the branches concerning Joyntures were added to the ſaid Statute of 27 H. 8. And therefore it was reſolved, that if this eſtate in the Caſe at Bar limited to the wife was not within the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. that by the Common Law it was not any bar of the demandants Dower, but that ſhe ſhould have both.

Secondly, it was reſolved, That if a man make a feoffment to the uſe of himſelf for life, and afterwards to the uſe of his wife for her life, for the Joynture of his wife, that ſuch eſtate in remainder is within the intent of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. For although the Statute expreſſeth particularly theſe five forms, that is to ſay, 1. To husband and wife, and the heirs of the husband; 2. To the husband and wife, and the heirs of their two bodies; 3. To the husband and wife, and the heirs of the body of one of them; 4. To the husband and his wife for their lives; 5. To the husband and wife for the life of the wife; yet many eſtates not there expreſſed are within this Act, for the ſaid particular forms are ſet but for examples, and not to exclude any other eſtate, which is to ſuch effect, and agreeth with the intent of the makers of the Act; And although it was objected, that all the examples expreſſed in the Act are of a joynt eſtate made to the husband and wife, and none of them to the wife only, or by way of remainder; and although by a Proviſo in the ſame Act it is provided, that if any wife ſhall have any Mannors, Lands, &c. unto her aſſured after marriage for term of her life, or otherwiſe in Joynture, &c. ſo as the letter of the Act doth import a joynt eſtate, and that this word (Junctura) implieth a joynt eſtate; and that the Dowers of women are much favoured in Law; yet it was reſolved that all is to one effect as to the wife, to limit an eſtate to the husband and his wife for their lives, and to the husband for life the remainder to the wife for her life; for the one eſtate is as beneficial to the wife as the other. See after the Caſe of Aſhton as to this Point. But it was reſolved, that the eſtate which by force of this Act ſhall be in lieu and bar of her Dower ought by the limitation thereof to take effect immedi-
[b] ately after the death of the husband, for that appeareth by all the examples expreſſed by the Act, ſcil. that the eſtates of the wives ſhould take effect immediately after the death of their husbands: And therefore no other eſtate not expreſſed in the Act, ſhall be taken by the equity of the Act, if it hath not the ſame beginning for the benefit of the wives as the examples purport: and therefore if the husband maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of himſelf for life, and afterwards to the uſe of B. for life, and afterwards to the uſe of his wife for life for her Joynture, it is not within the Act, although B. dieth living the husband. So if the husband make a feoffment in fee to the uſe of A. for life, and afterwards to the uſe of his wife for life for her Joynture, it is not within the Act although A. dieth living the husband. For in theſe and other like Caſes, for as much as at the time of the limitation of the eſtates they were out of the Act, becauſe it was not certain that the eſtate of the wife ſhall take effect preſently by the death of the husband, as it ought by the Act, no ſubſequent event can make them within the Act. For quod ab initio non valet, in tractu temporis non convaleſcet, & quæ malo ſunt inchoata principio, vix eſt ut bono peragantur exitu: And therefore in all the ſaid like Caſes, although the wife attain to them, and entreth, and taketh the profits, yet ſhe ſhall have Dower of the reſidue. For if the ſaid Act doth not bar her, the Common Law, as hath been ſaid before ſhall not conclude her in ſuch Caſe of her Dower. And the Lord Dier ſaid, that it was adjudged in Queen Mary's time, that where the Duke of Somerſet purchaſed lands to him and to the Dutcheſs his wife, and to the heirs males of their two bodies, that although the ſame was not any of the eſtates put for example in the ſaid Act, yet it was adjudged that it was within the intent of the Act, and that you may ſee in the Lord Dier's Reports, 1 Ma. 26. Alſo the Lord Dier ſaid that it was reſolved in the time of Queen Elizabeth, that where one Aſhton in performance of covenants of a marriage to be between his ſon and one A. made a feoffment to the uſe of A. for her life for her Joynture, and afterwards they entermarried, and the husband died, it was a good Joynture within the intent of the Act; and yet all the five examples are of eſtates made to the husband and wife: But in the ſaid Caſe of Aſhton, the eſtate was made before morriage, ſo as there was not any husband or wife at the time of the making of the eſtate; alſo the eſtate was only to the woman, where all the examples are of a joynt eſtate, but all is of one effect, which Caſe you mey ſee M. 6 & 7 Eliz. Dier 228.

Thirdly, it was reſolved, that although the eſtate limited to the wife were upon condition, and although that Dower (in lieu of which the Joynture cometh) at the Common Law was an abſolute eſtate for life; yet for as much as an eſtate for life upon condition is an eſtate for life, it was within the words and the intent of the Act, if the wife after the death of her husband accept thereof: For it was agreed, that a Joynture is a competent livelihood of freehold for the wife to take effect preſently after the death of her husband, if ſhe be not the cauſe of the determination, or forfeiture thereof; And therefore if the husband maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of his wife, for anothers life for her Joynture, [3] it is not within the Act, for the eſtate is not for the wives life, and by that ſhe ſhall be deſtitute of livelihood: But if a man maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of his wife durante viduitate ſua for her Joynture, the ſame is an eſtate to her for life, and it cannot determine without her own act, and therefore it is a Joynture within the ſaid Act. The ſame Law of an eſtate made to the wife for her life upon Condition, for if ſhe do not break the Condition, it is an eſtate to her for her life. And in the Caſe at the Bar if the Condition bind her to any unreaſonable thing, ſhe might have waved it, but when ſhe after the death of her husband entreth and accepteth of the conditional eſtate for her Joynture, ſhe is barred of her Dower.

the

Fourthly, it was reſolved, that if a Joynture be made to a woman before marriage, that after the death of her husband ſhe cannot wave it, and take her Dower, as ſhe may of a Joynture made to her during the marriage, and that by force of the ſaid Proviſo, the effect of which is, that if any woman hath any mannors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments aſſured to her after marriage for the term of her life, or otherwiſe in Joynture, &c. that ſhe after the death of her husband ſhall have liberty to refuſe it. By which they reſolved, that if the Joynture were made before marriage, that the intent of the makers of the Act was, that ſhe ſhould not refuſe, but ſhall take ſuch Joynture as was made to her. See Aſhton's Caſe before to this purpoſe. And it was ſaid, that if lands be conveyed to a woman before marriage for part of her Joynture, and after marriage more land is conveyed to her in full of her Joynture, and in ſatisfaction of all her Dower, and afterwards the husband dieth, in this Caſe if the wife wave the land conveyed to her after her marriage, ſhe ſhall have the land conveyed to her before the marriage, and her Dower alſo in the reſidue; for land conveyed to a woman in part of her Joynture, or in ſatisfaction of part of her Dower is no bar (for the uncertainty) of any part of her Dower. As if the debtor give to the creditor a horſe or any other thing in ſatisfaction of part of his debt, it ſhall be a bar for no part for the uncertainty. Alſo the words of the Act are, For the Joynture of Women, and not for part of their Joyntures.

Fifthly, it was reſolved, that although in the Caſe at Bar the eſtate of the wife was upon expreſs Condition to perform his Will, which importeth conſideration of the making of the eſtate, yet it may be averred for the Joynture of the wife, for one conſideration ſtands with another, and although it be not expreſſed in the deed yet it can be averred, as the Lord Dier ſaid it was adjudged in the like Caſe between Villers and Beamont in the time of Queen Mary, which you may ſee in his Reports 4. & 5. Phil. & Mar. [b] 146. And in the Caſe at Bar the Caſe is ſtronger, becauſe the ſaid averment is given by the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. by the words of the Act, For the Joynture of the wife; and in this Caſe the Lord Dier ſaid that the Caſe of 6 E. 6. Br. Dower 69. was miſreported, for true it is that it was reſolved, that an eſtate in fee ſimple conveyed to the wife, was not any Joynture within this Statute, but that is to be intended within the Statute of 11 H. 7. 20. which reſtraineth the alienations of women, the which Act neither in the letter nor in the meaning can be intended when a woman hath an eſtate in fee ſimple; for to reſtrain ſuch eſtate that it ſhall not be aliened, is repugnant and againſt the rule of the Common Law, and utterly out of the letter and intention of the Act: But he ſaid, that an eſtate in fee ſimple conveyed to a woman for her Joynture, and in full ſatisfaction of her Dower, is a Joynture within the equity of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. for that is a competent livelihood to the wife of an eſtate of freehold, to take effect preſently after the death of the husband, for all the wives life and more. And it was ſo reſolved in Sir Morrice Dennis Caſe, which Caſe is now reported 8 Eliz. Dier 248. And he ſaid that the reaſon reported by Br. that a fee ſimple is no Joynture within the ſaid Statute of 27 H. 8. is becauſe that ſuch Joynture is not ſpoken of in the Statute, but that is not any reaſon in Law for three cauſes:

1. Becauſe the principal Caſe at Bar, and divers other Caſes put before were out of the words of the Act, and yet were within the equity and intent of the Act.

2. It agreeth with the deſcription of a Joynture agreed and reſolved before.

3. He ſaid, that this eſtate in fee ſimple was within the expreſs letter of the Act, for the words of the Proviſo are, For term of life, or otherwiſe in Joynture; which word (otherwiſe) extendeth to all other eſtates conveyed to the wife not mentioned before in the Act; for all other eſtates which are as beneficial or more to the woman as the eſtates mentioned in the Act, are within this word (otherwiſe.) And note this word (otherwiſe) is not indefinite, but otherwiſe in Joynture, that is, for a Joynture, which is as much to ſay (otherwiſe) having all the effect of the incidents to a Joynture implied in the ſaid five Examples, or more: And if an eſtate for life, in tail, or fee ſimple be conveyed to the wife for her Joynture, and after the death of the husband it be evicted, ſhe ſhall recover Dower to the value in the reſidue, and ſhall have but an eſtate for life, of what eſtate ſoever the Joynture be, by an expreſs Proviſo in the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. So that upon the eviction, no greater prejudice ſhall grow to the Terre-tenant, if the Joynture be of any eſtate of inheritance, then if it were but only for term of her [4] life. And afterwards Judgment in the principal Caſe was given againſt the Defendant.

Note Reader, in the ſaid Caſe reported by the Lord Brook, it is further ſaid, That a demiſe of land to the wife by the husband by Will is no bar of Dower, for the ſame is a Benevolence and not a Joynture, per Juſticiarios, as it is there reported; and that is good Law, if it be well underſtood. And as to that ſome have ſaid, That no eſtate deviſed by Will can be a Joynture within 27 H. 8. for two reaſons.

1. By the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. all the eſtate of the feoffees was transferred to Ceſtuy que uſe, and by conſequence no land after the making of that Act was deviſable until the Statute of 32 H. 8. and therefore a deviſe of land, which then by the Law could not be made, cannot be within the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8.

The

may accrue unto her in any of his lands, and after they do intermarry, it was not any bar of her dower at the Common Law for two causes; One, because she had not any title of Dower at the time of the acceptance of the satisfaction, but it accrued after: Secondly, because that no collateral satisfaction can bar any right or title of any inheritance or freehold, as hath been said; And by that the doubt in 29 E. 3. 3. is well resolved. So if the husband purchace, or cause an estate to be made to him and his wife for life, or in tail in full satisfaction of her Dower and dieth, it was not any bar of her Dower at the Common Law, causa quæ supra. So if after the death of the husband the heir maketh an estate to the wife for life of any land whereof she is not dowable) in full satisfaction of her Dower, it is not any bar of her Dower: See the Case now in the Reports of the Lord Dier, 1 Mar. 91. acc. and vide 31 E. 3. Scire facias 99. Before the making of the Statute of 27 H. 8. cap 10. The greatest part of the land in England was conveyed to sundry persons to uses, and for as much as a wife was not dowable of an use, her father or friends upon marriage did procure the husband to take estate from his feoffees, or others seised
[2] to his use, to him and to his wife before or after marriage for their lives, or in tail for a competent provision for the wife after the death of the husband: Then came the Statute of 27 H. 8. which transferreth the possession and estate of the lands to the use, by which the husbands were seised accordingly, and by consequence if further provision had not been made, the wives should have as well their Dowers as their Joyntures for the reasons aforesaid. And for this cause the branches concerning Joyntures were added to the said Statute of 27 H. 8. And therefore it was resolved, that if this estate in the Case at Bar limited to the wife was not within the said Act of 27 H. 8. that by the Common Law it was not any bar of the demandants Dower, but that she should have both.

Secondly, it was resolved, That if a man make a feoffment to the use of himself for life, and afterwards to the use of his wife for her life, for the Joynture of his wife, that such estate in remainder is within the intent of the said Act of 27 H. 8. For although the Statute expresseth particularly these five forms, that is to say, 1. To husband and wife, and the heirs of the husband; 2. To the husband and wife, and the heirs of their two bodies; 3. To the husband and wife, and the heirs of the body of one of them; 4. To the husband and his wife for their lives; 5. To the husband and wife for the life of the wife; yet many estates not there expressed are within this Act, for the said particular forms are set but for examples, and not to exclude any other estate, which is to such effect, and agreeth with the intent of the makers of the Act; And although it was objected, that all the examples expressed in the Act are of a joynt estate made to the husband and wife, and none of them to the wife only, or by way of remainder; and although by a Proviso in the same Act it is provided, that if any wife shall have any Mannors, Lands, &c. unto her assured after marriage for term of her life, or otherwise in Joynture, &c. so as the letter of the Act doth import a joynt estate, and that this word (Junctura) implieth a joynt estate; and that the Dowers of women are much favoured in Law; yet it was resolved that all is to one effect as to the wife, to limit an estate to the husband and his wife for their lives, and to the husband for life the remainder to the wife for her life; for the one estate is as beneficial to the wife as the other. See after the Case of Ashton as to this Point. But it was resolved, that the estate which by force of this Act shall be in lieu and bar of her Dower ought by the limitation thereof to take effect immedi-
[b] ately after the death of the husband, for that appeareth by all the examples expressed by the Act, scil. that the estates of the wives should take effect immediately after the death of their husbands: And therefore no other estate not expressed in the Act, shall be taken by the equity of the Act, if it hath not the same beginning for the benefit of the wives as the examples purport: and therefore if the husband maketh a feoffment in fee to the use of himself for life, and afterwards to the use of B. for life, and afterwards to the use of his wife for life for her Joynture, it is not within the Act, although B. dieth living the husband. So if the husband make a feoffment in fee to the use of A. for life, and afterwards to the use of his wife for life for her Joynture, it is not within the Act although A. dieth living the husband. For in these and other like Cases, for as much as at the time of the limitation of the estates they were out of the Act, because it was not certain that the estate of the wife shall take effect presently by the death of the husband, as it ought by the Act, no subsequent event can make them within the Act. For quod ab initio non valet, in tractu temporis non convalescet, & quæ malo sunt inchoata principio, vix est ut bono peragantur exitu: And therefore in all the said like Cases, although the wife attain to them, and entreth, and taketh the profits, yet she shall have Dower of the residue. For if the said Act doth not bar her, the Common Law, as hath been said before shall not conclude her in such Case of her Dower. And the Lord Dier said, that it was adjudged in Queen Mary's time, that where the Duke of Somerset purchased lands to him and to the Dutchess his wife, and to the heirs males of their two bodies, that although the same was not any of the estates put for example in the said Act, yet it was adjudged that it was within the intent of the Act, and that you may see in the Lord Dier's Reports, 1 Ma. 26. Also the Lord Dier said that it was resolved in the time of Queen Elizabeth, that where one Ashton in performance of covenants of a marriage to be between his son and one A. made a feoffment to the use of A. for her life for her Joynture, and afterwards they entermarried, and the husband died, it was a good Joynture within the intent of the Act; and yet all the five examples are of estates made to the husband and wife: But in the said Case of Ashton, the estate was made before morriage, so as there was not any husband or wife at the time of the making of the estate; also the estate was only to the woman, where all the examples are of a joynt estate, but all is of one effect, which Case you mey see M. 6 & 7 Eliz. Dier 228.

Thirdly, it was resolved, that although the estate limited to the wife were upon condition, and although that Dower (in lieu of which the Joynture cometh) at the Common Law was an absolute estate for life; yet for as much as an estate for life upon condition is an estate for life, it was within the words and the intent of the Act, if the wife after the death of her husband accept thereof: For it was agreed, that a Joynture is a competent livelihood of freehold for the wife to take effect presently after the

the death of her husband, if ſhe be not the cauſe of the determination, or forfeiture thereof; And therefore if the husband maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of his wife, for anothers life for her Joynture, it is not within the Act, for the eſtate is not for the wives life, and by that ſhe ſhall be deſtitute of livelihood: But if a man maketh a feoffment in fee to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of his wife durante viduitate ſua for her Joynture, the ſame is an eſtate to her for life, and it cannot determine without her own act, and therefore it is a Joynture within the ſaid Act. The ſame Law of an eſtate made to the wife for her life upon Condition, for if ſhe do not break the Condition, it is an eſtate to her for her life. And in the Caſe at the Bar if the Condition bind her to any unreaſonable thing, ſhe might have waved it, but when ſhe after the death of her husband entreth and accepteth of the conditional eſtate for her Joynture, ſhe is barred of her Dower. [3]

Fourthly, it was reſolved, that if a Joynture be made to a woman before marriage, that after the death of her husband ſhe cannot wave it, and take her Dower, as ſhe may of a Joynture made to her during the marriage, and that by force of the ſaid Proviſo, the effect of which is, that if any woman hath any mannors, lands, tenements, or hereditaments aſſured to her after marriage for the term of her life, or otherwiſe in Joynture, &c. that ſhe after the death of her husband ſhall have liberty to refuſe it. By which they reſolved, that if the Joynture were made before marriage, that the intent of the makers of the Act was, that ſhe ſhould not refuſe, but ſhall take ſuch Joynture as was made to her. See Aſhton's Caſe before to this purpoſe. And it was ſaid, that if lands be conveyed to a woman before marriage for part of her Joynture, and after marriage more land is conveyed to her in full of her Joynture, and in ſatisfaction of all her Dower, and afterwards the husband dieth, in this Caſe if the wife wave the land conveyed to her after her marriage, ſhe ſhall have the land conveyed to her before the marriage, and her Dower alſo in the reſidue; for land conveyed to a woman in part of her Joynture, or in ſatisfaction of part of her Dower is no bar (for the uncertainty) of any part of her Dower. As if the debtor give to the creditor a horſe or any other thing in ſatisfaction of part of his debt, it ſhall be a bar for no part for the uncertainty. Alſo the words of the Act are, For the Joynture of Women, and not for part of their Joyntures.

Fifthly, it was reſolved, that although in the Caſe at Bar the eſtate of the wife was upon expreſs Condition to perform his Will, which importeth conſideration of the making of the eſtate, yet it may be averred for the Joynture of the wife, for one conſideration ſtands with another, and although it be not expreſſed in the deed yet it can be averred, as the Lord Dier ſaid it was adjudged in the like Caſe between Villers and Beamont in the time of Queen Mary, which you may ſee in his Reports 4. & 5 Phil. & Mar. 146. And in the Caſe at Bar the Caſe is ſtronger, becauſe the ſaid averment is given by the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. by the words of the Act, For the Joynture of the wife; and in this Caſe the Lord Dier ſaid that the Caſe of 6 E. 6. Br. Dower 69. was miſreported, for true it is that it was reſolved, that an eſtate in fee ſimple conveyed to the wife, was not any Joynture within this Statute, but that is to be intended within the Statute of 11 H. 7. 20. which reſtraineth the alienations of women, the which Act neither in the letter nor in the meaning can be intended when a woman hath an eſtate in fee ſimple; for to reſtrain ſuch eſtate that it ſhall not be aliened, is repugnant and againſt the rule of the Common Law, and utterly out of the letter and intention of the Act: But he ſaid, that an eſtate in fee ſimple conveyed to a woman for her Joynture, and in full ſatisfaction of her Dower, is a Joynture within the equity of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. for that is a competent livelihood to the wife of an eſtate of freehold, to take effect preſently after the death of the husband, for all the wives life and more. And it was ſo reſolved in Sir Morrice Dennis Caſe, which Caſe is now reported 8 Eliz. Dier 248. And he ſaid that the reaſon reported by Br. that a fee ſimple is no Joynture within the ſaid Statute of 27 H. 8. is becauſe that ſuch Joynture is not ſpoken of in the Statute, but that is not any reaſon in Law for three cauſes: [b]

1. Becauſe the principal Caſe at Bar, and divers other Caſes put before were out of the words of the Act, and yet were within the equity and intent of the Act.

2. It agreeth with the deſcription of a Joynture agreed and reſolved before.

3. He ſaid, that this eſtate in fee ſimple was within the expreſs letter of the Act, for the words of the Proviſo are, For term of life, or otherwiſe in Joynture; which word (otherwiſe) extendeth to all other eſtates conveyed to the wife not mentioned before in the Act; for all other eſtates which are as beneficial or more to the woman as the eſtates mentioned in the Act, are within this word (otherwiſe.) And note this word (otherwiſe) is not indefinite, but otherwiſe in Joynture, that is, for a Joynture, which is as much to ſay (otherwiſe) having all the effect of the incidents to a Joynture implied in the ſaid five Examples, or more: And if an eſtate for life, in tail, or fee ſimple be conveyed to the wife for her Joynture, and after the death of the husband it be evicted, ſhe ſhall recover Dower to the value in the reſidue, and ſhall have but an eſtate for life, of what eſtate ſoever the Joynture be, by an expreſs Proviſo in the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. So that upon the eviction, no greater prejudice ſhall grow to the Terre-tenant, if the Joynture be of any eſtate of inheritance, then if it were but only for term of her life. And afterwards Judgment in the principal Caſe was given againſt the Defendant. [4]

Note Reader, in the ſaid Caſe reported by the Lord Brook, it is further ſaid, That a demiſe of land to the wife by the husband by Will is no bar of Dower, for the ſame is a Benevolence and not a Joynture, per Juſticiarios, as it is there reported; and that is good Law, if it be well underſtood. And as to that ſome have ſaid, That no eſtate deviſed by Will can be a Joynture within 27 H. 8. for two reaſons.

1. By the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. all the eſtate of the feoffees was transferred to Ceſtuy que uſe, and by conſequence no land after the making of that Act was deviſable until the Statute of 32 H. 8. and therefore a deviſe of land, which then by the Law could not be made, cannot be within the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8.

The

The other reaſon was, becauſe that every Joynture intended within the Act of 27 H. 8. is made and aſſured either before, or during the coverture, as appeareth by the ſaid Act; but a deviſe takes its effect after the husbands death: But that none of theſe is any reaſon in Law appeareth by the Reſolution following, Mich. 38 & 39 Eliz. between Leak and Randal in the Court of Wards, it was reſolved by the two chief Juſtices, and the whole Court, That if a man deviſeth land to his wife for term of life generally, it cannot be averred to be for the Joynture of the wife, and in ſatisfaction of her Dower for two cauſes.

1. Becauſe a deviſe implieth a conſideration in it ſelf, and therefore as a deviſe cannot be averred to be to the uſe of another, then to the deviſee, if it be not expreſſed in the Will, no more can a deviſe be averred to be for a Joynture if it be not expreſſed in the Will. But as it is ſaid in the ſaid Caſe of 6 E. 6. it ſhall be taken for a Benevolence, and ſo is the ſaid Caſe of 6 E. 6. to be intended.

2. The whole Will concerning lands by the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. ought to be in writing and no averment ought to be taken out of the Will, which cannot be collected by the words in the Will. But if a man deviſeth lands to a woman for term of her life, or in tail, &c. for her Joynture, and in ſatisfaction of her Dower; it was reſolved that the ſame is a good Joynture within the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. for as an eſtate for life made to a woman before marriage, when ſhe is not his wife, is within the equity of the ſaid Act; So an eſtate deviſed to a woman for her life, which taketh effect preſently after his death when the marriage is diſſolved, is alſo within the equity of the ſaid Act; for ſuch eſtate well agreeth with the intent of the makers of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8 and with the ſaid deſcription of a Joynture made by the Juſtices in Vernon's Caſe. And although that the land was not deviſable till 32 H. 8. yet it is frequent in our Books, that an Act made of late times ſhall be taken within the equity of an
[b] Act made long time before. As the Statute of Marlebridge which was made 52 H. 3. gave the Wardſhip of the heir of the tenant who held by Knights ſervice, notwithſtanding feoffment made by colluſion, at which time and by 200 years and more, that is to ſay, till the Statute of 4 H. 7. c. 17. which gave the Wardſhip of the heir of Ceſtuy que uſe, the heir of Ceſtuy que uſe was not in Ward; And yet it is holden in 27 H. 8. 9. that if Ceſtuy que uſe after the Statute of 4 H. 7. make a feoffment in fee by colluſion, to defraud the Lord of his Ward, it is taken within the equity of the Statute of Marlebridge.

Alſo the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus made 13 E. 1. as to the warranty of tenant in tail with Aſſets is taken within the equity of the Statute of Glouceſter cap. 3. made anno 6 E. 1. as it is holden in 11 E. 2. garr. Stath. & 38 E. 3. 23. For Formedon in Deſcender was given in place of Mortdanceſter. So the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 25. made 13 E. 1. gave a Certificate, but gave no Adjornment, but Adjornment is taken by equity of the Statute of Magna Charta cap. 13. made 9 H. 3. as it is holden 12 E. 4. 9. So the Statute of 7 R. 2. gave Aſſiſe in confinio Comitatus, and Redisſeiſin taken by equity of the Statute of Merton cap. 3. made 20 H. 3. Vide 1 E. 3. 25. & 12 Eliz. Dier 289. The Biſhop of London being one of the high Commiſſioners by force of the Act of 1 Eliz. was tranſlated to the Biſhoprick of York, yet his authority did remain by force of the Act made 1 E. 6. cap. 7. And with this reſolution in Leak's Caſe aforeſaid, agreeth the Caſe Reported by the Lord Dier, 5 Eliz. 20. A man ſeiſed of certain land in fee holden in Socage, and of other lands in tail holden in Capite deviſed by his Will in writing the third part of all his lands to his wife in recompence of her Dower, and died; the wife entred the third part of the land in fee ſimple; And it was reſolved, that it ſhould be a good Bar of her Dower by the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. in the Court of Wards: Note Reader, a good difference; and all the opinions which ſeem to diſagree, well accorded and reconciled.

Know Reader, that by ſubtil and ſiniſter counſel an evaſion out of the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. (as was intended) was deviſed, How women might have Joyntures and Dowers alſo notwithſtanding the ſaid Act, and the meaning thereof. And the invention was ſuch; One Chriſtian who was the wife of one Richard Melles of Suffolk, had a Joynture made of a houſe and certain lands in Stoke Navlond in the County of Suffolk, to her husband and her, and the heirs of the body of the husband by one John Melles unckle of the ſaid Richard; which Richard was ſeiſed in fee of other lands in the ſame Town,
[5] and afterwards Richard died; the wife with certain of her friends in confederacy in ſecret manner entred into the ſaid tenements conveyed to her and claimed them for her Joynture, and yet waved the poſſeſſion, and brought a Writ of Dower to be endowed of the whole, as well of that which was aſſigned to her for her Joynture, as of the reſidue of her husbands lands and tenements, and had a full third part of all (accounting the land conveyed to her for her Joynture to be parcel) aſſigned to her by the Sheriff for her Dower (he not knowing the practice) only out of the reſidue: And when ſhe had her Dower, then ſhe openly entred into the houſe and land conveyed to her for her Joynture, who was holden out by Thomas Purſlowe the Terre-tenant; and afterwards ſhe married with one John Sharp, who brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt the ſaid Thomas Purſlowe, for a Treſpaſs done 10 Junii, 18 Eliz. in the houſe and land conveyed in Joynture. And Purſlowe by the advice of one of the Inner Temple pleaded the feoffment of the ſaid Richard to him and juſtified, &c. To which the Plaintiffs replied, that before Richard had any thing, that the ſaid John was ſeiſed, and gave to her husband and her ut ſupra. To which the Defendant rejoyned, that the eſtate made to Richard and Chriſtian was for the Joynture of Chriſtian, and that after the death of her husband, and before the Treſpaſs, ſhe brought a Writ of Dower againſt the Defendant then Tenant of the land whereof her husband was ſeiſed, and demanded the third part of all recovered, and had execution out of the reſidue, and averred that the ſaid houſe and land was parcel of the land conveyed to her for her Joynture, and no part of the land aſſigned to her for her Dower. To which the Plaintiffs did ſurrejoyn, that the ſaid Chriſtian after the death of her husband, and before the Writ of Dower brought, did enter into the ſaid houſe claiming the ſame for her Joynture. To which the Defendants by way of Rebutter ſaid, That to ſay that the ſaid Chriſtian after the death of her husband, and before the Writ brought, hath entred, ſhall not be admitted againſt the ſaid Record of Recovery in the Writ of Dower: Upon which the Plaintiffs did demurr in Law,

And

And it was argued by the Plaintiffs Council, that firſt, this bringing of the Writ of Dower cannot be any waver of the eſtate of the wife, becauſe that by the entry of the wife ſhe hath agreed to the ſaid eſtate, and was actually ſeiſed; and therefore ſhe cannot afterwards wave and deveſt the ſame out of her by the bringing of the ſaid Writ of Dower. To which it was anſwered by the Defendants Council, That poſito that the wife cannot wave, yet ſhe may well bar and conclude her ſelf to claim the ſaid eſtate; and in this Caſe ſhe hath eſtopped her ſelf to claim any eſtate in the houſe and land in which, &c. for when ſhe bringeth her Writ of Dower, and hath judgment to have the third part of the whole, by that ſhe affirmeth, that ſhe had not title to Dower, and by conſequence no eſtate. Ergo ſhe is eſtopped to claim in any part thereof, whereof ſhe doth demand by her Writ to be endowed.

As if the husband doth diſcontinue the wives land and dieth, and the wife bringeth a Writ of Dower againſt the diſcontinuee, and recovereth the third part, ſhe is thereby eſtopped to bring a Cui in vita, for by the Writ of Dower ſhe claimeth title of Dower only, and therefore ſhe ſhall be eſtopped to claim any other eſtate or right by her Cui in vita: Vide 10 E. 3. Double plea 8. 20 E. 3. Scire fac' 13. F. N. B. 194. 17 Aſſ. 3. Acceptance of Dower by Deed indented, concluded the wife of her right, vide 11 H. 7. 20. So if ſhe had brought a Writ of Dower to be endowed of the reſidue only, and had recovered her Dower thereof, ſhe ſhall be eſtopped to claim any eſtate in the ſaid houſe and land conveyed unto her, although ſhe hath entred before. For by the bringing of her Writ of Dower to be endowed of the reſidue, ſhe hath tacite affirmed, that ſhe hath not agreed to any Joynture made to her; for then ſhe cannot bring any Writ of Dower by the ſaid Act of 27 H. 8. And if the Law ſhall be otherwiſe, great inconvenience will follow, which by no induſtry or policy can be prevented, as appeareth before. [b]

And for theſe cauſes it was concluded, That the Plaintiffs were in any Caſe concluded to claim the ſaid houſe and land in which the Treſpaſs was ſuppoſed, &c. Quod fuit conceſſum per Sir Chriſtopher Wray Chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court. Nota, Reader, Simplicitas eſt legibus amica, & nimia ſubtilitas in jure reprobatur.

In a Replevin in the Common Pleas, Mich. 17 & 18 Eliz. Rot. 1739.

Bevil's Caſe.

BEtween Walter Parker Plaintiff, and Nicholas Frauncis Defendant, for taking of his Cattel in Tellen in the County of Cornwal, in a place called Newton; The Defendant made Conuſans as Baily to John Bevil Eſquire, by reaſon that the place where, &c. did contain 20 acres, whereof one Robert Smith was ſeiſed in fee, and held them of the ſaid John Bevil, as of his Mannor of Kalligath in the ſaid County by Knights-ſervice, viz. By Homage, Fealty, and Eſcuage, ſcil. when Eſcuage runs to 40 s. 40 s. and when more, more, and when leſs, leſs, and by ſuit of Court twice in the year, of which ſervices he was ſeiſed by the hands of the ſaid Robert Smith, as by the hands of his very Tenant, and made Conuſans for Homage: And iſſue was taken that the ſaid John Bevil, nunquam fuit ſeiſitus de præd. ſervitiis, prout the ſaid Nicholas had alledged. And the Jury gave a ſpecial verdict that the ſaid John Bevil was ſeiſed of the fealty only, &c. And if the ſeiſin of fealty were a ſufficient ſeiſin of the Services was the doubt, which the Jurors referred to the conſideration of the Court. [8]

And this Point was one of the principal Points in the Serjeants Caſe, and was argued by Popham, Rhodes, Fenner, Shute, and Gawdy Serjeants, and Windham and Anderſon the Queens Serjeants, Paſc. 21 Eliz. the Record and Pleading of which Serjeants Caſe is entred, Hill. 20 El. Rot. 1745. And this Caſe at Bar was many times argued in the time of Sir James Dier, and after his death, after many arguments at the Bar and Bench, was adjudged by Anderſon Chief Juſtice, Meade, Windham, and Periam, That the ſeiſin of fealty was ſeiſin of all the ſaid Services; and therewith agreeth 44 E. 3. 11. 8 H. 6. 16. and the reaſon was, That when the tenant doth fealty, he taketh a corporal Oath that he ſhall be faithful and loyal to the Lord, and bear faith to him for the Tenements which he claimeth to hold of him: and that he ſhall lawfully do the Cuſtoms and Services which he ought to do, ſo that the doing of this Service (by which he ſweareth to do all Services) is ſufficient ſeiſin of all. And true it is that Littleton ſaith, That Homage is the moſt honourable ſervice, and the moſt humble ſervice of reverence that a Freeholder can do to his Lord: But alſo it is true, that Fealty is a more ſacred ſervice then Homage; for that is made upon Oath, and the other not: And it is to be obſerved, that theſe words, ſcil. (To him will be faithful and loyal, and bear him faith for the Tenements which he claimeth to hold of him) are alſo parcel of the words in doing of the ſervice of Homage, and ſeiſin of any part of any ſervice is ſeiſin of the whole, as after appeareth. And that is the reaſon that the Law maketh ſo great account of the ſeiſin of theſe ſervices of Homage and Fealty; for the ſeiſin of them (becauſe it is the ſeiſin of all other ſervices) is ſo ineſtimable in Law, that no diſtreſs for them of any goods or chattels (of what value ſoever) is exceſſive in Judgment of Law; and although that the Lord often diſtrein for them, ſo that the tenant cannot till his land, yet the tenant ſhall not have Aſſiſe of Sovent diſtreſs, as he ſhall have for rent or other profits. Vide 28 Aſſ. 50. 11 H. 4. 2. 42 E. 3. 26. Br. Diſtreſs 80. And in this Caſe theſe Points were alſo reſolved.

1. That ſeiſin of ſuperior ſervices, is a ſeiſin of all inferior ſervices which are incident to it; as ſeiſin of Eſcuage is ſeiſin of Homage and Fealty, and ſeiſin of Homage is ſeiſin of Fealty, and ſeiſin of Rent is ſeiſin of Fealty where the Seigniory is by fealty and rent, vide 3 E. 2. Avowry 188. 5 E. 2. Avowry 209. 9 E. 2. Monſtrans de faits 41. 19 E. 2. Avowry 224. 7 E. 4. 28. & 29. 13 E. 3. Avowry 103. 21 E. 3. Avowry 115. 27 H. 8. 21. Paſch. 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar. in the Common Pleas it was adjudged, That where the Seigniory is by fealty and rent, that the ſeiſin of the rent is a ſeiſin of the fealty, and ſo is the Book adjudged in 29 E. 3. 21. a. and with that agreeth 3 E. 2. Avowry 188.

2. It was reſolved, That the doing of Homage is ſeiſin for all ſervices as well inferior as ſuperior, becauſe in doing of Homage he taketh upon him to do all ſervices, and therefore this ſervice is ſufficient ſeiſin of all the ſervices. And therewith agreeth 13 E. 4. 5. Seiſin of Homage is ſeiſin of Eſcuage which is ſuperior, and of Relief which is inferior, 22 Aſſ. 66. Payment of 1 d. in name of attornment of the whole, may be ſufficient ſeiſin of the whole Rent.

3. That ſeiſin of rent, or ſuit, or of other ſervice which is annual, is ſufficient ſeiſin of Eſcuage, Homage, Fealty, Guard, Relief, Heriot-ſervice, ſervice to cover the Hall of the chief Houſe or Mannor, or [9] for impailing the Lords Park, or ſuch like caſual ſervices which peradventure fall not in 40, 60, or 70 years: And therefore there is great reaſon that ſeiſin of annual ſervices ſhall be ſeiſin of all ſuch caſual ſervices; and therewith agreeth 20 E. 3. Avowry 131. that ſeiſin of rent, and other annual ſervices, is ſeiſin of releaſe and other ſervices caſual and accident. And 7 E. 6. Br. Gard 69. & Avowry 69. that it was agreed by the Juſtices of both Benches, that where the Seigniory is by Knights-ſervice and rent, that ſeiſin of the rent which is annual and inferior to all the other, is a good ſeiſin to have the Wardſhip of the heir of the tenant; and therefore the opinion of Brook there, that it ſhall not be a ſeiſin to make an Avowry is not Law: And the Caſe of the Ward is a more ſtrong Caſe. But it was ſaid, That ſeiſin of one annual ſervice is not ſeiſin of another annual ſervice; As if the Lord and tenant by fealty and 10 s. rent, and three day works by the year, ſeiſin of the rent is not ſeiſin of the day works; nor ſeiſin of rent is not ſeiſin of ſuit of Court which is annual, vide 16 Eliz. Dier 330. and the reaſon is, becauſe it ſhall be accounted the folly of the Lord, that he doth not get ſeiſin of that which is due yearly, and it ſhall be miſchievous to the tenant, for peradventure the day works were diſcharged in ancient times, which cannot now be ſhewed, upon which would follow ſuits and troubles.

But note Reader, that all this which hath been ſaid, is to be intended of ſeiſin in Law, and not of actual ſeiſin. For ſeiſin of fealty in the Caſe at Bar is no actual ſeiſin of Homage, nor of ſuit of Court, nor ſeiſin of fealty is no actual ſeiſin of rent. Vide 8 H. 7. 17. 20 E. 3. Aſſiſe 433. 40 E. 3. 22. 29 Aſſ. 6. 44 E. 3. 11. Br. Seiſin 40. But ſeiſin of any part of any ſervice, is an actual ſeiſin of the whole to have an Aſſiſe. Vide 5 E. 4. 2. b. 12 E. 4. 7. 8 E. 3. 13. a. 8 Aſſ. 4. 44 E. 3. 32. 3 E. 3. Aſſiſe 175. And as to avow, ſeiſin in Law is ſufficient, but as to have aſſiſe, actual ſeiſin is requiſite; ſo the ſeiſin which is requiſite in a Writ of Right of land, ought to be actual and not a ſeiſin in Law, as appeareth 35 E. 3. Droit 30. Litt. lib. 3. cap. Releaſes 112. agreeth thereto. If a man make a leaſe for life, or a gift in tail, yielding the firſt year a Quarter of wheat, and afterwards the yearly rent of 5 l. ſeiſin of the corn is ſeiſin of the rent as to have an Aſſiſe, for all is but one reſervation. Vide 5 E. 4. 2. 44 E. 3. 11. 15 E. 3. Exec. 63. it is ſaid, that in the ſame Caſe all is one Freehold, and ſeiſin of the one is the ſeiſin of the other to have Aſſiſe, which was affirmed to be good Law.

[b] It was alſo ſaid, That if a meſnalty become Rent-ſeck by ſurpluſage, the ancient ſeiſin is ſufficient. For the meſnalty is extinct by the act of the Lord and the tenant paravail, and the nature of the rent of the Meſne is not altered by his own act, but by the act of others. And therefore although the rent be become ſeck, yet he ſhall diſtrein for it, as is ſaid in 2 E. 2. Extinguiſhment 6. vide 31 Aſſ. 23. 26 H. 6, Extinguiſhment 7. 7 Aſſ. 2. 2 E. 3. 42. 20 E. 3. Avowry 126. vide E. 3. 26. a Preſentation to a Prebend which is after changed into a Treaſury, ſhall ſerve to maintain a Quare impedit upon diſturbance to the Treaſury. But if there be Lord and tenant by fealty and rent, and the Lord granteth over the fealty ſaving the rent; Or if a man make a gift in tail, or a leaſe for life, rendring rent, and granteth over the reverſion, excepting the rent, in theſe Caſes the nature of the rent is altered by his own act; and therefore the old ſeiſin when it was a rent-ſervice will not ſerve, when by his own act the nature of the rent is altered; and aſſiſe of any rent-ſeck he cannot have, for he was never ſeiſed of any ſuch rent; yet ſuch rent-ſeck which was once a rent-ſervice ſeemeth to be apportionable by the Book in 32 Aſſ. 10. 2 H. 4. 23. for otherwiſe the tenant may defeat the Lord of his Seigniory, and the Lord ſhall never attain the ſervices.

So in avowry for ſuit, if the Lord recovereth damages for the ſuit, it is a ſufficient ſeiſin, cauſa qua ſupra. If the Lord grant his Seigniory upon Condition, and the tenant pay the rent to the Grantee, afterwards the Condition is broken, and the Lord diſtraineth for the ſervices, upon Reſcous made he ſhall have an aſſiſe, for the ſeiſin before is ſufficient. Otherwiſe it is if a man giveth land upon Condition, and the Condition is broken, the ancient ſeiſin is not ſufficient, but he ought to enter and get a new ſeiſin: But note in the Caſe of rent, the diſtreſs is in lieu of an entry. Vide 15 E. 3. Aſſiſe 95. & 15 Aſſ. 12. quod vide Brook Seiſin 38. If the Diſſeiſee releaſeth to the Diſſeiſor upon Condition, and afterwards the Condition is broken, the Diſſeiſee ſhall have an aſſiſe for the firſt diſſeiſin, as appeareth by 17 Aſſ. 2. 17 E. 3. 2. where in an aſſiſe the tenant pleaded the releaſe of the Plaintiff, the Plaintiff pleaded a defeaſance of the releaſe upon Condition, and ſo maintained the aſſiſe, which proveth that by the performance of the Condition, and the bringing of the aſſiſe, the right which was releaſed upon the Condition was veſted in the Plaintiff, for without a right he cannot have an aſſiſe, and ſo the ancient ſeiſin is ſufficient.

If a man granteth over divers ſeveral rents, and the tenant attorneth, and giveth 1 d. in the name of ſeiſin of all the rents, it is a good ſeiſin to have an aſſiſe of all, and yet no rent was due or payable at [10] this time; and therewith agreeth 22 Aſſ. 66. And yet if there be Lord and tenant by fealty, and 20 d. rent, rent, and the Lord granteth over his Seigniory, and the tenant payeth 2 d. to the Grantee in name of ſeiſin of his rent, yet at the rent due the Lord ſhall have his whole rent of 20 d. for that the 2 d. cannot be ſaid parcel of the rent, for no rent is due or payable till the day, and yet it ſhall enure to this purpoſe, ſcil. to give ſeiſin of the rent. Vide 34 H. 6. 42. a. 37 H. 6. 38. Br. Seiſin 15. 5 E. 4. 2. 25 E. 3. 44. by Hill. 29 E. 3. 31. 22 Aſſ. 66. Littleton Chap. Attornment 127. a. b. Then it was moved, if ſeiſin of fealty in the Caſe at Bar, be ſeiſin of all the other ſervices within the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 2. by which Statute it is provided, That none ſhall have a Writ of right of the ſeiſin of his anceſtor or predeceſſor, if the ſeiſin were not within 60 years before the teſte; nor any Writ of Mortdanceſter, Aiel, Coſinage, or Writ of Entry ſur diſſeiſin, if the ſeiſin were not within 50 years before the teſte; nor any Action of his own ſeiſin or poſſeſſion, if not within 30 years; nor any Avowry, nor Conuſans for rent, ſuit, or ſervice, if ſeiſin were not within 50 years before the avowry had: In all which four branches this word (Seiſin) is ſpoken indefinitely, and therefore if the Act had not gone further, this word (Seiſin) ſhall be conſtrued according to the ſubject matter, ſometimes for actual ſeiſin, and ſometimes for ſeiſin in Law; and therefore as to the Writ of Right, Writ of Mortdanceſter, Aiel, or Aſſiſe, &c. it ſhall be intended of an actual ſeiſin, and not of ſeiſin in Law; ſo that the three firſt branches are to be intended only of an actual ſeiſin, and the fourth branch concerning Avowries extendeth to ſeiſins in Law, as well as ſeiſins in fait, or actual ſeiſins: But the words of the Act (upon which the doubt doth ariſe) go farther, ſcil. And be it farther enacted, That if any perſon or perſons ſue any of the ſaid Actions, Writs, &c. or maketh any Avowry, Conuſans, Preſcription, or claim any rent, ſuit, ſervice, or other hereditament, and cannot prove that any of his anceſtors or predeceſſors were in actual poſſeſſion, or ſeiſin of or in the ſame lands, tenements, rents, ſervices, &c. within the years limited by this Act in manner and form aforeſaid, if it be traverſed or denied by the Plaintiff, Demandant, Avowant, or by the party tenant, or defendant, that after ſuch trial had, the party and his heirs ſhall be barred of all ſuch Writs, Actions, Avowries, Conuſans, Preſcription, Title and claim for the ſame lands, tenements, and hereditaments, &c.

And it was objected, that theſe words (actual poſſeſſion or ſeiſin) exclude ſeiſin in Law, and therefore this Act hath altered the Common Law: For although that at the Common Law, ſeiſin in Law was ſufficient to make avowry, yet this Act doth allow only of actual poſſeſſion or ſeiſin; and the reaſon of [b] that as was ſaid, becauſe that actual ſeiſin is the ſure cogniſance and enſign of right: But if the ſeiſin of fealty ſhall be the ſeiſin of all the other ſervices, then will riſe contention what were the other Services (which peradventure were never done) and which cannot be known by any ſeiſin had of them. And therefore it was ſaid, that this Act by expreſs words extendeth only to actual poſſeſſion and ſeiſin, and not to relieve thoſe who for ſo long time have neglected to have actual ſeiſin of their ſervices, and eſpecially of ſuit, which ought to be twice done every year: And it was ſaid, that that was Craſſa & ſupina negligentia, which this Law did never intend to relieve: For as it is commonly ſaid, Dormientibus & non vigilantibus jura ſubveniunt.

To which it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court, That ſeiſin in Law was ſufficient ſeiſin to make Avowry within the meaning and letter of the Act alſo. For the intention of the Act was to limit time within which ſeiſin ought to be had, and not to exclude any ſeiſin which was a lawful ſeiſin by the Common Law; and that appeareth by the Preamble, for there it is ſaid, For as much as the time of limitation, &c. extend, and be ſo far, and ſo long time paſt, that it is above the remembrance of any living man, &c. Alſo the former Acts of limitation, ſcil. Weſt. 1. cap. 38. Weſt. 2. cap. 2. & 46. do not exclude any manner of ſeiſin which was ſufficient at the Common Law. Alſo it is not againſt the letter of the Act, for the three firſt branches extend to actual ſeiſin, and the fourth extendeth as well to actual ſeiſin as to ſeiſin in Law: Then the ſaid words of the Act, ſcil. actual poſſeſſion, or ſeiſin in the disjunctive, maketh diſtinction between actual poſſeſſion which referreth to the three firſt branches, and a ſeiſin, be it actual or in Law, which referreth to the fourth, ſo that actual is coupled with poſſeſſion, and ſeiſin is disjoyned by this word (or) and ſtands of it ſelf indefinitely, and ſo much the rather, becauſe the words ſubſequent are, and in manner and form as is aforeſaid, which words infer actual poſſeſſion or ſeiſin to the ſaid four branches precedent, ſo that reddendo ſingula ſingulis, all ſtands well together.

2. It was reſolved, That the ſaid Act doth not extend to ſuch rent or ſervice which by common poſſibility cannot happen or become due within 50 years: As if a Seigniory conſiſt upon homage and fealty only, for the tenant may live above 60 years after they are done; ſo if the ſervice be to cover the Lords Hall, or to go with him when there ſhall be Wars between the King and his Enemies, ſuch caſual ſervices which by common poſſibility cannot happen within 60 years are not within this Act. The ſame Law of a Formedon in Deſcender, for the tenant in tail may live 60 years after a diſcontinuance, and al- [11] though that de facto he die within the time, ſo that his iſſue cannot bring his Formedon within the time, yet the iſſue may bring it any time, for by common poſſibility the Writ of Formedon in the Deſcender was not within the Statute, as it is adjudged in Fitz William's Caſe, M. 10 & 11 Eliz. which Caſe is reported by the Lord Dyer fol. 278. Alſo there it is ſaid, That the ſeiſin of the Donee was not traverſable: The ſame Law of homage and fealty, and other ſuch accidental ſervices, although they come due within time limited by this Act, and by lacheſs of the Lord no ſeiſin is had of them, yet he may diſtrain for them when he will, for they are not within the purview of the Act: The ſame Law, if the Lord releaſe to the tenant as long as J. S. hath heir of his body, and 60 years paſs, and afterwards J. S. dieth without heir of his body; in this Caſe although the 60 years paſs, yet he may diſtrain, for it was impoſſible that he ſhould attain to any ſeiſin before that time, & impotentia excuſat legem. And a man may hold by homage and fealty, and they ſhall never be done by him. As if lands holden by homage and fealty be conveyed to Mayor and Communalty, or other Corporation aggregate of many, in this Caſe they hold by homage and fealty, but they cannot do them. And therefore although they have enjoyed the land above 60 years, yet if they alien the land, the Lord may diſtrain for the homage and fealty, vide 33 H. 8. Br. Fealty 15. And it was agreed, that the Writ of Eſcheat, Ceſſavit, or Writ of Reſcous are not within this Act, for in theſe Writs the ſeiſin is not traverſable, but the tenure.

Alſo in Writs of Eſcheat and Ceſſavit they demand the land, and cannot alledge any ſeiſin in the ſame lands, &c. as the Statute ſpeaketh; and therefore theſe Writs are not within the Statute, for the Act extendeth only to ſuch Writ where the demandant or his anceſtors may have ſeiſin of the land in demand within the time of limitation preſcribed by the Act, and the Statute doth not compel them to any impoſſibility. And it is agreed in 21 H. 6. 22. a. that in a Writ of Eſcheat or Ceſſavit, the demandant ſhall not alledge Explees, and the reaſon is becauſe he claimeth the land by reaſon of his Seigniory, and not by any ſeiſin of the land in him, or any of his anceſtors. So note, that although the Lord was not ſeiſed of the ſervices within the time of limitation, yet if the tenant dieth without heir, the land ſhall Eſcheat, for at the time of the Eſcheat the Seigniory remained, although there wanted ſeiſin; and in the ſame Caſe, if the tenant ceaſeth for two years, and the land be not open and ſufficient
[b] to his diſtreſs, the Lord ſhall have a Ceſſavit although he wanteth ſeiſin of the ſervices, for in Ceſſavit ſeſin is not traverſable, 8 E. 3. 46. F. N. B. 209. 10 & 11 Eliz. Dier 274. And although the Lord was never ſeiſed, yet becauſe the Seigniory doth remain, if he diſtrain, the tenant ought not to do Reſcous, as ſome opinions are in 40 Eliz. 3. 33. 6 R. 2. Reſcous 10. 22 H. 6. 2. 6 E. 4. 11. 7 E. 4. 20.

But it was reſolved, That if nothing be behind, and the Lord diſtraineth, the tenant may do Reſcous; Or if he often diſtrain, ſo that he cannot manure his land, he may have an Aſſiſe of ſovent diſtreſs; and in ſuch Caſe the tenant may make Reſcous as divers Judgments have been given. Vide 2 H. 4. 21. 8 H. 4. 1. 4 E. 6. Diſtreſs 75. by the Juſtices. Vide 31 E. 3. Reſcous 17. 39 E. 3. 45. 39 H. 6. 7. F. N. B. 102. e. 27 Aſſ. 51. 28 Aſſ. 20.

Note Reader, a great doubt in our Books well reſolved; But for wrongful diſtreſs where nothing is arrere, the tenant ſhall not have an Action of Treſpaſs, Quare vi & armis againſt the Lord, for that is prohibited by the Statute of Marlebridge cap. 3. non ideo puniatur Dominus per redemptionem. And if Lord and tenant are by fealty and 2 s. rent, and the Lord by encroachment, ſcil. by voluntary payment of the tenant had ſeiſin of more then he ought to have, the Law ſo greatly favoureth ſeiſins and poſſeſſions, that he ſhall not avoid this ſeiſin had by encroachment in avowry, if it be not in the Caſe of the ſucceſſor, as 4 E. 2. Avowry 204. is agreed; and in Caſe of the iſſue in tail, as is holden in 20 E. 3. Avowry 131. But ſeiſin by encroachment ſhall be avoided in an Aſſiſe, and Ceſſavit. Vide 22 Aſſ. 68. 22 E. 3. 18. 28 Aſſ. 33. 12 E. 4. 7. 10 H. 7. 11. 10 H. 6. 3. the ſame Law in Treſpaſs. Alſo if he diſtrain, ſcil. for rent behind and encroachment alſo, for the whole rent behind, the tenant may tender that which is due of right, and may do Reſcous if the Lord will not accept it, vide 12 E. 4. 7. 5 E. 4. 62. & 87. and ſhall not be driven to a Ne injuſte vexes, or Contra formam feoffamenti, as his Caſe is, but it ſhall be avoided in an Action brought by the Lord for the Reſcous, or in Treſpaſs brought by himſelf for the diſtreſs for the ſumme which was encroached, and which of right was not due. But if the Lord encroach more by coherſion of diſtreſs then he ought to have (although the coherſion be to his goods) yet he ſhall avoid ſuch ſeiſin in avowry. Vide 10 E. 3. 26. 22 E. 4. 7. Long. 5 E. 4. 87. 20 E. 4. 17. 8 H. 6. 18. 30 H. 6. 5. e. 10 H. 7. 11. Plow. Comm. 94. in Woodland's Caſe.

Thirdly, It was reſolved, That although a man hath been out of poſſeſſion for 60 years, yet if his entry be not taken away he may well enter, and bring his Action of his own poſſeſſion, for the firſt clauſe [12] doth not bar any right, but prohibiteth that no perſon ſue, have, or maintain any Writ of right, or make any preſcription, title, or claim, for any lands, tenements, rents, commons, &c. of the poſſeſſion of his anceſtor or predeceſſor, but only of the ſeiſin of ſome of his anceſtors within 60 years: But if his entry be lawful, and he enter, he may have an Action of his own poſſeſſion; and the firſt and ſecond clauſes extend only to ſeiſin Anceſtrel, and not to a Writ of right brought of his own ſeiſin. And the third branch extendeth only to actions of his own poſſeſſion, and not to entries; the fourth to Avowries, and the fifth to Formedon and other actions there mentioned.

Note Reader, ſo much as it appeareth by theſe Reſolutions, that the ſervices of Homage and Fealty are not within the Act of 32 H. 8. and that ſeiſin of rent, or other annual ſervices is ſeiſin of Homage and Fealty; and that ſeiſin of Homage or Fealty is ſeiſin of all ſervices annual, or not annual; and thence it followeth, that when the tenant hath done Homage or Fealty (which the Lord may enforce him to do) it ſhall be ſeiſin of all other ſervices as to make avowry, which of right ought to be done, although the Lord nor any by whom he claimeth ought to have ſeiſin within 60 years.

Trin. 20 Eliz. Rot. 20. in the Kings Bench. Actiones de Scandalis; Or, Actions for Slander.

The Lord Cromwel's Caſe.

HEnry Lord Cromwel brought an Action de Scandalis magnatum againſt Edmund Denny Vicar of Northlingham in the County of Norfolk, tam pro Dom. Regina, quam pro ſeipſo; and declared upon the Statute of 2 R. 2. cap. 5. That if any contrive, aliqua falſa nova, horribilia & falſa nuncia de Prælatis, Ducibus, Comitibus, & aliis Proceribus & Magnatibus Angliæ, &c. by which debate may ariſe betwixt the Lords and Commons (which God forbid) by which danger, miſchief, and deſtruction may happen to the whole Realm, &c. and quicunque contra fecerit ſhall incur the penalty of the Statute of Weſt. 1. c. 33. And the Defendant was charged that he ſaid to the Plaintiff, then a Baron of the Realm, It is no marvel that you like not of me, for you like of thoſe that maintain Sedition againſt the Queens proceedings. The Defendant juſtified the words, upon which the Plaintiff did demur; and the bar was holden inſufficient. And Trinit. 23 Eliz. in arreſt of Judgment it was moved by the Defendants Council, that the Declaration was inſufficient, becauſe the ſaid Act of 2 R. 2. was miſrecited; for the words of the Act are, Si aſcun (controv' aſcun faux novelles, horribiles & faux meſſoinges) which word (meſſoinges) he who tranſlateth the Statutes in Engliſh, hath tranſlated (meſſages) which was the cauſe that he who drew the Declaration, inſerted the ſaid word (nuncia) where it ſhould be mendacia. 2. The ſaid Act ſaith, Et quicunque le fra incurgera, &c. And the Plaintiff in his Declaration ſaith, Quicunque contra fecerit, which is as much as to ſay, que ceſtuy que ne fra; But againſt that it was objected, That the Act was a private Act concerning only the Prelates, Nobles, and certain great Officers, whereof the Court ſhall not take notice ex officio; and therefore the Court ſhall take the Act, as the party hath alledged it: But it was reſolved by Wray Chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy and the whole Court, that it was ſuch an Act, whereof the Judges ought to take notice: and ſo much the rather becauſe that the ſame by a mean doth concern the King himſelf. [a] [13]

1. For as much as it toucheth the Prelates, Nobles, and great Officers, which are the King's Council, and of eminent qualities, and ſerve him in ſo high and honourable Offices which they have under the King, and by his Royal authority have the adminiſtration of Juſtice to his Subjects; by which appeareth that the ſlandring of them principally concerneth the King himſelf in his Government.

2. In as much as the Statute ſaith, That danger, miſchief, and deſtruction may happen to the whole Realm, &c. that alſo doth concern the King, for he is the Head of the Realm; and theſe are the cauſes that all ſuch Actions de Scandalis magnatum have been brought upon the ſaid Statute, tam pro Domino Rege, quam pro ſeipſo, and of all Statutes which concern the King, the Judges ought to take notice of them.

Alſo it ws reſolved, That if the Act were a private Act, and that the Court ought to accept of it to be ſuch as is alledged; Then the ſaid Act was againſt the Law, and reaſon, and therefore void: For as the ſame is alledged, thoſe who offend not ſhall be puniſhed; and that were condemnare inſontem & dimittere reum: for which cauſe Judgment was given againſt the Plaintiff, quod nihil capiat per billam. And afterwards the Plaintiff brought a new Action, and amended the faults of the Declaration: And then the Court was moved that the ſaid words were not Actionable, becauſe it might well be that the Plaintiff did conceive liking of ſome perſons which maintain Sedition againſt the Queens proceedings, and yet he did not know that they do maintain Sedition. And it was ſaid, That ſenſus verborum eſt duplex, ſcil. mitis & aſper; & verba ſemper accipienda ſunt in mitiore ſenſu. To which it was ſaid, that Sedition is a publick thing. Et dicitur ſeditio quaſi, the going together of a great people quando itur ad manus, which is notably deſcribed by the Poet:

Virgil. Æneidos 1.

Ac veluti magno in populo cum ſæpe coorta eſt
Seditio, ſævitque animis ignobile vulgus,
Jamque faces atque arma volant, furor arma miniſtrat.

By which Sedition (being ſo publick and violent) it was ſaid that by common intendment the Plaintiff had notice of it; and it is not like felony or murder which may be ſecret, and done covertly. But as to that the Judges did not deliver any opinion, for they ſaid, that upon argument and conſideration they might alter their opinion which they now conceived, which ſhould be dangerous to the party; and therefore they ſaid to the Defendants Council, Be well adviſed, and plead, or demur at your perils, for which cauſe they pleaded a ſpecial juſtification (well knowing that the other matter ſhould be ſaved to them) and the effect of the juſtification was, That the Defendant was Vicar of Northlingham, which was a Benefice with Cure, and that the Plaintiff procured one J. T. and J. G. to preach ſeverally in the Church of Northlingham, who in their Sermons did inveigh againſt the Book of Common-Prayer, which was eſtabliſhed by the Queen and Parliament in the firſt year of her Reign, and affirmed the ſame to be ſuperſtitious and impious, &c. upon which the Plaintiff and Defendant ſpeaking in the ſaid, Church of theſe Sermons, becauſe the Vicar knew they were not licenced nor had authority to preach; when they were ready to preach, before their Sermons forbad them, but they being encouraged by the Plaintiff did proceed; The Plaintiff ſaid to the Defendant, Thou art a falſe varlet, and I [b] like not of thee; To which the Vicar ſaid, It is no marvel that you like not of me, for you like of theſe, innuendo J. T. and J. G. that maintain Sedition (innuendo ſeditioſam illam doctrinam) againſt the Queens proceedings: And it was moved by the Plaintiffs Council, that this barre was inſufficient for divers cauſes.

like

1. The matter of juſtification was inſufficient, becauſe (as hath been ſaid) Sedition cannot be committed by words, but by publick and violent action.

2. If the matter of juſtification were ſufficient, then upon the Dialogue between the Plaintiff and Defendant, the Defendant is not guilty: But it was ſaid, that ſuch juſtification Dialogue-wiſe had not been ſeen before; but if the truth of the Cauſe were ſuch, he ought to plead Not Guilty, and give the ſpecial matter in evidence. But if he will juſtifie, he ought to juſtifie the words in ſuch ſence as they import upon the matter alledged in the Declaration. As if a man bring an Action upon the Caſe for calling a man Murderer; The Defendant will ſay, that he ſpake with the Plaintiff concerning unlawful hunting, and the Plaintiff confeſſed that he killed Hares with unlawful Engines; to which the Defendant anſwereth and ſaith, Thou art a murtherer (innuendo the killing of the ſaid Hares) it is not any juſtification, for he doth not juſtifie the ſence of the words which the Declaration doth import, and therefore he ought to plead Not Guilty: But to that it was anſwered by the Defendants Council, and reſolved by the whole Court, that the juſtification was good. For in Caſe of ſlander by words, the ſence of the words ought to be taken, and the ſence of them appeareth by the cauſe and occaſion of ſpeaking of [14] them. For ſenſus verborum ex cauſa dicendi accipiendus eſt, & ſermones ſemper accipiendi ſunt ſecundum ſubjectam materiam. Then in this Caſe the Defendants Council have well ſhewn the ſpecial matter by which the ſence of this word (Sedition) appeareth upon the coherence of all the words, what was the intent of the Defendant; The ſaid ſeditious doctrine againſt the Queens proceedings, ſcil. the ſaid Act of Parliament of primo, by which the Book of Common Prayer was eſtabliſhed, and that he did not intend any ſuch publick or violent Sedition as hath been deſcribed, and as ex vi termini per ſe the word it ſelf importeth; And it was ſaid, God forbid the words of one ſhall be by ſuch ſtrict and Grammatical conſtruction taken by parcels againſt the manifeſt intent of the party upon conſideration of all the words, which import the true cauſe and occaſion which manifeſt the true ſenſe of them; Quia quæ ad unum finem loquuta ſunt, non debent ad alium detorqueri: And therefore in the ſaid Caſe of Murder, the Court held the ſatisfaction good; and that the Defendant ſhall never be put to the general iſſue, when he confeſſeth the words and juſtifieth them, or confeſſeth the words, and by ſpecial matter ſheweth that they are not Actionable. And although he varieth from the Plaintiff in the ſence and quality of the words, yet it is not a cauſe to drive him to the general iſſue: As in maintenance the Plaintiff chargeth the Defendant with unlawful maintenance, the Defendant may juſtifie by reaſon of a lawful maintenance, and cannot plead the general iſſue. For which cauſe the Plaintiff replied and ſaid, Quod præd' Edwardus Denny dixit & propalavit prædicta verba, &c. de injuria ſua propria abſque tali cauſa, and thereupon iſſue was joyned; and afterwards the parties agreed: And that was the firſt cauſe that the Author of this Book (who was of Council with the Defendant) moved in the Kings Bench.

In this Caſe, Reader, you may obſerve an excellent Point of Learning in Actions of Slander, to obſerve the occaſion and cauſe of the ſpeech, and how the ſame may be plead in excuſe of the Defendant.

2. When the matter in fact will clearly ſerve for your Client, although your opinion be that the Plaintiff hath no cauſe of Action, yet take heed you do not hazard the matter upon a demurrer; in which upon the pleading otherwiſe more perhaps will ariſe then you thought of; but firſt take advantage to the matters of fact, and leave the matters in Law, which always ariſe upon the matters in fact, to the laſt, and never at firſt demur in Law, when after trial of the matters in fact, the matters in Law ſhall be ſaved to you.

[b] 2. Mich. 27 & 28 Eliz. in the Kings Bench it was adjudged, between Cutler and Dixon, That if one exhibit Articles to Juſtices of Peace againſt a perſon certain, containing divers great abuſes and miſdemeanors, not only concerning the Petitioners themſelves, but many others, and all to the intent that he might be bounden to the good behaviour: In this Caſe the party accuſed ſhall not have for any matter contained in the Articles any Action upon the Caſe, for they have purſued the ordinary courſe of Juſtice in ſuch Caſe: And if Actions ſhall be permitted in ſuch Caſe, thoſe who have juſt cauſe of complaint, will not dare to complain for fear of infinite vexation.

3. Mich. 33 & 34 El. in the Kings Bench, between Sir Rich. Buckley Plaintiff, and Owen Wood Defendant, the Caſe was, that Ow. Wood exhibited a Bill in the Star-Chamber againſt Sir R. Buckley, and charged him with divers matters examinable in the ſame Court; and further, that he was a maintainer of Pirats and Murderers, and a procurer of Murders and Piracies, which offences were not determinable in the Star-Chamber: Sir Richard Buckley brought an Action upon the Caſe againſt Owen Wood, and counted, that the ſaid Owen had exhibited the ſaid Bill, containing (inter alia) that the ſaid Sir Richard was a maintainer of Pirats and Murderers, and a procurer of Murders and Piracies, and that the ſaid Owen at B. in the County of Shrewsbury, ſpeaking of the matters contained in the ſaid Bill, ſaid in the hearing of many, That the ſaid Bill, and matters therein contained were true: The Defendant confeſſed the exhibiting of the Bill in the Star-Chamber, and that in the ſaid Court at Weſtminſter he ſaid the ſaid words; without that, that he ſpake the words in the County of Shrewsbury, before or after the day mentioned in the Declaration, by which he excluded the day it ſelf and anſwered not to it, for which cauſe the Bar was holden inſufficient by the whole Court. And it was reſolved by the whole Court, That for any matter in the Bill that was examinable in the ſame Court, no Action lieth, although the matter be meer falſe, becauſe it was in courſe of Juſtice. And therewith agreeth the opinion of Dier, 11 Eliz. Dier 285. and the Judgment in Cutler and Dixon's Caſe before.

be

2. It was reſolved and adjudged, that for the ſaid words not examinable in the ſaid Court, an Action upon the Caſe did lie, for that cannot be in courſe of Juſtice; for the Court hath no power or juriſdiction to do that which appertaineth to Juſtice, nor to puniſh the ſaid offences, and if ſuch matters may be inſerted in Bills exhibited in ſo high and honourable a Court, in ſlander of the parties, and they cannot anſwer to the ſame to clear themſelves, nor have their Action as well to clear themſelves, as to recover [15] damages for the great injury and wrong done them, great inconvenience would follow; but the ſaid Libel without any remedy given them ſhould remain always on Record, to their great ſhame and infamy, which ſhould be full of inconvenience. Alſo by the Law no Murder, nor Piracy can be tried by any Bill exhibited in Engliſh, but the offender ought to be indicted thereof, and thereupon to have his trial; and therefore he who preferred this Bill hath not only miſtaken the proper Court, but the manner and nature of exhibiting of the ſaid Bill (as to the ſaid clauſes) hath not any appearance of an ordinary ſuit in courſe of Juſtice: But if a man bring an appeal of murder, returnable in the Common Pleas, no Action lieth; for although the Writ be not returnable before competent Judges who can do juſtice, yet it is in the nature of a lawful ſuit, namely, by Writ of Appeal. And afterwards Judgment was given for the Plaintiff.

And ſo in the like Caſe, Trinit. 21 Eliz. Rot. 561. between Bowes and Standen, it was reſolved by the whole Court of Kings Bench in the like Caſe upon a Bill preferred in the Star-Chamber; but the parties agreed and no Judgment was entred. And upon the ſaid Judgment Owen Wood brought a Writ of Error in the Exchequer-Chamber; and there it was reſolved that upon the ſaid matter Sir Richard Buckley might have had a good Action. But in this Caſe, he hath not alledged the matter in ſufficient manner, for the Action was not grounded upon the Bill exhibited at Weſtminſter, but becauſe he ſaid in the County of Shrewsbury in auditu quamplurimorum, that his Bill was true without expreſſing the ſaid matters in particular contained in the Bill upon which the Action was intended to be grounded, ſo that thoſe who heard only the ſaid words, That his Bill was true, cannot without ſaying more, know the ſaid clauſes that were ſlanderous to the Plaintiff; and for this cauſe the Judgment was reverſed.

4. Paſch. 27 Eliz. between Edward Stanhop Eſquire Plaintiff, and Blith Defendant in the Kings Bench. The Plaintiff reciting in his Declaration, That whereas he was a Juſtice of Peace, Surveyor of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, and had divers other Offices; The Defendant ſaid of him, M. Stanhop hath but one Mannor, and that he gotten by ſwearing and forſwearing: And it was adjudged that the ſaid words were not actionable. 1. Becauſe they were too general; and words which ſhall charge any one with [16] an action, in which damages ſhall be recovered, ought to have convenient certainty. 2. The Defendant doth not charge the Plaintiff with ſwearing, or forſwearing; for he may recover or get a Mannor by ſwearing and forſwearing, and yet he was not procuring or aſſenting thereto; and words which maintain an action upon the Caſe ought to be directly applied to the Plaintiff, for the damages ought to be given to the Plaintiff, in regard of the damage which he hath by the ſcandal. 3. If one charge another that he hath forſworn himſelf, the ſame is not actionable for two cauſes:

1. Becauſe he may be forſworn in uſual communication, Quia benignior ſenſus in verbis generalibus ſeu dubiis eſt præferendus.

2. It is an uſual word of paſſion and choler for one to ſay, That another hath forſworn himſelf; As if one ſay of another, that he is a Villain, or a Rogue, or a Varlet, or the like, theſe or the like will not maintain an action, for boni Judicis eſt lites dirimere: But if one ſaith of another, that he is perjured, or that he hath forſworn himſelf in a Court of Record, for ſuch words an action ſhall be maintained; for by theſe words it appeareth that he hath forſworn himſelf in a Judicial proceeding; Sed hæc ita in promptu ſunt, ut res probatione non egeant. For all theſe Caſes have been often adjudged. And Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, That although ſlanders and falſe imputations are to be repreſſed, becauſe that many times a verbis ad verbera perventum eſt: yet he ſaid, that the Judges have reſolved, that actions for ſcandals ſhall not be maintained by any ſtrained conſtruction or argument, nor any favour given for ſupportation of them, for as much as in theſe days they more abound then in times paſt, and the intemperance and malice of men increaſeth; Et malitiis hominum eſt obviandum: And in our Books actions upon the Caſe for ſlanders are moſt rare or ſeldom, and ſuch which are brought, are for words of eminent ſlander, and of great import.

5. IN the ſame Term in the Kings Bench, between Hext and Yeomans. Yeomans charged Hext being a Juſtice of Peace; For my ground in Allerton, Hext ſeeketh my life, and if I could find John Silver, I do not doubt but within two days to arreſt Hext for ſuſpition of felony: And it was adjudged, that for the firſt part of the words, That for my ground in Allerton, Hext ſeeks my life, no action lay, for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe he may ſeek his life lawfully upon juſt cauſe, and his land may be holden of him, and ſo in mitiore ſenſu. 2. Seeking of his life is too general, and for ſeeking only no puniſhment is inflicted by the Law: But for the latter words it was adjudged, that the action lay, becauſe that for ſuſpition of felony he ſhall be impriſoned, and his life drawn in queſtion.

6. Mich. 27 & 28 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Birchley's Caſe. Birchley being one of the Attorneys [16] or Clerks of the Kings Bench, and ſworn to deal duly without corruption in his Office: the Defendant upon ſpeech of the manner of Birchley's dealing in his profeſſion, ſaid to Birchley, You are well known to be a corrupt man, and to deal corruptly. 1. It was reſolved that the ſaid words ex cauſa dicendi implyeth that Birchley hath dealt corruptly in his profeſſion: Alſo it was ſaid, Quod ſermo relatus ad perſonam intelligi debet de conditione perſonæ. And the Plaintiff had Judgment for two causes: 1. Because the said scandal touched the Plaintiff in his oath only. 2. The said words scandalize him in the duty of his Profession by which he getteth his living. Skinner a Merchant of London said of Manwood Chief Baron, That he was a corrupt Judge; and it was adjudged that the words were actionable, Vide 4 E. 6. Br. Action sur le Case 112. But it was resolved in the principal Case, That if the precedent speech had been, that Birchley was an Usurer, or that he was anothers Executor, and would not perform the Will, &c. and thereupon the Defendant had spoken the said words, then no action shall be maintenable for them, which agreeth with the Resolution in the Lord Cromwel's Case.

two

7. Mich. 44 & 45 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Stucley and Ballard. Stucley Justice of Peace in the County of Devon, brought an action upon the Case against Ballard for these words; M. Stucley covereth and hideth felonies, and is not worthy to be a Justice of Peace; And adjudged, that the action did lie, for it is against his Oath and the Office of a Justice of Peace, and a good cause to put him out of the Commission, and thereof he may be indicted and fined.

8. Hill. 37 Eliz. between Weaver Plaintiff, and Cariden Defendant. The Defendant said, That the Plaintiff was detected for perjury in the Star-Chamber; and adjudged, that no action lay: For a perjured man may be detected, but not convicted; and every one who hath a Bill of Perjury exhibited against him is detected.

9. Hill. 39 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Robert Snag Esquire Plaintiff, and Gee Attorney of the same Court Defendant. The Plaintiff sheweth in his Declaration, That the Defendant hath a wife yet living. And that the Defendant said of the Plaintiff, Thou hast killed my wife, thou art a Traytor. And as to these words, Thou hast killed my wife, the Defendant did demur in Law; and it was adjudged, that no action lay; and the difference taken when the wife was living (as in this Case it appeareth she was) and when she was dead. For when she is alive no action lieth, although the Defendant saith, That the Plaintiff hath murdered her; for then it appearth that no murder could be of her, nor the Defendant in any jeopardy, and so the words vain, and no scandal or damage to the Plaintiff.

[b] 10. Trin. 40 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Eaton Plaintiff, and Allen Defendant. The Defendant said of the Plaintiff, He is a brabler and a quarreller, for he gave his Champion counsel to make a deed of gift of his goods to kill me, and then to flie out of the Country, but God preserved me. And it was strongly urged that the Action should be maintenable, and divers Cases cited; one of the Lady Cockein, M. 32 & 33 Eliz. in the Kings Bench for these words, My Lady Cockein offered to give poyson to one to kill the child in her body. Another between Tibots and Heine in Gloucester for these words, Tibots and another did agree to hire one to kill S. B. Also Cardinals Case for these words, If I had consented to M. Cardinal, T. H. had not been alive: And the Lord Lumley's Case, My Lord Lumley hath gone about to take away my life against all Christian dealing. But upon great consideration and advisement it was adjudged that in the principal Case the words were not actionable; for the purpose or intent of a man without act is not punishable by Law. Et ubi non est lex, ibi non est transgressio quoad mundum. And although for such conspiracy he might be punished in the Star-Chamber, the same is by the absolute power of the Court, and not by the ordinary course of Law. Note well this Case, and the cause and reason of this Judgment.

11. Trinit. 35 Eliz. between Anne Davies Plaintiff, and John Gardiner Defendant: The Plaintiff declared, That she was a Virgin of good fame, &c. and free from all suspicion of incontinency, &c. And where Anthony Elcock Citizen and Mercer of London, of the wealth and value of 3000 l. desired her for his wife, and thereof had speech with John Davies father of the said Anne, and was ready to conclude it, the Defendant (præmissarum non ignarus) to defame the said Anne, and to distast the said Anthony to proceed, uttered and published of the said Anne these words; I know Davies daughter well (innuendo præd. Annam) she dwelt in Cheapside, and there was a Grocer that did get her with child (and the Defendant being there then admonished that he should be advised what he said de præfat. Anna) alterius de eadem dixit; I know very well what I say, I know her father, and mother, and sister, and she is the youngest sister, and had the child by the Grocer: By reason of which words the Plaintiff was greatly defamed, & ratione inde dict. Anthonius ipsam Annam in uxor. ducere penitus recusabat; and the Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty, and by Nisi prius in the County of Buck. the Jurors found for the Plaintiff, and assessed damages to 200 Marks. And it was moved in arrest of Judgment by the Defendants Council, That the said defamation of incontiency did concern the Spiritual, and not the Temporal Jurisdiction: And therefore as the offence shall be punished in the Spiritual Court, so her remedy for defa-
[17] mation shall be there also; for Cognitio causæ non spectat ad forum Regium: So if a man be called Bastard, or Heretick, or Miscreant, or Adulterer, for as much as these do belong to the Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction, no Action lieth at the Common Law; and in proof thereof 12 H. 7. 22. & 27 H. 8. 14. were cited. But it was answered by the Plaintiffs Council, and resolved by the whole Court, that the Action was maintenable for two Causes:

[21] 1. Because that if the woman hath a bastard, she shall be punished by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 3. And although that Fornication and Adultery is not examinable by our Law, because they are done in secret, and peradventure are uncomely to be openly examined, yet the having of a bastard is a thing apparent and punishable by the said Act.

2. It was resolved, If the Defendant had charged the Plaintiff with bare incontinency, yet the Action should be maintenable: For in this Case the ground of the Action is Temporal, scil. that she was to be advanced in marriage, and that she was defeated thereof; and the mean by which she

ſhe was defeated was the ſaid Slander, which mean tending to ſuch end ſhall be triable at the Common Law.

So if a Divine is to be preſented to a Benefice, and one to defeat him thereof, ſaith to the Patron, That he is an Heretick, or a Baſtard, or that he is Excommunicated, by which the Patron refuſeth for to preſent him (as he well might if the Imputations were true) and he loſe his preferment, he ſhall have his Action upon the Caſe for theſe ſlanders tending to ſuch end. And if a woman be bound that ſhe ſhall live continent and caſt; or if a leaſe be made to her quamdiu caſta vixerit, in theſe Caſes incontinency ſhall be tried by the Common Law.

And Popham Chief Juſtice ſaid, That if one ſaid of an Inholders wife, that ſhe hath a great infectious Diſeaſe, by which ſhe loſeth her Gueſts, ſhe ſhall have an Action upon the Caſe. Trin. 25 Eliz. between Baniſter and Baniſter, it was reſoved, That where the Defendant ſaid of the Plaintiff (being ſon and heir to his father) that he was a Baſtard, that an Action upon the Caſe did lie; for it tendeth to his diſenheriſon of the land which is to deſcend to him from his father: But there it was reſolved, That if the Defendant pretend that the Plaintiff was a Baſtard, and that he himſelf was the next heir, there no Action lieth. And that the Defendant may ſhew by way of bar, if the Plaintiff omit it in his Declaration; which agreeth with the Reſolution in Anne Davie's Caſe, and with the Lord Cromwel's Caſe.

12. Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between John Jeames Plaintiff, and Alexander Rutlech Defendant; The Plaintiff declared, That the Defendant and one John Bonner having conference of the Plaintiff, the Defendant ſaid of the Plaintiff to the ſaid John Bonner theſe words, Hang him (prædictum Johannem Jeames innuendo) he is full of the Pox (innuendo) the French Pox, I marvel that you (præd. Johannem Bonner innuendo) will eat or drink with him, (prædictum Johannem Jeames innuendo) I will prove that he is full of the Pox (innuendo) the French Pox. The Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty, and it was found for the Plaintiff, and damages aſſeſſed. And it was moved in arreſt of Judgment, that the words were not Actionable: And it was reſolved, that in every Action upon the Caſe for ſlanderous words, two things were requiſite. [b]

1. That the perſon who is ſcandalized be certain.

2. That the ſcandal be apparent by the words themſelves; And therefore if one ſaith, without any precedent communication, that one of the ſervants of J. S. (he having many) is a notorious Felon, or Traytor, &c. here for the incertainty of the perſon no Action lieth; and an innuendo cannot make it certain. So if one ſay generally, I know one near J. S. that is a notorious Thief, or the like; But when the perſon is one certainly named: As if two ſpeaking together of J. S. one ſaith of him, He is a notorious Thief, there J. S. in his Declaration may ſhew that there was ſpeech of him between them two, and that one of them ſaid of him, He (innuendo prædict. J. S.) is a notorious Thief. For the office of an innuendo is to contain and deſign the ſame perſon who was named incertain before, and in effect ſtands in place of prædict', but an innuendo cannot make a perſon certain who was incertain before. For it ſhall be inconvenient, that Actions ſhall be maintained by imagination of an intent which doth not appear by the words upon which the Action is grounded, but is altogether incertain and ſubject to deceivable conjecture: But if one ſaith of J. S. Thou art a Traytor, &c. there conſtat de perſona, and the Action lieth: So in the Caſe at Bar, when the Defendant and Bonner had ſpeech of the Plaintiff, Then, when the Defendant ſaith, Hang him, there innuendo will denote the ſame perſon named before.

As to the ſecond, as an innuendo cannot make the perſon certain which was incertain before, ſo an innuendo cannot alter the matter or words themſelves: And therefore when the Defendant in the Caſe at Bar ſaith of the Plaintiff, That he was full of the Pox, (innuendo) the French Pox, this innuendo doth not do his proper office, for it doth contend to extend the general words, the Pox, to the French Pox by imagination of an intent which is not apparent by any precedent words to which the innuendo referreth. And the words themſelves ſhall be taken in mitiori ſenſu.

13. Trinit. 41 Eliz. between Oxford and his wife Plaintiff, and Croſs Defendant; The Plaintiffs brought an Action in London, becauſe the Defendant called the Plaintiffs wife Whore; and the Defendant removed the ſame into the Kings Bench by Habeas Corpus, and it was moved to have a Procedendo to remand it, becauſe the Action was maintenable in London for the ſaid words, and not at the Common Law. And the Procedendo was denied by the whole Court. And ſuch Cuſtom to maintain Actions for ſuch brabling words is againſt Law. Licet conſuetudo ſit magnæ authoritatis, nunquam tamen præjudicat manifeſtæ veritati. [18]

14. Mich. 32 & 33 Eliz. between Sir Gilbert Gerard Knight, Maſter of the Rolls Plaintiff, and Mary Dikenſon Defendant: The Plaintiff declared that he was ſeiſed of the Mannor and Caſtle of H. in the County of Strafford in fee by purchace from George Lord Audley; and that he was in communication to demiſe the ſaid Caſtle and Mannor to Ralph Egerton for 22 years for 200 l. Fine, and 100 l. rent per annum; and that the Defendant (præmiſſorum non ignara) ſaid, I have a leaſe of the Mannor and Caſtle of H. for 90 years, and then and there ſhewed and publiſhed a Demiſe ſuppoſed to be made by George Lord Audley, Grandfather to the ſaid George Lord Audley, for 90 years to Edward Dikenſon her husband, and publiſhed the ſaid Demiſe as a true and good leaſe; and ſo affirmed it, and offered to ſell it; ubi revera the ſaid leaſe was counterfeited by her husband, and that the Defendant knew the ſame to be counterfeited; by reaſon of which words and publication, the ſaid Ralph Egerton did not proceed to accept the ſaid leaſe to the damage, &c. The Defendant pleaded in bar, quod talis Indentura (qualis in the Declaration is alledged) came to the Defendants hands by trover, and traverſed that ſhe knew of the forgery, upon which the Plaintiff did demur in Law. And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved.

1. That if the Defendant had affirmed and publiſhed, that the Plaintiff had not any right to the Caſtle and Mannor of H. but that ſhe her ſelf had right to them, in that Caſe, becauſe the Defendant her ſelf doth pretend right to them, although in truth ſhe had not any, yet no Action lieth. For if an Action ſhould lie when the Defendant her ſelf claimeth an intereſt, how can any make claim or title to any land, or begin any ſuit, or ſeek advice and counſel, but he ſhall be ſubject to an Action, which ſhall be inconvenient. Which Reſolution agreeth with the opinion in Baniſter's Caſe before, 2 E. 4. 5. & 15 E. 4. 32. no Action upon the Caſe lieth againſt one who publiſheth another to be his Villain, without ſaying that he lieth in wait to impriſon him, Et tales & tantas minas in ipſum fecit, quod circa [b] negotia ſua palam intendere non audebat. Vide 23 E. 3. 2. In Conſpiracy, 38 E. 3. 33. 43 E. 3. 20. F. N. B. 116. b. And therefore it was reſolved, that for the ſaid words, I have a leaſe of the Mannor of H. for 90 years, although it be falſe, yet no Action lieth for ſlandering of his title or intereſt in the ſaid Caſtle or Mannor. And although it appeareth by the bar of the Defendant, that ſhe hath no title or intereſt in the ſaid leaſe, but is a ſtranger to it; yet for as much as the matter alledged in the Declaration doth not maintain the Action, the bar will not make it good.

2. It was reſolved, that there was other matter in the Declaration ſufficient to maintain the Action, and that was becauſe that it is alledged in the Declaration that the Defendant knew of the communication of the making of the ſaid leaſe to Ralph Egerton, and alſo that ſhe knew that the leaſe was forged and counterfeited, and yet (againſt her own knowledge) ſhe hath affirmed and publiſhed, that it was a good and true leaſe, by which the Plaintiff was defeated of his bargain. Vide 5 E. 4. 126. If a man forge an Obligation in my name, and put the ſame in ſuit againſt me, by which I am vexed and damnified, I ſhall have an Action upon the Caſe, 22 Aſſ. 8. B. offered 8 Oxen to ſell to A. as his proper goods, knowing them to be the proper goods of P. A. truſting in the fidelity of B. bought them for 8 l. and afterwards P. taketh back the Oxen; In this Caſe A. ſhall have his Action upon the Caſe againſt B.

3. It was reſolved, that the bar was inſufficient, for the knowing of the Defendant of the forgery is not traverſable. As in an Action upon the Caſe, becauſe that the Defendants Dog hath bitten the Plaintiffs cattel, ipſe ſciens canem ſuum ad mordendas oves conſuetum; the (ſciens) is not traverſable, but ought to be proved in evidence upon the general iſſue, for ſciens, &c. is not any direct allegation, nor ever alledged in any place, ſo that it is not traverſable nor triable. Alſo the manner of pleading, Talis Indentura qualis in the Declaration is alledged, is no direct anſwer to the Indenture alledged in the Declaration, for talis Indentura non eſt eadem Indentura; for Nullum ſimile eſt idem. Vide 30 Aſſ. 19. 2 E. 4. 5. 15 E. 4. 32. 27 H. 8. 14. 22. 30 H. 8. Br. Action ſur le Caſe 104. 4 E. 6. ibid. 112. 28 H. 8. Dier 19. 6 E. 6. ibid. 72. & 75. 3 Ma. ibid. 118. 7 Eliz. ibid. 236. 11 Eliz. Dier 285. 15 Eliz. Dier 317. And theſe in effect are all the Caſes in our Books.

15. Mich. 44 & 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Bittridges Caſe. Bittridge brought an Action upon the Caſe for theſe words, M. Bittridge is a perjured old Knave, and that is to be proved by a ſtake parting the land of Henry Martin and Maſter Wright. The Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty, and was found [19] guilty; and now in arreſt of Judgment it was moved, that theſe words are not Actionable.

1. Becauſe that this word, A perjured old Knave, the Noun is Knave, and perjured is ſpoken adjectively; As if a man ſaith, One is a ſeditious or thieviſh Knave, theſe words are not Actionable, becauſe the words do not import that he hath made ſedition or felony, but are adjective, which imply an inclination to it.

2. That the Court ought to judge upon all the words together, and collect the intent of the Defendant upon all the words, and not to take his words by parcels. And it was ſaid that the laſt words do extenuate the genuine and proper ſence of the firſt words, for perjury ſhall be intended in ſome Court upon Judicial proceeding; but when he adds, And that is to be proved by a ſtake parting, &c. that explaineth for any thing appeareth to the Court, that this perjury was not in any Court, but ſome unadviſed Oath extrajudicial between the placing of a ſtake for a partition.

As to the firſt, it was reſolved by Popham Chief Juſtice, Gawdy, Fenner, and Yelverton Juſtices, that for theſe words, Thou art a perjured Knave, without any more, an Action upon the Caſe doth lie. For ſometimes adjective words will maintain an Action, and ſometimes not. They are Actionable, 1. When the adjective doth preſume an act committed. 2. When they ſcandalize one in his office, or function, or trade by which he getteth his living; As if a man ſay, That one is a perjured Knave, there ought to be an act done, otherwiſe he cannot be perjured, as was reſolved before: So if one ſaith of an Officer, or a Judge, That he is a corrupt Officer or Judge, an Action lieth for both cauſes; 1. Becauſe it implieth an act done: 2. It is ſlanderous to him in reſpect of his Office. Paſch. 24 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Philips Batchelor of Divinity and Parſon of D. brough an action upon the Caſe againſt Robert Badby Eſquire, becauſe the ſame Defendant ſpake theſe words in London, Thou haſt made a ſeditious Sermon, and moved the people to Sedition this day. The Defendant juſtified at S. Edmonds Bury in Suffolk, that he ſpake the ſaid words at Bury, upon which the Plaintiff demurred; and in this Caſe two Points were reſolved.

1. Notwithſtanding that the firſt part of the words were utterly adjectively, and the latter words were but moving to ſedition, and it did not appear that any did follow, yet becauſe they ſcandalized the Plaintiff in his function, it was reſolved that the words were Actionable.

2. The Defendant ought to have juſtified the words in London, and not at Bury, for the words in the Declaration were not anſwered: For which cauſe Judgment ws given for the Plaintiff. So if one
[b] ſay of a Merchant, That he is a Bankruptly Knave, or Bankrupt Knave, although that there Bankrupt be ſpoken adjectively, yet an Action lieth, as it was adjudged in Mitton's Caſe in the Common Pleas, Mich. 43. & 34 Eliz. where one ſaid of a Merchant, That he would be Bankrupt in two days, which implieth but inclination, yet an Action lieth, 6 E. 6. Dier 72. for that defameth him in his Trade by which he getteth his living: But when the words do not imply an act done, but an inclination to an act which doth not ſcandalize the party in the duty of any office, or function, nor in his trade of living, there an action upon the Caſe doth not lie. But to ſay that he is a ſeditious or theeviſh Knave, theſe do not import an act to be done, but an intent or inclination to it, which is not puniſhable by the Common Law.

Trade

As to the ſecond it was reſolved in the Caſe of Bittridge, That upon all the words taken together no Action lay; for the latter words do extenuate the firſt, and explain his intent, that he did not intend any Judicial perjury. Alſo it was impoſſible that a ſtake can prove him perjured. And therefore upon conſideration of all the words for the impoſſibility and inſenſibility of them they are not actionable; as it hath been adjudged, that where one ſaith of another, Thou art a Thief, for thou haſt ſtollen my apples out of my Orchard; or, For thou haſt robbed my Hop-ground, theſe latter words prove it no felony, and ſo qualifie the proper words of this word (Thief) which of it ſelf, although it be generally ſpoken, will bear an action. And ſo it was adjudged between Dobbins and Franklyn, Mich. 43 & 44 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Thou art a Thief, for thou haſt ſtollen my apples out of my Orchard; and to ſay, Thou art a Thief, and that will be proved by ſtealing my apples in my Orchard. So in the Caſe at Bar, Thou art a perjured old Knave, and that will be proved by a ſtake parting, &c. For the Office of Judges is upon conſideration of all the words to collect the true ſcope and intention of him who ſpeaketh them: And if in this Caſe the Plaintiff had declared only upon the firſt words, Thou art a perjured Knave, the Defendant might have ſhewed all the words, and the coherence of them, as appeareth before in the Lord Cromwel's Caſe. But it was ſaid, that if the Plaintiffs Council had diſcloſed the truth of the Caſe in the Declaration, the ſaid words would have well maintained the action; for the truth of the Caſe was, That in an action between Martin and Wright, the ſtate of the controverſie was, Whether the ſaid ſtake ſtood upon the land of the one, or of the other, or indifferently, as a boundary betwixt them. And in that action the Plaintiff was depoſed as a witneſs, and by the pretence of the Defendant had in his depoſition perjured himſelf. But this ſpecial matter was not ſhewed, and therefore it was adjudged, That the Plaintiff ſhould take nothing by his Bill.

16. Mich. 44 & 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Barham's Caſe. Barham brought an Action upon the Caſe againſt Netherſel, and the words were, Maſter Barham did burn my Barn (innuendo) a Barn with Corn, with his own hands, and none but he; And after Verdict it was moved in arreſt of Judgment, That the words were not actionable, for it is not felony to burn a Barn, if it be not parcel of a Manſion-houſe, nor full of Corn: And in ſuch Caſe agitur civiliter, and not criminaliter, & verba accipienda ſunt in mitiore ſenſu: And the innuendo will not ſerve when the words themſelves are not actionable; which well agreeth with divers Reſolutions before. [20]

17. Trinit. 25 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Palmer and Thorpe. Touching defamation determinable in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, it was reſolved, That ſuch defamation ought to have three incidents: 1. That it concern matter meerly Spiritual and determinable in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, as for calling him Heretick, Schiſmatick, Adulterer, Dilapidator, &c. 2. It ought to concern matter meerly Spiritual only, for if ſuch defamation touch or concern any thing at the Common Law, the Eccleſiaſtical Court ſhall dot have conuſans thereof. 3. Although that ſuch defamation be meerly Spiritual and only Spiritual; yet he who is defamed cannot ſue there for amends or damages, but the ſuit ought to be only for the puniſhment of the ſin, pro ſalute animæ. And as to the firſt and ſecond the Caſe in 22 E. 4. 20. was cited to this effect; The Abbot of S. Albans ſent his ſervant to a feme covert to come to his Maſter and ſpeak with him, the ſervant performed his command, and thereupon the wife came with him to the Abbot; and when the Abbot and the woman were together, the ſervant (who knew his Maſters will) withdrew from them, and left them two in the Chamber alone; and then the Abbot ſaid to the woman, That her apparl was groſs apparel; to whom the wife ſaid, That her apparel was according to her ability, and according to the ability of her husband: The Abbot (knowing in what women repoſe delight) ſaid to her, That if ſhe would be ruled by him, that ſhe ſhould have as good apparel as any woman in the Pariſh, and did ſolicite her chaſtity; when the wife would not conſent to him, the Abbot did aſſault her, and would have made her an ill woman againſt her will, which the wife would not ſuffer, whereupon the Abbot kept her in his Chamber againſt her will, and to the intent, &c. The husband having notice of this abuſe to his wife, ſpake of this matter and ſaid, That he would have his Action of falſe Impriſonment againſt the Abbot, for that he had impriſoned his wife: Thereupon the Abbot (adding one ſin to another) ſued the innocent and poor husband for defamation in the Spiritual Court, becauſe the husband had publiſhed, that the Lord Abbot had ſolicited his wives chaſtity, and would have made her an ill woman: But upon all this matter diſcloſed to the Court, the husband had a Prohibition, becauſe the husband might have had an Action at the Common Law for this aſſault, and impriſonment of his wife; yet becauſe the ſcandal determinable in the Eccleſiaſtical Court was upon the matter diſcloſed mixed with matter determinable at the Common Law, for this cauſe upon a motion made by the Abbots Council to have a Conſultation in that Caſe, it was denied by the Court. Vide 18 E. 4. 6. 12 H. 7. 22. Regiſt 46, 47. & 54. [b]

As to the third, vide the Statute of Articuli Cleri cap. 1, 2, & 3. and the Statute of Circumſpecte agatis, anno 13 E. 1. and F. N. B. 51. J. K. 52. D. M. 53. A. F. So it appearth that if a Parſon ſue in the Spiritual Court for laying violent hands upon him, and to have him excommunicate, or have corporal puniſhment, and not for damages or amends; but the Plaintiff ſhall recover coſts there: And if the Defendant in caſe of defamation be put to corporal puniſhment, or for laying hands upon Clerks, &c. if the party will redeem his penance, and agree to pay to the party damnified a certain ſum of mony, it appeareth there that the party damnified ſhall have ſuit for this in the Spiritual Court, and no

Prohibition lieth; And upon theſe differences you ſhall better underſtand the better opinion in 12 H. 7. 22. and the ſence of the Regiſt. 54. where all the Juſtices refuſe to grant a Conſultation in Caſe of defamation, that is, either becauſe the matter of the defamation was not meer and ſole ſpiritual, or that the Plaintiff ſued for damages or amends for ſuch defamation; and therewith agreeth F. N. B. 53. f.

• Theſe Reſolutions concerning Scandals (which I amongſt many others for my inſtruction have obſerved) at the importunity, requeſt, and deſire of my good friends, ſome within the Realm of Ireland, and others dwelling within the remote parts of England, out of the meridian of Weſtminſter, I have Reported but in ſummary and ſhort manner, omitting many others which I do not think neceſſary to be publiſhed, my opinion always being, Quod multo utilius eſt pauca idonea effundere, quam multis inutilibus homines gravari. And at leaſt theſe briet Reſolutions, and the reaſons of them being well underſtood, and kept, will peradventure give great direction and inſtruction pro multis aliis, and will deter men for words which are but wind to ſubject themſelves to actions, in which damages and coſts are to be recovered, which ſometimes do trench to the great hindrance and impoveriſhment of the ſpeakers.

Copihold Caſes.

[21] Mich. 23 & 24 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Brown's Caſe. A Copiholder in fee by licence made a leaſe for years, the leſſee entred; the Copiholder having iſſue a ſon and a daughter by one woman, and a ſon by another woman, died; the eldeſt ſon died before admittance; It was adjudged, that the land ſhould deſcend to the daughter of the whole blood. And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved by the whole Court.

1. Although that a Copiholder hath not in Judgment of Law but an eſtate at will, yet Cuſtom hath ſo eſtabliſhed and fixed his eſtate, that the ſame by the cuſtom of the Mannor is deſcendable, and his heirs ſhall inherit the ſame; and therefore his eſtate is not meerly ad voluntatem Domini, but ad voluntatem Domini ſecundum conſuetudinem Manerii: So that the cuſtom of the Mannor is the ſoul and life of Copihold eſtates; for without cuſtom, or if they break their cuſtom they are ſubject to the Lords will. And by cuſtom a Copiholder is as well inheritable to have his land according to the cuſtom, as he who hath Freehold at the Common Law, for Conſuetudo eſt altera lex: Cuſtom and uſage time out of mind, &c. may create and conſolidate Inheritances. For Conſuetudo vincit legem. And Copihold eſtates are of great antiquity, for Bracton who wrote in the time of the Reign of King H. 3. wrote of them. Lib. 2. cap. 8. where he ſaith, Si ipſe ad alium transferre voluerit, prius illud reſtituat Domino, vel ſervienti (id eſt, Seneſchallo Manerii) ſi Dominus præſens non fuerit, & de manibus illorum fiat tranſlatio ad alium, &c. quia ille non habet poteſtatem transferendi, cum liberum tenement. non habeat. And in the ſame Book, fol. 76. Et ſemper in hujuſmodi Socagiis conſuetudo loci eſt obſervanda. And 4 E. 1. (who was the ſon of H. 3.) by the Statute called Extenta Manerii, there it is ſaid, Inquirendum eſt de liberis tenent. quibuſcunque, &c. Inquirendum eſt etiam de cuſtumariis, viz. Quot ſunt cuſtomarii, & quantum terræ quilibet cuſtumarius teneat, quæ opera, quas conſuetudines faciat, & quantum opera & conſuetudines cujuſlibet cuſtumarii valeant per ann', & quantum reddit. de reddit. Aſſiſæ per ann', præter opera & conſuetudines quæ poſſunt talliari, & quæ non ad voluntatem Domini. By which it appeareth, that all the Parliament eſteemed of them as cuſtomary tenants; 2. That the rent is accounted parcel of the rent of Aſſiſe: 3. That ſome of their cuſtoms within ſome Mannors are arbitrary at the Lords will, as Fines incertain, &c. and within ſome Mannors their cuſtomes are certain, and all that as cuſtom hath allowed.

[b]

42 E. 3. 25. The Lord brought an action of Treſpaſs againſt his Copiholder, who pleaded, Not Guilty; The Jury gave a ſpecial verdict, that the Copiholder had not done his ſervices, by which he brake the cuſtom of the Mannor, for which cauſe the entry of the Lord was adjudged lawful, and that he ſhall have the corn then growing; which proveth that he entreth for the forfeiture, and cannot put him out without cauſe. So 33 E. 3. Treſpaſs 254. If a Copiholder alien it is a diſſeiſin to the Lord, and a forfeiture of his eſtate.

13 R. 2. Faux Impriſonment 7. It is there adjudged, that where the heir of a Copiholder recovered in a plaint in the nature of an aſſiſe of Mortdanceſter in the Court of the Biſhop of his Mannor of Stepney in Middleſex, the tenant brought a Writ of falſe Judgment returnable in the Court of Common Pleas, which Writ of falſe Judgment doth not lie in this Caſe: But there it is ſaid, that he hath not other remedy, but to ſue to the Lord who hath the Freehold by Petition, and he may if there be cauſe reverſe the Judgment; by which it appeareth, that the heir of a Copiholder is inheritable according to the cuſtom, and ſhall recover by plaint in the nature of an aſſiſe of Mortdanceſter; but it is true that Charleton ſaith there, that he ſhall not have an aſſiſe againſt his Lord as tenant in antient demeſne ſhall have, becauſe he hath not the Freehold, as Bracton ſaith.

2 H. 4. 12. A Copiholder brought an action of Treſpaſs for breaking of his Cloſe, and cutting of his trees, and the Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty, the Jury found the Defendant guilty, and aſſeſſed damages, the Plaintiff recovered.

1 H. 5. 11, 12. A Copiholder may surrender to the use of another, reserving rent with condition of reentry for non-payment, and for want of payment enter, 4 H. 6. 11. 21 H. 6. 37. If a Bishop granteth customary lands by Copy, and dieth, the Copihold is not determined by his death, for he is Dominus pro tempore, and this grant shall bind the King, and the Grantee, the Temporalties being in the Kings hands, shall have aid of the King.

7 E. 4. Danby Chief Justice said, That a Copiholder is as well inheritable to have his land according to the custom, as he who hath a Freehold at the Common Law. [22]

21 E. 4. 80. Brian saith, that his opinion always hath been and ever shall be, That if such tenant by custom paying his services be ejected by his Lord, that he shall have an action of Trespass.

15 H. 7. 10. & 27 H. 8. 28. A Bishop grants lands by Copy and dieth, the Temporalties come to the King's hands, the Copihold estate stands, and he shall have aid of the King.

15 H. 8. Br. Tenant by Copy 24. The heir of a Copiholder Tenant in tail shall recover in a Formedon in the Descender by all the Justices. By which Cases it appeareth, that the Judges in all successions of ages have allowed Copihold estates to be established and sure by the custom of the Mannor, and descendible to their heirs, as other Inheritances are.

2. It was resolved, when custom hath created such Inheritances, and that the land shall be descendible, then the Law shall direct the descent according to the maxims and rules of the Common Law as incidents to every estate descendible; Quia quod tacite intelligitur deesse non videtur. As in 5 E. 4. 7. when uses had gained the reputation of Inheritances descendible, the Common Law directed the descent of them, and that there should be possessio fratis of an use, as well as of other Inheritances at the Common Law. But it was resolved, that such customary Inheritances shall not have by Law any other collateral qualities which do not concern the descent of the Inheritance, than other Inheritances at the Common Law had. And therefore such customary Inheritance shall not be assets to charge the heir in an Action of debt upon an Obligation made by his ancestor, although he bind himself and his heirs, nor the wife of such customary tenant shall not be endowed, nor the husband of a woman inheretrix shall not be of such estate tenant by the curtesie, nor descent in such Case shall not take away entry of him who hath a customary right to it, & sic de cæteris; for as without custom such estate at will cannot be descendible, so without custom it cannot have any collateral quality or incident as other Inheritances at the Common Law: For Copiholders have estates of Inheritances secundum quid, that is to say, to be descendible by custom to their heirs, and not to be determined by their deaths, nor subject to the Lords will, as other estates at will are, but they are not estates of Inheritance simpliciter, scil. to all collateral qualities, but such as custom have allowed, or are incident to them.

3. It was resolved, That where the customary part of Inheritance descendeth to the heir before admittance, that he may enter and take the profits, and that there shall be a possessio fratris before admittance upon an actual possession as in the Case at Bar. And such heir may surrender to the Lord before admittance, as any other Copiholder may, but it cannot prejudice the Lord of his Fine due to him upon the custom of the Mannor upon the descent; and he is a tenant by Copy of Court Roll, for the Copy made to his ancestor doth belong to him; as the admittance of one tenant for life, is the admittance of him in the remainder to vest the estate in him, but shall not bar the Lord of his Fine which he ought to have by the custom. And although it was objected that every admittance of the heir upon a descent did amount to a grant, and so may be pleaded, and therefore nothing doth vest in the heir before admittance. To that it was answered and resolved, That true it is, that after admittance the heir in pleading may alledge it as a grant, and the same hath been allowed for avoiding of inconvenience which might afterwards ensue; for if the Copiholder in pleading shall be driven to shew the first grant, either it was before time of memory, and so not pleadable, or within time of memory, and then the custom faileth; And for this Cause the Law hath allowed the Copiholder in pleading to alledge any admittance as well upon descent as surrender, as a grant; and yet he may if he will alledge the admittance of his ancestor as a grant, and shew the descent to him, and that he entred, and that well without any admittance of him; but the heir cannot plead, That his father was seised in fee at the will of the Lord by copy of Court Roll of such a Mannor according to the custom of the Mannor, and that he died seised, and that the same descended to him, for in truth such interest is but a particular interest at will in judgment of Law, although it is descendible as hath been said by custom: For he is tenant at the will of the Lord according to the custom of the Mannor. [6]

Note Reader, all these Resolutions and Opinions have been adjudged and confirmed, as appeareth by the Cases following.

2. AT Lent Assises, ann. 24 El. in Suffolk, in Rivet's Case, it was adjudged by the Chief Justices, Wray and Anderson, Justices of the Assise upon an evidence to a Jury, that where a woman Copiholder in fee hath a husband who hath issue, and the wife dieth, that the husband shall not be tenant by the curtesie without special custom, according to the Resolution aforesaid; and according to their opinions the Jury passed against the husband.

3. Trinit. 36 Eliz. Rot. 547. in the Kings Bench, between Deal and Rigden; That whereas by the custom of the Mannor, plaints had been made in the Court of the Mannor in the nature of real actions, that if a Recovery be in a plaint in the nature of a real action against Tenant in tail (admitting that Copihold lands may be entailed) that it shall be a discontinuance, and take away the entry of the heir in tail; for in as much as plaints in the nature of real Actions are warranted by the custom, it is an incident which the Law annexeth to the custom, that a recovery shall be a discontinuance, which agreeth with the reason of the principal point in Brown's Case. Like Judgment was given in the same Court, M. 35 & 37 Eliz. Rot. 1417. between Clun and Pease. [23]

4. Pasch.

4. Paſch. 35 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Rot. 734. between Bullock and Dibley in Treſpaſs in Berks, it was adjudged, That if a man ſeiſed of Copihold land in the right of his wife, ſurrendreth the ſame to the uſe of another, and the husband dieth, it is no diſcontinuance to the wife, but that the wife may enter, and ſhall not be put to a Cui in vita, nor her heir to a ſur Cui in vita. And if a Copiholder for life ſurrendreth to the uſe of another in fee, it is no forfeiture, for it paſſeth by ſurrender to the Lord, and not by livery; and Copihold eſtates ſhall not have ſuch qualities as eſtates at Common Law have without ſpecial cuſtom, as hath been often ſaid. The like Judgment in the Kings Bench 30 Eliz. between Wright and Portman. And 35 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Foxſton and Colſton, like Judgment was given.

5. Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Gravenor and Ted. In this Caſe two Points were adjudged. 1. That the deſcent of a Copihold in fee ſhall not take away the entry of him who hath right to the Copihold, which agreeth with the Reſolution in Brown's Caſe. 2. That where the cuſtom of the Mannor of Alleſley in the County of Warwick was, That Copihold lands may be granted to any perſon in feodo ſimplici, that a grant to one and the heirs of his body is within the cuſtom: For be it a Fee-ſimple conditional, or an eſtate tail, it is within the cuſtom. So he may grant for life or for years by the ſame cuſtom, for an eſtate in Fee-ſimple includeth all; and it is a maxim in Law, Cui licet quod majus, non debet quod minus eſt non licere.

6. Paſch. 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Rot. 331. between Fitch and Huckley, the Caſe was ſuch; Richard Fitch the father, Copiholder in fee, makes a ſurrender to the uſe of himſelf for life, and after to the uſe of Richard his ſon for life, and after to the uſe of his laſt Will; The father is admitted and dieth, and afterwards the Lord pretending cauſe of forfeiture granteth the ſame to a ſtranger. In this Caſe two Points were reſolved:

1. That the admittance of the Tenant for life, was the admittance of him in the remainder, but not to prejudice the Lord of his Fine which was due by the cuſtom of the Mannor, according to the opinion in Brown's Caſe.

2. It was adjudged, that the Fee-ſimple of the Copihold being limited to the uſe of his Will, did remain in the Copiholder, and not in the Lord.

[b] 7. Trinit. 26 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Clark Plaintiff, and Pennifather Defendant, three Points were adjudged.

1. That the heir of a Copiholder may enter and have an Action of Treſpaſs before admiſſion (and ſo if the heir die before admiſſion as the principal Caſe was) his heir may enter and take the profits, and have an Action of Treſpaſs, which agreeth with the Judgment in the principal Point in Brown's Caſe.

2. It was adjudged, that where King H. 8. granted a Mannor to the Queen his wife for life, that there the Queen was a ſole perſon exempt by the Common Law, and may make a leaſe or grant without the King, and ſo may plead and be impleaded alone. Vide 10 E. 3. 18. & 50. 18 E. 3. 1, 2. & 38. 20 E. 3. Nonability 9. 32 E. 3. Brief 346. 49 E. 3. 4. 11 H. 6. 67. 26 H. 6. Aide del Roy 24. 3 H. 7. 14. 7 H. 7. 7. And that the Statute of 32 H. 8. is but explanatory of the Common Law.

3. It was adjudged, that where the Queen was Tenant for life, and a Copihold eſcheated to her, there the Queen may grant the ſame to whom ſhe pleaſeth, and it ſhall bind the King, his heirs and ſucceſſors for ever; for ſhe was Domina pro tempore, and the cuſtom of the Mannor ſhall bind the King: And it was reſolved that every one who hath a lawful eſtate in a Mannor, be it in fee, in tail, in dower, or by the curteſie, or for life, or years, or as Guardian, or tenant by Statute, Elegit, or at will, if a Copihold eſcheat or come to their hands during their time, every one of them at their will may grant the ſame rendring the ancient rent, cuſtoms, and ſervices, and the ſame ſhall bind the Lord who hath the Inheritance or Freehold of the Mannor, for every one is Dominus pro tempore and within the cuſtom. As in 20 H. 6. 8. the Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas who hath his Office but at will may by cuſtom grant Offices for life. And it is to be obſerved, that a Copiholder doth not derive his eſtate out of the eſtate or intereſt of the Lord only, for then the Copihold eſtate ſhould ceaſe when the eſtate of the Lord determineth. But as it was ſaid in Brown's Caſe, the ſoul and life of a Copihold is the cuſtom of the Mannor; and when the grant is made by any who hath a lawful eſtate, or intereſt, the Copiholder is in by the cuſtom without any regard to the eſtate, or perſon of the grantor, and therefore ſuch grant made by the husband and wife ſhall bind the wife notwithſtanding the coverture. So of a grant made by Non compos mentis, or an Infant, or by a Biſhop, Prebend, Parſon, &c. it ſhall bind for ever. For the cuſtom is, that the tenements are parcel of the Mannor, Et dimiſſ. & diviſibil' per [22] Dominum Manerii, &c. pro tempore exiſtent', ſeu per ejus Seneſchal', &c. And ſo a feme covert, Non compos mentis, an infant, the ſucceſſors of Biſhops, Prebends, Parſons, &c. are bound by the ſaid cuſtom: But by force of theſe words in the cuſtom (per Dominum Manerii, &c. pro tempore exiſten') in ſome Caſe the Lord ought to have lawful eſtate, and in ſome Caſes not. And therefore this difference was agreed; If a diſſeiſor, or feoffee of a diſſeiſor, or any other who hath a torcious and deforcible eſtate or intereſt ſubject to the action, or entry of another, hold Court, and make any voluntary grant upon eſcheat, or forfeiture of a Copihold, ſuch voluntary grant ſhall not bind him who hath right, when he hath recontinued the Mannor by action, or entry; for to this intent the cuſtom ſhall be intended of a Lord who hath a lawful eſtate or intereſt. But if ſuch Lord who hath a wrongful and defeaſible eſtate, admit any upon ſurrender made to the uſe of another, or admit the heir upon a deſcent, ſuch admittances are good, and within the ſaid cuſtom. For ſuch acts are lawful, and quodam modo judicial to do, which he may may be compelled and enforced in a Court of Equity to do; and therefore such admittances shall bind him who hath right.

8. Pasch. 26 Eliz. in the Kings Bench it was adjudged, that where the Lord of a Mannor wherein were many Copiholds for lives took a wife, and afterwards a Copiholder died, the Lord after marriage doth grant the land according to the custom of the Mannor for lives, and dieth, that the wife shall not avoid such grants in a Writ of Dower: For although the grant were after the title of Dower, yet the custom which is the life and force of the grant was long before. And an opinion in 8 Eliz. was cited to the contrary; which see Dier 251. and yet it was adjudged as above. If feoffee of a Mannor upon condition maketh voluntary grants of Copihold estates according to the custom, and afterwards the condition is broken, and the feoffor entreth, yet the grants by Copy shall stand; and therewith agreeth the Judgment 17 Eliz. Dier 342. the Countess of Arundel's Case.

9. Pasch. 29 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Rous and Arters, it was adjudged, If tenant for another mans life be of a Mannor, and Cestuy que vie die, and the tenant for life continue in the Mannor, and holdeth Courts, and maketh voluntary grants by Copy, they shall not bind the lessor; for in such Case it was resolved, that he was tenant at sufferance, who hath not any lawful interest: And a Writ of Terminum qui præteriit lith against him, and so he is a disseisor of the Mannor.

10. Mich. 33 & 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Murrell and Smith in Trespas. Upon a special verdict the Case was such; Queen Elizabeth seised in fee of the Mannor of Bawdesey Butley in the County of Suffolk, granted part of the same being ancient Copihold land to Smith the father in fee; and afterwards the Queen granted the Inheritance of the said Copihold to a stranger in fee; and afterwards Smith made his Will in writing, and thereby devised the Copihold to Murrell the Plaintiff in fee; and at a Court holden at the said Mannor surrendred into the hands of the Queen to the use of his Will; and in pleading the Defendant Smith did alledge the said grant made to his father, by force whereof he was seised, and so seised, died seised, and that the same descended to the Defendant as his son and heir, and that the Plaintiff claiming by the said devise and surrender, traversed the descent to the Defendant. And the Jurors upon this special issue gave the said special verdict: And upon great deliberation Judgment was given against the Plaintiff. And in this Case three Points were resolved. [b]

1. That custom hath so established and fixed the estate of the Copiholder, that by the severance of the Inheritance of the Copihold from the Mannor, the Copihold is not destroyed; for as much as the Lord himself cannot oust the Copiholder, no more can any claiming under him do: For Nemo potest plus juris ad alium transferre, quam ipse habet; Et quod per me non possum, nec per alium. But it was objected, that every Copihold estate in land or tenements ought to stand upon two pillars, and without some of them cannot be supported; The one that the land or tenements be parcel of the Mannor, the other that such land or tenement hath been demised and demisable time out of mind, so that parcel of the Mannor, and Prescription are two incidents to every Copihold: but in the Case at Bar one of them faileth, for by the said severance the land was not parcel of the Mannor. To which it was answered and resolved, for as much as the land was parcel of the Mannor, and custom hath once established and fixed the estate, so that once it had both the incidents, for this cause the severance made by the Lord afterwards shall not destroy the estate of the Copihold.

2. That in this Case the said customary lands descended to the Defendant, notwithstanding the devise and surrender, for the surrender after the severance of the Inheritance of the Copihold from the Mannor was void, because the lands were not parcel of the Mannor at the time of the surrender, and the devise alone cannot transfer such customary estate. For as it appeareth by Bracton before, and by Litt. 15. it cannot be transferred but by surrender into the hands of the Lord according to the custom of the Mannor. [25]

3. That after the severance the Copiholder shall pay his rent to the feoffee, and also shall pay and do other services which are due without admittance or holding of any Court; As to plough the Lords demeans, heriot, and the like; but suit of Court, and fine upon alienation, or admittance are gone: For now the land or tenement cannot be aliened, for as the Copiholder hath some benefit by his severance, as appeareth before, so hath he great prejudice, for now he cannot surrender or alien his estate, because he cannot alien it by surrender in manus Domini servitiorum, as the custom hath warranted, and that he cannot now do, nor the feoffee cannot make admittance or grant of the Copihold, for he is not Dominus pro tempore: But it was resolved that such forfeitures as were forfeitures before the severance, as the making of a feoffment, lease, wast, denying of rent, or the like, are forfeitures also after the severance. So if land were of the nature of Borough English or Gavelkind before the same custom, and all other customs which run with the land remain after the severance: And it was said, that if such Copiholder will alien, there is not any means but to have a Decree against him and his heirs in Chancery, but thereby the interest of the land is not bound, but the person only.

11. Pasch. 31 El. in the Kings Bench, between Kite and Queinton, the Case was, a Copiholder in fee of the Mannor of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, called Lainton in the County of Oxford, surrendred his Copihold lands out of Court, by the hands of certain Copihold tenants according to the custom of the Mannor, unto the use of another and his heirs upon certain conditions, and after at the next Court the surrender was presented, but in the presentment the conditions were omitted, and he to whose use the surrender was made being dead, the Lord by his Steward, according to the custom, did admit his daughters and heirs, who entred; he who made the surrender by his Deed, did release to the daughters being in possession, and afterwards entred upon them, and if his entry were lawful or not was the Queſtion. And it was reſolved, that his entry was not lawful; and in this Caſe two Points were reſolved.

not

1. That the preſentment of the ſaid ſurrender was void, for the ſurrender out of Court ought by the cuſtom of the Mannor be preſented in Court, but for as much as the ſurrender was upon condition, and the preſentment was of an abſolute ſurrender, the ſurrender which the Copiholder made was not preſented: But if the truth of the Caſe were, that the ſurrender conditional was preſented, and the Steward in entring thereof omitted the condition, yet upon good proof thereof, the ſurrender was not avoided, [b] but the Roll ſhall be mended, for the Roll doth not conclude in ſuch Caſe the party either to plead, or give in evidence the truth of the matter.

The ſecond Queſtion and the greater doubt was, If by the ſaid releaſe by Deed the cuſtomary right of the Copiholder were extinct, and he who made the ſurrender barred of his right. And it was objected that Littleton Sect. 15. ſaith, That a Copiholder cannot alien his land by Deed; but if he will alien, he ought according to the cuſtom, &c. ſurrender, &c. And he ſaith, that ſuch tenants are called tenants by Copy, becauſe they have no other evidence concerning their tenements but the Copies of the Court Rolls. And it was ſaid, that that doth exclude all releaſes by Deed, for then they ſhould have other Evidences then the Court Rolls. Alſo it was ſaid, that he who purchaſeth the land, may upon ſearching the Rolls be adviſed if the title of the land be good. But if a releaſe by Deed ſhall extinguiſh Rights, then it ſhall be perilous to Purchaſors, for that it doth not appear in the Rolls.

To which it was anſwered and reſolved, That the releaſe in the Caſe at Bar extinguiſhed the right of the Copiholder; and their reaſon was, becauſe he to whom the releaſe was made was admitted to the tenements, and Copiholder in poſſeſſion; ſo that a releaſe of a cuſtomary right may enure to him, and therefore the Lord is not at any prejudice, for he hath had his Fine upon admittance, and he to whom the releaſe was made was in by title, ſcil. by the Lords admittance, and ſo the releaſe doth enure by way of Extinguiſhment: But if a Copiholder be ouſted by one by tort, there his releaſe by Deed to the diſſeiſor, or other wrong doer, doth not transfer his right, nor bar him for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe he hath not any cuſtomary eſtate upon which the releaſe of the cuſtomary right can enure. 2. It ſhall be to the Lords prejudice, for thereby he ſhall loſe his fine and ſervices; and for theſe cauſes the releaſe by Deed in ſuch Caſe is utterly void, and this is not againſt any thing Littleton ſaith, for Littleton ſpeaketh of alienation by ſurrender, and that of neceſſity ought to be into the Lords hands according to the cuſtom: But the releaſe in the Caſe at Bar cannot be made to the Lord but to the Copihold tenant in poſſeſſion: Alſo he who claimeth a Copihold eſtate by ſurrender, hath not other Evidences but Copies, and ſo are Littletons words to be intended. But he who claimeth extinguiſhment of a right, may have it by a releaſe by Deed: So the Reſolution in Murrel's Caſe before well agreeth with the Judgment in this Caſe upon the difference aforeſaid in transferring of an eſtate, and extinguiſhing of a right: And as to the peril of Purchaſors, it was ſaid, That there was not any danger for if the Copiholder who is in poſſeſſion ſell the ſame, he will ſhew to the Purchaſor the releaſe made [26] to him, and he who is out of poſſeſſion, ought not to ſell the ſame till he hath regained the poſſeſſion; and if any one will purchaſe a title, he is not to be favoured, but in ſuch caſe caveat emptor: and yet he who hath made ſuch releaſe, may and ought to acquaint the Purchaſor with that which himſelf hath done, and ſo no miſchief. And Wray Chief Juſtice in this Caſe ſaid, That if one who hath pretended right or title to Copihold land, bargain and ſell the ſame to another, it is within the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 9. for the Statute ſaith, If any one bargain, buy, or ſell, &c. any right or title, in or to any lands or tenements: So that theſe words, any right or title, extend to all manner of rights or titles, and by conſequence to Copihold lands. And a great part of the land of the Kingdom is in grant by Copy, and therefore the intent of the Makers of the Act was to include it, for avoiding of ſuits, maintenance, and champerty, and not to leave all Copihold eſtates to the miſchiefs mentioned in the preamble of the ſaid Act, eſpecially when a leaſe for years hath been adjuged in Partriges and Crocker's Caſe. Plow. Com. 76. to be within the ſaid Act.

12. TRin. 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Melwich and Luter, the Caſe was; William Melwich brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt John Luter and Mary his wife, upon a demiſe made by John Melwich of lands in Eſtworth in the County of Shrewsbury for one year, &c. The Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty; and the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect; The Abbot of Tewksbury was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Boveridge whereof the tenements in which, &c. were parcel, and Copihold lands of the ſame Mannor; and that there were many ancient Copiholds of the ſame Mannor in Eaſtworth aforeſaid, which Mannor came to the King by diſſolution. And the King anno 37 H. 8. granted the Inheritance of all the Copiholds in Eaſtworth to John Ogden and his heirs, who called it his Mannor of Eaſtworth: And afterwards a Copiholder of the tenements aforeſaid in which, &c. did ſurrender them to the ſame John Ogden, who alſo being ſeiſed of the Mannor of Harbridge within the ſame County, at Harbridge granted the tenements in which to John Melwich the leſſor of the Plaintiff by Copy, according to the cuſtom of the Mannor of Eaſtworth for term of his life, and that the Plaintiff was poſſeſſed till he was ejected by the Defendant, claiming it under the title of John Ogden, pretending that the ſaid grant by Copy did not bind him. And afterwards upon adviſement, Judgment was given for the Plaintiff; and in this Caſe four Points were reſolved.

1. That the leſſee of the Copiholder for one year ſhall maintain an Ejectione firmæ; for in as much as his term is warranted by the Law by the general cuſtom of the Realm, it is reaſon that if he be ejected, [b] that he have an Ejectione firmæ, and it is a ſpeedy courſe for a Copiholder to have the poſſeſſion of the land againſt a ſtranger.

2. That by the ſeverance of the Inheritance of Copiholds from the Mannor, the Copiholds were not deſtroyed, but remained of force and effect, which agreeth with the Judgment in Murrel's Caſe.

3. When

3. When the Lord of a Mannor having many ancient Copiholds in one Town granteth the Inheritance of all the Copiholds to another; the Grantee may hold Court for the Copihold tenements, and take surrenders to the use of others, and make admittances and grants: For although it is not a Mannor in Law, because it wanteth free tenants, yet as to the Copihold tenements, the feoffee or grantee of such a Mannor may hold a Court to make admittances and grants of the Copiholds: For every Mannor which consisterh of Freehold and Copihold tenements comprehendeth in it self in effect two Courts; one which is commonly called the Court Baron, scil. the Court of Freeholders, and in this Court the Suitors, scil. the free tenants are Judges; and therewith agreeth 7 H. 6. 39 H. 6. 5. 6 E. 3. 43. 12 H. 7. 16. Another Court is for the Copiholders, and as to that, the Lord or Steward of the Mannor is the Judge; and as the other is called the Freeholders Court, so this may be called the Copiholders Court: And therefore when the Lord granteth over the Inheritance of his Copiholds to others, the grantee may hold Court for the Copihold tenements only, as his grantor might. And as to this Court there need not any free tenements; so if all the Freeholds escheat, or if the Lord releaseth the tenure and services of all his free tenants, yet the Lord may hold a customary Court for his Copihold tenements, to make admittances and grants to them; Benedicta est expositio, quando res redimitur a destructione. Note Reader, although the Lord by his own act cannot make of one Mannor at the Common Law sundry Mannors consisting upon Demeans and Freeholds, yet he may by his own act, as by this Judgment appeareth, make a customary Mannor consisting upon Copihold to the purposes aforesaid. 4. It was resolved, that the Lord himself may make a grant or admittance of a Copiholder out of the Mannor at what place he pleaseth; but the Steward of the Court of a Mannor cannot at any Court holden off from the Mannor make such grants or admittances. Quod nota.

13. Pasch. 37 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Neal and Jackson, it was adjudged by Anderson Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Walmsley, and the whole Court, That where the Lord of a Mannor doth demise all his lands granted by Copy to another for 2000 years, that such lessee may hold a Court for the Copihold according to the Resolution in the third Point in Melwiche's Case. And in this Case it was said, that so it was resolved by all the Justices in the Case of Sir Christopher Hatton, late Lord Chancellor of England touching Copiholds in Wellingborough in Northamptonshire: Note Reader, a good difference between these Cases which consist upon numbers of Copiholds which may support a custom, and one single Case of a Copihold, as in Murrel's Case before, in which the Lord doth not grant tacite any customary Court, nor the grantee having but one single Copihold cannot hold Court. [27]

14. Mich. 27 & 28 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Clifton and Molineux; two Points were resolved by Wray Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court upon an evidence given to a Jury; That if a Court be holden by a Steward of a Mannor out of it, and divers grants and admittances there made; the Court and all the grants and admittances are void, for the Court of the Mannor ought to be holden within the Mannor, and not out of the Jurisdiction of it; which agreeth with the Resolution of the fourth Point in Melwiche's Case. But it was resolved, that by custom the Court may be holden out of the Mannor, and grants and admittances there good enough: As divers Abbots and Priors used to hold Courts at one Mannor, for divers several Mannors, and good by custom.

2. It was resolved, that where a woman tenant for life taketh a husband, and the husband committeth Wast against the custom of the Mannor, and dieth, the estate of the wife is utterly forfeited by the act of the husband. But if a stranger doth Wast without the assent of the husband, it is no forfeiture; and according to this Resolution it was certified into the Chancery by Mead and Periam, two of the Justices of the Common Pleas between the same parties as to both the Points, upon conference had with divers other Justices.

ib. 121

15. Trinit. 26 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between James Tavernor and Cromwell. It was resolved by Wray Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court upon evidence to a Jury, That if a Copiholder be seised by force of several Copies, scil. of black acre by the rent of 4 d. of white acre by the rent of 4 d. and of green acre by the rent of 6 d. And afterwards the Copiholder committeth Wast in part of black acre, or maketh a feoffment of part of black acre, or denieth the rent of that acre, by that all black acre is forfeited, but it is no forfeiture of white acre, or green acre. For although they all are in one hand, yet every acre is holden severally, and to every acre there is a condition in Law tacite annexed, so as the forfeiture of the one cannot be the forfeiture of any of the other, for the several conditions in Law follow the several tenures; and therefore the forfeiture of the one cannot be the forfeiture of the other: So it was at the same time resolved, That if the said Copiholder of the said three acres severally holden as aforesaid, surrendreth them to A. and his heirs, and the Lord admitteth A. accordingly, Tenendum per antiqua servitia inde prius debita & de jure consueta, or to such effect; and after A. committeth a forfeiture in black acre, he shall forfeit the same only, and none of the other. And so it is not materal whether the Copihold be in one or several Copies. And so was it adjudged upon a demurrer, Hill. 35 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between James Tavernor Plaintiff, and Thomas Cromwel Defendant. [b]

So if divers several Copiholds escheat to the Lord, and he regrant them to another, Tenendum per aliqua servicia, &c. they shall be severally holden as they were before the escheat: And in this Case it was resolved, That when a Copiholder surrendreth to the use of another, and the Lord admits him, now he who is so admitted is in by him who made the surrender; and in plaint in nature of a Writ of Entry in the Per, shall be supposed in the Per by him who made the surrender; for the Lord is but an inſtrument to make admittance, and he who is admitted ſhall not be ſubject to the charges or incumbrances of the Lord: And ſo Reader, where it is ſaid in the Caſe of Clifton and Molineux before, that by the forfeiture of the husband all the eſtate of the wife ſhall be forfeited, it is to be intended all the Copihold eſtate under the ſame tenure.

16. Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Hubbard and Hamond. Upon an evidence to a Jury, theſe Points were reſolved by Popham Chief Juſtice, Gawdy and Fenner Juſtices of the Kings Bench.

1. That if the Fine of Copiholders of a Mannor upon admittance be incertain, yet the Lord cannot demand and exact exceſſive and unreaſonable Fines, and if he do, the Copiholder by the Law may deny to pay them without any forfeiture; And it ſhall be determined by the opinion of the Juſtices before whom the matter is depending, or upon demurrer, or upon evidence to a Jury upon the confeſſion or proof of the yearly value of the land, whether the Fine demanded were reaſonable or not: For if the Lords may aſſeſs exceſſive Fines at their pleaſures, all the eſtates of Copiholders, which are a great part of the Realm, and which have continued time out of mind, &c. ſhall be at the wills of the Lords to be defeated and deſtroyed, which ſhall be inconvenient. And it was ſaid, that according to this Reſolution in this Point, it hath been adjudged in the Common Pleas in Hoddeſdon's Caſe.

2. It was reſolved, that if the Lord in caſe of incertainty of Fines aſſeſs a reaſonable Fine, and require [28] the Copiholder to pay the ſame, the Copiholder is not tied to pay it preſently, becauſe he cannot tell what Fine the Lord will ſet; Et nemo tenetur divinare; and therefore he could not provide any ſuch ſum, and for this cauſe he ſhall have convenient time to pay it, if the Lord appoint no certain day for the payment of it. But otherwiſe it is of Fines certain.

3. It was reſolved, that where a Copiholder hath ſeveral lands ſeverally holden by ſeveral ſervices by Copy, there the Lord ought to aſſeſs and demand the Fines ſeverally for every parcel which is ſo ſeverally holden. For the tenant may refuſe to pay the fine for one parcel and forfeit it, and pay the fines for the other. And it was agreed in Taverner's Caſe, every ſeveral tenure hath a ſeveral condition in Law tacite annexed to it; and therefore the Lord ought for every ſeveral tenure aſſeſs and demand a ſeveral fine: So if all the ſaid ſeveral Copiholds be ſurrendred to the uſe of another and his heirs, and the Lord admit him Tenendum per antiqua ſervicia inde prius debita & de jure conſueta, there, as it was reſolved in Taverner's Caſe, the tenures are ſeveral, and therefore the fines ought to be ſeverally aſſeſſed and demanded.

4. Popham Chief Juſtice ſaid, it was adjudged in Sand's Caſe, that no fine is due to the Lord either upon ſurrender or deſcent till admittance; for the admittance is the cauſe of the fine, and if after the tenant deny to pay the fine it is a forfeiture. And ſo it was reſolved by Wray and Periam Juſtices of Aſſiſe in evidence to a Jury in the County of Suffolk, between Sir Nicholas Bacon Knight Plaintiff, and Flatman Defendant, for a Copihold of the Mannor of Walſham in the Willowes in the County of Suffolk.

17. Trinit. 33 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Ralph Weſtwick Plaintiff and Edward Wyer and Joan his wife Defendant, the Caſe was ſuch; Alice Weſtwick was Copiholder of the tenements in which, &c. in fee, holden of the Mannor of Peter Leyſton in the County of Buck. and 12 H. 8. ſurrendred the tenements into the hands of the Lord, to the uſe of Willam Weſtwick her ſon in fee; and at the next Court holden 13 H. 8. for the ſame Mannor, the entry in the Roll was to this effect; Ad hanc Curiam venerunt Will. Weſtwick & Johanna uxor ejus, & ceperunt de Domino tenementa prædicta cum pertinentiis in quibus, &c. præf. W. Weſtwick & Joh. uxori ejus: Tenend. eiſdem W. & J. & hæred. ſuis, &c. And afterwards William died, and Joan ſurvived and ſurrendred the tenements to the uſe of the Defendants, who entred, upon whom the Plaintiff as couſin and heir of William Weſtwick entred, and the Defendants reentred; And the Plaintiff brought an Action of Treſpaſs, and all this was found in a ſpecial verdict: And it was argued by the Defendants Council, that the Defendant ought to have Judgment for divers cauſes:

[b] 1. When Alice Weſtwick did ſurrender her land to the Lord of the Mannor to the uſe of W. Weſtwick, by the ſurrender the eſtate of the Copihold is in the Lord, which he might grant to any ſtranger, as the feoffees of an uſe may do at the Common Law; and Will. Weſtwick hath no remedy but in a Court of Equity to compel the Lord to admit him; and by conſequence, when the Lord granteth the land to W. Weſtwick and to his wife in fee, this is a good grant to them both.

2. W. Weſtwick in the Caſe at Bar, having but remedy in equity to be admitted to the land, it ſhall be intended that W. Weſtwick requeſted the Lord to make a grant to him and his wife, for ſo much is implied in it, when it is ſaid, Quod ad hanc Curiam venerunt W. Weſtwick & Johanna uxor ejus, & ceperunt, &c. and every admittance of a Copihold amounteth in Law to a grant, for which they conceived that Judgment ought to be given for the Plaintiff.

To which it was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, That as to the firſt reaſon the Defendants Council had miſtaken the Law. For when Alice Weſtwick ſurrendred the land to the Lord to the uſe of W. Weſtwick, the Lord by the cuſtom (which makes the Law in ſuch caſe) hath but a cuſtomary power to make admittance ſecundum formam & effectum ſurſum redditionis, and therefore it is not to be likened to the Caſes of feoffees at the Common Law. And although the Lord granteth the land over by Copy to another, all is without Warrant, for notwithſtanding that, the Lord may make admittance according to ſurrender, as it was reſolved in Taverner's Caſe next before. And it was agreed by the whole Court, that if the Lord after ſuch ſurrender grant the land to Ceſty que uſe and a ſtranger, all ſhall enure to the Ceſtuy que uſe; or if he admit Ceſtuy que uſe upon condition, the condition is void, for after admittance he is in by him who made the ſurrender. As if a man deviſe a term to J. S. and the executors agree and assent that J. S. and J. D. shall have the term, in this Case J. S. shall have the term alone and absolutely, for after the assent of the Executors he is in by the devise. And it was said, that it hath been lately adjudged in Bunting's Case, That where a Copiholder surrendreth to the use of another for life to the Lord, and the Lord admit him to hold to him and his heirs, that yet he who is so admitted, hath but an estate for life, for he is in after the admittance by force of the surrender.

the

As to the second Objection it was answered and resolved, That without special custom, for Consuetudo loci est semper observanda, or other special matter which is the same Case, the admittance shall enure only to the husband for the causes aforesaid: For which cause Judgment was given for the Plaintiff.

18. Mich 27 & 28 Eliz. between Charls Bunting Plaintiff, and Richard Lepingwel Defendant in Trespass, the Case as it was found upon special Verdict was such; John Bunting father of the Plaintiff, and Agnes Adingshal did contract by marriage betwixt them per verba de præsenti tempore; and afterwards 10. Decemb. anno Dom. 1555. the said Agnes took to husband Thomas Twede; and afterwards 9. Julii, 1555. John Bunting libelled against the said Agnes upon the said Contract in the Court of Audience, upon the proceeding of which Libel, Decretum fuit quod præd. Agnes subiret matrimonium cum præfato Johanne Bunting: Et insuper pronunciatum, decretum & declaratum fuit dictum matrimonium fore nullum, &c. And further it was adjudged, that the said John and Agnes should entermarry, which they did, and had issue the Plaintiff, the said Thomas Twede then living, and afterwards John Bunting died; and it was further found, that one Richard Bunting father of the said John was a Copiholder in fee of the land in which, &c. holden of the Mannor of Golding in Ganiscolne in Essex; and out of Court according to the custom of the Mannor did surrender by the hands of the customary tenants unto the Lord to the use of Margaret his wife and Robert his younger son, and died, after whose death the said surrender was presented according to the custom; and thereupon the Lord of the Mannor gave admittance, and granted seisin of the land to Margaret and Robert, and to the heirs of Robert; Margaret died, Robert survived, and surrendred the land to the use of Emme his wife, and died, Emme was admitted, Charles Bunting as cousin and heir of the said Richard Bunting, scil. son and heir of John, son and heir of the said Richard entred upon Emme, and the Defendant as her servant, and by her commandment, did reenter, upon which reentry the Plaintiff brought the Action. And in this Case five Points were resolved. [29]

1. That although that Twede being de facto the husband of the said Agnes was not party to the said suit, nor to the Sentence in the Spiritual Court which dissolved the marriage betwixt him and the said Agnes, but the said Agnes only; yet the sentence against the woman only being but declaratory, was good, and shall bind the husband de facto; and for as much as the conusance of the right of marriage doth belong to the Ecclesiastical Court, and the same Court hath given sentence in this Case, the Judges of our Law ought (although it be against the reason of our Law) to give faith and credit to their proceedings and sentences, and to think that their proceedings are consonant to the Law of holy Church, for cuilibet in sua arte perito est credendum; and so always have the Judges of our Law done, as appeareth in 34 H. 6. 14. 11 H. 7. 9. 8 Ass. pl. So that it was resolved, that the Plaintiff was legitimate, and no bastard.

2. When Richard Bunting Copiholder doth surrender into the hands of the Lord to the use of the said Margaret and Robert without limitation of any estate, it was resolved, that they had estate but for their lives, for as well estates as descents shall be directed by the rules of the Law, as necessary consequents upon the custom, if there be not a special custom (which always is to be kept) within the Mannor; as these words, sibi & suis, or sibi & assignatis, or such like may by custom create an estate of Inheritance. And it was observed that the estates in these Cases limited upon surrenders, are always annexed to estates of him to whose use the surrender is made, and always the surrender to the Lord is general without limitation of any estate. [b]

3. It was resolved, That when the Lord doth make admittance and deliver seisin to Margaret and Robert, and the heirs of Robert, it was only an admittance to them for the term of their lives, the reversion over to Richard Bunting who made the surrender, because the Lord is but an instrument in this Case, and when he hath admitted according to the effect of the surrender, nothing remains in him but the reversion of the estate in him who made the surrender to dispose of as pleaseth him according to the custom of the Mannor; and those who were admitted for their lives were in by him who made the surrender, which cannot be if the reversion shall be in the Lord.

4. Although that he who is admitted is in by him who made the surrender, yet it was resolved a man may surrender (as Robert Bunting did in this Case) to the use of his wife, because the husband doth it not immediately to his wife but by two means, scil. by the surrender of the husband to the Lord to the use of the wife, and by the admittance of the Lord to the wife according to the surrender.

5. When Richard Bunting made a surrender out of Court, and died before that it was presented in Court, yet the surrender being presented after his death according to the custom is good, but if it had not been presented according to the custom, then the surrender became of no force or effect. So if the tenants by whose hands the surrender was made die, yet if the same upon good proof be presented, it is good enough. So in the Case of Kite and Queinton before, where he to whom the surrender was made died before admittance, yet his heirs shall be admitted. And this last Point was resolved without any difficulty or scruple, and that was the true Case of Bunting mentioned in Westwick's Case next before, and well agreeth with the reason of the same Case.

19. Paſch. 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Anaſtace Downe Plaintiff, and Elias Hopkins Defendant in Treſpaſs, the Caſe was; Within the Mannor of Chaldwarton in the County of Southampton there were divers cuſtomary lands and tenements; and that by cuſtom of the Mannor time out mind, &c. had been granted by copy of Court Roll of the ſame Mannor, for one, two, or three lives;
[30] Of which Mannor Sir George Pawlet and Elizabeth his wife, as in the right of his wife were ſeiſed, &c. and at a Court of the ſaid Mannor 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. granted the place where, &c. being parcel of the cuſtomary tenements, &c. to the ſaid Anaſtace durante viduitate ſua; and if this grant were according to the cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor or not was the Queſtion. And it was adjudged that this grant was within the cuſtom, for every grant durante viduitate is for life, as appeareth by Litt. 90. 37 H. 6. 27. 14 H. 8. 13. &c. but every grant for life is not durante viduitate, for a general eſtate for life is larger and more beneficial then durante viduitate. In Mich. 2 & 3 Eliz. Dier 192. iſſue was taken, whether the cuſtom of the Mannor was, that the wife of every Copiholder ſhall have the land after the death of her husband for the term of her life; and gave in evidence that the cuſtom was, that ſhe ſhould have it durante viduitate. And it was adjudged, that this evidence did not maintain the cuſtom alledged before, becauſe it is a leſſe eſtate then cuſtom pro termino vitæ was, and the effect and ſubſtance of the iſſues joyned betwixt the parties are to be proved preciſely. But in the principal Caſe it was reſolved, that the cuſtom is well purſued, becauſe the eſtate granted was leſs then the cuſtom did warrant; And that agreeth with the Reſolution before of the ſecond Point of Gravenor's Caſe. And in this Caſe it was ſaid, that the Lord of a Mannor may by word retain one to be Steward of his Mannor, and to hold the Courts thereof, as well as a Baily may be, and that by word, and this retainer ſhall ſerve till he be diſcharged, and therewith agreeth 8 Eliz. Dier 248.

20. Trinit. 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Harris and Jaye, upon a ſpecial Verdict three Points were reſolved.

1. That the Lord of a Mannor may retain one to be his Steward, and to keep his Courts by word, and this retainer ſhall endure till he be diſcharged thereof, and therewith agreeth the opinion in Caſe next before.

2. Where a Copiholder of the Queens Mannor was attainted of Felony, by which the Copihold did eſcheat, that the Queens Steward may grant the ſame over ex officio without a ſpecial warrant; for the cuſtom of the Mannor doth warrant the Steward of the Mannor for the time being to grant it, and the cuſtom bindeth the Queen and her heirs: But although he may by the Law do it, yet his duty is before he make any grant to inform the Lord Treaſurer of England, Chancellor and Barons of the Exchequer, or any of them, for his better direction, and for the more avail of the Queen in ſuch Caſes.

3. It was reſolved, That the Auditor or Receivor of the King hath not power to retain a Steward
[b] to hold the Queens Courts: But he ought (if ſuch voluntary grants by him made upon eſcheats or forfeiture ſhall be good) to have Letters Patents of the Office of the Stewardſhip of the Mannor. And it was ſaid in this Caſe, That it was adjudged in the Common Pleas in the Lady Julian Holcroft's Caſe, that whereas one was generally retained by the Lord of a Mannor by word to be Steward of a Mannor, and to keep his Courts, that ſuch Steward may take ſurrenders of cuſtomary tenants of the Court, for till ſuch Steward be diſcharged, he is Steward of the Mannor, as well by the retainer by word, as if he had a grant thereof.

21. Trinit. 37 Eliz. between Shaw and Thompſon, the Caſe was; That the Plaintiff late the wife of a Copiholder in fee, of a Mannor in which by ſpecial cuſtom women were to be endowed, recovered Dower by plaint in the Court of the Mannor; and becauſe her husband died ſeiſed, ſhe recovered 40 l. damages for the profits from the death of her husband. The woman brought an Action of debt for the 40 l. in the Kings Bench.

And in this Caſe, firſt, it was reſolved, That the wife ſhall not have Dower of a Copihold, if it be not by ſpecial cuſtom.

2. When a wife is to be endowed by cuſtom of a Copihold, then ſhe ſhall have incidents to Dower, and therefore in ſuch Caſe ſhe ſhall recover damages by the Statute of Merton cap. de viduis, &c. And therefore in the Caſe at Bar the recovery of the damages was lawful; and although they exceed 40 l. yet they were well warranted by Law: which two Points agree with the Reſolution before in Brown and Rivet's Caſe.

3. It was reſolved, That no Action of debt lieth for the ſaid damages at the Common Law, for upon ſuch Judgment no Writ of Error or falſe Judgment lieth, but the remedy is in the Court of the Mannor, or in the Chancery, which is alſo agreeing to the Reſolution in Brown's Caſe. And Fenner Juſtice ſaid, That he hath ſeen a Record of 36 H. 8. where the Lord upon a Petition to him, had for certain Errors in the proceedings, reverſed ſuch Judgment given in his own Court; And upon that the Defendant ſhall have an Audita querela to be reſtored to the damages recovered againſt him. Vide 13 R. 2. cited in Brown's Caſe, 14 H. 4. vide 7 E. 4. 29.

22. Paſch. 37 Eliz. between Hoe and Tailor, in a Writ of Error in the Kings Bench. The Writ of Error was brought upon a Judgment given in the Common Pleas, where the Caſe was ſuch; Henry Jerningham Eſquire was Lord of the Mannor of Mutford in the County of Suffolk, and Tailor claimed the Underwood of a great Wood called Mutford-Wood, parcel of the ſame Mannor to be demiſed, and demiſable time out of mind, by Copy of Court Roll of the ſame Mannor, to be cut [31] yearly by four or five acres at the moſt, and conveyed to himſelf a grant of the ſaid Underwood by Copy,

Copy, &c. according to the custom; and for trespass done in the Underwood, he brought the Action of Trespass against Hoe: And it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, that Underwood growing upon parcel of the Mannor may by custom be granted by Copy of Court Roll of the same Mannor; And that Judgment was affirmed in the Kings Bench, for it was there said, That the said Underwood may be granted by Copy, because it groweth upon parcel of the Mannor; also it is a thing of perpetuity to which custom doth extend, for after every felling the Underwood groweth again, ex stirpitibus. So it was resolved, that herbage, or any profit of any parcel of the Mannor, may by custom be granted by Copy: And it was said that a Fair appendant to the Mannor of Crokehorn in the County of Somerset is granted by Copy of the same Mannor. And that well explaineth the Resolution in Murrel's Case before, concerning the first of the pillars upon which a Copihold standeth, scil. Custom.

23. Mich. 18 & 19 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Frenches Case. If a Copihold estate be forfeited to the Lord, or Escheat, or otherwise come to the Lords hands, if the Lord make a lease for years, or for life, or other estate by Deed, or without Deed, that this land can never after be granted by Copy, for the custom is destroyed, because that during such estates, the land was not demised or demisable by Copy of Court Roll: So if the Lord make a feoffment in fee thereof upon condition, and afterwards enter for the condition broken, yet it can never be regranted by Copy; But if the Lord keep the land in his hands for a long time, or let the same at will, he, his heirs or assigns may regrant it at pleasure. So if the interruption be wrongful, as if the Lord be disseised, and the disseisor dieth seised; Or if the land be recovered against the Lord by false verdict, or erroneous Judgment; in these Cases, till the land be recovered, or the Judgment reversed by the Lord of the Mannor, the land was not demised, or demisable, and yet after the land is recontinued, the same is grantable by Copy; for, Non valet impedimentum quod de jure non sortitur effectum, & quod contra legem fit pro infecto habetur: But if the land so forfeited, or escheated before any new grant made be extended upon a Statute, or Recognisance acknowledged by the Lord; Or if the wife of the Lord hath this land assigned to her in Dower, although that these impediments are by act in Law, yet in as much as the interruptions are lawful, the lands can never again be granted by Copy. If a Copiholder accept a lease for years of the Lord of his Copihold, the Copihold is destroyed for ever, and can never be granted again: If the Copiholder take a lease for [b] years of the Mannor, by that his Copihold hath not continuance, as it was adjudged, Pasch. 17 Eliz. in Hide's Case; but in the same Case it was resolved, That such lessee may regrant the Copihold to whom he will, for the land was always demised or demisable; And if a Copihold be surrendred to the lessor of the Mannor, or be forfeited to him, he or his Executors or Assignees may regrant it: And if a Copihold escheat to the Lord, and he alieneth the Mannor by fine, feoffment, or otherwise, his alienee may regrant the land by Copy, for it was always demised or demisable: And by these Resolutions you will better understand the learning in Murrel's Case before, concerning the second pillars of Copihold, scil. demised or demisable time out of mind; &c.

THE Case was, that a Copiholder of certain lands called Collins parcel of the Mannor, &c. in pleading alledged, Quod infra Manerium præd. talis habetur, necnon a toto tempore cujus contrarii memoria hominum non existit, habebatur consuetudo, (viz.) quod quilibet tenentes præd. tenementorum vocat. Collins, had used to have Common in such a place parcel of the said Mannor; And if the custom may be alledged within the Mannor and applied but to a single Copihold was a demurrer in Law. And it was adjudged, that such custom as well for the form as for the matter was not good: For first, the Copiholder in his own name cannot prescribe for the weakness and baseness of his estate; but if he will prescribe he ought to prescribe in the name of the Lord of the Mannor, scil. to say, That the Lord of the Mannor and his Ancestors, and all those whose estate he had, have had Common in such a place for him and his Tenants at will, &c. as it appeareth in 22 H. 6. 51, &c. And that shall serve when the Copiholder claimeth Common or other profit in the soil of a stranger: But when the Copiholder claimeth Common or other profit in the Lords soil, then he cannot prescribe in the name of the Lord; For the Lord cannot prescribe to have Common or profit in his own soil; but then the Copiholder for as much as he cannot prescribe, neither in his own name, or in the Lords name, of necessity he ought to alledge, that within the Mannor is such a custom as in the Case at Bar: And as when the Copiholder claimeth Common or other profit in the soil of the Lord, he ought to claim it by custom of the Mannor; so when he claimeth in the land of another which is not parcel of the Mannor, he cannot claim it by the custom of the Mannor; for the custom is, Quod infra Manerium talis, &c. consuetudo, and therefore he [32] cannot apply it, or by force thereof claim any thing out of the Mannor, as it was done 21 Eliz. Dier, and therefore it was clearly mispleaded; but in such Case he ought to prescribe in the name of the Lord.

Note a good difference between prescription which is personal, and is always done in the name of a person certain and his Ancestors, or those whose estate he hath, and custom which is local and alledged in no person, but within the Mannor, &c. is such custom, and that serveth for them who cannot prescribe in their own name, nor in the name of any person certain, as Inhabitants of a Town, &c. as it appeareth in 15 E. 4. 29. 40 Ass. 41. 2 Ma. Br. Prescription 100. 6 E. 6. Dier 71. Also allegation of a custom shall serve when it is referred to insensible things, scil. that all such lands are devisable, &c. or the like. Vide 40 Ass. 41. And because in the Case at Bar the custom may have a reasonable beginning; That a Copiholder only should have Common, or Estovers, or other profit only in the land of the Lord, and that in many Mannors, some Copiholders have had Common in a wast of a Mannor, and others in another severally, so as the custom cannot be applied to all; And because that all the other Copiholders may be determined or extinct, for these causes that the custom was well alledged in the Case at Bar, as well for the manner as for the matter; And such custom for a Copiholder to have Common mon of Eſtovers in the Lords Wood parcel of the Mannor whereof the Copihold was holden, was adjudged to be good. Paſch. 10 Eliz. as it was ſaid in this Caſe. Vide 21 E. 3. 34. 1 Ma. Dier 114. 5 E. 6. Dier 70, 71. And becauſe that it hath been often ſaid, That the cuſtom of the Mannor is the ſoul and life of the Copiholders, it was needful in my opinion to add this Caſe, to ſhew how he ſhall alledge the cuſtom, and when and how he ſhall preſcribe.

Paſch. 26 Eliz.

Mitton's Caſe.

[b] QUeen Elizabeth by her Letters Patents under the Great Seal, did conſtitute and grant the Office of Clerk of the County Court, or Shire-Clerk of the County of Somerſet to Mitton, with all fees, &c. for term of his life. And afterwards the Queen did make Arthur Hopton Eſquire Sheriff of the ſame County, who interrupted Mitton, claiming that which was granted to Mitton to be incident to his Office of Sheriff; and thereupon he did appoint a Clerk himſelf of the County Court. Mitton thereupon complained to the Lords of the Council, who referred the conſideration of the validity of the grant of the ſaid Office to the two Chief Juſtices Wray and Anderſon, before whom the matter was often debated; And Mitton's Council did argue, that the grant was good in Law for three cauſes:

1. Becauſe the County Court is the Queens Court, and in it as to all Actions and proceedings by Juſtices, or other Writ, or by Plaint, the Suitors are the Judges, and the Sheriff but the Miniſter; And as to Utlagaries, the Coroners are Judges; and in proof thereof were cited 6 E. 4. 3. b. 7 E. 4. 23. 39 H. 6. 5. 26 Aſſ. 45. And therefore it was concluded, that the Queen in her own Court may appoint a County Clerk to enter the Judgments and proceedings in the ſame Court.

2. That Arthur Hopton (who was Sheriff after the Patent) cannot avoid it, and principally becauſe the Sheriff hath his Office but at the will of the Queen, which Office at her pleaſure ſhe may determine in part or in all; And the Queen hath granted the ſaid Office of Shire Clerk to Mitton for the term of his life, and therefore the ſaid Sheriff cannot avoid it.

[33] 3. Mitton's Council ſhewed two or three Precedents, by which it appeareth that ſuch Offices had been granted in the time of King H. 8. and after; and that was the ſubſtance of all which was ſaid for the maintenance of the ſaid Letters Patents. And after many Arguments (becauſe the Caſe did concern the validity of the Queens grant) the two Chief Juſtices had conference with the other Juſtices, and upon conſideration had of the Letters Patents, and of all that was ſaid in maintenance of them, it was reſolved by all the Juſtices nullo contradicente aut reluctante, That the ſaid Letters Patents were void in Law; and the reaſons and cauſes of their Judgment were:

1. That the Office of Sheriff is an ancient Office which had continuance long before the Conqueſt, and is an Office of great truſt and authority; for the King doth commit to him cuſtodiam Comitatus, the cuſtody and guard of the County; And when the King doth appoint a Sheriff durante beneplacito, although he may determine his Office at his pleaſure, yet he cannot determine it in part, as in one Town, or Hundred, or any other part, nor abridge the Sheriff of any thing incident, or appurtenant to his Office, for the Office is intire, and ſo ought to continue in his intierty without any fraction or diminution, if it be not by Act of Parliament, or that the King make any Town a County in it ſelf, and appoint a Sheriff and all things incident to a Sheriff within the ſame Town; but cannot determine the Office of the Sheriff, or any part without making a new Sheriff, ſcil. for the execution and adminiſtration of Juſtice. And it was reſolved, that the County Court, and the entring of all proceedings there are incident to the Office of Sheriff, and therefore cannot by Letters Patents be divided from it. And although the ſaid grant had been made to Mitton when the Office of Sheriff was void, yet it had been void, and when the Queen hath appointed one, he ſhall avoid it. And ſo it was ſaid it was adjudged in Scrogge's Caſe in the beginning of the Reign or Queen Elizabeth where the Caſe was; That in time of vacation of the Office of Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Queen Mary granted the Office of the Exigenter of London to Scrogges, and it was holden void, becauſe it was incident to the Office of Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, which the Queen cannot have, and the next Chief Juſtice ſhall avoid it.

And as to the firſt Objection it was anſwered, That in all Writs directed to Sheriffs concerning the County Court, the King ſaith, In Comitatu ſuo; And in all returns of Exigents made by him he ſaith, ad Comitatum meum tentum, &c. And the ſtile of the Court proveth the ſame alſo: And by the Statute of 33 H. 8. cap. 13. it is provided by the King, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons [b] in Parliament aſſembled, That the Sheriff of the County of Denbigh, ſhall keep his Shire Court at the Shire Hall in the ſaid County, &c. by which (as by many other Parliaments) it appeareth, that the County or Shire Court is the Court of the Sheriff, and although the Suitors be there Judges in ſome caſes, yet non ſequitur that the Court doth not belong to the Sheriff, for in a Court Baron the Suitors are Judges, and yet the Court doth belong to the Lord of the Mannor.

As to the ſecond Objection it is anſwered before, becauſe that the County Court is incident to the Office of Sheriff, as the Sheriffs turn is.

To

To the third Objection, it was anſwered, Quod judicandum eſt legibus, non exemplis. But for a general anſwer to all Objections, and all others which may be made, it was ſaid, that great inconvenience would befal Sheriffs, who are great and ancient Officers and Miniſters of Juſtice, if ſuch grants ſhall be of validity, for by ſuch, as well the entring of all proceedings in the ſame Court, as the cuſtody of the entries and Rolls thereof do belong to the Office of Sheriff, and that is proved by the Writ of Faux Judgment, of an erroneous Judgment given in the County Court, the form of which Writs is ſuch; Jacobus, &c. Vicec' S. ſalutem, ſi A. fecerit. &c. tunc in pleno Com. tuo recordari facias loquelam, which is, in eodem Comitatu per breve noſtrum de recto, inter A. petentem, &c. unde idem A. queritur falſum ſibi factum fuiſſe judicium in eodem Com. & record. illud habeas coram Juſticiariis noſtris apud Weſtm. &c. ſub ſigillo tuo, & per quatuor legales milites ejuſdem Com. ex illis quæ Recordo illo interfuer', &c. And the ſame alſo appeareth by the precept of a Tolt which the Sheriff maketh to remove a Plea in any Court Baron before him in his County, the words of the Precept are, Et loquelam, &c. tollas, & ſummoneas, &c. prædict. J. quod ſit ad Comitatum meum S. ſcil. die Lunæ, &c. tenend'. And in all Writs to remove any plea out of the County into the Common Pleas, the King calleth the County Court the Sheriffs Court; And if the Sheriffs do not certifie by force of ſuch Writs the Record, then at the laſt iſſueth Proceſs of contempt: And if the Record be imbezilled, the Sheriff ſhall anſwer for it, and therefore it ſhall be full of danger and damage to Sheriffs, if others ſhall be appointed to keep their entries and Rolls of the County Court, and yet the Sheriff anſwers for them as immediate Officer to the Court; And therefore the Sheriff ſhall appoint Clerks under him in his County Court, for whom he ſhall anſwer at his peril; The ſame Law is of the Sheriffs Turn: And Law and reaſon requireth, that the Sheriff who is a publick Officer and Miniſter of Juſtice, and who hath any Office of ſuch eminency, confidence, peril and charge, ought to have all rights appertaining to his Office, and ought to be favoured in Law before any private perſon for his ſingular benefit and avail.

[34]

Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz. at Serjeants-Inne in Fleetſtreet it was reſolved by Popham and Anderſon Chief Juſtices, and all the Judges of England, That the keeping of Gaols of the Counties of right belong and are annexed and incident by the Law to the Office of Sheriffs: And that appeareth by the Judgment in Parliament, anno 14 E. 3. cap. 10. by which it is ordained and enacted, That all Gaols of Counties ſhall be joyned again to Sheriffs, and the Sheriffs ſhall have the keeping of the ſame Gaols, as before times the Sheriffs uſed to have; and that they put in ſuch Gaolers for whom they will anſwer. Upon which it was reſolved by all the Juſtices, that the grants of cuſtody of Gaols of Counties, (now lately, or by King H. 8. or after granted to ſundry perſons) were utterly void: And for as much as the keeping of them doth belong to the Office of Sheriff, who being immediate Officer to the Kings Courts ſhall anſwer for all eſcapes, and ſhall be ſubject to amercements if he have not the body in Court upon Proceſs directed to him, &c. it is reaſon that he put in ſuch Keepers of the ſaid Gaols for whom he will anſwer, according to the purview of the ſaid Act of 14 E. 3. And therefore it ſhall be againſt all reaſon, that he ſhall anſwer for Eſcapes out of the ſaid Gaols, and that he ſhall be ſubject to amercements for not having the bodies of Priſoners, &c. and yet another ſhall have the keeping and cuſtody of the Gaol: Which Reſolution agreeth in reaſon with the ſaid Reſolution in Mitton's Caſe, and therefore I have added the ſame in this place.

Mich. 26 & 27 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Bozoun's Caſe.

[b]

THE Caſe between Flutter Plaintiff, and Bozoun and others Defendant, as it was found by ſpecial Verdict was ſuch; A portion of Tithes in Longham, in the County of Norfolk, appertaining to the Rectory of Greſenhall, which was a Rectory preſentable, and all the other Tithes in Longham were parcel of the Rectory of Longham, which was appropriate to the late Monaſtery of Sendling within the ſame County; of which Rectory of Longham Queen Elizabeth was ſeiſed in her demeſne as of fee in the right of her Crown; And by her Letters Patents bearing date 26. Januarii, anno 12. of her Reign, Ex gratia ſpeciali, certa ſcientia, & mero motu granted to Nicaſius Yertſworth and Bartholomew Brockesby and their heirs, Totam illam portionem decimarum & garbarum ſuarum in Longham in Com. Norf. cum omnibus aliis decimis ſuis quibuſcunque in Longham in dict. Com. Norf. tunc vel nuper in occupatione Joh. Corbet. And further granted by the ſaid Letters Patents, that it ſhall be of force and effect againſt the Queen, her heirs and ſucceſſors, Non obſtante male nominando, vel male recitando præd. portionem decimar. & aliorum præmiſſ. Et non obſtante aliquibus aliis defectis in non nominando, vel male recitando, vel non nominando alicujus tenentis ſive occupatoris. And it was further found by the Jurors, That the ſaid John Corbet never had any Tithes in Longham in his occupation; And if all the Tithes in Longham parcel of the ſaid Rectory of Longham ſhall paſs by the ſaid Letters Patents or not was the Queſtion. And in this Caſe four Queſtions were moved.

1. If the latter words, ſcil. in the occupation of John Corbet, ſhall refer to the firſt words, ſcil. totam illam portionem decimarum & garbarum ſuarum in Longham in dicto Com. Norf. or only to the latter words, ſcil. cum omnibus aliis decimis, &c.

2. When

2. When the Queen granteth, totam illam portionem decimarum & garbarum in Longham, if the Tithes which were parcel of the Rectory of Longham ſhall paſs.

3. If the ſaid firſt words, totam illam portionem decimarum, were ſo certain, that the latter words being falſe, ſhall not make the grant, but the ſuperfluous words void.

4. If the Non obſtante ſhall help the defect of the miſtaking of the Farmer.

As to the firſt it was reſolved by Sir Chriſtopher Wray Chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy and the whole Court, that the latter words do refer to all the ſentence: 1. Becauſe the words are, totam illam portionem decimarum & garbarum ſuarum, &c. ſo that this Pronoun (illam) ſheweth plainly which ought to be words ſubſequents to explain and reduce into certainty what portion by the Queens intent ſhall be granted, ſcil. that which was in the occupation of John Corbet, and therefore this Pronoun (illam) is not ſatisfied till it come to the full end of the ſentence. 2. This conjunction, cum omnibus aliis decimis ſuis, &c. coupleth the latter words to the firſt, and ſhall make the words ſubſequent to refer to the whole ſentence. 3. If the firſt words ſhall convey all the Tithes of the ſaid Rectory, then the addition of the occupation of John Corbet to the ſubſequent words ſhall be vain and idle; Et maledicta expoſitio eſt quæ corrumpit textum.

To the ſecond Queſtion, it was reſolved, that this word (portio) properly doth ſignifie a part or portion in groſs divided, and not parcel of the Rectory of Longham. And in the Caſe at Bar the Queen hath not any portion of Tithes in groſs, but all were parcel of the Rectory: And although the Queens grant be, Ex gratia ſpeciali, certa ſcientia, & mero motu, yet the ſame ſhall not extend the Queens grant againſt her intent and meaning expreſſed in her grant, nor by any ſtrained conſtruction to make any thing to paſs againſt the apt and proper ſignification, or at leaſt the common and uſual intendment of the words of her grant: And as well the apt and proper ſignification as the uſual intendment of a portion of Tithes, is of Tithes in groſs, and not parcel of the Rectory, and therefore no Tithes parcel of the Rectory in the Caſe at Bar ſhall paſs.

And as to the third Point, when the Queen granteth totam illam portionem, &c. adtunc vel nuper in occupatione Johannis Corbet, and Corbet hath not any Tithes there; It was reſolved, that nothing paſſeth thereby: For admit that this word (portio) ſhall be taken for a part, then the effect of the grant is, totam illam partem decimarum noſtrarum in occupatione Johannis Corbet, and in truth he never had any part, without queſtion nothing ſhall paſs for the incertainty, if it were in the Caſe of a common perſon, a fortiori in the Queens Caſe. [b]

To the laſt Point theſe differences were taken and reſolved by the Court, ſcil. when a clauſe of Non obſtante ſhall make the Kings grant good, when not. 1. When the King by the Common Law cannot in any manner make a grant, there a Non obſtante of the Common Law will not againſt the reaſon of the Common Law make the grant good; but when the King by the Common Law may lawfully make the grant, but the Common Law doth require that he be inſtructed, that he be not deceived, there a Non obſtante ſupplying it, ſtands with the reaſon of the Common Law, and ſhall make the grant good. And therefore if the King grant a Protection in a Quare Impedit, or Aſſiſe with Non obſtante of any Law to the contrary, this grant is void; for by the Common Law Protection doth not lie in any of theſe Caſes, for the loſs may accrue to the Plaintiff by ſuch great delay. And therefore the Non obſtante cannot help, when the King by the Common Law cannot grant it for the reaſon aforeſaid, as it is ruled in 39 H. 6. 39. But when the King maketh a leaſe for life, or for years, he hath the reverſion in him which he may lawfully grant; But the Law doth require that in this Caſe the King be not deceived in his eſtate, ſcil. to grant the poſſeſſion of the land, where he hath but the reverſion: And therefore when he granteth the land, notwithſtanding that it be in leaſe for life, or years, of Record or otherwiſe; Or if he grant the land, and further grant the reverſion dependant or expectant upon it upon any eſtate for life or years, in both theſe Caſes the grant is good; Firſt, becauſe it ſtands with the reaſon of the Common Law, ſcil. that the King be not deceived in his grant. 2. In ſome caſe it may be doubtful whether the leaſe in poſſeſſion be good or no; and if the King doth recite it, and granteth the reverſion, and after it ſhall be determined by the Judgment of the Law that the leaſe was void, the grant ſhall be void alſo, which often trencheth to the diſenheriſon of the Patentee, which hazard is avoided by this Reſolution. 3. Admitting that all the leaſes be good, if they all ought to be recited, or otherwiſe, the Letters Patents ſhall be void: 1. It ſhall be great peril to the Patentee if he omit or miſrecite any of them: 2. Greater peril if any leaſe be not enrolled: 3. Great charge in ſearch for them, and greater charge in recital of them, which in ſome caſes draw the Letters Patents to ſuch infinite length, that they deſerve to be called Elephanti libri; and all this charge, peril, and prolixity is helped by this Reſolution.

2. When the words of the grant be not ſufficient ex vi termini to paſs the thing granted, but the grant is utterly void, there any Non obſtante cannot make the grant good: As in the Caſe at Bar the King granteth totam illam portionem decimarum in Longham, nuper in tenura J. G. here the addition of J. C. as hath been ſaid, is of the ſubſtance of the grant, and becauſe that J. C. never had any portion there, the grant is void ex vi termini, and therefore Non obſtante cannot make it good: But in caſe of grant of land which is in leaſe for life, or years, there by the grant of the lands the words are ſufficient ex vi termini to make the reverſion to paſs; but the Law requireth that the King be not deceived in the thing which he granteth, and that is ſupplied by the Non obſtante: And ſo the caſe of reverſion which was ſtrongly urged of the Plaintiffs part, is upon evident reaſon anſwered and reſolved. William Daniel and Robert Snagge were of Council with the Plaintiff, and Godfrey and Coke with the Defendant. And the ſaid Letters Patents were not made good by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 2. for they were Patents of concealments, and therefore by expreſs Proviſo excepted out of the ſaid Act. [36]

Mich.

Mich. 26 & 27 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Tirringham's Case.

IN Treſpaſs between Pheſant Plaintiff, and Salmon Defendant, the Caſe was ſuch; Tho. Tirringham was ſeiſed of a houſe, 44 acres of land, 7 acres of meadow, and two acres of paſture in Titchmerſh in the County of Northampton; to which houſe, meadow, and paſture, he and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath, had uſed to have common of paſture for oxen, cows, and calves, levant and couchant upon the houſe, land, meadow, and paſture, as well in 30 acres of land in the ſame Town, (whereof one John Pickering was then ſeiſed in fee) as in 40 acres of land and paſture in Titchmerſh aforeſaid (whereof one Boniface Pickering was then ſeiſed in fee) as to the ſaid houſe, land meadow, and paſture appertaining. And afterwards the ſaid Boniface Pickering being ſeiſed as aforeſaid of the ſaid 40 acres purchaſed to him and his heirs the ſaid houſe, 44 acres of land, 7 acres of meadow, and two acres of paſture to which, &c. And ſo ſeiſed as well of the ſaid 40 acres in which, as of the ſaid tenements, to which, &c. demiſed the houſe, land, meadow, and paſture to which, &c. to Pheaſant, who put in two cows into the ſaid 30 acres to uſe the ſaid common. And the ſaid Salmon who was Farmer of the ſaid John Pickering, with a little Dog, leviter & moliter drove out the ſaid cows; And the ſaid Pheſant brought his Action of Treſpaſs for chaſing of his cattel. And in this Caſe divers Points were reſolved by Wray Chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court. [b]

Firſt, that preſcription doth not make a thing appendant, if not that the thing which ſhall be appendant agree in quality and nature to the thing to the which it ſhall be appendant; as a thing corporate cannot be appendant to a thing corporate, nor a thing incorporate to a thing incorporate, as it is holden in Hill and Granges Caſe, Plow. Com. 168. But a thing incorporate, as an advowſon to a thing corporate as a Mannor, or a thing corporate as land, to a thing incorporate as an Office, as it is there alſo holden: But every thing incorporate cannot be ſaid appendant to a thing corporate; as common of Turbary cannot be appendant to land, but to a houſe, as it is holden in 5 Aſſ. 9. for the thing which is appendant ought to agree with the nature and quality of the thing to which it is appendant, as Turfs are to be ſpent in a houſe: So 10 E. 3. 4. a Leet cannot be appendant to a Church or Chappel, for they are of ſeveral natures. The beginning of common appendant by the old Law was in ſuch manner; When a Lord did enfeoff another of arrable land, to hold of him in Socage, that is per ſervicium Socæ, as every ſuch tenure at the beginning (as Littleton ſaith) was, The feoffee ad manutenendum ſervitium Socæ, was to have common in the Lords Waſts for his neceſſary cattel which ploughed and manured his land, and that for two cauſes: [37]

1. Becauſe it was (as it was then holden) tacite implied in the feoffment; for the feoffee cannot plough and manure his land without cattel, and they cannot be kept without paſture, and by conſequence the feoffee ſhall have (as a thing neceſſary and incident) common in the Lords waſts and land, and that appeareth by the old Books in temps E. 1. Common 24. & 17 E. 2. Common 23. & 20 E. 3. Admeaſurement 8. & 18 E. 3. and by the rehearſal of the Statute of Merton, cap. 4.

The ſecond reaſon was for the maintenance and advancement of Tillage, which is much reſpected and favoured in Law. So that ſuch common appendant is of common right, and commenceth by operation of Law, and in favour of Tillage, and therefore he needeth not preſcribe therein, as it is holden in 4 H. 6. & 22 H. 6. as he ought if it were againſt common right; But it is only appendant to ancient land arrable Hide and Gain and only for cattel, ſcil. horſes and oxen to plough the land, and cows and ſheep to manure his land, and all for the bettering and advancement of Tillage; And with this Reſolution agreeth 37 H. 6. 3. per Curiam, & 29 H. 8. 4. as to the latter Point. And therefore it is againſt the nature of a common appendant, to be appendant to meadow or paſture; and therefore becauſe in the Caſe at Bar the preſcription was to have common appendant time out of mind, &c. to a houſe, meadow, and paſture, as well as arrable land, by which appeareth to the Court that there had been a houſe, and meadow, and paſture time out of mind, &c. for this cauſe it was reſolved, that this common was appurtenant and not appendant. But if a man hath had common for cattel which ſerve his plough appendant to his land, and perhaps of late time a houſe is built upon part of it, and ſome part is imployed to paſture, and ſome part for meadow, and the ſame for the maintenance of Tillage which was the original cauſe of the common, in this Caſe the common doth remain appendant, and ſhall be intended in reſpect of the common uſage of common for cattel levant and couchant upon ſuch land at the beginning all was arrable, but in pleading he ought to preſcribe to have it appendant to land, and although that terra dicitur a terendo, quia vomere teritur, yet terra includeth all, and although now it is paſture or meadow, yet it is arrable, id eſt, it may be ploughed, although it be not now in Tillage and ploughed: But if he preſcribe to have it appendant to a houſe, or meadow, or paſture, then it appeareth upon his own ſhewing as it hath been ſaid, That there hath been always a houſe, meadow, and paſture, and then he cannot have common appendant to it, but ſuch is common appurtenant. A man may preſcribe to have common appendant to his Mannor, for all the demeſns ſhall be intended arrable, or at leaſt ſhall be in conſtruction of Law reddendo ſingula ſingulis appendant to ſuch demeſnes as are ancient arrable land, and not to any land newly gained or improved to be arrable out of the Waſts and Moors parcel of the Mannor, and therewith agreeth 5 Aſſ. 2. [b] of land, and yet a Carve, or a Plough-land may contain paſture, meadow, and wood, as it is holden in 6 E. 3. 42. but no incongruity appeareth there, and it ſhall be applied to that which agreeth with the nature and quality of a common appendant.

Alſo when a man claimeth common appendant to his Mannor, no incongruity, as in the Caſe at the Bar appeareth upon his own ſhewing. So common may be claimed to be appendant to a Carve

2. It was reſolved, That common appendant may be apportioned for two reaſons: 1. Becauſe it is of common right, and therefore if the commoner purchace parcel of the land in which, &c. yet the common ſhall be apportioned; As if the Lord purchace parcel of the Tenancy the rent ſhall be apportioned: So if A. hath common appendant to 20 acres of land, and enfeoffeth B. of part of the ſaid 20 acres to which, &c. this common ſhall be apportioned, and B. ſhall have pro rata. And where it was objected, that the preſcription faileth in both the caſes; for in the firſt caſe he never had common in part of the land only, but intirely in all; and it ſhall be now a prejudice to the Tenant if he ſhall have common in the 30 acres only for all the cattel levant and couchant upon all the tenements to which, &c. And in the latter caſe, no common was ever appendant to part of the land, but intirely to the whole. Alſo in Aſſiſe of common all the Terre tenants ought to be named, and that cannot be when the commoner himſelf hath purchaſed part of the land.

As to theſe Objections, it was anſwered and reſolved, That as to the firſt, the preſcription ought to be [38] ſpecial, ſcil. to preſcribe to have common in the whole till ſuch a day, and then to ſhew the purchace of part, and from that time that he hath put in his cattel into the reſidue pro rata portione; As in the caſes, when a Corporation hath liberties by preſcription, and within time of memory the Corporation is altered, there ought to be ſpecial preſcription: As to the ſecond Caſe, ſcil. when part of the land to which, &c. is aliened there every of them may preſcribe to have common for cattel levant and couchant upon his land, and in none of theſe Caſes no prejudice doth accrue to the Tenant of the land in which the common is to be had, for he ſhall not be charged with more upon the matter then he was before the ſeverance; And God forbid the Law ſhould not be ſo, when part of the land to which, &c. is aliened; for otherwiſe many commons in England (which God forbid) ſhall be avoided and loſt. And it was agreed, that ſuch common which is admeaſurable, ſhall remain after the ſeverance of part of the land to which, &c. But in the Caſe at Bar, for as much as the Court reſolved, That the common was appurtenant and not appendant, and ſo againſt common right, it was adjudged, That by the ſaid purchace all the common was extinct. For in ſuch Caſe common appurtenant cannot be extinct in part, and be in eſſe for part by the act of the parties.

And as to the laſt Objection, it was anſwered and reſolved, That if upon the matter the common appendant ſhall be apportioned, then the Terre-tenant ſhall be only out of the land charged with the reſidue of the common, as in the Caſe of a rent-charge apportioned in caſe of deſcent, the tenant of the land ſhall be only named out of which the reſidue of the rent which remaineth iſſueth. And it was ſaid, that in this Caſe the word (pertinens) is Latin, as well for appurtenant as appendant, and therefore (ſubjecta materia) and the circumſtance of the Caſe ought to direct the Court to judge the common to be appendant, or appurtenant.

3. It was reſolved, That unity of poſſeſſion of the whole land to which, &c. and of the whole land in which, &c. make extinguiſhment of a common appendant againſt the opinions 11 E. 3. Common 11. 14 Aſſ. 21. 15 Aſſ. 2. 20 E. 3. Admeaſurement 8. The reaſons of which opinions was, becauſe the land to which the common was claimed was ancient land Hide and Gain, and for maintenance and the advancement of Tillage, but in as much as it was againſt a Rule in Law, ſcil. That a man hath as high and perdurable eſtate as well in the land as in the rent, common, and other profit iſſuing out of the ſame land, there the rent, common, and profit is extinct, and therewith agreeth 24 E. 3. 25.

4. In this Caſe Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, That common for cauſe of vicinage is not common appendant, but in as much as it ought to be by preſcription time out of mind, &c. as common appendant
[b] ought, the ſame is in this reſpect reſembled to common appendant, but common appurtenant and in groſs ought at this day begin either by grant, or preſcription. And Wray Chief Juſtice further ſaid, That in Caſe of common for cauſe of vicinage one may encloſe againſt another; for he who hath ſuch common cannot put his cattel in the land of the other, but they ought to put them in the land where they have common, and if they eſtray into the other land, they are excuſed of Treſpaſs, by reaſon of ancient uſage which the Law alloweth to avoid ſuits which would ariſe, if Actions ſhall be brought for every ſuch Treſpaſs, when no ſeverance or encloſure is between the commons, and therefore he ſaid, that one may encloſe againſt the other, for ceſſante cauſa ceſſat effectus.

5. It was reſolved without any difficulty, That when the Plaintiffs cattel cometh into the land of the Defendant, and doth him Treſpaſs, the Defendant with a little Dog may chaſe them out, and ſhall not be compelled to diſtrain them damage feaſant. Note Reader, according to the ſaid opinion of Wray Chief Juſtice, it was of late adjudged in the Kings Bench, between Smith Plaintiff, and Howe and Roman Defendants, where the Caſe was; That two Lords of two ſeveral Mannors have two ſeveral Waſts adjoyning (parcels of their Mannor joyning) without incloſure or ſeverance, and yet the bounds of each Mannor was well known by certain bounds and marks, in which Waſts the tenants of the one Mannor and the other, have reciprocally common for cauſe of vicinage; in this Caſe one may encloſe againſt the other, and thereby utterly take away the common by cauſe of vicinage. Againſt which two Objections were made.

1. Becauſe the ſame hath been uſed by preſcription time out of mind of man, the beginning of which cannot be known, it ſhall be now hard to break that which hath had ſuch continuance. For as it is ſaid, Obtemperandum eſt conſuetudini rationabili tanquam legi.

2. It may be that the Waſt was of greater or of leſſer value then the other, and it may be that thoſe who had the leſſer at the beginning gave recompence to have this common in the greater, and therefore it ſhall not now be reaſonable to defeat it. As to theſe it was anſwered and reſolved, That the preſcription importeth reciprocal cauſe in it ſelf, ſcil. for cauſe of vicinage, and no other cauſe can be be imagined; and for as much as the ſame is rather an excuſe of the Treſpaſs when the cattel of the tenants of the one Mannor ſtray into the waſt of the other Mannor, then any certain Inheritance: For it was clearly reſolved, that the Tenants of the one Mannor cannot put their cattel into the Waſts of the other Mannor, but they come there only by eſcape, and that the encloſure is only to prevent the eſcape of the cattel (which is a lawful act.) For theſe cauſes it was adjudged, That one may encloſe againſt the other. [39]

Note Reader, Agriculture and Tillage is greatly reſpected and favoured by the Common Law, as by common aſſent of the King, Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and all the Commons in ſeveral Parliaments.

1. The Common Law doth prefer arrable land before all other, and therefore for its dignity ought to be named in every Præcipe before meadow, paſture, wood, or other ſoil. And it appeareth by the Statute 4 H. 7. cap. 9. that there are ſix inconveniences brought in by ſubverſion and converting of Tillage into paſture, tending to two lamentable conſequents. The firſt inconvenience is the increaſe of idleneſs, the root and cauſe of all miſchiefs. 2. Depopulation and decreaſe of populous Towns, and maintenance of two or three Heardſmen only who keep cattel, in the place of great number of ſtrong and able men. 3. Churches for default of Inhabitants are waſted and deſtroyed. 4. The ſervice of God. 5. Injury and wrong done to Patrons and Curats. 6. The defence of the land for want of ſtrong men, and patient of labours againſt Forreign Enemies, enfeebled and empaired.

The two conſequents are; firſt, theſe inconveniences tend to the great diſpleaſure of God; ſecondly, to the ſubverſion of the policy and good government of the land, and all this by decay of Tillage, which there is ſaid to be one of the greateſt commodities of this Realm, which one Act of Parliament as to this purpoſe may be as a figure in Arithmetick in the third place to ſtand for a hundred. But I have obſerved, that the moſt excellent policy and aſſured means for increaſe and the advancement of Agriculture, is to provide that corn ſhall be of reaſonable and competent value; For make what Statutes you will, if the Plough-man hath not competent gain for his exceſſive labour, and great charge, he will not imploy his labour and charge, without reaſonable gain for to ſuſtain him and his poor family.

Caſes of Appeals and Indictments.

1. HIll. 28 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Brook's Caſe. Richard Vaux brought a Appeal of Burglary againſt Thomas Brook, and counted that the Defendant domum manſionalem præd. Richardi Vaux felonice & burgaliter fregit, &c. The Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty; And by a Jury of the County of Buckingham which the ſame Term appeared at the Bar, he was convicted of the felony and burglary aforeſaid. And in arreſt of Judgment it was moved by the Defendants Council that the count was inſufficient, becauſe that this word (burgaliter) was not of any ſignification, but the count ought to be burglariter or burgulariter, and the offence is called Burglary, or Burgulary, and not Burgale, for there wants l. between g. and a. and in the latter ſyllable l. is interpoſed in the place of r. and Burgulariter eſt vox artis, as felonice, murdravit, rapuit, excambium, warrantizare, frankalmoigne, frankmarriage, and divers others which cannot be expreſſed by any periphraſis or circumlocution: And this word Burglary is derived of theſe two words Burghe and laron, and therefore Burglary or Burgulary is good enough: but not Burgale, for that wanteth ſence. And many preſidents warrant burgulariter to be good, but none was found to warrant burgaliter. And upon this Exception the Court would adviſe till the next Term, and in the interim the Plaintiff died; and the ſame was ſhewed to the Court by the Defendants Council as amicus Curiæ, and proved by ſufficient witneſs; And thereupon the Court was moved, that for as much that for this felony and burglary he was once convicted at the ſuit of the party, that he cannot ever be charged with the ſame offence at the ſuit of the King, and that he might be thereof diſcharged; and upon that the Court took time to adviſe: And it was reſolved, That if the Count had been ſufficient, yet being convict at the ſuit of the party he ſhall not be again impeached at the Kings ſuit. But it was reſolved, that the Count was inſufficient, and thereupon he was diſcharged. And in this Caſe upon the evidence Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, That if a man hath a Manſion-houſe, and he and all his family upon ſome occaſion are part of the night out of the houſe, and in the mean time one cometh and breaketh the houſe to commit felony, the ſame is Burglary; for although that the Owner, or any of the family be in the houſe, yet it is domus manſionalis; and the words of Appeal, or Indictment of Burglary are domum manſionalem præd. R. V. fregit, &c. And according to this opinion it was reſolved Hill. 38 Eliz. by Popham Chief Juſtice, and all the Juſtices, That where one hath two houſes, and dwelleth ſometimes in the one, and ſometimes in the other, and hath a family or ſervants in both, and in the night when his ſervants are out of the houſe, the houſe is broken by Thieves, that is Burglary, for the reaſon that Wray Chief Juſtice gave. [b]

2. PAſch. 35 Eliz. Wetherel brought an Appeal againſt Darly of murder, the Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty, and was found guilty of Manſlaughter, and had his Clergy; and afterwards was indicted of murder, and thereupon arraigned at the Queens ſuit; and he pleaded the former conviction in the appeal at the ſuit of the party: And it was adjudged a good bar, and thereupon he was discharged, for it was a bar at the Common Law, and restrained by no Statute; and the reason is, because the life of man shall not be twice put in jeopardy for the same offence.

3. Trinit. 28 Eliz. Young's Case. At the Assises holden in Sussex 25. Feb. 28 Eliz. before the Justices of Assise, H. Young, W. Garland and others were indicted de eo quod ipsi 6. Augusti, anno 27. vi & armis, videlicet gladiis, &c. apud Lewes prædict', ex malitiis suis præcogitatis in quendam Thomam Butcher, nuper de Lewes, &c. Yeoman, adtunc & ibidem in pace Dei & dictæ Dominæ Reginæ existen. insultum & affraiam fecerunt, & præd. W. Garland, cum uno gladio de ferro & chalybe ad valentiam 5 s. quem idem Willielmus in manu sua dextra adtunc & ibidem habuit & tenuit, violenter & felonice & ex malitia sua præcogitat. præfatum Thomam Butcher adtunc & ibidem percussit, dans eidem Thomæ Butcher adtunc & ibidem unam plagam mortalem super faciem ipsius Thomæ Butcher, & cum præd. gladio amputavit nasum suum a [b] facie sua, partem labiorum suorum, ac partem menti sui vocat. the Chin, Et præd. Henricus Young cum quodam alio gladio, &c. (ut supra) præfatum Thomam Butcher adtunc & ibidem percussit & perforavit, dans eidem Th. Butcher adtunc & ibidem unam aliam plagam mortalem (circiter pectus) usque ad ossa humer. ipsius Th. Butcher, latitudinis unius pollicis & dimid', & profunditatis septem pollicium, de quibus quidem plagis & vulneribus sic per præf. W. G. & H. Y. in forma præd. prius dat', dictus Tho. Butcher eodem 6. die Augusti an. 27. suprad. apud Lewes prædict. in Com. prædict. instanter obiit; Et præd. Th. Bruer præd. 6. die Augusti ano 27. supradict. apud Lewes præd. in Com. præd. ex malitia sua præcogitat. fuit felonice præsens, abbettans, procurans, confortans, & auxilians præf. H. Y. & W. G. ad feloniam & murdrum præd. in forma præd. faciend', exequend', & perpetrand. contra pacem dictæ Dominæ Reginæ coronam & dignitatem suam, Et sic Jurat. præd. dicunt super Sacramentum suum quod prædicti H. Y. W. G. & T. B. præf. Th. Butcher prædicto 6. die Augusti anno 27. supradicto apud Lewes præd. in Comitatu prædicto felonice & ex malitiis suis præcogitatis modo & forma præd. interfecerunt, & murdraverunt, contra pacem, &c.

And it was moved that this Indictment was insufficient, because that unam plagam mortalem (circiter pectus) was altogether incertain, for it may be in the Neck, or in the Arm, or in the Belly, and Indictments ought to express in certain, as well in what part the mortal wound is, as the depth and breadth thereof, that it may appear to the Court to be mortal. And because it is said, That he died de vulneribus & plagis prædictis, and one of them is incertainly alledged, that makes the Indictment insufficient as to all, which was granted by the whole Court. And it was said, that the Indictment ought to have been, That if the party had not died of the first stroke, that he died of the other stroke, and that is the common course; Ad quod non fuit responsum. And in this Case it was holden by the whole Court, That if upon affray made, the Constable and others in his assistance come to suppress the affray, and to preserve the peace, and in doing of their Office the Constable or other of his officers be killed, it is murder in Law, although the murderer knew not the party who was killed; and although the affray were sudden, because the Constable and his assistants come by the authority of Law for to keep the peace, and to prevent the danger which may ensue by the breach of it, and therefore the Law shall adjudge it murder, and that the murderer had forethought malice, because he doth oppose himself against the Justice of the Realm: So if the Sheriff or any of his Bailiffs or Officers be killed in the execution of the Process of [41] Law, or in doing of their Office, it is murder: The same Law of a Watchman who is killed in doing of his Office.

4. Trinit. 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Walker's Case; Walker was endicted and outlawed of murder, and the Indictment was, that he stroke the party dead in sinistra parte ventris circa umbelicum; and it was resolved by the whole Court, that the Indictment was certain enough, for in sinistra parte ventris was of it self certain and sufficient, and these words, circa umbelicum, which were uncertain, were abundant and superfluous. But Young's Case before was affirmed to be Law, for there was not any certainty before the circiter. But the outlawry was reversed for other Errors, and Walker was put to plead to Judgment.

5. Trinit. 28 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Heydon's Case. Inquisitio indentata capta apud Basingstoke in comitatu prædict. 21. die Decemb. &c. coram Joh. Scullard gener. uno Coronator. dictæ Dominæ Reginæ in comitatu præd', super visum corporis Edwardi Savage gener. tunc & ibidem mortui jacent', per Sacramentum Jacobi Searle, &c. Ad inquirend. qualiter & quomodo præd. Edw. Savage ad mortem suam devenit; Qui dicunt super Sacramentum suum, quod Jacobus Heydon de S. in comitatu præd. Yeoman, T. M. W. M. and divers others, 4. die Augusti, anno 27. apud B. præd. in com. præd. circa horam decimam ante meridiem ejusdem diei, ex malitiis suis præcogit. felonice ut felones dictæ Dom. Reg. in dictum Edw. Savage adtunc & ibidem insultum & affraiam fecerunt, & quod prædict. Jacobus Heydon cum quodam gladio Anglice a sword, valor. quinque solidorum, quem idem Jacobus in manu sua dextra tenebat, adtunc & ibidem præfatum Edw. Savage felonice percussit, & dedit eidem Edwardo adtunc & ibidem unam plagam mortalem super sinistrum genu ipsius Edwardi, totaliter abscindens quoddam os præd. genu ipsius Edw. Anglice voc. the pan of the knee, de qua quidem plaga mortali idem Edw. Savage languebat a præd. quarto die Augusti anno 27. usque ad decimum nonum diem mensis Decembris ann. 28. quo quidem decimo nono die Decembris, idem Edw. Savage ex mortali plaga præd. apud B. præd. in comitatu præd. obiit, & jurator. prædict. dicunt super Sacramentum suum quod præd. Jacobus Heydon modo & forma præd', prædict. Edwardum Savage felonice & ex malitia sua præcogitat. interfecit & murdravit, contra pacem dictæ Dominæ Reginæ coronam & dignitatem suam: Et ulterius
[b] præd. jurator. super Sacramentum suum prædict. dicunt, quod præd. T. M. W. M. &c. tempore feloniæ & murdred. prædict. in forma prædicta fact', scil. dicto quarto die Augusti apud B. prædicta in comitatu prædicto anno 27. supradict', circa horam decimam ante meridiem ejusdem diei, felonice fuerunt præsentes cum gladiis, &c. tunc & ibidem auxiliantes, assistentes, abbettantes, comfortantes, & manutenentes præd. Jacobum Heydon ad feloniam & murdrum prædict. in forma prædicta faciend', & perpetrand. contra pacem dictæ Dominæ Reginæ coronam & dignitatem suam.

And

And many Exceptions were taken against this Indictment.

1. Because the Indictment was taken before J. S. Coronatore in comitatu prædicto, and doth not say, Coronatore comitatus prædicti, nor de Comitatu prædict'; and every Coroner of a County is a Coroner in every County of England, but not of every County; but it was not allowed. For the Court said, That the Coroner in the County, &c. shall be in all reasonable intendment taken to be Coroner of the County, and that is proved by the Writ de Coronatore eligendo, the beginning of which is, Rex Vicecom', &c. quia L. nuper unus coronatorum nostrorum in comitatu tuo diem clausit extremum, &c. And so it is taken in the Lord Willoughbie's Case in Plow. Com. 75. & 76. and almost infinite presidents were shewed in the same manner as this is. And it was said, Quod nimia subtilitas in jure reprobatur.

The second Exception was taken, because it was not said, that the said Edward Savage who was killed was in pace Dei & Dominæ Reginæ, as the usual form and the presidents are, but it was not allowed; for those are words but of amplification of the hainousness of the fact, and not of substance, and perhaps he was not in peace, but fighting, and breaking the peace, and many presidents were also shewed in which these words were omitted.

3. Because it was said, Et dedit eidem Edwardo adtunc & ibidem, &c. and doth not say felonice, nor ex malitia sua præcogitat. dedit, &c. and this Exception was disallowed by the Court, for this conjunction (&) coupleth the sentences together, so that these words (felonice & ex malitia sua præcogit.) first spoken refer to all the verbs subsequent, otherwise too much repetition and tautology shall be of the said words; and many presidents were also shewed to this effect, and in the same form as this is, as to this Point. And these words (adtunc & ibidem) maketh all to be at one instant.

The fourth Exception was, because the depth and length of the wound was not shewed as in all Indictments is used, so that it may appear to the Court that the wound was mortal; But it was answered and resolved by the Court, that cannot be in this Case, because the whole pan of the knee was utterly cut off, as if an arm or a foot be cut off, or if one be beheaded, the depth and length of the wound shall not be shewed. [42]

The fifth Exception was, because it was said tempore feloniæ & murdred. præd', where it should be murdri, and this Exception was also disallowed, for tempore feloniæ prædict. had been sufficient without saying murdred', and therefore the adding of that shall not make the Indictment insufficient, for as much as murdredum is a word insensible and vain, so that no contrariety or repugnancy appeareth, for surplusage shall not hurt but when it is repugnant or contrary to the matter precedent, or subsequent.

The sixth Exception was, because the wound was given the fourth day of August, and the death was the 19. day of December next following; and the Indictment saith that præd. T. M. W. M. &c. tempore feloniæ & murdri prædict. fact', scil. 4. Augusti, &c. felonicè fuerunt præsentes, &c. ad felonias & murdrum prædict. in forma prædicta faciend' : To which it was said by Gawdy the Queens Serjeant, and Popham the Queens Attorney, that the death hath relation to the stroke; for if a man Non compos mentis strike himself, and afterwards becometh of sane memory and dieth, the death hath relation to the stroke, and he shall forfeit nothing, as it is agreed in 22 E. 3. Corone 244. So Stamford saith, That the Appeal shall be brought within the year after the stroke, and not the death; for when the death followeth, now in Judgment of Law felony was committed the day when the blow was given, for the death is in a manner but the execution of the felony; But tota Curia in Banco Regis against that; And they said, that they have often adjudged Indictments insufficient when the stroke is one day and the death another day, and the Jury did conclude the murder or manslaughter to be the first day: But they said that in the Case at Bar, the Indictment is that the præsentes & abbettantes, fuerunt præsentes, auxiliantes, &c. ad feloniam & murdrum prædictum in forma prædicta faciend'.

Another reason to maintain the Indictment was urged, because the Indictment notwithstanding that was sufficient, for the Office of the Jury is to find veritatem facti, and the Office of the Judges is to declare veritatem Legis; and because they have found all the circumstance and truth of the fact, without question the Law maketh them principals, for this cause although they take upon them also the Office of Judges, scil. to decide when and at what time the felony was done, it shall not be faulty which they have found sufficiently and certainly; For in all Cases when a Jury findeth the matter at large committed to their charge, and further conclude against the Law, the verdict is good, and the conclusion is naught. [b]

Further it was moved in maintenance of the Indictment, that the Indictment against them was good, because it appeareth by the Indictment that they all of their malice fore-thought feloniously, and as felons made the assault; and then although that Heydon only gave the stroke, yet it appeareth by the connexion of all the parts of the Indictment by the conjunction, and by the adverbs, adtunc & ibidem, that they were present, &c. And upon that Wray Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, Shute and Clench would be advised; and upon conference had with the other Justices the said Indictment as to the said 6. Exception was holden to be repugnant and insufficient as to the said T. M. W. M. &c. for no felony was committed till the death, and none shall be adjudged a felon by relation, which is but a fiction in Law. And Wray said, That the common experience of the Kings Bench was, and so was the Law without question, that the year for bringing the Appeal shall be accounted from the death, and not from the stroke, against the opinion of Stamford. But it was resolved that to conclude, that he did murder the last day was sufficient, but the better form is to conclude that he did the murder modo & forma supradict'.

2. That the said clause of auxiliantes & præsentes, &c. was necessary, and without that the Indictment were insufficient, for it shall not be maintained by argument or implication, nor supplied by intendment; and as to this second and last Point it was resolved in Milborn's Case, Pasch. 1 Jacobi in the Kings Bench; and because the Indictment wanted that clause, he and divers others were discharged.

6. Mich.

6. Mich. 32 Eliz. Katherine Hume brought Appeal of murder againſt Luke Ogle of the death of A. H. her husband, and declared that the Defendant 27. Septemb. gave the mortal ſtroke at Whetwood in Com. Northumbriæ, and that the Defendant the ſame day of the ſtroke aforeſaid apud Weſtlibborn in eodem Com. obiit, & ſic præd. Lucas Ogle apud Whetwood præd. modo & forma prædict. the ſaid A. H. felonice &c. murdravit: and it was reſolved, that the Declaration was repugnant and inſufficient; for as it cannot be ſaid, That he murdered him the firſt day as it was adjudged before in Heydon's Caſe, ſo it cannot be ſaid that he murdered him at the place where he was ſtrucken, but where he died.

[43] 7. Hill. 31 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Robert Hudſon Plaintiff, and Robert Lee Defendant: Hudſon brought an Appeal of Maihem againſt Lee, and declared that the Defendant the 8. day of January anno 28 Eliz. feloniouſly did maihem him in his left hand, &c. The Defendant pleaded that at another time before the Appeal began, the Plaintiff brought an Action of Treſpaſs in the Common Pleas of Aſſault, Battery, and Wounding, againſt the Defendant the ſaid 8. day of Jan. the 28 year aforeſaid: To which the Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty, and was found guilty, and damages aſſeſſed to 200 marks for the aſſault, battery, and wounding, and 10 s. coſts, and Judgment thereupon given and ſatisfaction acknowledged before the Appeal brought, and averred that the battery and wounding in the ſaid Action of Treſpaſs, and the ſaid Maihem whereof the Appeal is now brought, is one and the ſame, and not divers. And it was moved that the ſame was no bar for two cauſes:

1. Becauſe the Appeal of Maihem is of more high nature then the Action of Treſpaſs, for in the Appeal the Plaintiff declared, that the Defendant felonice, maihemed him. Vide 40 Aſſ. 9. where the Plaintiff declared that the Defendant felonice, ut felo Domini Regis maihemed him, and the Rule of the Law is, that recovery or bar in any Action is a good bar in another Action of equal or more baſe nature, but not in an Action of a higher nature; as a recovery or bar in an Aſſiſe is a good bar in another Aſſiſe, 44 E. 3. 45. 9 H. 7. 23. &c. but not in a Mortdanceſter, 5 Aſſ. 1. nor recovery or bar in a Mortdanceſter is a bar in a Wright of right, F. N. B. 5. 50 Aſſ. 4. 11 E. 3. Entry 56, &c. And bar in an Action of Treſpaſs of goods taken, is no bar in an Appeal of Robbery, for the Appeal of Robbery is higher, as it is holden in 2 R. 3. 14. And that was moved, admitting that the Appeal was brought for the ſame thing for which the Action of Treſpaſs was brought: But it was further moved, that the Appeal is brought for the Maihem only, and therefore it is ſaid felony, which cannot be applied to Treſpaſs, and the Action of Treſpaſs for battery and wounding which doth not touch the Maihem. But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That the bar was good; For in all Caſes when the Plaintiff for a wrong or injury is only to recover damages, he ſhall not be for one thing twice ſatisfied, according to that, Nemo debet bis puniri pro uno delicto, and Deus non agit bis in ipſum; But in both theſe Actions, ſcil. of Appeal and Treſpaſs, the Plaintiff ſhall recover only damages: And it appeareth to the Court by the [b] bar of the Defendant, which the Plaintiff by his demurrer hath confeſſed, that he himſelf in the Action of Treſpaſs which he hath brought for the battery and wounding hath recovered damages for the Maihem, for wounding includeth the Maihem and more, and the Defendant hath averred that the wounding in the Action of Treſpaſs, and the Maihem in the Appeal were all one: ſo that although the Appeal of Maihem is an Action of higher nature, yet for as much as he ſhall recover but damages, and damages he hath recovered in the Action of Treſpaſs, for this cauſe it was reſolved that the bar in the Caſe at Bar was good. And Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, that ſo it was adjudged of late in this very Court, which Record he hath ſeen; and therewith agreeth the Book in 41 Aſſ. p. 16. and the Book in 2 R. 3. 14. is good Law, for in the Appeal of Robbery, the Plaintiff ſhall have Judgment againſt the Defendant for his life, and not for any damages.

8. Trin. 32 Eliz. in Syre's Caſe it was reſolved by the whole Court; That if there be Principal and Acceſſory, and the Principal is pardoned, or hath his Clergy, that the Acceſſory cannot be arraigned, for the Maxim of Law is, Ubi factum nullum ibi fortia nulla, & ubi non eſt principalis, non potest eſſe acceſſorius: Then before it appeareth who is a principal, one cannot be charged as acceſſory, but none can be ſaid principal before he be ſo proved and adjudged in Law, and that ought to be by Judgment upon Verdict, or Confeſſion, or by Outlawry, for it doth not ſuffice that in truth there be a principal, if it doth not appear ſo by the Judgment of Law; and that is the reaſon that when the principal is pardoned, or hath his Clergy before Judgment, that the acceſſory ſhall never be arraigned; for it doth not appear by the Judgment of Law that he was principal, and the acceptance of a pardon, or prayer of his Clergy is an argument but no Judgment in Law, that he is guilty: But if the principal after attainder be pardoned, or hath his Clergy allowed him, there the acceſſory ſhall be arraigned, becauſe it judicially appeareth that there was a principal.

9. Paſch. 39 Eliz. Blithe's Caſe. John Goffe brother and heir of R. Goffe, brought Appeal of murder of the ſaid R. Goffe againſt Blithe as principal, and againſt Hoell David as acceſſory before, and againſt David ap Thomas as acceſſory after: The principal pleaded, Not Guilty, and by Niſi prius in the County of Monmouth he was found guilty of Manſlaughter, and not guilty of murder, and had his Clergy. And upon this matter, firſt, it was reſolved by Popham Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court [44] of Kings Bench, That Hoell David was diſcharged, becauſe he cannot be acceſſory before the fact in caſe of Manſlaughter, for Manſlaughter ought to follow upon ſudden debate or affray, for if it be premeditated it is murder.

2. It was reſolved, That although the principal were convicted by verdict, yet for as much as he had his Clergy before Judgment, ſo that it doth not appear judicially, ſcil. by Judgment of Law that he was principal, for this cause, and for the causes alledged in Syre's Case, it was awarded that both the accessories, as well before as after shall be discharged. The same Law, if the principal upon his arraignment confess the felony, and before Judgment obtaineth a pardon, or hath his Clergy allowed, the accessory thereby is discharged. Vide 2 E. 3. 27. 22 E. 3. Corone 260. 7 H. 4. 16. 10 H. 4. 5. 3 H. 7. 1. 3 H. 7. Corone 53: And upon divers disagreeing opinions you shall understand the Law, as here it was adjudged upon consideration of all the Books.

that

10. Pasch. 33 Eliz. Vaux Case in the Kings Bench. William Vaux at the Sessions of Peace for the County of Northumberland holden 27. Julii, anno 32 Eliz. before the Justices of Peace of the same County was indicted of voluntary poysoning of Nicholas Ridley, which Indictment was removed into the Kings Bench: And in discharge thereof the said Vaux pleaded, That at another time, scil. 12. August. 30 Eliz. at Newcastle upon Tine in the County of Northumberland before the Justices of Assise of the same County the said Vaux was indicted; Quod cum Nich. Ridley nuper de W. in comitatu præd. Armig. jam defunctus, per multos annos ante obitum suum nuptus fuisset cuidam Margaretæ uxori ejus & nullum exitum habuit, præd. Will. Vaux nuper de K. in comitatu C. generos. subdole, caute, & diabolice intendens mortem, venenationem, & destructionem ipsius Nicholai, & Deum præ oculis non habens, 20. Decembris anno 28 Eliz. apud W. præd. felonice, voluntarie, & ex malitia sua præcogitata, persuadebat eundem Nichol. recipere & bibere quendam potum mixtum cum quodam veneno vocat' Cantharides affirmans & verificans eidem Nich. quod præd. potus sic mixtus cum præd. veneno vocat. Canth. non fuit intoxicatus (Anglice poisoned) sed quod per receptionem inde præd. Nich. exit. de corpore dictæ Margaretæ tunc uxoris suæ procuraret; & haberet, ratione cujus quidem persuasionis & instigationis præd. Nich. postea, scil. 16. Januarii anno supradict. apud T. in comitatu N. præd. nesciens præd. potum cum veneno in forma præd. fore mixt', sed fidem adhibens præd. persuasioni dicti Will. recepit & bibit, per quod præd. Nich. immediat. post reception' veneni præd. per tres horas immediate sequent. languebat, & postea præd. 16. Jan. ann. suprad' ex venenatione & intoxicat. præd. apud T. præd. obiit: Et sic præd. Will. Vaux felonice & ex malitia sua præcogitata præfat. Nich. voluntarie & felonice modo & forma præd. intoxicavit, interfecit, & murdravit, contra pacem, &c. [b]

Upon which Indictment the said Vaux was arraigned before the same Justices, and pleaded, Not Guilty: And the Jurors gave a special Verdict, and found, Quod prædict. Nich. Ridley venenatus fuit, Anglice, poisoned, per receptionem præd. Cantharides, & quod præd. Will. Vaux non fuit præsens tempore quo præd. Nich. Ridley recepit prædict. Canth. sed utrum, &c. And thereupon Judgment was given by the said Justices of Assise in this manner; Super quo visis, & per Cur. hic intellectis omnibus & singulis præmissis, pro eo quod videtur cur' hic super tota materia per veredictum præd. in forma prædicta compert', quod præd. venenatio per reception' præd. Canth. & præd. procuratio præd. Will. ad procurand. præd. Nich. ad accipiend. præd. Canth. modo & forma prout per veredict. præd. compert' fuit, non fuit felonia & murdrum voluntar': Ideo consideratum est quod præd. Will. Vaux de felonia & murdro præd. indictamento præd. superius specificat', necnon de dicta felonica venenatione præd. Nich. Ridley in eodem indictament. nominat. eidem Will. imposit', eat sine die: And as to the felony and murder he pleaded, Not Guilty.

And first, it was resolved by the whole Court, That the said Indictment upon which Vaux was arraigned was insufficient, principally because it is not expresly alledged, that the said Ridley received and drunk the said poison, for the Indictment is, præd. Nich. nesciens præd. potum cum veneno fore intoxicatum, sed fidem adhibens dicto persuasioni dicti W. recepit & bibit, per quod, &c. So that it doth not appear what thing he drunk, for these words (venenum præd.) are wanting, and the subsequent, scil. per quod præd. N. immediate post receptionem veneni prædict. &c. which words imply receipt of poison, are not sufficient to maintain the Indictment, for the matter of the Indictment ought to be fully expressed and certain, and shall not be maintained by argument, or implication, because the Indictment is found by the oath of Lay-men.

2. It was agreed by the Court, That Vaux was a principal murderer, although he was not present at the time of the receipt of the poison, for otherwise he shall be guilty of such horrible offence, and yet shall be unpunished, which shall be inconvenient and mischievous; for every felon is either principal or accessory, and if there be not a principal there cannot be an accessory, quia accessorium sequitur principale, and if any had procured Vaux to do it, he had been accessory before; quod nota a special Case, where the principal and accessory both shall be absent at the time of the felony committed. [45]

3. It was resolved by the Lord Wray, Sir Thomas Gawdy, Clench and Fenner Justices, that the reason of Autrefoits acquit was, because that where the Maxim of the Common Law is, That the life of a man shall not be twice put in jeopardy for one and the same offence, and that is the reason and cause that Autrefoits acquitted or convicted of the same offence is a good plea, yet it is intendable of a lawful acquittal or conviction, for if the conviction or acquittal is not lawful, his life was never in jeopardy; and because the Indictment in this Case was insufficient, for this cause he was not legitimo modo acquietatus, and that is well proved, because that upon such acquittal he shall not have an Action of Conspiracy, as it is agreed in 9 E. 4. 12. vide 20 E. 4. 6. And in such Case in Appeal, notwithstanding such insufficient Indictment, the abbetters shall be enquired of as it is there holden; and although the Judgment be given that he shall be acquit of the felony, yet this acquittal shall not help him, because he was not legitimo modo acquietatus; And when the Law saith, that Autrefoits acquitte is a good plea, it shall be intended when he is lawfully acquitted. And therewith agreeth the old Book in 19 E. 3. Corone 444. where it is agreed, That if process upon Indictment or Appeal be not sufficient, yet if the party appeareth (by which all imperfections of the process are saved) and be acquitted, he shall be discharged; but if the Appeal or Judgment be insufficient (as our Case is) there it is otherwise:

But

But if one upon an insufficient Indictment of felony hath Judgment quod suspendatur per collum, and so attainted, which is the Judgment and the end which the Law hath appointed for the felony, there he cannot be again indicted and arraigned until this Judgment be reversed by Error: But when the offender is discharged upon an insufficient indictment, there the Law hath not had his end, nor the life of the party in the Judgment of the Law was never in jeopardy, and the wisdom of the Law abhorreth that great offences shall go unpunished, which was grounded without question upon the ancient Maxims of Law and State: Maleficia non debent remanere impunita, & impunitas continuum affectum tribuit delinquendi, & minatur innocentes qui pareit nocentibus: So if a man be convicted either by verdict, or by confession upon an insufficient Indictment, and no Judgment thereupon given, he may be again indicted and arraigned, because that his life was never in jeopardy, and the Law hath not his end: And afterwards upon this new Indictment Vaux was tried and found guilty, and had Judgment, and was hanged.

[b] 11. Mich. 33 & 34 Eliz. between Katherine Wrote Plaintiff, and Thomas Wigges Defendant: Katherine the wife of Robert Wrote brought an Appeal of the murder of her husband against Thomas Wigges, and declared, that the said Thomas Wigges at Sheperton within the County of Middlesex the 23. of September, 31 Eliz. of his fore-thought malice feloniously stroke, &c. whereof the said Robert Wrote died 24. of September then next following, so the Defendant did murder him the 24. of September aforesaid. The Defendant pleaded that he himself, Auterfoits, 8. October, 32 Eliz. at Sheperton aforesaid by an Inquisition there taken before William Danby then Coroner of the Queens Houshold, and Iron Chaukhill then one of the Coroners of the said County of Midd. upon the view of the body of the said Robert Wrote by the oath of twelve men (and shewed their names) of the said County of Midd. was presented, That the said 23. Sept. 31 Eliz. at Sheperton aforesaid, the said Robert Wrote feloniously did strike, &c. whereof he died the 24. of Sept. following, and so indicted him of Manslaughter; The which Inquisition afterwards 23. Septemb. 32 Eliz. at London in the Parish of S. Sepulchres, the said Iron Chaukhill then one of the Coroners of the said County of Midd. at the Gaol-delivery at Newgate, made for the said County of Midd. there, viz. at Justice-Hall in the Old Baily before John Hart then Mayor of the City of London, and other Justices of Gaol-delivery of Prisoners within the said Gaol of Newgate being delivered and certified; upon which the said Thomas Wigges then under the custody of the Sheriffs of London was brought to the Bar; and there then the said Thomas Wigges being arraigned upon the said Indictment, confessed the felony, and prayed his Clergy; and the Book being delivered to him he read as a Clark as by the same Record appeareth, and said that Judgment was given thereupon; and averred, that Sheperton at the time of the said Inquisition, and stroke and death was within the verge of the Queens Houshold; and pleaded over to the felony, &c. And it appeareth that the said Arraignment and Confession and allowance of Clergy was after purchace of the Writ of Appeal and the return thereof; Upon which plea in bar the Plaintiff did demur in Law. And after many arguments, and great deliberation, it was adjudged against the Defendant: And in this Case six Points were resolved.

1. That Auterfoits convict of Manslaughter, and Clergy thereupon allowed was a good bar in an Appeal of murder. And so was it adjudged in an Appeal in the Kings Bench, between Thomas Burgh Esquire, brother and heir of Henry Burghe, and Thomas Holcroft Esquire, Pasch. 20 Eliz. of the murther of the said Henry, where the Defendant pleaded, that at Hampton Court in the Parish of Hampton within the County of Midd. within the Verge by an Inquisition before Richard Vale the Coroner of [46] the Queens Houshould, and one of the Coroners of the County of Midd. super visum corporis, the Defendant was indicted of the Manslaughter of Henry within the Verge; upon which Indictment the Defendant was arraigned before Commissioners of Oyer and Terminer in the County of Midd. and confessed the Indictment, and prayed his Clergy, and thereupon Curia advisari vult, and demanded Judgment of the Appeal; And in this Case two Points were resolved.

1. That this Indictment was well taken, and within the Statute of Articuli super Chartas cap. 3. by which it is enacted, That in Case of the death of a man within the Verge, that it be sent to the Coroner of the County, who together with the Coroner of the Kings Houshold, doth the office which appertaineth, &c. And although it was objected, that the Statute requireth two persons, scil. two Coroners to do the Office which appertaineth in this Case; and in the Case at Bar there was but one person, although that he had two several offices, sc. Coroner of the Houshold, and one of the Coroners of the County, and when the Law giveth authority to two persons, one only cannot execute it; for Securius expediuntur negotia commissa pluribus, & plus vident oculi quam oculus, & una persona non potest supplere vicem duarum: Yet in this Case of several Authorities, it was resolved that the Indictment was well taken, for the intent and meaning of the Act was performed, and the mischif recited in the Act avoided as well when one person is Coroner of the Hostel, and of the County also, as if there should be two several persons, for although the Court remove, yet he as Coroner of the County may proceed, &c.

2. Where it is enacted by the Statute of 3 H. 7. cap. 1. That if it fortune that the felons, murderers, and accessories, or any of them be acquitted upon Indictment, or principal attainted, &c. the wife or next heir to him so slain, may have their appeal against the persons so acquitted, or against the principals so attainted, if they be alive, and that his benefit of his Clergy thereof before be not had; (for at that time Clergy was allowed for murder.) 1. It was resolved the bar was good at the Common Law not restrained by the said Act, because if the Defendant hath had his Clergy, then without question the appeal shall not lie; for if the offender be attainted, and hath his Clergy, the same is accepted out of the Act and left to the Common Law; a fortiori when he is but convict thereof and prayeth his Clergy. And the Act of the Court (to be advised as to the allowance of Clergy) shall not prejudice the party in case of his life: But it was resolved, that these words (attaint of murder) in this Act shall not be intended only of a person who hath Judgment of life, but also extendeth to a person convict by by confeſſion, or verdict; for a perſon attaint is a perſon convict and more, & omne majus continet in ſe minus; and if the Statute ſhall not extend to perſons convict, all the purview of the Act ſhall be overthrown. And in the Statute of 25 E. 3. cap. 2. it is ſaid attaint by verdict, which is as much as to ſay, convict by verdict, and many times in common ſpeech a perſon convict is called a perſon attainted; & loquendum eſt ut vulgus: Alſo it ſhall be hard that the Law ſhall enable the party to appeal againſt a perſon acquitted, who by the Judgment of Law is innocent, and ſhall not enable him againſt one who is convicted who is found guilty: And in this caſe it was ſaid that it was adjudged in the Caſe of one Agnes Gainsford, that where the Act of 3 H. 7. cap. 1. is, That the wife, or heir of him ſo ſlain ſhall have the Appeal; That the heir of a woman who was murdered ſhall have appeal againſt one who was acquitted of the ſame murder, for apices juris non ſunt jura: And it was reſolved without any difficulty in Holcroft's Caſe, that if a man commit murder, and be endicted, or convicted, or acquitted of Manſlaughter, that he ſhall never anſwer to any Indictment of the ſame death, for all is one and the ſame felony for one and the ſame death, although that murder be in reſpect of circumſtance of the forethought malice more odious; and therefore in an Indictment, or Appeal of murder, he may be found guilty of Manſlaughter. [b]

2. It was reſolved in the Caſe at Bar, That at the Common Law the Coroner of the Kings Houſe had an exempt juriſdiction within the Verge; and that the Coroner of the County cannot intermeddle therein; and that well appeareth by the preamble of the Statute of Articuli ſuper chartas; Becauſe that before this time many felonies done within the Verge have been unpuniſhed (and the reaſon and cauſe thereof was) becauſe the Coroners of the County are not ſuffered to interpoſe to enquire of felonies within the Verge, but the Coroner of the Kings Hoſtel which is paſſant, of which iſſue hath not been made in due manner, nor the felons put in Exigent, nor Outlawed, nor nothing thereof preſented in Eire, which hath been to the great damage of the King, and to the leſs good keeping of the peace: By which it appeareth, that at the Common Law the Coroner of the County could not intermeddle with the death of a man within the Verge, but the Coroner of the Hoſtel only. And ſo was it adjudged Paſch. 24 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, where Swift was indicted before the Coroner of the County of Middleſex of a murder done at Tuthil in the ſaid County of Midd. which Indictment was removed into the Kings Bench; and there Swift pleaded, That Tuthil was at the time of the murder, and yet is within the Verge, &c. upon which the Attorney did demur in Law, and it depended in adviſement three Terms, and at length the Plea was adjudged good, and thereupon he was diſcharged of the Indictment; for as the Coroner of the Houſhold cannot intermeddle within the County out of the Verge, becauſe his Office extendeth not to it, ſo the Coroner of the County cannot intermeddle within the Verge; And it ſhall be againſt reaſon that their Offices and Juriſdictions being ſeveral that the one ſhould intermeddle within the Juriſdiction of the other. But it was reſolved, that the Juſtices of the Kings Bench, Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer, Gaol-delivery, and Juſtices of Peace, may enquire of, hear and determine all murders and felonies within the Verge, becauſe their Authority and Juriſdiction are general through the whole County, and ſo always it hath been uſed, and ſo it was adjudged without any ſcruple in Holcroft's Caſe. [47]

3. It was reſolved, That the Indictment was inſufficient, for by the ſaid Indictment taken before the Coroner of the Houſhold, and the Coroner of the County, it appeareth that the ſtroke and the death were at Shepperton within the County of Midd. and it doth not appear in the Indictment that Shepperton was within the Verge, ſcil. 12 miles off the lodging of the King in his Court; and although that in truth it were within the Verge, yet the Indictment being veredictum, id eſt, dictum veritatis, and matter of Record ought to import all the truth which is requiſite by Law, for de non apparentibus & non exiſtentibus eadem ratio, and every part of the Indictment material ought to be found by the Oath of the Indictors, and cannot be ſupplied by bare ſaying or averrment of the party; and becauſe it doth not appear within the Indictment that Shepperton was within the Verge, for this cauſe the Indictment taken before the Coroner of the Houſhold, and the Coroner of the County is inſufficient; for it doth not appear that the Coroner of the Houſhold had any authority to take it, and it ſhall not be void and coram non Judice as to the Coroner of the Houſhold, and good before the Coroner of the County, for the Record is intire, and the Indictment taken before both intire; And perhaps the Jury was directed principally by the Coroner of the Houſhold, and the witneſſes examined and ſworn by him, although that all is recorded and enrolled in both their names: Alſo the Defendant hath averred in his plea that Shepperton was within the Verge, ſo that the Coroner of the County as appeareth by the confeſſion of the Defendant himſelf cannot take it himſelf alſo.

4. It was reſolved, That for as much as the Indictment upon which he was indicted was inſufficient, notwithſtanding ſuch conviction, that he may be anew indicted and arraigned, or appealed of the ſame offence, becauſe his life in judgment of Law was never in jeopardy as it was reſolved in Vaux Caſe, Paſch. 33 Eliz.

5. It was reſoved by the whole Court, That where the ſtroke was given the 23. of September, and the death followed the 24. day; and concludes that the ſaid Thomas Wigges murdered the ſaid Robert Wrote the 24. day, that the ſame was good enough, for it was not murder before; but to conclude that he murdered him the 23. day was repugnant, as it was reſolved before in Heydon's Caſe, Trin. 28 Eliz. But it was reſolved that the finding of the ſtroke, and the death was not ſufficient for him without making concluſion, that is to ſay, And ſo that the ſaid Thomas Wigges did murder the ſaid Robert Wrote.

6. It was reſolved, That though the conviction were pendant the appeal, yet if it had been lawful, and before the Defendant purchaſed his pardon, it had been a good bar. And afterwards Wigges was tried in the Kings Bench, and upon his trial, the Queens Attorney was of Council with him, (becauſe it was a Subjects ſuit) and Wigges was found Not guilty of the murder. [b]

12. Hill. 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Wait's Case. The wife of William Waits Gent. brought an Appeal of murder of her husband against divers; and afterwards she brought another Appeal against others; and in all she had brought seven Appeals of the said murder against several persons as principals; And it was resolved by Popham Chief Justice, and the whole Court, That all the said Appeals but the first ought to abate; for without any difficulty all the principals and accessories before the murder, and also all accessories after, and before the Writ purchased against whom the Plaintiff would bring Appeal ought to be named in one Writ, and not divers, 9 H. 4. 1. The wife of Thomas Goter brought an Appeal against one Thomas Walton, and two others, Walton only appeared, and the others made default. The Plaintiff declared against all three, that is to say, two as principals, and against the other as accessory: Walton pleaded, That at another time, the same woman made an Appeal of the same death before certain Justices of Gaol-delivery of the same County of N. against one man as principal of the same death, who at her suit before the said Justices was attainted and hanged, and demanded Judgment of the Writ, and pleaded over to the felony: And it was said by the Plaintiffs Council that her Writ ought not abate, because her Appeal before the said Justices of Gaol-delivery, cannot charge any, nor the Justices of Gaol-delivery cannot make deliverance to any who then was not in prison in the Gaol before them, and that Walton and the others now Defendants then were at liberty, and therefore it was impossible to joyn them in the said Appeal before the Justices of Gaol-delivery; and so no default in the Plaintiff: But it was adjuged, that the Writ should abate, and in the same Case three Points were resolved.

1. That the Plaintiff ought to have made her Appeal against all, and afterwards have removed the same by Writ before us.

2. That a woman shall not have two Appeals of death in this place, but ought to joyn all (who she will charge) in one Writ. For if one bring an Appeal of death against divers, and all but one make default, yet the Plaintiff ought to declare against all; and by the same reason that he shall be driven to declare against all, he ought to bring his Appeal against all.

3. That in this Case the Defendant shall not have damages by the Statute of West. 2. cap. 12. quia extra casum Statuti, because the Writ abateth. Vide 28 E. 3. 90. A woman brought an Appeal of the [48] death of her husband against the principal doer, and the principal assistants and doers; and sued another Appeal against the receivers, and the Book saith, That the two appeals were maintenable, notwithstanding the Statute giveth that all shall be in one Writ, which are the words of the Book, in which the Statute intended is the Statute of Magna Charta, cap. 34. by which it is enacted, That Nullus capiatur propter appellum feminæ de morte alterius quam viri sui: And because the Statute saith (Appellum) in the singular number, it was collected that all ought to be named in one Writ; which Book, if it might be maintained for Law, ought to be intended of accessories after the first Appeal brought, which cannot be named in the first Appeal. Vide 26 Ass. 52. to the same effect.

13. Hill. 30 Eliz. Inquisitio capt. ad Sessions. pacis, &c. in Com. Surr', tent. die Martis & die Mercurii, &c. And reciteth the Statute of 8 H. 6. of Forcible Entry, and misrecieth it in some Points; and this Indictment was quashed for two causes:

1. Although that Sessions may endure two or three days, yet the Record ought to mention, that the Sessions were holden at one certain day: Also because the Statute of 8 H. 6. was misrecited in a material Point: Know Reader, it is not policy in such Indictments to recite the said Act of 8 H. 6. for the recital thereof is not necessary, and misrecial thereof is fatal to the Indictment. And therefore the sure way is to draw the Indictment with conclusion, contra formam Statuti, &c. and with no recital of the Act.

Hill. 29 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Andrew Ognel's Case.

[b] IN a Replevin between Andrew Ognel Plaintiff, and Thomas Underhill, and Henry Appelby Defendants: The Case was, William Rainsford anno 4 E. 6. possessed for 30 years of a Farm called Cresswelfield Grange, which consisted of divers parcels known by several names, scil. Hobbes field, Park field, and divers others, made his Will, and thereof appointed Hercules his son his Executor, who 3 & 4 Ph. & Ma. demised all the Grange, (except Hobbes field) to one Henry Bere for 23 years; and demised Hobbes field to Walter Freckleton for 23 years; and afterwards granted all the residue of his term in the whole Grange unto the said Henry Bere and Freckleton; He in the reversion in fee 13 El. by deed granted a rent-charged in fee issuing out of all his lands and tenements commonly called Cresswelfield Grange, quondam in tenura W. Rainsford, & adtunc in tenura & occupatione H. Bere vel assignator' suorum. The rent is behind, the said term for 30 years expires, he in the reversion made a feoffment in fee of the said Farm to another, the grantee made his Executors and died, the feoffee made a lease at will, the Executors of the grantee distrained for the rent behind in the life of the grantee before the expiration of the term; And Judgment was given for the Executors against the Plaintiff. And in this Case three Points were resolved, scil. two at the Common Law, and one upon the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 37.

The

The first Point was, That at the Common Law there was difference between annuity in fee, and rent service, charge, or seck; for in the Case of annuity although it continue, yet in some Case an Action of debt may be maintenable for the arrerages; As if a Parson or Prebend have an annuity, and the annuity is behind, and the Parson or Prebend, &c. resign, he shall have an Action of Debt for the arrerages; So if a Parson or Prebend dieth, his Executors shall have an Action of debt for the arrerages incurred in the life of his Testator, because the person of him who ought to pay the annuity is chargeable in a Writ of annuity: But otherwise it is in Case of a rent, be it rent Service, rent Charge, or rent Seck, for when the rent doth continue of any estate of Freehold, no Action of debt lieth for the arrerages: Also at the Common Law great difference appeareth when the rent in fee is extinct by act in Law, and by act of the party, and wen particular estates in rents expire or determine; And therefore at the Common Law, if the son be Lord, and the father tenant by certain rent, the rent is behind, the tenant dieth, and the tenancy descendeth to the son, in this Case the rent is determined and extinct by act in Law; and yet the Executors of the Lord shall not have an Action of debt for the arrerages incurred in the life of the Testator, because the Lord himself by no possibility could have an Action of debt for the arrerages, for the tenure was all in the realty, and the tenant cannot be charged in any personal Action for them. But if a woman be endowed of a rent, or if a rent be granted for life, and the tenant attorn, the rent is behind, and afterwards the particular estate in the rent determineth by death, the Executors of the tenant in Dower, or of the Grantee for life shall have an Action of debt by the Common Law for two reasons: [49]

1. Because by possibility the Testator himself might have an Action of debt, for if he had surrendred his estate to him in the reversion, he shall have an Action of debt for the arrerages incurred before.

2. These particular estates with attornment of the tenant, or when the Law doth supply attornment, amount unto a real contract in Law, which realty, when the estate of Freehold is determined, dissolveth it self into personalty. And these are the true differences as to the first Point proved and approved in our Books. And therefore in 45 E. 3. Executors 71. where the Case was, That the father granted a rent charge out of certain lands to his son in fee, the rent is behind, the father dieth, the land descendeth to the son, by which the rent is extinct by act in Law; The son bringeth an Action of debt against the Executors of the father, for the arrerages incurred in the fathers life; and adjudged, that for them (as arrerages of a rent) no Action lieth, but for the arrerages of annuity it was maintenable. And although that by the descent of the land to the grantee being heir to the grantor, as well the annuity as the rent was determined, and that the original election was annexed to an Inheritance, yet in as much as the Inheritance of both was determined by act in Law, which will do no wrong, for this cause it was adjudged, That the election which he hath made by bringing of the Action of debt against the Executors of his father shall remain; for the Book saith that the son may choose whether he will have a Writ of annuity or distrain, &c. 4 E. 3. Exec. 98. A man maketh a lease for life rendring rent, the rent is behind, the lessor dieth, the executors during the life of tenant for life shall not have an Action of debt, but after the estate for life determined the Action shall be maintenable. 9 H. 6. 43. 14 H. 6. 26. 19 H. 6. 43. 32 E. 3. Dette 9. F.N.B. 121. C. acc'. So if a rent be granted for life, the wife shall be endowed of the rent, the Executors of the grantee, or of the tenant in Dower shall have an Action of debt by the Common Law as appeareth by 32 E. 3. Dette 9. 34 H. 6. 20. 9 H. 7. 17. But in the Case of 11 H. 4. ultimo when a rent is granted for life, and afterwards cometh behind, and afterwards the tenant alieneth, and afterwards the grantee of the rent dieth, the Action shall be maintenable against him who was tenant, and took the profits when it was behind, 26 E. 3. 64. Sir William Loring's Case. Sir William Loring was grantee for life of a rent out of the moity of a Mannor, of which moity a man was seised in the right of his wife, the rent is behind, Sir William Loring died, his Executors brought an Action of debt against his Executors only for the arrerages of the rent, and there two Points were adjudged: One, that by the death of Sir William Loring the grant for life was turned into nature of debt. 2. That for as much as the husband took the profits of the land charged with the rent when it was behind, that he only without his wife shall be charged in an Action of debt. And there it is holden, that after the death of the husband the Action of debt in such Case shall lie against his Executors. If lessee for life be of a Mannor, and the rents be behind, the tenant for life doth surrender his estate, he shall have an action of debt for the arrerages. So if a Parson or a Prebend, &c. who hath an annuity resign, he shall have an Action of debt for the arrerages incurred before the resignation, 19 H. 6. 41. 43. F.N.B. 121, D. E. So if a Prebend or Parson, &c. dieth, his Executors shall have an Action of debt for the arrerages incurred during his life. Vide 4 H. 6. 31. 7 H. 6. 19. 8 H. 6. 7. 13 E. 3. Jurisdiction 22. F.N.B. 120. The Executors of the Lord shall have an Action of debt for relief, for it is but an improvement of service, and so it was adjudged in 32 H. 8. Rot. 429. in Leet's Case. Vide 11 H. 6. 11. 11 H. 6. 18. 34 E. 1. Avowry 223. But the Lord himself shall distrein, and shall not have an Action of debt, as it is said in 7 H. 6. 13. 22 Ass. 52. A woman made a lease for life rendring the three first years 100 l. and afterwards 40 l. during the three first years she was disseised of the rent, and brought an Assise, and it was adjudged maintenable, for in judgment of Law all is but one rent, although it be divided in payment. Vide 15 E. 3. Exec. 63. But it was resolved, That in the Case at Bar, that the arrerages due in the life of the grantee were lost at the Common Law. [b]

The second Point resolved was, That Hobbersfield was not charged with the said rent by reason of these joynt words; for although it be parcel of Crofwelfield Grange, and that Henry Bere and Freckelton had the reversion of the term, and so the land may be said in their tenure; yet for as much as Henry Bere had not then Hobbersfield in his occupation, Hobbersfield is out of the said words, by reason of the said last clause, scil. & idtunc in tenura & occupatione Henrici Bere. So that by reason of the conjunctive, which joyneth the tenure and occupation together, nothing is charged but so much of the said Grange [50] only as was in tenure and occupation of Henry Bere, and was not Hobbesfield; So for the Expolition of this conjunctive (Et) 19 H. 6. 4. a. b. 9 E. 4. 42. in the Case of a Release.

The third Point resolved was upon the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 37. And the doubt arose upon these words; And it shall be lawful to every such Executor, &c. of any such person or persons to whom such rent or fee farm is or shall be due and not paid at the time of his decease, to distrain for the arrerages of all such rents upon the lands, &c. so long as the said lands, tenements, or hereditaments, continue, remain, or be in the seisin or possession of the said tenant in demesne, who ought immediately to have paid the said rent, &c. be in the seisin or possession of any other person or persons claiming the said lands, tenements, and hereditaments, only by and from the said tenant by purchase, gift, or descent, in like manner and form as their said Testator might or ought to have done in his life. And it was objected, that this Case was out of the said Act, for the said Act doth extend only to tenants in demesne who immediately ought to have paid it; and that was in the Case at Bar the grantor, and to those who claim only by and from him; And in this Case lessee at will of the feoffee doth not claim only by and from the grantor, but he claimeth by and from the feoffee, and so out of the Statute. And therefore it was said, That the feoffee of the feoffee, and so in infinitum, is out of the said Act; and so it was said have like Statutes been construed which are stricti Juris, because they restrain the Common Law, as the Statute of West. 2. cap. 40. In Cui in vita if the vouchee vouch over one within age the parol shall demur, as it is adjudged in 18 E. 4. 16. So there it is said, that upon these words (expectet emptor) that the feoffee of the feoffee is out of the said Act, 16 E. 3. Age 47. acc. to the Case of two feoffees. 16 E. 3. age 2.

But it was adjudged, that although the lessee at will doth not claim immediately from the grantor, yet he is within the said Act; for where things are done in right and truth, and become remediless by the act of God, scil. by the death of him to whom they were due, in such Cases Acts of Parliaments
[b] which give remedy in such Case, God forbid that they have not benign and favourable interpretation to extend and advance the remedy proportionable to the mischief, and defect of the Law, and according to the intent and meaning of the makers of the Act. And therefore the second feoffee, and so over in infinitum, shall be charged by force of this Act, for what reason shall it be to bind the first feoffee, and not the second feoffee, and so all others? And what reason shall it be to bind only the immediate heir who shall have it by descent, and not any other mediate heir? For otherwise as to this Point the Statute shall serve to little purpose, and especially when the first feoffee may alien the land at his pleasure; and all the sons of Adam are subject to death: Also it seemeth to some that the second feoffee is within the express words of the Act, for although he be not in by the grantor, yet he is in from him, for from him doth amount to as much as under him; And the word (and) in this Case shall be taken for (or) and this word (only) was added only to this purpose that he ought to claim (only) under the tenant in demesne, and not paramount. As if tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee and dieth, and the discontinuee chargeth the land with a rent, and afterwards enfeoffeth the issue of the tenant in tail within age, so that he is remitted, in this Case (only) hath his operation, for now the issue in tail claimeth by title paramount; But if the tenant maketh a feoffment in fee to the use of another, in this Case Cestuy que use doth not claim only by the feoffor, but also by the Statute, and he is not in the Per, and yet he claimeth under the feoffor, and that with the intent of the Act: So if the tenant make a gift in tail, and the donee dieth, the issue in tail is within this Statute, for he claimeth (only) under the title and estate of the tenant in demesne, although he do not claim only by descent, but also per formam doni: So if tenant in tail be, the remainder to another in fee, the issue in tail is within this Statute against the opinion in Plow. Comm. in Manxel's Case 46. But it was agreed by the whole Court, if A. hath a rent service, or a rent charge in fee, or for life, and the rent is behind, and afterwards A. granteth over the rent to another, and the tenant attorneth, and afterwards A. dieth, his Executors are not within this branch, for by the said grant over the arrerages were lost, and were not due to the Testator at the time of his death as the Statute speaketh. Also the conclusion of the said branch is, In as large and ample manner as the said Testator might and ought to have; and after the said grant the Testator himself nor any other can distrain, or have any remedy for the said arrerages: Also in the clause next preceding touching the Action of debt the words are, Unto whom any such rent or fee farm is or shall be due, and not paid at the time of his death: So that the Act giveth no remedy when the Testator himself by [51] his own act hath dispensed with the arrerages, but when they were due to him at the time of his death, and by the act of God become remediless: And in this Case a Judgment upon another branch of this Statute Reported by Serjeant Bendloes, between Sharp Plaintiff, and Pool Defendant in the Common Pleas, Hill. 17 Eliz. in Dette, London, 457. was cited, and the Case was; A rent charge was granted by deed to a feme sole for life, the rent was behind, the woman took Sharp to husband, the rent was again behind; the wife dieth, Sharp brought an Action of debt against the Defendant heir of the grantor (tenant of the land charged) for all the said arrerages, as well before as after marriage: And in this Case it was resolved, That for the arrerages incurred before the marriage, the husband had not any remedy by the Common Law, but for the arrerages which incurred during the marriage, the husband in this Case may have an Action of debt at the Common Law, 26 E. 3. 64. 10 H. 6. 11. F. N. B. 121. 23 H. 6. 25.

But it was adjudged, that by force of these words in the said Act, That if any man hath, or hereafter shall have in the right of his wife any estate in fee simple, fee tail, or for term of life, of or in any rents or fee farms, which be or shall be due behind or unpaid in the said wives life, that then the husband after the decease of his said wife, his Executors and Administrators shall have an Action of debt for the said arrerages against the tenant of the demesne that ought to have paid the same, his Executors or Administrators: And also may distrain for the said arrerages in like manner and form as he might have done if his said wife had then been living, &c. That the husband shall have all the arrerages as well before the marriage as after: But two Objections were made that the husband shall not have the arrerages before the coverture:

1. Be-

1. Because that by the Common Law the Executors or Administrators of the wife might have an Action of debt for the said arrerages before the coverture; And the Statute as appeareth by the preamble, provideth remedy when the Executors or Administrators of him to whom the rent was due, cannot have or come by the said arrerages, &c. And therefore it was said, That the makers of the Act did not intend to give remedy where there was remedy at the Common Law, nor to take away the remedy which one had at the Common Law, and give the same to another.

2. The second Objection was, That the said branch touching the husband, gave remedy to him for the arrerages due in the said wives life; So that the arrerages ought to incur when she was a wife, and not before. But notwithstanding these Objections, it was resolved, That the husband by force of the said branch shall have the said arrerages; for the said branch doth enact, That the husband shall have the arrerages incurred in the life of his wife, and that cannot extend to arrerages during the marriage; for the Common Law in case when the wife hath not the rent but for life, gave to him such arrerages as it appeareth before. And therefore when the Statute giveth an Action of debt to the husband for arrerages, it ought not to be construed to extend to those which he may have by the Common Law before, but to the intent that the words of the Act shall have effect, for (verba accipienda sunt cum effectu) the said words of the said Act shall be construed of arrerages which were due before. [b]

And as to the said Exceptions it was resolved, That a feme covert cannot make an Executor without the assent of her husband; and the administration of her goods of right doth belong to the husband; and the Statute in naming the woman (wife) intendeth only to design and describe the condition of the woman, and not to imply that the arrerages shall incur after the marriage.

Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Rawlyn's Case.

BEtween Rawlyns and Somerford the Case in effect as it was found upon a special Verdict upon Not guilty pleaded in an Ejectione firmæ for a house called the Ship without Temple-Bar was such; Peter Cartwright being possessed of the said house for 30 years, of all in possession saving one Stable whereof one Warlowe was possessed for two years, assigned all his interest to Rawlyns; And afterwards Cartwright by deed indented demised the said Stable to Warlowe for six years after the said two years ended: And afterwards Rawlyns by deed indented in consideration of 25 l. fine to be paid redemised all the house to Cartwright for 21 years, rendring to him 24 l. per ann. quarterly, and 5 l. quarterly at the same feasts until the said 25 l. were paid; Upon condition, that if the said sum of 25 l. or the said rent was behind at any Feast, &c. that then it should be lawful for Rawlyns to reenter. And upon the back of the Indenture of redemise was endorsed in this manner, Memorand', It was agreed between the parties before the sealing and delivery thereof, That Warlowe shall have the said Stable according to the said demise to him made. And afterwards and before any day of payment Cartwright redemised the said Stable which then was in possession of Warlowe by force and colour of the lease for six years made to Warlowe to the said Rawlyns for 10 years; and afterwards the rent was behind and lawfully demanded, and also 5 l. parcel of the sum in gross was also not paid; and Rawlyns never entred in the Stable, but Warlowe always continued the possession thereof, and Warlowe never attorned to any of the lessees; and if the entry of Rawlyns for the Condition broken were lawful or not was the Question: And after many arguments at the Bar and Bench, now in this Term it was adjudged, That the entry of Rawlyns for the Condition broken was lawful. And in this Case seven Points were resolved by Sir Christopher Wray Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Gawdy and the whole Court. [52] [b]

1. Where the Verdict was entred three Terms past, and in the entry thereof in the Roll the said demise made by Cartwright to Warlowe was not entred to be made by deed indented, and now in this Term it was prayed to be amended; and because that the note of the special Verdict which the Jury exhibited to the Court, and which remained with Master George Kempe Secondary to Master Roper, doth purport that the Jury found the said demise prout, &c. by which it appeareth to the Court, that the demise was given in evidence, and reference made by note to it; For this cause it was holden by the whole Court, that the Record in this Point shall be amended.

2. Although the Condition stand upon two parts in the disjunctive, scil. either for not payment of the rent, or the sum in gross which as to that was collateral; yet if it had been found that Cartwright redemised any part of the house to Rawlyns, and that Rawlyns had entred, by which the rent was suspended, that for that the whole Condition, as well as to the collateral sum, as to the rent was suspended. For it was resolved, although the Condition doth comprehend two several things in the disjunctive of two several natures; The one, the rent issuing out of the land which is incident to the reversion, and may be suspended with the intermedling with the land; The other matter collateral to the land, which cannot be suspended by the said redemise, yet here are not several Conditions, but one intire Condition which referreth to two several branches, and therefore suspended in part is suspended in the whole; and that the Condition was intire appeareth by the conclusion thereof, scil. for the non payment of the one or the other, it should be lawful for the lessor to reenter into the whole land, so that there is but one

one intire Condition, and one intire entry, which is not by the act of the parties to be divided or apportioned. And because that this Point was of late, scil. Pasch. 27 Eliz. Rot. 185. between Brightman and Somerford in this very Case (although between other parties) upon grave advice adjudged by Sir Ed. Anderson, and his Companions Justices of the Common Pleas, Sir Christopher Wray, and the Court of Kings Bench would not suffer this Point to be argued again, but agreed with the Court of Common Pleas in the Point adjudged.

3. That if Cartwright had redemised any part of the house to Rawlyns, and Rawlyns never entred into it, yet the rent by the acceptance of the redemise before any entry is suspended; so that the not [53] entry of Rawlyns maketh not any difference in this Case, and the Case which was in the Common Pleas; for when the lessor accepeth a redemise, and suffereth a stranger to occupy the land redemised, it suspendeth the rent, as well as if himself had entred.

4. That the said lease made by Cartwright to Warlowe by Indenture when he had nothing in the house was notwithstanding good against him by conclusion; and when Rawlyns redemiseth all to him, then was his interest bound with this conclusion, and then when Cartwright redemised the said Stable to Rawlyns, now was Rawlyns concluded also. For all parties or privies in estate or interest are bound by estoppels, and then the Case is no other but Cartwright demiseth to Warlowe for six years the said Stable, and afterwards demiseth to Rawlyns for 20 years, so that this is a good lease in reversion for 14 years, the same doth not make any suspension of the rent, or condition, for it is not any grant of the reversion, but a future interest in reversion, no term but an interest of a term as the pleading is; And notwithstanding such grant the reversion (without attornment) doth remain in the grantor, and he shall have the rent reserved upon the first lease: But if there be attornment, then the reversion doth pass, and then will follow suspension: And therefore it was agreed, That if a man maketh a lease for 21 years rendring rent, with clause of reentry, and afterwards the lessee maketh a lease to the lessor for six years to begin two years after, and afterwards the rent being lawfully demanded is behind, the lessor may lawfully enter and take advantage of the Condition, notwithstanding the acceptance of the future interest and by the entry defeat the future interest which was vested in him: If a man make a feoffment in fee upon a collateral Condition, and afterwards the feoffee redemiseth the land to the feoffor, and afterwards the Condition is performed, now the redemise of the land being no suspension of the Condition, is no impediment but that the feoffee shall take advantage thereof, and thereby destroy the term which he himself hath accepted, as it is holden in 20 E. 4. 19. 8 H. 7. 8. 20 H. 7. 4. So in the Case at Bar, the redemise in futuro maketh no suspension of the rent, and by consequence no suspension of the Condition.

5. Although it was objected, 1. That Estoppels conclude the parties to say the truth, but cannot conclude the Jurors because they are sworn ad veritatem de & super præmissis dicendam: And 2. That Estoppels ought to be pleaded, and in pleading the party ought in the conclusion of his plea to rely upon the Estoppel, and not demand Judgment if Action, or make other conclusion, as it is holden in 22 H. 53. And for these causes the Court shall not give regard to this Estoppel by deed indented found by the Jurors: Yet it was resolved in this Case, That this Estoppel being found by Verdict, the Court ought to judge upon the whole special matter according to Law: And true it is, that the Jurors are [6] sworn ad veritatem dicendam, and therefore they have well done in the Case at Bar to find all the truth of the Case, and to leave the Judgment to the Court, which upon the matter ought to judge according to Law. And the Chief Justice Wray said, That it was adjudged in Pleadel's Case in 8 Eliz. that because that a Jury did not find such a lease by deed indented which took its operation only by conclusion intending that they being sworn ad veritatem dicendam, and that Estoppels conclude the parties, not the Jurors to say the truth, were therefore attaint and had Judgment accordingly; for the Justices in the same Case held, That the interest of the land as to parties and privies was in a manner by such conclusion bound, and no conclusion shall be by such deed indented after the term ended, as Wray Chief Justice held. And in such Case the Jury ought, if they will not find the special matter, and leave to the judgment of the Law, find it at their peril according to Law. See for this Point, 17 E. 3.
[ ] 18 Ass. 2. 22 Ass. 37. 34 E. 3. Droit 29. 15 E. 3. Assise 322. 13 E. 3. Garr. 26. 35 Ass. 8. 1 H. 27 H. 8. 22. Plow. Com. 315. and many other Books. And upon good consideration of this Judgment and the said Books, you shall understand and observe good differences, and which opinions in your Books agree to Law, and which not.

6. It was resolved, That if a man hath a lease for 20 years, and he leaseth for two years rendring rent, and afterwards granteth all his Tenure and interest to another, if the lessee attorn the reversion shall pass; and if no attornment be, yet the interest in reversion shall pass, so that the grantee shall have the land after the two years determined; For the grant of one shall not be adjudged void, if to any intent it may take effect.

7. It was resolved, That if lessee of a house for 20 years, leaseth part for two years, and afterwards leaseth the whole to another for 10 years rendring rent, so that this doth enure as a lease in reversion for the part in lease, and a lease in possession for the residue, that the rent shall issue out of the whole, and the interest of the term, although it be not any estate which can be surrendred, and although it be joyned with land in possession, yet the rent shall go out of the whole: Upon which Judgment Somerford brought a Writ of Error upon the new Statute upon the Judgment, and two Errors were assigned.

1. Because that Rawlyns the Plaintiff was an Infant, and was admitted by Guardian, and no Record thereof was made as is used in the Common Pleas, but only recited in the Court; Jo. Rawlyns per A. R. guardianum suum ad hoc per Cur' prius admissus, querit', &c.

The second Error was assigned in the Judgment it self given in the Kings Bench: As to the first Error the Judges Anderson Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Manwood Chief Baron, Penham, Windham, Windham, and Rhodes Justices, Clark and Gent Barons of the Exchequer, and of the Coif, commanded, That the Presidents of the Kings Bench should be searched, for without presidents, prima facie it seemed to them, That there ought to be a Record made of the said admittance by Guardian; and upon search of the Records in the Kings Bench, many were shewed to the Justices where Infants had sued by Guardians [54] in the same Court, and no Record made of their admittance by Guardian, but such recital in the Court as aforesaid.

The Justices and Barons una voce in regard of the presidents which in this Case make a Law in the same Court disallowed the Error, although that presidents in a small number were shewed, where Record was made of the like admittance of an Infant in the Kings Bench, as is done in the Common Pleas. As to the Error in the Judgment, all the said Points often argued in the Kings Bench, and upon great deliberation adjudged, were again new argued before the said Justices and Barons of the Exchequer; and after many Arguments at the Bar and Bench, all the matters aforesaid were resolved from Point to Point, and for the causes before alledged, affirmed by all the Justices, and Judgment given accordingly.

And Coke and others were of Council with the Plaintiff, and Glanvil Serjeant and others with the Defendant. And that was the last Case that Sir Thomas Gawdy argued, who was a most reverend Judge and Sage of the Law, of ready and profound Judgment, and of great gravity, prudence, and integrity.

Note Reader, according to the opinion of Wray Chief Justice, it was afterwards adjudged in the Common Pleas, Pasch. 33 Eliz. in the Case of one London, That if a man take a lease for years by deed indented of his own land, it is not any Estoppel but during the term, and after the term the lessor may enter or occupy the land, for by the determination of the term, the Estoppel is also determined; And then both the parts of the Indenture belong to the lessor, as it is holden 38 H. 6. 24. And so the Law is resolved in a Case which was much controverted in our Books, 14 H. 6. 23. e. 8 H. 4. 58. 3 E. 4. 14. 8 H. 6. 17. f. 44 E. 3. Estoppel 10. 43 E. 3. 17. 21 H. 6. 2. 43 E. 3. Estoppel 7. 3 H. 4. 6. 12 H. 4. 19. Litt. 156. 47 Ass. 3. 35 Ass. 8. 10 E. 3. Double plea 8. and the opinion of Hales and Montague in Plowden's Commentaries.

Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Chancery: Monstrans de droit by the Wardens and Comminalty of Sadlers.

BY virtute of a Writ of Mandamus after the death of Thomas Cox, it was found by enquest before [b] Wolstan Dixie Mayor of London, Escheator of the same City, 17. Jan. 28 Eliz. and returned in the Chancery, That the said Tho. Cox the day of his death was seised in his demesne as of fee of 11 Messuages and 8 Gardens in the Parish of All-Saints in London, and died without heir, and that they were holden of the Queen in Socage. And the Wardens and Comminalty of Sadlers in the Chancery shewed their right, That long time before the said Tho. Cox had any thing in the said Messuages and Gardens, one Richard Millard was seised of them in his demesne as of fee. And so seised 6. Aug. 15 H. 8. by his Will in writing devised the said Messuages and Gardens to the Wardens and Comminalty of Sadlers in fee, and died; and that they were seised until the said Tho. Cox did disseise them, and so seised died without heir: And shewed the custom of London, That a Citizen and Freeman of London may devise in Mortmain; and indeed that the said Richard Millard was a Citizen and Freeman of London at the time of his death: Upon this plea the Attorney-General did demur in Law; and if a Monstrans de droit in this Case lieth or if they shall be put to their Petition was the great Question of the Case: And this Case, on the Queens part, and on the parts of the Wardens and Comminalty was often argued as well in the Chancery, as before all the Judges of England, and Barons of the Exchequer at Serjeants Inn in Fleetstreet: And in this Case divers Points were resolved.

1. In every Case where the King is entituled to any Freehold or Inheritance, it is 1. Either by matter of Record, which is, 1. Either by Record Judicial, as attainder, &c. 2. Ministerial upon Oath, as Office. 3. Or by conveyance of Record, by assent, as fine, deed inrolled, &c. 2. Or by matter in Fact, and found by Office of Record upon Oath, as alienation in Mortmain, purchase by Alien born, Villein, Escheat by death without heir, &c. and that found by Record Ministerial, as before the Escheator or other Officer. 3. Or by matter in fact only, when land cometh to the King by Escheat or other matter of fact, and the Kings Officers put it in charge in the Exchequer without Office.

And it was resolved in all these Cases at the Common Law, when the King was seised of any estate [55] of Inheritance or Freehold by any matter of Record, be his title by matter of Record Judicial or Ministerial, or by conveyance of Record, or by matter in fact, and found by office of Record, he who hath right cannot by the Common Law have any traverse upon which he was to have Amoveas manum, but was put to his Petition of Right (in the nature of his real Action which he cannot have against the King, because the King by his Writ cannot command himself) to be restored to his Freehold, or Inheritance, 4 H. 6. 12. 24 E. 3. 23. 1 H. 7. 3. 4 E. 4. 21. 9 E. 4. 52. But at the Common Law the party grieved may in some Case have his Monstrans de droit where the King was so entituled, and in some Case not, when the title of the King was by matter in fact, as by reason of purchase by an alien born, or the Kings Villein, or for alienation in Mortmain, or by death of the Kings Tenant without heir, &c. in all these and the like Cases, if office be found for the King, and in the same office the title or interest of the party be found, there the party grieved, at the Common Law may have a Monſtrans de droit. And ſo are the Books to be intended in 9 E. 4. 51. & 13 E. 4. 8. 4 E. 4. 21. 33 E. 3. Traverſe 36. It was found by office that T. by licence of the King, did marry the King's Neif, and that certain lands deſcended to the ſame Neif, which her husband aliened without the Kings licence (his wife being the Kings Neif) to another, and for this cauſe the land was ſeiſed; whereupon the alienee came into the Chancery and ſhewed all his Caſe, ſcil. That the Neif was married with the Kings licence; 2. The deſcent to the Neif after the marriage appeared in the office; And it was awarded, That for this cauſe the husband might hold by the Curteſie; and by ſuch alienation put the wife to her Action, and thereupon the alienee had reſtitution: By which Caſe it appeareth;

party

1. That the wife being married with the Kings licence, is enfranched, at leaſt during the coverture, for if ſhe ſhould remain Neif, then the husband ſhould not be Tenant by the Curteſie; and when the Kings title, and the title of a Subject doth concur in the beginning, the Kings title ſhall be preferred, as Weſton holdeth in Plow. Com. 263. b.

2. When all the truth of the Caſe appeareth in the office, that there was a Monſtrance de droit at the Common Law: So if land be conveyed to the King upon Condition, if the performance of the Condition be of Record, as if the Condition be to levy a fine of other land to the King, or to make a Recogniſance to the King in any Court of Record, or other like Conditions which are to be performed of Record; he who hath performed the Condition may have a Monſtrans de droit at the Common Law, for his title appeareth on Record, and there is no Record which doth abſolutely entitle the King: But if the performance of the Condition be not on Record, then if the performance of the Condition be found by office, he ſhall have a Monſtrans de droit by the Common Law, vide Plow. Com. 229. But in the ſame Caſe if the office find only title for the King, and omitteth the right or title of the party, although that all the words of the office be true, yet by the Common Law he cannot have a Monſtrans de droit, but for the cauſe aforeſaid he was put to his Petition, and therewith agreed Piers Patifield's Caſe in 29 Aſſ. p. 31. it was found by force of a Writ of Diem clauſit extremum, that one held certain lands of the King in London, and died ſeiſed without heir, for which the King gave the lands by his Letters Patents to Piers Partifield for his life, who ſued a Writ to the Mayor of London to put him in ſeiſin, and thereupon nothing was done, for which cauſe he ſued a Sicut alias, vel Cauſam nobis ſignifices, upon which Writ the Mayor returned, That the Kings tenant by his Will in writing and enrolled before the Mayor deviſed his land to his wife for life, and that ſhe or her Executors ſhould ſell the reverſion for his ſoul; And that the wife and John Digle her now husband were in by the ſaid deviſe for which he could not make livery; And afterwards Piers Partifield by force of the Kings Patent entred, whereupon John Digle and his wife ſued a Scire facias againſt Piers Partifield, if they could ſay any thing wherefore they ſhould not be reſtored: Piers Partifield demanded Judgment of the Writ for two cauſes.

[b]

1. Becauſe he held but for life, the reverſion to the King, in which Caſe ſuit ſhould be againſt the King.

2. Becauſe an office was found for the King, he ſhall not have this ſuit before that upon his Petition an office be found as it ought to be intended for him, and ſo before he be admitted to ſhew his right, he ought to have his right as well found by office, as the Kings title was found by office, and that is æquum jus: To which it was anſwered:

1. That for as much as they were ſeiſed of the Freehold, that they were not to be ouſted without ſuit.

2. That againſt the King Petition could not be ſued, becauſe that Piers was tenant of the Freehold.

3. That this matter returned by the Mayor did ſerve for an office, for by the office, the reverſe of the matter was not found; which is as much as to ſay, That all the matter found by the office was true, ſcil. that the tenant held the land of the King, and died without heir, and by the deviſe it was confeſſed and avoided. And for the deciding of theſe Queſtions, all the Juſtices of England were aſſembled in the Chancery; And by the award of all the Juſtices of England the Writ was abated, becauſe that no office was found for John Digle and his wife, and it was ſaid to them, To ſue to the King, ſcil. by Petition for an office which might ſerve them. Out of which award of the Juſtices I obſerve theſe things:

[56]

1. That at the Common Law when by office the King was ſeiſed of an eſtate of Freehold, although that all the Points of the office were true, yet the party grieved was put to his Petition in nature of his real Action, if his title be not found by office.

2. That Petition lieth againſt the King although he hath departed with the Freehold.

3. That for as much as the Kings title is found by enqueſt of office upon oath, the title of the Subject ought to appear by Record of as high nature, ſcil. by the like enqueſt of the office upon oath, and not by the return of the Mayor, which although it be of Record, yet it is not of ſo high and great regard as the office found by oath: So note Judicial Records as Attainders and Judgments are preferred before Miniſterial Records, as Inquiſitions, and offices before Eſcheators; and they alſo being found in courſe of lawful proceeding upon oath before Returns, or conveyances of Record, as it moſt plainly appeareth in this Caſe. And in 30 Aſſ. pl. 28. by Diem clauſit extremum it was found, that J. held of the King, and that M. was her daughter and heir who was of full age and had livery; And by another office it was found, that the ſame J. had another daughter K. who was yet within age, by which a Scire facias iſſued againſt the ſaid M. and her husband, &c. who ſaid, That the land was given to J. and to his firſt wife mother of M. in tail, and that K. was the iſſue of another woman, and ſo M. ſole heir. But by award of the whole Council, ſcil. the Juſtices (who are as to adminiſtration of Juſtice called in Law the Council) all the land was ſeiſed into the Kings hands, becauſe that the tail was not found by any office, but only that M. was general heir.

So

So at the Common Law, if the King by falſe office was poſſeſſed of the Wardſhip or intereſt in any land by reaſon of the Ward, or Ideocy, or alienation without licence, or the like; In ſuch Caſes although that the King was not entituled to a freehold, but to a chattel real, and by a falſe office only, yet the party grieved cannot have a Travers, and thereupon to have Amoveas manum, but was put to his Petition by the Common Law; and therewith agreeth the Book in 17 E. 3. 11. But yet as well a Travers as a Monſtrans de droit was at the Common Law, as well concerning freehold and inheritance as Chattels real; for in all Caſes when by the office land is not in the Kings hands, nor the King by it is in poſſeſſion, but the King by the office is only entituled to an Action, and cannot make a ſeiſure without ſuit, there in a Scire facias brought by the King in the nature of ſuch Action to which he is entituled, the party may upon the ſaid Scire facias appear, and traverſe the office at the Common Law, for the party is in poſſeſſion, and upon the matter found for him ſhall not have Amoveas manum, becauſe that by the office nothing was in the Kings hands, but the King ſhall be barred of his Action. And therefore if it be found by office that the Kings tenant hath ceaſed for two years; or that the Kings tenant for life, or years hath committed Waſt; or that his tenant by Knights ſervice hath made a feoffment by colluſion, in theſe Caſes the King is put to his Scire facias againſt the tenant; And in all theſe Caſes the tenant in the Scire facias may traverſe the ceſſer, waſt, and colluſion at the Common Law; and therewith agree the Books in 14 H. 7. 23. & 25. 15 H. 7. 6. & 12 H. 7. 21. It appeareth alſo by a Book before any Statute made which gave Travers, or Monſtrans de droit, 30 Aſſ. 28. 32 E. 3. Scire facias 106, 32 E. 3. Travers 38. 50 Aſſ. 2. It was found by office that W. the Kings Tenant in Capite died, and that the tenancy deſcendeth to R. his ſon and heir who is a fool and ideot from his nativity, and that N. was Terre-tenant, againſt whom a Scire facias iſſued, if he could ſay any thing that the land ſhould not be ſeiſed in the Kings hands, who came and pleaded that R. after the death of W. did releaſe to one F. then Tenant, all the right, &c. who enfeoffed him; at which time R. was of good memory; and traverſed the point of the office, ſcil. without that, that R. was a natural fool; for in vain ſhall it be to award a Scire facias to know if he can ſay any thing, &c. and when they ſee he can plead nothing: But if the office find no other in poſſeſſion but the ideot, thereby the King is in poſſeſſion, then he who in truth was Terre-tenant and ouſted by the office, cannot traverſe the office to have Amoveas manum, becauſe it doth not appear by the office, that he was tenant at the time of the office, but is put to his Petition: But for as much as in Caſe when the King was in poſſeſſion by the office, or may ſeiſe without ſuit, there the party is put to his Petition, which was tedious, and of great delay and charges to the party grieved; for his relief was the Statute of 34 E. 3. cap. 14, made, by which it is enacted, That there where lands and tenements are ſeiſed in the Kings hands by office of the Eſcheator, containing that the Kings tenant did thereof make alienation without licence, &c. Out of which words divers things are to be obſerved. [b]

1. Where it is ſaid, where lands and tenements are ſeiſed into the Kings hands, &c. By that it appeareth, that the miſchief was, where lands or tenements were ſeiſed in the Kings hand by the office, for it was not any miſchief as hath been ſaid, where the King was not entituled but to the Action, for there was traverſe at the Common Law.

2. That this Act extended only where the King was entituled by office only, for the words are ſeiſed in the Kings hands by office of the Eſcheator.

3. That this Act extended only to alienation without licence, and to the Caſe of Ward. But three things were grievous to the people which were not remedied by this Act. [57]

1. That no office was within the purview of this Act, but only office found virtute brevis, or commiſſionis; for the words are (taken by the mandment of the King) ſo that an office found virtute officii was out of the Act.

2. That the ſaid Act, as appeareth before, did not extend but only to the ſaid two Caſes of alienation without licence and Ward.

3. That the ſaid Act did extend to a traverſe only, and not a Monſtrans de droit; by which although by the traverſe the iſſue was found for the Plaintiff, yet the Judges cannot proceed to Judgment without a Writ of Procedendo ad judicium, which were great and grievous miſchiefs; For remedy of which another Statute was made ann. 36 E. 3. cap. 13. for the grievous complaints which the King had heard from his people of his Eſcheators, &c. He willeth and ordaineth, with the aſſent aforeſaid, That the lands ſeiſed in the Kings hands for cauſe of Ward, be ſafely kept without Waſt, &c. So of other lands ſeiſed in the Kings hands by Enqueſt of office taken before Eſcheators; which words are general. 1. As to the matter, that they are not reſtrained to the two things, ſcil. alienation without licence, and Ward mentioned in the former Act. 2. As to the office, for they extend as well to offices found virtute brevis, ſive commiſſionis, to which only the former Act extended, as to offices found virtute officii. And as to the great Objection which was made, that for as much as the words of the Act are, that the Eſcheator ſhall ſend the Enqueſt into the Chancery within the month, &c. that it ought to be intended of an office found virtute brevis, ſive commiſſionis, becauſe that no office found before the Eſcheator virtute officii can by the Law be returned into the Chancery, but only into the Exchequer, as it is ſaid in 4 E. 3. 23. & Stamf. Prærog. 70. To that it was anſwered and reſolved upon ſhewing of infinite of precedents in all ages, that ſuch offices have been returned by the Eſcheator as well into the Chancery as into the Exchequer, and that the Eſcheator hath election to return it in which of the Courts he will, for he is attendant to both Courts, and both are the Kings Courts; Then the Statute goeth further, And be heard without delay to traverſe the office (ſo that by theſe branches, the two firſt of theſe defects were remedied) or otherwiſe ſhew his right: By which the Monſtrans de droit was given to make a final diſcuſſion without attendance; by which words they ſhall proceed to Judgment without any Procedendo; And ſo all the ſaid miſchiefs were remedied. But it was reſolved, that this Act doth not extend to any Judiciai Record, as Attainder, or Recovery, but only when nothing appeareth of Record for [b]

the King but only the office; and therein the Makers of the Act had great reason, for in Cases of Attainder and Office, the King is entituled by double matter of Record, wherefore the party grieved ought to avoid it by double matter of Record, and not by single traverse, or Monstrans de droit; for it was said, Nihil tam inconveniens est naturali æquitati, unumquodque dissolvi eo ligamine quo ligatum est; And therefore he shall be put to his Petition, upon which he shall have an office found containing his title of Record, which is required by the Justice of the Law, because the Kings title doth commence by Record, and thereupon the party grieved shall traverse the Kings title found by the office, or shall shew his right, and confess and avoid; And if upon the traverse, or Monstrans de droit it be found for him, then he shall have an Amoveas manum, for he hath answered and satisfied double matter of Record with double matter of Record, Vide 11 H. 4. 52.

Another reason was, When the King is in by force of a title, by Judicial matter of Record, as by Attainder or Recovery, there for the estimation and credit that the Law giveth to the Judicial Records, the party is put to his Petition: These Resolutions of the Justices in this Case do agree with our Books. 1. That the Statute of 36 E. 3. extendeth to other Cases, then to the Case of alienation without licence, and ward, which are mentioned in the Act of 34 E. 3. there are divers Cases agreed in our Books. And therefore 43 Ass. 28. it was found by office returned into the Chancery that one W. of Herlington who was seised of certain lands in the County of York, was aiding to Guilbert de M. who was the Kings Enemy, and that the lands were seised into the Kings hands; and thereupon came W. into the Chancery, and traversed the office, and it was found for him and he had restitution by Judgment of the Court, which special Case is not mentioned in the Act of 34 E. 9. but is included within the general words of 36 E. 3.

Take heed Reader, for at this day although a man be aiding the Kings enemies, or be killed in open Rebellion against the King, he shall not forfeit his lands or his goods: But if the chief Justice of the Kings Bench (who is head Coroner of all England) in person upon the view of the body of him killed in open Rebellion, make a Record thereof, and returneth the same into the Kings Bench, he shall forfeit his lands and goods, as it was done and resolved in the time of H. 7. by Fineux chief Justice Vide 8 E. 3. 38. 7 H. 4. 47. and in 2 H. 4. 10. Sir John Talbots Case; The possessions of a Prior alien were seised into [58] the Kings hands for certain cause, and afterwards the King made livery of them; and after livery the King by a Writ out of the Chancery had taken them again into his hands by this word resumpsimus, and committed them to one Tutbury; and now came the Executors of the said Sir Thomas, who had a term for years in the said possessions, and in the Chancery exhibited their traverse, and had a Scire facias against the said Tutbury, and there Skreen for the Defendant demanded Judgment of the Writ; for where the King seiseth for cause, a man may have a traverse to the cause, and answer to it by the Statute, meaning the said Statute of 36 E. 3. But where the King seiseth into his hands, and doth not determine wherefore in certain, he ought to sue to the King by Petition, quod fuit concessum by the Justices assembled together for this purpose in the Chancery.

Note Reader, thereby it appeareth, that a Termor may have a traverse in that Case by the Statute of 36 E. 3. But it was objected, that neither the Statute of 34 E. 3. nor the Statute of 36 E. 3. did extend to the Case at Bar, because that in this Case the King was entituled to the freehold and inheritance, and the Acts give remedy only when the King is entituled to a chattel, as a ward, or for alienation without licence, &c. To which it was answered and resolved, That the Act of 36 E. 3. doth extend generally to lands seised, &c. by office, which is a beneficial Law made in advancement and in execution of Justice and Right without grievous and tedious delay; and therefore shall be taken so generally according to the letter and intent of the Act; and with this Resolution in this point agreeth the Books 13 E. 4. 8. 4 E. 22. Lord Hungerford's Case, 3 H. 7. 20. Lord Grieſtock's Case, 49 E. 3. 16. Isabel Goodcheaps Case; and 19 R. 2. Travers 37. and so the Quære in Stamfords Prærog. 61. resolved; and the book in 8 H. 5. Travers 47. is to be intended at the Common Law before the said Act. It was also resolved, that when the Kings tenant seised of lands in fee simple dieth without heir, that the fee and freehold is presently after his death and before office found thereof cast upon the King; for in such Case it ought to be in some person, and if any person entreth into the land and taketh the profits, an information of intrusion for the King may be preferred against him before office or seisure; for the King presently by the death is in actual possession, and hath not only a freehold in Law, as a common person in such Case hath, and as to that, this difference was taken and agreed; When the Kings tenant dieth in possession without heir, so that in such Case possessio est vacua and in no body, the Law will adjudge the King (in whom shall be no lacheſs reckoned) in actual possession presently; But when another is in possession and seisin at the time of the Escheat, so that possessio plena est & non vacua, the King shall not be adjudged in possession until this seisin and possession be removed; as if the Kings Tenant be disseised and dieth
[b] without heir; or if an alien born, or the Kings Villain, or the alienee in Mortmain be disseised, and all the same is found by office, in these Cases the King shall not be in possession until the possession and seisin of the Terre-tenant be removed: But if the land descend to the King after the death of his father, or any other collateral ancestor, the King shall be presently in possession before entry or seisure. So if the King make a lease for life, or a gift in tail, and the lessee dieth, or the donee dieth without issue, in this Case the possession shall be actually in the King without any entry or seisure. And therewith agreeth 9 H. 7. 2. b. and there it is expressly said, That when no man is in possession it shall be adjudged in the King according to his title; and so the doubt which Stamford maketh Prærog. 53. well resolved.

But upon that it was strongly urged by one of the Justices, That in the principal Case the Company of Sadlers shall be put to their Petition; for in as much as presently after that that Cox was dead without heir, the possession was actually in the Queen; Then before office found they were put to their Petition, for the Act of 36 E. 3. doth not extend but only in Case where an office is found, for that is the Record traverſable by the Statute; And therefore he ſaid, If a diſſeiſor conveyeth land to the King, in this Caſe the diſſeiſee was put to his Petition by the Common Law, and therewith agreeth 22 E. 3. 5. 24 E. 3. 23. 4 E. 4. 22. And the ſame is not remedied by the ſaid Act; for although the King be entituled by a Record, yet it is not a Record traverſable by the ſaid Act: So he ſaid, When Richard Duke of York father of King E. 4. diſſeiſed one and died ſeiſed, and the ſame deſcended to King E. 4. the diſſeiſee was put to his Petition; and therefore although the deſcent was afterwards found by office, and although the King was entituled by Office, and ſingle matter of Record only, yet he was put to his Petition, and was not remedied by the ſaid Act as it appeareth in 9 E. 4. 51.

for

2. It was objected, That the Statute of 36 E. 3. cap. 13. extendeth only in Caſe where one is put out of poſſeſſion by office, as Stamford conceiveth Prærog. 61. a. But in this Caſe the Company of Sadlers was not put out of poſſeſſion by office, but by the diſſeiſin made by Cox to them, and therefore this Caſe was not remedied by the ſaid Act. But to that it was anſwered and reſolved, That it is a Maxim in Law, that when a common perſon againſt another common perſon is put to his real Action, in ſuch Caſe he ſhall be put to his Petition, which is in lieu of a real Action againſt the King. Vide 7 H. 4. 33. 9 H. 4. 5. And therefore there is a great difference between the Caſes which have been put, and the Caſe at Bar; For 1. as to that Caſe, when land deſcendeth to the King from his anceſtor, by this deſcent the entry of the diſſeiſee is taken away, if it were in the Caſe of a common perſon, and therefore in the Caſe of the King he ſhall be put to his Petition. But in Caſe of Eſcheat, when a diſſeiſor dieth without heir, if it were in the Caſe of a common perſon the entry of the diſſeiſee was not taken away, but he may enter upon the Lord by Eſcheat; and although it ſhould be admitted, that in the Caſe at Bar, the Company of Sadlers cannot have their Monſtrans de droit before office found, and that it ſhould remain at the Common Law not remedied by the ſaid Act of 36 E. 3. yet when office is found it hath relation to the [56] time of the death of the tenant without heir, and then the Statute of 36 E. 3. extendeth to it; and if it ſhall be alſo admitted, That the Caſe when a diſſeiſor conveyeth lands to the King, that that remain not remedied by the ſaid Act of 36 E. 3. becauſe there is no Record traverſable by the Act in ſuch Caſe: yet for as much as in the Caſe at Bar office is found, that the Record is traverſable, the party grieved by the purview of the Act ſhall have a Monſtrans de droit.

And as to the ſecond Objection, it was reſolved, That the Statute of 36 E. 3. extendeth to this Caſe, although the party grieved be not ouſted by the office, for the words are, And if there be no man who makes challenge or claim to the land, &c. and without queſtion the party grieved doth, for he maketh challenge and claim to the lands found by the office; and the Statute doth not ſay, If the party grieved be ouſted by the office: And ſo the doubt which Stamford conceived in this Caſe alſo explained. And it was well urged, That the Statute of 36 E. 3. hath provided remedy when the King by office is entituled to land, either by purchaſe of his Villain, or Alien born, or for alienation in Mortmain, or for any ſuch title which is matter of fact, or in pais; and the office is the ſole Record which entituleth the King, becauſe that the makers of the Act of 2 E. 6. have provided remedy only when the King is entituled by double matter of Record, as Attainder of Treaſon, Felony, and Premunire, and Office: And it was ſaid, That if Travers and Monſtrans de droit had not been provided in the ſaid Caſes of the Kings Villain, Alien born, Mortmain, &c. by the former Act, without doubt, they for theſe Caſes would have alſo provided remedy, becauſe that theſe ſhall be in as great miſchief if the party grieved ſhall be put to his Petition, as where the King was entituled by double matter of Record: But it was ſaid, That if the King be Lord, Tenant in tail, the remainder in tail Meſn, and Tenant, and the Meſn alieneth the meſnalty in Mortmain, or to the Kings Villain, or to an Alien born, and upon office found thereof the King ſeiſeth, Tenant in tail dieth, the tenancy eſcheateth, the iſſue ſhall not have Travers nor Monſtrans de droit, for the eſcheat is a thing newly accrued and dependant upon the Seigniory; and for as much as the King hath the Seigniory at the time of the eſcheat, of neceſſity the land ſhall eſcheat to him quoſque, &c. and he ſhall be put to his Petition in this Caſe. Vide 8 H. 4. 9. vide Plow. Comm. Wimbiſhe's Caſe. If a tenancy eſcheat to a woman who hath a Joynture, it is out of the Statute of 11 H. 7.

And laſtly, a Judgment in the Point now of late given in the Exchequer was vouched, where the Caſe was, That by office returned in the Exchequer it was found, That Jane wife of Theophilaci Aden was ſeiſed of lands in fee, and held them of the Queen and died without heir, and one Collins and Howſtead [b] came into the Exchequer, and by way of Monſtrans de droit did alledge that one N. Reynolds was ſeiſed of the ſaid lands in fee, and by his Will in writing deviſed them to Emme his wife in fee and died; The wife did thereof enfeoff Collins and Howſtead, by which they were ſeiſed till diſſeiſed by the ſaid Jane, who died without heir, and ſo confeſſed and avoided the office. And by the rule of the Court, the Attorney General anſwered thereunto, and maintained the office, and traverſed the deviſe, which was found againſt the Queen. Out of which Judgment I obſerve, That the Barons did adjudge the ſaid Act of 36 E. 3. to be taken by equity; for the ſaid office ſpeaketh only of office returned in the Chancery, and the ſaid office was returned in the Exchequer, which without queſtion was within the intent and meaning of the ſaid Act. Vide Stamf. Prærog. 70.

And in this Caſe, this difference as to Petition, Travers, and Monſtrans de droit was reſolved. In all Caſes at the Common Law, when the Kings title accrueth by a Judicial Record, or as Gaſcoigne ſaith 9 H. 4. by Judgment of Record, that although the King granteth all his eſtate over, yet the party grieved was put to his Petition, and had a Scire facias againſt the Patentee; as in Caſe of Attainder, Recovery, &c. 44 E. 3. 22. 10 H. 6. 15. 21 H. 7. 2. 3 Ma. 139. 7 H. 4. 21. But where the King was entituled by conveyance of Record, as if a diſſeiſor convey the land to the King by fine, deed enrolled, or other matter of Record, there although the party were put to his Petition againſt the King; yet if he granteth the land over, the diſſeiſee, or he who hath right may enter, or have his Action againſt the Patentee; for a Judicial Record is preferred always before a conveyance of Record by aſſent, as hath been ſaid.

Vide 9 H.4.4. by Gaſcoigne the ſame difference, 25 E.3.28. a. Plow. Comm 553. 22 E.3.7. 11 H.4.67.7 R. 2. Aide del Roy 61. By which Books if they be well conſidered this difference doth appear. Alſo in all Caſes when the party grieved may have a Monſtrans de droit, or traverſe againſt the King, there if the King granteth over the land, the party grieved may enter or have his Action againſt the Patentee, Stamf. Prerog. 75. vide 4 E. 4. 22. 3 Ma. Dier 139.

Note Reader, in the Common Pleas, between Pemberton and Barham, Paſch. 32 Eliz. Rot. 235. and in the Kings Bench, Hill. 42 Eliz. in a Writ of Error, between Bereblocke and Read, it was reſolved, That if A. be bounden in a Recogniſance, or Statute Merchant, or Staple; and after a Recovery is had againſt [60] A. in an Action of debt, and A. maketh his Executors and dieth, his Executors are bound by the Law to pay the debt due upon the Recovery, although it be puiſne, before the debt due by Recogniſance, or Statute, becauſe that although both are Records, yet the Judgment in the Kings Court upon Judicial and ordinary proceeding is more notorious and conſpicuous, and of more high and eminent degree then a Statute or Recogniſance taken in private, and by conſent of the parties, and therefore preferred in Judgment of Law before Recogniſance, or Statute, which agreeth with the Reſolution in this Caſe: And I thought this Caſe neceſſary to be Reported, and by this the Reader ſhall underſtand what was the common Law before any Statute made concerning this matter, and what Caſes are remedied by the ſaid Acts of 34 and 36 E. 3. And therefore you will better apprehend the true intention and purview of the Statute of 2 E. 6. concerning theſe matters.

Mich. 30 & 31 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Forſe and Hembling's Caſe.

[b] Forſe brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt Hembling upon a demiſe made by Thomas Calie to the Plaintiff for three years, of certain houſes in Norwich, from the feaſt of S. Michael 29 Eliz. &c. To which the Defendant pleaded, Not guilty; and the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict, ſcil. That one Alice Allen was ſeiſed of the ſaid houſes in fee, and made her Will in writing; and thereby deviſed, that if James Amynde did overlive her, that then ſhe deviſed and bequeathed to him and his heirs the tenements in queſtion; and afterwards ſhe intermarried with John Amynde; and further found that ſhe oftentimes after the marriage revoked the ſaid Will, ſaying, that the ſaid James Amynde ſhall not have the ſaid tenements by the ſaid Will; and afterward the wife died without iſſue, and the husband ſurvived, and thereof did enfeoff the Defendant, upon which the ſaid Thomas Calie as heir to the ſaid Alice did enter, and made the leaſe as in the Declaration, and prayed the advice of the Court. And upon this Verdict two Queſtions were moved.

1. If the womans Will by the intermarriage with the deviſee were countermanded, or not.

2. If it were not countermanded by the intermarriage, if by her words of revocation after the marriage it was countermanded. And it was objected by the husbands Councel;

1. That if a feme ſole make her Will and deviſeth her land to A. and after marrieth B. and B. dieth, and the wife ſurvive him, in this Caſe it was ſaid that the Will doth remain good, and was not countermanded by the marriage, as Manwood ſaid in Plow. Com. 343. and was not denied; But if it were admitted that the Will in ſuch Caſe was countermanded by the marriage with a ſtranger; yet in the Caſe at Bar for the benefit of the husband being the deviſee, the Will ſhall not be countermanded, and therefore it is adjudged in 2 R. 2. Attornment 8. That if a feme ſole make a leaſe for life rendring rent,
[61] and afterwards by deed granteth the reverſion to another, and afterwards and before attornment marrieth with the grantee, that this marriage was not countermand of the attornment, as if ſhe had married with a ſtranger, for it is for the benefit of the husband that it ſhall not be a countermand; And therefore there by the payment of the rent by the tenant to the husband in the name of attornment, the reverſion doth paſs out of the wife; for the ſame reaſon which proveth that the intermarriage with a ſtranger ſhall be a countermand of the attornment for the benefit of the husband, proveth that when the grantor marrieth with the grantee, that it ſhall not be a countermand, for that ſhall be for the benefit of the husband: And ſo in the principal Caſe it is for the benefit of the husband that the Will by the intermarriage ſhall not be countermanded, but ſhall take effect according to the purport thereof: And it was ſaid, That the Caſe of a Will when the wife marrieth with a ſtranger is not like to the Caſe of attornment when the grantor marrieth with a ſtranger; for the Will of the woman cannot take effect during his life, but only after his death, and by no poſſibility could it be any prejudice to the husband: For if he hath iſſue he ſhall be Tenant by the Curteſie, and he may take the profits thereof during the coverture, or diſpoſe of them at his pleaſure to all intents and purpoſes, as if no Will had been made.

2. To ſay as it is ſaid in 3 E. 3. Deviſe 12. that the Will of a feme covert is void, becauſe that the Law preſumeth that it was made by coherſion of the husband, that cannot be ſo intended in this Caſe, for as much as in the Caſe of 3 E. 3. the Will was made by a man when ſhe was covert, which cannot be made good by any cuſtom: But here in our Caſe the woman was ſole, and free from all conſtraint at the time of the making of her Will.

3. It

3. It was objected, that if the Will was not countermanded by the intermarriage, without queſtion it was not or can be countermanded by the womans words after the marriage, for after marriage the whole will of the wife is in Judgment of Law ſubject to the will of the husband, and as is commonly ſaid, a feme covert hath not any Will; and therefore if the Will ſtands notwithſtanding the intermarriage, her countermand afterwards is of no force nor effect, quod fuit conceſſum by the whole Court as to this Point; Further it was objected, That notwithſtanding that after the Marriage the wife cannot revoke her Will, ſo that now after the marriage it is irrevocable, yet it is no reaſon that the intermarriage ſhall be a countermand: For if a man Non compos mentis make his Will, and afterwards become of ſane memory; In this Caſe until the time of his death after that he become of unſound memory, he cannot countermand his Will, and yet the diſability or imperfection of Nonſane memory was not any countermand of it.

4. It was ſaid, That countermands of Wills are not favoured in Law; and therefore for as much as there is no Book in Law in this Point, but the ſaid Caſe of attornment adjudged is all one in reaſon with this Caſe; for theſe cauſes it was concluded, that Judgment ſhould be given againſt the Plaintiff: But it was upon great deliberation adjudged for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe it was agreed upon the whole matter, ſcil. The taking of husband, and coverture at the time of her death, the Will was countermanded, and that for two cauſes.

1. The making of a Will is but the inception of it, and it doth not take effect till the death of the deviſor, for omne Teſtamentum morte conſummatum eſt; & voluntas eſt ambulatoria uſque extremum vitæ exitum: Then it ſhall be againſt the nature of a Will to be ſo abſolute, that he who maketh the ſame being of good and perfect memory cannot countermand it; and therefore this taking of husband being in the Caſe at Bar her proper act ſhall amount to a countermand in Law: But when a man Compos mentis maketh his Will, and afterwards by the viſitation of God becometh of unſound memory (as every man for the moſt part before his death is) God defend, that this act of God ſhall be in Law a revocation of his Will, which he made when he was of good and perfect memory. [b]

2. It ſhall be miſchievous to women that after their intermarriages they cannot for no cauſe countermand their Wills.

3. As the Law will not allow any cuſtom, That a feme covert may make any deviſe, for the preſumption that the Law hath, that it ſhall be made by conſtraint of the husband, as it is adjudged in 3 E. 3. So if it were in the power of the wife after her intermarriage to revoke her Will, the Law would not ſuffer the continuance thereof after marriage, for as much as the husband by conſtraint may cauſe her againſt her will to revoke or continue it. And as to the ſaid Caſe of attornment, it was ſaid in 2 R. 2. that when the wife in the ſame Caſe by her deed ſealed and delivered by her, granted the reverſion to another, the ſame taketh effect againſt her ſelf, that ſhe her ſelf cannot by any words countermand it before or after the taking husband, and therefore it is not like the Caſe of a Will, and that it might well be, that in as much as her grant by deed ſtood in force after the taking of the grantee to husband, that it ſhall not be any countermand.

Paſch. 31 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Herlakenden's Caſe.

Robert Ive brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt Roger Herlakenden Eſquire, for breaking of his Cloſe, ſcil. 380 acres, parcel of Colme Park in Colme in the County of Eſſex, and 300 Okes, 300 Aſhes, 330 Maples, and 100 Beeches there growing cutting, and 1000 load of wood and underwood carrying away; and the Defendant as to the whole Treſpaſs, præter fractionem clauſorum, nec non præter ſucciſionem 200. quercuum, 10. fraxinorum, & 10 acr' parcel', &c. pleaded Not guilty; Et quoad fractionem clauſorum præd', ac herbæ præd' pedibus ambuland' conculcat', & conſumptionem; The Defendant pleaded the matter in Law which followeth, by which he intituled himſelf to the ſame land, and juſtified the cutting of the trees, but in the quod, &c. (as appeareth before) the Treſpaſs as to the trees was utterly omitted, and ſo in Law nothing pleaded thereto; and then the demurrer being joyned is all in the diſjunctive, as it is agreed in 7 H. 6. 27. a. See 27 H. 8. 1. & Dier 9 Eliz. 264. 7 E. 4. 24. b. & 10. 7 H. 6. 5. a. And therefore to the intent the matter in Law might appear, by aſſent the Defendants plea was amended. For it was agreed by the whole Court, that all was diſcontinued, and thereupon the Roll was amended: Et quoad ſucciſionem arborum, &c. was inſerted. And the matter in Law in effect was ſuch, Edward Earl of Oxford was ſeiſed of Colme Park in fee, and 17 Eliz. leaſed to Tho. Barefoot, Tho. Luter and John Collins the ſaid Park (except the trees in the declaration mentioned) for 21 years: John Collins aſſigned his intereſt to Anthony Luter, and afterwards the ſaid Earl ſold to the ſaid Barefoot and Luter the trees aforeſaid, who 15 Julii, 26 Eliz. leaſed the ſaid 380 acres of land paſture parcel of the ſaid Park aforeſaid (upon which the ſaid trees aforeſaid grew) to one John Bragge for 21 years; and afterwards in Auguſt, 26 Eliz. Barefoot, Luter and Luter ſold the ſaid Trees to the Defendant; and afterwards, 27 Eliz. Bragge aſſigned his intereſt to the Plaintiff, and afterwards the Defendant cut down the trees, and if this cutting down were lawful or not was the Queſtion. [62]

The

The Point was, When a man leaſeth his land for years (excepting the wood) and afterwards the leſſor granteth the wood to the leſſee, if now the wood be ſo united again to the land, that by leaſe of the land the wood ſhall paſs as a thing annexed to it, or if the wood remain as an intereſt diſtinct and ſevered from the land, ſo that by leaſe of the land they ſhall not paſs to the leſſee. And in this Caſe divers Points were reſolved:

1. When a man maketh a leaſe for life or years, the leſſee hath but a ſpecial intereſt or property in the trees being timber as things annexed to the land, ſo long as they are annexed to it: But if the leſſee or any other ſever them from the land, the property and intereſt of the leſſee is determined, and the leſſor may take them as things which were parcel of his inheritance in which the intereſt of the leſſee is determined. In an Action of Waſt for cutting down of trees againſt leſſee for life or years, the Writ ſaith ad exhæredationem, and it ſhall be abſurd that the leſſee who hath but a particular intereſt in the land, ſhall have an abſolute property in any thing which was parcel of the inheritance: At the Common Law if Tenant in Dower, or Tenant by the Curteſie cut down trees, he in the reverſion may take them, yet their eſtate is as high as leſſee for life: But the leſſor ſhall not have an Action at the Common Law againſt the leſſee, becauſe it was his own act, and it was his folly to make a leaſe to him who ought to do him fealty, and yet will do Waſt: It was alſo his folly that in his leaſe he would not provide by condition or covenant that he ſhould not do Waſt, or to prevent it by exception. If I leaſe my land for life, and afterwards give the trees, and afterwards the leſſee dieth, yet the donee cannot take them, as it is holden by the whole Court in 21 H. 6. 46. d. becauſe at the time of the gift the leſſee had the property in them as annexed to the land. And Sir Chriſtopher Wray chief Juſtice ſaid a Caſe now of late between Moyle Finch Eſquire, and the Lady Finch his mother was referred to him and Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, which in effect was, That the Lady Finch had an eſtate for life in certain land without impeachment of Waſt, and the ſaid Moyle had the inheritance expectant. The Lady Finch cut down divers trees
[63] growing upon the land; The Queſtion was, if the ſaid Moyle might lawfully take the ſaid trees, or if they of right did belong to his mother; And upon conference with divers other Juſtices they reſolved:

1. That if the ſaid eſtate had been made for life without any ſuch clauſe of without impeachment of Waſt, that without queſtion the ſaid Moyle ſhould have the trees, becauſe they were parcel of his inheritance, and what intereſt the tenant for life had in the trees, was by the ſeverance of them from the land determined, becauſe ſhe had them as things annexed to the land.

2. In the ſame Caſe it was reſolved, That the ſaid clauſe of without impeachment of Waſt gave not to the Tenant any greater intereſt in the trees then ſhe had by the demiſe of the land, but it ſhall ſerve only that ſhe ſhall not be impeached in any Action of Waſt, either to recover damages, or the place waſted; As if I grant to one that he ſhall not be impeached for cutting of all my trees in ſuch woods, it ſhall excuſe him in any Action of Waſt brought againſt him for the cutting, but notwithſtanding that the property and intereſt doth remain in me, for no property or intereſt thereof is given from me: So if a man diſſeiſeth me of my land or diſpoſſeſſeth me of my goods, and I releaſe to him all Actions, yet I may enter into my land, or take my goods, for the diſcharge of my Action is no bar of my right; and therewith agreeth Litt. cap. Releaſes 115. and all this was ſaid and Reported by the ſaid Sir Chriſtoper Wray. Vide 27 H. 6. Waſt 8. where it is ſaid, Where a man leaſeth land abſque impetitione vaſti, and a ſtranger cutteth the trees, and the leſſee bringeth an Action of Treſpaſs, he ſhall not recover damages for the value of the trees, becauſe the property is to him in the reverſion, for which the leſſee ſhall not recover but for the cropping and breaking of the Cloſe: And it was ſaid, That if tenant in tail after poſſibility of iſſue extinct cut the trees, the leſſor ſhall have them: for in as much that he hath but a particular eſtate for life in the land, he cannot have an abſolute intereſt in the trees, but he ſhall not be puniſhed in Waſt becauſe his original eſtate is not within the Statute of Glouceſter cap. 5.

2. It was reſolved, If the houſe falleth by Tempeſt, or other act of God, the leſſee for life, or leſſee for years hath a ſpecial intereſt to take the Timber to build the houſe again if he will for his habitation: But if the leſſee pulleth down the houſe, the leſſor may take the timber as a thing which was parcel of his inheritance, and in which the intereſt of the leſſee is determined, as in the Caſe of Trees and for the ſame reaſon; and notwithſtanding he may have an Action of Waſt and recover treble damages. Vide 44 E. 3. 5. & 6. & 44. 29 E. 3. 42. 2 H. 1. 14. by Brian. 10 H. 7. 2. 13 H. 7. 9. 21 E. 4. 52. 1 Ma. Dier 90. 2 Eliz. Dier 194.

[b] 3. It was reſolved, That if trees being timber be thrown down by wind, the leſſor ſhall have them (for they were parcel of his inheritance) and not the tenant for life or tenant for years: But if they be dotards without any Timber in them, the tenant for life or years ſhall have them. Vide 40 Aſſ. 22. that Guardian in Knights ſervice ſhall have windfals; and ſo the Quære in 7 H. 6. 38. well ſatisfied.

The fourth Point was, When the Earl leaſeth the land for years excepting the trees, by which they were ſevered from the poſſeſſion of the land during the term, then after the leſſor granteth the trees to the leſſee, if now they be reunited to the poſſeſſion of the land ſo that when the term endeth the leſſor ſhall have them again as things annexed to the land. And it was reſolved, That the leſſee had in Judgment of Law abſolute and divided property in the trees, ſo that by the leaſe of the land they do not paſs and therefore this difference was taken: If I enfeoff you of all my land (except the trees) to have and to hold to you and your heirs, now the trees in property are divided from the land, although in facto they remain annexed to the land, for if he cut them down and carry them away it is not felony: And therefore in ſuch Caſe if the feoffor grant the trees to the feoffee, they are reunited as well in property as they are in facto, and the heir of the feoffee ſhall have them, and not the Executors, for the feoffee had abſolute ownerſhip in both, ſo that it is not any prejudice but rather a benefit to him that they are reunited to the land. But in in the Caſe at Bar he hath but a term for years in the land, ſo that he hath not owelty in ownerſhip in both, and it ſhall be a prejudice to him, that during the term he cannot cut them, but ſhall be puniſhed in Waſt, and after the term he ſhall take them, and it ſhall be againſt reaſon that the leſſor ſhall againſt his grant have them again. It was alſo ſaid, That Barefoot and Luter were tenants in common of the lands, and they were Joynt-tenants of the trees, and ſo their intereſt divers and of ſeveral qualities, becauſe there cannot be an union of them. Nicholas Fuller and Tanfield were of Council with the Plaintiff, and Egerton the Queen's Solliciter and Coke with the Defendant.

Note Reader, Mich. 18 & 19. Devon. It was adjudged in the Common Pleas, that Waſt may be committed in glaſs annexed to windows, for it is parcel of the houſe, and ſhall deſcend as parcel of the inheritance to the heir, and that the Executors ſhould not have them. And although that the leſſee himſelf at his own coſts put the glaſs in the windows, yet the ſame being parcel of the houſe he cannot take it away, or waſt it, but ſhall be puniſhed in Waſt. And upon the ſaid Judgment a Writ of Error was brought in the King's Bench, and there the Judgment was affirmed.

Note alſo between Warner and Fleetwood, Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, it was reſolved by the whole Court, That glaſs annexed to windows by nails, or in other manner by the leſſor or leſſee cannot be removed by the leſſee, for without glaſs it is no perfect houſe; and by leaſe or grant of the houſe it ſhall paſs as parcel thereof, and that the heir ſhall have them, and not the Executors; and peradventure great parts of the coſts of the houſe doth conſiſt of glaſs, which if they be open to tempeſts and rain, waſt and putrefaction of the timber of the houſe would follow; and therewith agreeth the Judgment given before. [64]

Alſo it was then reſolved, That Wainſcot, be it annexed to the houſe by the leſſor or leſſee, is parcel of the houſe: and there is no difference in Law if it be faſtned by great nails, or little nails, or by ſcrues, or irons put through poſts or walls (as have been invented of late time;) But if the Wainſcot be by any of the ſaid ways, or by any other faſtned to the poſts or walls of the houſe, the leſſee cannot remove it, but he ſhall be puniſhable in an Action of Waſt, for it is parcel of the houſe, and by the leaſe or grant of the houſe, and in the manner as the ſeeling and plaiſtering of the houſe ſhall paſs as parcel of it.

Mich. 33 Eliz.

Fulwood's Caſe.

BEtween Cartwright Plaintiff, and Roberts Defendant, in an Ejectione firmæ of houſes in London upon a demiſe made by Sara Sharrington, &c. Upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect; Tho Caſtle was ſeiſed of the houſes aforeſaid, anno 1 Eliz. took a wife, and afterwards 1 Eliz. before the Mayor and Aldermen of London acknowledged a Recogniſance of 250 l. to the Chamberlain of the City of London and his Succeſſors, according to the cuſtom of Orphanage money: And afterwards, ſcil. 8 Eliz. the ſaid Caſtle came before the Recorder of London and Mayor of the Staple, and acknowledged himſelf to owe 200 l. to Sir Thomas Rivet, And afterwards anno 10 Eliz. Sir Thomas Rivet ſued Execution upon the ſaid Statute and Liberate; upon which the Sheriff delivered the ſaid houſes amongſt others to the ſaid Sir Thomas (but it did not appear that the Liberate was returned.) And afterwards the Succeſſors of the ſaid Chamberlain ſued Execution in London by a Precept in nature of an Elegit directed to one Flick Serjeant of the Mace, and Officer of the ſaid Court, who by force thereof delivered the ſaid houſes among others for one moity to the Chamberlain aforeſaid. And afterwards Tho. Caſtle died, and after his death his wife recovered Dower, and had the ſaid houſes aſſigned her for her third part to hold in Dower, and ſhe died in anno 18 Eliz. and afterwards the ſaid Chamberlain aſſigned over his intereſt to one Fulwood; and afterwards 21 Eliz. Sir Thomas aſſigned over his intereſt to the ſaid Fulwood alſo. Anno 29 Eliz. the heir of the ſaid Caſtle demiſed to Guilbert Sharington the ſaid houſes for years, who demiſed them to the leſſor of the Plaintiff, upon whom the Defendant by title derived from the ſaid Fulwood did enter, &c. And if the entry of the ſaid Defendant were lawful or not was the Queſtion. And in this Caſe 8 Points were reſolved by Sir Chriſtopher Wray chief Juſtice and the whole Court. [b]

1. That whereas it was objected in the Caſe of a ſole Corporation or Body Politick, be ſuch created by Charter or preſcription, as Biſhop, Parſon, Vicar, Maſter of an Hoſpital, &c. no Chattel either in action or in poſſeſſion ſhall go in ſucceſſion, but the Executors or Adminiſtrators of the Biſhop, Parſon, &c. ſhall have them, no more than the heir of a private man can have them; for ſucceſſion in a Body Politick, is as inheritance in caſe of a private body. But otherwiſe it is in Caſe of a Corporation aggregate of many, as Dean and Chapter, Mayor and Cominalty, and the like, for there they in Judgment of Law, never die. And all that was affirmed by the whole Court, 8 E. 4. 1. e. & 20. E. 4. 2. by which it was concluded, That the Chamberlain of London being a ſole Corporation, that his Succeſſor cannot have the ſaid Recogniſance acknowledged to his predeceſſor; yet it was reſolved, that the Succeſſor ſhould have it, for in this Caſe the Corporation of the Chamberlain was by cuſtom which hath created and made him a Corporation in ſucceſſion as to this ſpecial purpoſe concerning Orphanage: And the ſame cuſtom hath enabled his ſucceſſor to take ſuch Recogniſances, Obligations, &c. which are made to his predeceſſor, and ſuch cuſtom is grounded upon great reaſon, for the Executors or Adminiſtrators of the

Chamberlain

Chamberlain ought not to intermeddle with such Recognisances, Obligations, &c. which by the said custom are taken in the corporate capacity of the Chamberlain, and not in in his private capacity: But a Bishop, Parson, &c. or any sole Corporation which are Bodies Politick by prescription cannot take a Recognisance or Obligation but only to their private, and not in their politick capacity, for there wanteth such custom (as in the Case at Bar) to take a Chattel in their politick or corporate capacity.

2. It was objected, That where the Statute of West. 2. Cap. 18. which gave the Elegit provideth, Quod de cætero sit in electione illius, &c. quod vicecomes liberet ei omnia catalla, &c. & meditatem terræ suæ, quousque debitum fuerit levatum per rationabile precium & extentum, &c. That because the Statute gave power expresly to the Sheriff to execute the Elegit by reasonable extent, which is to be intended by inquisition of honest men, and for as much as the Sheriff is a great Officer and sworn, that the said Act by any strained construction shall not be extended to a Serjeant at Mace (who is not sworn) to take a Jury, &c. And thereupon the Books in 7 H. 6. 35. 14 E. 2. Redisseisin 9. & 32 H. 6. 25. were cited, That
[b] an Action of Wast nor Redisseisin doth not lie in ancient demesn, because the enquiry of the Wast, and the proceeding in the Redisseisin is appointed by the Statutes to be made by the Sheriff, and in ancient demesn there is not any Sheriff, and the Bailiff who is Officer in ancient demesn shall not supply the place of the Sheriff. But it was resolved by the whole Court, that the Execution was well enough. For the Statute which provideth, That process shall be made by the Sheriff, by the equity of the Statute extendeth to every immediate Officer to every other Court of Record of the King, and eo potius, because that the Statute of West. 2. cap. 18. coupleth the Elegit with the Fieri facias, and limits both to be executed by the Sheriff; and yet without question the Serjeant at Mace in the Case at Bar may execute Fieri facias: And it is not like to the Case of Wast, that the Statute of West. cap. 14. provideth that propria persona accedat ad locum vastatum; So that the personal appearance of the Sheriff is requisite, as in the Case of Redisseisin, The Sheriff is Judge, and therefore not like.

3. Where it was further objected, That the Execution upon Elegit was not lawful, for as much Sir Thomas Rivet was in by matter of Record whereof he ought to take notice, and to have a Scire facias against him, in proof of which the Books in 9 E. 4. 24. c. & 2 R. 3. 8. Simpson's Case was recited. But it was resolved by the whole Court, That the Execution upon Elegit was good enough: But it was said That if the Sheriff had returned the former Execution by extent, and the matter had appeared to the Court, the Plaintiff ought to have had a Scire facias; But the whole Court said, That if the Sheriff's Execution it is good enough; see for that 22 E. 3. 7. f.

4. It was objected, That there was no Statute or Recognisance in the nature of a Statute sufficiently found, for the Jurors have found, That the said Tho. Castle, Veniebat coram R. O. Recordatore civitatis London, & Tho. O. majore stapulæ, & recognovit se debere Tho. Rivet militi 200*l.* and doth not say, cundum formam Statuti, &c. nec per scriptum obligatorium, &c. where the Statute of 23 H. 8. provides that it shall be by Bill Obligatory sealed with three seals. But it doth not appear by the Verdict, that there was any Bond or any Seal, neither doth it appear by any word of the Verdict, that it was according to the Statute, &c. And it was said, that although that Verdicts being the words of Lay men shall be taken according to their meaning, and there need not be so precise form in them as in pleadings, yet the substance of the matter ought to appear either by expres words, or words equipollent, or which amount to so much, so that there ought to be convenient certainty, the which if it be false the party by such falsity may have his attaint: But it was resolved, That the Verdict is good enough, for in as much as they have found a Recognisance befor the Mayor and Recorder, &c. it shall be in a Verdict of Law intended according to the Statute, for otherwise they cannot take any Recognisance; and also all the form of the Verdict doth imply, That this was a Recognisance in the nature of a Statute, or otherwise no Execution could be sued thereupon in the Chancery.

[66] 5. It was objected, When the Wife of the Conusor doth recover Dower, and because the possession of the conusee was evicted, and also when a greater term in the moiety is evicted by force of the Dower then the conusee had; for (for example) the extent upon the Statute if no eviction had been incurred is 13 years; and the moity which was evicted by the Elegit shall be subject unto Execution by force of the Elegit for 15 years; so that a greater term was evicted by the Elegit, and a greater estate was recovered by the Writ of Dower than the Conusee had, and therefore he shall be put to his Scire facias upon the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 5. for otherwise will follow great mischief, for if the conusee should hold over after the death of the tenant in Dower, and after the extent upon the Elegit incurred, then during the life of the tenant in Dower, and during the Execution upon the Elegit the conusee might sue a new Execution of the said Statute, and so have double remedy, which never was the intention of the Statute. But it was resolved by the whole Court that in this Case the conusee cannot have any help of the said Statute, for tho as much as but part was evicted, scil. the moiety upon the Elegit, the conusee shall not only hold over the other moity, but also after the death of the tenant in Dower, and the extent upon the Elegit ended, he shall reenter into the land so evicted, because he is not helped by the said Act, for the said Act doth not help any, but when the Conusee is put clearly without remedy to obtain any part of his debt: As where all the Execution is avoided by title paramount for ever. And that appeareth by the expres words of the preamble, for the words of the preamble are; By reason whereof the obligees recognisees and recoverors have been thereby set clearly without remedy by any any manner of suit of Law. And the body of the Act doth refer to the preamble, scil. such lands, &c. In the body of the said Act it is said, Any such lands, tenements or hereditaments, as be or shall be had or delivered in extent, and doth not say, Or any part thereof. And it is provided that new execution shall be done for the levying of the residue of all such debt and damages as then shall appear to be unlevied, &c. And that cannot be when but parcel of the land extended is evicted; for by the Common Law the conusee in such Case is not without remedy, but the conusee shall hold the residue of the land over, till the residue of the debt ſhall be ſatisfied; and therefore if he ſhall have his remedy alſo upon the Statute, he ſhall have double remedy or ſatisfaction, which ſhall be inconvenient: And if the conuſee hath remedy either in præſenti for part, or in futuro for all, or part, the ſaid Act of 32 H. 8. doth not extend unto it.

6. It was objected, That when Sir Tho. had Execution (for example) of 4 houſes, and the extent of that by courſe of time would endure for 13 years, and afterwards two of the ſaid houſes are evicted by Elegit for 15 years, and afterwards Sir Tho. Rivet aſſigneth over all his intereſt in the Execution upon the Statute to Fulwood, that this aſſignment as to the two houſes ſo evicted was void, for in that a greater term was evicted than the conuſee had for the moity, and then at moſt the conuſee had not but a poſſibility which cannot be aſſigned over. And a Caſe of late adjudged in the Common Pleas was cited, which was ſuch in effect; A man poſſeſſed of a term for divers years, deviſed the profits thereof to one for life, and after his deceaſe to another for the reſidue of the years, and died, the firſt deviſee entred by the aſſent of the Executor, and afterwards he in the remainder during the life of the firſt deviſee aſſigned it to another, and afterwards the firſt deviſee died; it was adjudged that the aſſignment was void, for he in the remainder hath but a poſſibility during the life of the firſt deviſee; for it is as much in Law, as if the land had been deviſed to him for ſo many years as he ſhould live, or for all the term if he ſhould live ſo long, ſo that the intereſt of the term ſub modo is in him, and the other in remainder hath but a poſſibility which he cannot grant over: But it was reſolved, That in the Caſe at Bar, the conuſee had an intereſt in the two houſes which were evicted, for it was agreed by them, that if a man be bounden in two Statutes, and the latter Statute is firſt extended and delivered in Execution, and afterwards the firſt Statute is put in Execution for greater time, and for a greater ſumm than the firſt Statute, yet when the firſt Statute is ſatisfied, and his intereſt lawfully determined, the ſecond conuſee ſhall have the land again by force of the firſt extent: And ſo in the Caſe at Bar, when a moity was evicted for 15 years by force of the Elegit now by computation the conuſee of the Statute ſhall hold the other moity for 15 years, and after the 15 years expired the whole land until the whole debt upon the Statute be ſatisfied: So that it is not a poſſibility, nor ſo uncertain but that by computation it may be by reaſonable intendment made certain: Et id certum eſt, quod certum reddi poteſt: And although that caſualties and ſudden adventures may happen, yet Caſus fortuitus non eſt ſperandus, & nemo tenetur divinare. It was alſo reſolved, that if the conuſee be ouſted by wrong by the conuſor, or any other who hath immediate eſtate, that the conuſee ſhall hold over. So when the wife of the conuſor recovereth Dower, the conuſee ſhall hold over, for ſhe claimeth by her husband. The ſame Law if a man make a leaſe for life or years, and afterwards diſſeiſeth his leſſee for life, or putteth out his leſſee for years, and acknowledgeth a Statute or Recogniſance upon which execution is ſued, and afterwards the leſſee for life entreth and dieth, or the years expire, the conuſee ſhall reenter and hold over. And ſuch eviction for a time is not within the Statute of 32 H. 8. becauſe that the conuſee hath remedy in futuro. [b] [67]

7. It was objected, That for as much as the Liberate was not returned, execution was not lawfully done, for for as much as Tenant by the Statute Merchant is Tenant by matter of Record, it behoveth that the Liberate be returned, or otherwiſe he ſhall be Tenant by matter in fait in pais, and not by matter of Record. Alſo the Liberate ought to be returned, or otherwiſe the time of the Liberate made doth not appear, and the term of the conuſee ſhall begin from the time of the Liberate executed, which ſee 33 H. 8. tit. Statut. 41. 2. It appeareth by the Liberate that the conuſee ſhall be ſatisfied for all his coſts and damages quæ tunc, ſcil. tempore of the delivery of the land of the conuſee ſuſtinuit, ſo that the time of the delivery is material and ought to appear of Record. 3. If the Terre-tenant ſhall be driven to ſue a Scire facias after the extent incurred by courſe of time, the Liberate ought to appear of Record, ſo that all appear to the Court that the time is paſt. 4. It was ſaid, that it ſhall be dangerous to purchaſors, for they cannot know of the execution by any ſearch, if the execution doth not appear of Record: But it was reſolved by the whole Court, that the execution of the Liberate was well enough, although the Writ were not returned, for the Writ is not conditional, but hath theſe words, Et qualiter hoc præceptum, &c. And it is ſtronger than the capias ad ſatisfaciendum, for there are words conditional, and yet the execution good although that the Writ be not returned: So of Habere facias ſeiſinam and generally of all Writs of Execution which are more final proceſs, and after which no judgment is to be given, nor no farther proceſs had. Vide Paſch. 13 Eliz. between Borley and Borley, 17 Aſſ. 24. 32 E. 3. 10. tit. Scire facias, 19 E. 3. Scire fac. 120. 20 H. 6. 24. 21 H. 6. 5. b. 11 H. 4. 57. b. But it was ſaid, that this Caſe was not like to the Caſe of Elegit, or where an inquiſition was to be taken, for there the Writ ought to be returned, to the intent the Court may judge upon the ſufficiency or inſufficiency of that inquiſition; But it was agreed clearly, That where no Inqueſt was to be taken, but only land to be delivered, or ſeiſin had, or goods ſold, &c. which were but matters in fait, theſe are good although the Writ be not returned: But every Inqueſt taken by the Kings Writ ought to be of Record, and not averrable by the Country.

8. It was objected, that after the extent upon the Statute Staple incurred by courſe of time, the conuſor may enter, and ſhall not be put to his Scire facias; for although that the damages and coſts are incertain, yet the Judges ought to adjudge and take knowledge of them, for firſt the time of the conuſans of the Statute appeareth, and for what time the debt was withholden till the Liberate, ſo that they may well judge of the damages and coſts; and therefore when by courſe of time as well the debt as the coſts and damages, and greater ſumm is levied, the conuſor may enter. And difference was taken when the extent doth incurr by effluxion of time, and when by caſual profit; for when it is ſatisfied by caſual profit, he ought to have a Scire facias, but in the other Caſe he may enter. And to this intent Books in 32 E. 3. Scire facias 101. 11 H. 6. 7. 9 E. 4. 50. 2 R. 2. Execution 17. 15 H. 7. 15. were cited. And ſee 30 H. 6. 1. b. 38 E. 3. 10. 14 H. 4. 9. That in debt the Court may aſſeſs coſts and damages without any enquiry for the cauſe aforeſaid. But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That in the Caſe at Bar the [b] conuſor cannot enter, for the conuſee ſhall hold the land not only till he be ſatisfied for damages and the detainer of the debt, and for coſts of ſuit, but alſo for his reaſonable labours and expences. For the entry thereof is, Tenendum ut liberum tenementum, &c. quouſque debitum præd' una cum damnis & coſtagiis ſuis neceſſariis & rationabilibus, ut in laboribus, ſectis, dilationibus, & expenſis, &c. the which are incertain. And for as much as they are incertain, and the conuſee in by matter of Record, reaſon will that the conuſor bring a Scire facias againſt the conuſee before that his eſtate ſhall be defeated: Alſo the Court of Chancery which awardeth the Extent and Liberate, ſhall adjudge of the reaſonableneſs of the coſts, damages, labours, expences, &c. as any other Court.

And it was agreed by all, That in Caſe of Elegit the conuſor after ſatisfaction had may enter, for he ſhall not have coſts nor other thing, but only the land until the debt be ſatisfied; and becauſe that all is certain, the conuſor after the Extent expired may enter: Vide the Statute de Mercatoribus, 13 E. 1. the Statute of Acton Burnel, and the Statute of 27 E. 3. for coſts and damages upon the Statute Staple. And Judgment was given againſt the Plaintiff.

William Daniel, James Dalton and others were of Council with the Plaintiff, and Edward Coke and others with the Defendant.

Trin. 33 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Hynde's Caſe.

[b] Richard Libbe Eſquire brought an Action of Waſt againſt Elizabeth Hynde, and counted that William Hawe was ſeiſed of an houſe called Place, and certain lands in Goring and Whithurch in the County of Oxford: And 4 Julii, 29 Eliz. by his deed indented demiſed the Tenements aforeſaid to Robert Garrard from the Feaſt of Chriſtmas then paſt for 16 years, who 20th Auguſt the ſaid 29th year aſſigned his intereſt to the Defendant. And that the ſaid William Hawe 7 Maii, 30 Eliz. by deed indented and inrolled in the Court of Common Pleas, the ſaid 30th year (within ſix months according to the form of the Statute) for the conſideration of 120 l. bargained and ſold the ſaid reverſion to the ſaid Libbe now Plaintiff in fee, and aſſigned the Waſt in digging of clay, &c. The Defendant confeſſed that William Hawe was ſeiſed of the ſaid land, and that he by the ſaid Indenture demiſed unto Robert Garrard, and that he aſſigned to the ſaid Elizabeth prout, &c. But he further ſaid, that after the ſaid 7 Maii, in the ſaid 30th year, and before the ſaid Indenture of Bargain and Sale was enrolled, the ſaid William Hawe, 15 Paſch. in the ſaid 30th year did levy a fine of the tenements aforeſaid to the ſaid Richard Libbe now Plaintiff, after which fine levied, ſcil. 29 Aprilis in the ſaid 30th year, the ſaid deed was enrolled in the ſaid Court of Common Pleas, And further the Defendant ſaid, that ſhe never attorned; And upon this Plea the Plaintiff did demurr in Law: And in this Caſe two Points were moved.

1. If the conuſee of the fine after the ſaid Deed indented and enrolled ſhall be ſaid in by the fine, or by the bargain and ſale, for if he ſhall be adjudged in by the fine, no Action of Waſt lieth before attornment. [71] And if he ſhall be in by the Indenture enrolled, then there needeth no attornment. And it was reſolved by Sir Edmund Anderſon and his Companions Juſtices of the Common Pleas, That when Hawe by deed indented bargained and ſold the reverſion to Libbe and his heirs, and before the inrolment levied a fine to Libbe and his heirs, and afterwards the deed is inrolled within the ſix months, that the conuſee ſhall be in by the fine, and not by the Indenture inrolled; for when the fee ſimple paſſeth by the fine to the conuſee and his heirs, the enrolment of the deed indented afterwards cannot deveſt and turn the eſtate out of himſelf, which was abſolutely ſetled in him by the fine; for then where he was in before the Per, he ſhall be now in the Poſt. Alſo when the Common Law and Statute Law concurr, the Common Law ſhall be preferred: And it is true that the inrolment ſhall have relation to the delivery of the deed, but that is for the avoiding of mean eſtates or charges made to a ſtranger by the bargainor after the delivery of the deed, and before the inrolment, but not to deveſt any eſtate lawfully ſetled in the interim in the bargainee himſelf. And the Statute of 27 H. 8. of Inrolments, ſpeaketh by bargain and ſale only, and here it is not by bargain and ſale only, but the eſtate is paſſed originally by the fine.

The other Point was, Whether the Defendant ſhall be in this Caſe admitted to aver when the deed was inrolled, ſcil. ſuch a day after the fine levied, and before the inrolment; And it was objected:

1. In the Caſe at Bar it ſhall be intended in Law, That the deed was inrolled the firſt day of the ſaid Eaſter Term, for the Term as to divers purpoſes is but one day in Law, and ſo much the rather becauſe it doth not appear by the Record what day of the Term the deed was enrolled, and therefore it ſhall be intended to be inrolled the firſt day of the Term.

2. It was objected, That Records (for the avoiding of infiniteneſs which the Law abhorreth) are ſo high and ſacred that they carry in themſelves unviolable truth, which if any dare to deny, the Law attributeth ſo great honour and credit to them that they ſhall be tried only by themſelves, and not by the Country: But if this averment ſhall be ſuffered, then the effect and validity of the Record ſhall be tried by the Country, which ſhall be againſt the rule of Law.

3. It was objected, That it ſhall be miſchievous to allow of ſuch nice averment, and it ſhould trench to the diſenheriſon of many to draw in queſtion the times of all inrolments of bargains and ſales; for if the

the beginning of the Term was within the 6 months, and the end thereof after the 6 months, by such averment after long poſſeſſion when witneſſes are dead the eſtate of the land may be drawn into queſtion, which ſhall be a perilous and dangerous preſident, and principally in theſe days in which ſubordination of Perjury doth abound. But it was reſolved by the whole Court, that the averment was good and lawful.

And to the firſt Objection it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court, That it is true that it ſhall be intended by preſumption of Law, that the deed was enrolled the firſt day of the Term: But Stabit præſumptio donec probetur in contrarium. And becauſe the Plaintiff by his demurrer hath confeſſed the [b] inrolment to be after the Term, for this cauſe the preſumption doth vaniſh and become of no force, and the mutual conſent and confeſſion of both parties ſhall ſtand.

To the ſecond Objection it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court, That it is true that Records import much truth in themſelves, and conclude all men to ſay any thing appearing within the Record, as antidate, &c. Vide 37 H. 6. 21. Plow. Com. 7 & 8 Eliz. Dier 242. But to take averment which ſtands with the Record, and which doth not impugn any thing apparent within the Record the Law doth well admit and allow: As againſt a fine upon releaſe, to ſay that the conuſee had nothing in the land at the time of the fine levied, as it is holden in 16 H. 7. So againſt the King's Letters Patents under the great Seal ſhewed in Court there is no denial of them, but Non conceſſit per prædictas literas Patentes, is a good plea, for although there be Letters Patents, yet perhaps nothing doth paſs by them, and ſo per conſequens non conceſſit. And although that inrolment, or other matter of Record ſhall not be tried by pais, yet the time when the inrolment was made, ſhall be tried by Jury, for the inrolment it ſelf ſhall never be drawn into queſtion (for that is agreed on both parties) but only the time of it, as in the other Caſe where one pleads a grant of the King by his Letters Patents under the great Seal, and the other pleadeth non conceſſit per præd' literas Patentes, in this Caſe the Letters Patents are confeſſed, but the effect and operation of them denied, and therefore the trial ſhall not be where the Letters Patents bear date, but where the lands lie, as it was adjudged. So if Profeſſion be denied, it ſhall be tried by the Spiritual Court, but if the time of the Profeſſion be in iſſue, it ſhall be tried by Jury, as it is holden in 9 H. 7. 2.

To the third objection it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court, That if ſuch averment ſhall not be admitted, great injuſtice ſhall be protected, and great inconvenience will follow on the other ſide; For put Caſe (as hath been ſaid) that the beginning of the Term be only within the ſix months, and in truth the inrolment were towards the end after the ſix months, if ſuch averment ſhall not be received, the bargainor ſhould be diſ-inherited without truth and juſtice, and no inconvenience can riſe on the other ſide, for, for the preſumption of Law (as it hath been ſaid) he who ſtriveth to avoid the bargain, ought to make manifeſt truth thereof, for actori incumbit onus probandi: And as to fear of perjury, Nullum [72] iniquum eſt præſumendum in jure; and theſe days are not to be tainted with ſuch infamy of abundance of perjury as hath been ſurmiſed; and commonly thoſe who have moſt corrupt conſciences, are oftentimes moſt ſuſpicious, and moſt complain of the times.

Thirdly, It was ſaid by ſome of the Juſtices, That if it be admitted that the inrolment ſhall be preſumed to be made in 15 Paſchæ, and that at the ſame time the fine alſo was levied, that then the bargainee ſhould have election to have the reverſion by the one or the other: But in reſpect of the former Reſolutions, this Point was not reſolved by the Court.

Paſch. 38 Eliz. in the King's Bench.

Borough's Caſe.

BEtween Boroughes and Taylor the Caſe was; The Queen made a leaſe for years rendring rent payable [b] at her receipt of her Exchequer at Weſtminſter, ſeu ad manus Ballivorum ſeu Receptorum, &c. with the uſual condition to be void for the non payment of the rent; And afterwards the Queen granted over the reverſion to another and his heirs; And whether ſhe ſhall demand the rent to take advantage of the Condition was the Queſtion upon the ſpecial Verdict. And it was moved that the demand ought to be made at the receipt of the Exchequer, for that is the certain place appointed in the leaſe, and principally becauſe that Weſtminſter is added, and therefore of neceſſity it ought to be demanded there and not upon the land; and although that the reverſion be granted over, yet it doth not alledge the place where the rent ſhall be paid. As if a common perſon make a Leaſe of his Mannor of D. rendring rent to be paid at his Mannor of S. with Condition for non payment, and afterwards he granteth over the reverſion of the Mannor of D. yet the grantee ought to demand his rent at the Mannor of S. And although it be further ſaid, ſeu ad manus Ballivorum ſive receptorum, yet for as much as the ſame is for the benefit of the leſſee, and he hath election either to pay it at a certain place, or to the Bayliff or Receiver of the leſſor, and for as much as the ſaid words are words of abundance, for the Law doth imply them, although they were omitted, and becauſe the Condition is here penal to the leſſee that he ſhall loſe his intereſt, for theſe cauſes the Law doth require that the Patentee ought to make demand upon the land, and not elſewhere. And therefore if a common perſon maketh a leaſe for years of the Mannor of D. rendring rent at his Mannor of S. without condition of reentry, if the rent be not paid at the place aforeſaid, or to the Law doth imply them, although they were omitted, and becauſe the Condition is here penal to the leſſee that he ſhall loſe his intereſt, for theſe cauſes the Law doth require that the Patentee ought to make demand upon the land, and not elſewhere. And therefore if a common perſon maketh a leaſe for years [73] of the Mannor of D. rendring rent at his Mannor of S. with condition of reentry, if the rent be not paid at the place aforeſaid, or to the hands of the leſſor himſelf, in this Caſe for the Cauſes aforeſaid, the demand ought to be made at the Mannor of S. and chiefly becauſe the ſaid words are abundant, and no more than the Law without them would have implied, for which cauſe it was ſtrongly urged and concluded, that in the Caſe at Bar the demand ought to be made at Weſtminſter, at the place where the receipt of the Queen's Exchequer is kept: But it was adjudged by Popham chief Juſtice, Clench, Gawdy and Fenner Juſtices, That in the ſaid Caſe the demand ought to be made upon the land: And in this Caſe divers Points were reſolved by the Court.

1. If in Caſe of a common perſon the rent reſerved upon the demiſe be paiable at a place of the land, that he who will take advantage of a Condition for not payment of ſuch rent, ought to demand the rent at the place where it is appointed to be paid; for the limitation of the payment of the rent of the land, doth not alter the nature or quality of the rent, nor of any thing incident to it, but it is to all intents a rent going out of the land, and not any ſumm in groſs, for it ſhall paſs with the reverſion as incident to it, and ſhall be ſuſpended by entry of the leſſor into any part of the land leaſed, and ſhall be apportioned by recovery of part in Waſt, or entry in part for forfeiture, &c. and have other qualities of a rent in the ſame manner as if it had been payable upon the land. And therefore the opinion in Kidwelly's Caſe in Plow. Comm. 70. that he in the reverſion may enter for non payment of the rent without any demand made, was utterly denied by all the Court in this Caſe. And the Juſtices ſaid, that it had oftentimes been adjudged to the contrary.

2. When the Queen maketh a leaſe rendring rent with Condition ut ſupra, the Queen ſhall take advantage of the condition without any demand; But when ſhe granteth the reverſion over, her grantee ſhall not take advantage of the Condition without a demand; for the reaſon that the Queen ſhall take advantage of the Condition without demand was not in reſpect of the nature or quality of the rent, or that the Law doth adjudge that ſuch rent reſerved to the Queen was not at all demandable, but that the leſſee in ſuch Caſe ought to do the firſt act, ſcil. either to pay or tender the rent; for it was reſolved by the Court, that as long as the reverſion and rent continue in the Queen the Law doth diſpence with the demand as a thing undecent and againſt the dignity of the Queen, to attend upon her Subject to make a demand of him; But the Law (which willeth that always decorum and conveniency be kept) appointeth the Subject to attend upon his Soveraign, and in ſuch Caſe to do the firſt act, although it be in Caſe of a Condition, which trencheth to the deſtruction of his eſtate, but the ſame is but a perſonal prerogative annexed to the perſon of the King, and not in reſpect of the nature or quality of the rent; and therefore if he granteth the reverſion over, the grantee ſhall not take advantage of the Condition without demand of the rent.

[b] The third Point (the great doubt of the Caſe) was, That it was reſolved in this Caſe, that the Patentee ought to make the demand upon the land; and their principal reaſon was grounded upon a Rule in Law, ſcil. That the expreſſion of a clauſe which the Law implies, works nothing. Expreſſio eorum quæ tacite inſunt nihil operatur, & expreſſa non proſunt, quæ non expreſſa proderunt: And yet as Littleton ſaith, it is well done to put in ſuch clauſes to declare and expreſs to Lay men which have no knowledge of the Law, what the Law is in ſuch Caſes: As in 30 Aſſ. 8. a Leaſe is made to two for term of their lives, (this clauſe being added and expreſſed, & diutius eorum viventi) and afterwards they made partition, and one died, and he in the reverſion entred, and his entry adjudged lawful notwithſtanding the ſaid words, & diutius eorum viventi, for without them ſo much was tacite implied by the Law. Vide 17. E. 3. 7. John Hull's Caſe. 27 H. 8. tit. Office Br. 17. in Caſe of an Act of Parliament, 2 H. 7. 9. in Caſe of a Liberate, Plow. Comm. 445. & 486.

And it was reſolved, That if the King make a leaſe for years rendring rent, without appointing any place, or to whoſe hands it ſhall be paid, that the leſſee ought to pay the ſame at the receipt of the Exchequer, or at leaſt to the Kings Bailiffs or Receivers which the King hath authoriſed to ſuch purpoſe. And therefore the ſpecial and uſual limitation of payment of rent in ſuch Caſes at the receipt of the Exchequer, or to the hands of the Bailiffs or Kings Receivors, &c. importeth no more than the Law without them would have implied, and therefore nihil operatur by ſuch words; and although the ſaid clauſe is ad receptum Scaccarii, &c. apud Weſtm', yet they being affirmative and declaratory, it is not neceſſary that the receipt be always holden at Weſtminſter, for if the receipt be at another place, the rent is to be paid there; for as to this Point the Law would have implied that which is expreſſed. ſcil. as to Weſtminſter, and more, ſcil. at what place ſoever the receipt be kept.

Then the principal Caſe, If the rent had been reſerved generally, the Patentee ought to have demanded it upon the land, and by conſequence ſo ought it to be done in the Caſe at Bar. And it was ſaid, as the Law hath appointed the receipt of the Exchequer to be the place where the King's Revenues ſhall be received; ſo in the caſe of a common perſon, the Law hath appointed the land where his rent (if no place by mutual agreement of the parties be appointed) ſhall be paid, and that is, upon the land demiſed, and there he ought to make the demand.

Hill. 39 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Palmer's Caſe.

[74]

BEtween Palmer Plaintiff, and Umphrey Defendant in the Kings Bench, it was reſolved by the whole Court, That if a Fieri facias cometh to the Sheriff to levy the money of the goods and chattels of the Defendant, and the Sheriff by writing reciting that the Defendant hath a leaſe for term of years (and ſheweth which) and ſuppoſing that the ſame began 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. (as it was in the Caſe at Bar) where in truth the term began 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. ſell the ſame term, the ſale is void, for there is not any ſuch term; But notwithſtanding this falſe recital, if the Sheriff ſell alſo all the intereſt which the Defendant hath in the ſame land (as alſo in the Caſe at Bar he did) the ſale is good. And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, That in this very Court, anno 26 Eliz. between Sir George Sidnam and Rolles the Caſe was ſuch; The Sheriff in the like Caſe reciting that Rolles had a term in a Parſonage pro termino diverſorum annorum extunc ventur', ſold the ſame by force of a Fieri facias to another, and the ſame was adjudged good. For by common intendment the Sheriff cannot have preciſe knowledge of the certainty of the beginning, and the certainty of the end of the term; But if he take upon him to recite the term and miſrecite the ſame, and ſelleth the ſame term, it is void; but if he ſelleth all the intereſt that the Defendant hath in the land, the ſame is good notwithſtanding the miſrecital as aforeſaid, for accordingly it was adjudged M. 32 & 33 Eliz. in the Exchequer, that where it was found by inquiſition that the Queens debtor was poſſeſſed of certain lands pro termino quorundam annorum adtunc ventur', that this inquiſition was inſufficient, for a term cannot be extended, without ſhewing the beginning and certainty of the term, and the cauſe is this, becauſe that after the debt is ſatisfied the party is to have his term again, if any part thereof remaineth, which ought to appear, and thereupon the party may have remedy to remove the Queens hands or other parties. But in the Caſe of a ſale upon the Fieri facias, the [b] Sheriff may ſell all the intereſt or term which the Defendant hath in ſuch land, and never mention it in his return, but generally, quod fieri fecit de bonis & catallis, &c. But if the Execution in the principal Caſe ſhould be levied, the ſame ſhould tender to the ſubverſion of a poor man who made his complaint to the Court: The Attorney General coming into the Court at the requeſt of the poor man peruſed the Record, and found that the Execution was by force of an Elegit, which ought to be made by inquiſition; for the Statute of Weſtm. 2. cap. 18. which giveth the Elegit, provideth, Quod Vicecom' liberet ei omnia catalla, &c. & medietatem terræ ſuæ, quouſque debitum fuerit levatum per rationabile precium (which referreth to Chattels) & extentum, which referreth to land, and rationabile precium, and extent ought to be found by inquiſition and verdict, for the ſame is implied in Law, and the Court as the Law appointeth, although it be not ſo expreſſed, vide 10 E. 4. 11. 7 R. 2. Barr 241.

Proof is intended trial by verdict, and therewith agreeth 2 Ma. Dier 100. that the extent and appriſement ought to be per ſacramentum duodecim, and not by the Sheriff, and many precedents: And becauſe that the term was miſrecited in the inquiſition, and the term ſo miſtaken was appriſed by it, and the Sheriff cannot ſell any term but that only which was appriſed by the Jurors of Enqueſt; for this cauſe he moved the Court, that the ſale was utterly void, and ſo was the opinion of the whole Court; and Judgment was given accordingly.

Trin. 39 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Holland's Caſe.

[75]

WIlliam Armiger was Plaintiff in a Prohibition againſt William Holland Parſon of Northcreak in the County of Norfolk, and declared, That Matthew Biſhop of Wincheſter collated by Laps John Meye to the ſaid Church of Northcreak, who was therein inducted, and further had the moity of the Church of Daresfield in the County of York: And afterwards 17 Auguſt, 19 Eliz. he was nominated and elected to be Biſhop of Carliſle; after which election, and before conſecration and inſtallation into the ſaid Biſhoprick, ſcil. 18 Auguſt 19 Eliz. the Queen by her Letters Patents, De gratia ſua ſpeciali, ac ex certa ſcientia, & mero motu ſuis conceſſit, & licentiam & poteſtatem dedit præfat' J. Meye, quod ipſe in ipſam Eccleſiæ Cathedralis Carl' conſecrat' procuret & obtineret; Necnon realem, actualem & corporalem poſſeſſionem, &c. recipere & obtinere, & nihilominus præd' medietat' dictæ Rector' de Daresfield, ac Rectoriam de Northcreak, una cum dicto Epiſcopat', quamdiu eidem Epiſcopatui præeſſet, retinere, & poſſidere, ac fructus & emolumenta inde quamdiu eidem Epiſcopatui præeſſet in ſuos proprios uſus convertere, &c.

And

And afterwards 29 Septemb. 19 Eliz. was conſecrated and inſtalled into the ſaid Biſhoprick, and was and yet is Biſhop of the ſame See; And the Plaintiff claimed a leaſe for years of the ſaid Rectory of Northereak by force of a leaſe made by Indenture by the ſaid Biſhop 1 Maii, 20 Eliz. for a term of years yet enduring; and that the Defendant of late being preſented by Laps by the Queen, pretending the [b] ſaid Queens Letters Patents made by the ſaid Jo. Meye were void, did ſue for Tithes in the Spiritual Court. And the Defendant to have a Conſultation ſaid, That the ſaid Church of Northereak at the time of the induction of the ſaid John Meye was and yet is Benefic' cum cura animarum, & ultra annuum valorem 8 l. viz. 8 l. 10 s. And afterwards the ſaid John Meye accepted the moity of the ſaid Church of Daresfield, and was inſtituted and inducted thereto: And the pleading was, ad medietatem Rectoriæ, where it ſhould be ad Rectoriam medietatis, &c. (but was taken by the Court to be all one) and that the ſaid Church of Daresfield was Beneficium cum cura animarum, and confeſſed the ſaid Letters Patents prout; and concluded that prætextu præmiſſorum, the Church of Northereak became void, and title to preſent by Laps came to the Queen, who preſented the Defendant to the ſame 15 Feb. 1492. and made no mention of the Act of 21 H. 8. cap. 13. in his plea; and upon this plea the Plaintiff did demurr in Law. And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved.

1. That before the Statute of 21 H. 8. if one had a Benefice with Cure, and accept another Benefice with Cure, that the firſt Benefice was void, but it was not an avoidance by the Common Law, but by the conſtitution of the Pope, of which avoidance the Patron might take notice if he would, and might preſent if he would without any deprivation or reſignation; but becauſe the avoidance did accrue by the Eccleſiaſtical Law no Laps did incur without notice, as upon deprivation or reſignation, and yet the Patron might preſent, and take upon him notice if he would; ſo that for the benefit of the Patron the Church is void in the principal Caſe, but not for his diſadvantage. And according to this difference it is adjudged in Hill. 24 E. 3. 33. that in a Quare Impedit brought by the King againſt the Biſhop of Worceſter, it was a good title for the King that the predeceſſor of the Biſhop preſented to the ſame Church one A. who afterwards accepted another Benefice, by which acceptance the Church in queſtion was void, and remained void till the temporalities of the Biſhop came to the Kings hands, and ſo it belonged to him: And the King upon this title by award of the Court had a Writ to the Biſhop, which proveth that Church was void in facto without any deprivation, and that the King might by Law preſent his Clark; and therewith agreeth the Books in 9 E. 3. 22. 10 E. 3. 1. 14 H. 7. 28. b. 14 H. 8. 17. F. N. B. 34. And it is ſaid in 10 E. 3. 1. that in ſuch Caſes both Churches ſhall be void; and by Pening the Conſtitution of Plurality is a general Judgment, that all ſhall be deprived who hold many Benefices with Cure above one month after the inſtitution; and ſtronger binds them upon deprivation then particular Judgment of any perſon, for a particular deprivation may be avoided by appeal, and the other not. But ſome opinions are in 5 E. 3. 9. & 11 H. 4. 37. that the Church is not void without deprivation; but that may be underſtood for the diſadvantage of the Patron, for, for his advantage it is void as is aforeſaid, and ſo all the Books are well reconciled, ſo that the Statute of 21 H. 8. is but an affir- [76] mation and confirmation of the Common Law in this Point: But now for as much as it is affirmed by Act of Parliament, if the firſt Benefice be of the value of 8 l. by the year, the Patron at his peril ought to preſent to it, for in as much as it is an avoidance by Parliament every one ought to take notice of it at his peril, but otherwiſe it is if the firſt Church be not of the yearly value of 8 l. for then it is void meerly by the Eccleſiaſtical Law, whereof the Patron is not to take notice at his peril as before is ſaid.

2. It was reſolved by the whole Court that the ſaid Act of 21 H. 8. was ſo general an Act that the Judges (although it be not ſet forth in pleading by the party) ought to take notice of it ex officio.

Note Reader, the Rule of the Law is, That of general Statutes the Judges ought to take notice, although they be not pleaded, otherwiſe of ſpecial or particular Statute. And for the better underſtanding of our Books in this Point, and which ſhall be ſaid in Judgment of Law Statutum generale, and which Statutum ſpeciale, it is to know, that generale dicitur a genere, & ſpeciale a ſpecie; And there are Genus, Species, & Individua; Know that Spiritualty is Genus, Biſhoprick, Deanery, &c. are Species, and Biſhoprick or Deanery of Norwich, Individuum, Et ſic dicti' quia in partes dividi nequit. And therefore it was reſolved in the Caſe at Bar, that for as much as the Act of 21 H. 8. concerneth all the Spiritualty that it was a general Act whereof the Judges ought to take notice. And Paſch. 31 Eliz. Rot 514. it was adjudged between Claypoole and Carter in the Common Pleas, and affirmed by Writ of Error in the Kings Bench, Hill. 32 Eliz. Rot. 791. that the Act of 18 Eliz. concerning Colledges in the two Univerſities, and the Colledges of Eaton and Winchester was a particular Act whereof the Judges ſhall not take notice. But the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. and and 18 Eliz. cap. 11. concerning Colledges, Deans and Chapters, Hoſpitals, Parſon, Vicar, or any other having any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical living, are general Acts, whereof the Judges ſhall take notice, which Caſe is like to the Caſe at the Bar. But it was adjudged Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, between Elmer Biſhop of London and Gate, for the ſcite and demeſns of the Mannor of Dr iton in the County of Midd. that the Statute of 1 Eliz. concerning leaſes, &c. made by Biſhops was a ſpecial Act becauſe it concerned the Biſhops only, who are but ſpecies of the Spiritualty, and therefore of ſuch ſpecial Law the Judges ſhall not take knowledge if it be not pleaded, and therewith agreeth 13 E. 4. 8. b. and ſo of the like. So this word (Officer) is a general word or Genus (Sheriff) is a ſpecial word or Species; and Sheriff of Norfolk is [b] Individuum. And therefore the Statute of Weſt. 1. cap. 26. by which it is enacted, That no Sheriff or other miniſter of the King take reward to do his Office, but be paid of that which they take of the King, is a general Act, becauſe it extendeth to all Officers in general: But the Statute of 23 H. 6. cap. 10. which extendeth only to Sheriffs is but a particular Act, as it is holden in 3 Ma. Dier 119. So Myſtery or Trade is a general word; Trade of Grocery is ſpecial, and this Grocer by name is Individuum: And therefore Acts of Parliament concerning Myſteries or Trades are general Acts; But an Act of Parliament liament concerning the Trade of Grocery is a special Act, as it is said in 28 H. 8. Dier 27. because the Trade of Grocers containeth under it but Individuum, or singular persons, as this or that Grocer by name, vide 10 E. 47. a. The Statute of Marlebridge cap. 3. Non ideo puniatur dominus per redemptionem, is a general Law for the causes aforesaid, for this word (Seignior) is a general word. But an Act concerning all the Nobility, or Lords of the Parliament, or all the Bishops of England, or all Corporations made by King H. 6. are special and particular Acts for the causes aforesaid, as it is holden in the Case of the Lord Say in 13 E. 4. 86.

Know Reader, That if an Act be special which extendeth ad species, a multo fortiori, it is special and particular which extended ad individua: Vide 14 E. 4. 1. & 43 Ass. 29. So you may know what Act as to persons in general, and what not: Now know, that although the matter be special, so that under it there are individua, yet if it be general as to the persons, thereof the Judges ought to take knowledge: but if the Act concern aliquod singulare seu individuum, although it be general as to the persons, yet the Judges shall not take knowledge thereof: As (Appeal) is a special Act, and contained under the general word (Writ;) And yet the Statute of Magna Charta cap. 34. which concerneth Appeals is general, and the Judges ought to take notice thereof, as it is holden in 10 E. 4. 7. But if an Act were made that no Appeal shall be brought of the death of J. S. this Act is particular, Causa qua supra: So the Act of Magna Charta cap. 25. of Wast, West. 2. cap. 25. concerning Assises, and cap. 18. concerning Assise by Tenant by Elegit, cap. 41. concerning contra formam collationis; 32 H. 8. of Attaint and the like, are general Laws although they concern special Actions; the same Law of 4 H. 7. cap. 17. and Merton cap. 6. of Wards, & sic de cæteris: But although the Act as to the person be general, but the matter thereof concerneth Individua, or such things, as any particular Mannor, or house, &c. or all the Mannors, houses, &c. which are in one or sundry Towns, or in one or divers particular Counties, these are such special Acts whereof the Judges shall not take knowledge, if they be not pleaded or alledged by the party; But of every Act (although the matter thereof concern Individua, or single things, yet if they touch the King, the Judges ex officio ought to take knowledge of them, for every Subject hath interest in the King as in the Head of the Commonwealth; and as the inferiour members cannot estrange themselves from the actions and passions of the head, no more can any Subject estrange him in any thing which toucheth or concerneth the King their supreme Head. Vide Plow. Com. in the Lord Barkley's Case for these matters, 21 E. 4. 59. 37 H. 6. 15. and Plow. Comm. in Wimbishe's Case 53. And Tanfield, Godfrey, and others were of Councel with the Plaintiff, Coke and Houghton with the Defendant. [77]

Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz.

The Case of Corporations.

IN this Term at Serjeants Inn in Fleetstreet it was demanded of the chief Justices Popham and Anderson, and Periam chief Baron, and the other Justices, That where divers Cities, Boroughs, and Towns are incorporate by Charters, some by the name of Mayor and Comminalty, or Maior and Burgesses, &c. or Provost, or Reve and Burgesses, or Bailiffs and Burgesses, &c. or Aldermen and Burgesses, &c. or the like. And in the said Charters it is prescribed, That the Mayors, Aldermen, Bailiffs, Provosts, &c. shall be chosen by the Comminalty or Burgesses, &c. If that the ancient and usual elections of Mayors, Bailiffs, Provosts, &c. by certain selected number of the principal of the Comminalty, or Burgesses, commonly called the Common Councel, or by such like name, and not by the generalty by the whole Comminalty or Burgesses, nor by so many of them as would come to the election was good in Law, for as much that by the words of Charters the election shall be indefinitely by the Comminalty, or by the Burgesses, which is as much to say as by all the Commons and all the Burgesses, &c. Which Question being of great importance and consequence was referred by the Lords of the Councel to the Justices to know the Law in this Case, because divers attempts were of late in divers Corporations contrary to the ancient usages to make popular elections: And it was resolved by all the Judges upon great consideration and deliberation and conference amongst themselves, That such ancient and usual elections were good and well warranted by their Charters, and by the Law also. For in every of their Charters they have power given them to make Laws, Ordinances, and Constitutions for the better government and order of their Cities and Boroughs, &c. by force of which, and for avoiding popular confusion, they by their common assent do constitute and ordain, That the Mayor or Bayliffs or other principal of the Comminalty or of the Burgesses as is aforesaid; and prescribe also how such selected number be chosen: And such Ordinance and Constitution was resolved to be good and allowable, and agreeable with the Law and their Charters for avoiding popular discord and confusion: And although that now such Constition or Ordinance cannot be shewed, yet it shall be presumed and intended in respect of such special manner of ancient and continual election (which special election cannot begin without common consent) that at first such Ordinance or Constitution was made, Such reverent respect the Law attributeth to ancient and continual allowance and usage, although it began before the time of memory: Mos retinendus est fidelissimæ vetustatis; Quæ præter consuetudinem & morem majorem fiunt, neque placent, neque recta videntur; & frequentia actus multum operatur. [b] [78]

And

And according to this Reſolution the ancient and continual uſages have been in London, Norwich, and other ancient Cities and Corporations: And God forbid that they ſhould be now innovated or altered, for many and great inconveniences will thereupon ariſe, all which the Law hath well prevented, as appeareth by this Reſolution.

Hill. 41 Eliz. in the King's Bench.

Digbie's Caſe.

[b] BEtween Richard Robins Plaintiff, in an Ejectione firmæ for parcel of the Glebe of the Rectory of Horton in the County of Lincoln, upon a demiſe made unto him by Edward Wickham Parſon there, and William Gerard and John Prince Defendants: upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jurors gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect; (which Action began in the Kings Bench Hill. 38 Eliz. Rot. 781.) The ſaid Rectory of Horton is a Benefice with Cure of the annual value of 8 l. & amplius, to which the Church being void) George Digby Eſquire Patron thereof did preſent Robert Merick his Clark, to which preſentment he was admitted, inſtituted, and inducted: And afterwards Queen Eliz. anno 29 of her reign did preſent the ſaid Merick to the Church of Stanes in the County of Midd. which is a Benefice with Cure; to which Church of Stanes the ſaid Merick was admitted and inſtituted; before induction Katherine the late wife of the Lord Borough did admit and receive by writing under her Seal the ſaid Merick to be her houſhold Chaplain according to the form of the Statute of 21 H. 8. And afterward the Archbiſhop of Canterbury by his Letters of Diſpenſation; Cum eodem Roberto Merick, & una cum Rectoria de Horton dioceſ. Lincoln' quam adtunc obtinuit, Eccleſiam de Stanes dioceſ. London recipere, & quoad vixerit retinere liberè & licite valeat, & poſſit, authoritate Parliamenti gratioſe diſpenſavit: And afterwards the Queen by her Letters Patents under the great Seal did ratifie and confirm the ſaid Letters of Diſpenſation: And afterwards
[79] the ſaid Robert Merick was inducted in the ſaid Church of Stanes, viz. 30 Aug, 29 Eliz. And afterwards the Queen by Laps anno 33. preſented the ſaid Edward Wickman to the Church of Horton, who was admitted, inſtituted, and inducted, and demiſed to the Plaintiff, upon whom the Defendants as ſervants of the ſaid Robert Merick did enter and eject him; and if they were guilty or not was the Queſtion: And it was adjudged for the Plaintiff, that the ſaid Diſpenſation came too late, becauſe it came after the inſtitution, for by the inſtitution Eccleſia plena & conſulta exiſtit, againſt all perſons but againſt the King: And it is to know, that every Rectory doth conſiſt upon Spiritualty and Temporalty; and as to the Spiritualty, ſcil. Cura animarum, he is compleat Parſon by the inſtitution; for when the Biſhop upon examination found, admits him able, then he doth inſtitute him, and ſaith, Inſtituo te ad tale beneficium & habere curam animarum of ſuch a Pariſh, & accipe curam tuam, & meam, &c. vide 33 H. 6. 13. But as to the Temporalties as the Glebe land, &c. he hath not the freehold in him till induction. See Hare and Buckley's Caſe, Plow. Comm. 528. And for the better underſtanding of our Books, know Reader, Quod per generale Concilium Lateranenſe tentum ſub Innocentio Papa tertio; Statutum eſt quod quicunque reciperet aliquod Beneficium habens curam animarum annexam, ſi prius tale Beneficium obtinebat, eo ſit jure ipſo privatus, & ſi forte illud retinere contenderit, alio etiam ſpolietur, Is quoque ad quem prioris ſpectat donatio, illud poſt receptationem alterius conferat cui merito viderit conferendum. And this Counceil was holden anno Dom. 1215. vide Tomo 4. 221. cap. 29. de multa. By which it appeareth that by the acceptance of the ſecond Benefice, that the firſt is void ipſo jure, and the Patron may preſent if he will: And upon this general Councel are the Books in 9 E. 3. 22. 10 E. 3. 1. (where the ſaid general Councel is mentioned) 24 E. 3. 30. a. 11 H. 4. 37. 14 H. 7. 28. 14 H. 8. 17. F. N. B. 34 l. grounded.

But then what ſhall be ſaid a taking of a ſecond Benefice with Cure within the ſaid Act of 21 H. 8. is the Queſtion; and the doubt ariſeth upon this, That although that Merick by his inſtitution was Parſon as to the Spiritualty, ſcil. to celebrate Divine Service and Sacrament, to Preach and inſtruct the Pariſhioners in the true faith, yet he is not compleat Parſon, for he wanteth the Temporalties whereof he may live until induction; and the Statute is to be intended of a compleat Parſon.

2. It was objected, that although he ſhall be ſaid compleat Parſon before induction, yet he hath not a
[b] Benefice with Cure till he be inducted; for this word (Benefice) as it was ſaid importeth and implieth profit and benefit, which he cannot have till his induction; and who hath Beneficium ought to execute and facere officium, but none can do his Office without ſome benefit.

3. It was objected, that the ſaid Act of 21 H. 8. doth not make the firſt Benefice void till induction, for the words are, And be inſtituted and inducted in the poſſeſſion of the ſame, &c. But it was reſolved, that great inconvenience will follow, if the firſt Benefice ſhall not be void by the inſtitution to the ſecond by force of the ſaid Conſtitution, for then one may be inſtituted to divers Benefices with Cure, the great Cure and charge of which he cannot diſcharge, and yet no other can be preſented to any of them which ſhall be inconvenient. And therefore vide Tomo 5. of the General Councels, pag. 368. cap. 64. Res ipſa loquitur plura Beneficia, potiſſimum quibus animarum cura ſubmiſſa eſt, non ſine gravi Eccleſiarum damno ab uno obtineri, cum unus in pluribus Eccleſiis rite officia perſolvere, aut rebus earum neceſſariam curam impendere nequeat; By which it appeareth that the great miſchief before the ſaid Counceil was, That thoſe who had plurality of Benefices could not diſcharge their Paſtoral duties which appertained to to their functions, which functions they had to all intents by the inſtitution before induction: And in Judgment of our Law he who is inſtituted to a Benefice hath accepted thereof, for the Church is full by the inſtitution before induction.

2. It hath been lately adjudged in the Common Pleas, That where a Clark was preſented, admitted and inſtituted to a Benefice with Cure above the value of 8 l. and afterwards and before induction to the firſt he accepted of another Benefice with Cure, and is inducted in the ſame, that the firſt Benefice is void by the Statute of 21 H. 8. for the words of the Act are, If any perſon having one Benefice with Cure, &c. accept and take another, &c. and he who is inſtituted to a Benefice, is ſaid in Law to have accepted a Benefice, and to have the Benefice.

And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, That although by the inſtitution to the ſecond Benefice the firſt is void by the Eccleſiaſtical Law without any deprivation, or ſentence Declaratory, yet no Laps ſhall incurr againſt the Patron if notice be not given him, no more then if the Church became void by reſignation or privation, and yet the Patron may take notice if he will, and may preſent according to the ſaid conſtitution, but he is not forced to take notice at his peril, if he be not inducted: Quod fuit conceſſum by the whole Court. And then for as much as the avoidance after the induction is declared by the Act of 21 H. 8. (to which every one is party) there he ought in ſuch Caſe to take notice at his peril: But admit the firſt Benefice was not void de facto by the inſtitution before induction, yet for another cauſe the diſpenſation cometh too late, for the words of the Act of 21 H. 8. are, May purchace licence to receive and keep two Benefices with Cure of ſouls, &c. and the words of Diſpenſation in the Caſe at Bar are recipere & retinere; and for as much as by his inſtitutution the Church was full of him, he cannot purchace licence to receive that which he had before, and the words are in the conjunctive recipere & retinere, ſo that he cannot retain that which he cannot receive. And it appeareth by the Judgment in the Common Pleas that within the ſaid Act of 21 H. 8. he who is only inſtituted is ſaid to have a Benefice with Cure; And the queſtion as to this Point was asked of the other Juſtices and Barons of the Exchequer, and they all agreed, That the Diſpenſation in the Caſe at Bar came too late for the cauſes aforeſaid. [80]

The Attorney General, Tanfield, and Francis Moore were of Councel with the Plaintiff, and George Crook, Lawton and others with the Defendant.

Trin. 41 Eliz.

Noke's Caſe.

BEtween Noke Plaintiff, and James Defendant, in debt upon an Obligation the Caſe was ſuch: The Defendant leaſed to the Plaintiff a houſe in London by theſe words, Demiſe, grant, &c. And the leſſor covenanted that the leſſee ſhould enjoy the houſe during the term without eviction by the leſſor, or any claiming under him; And the leſſor was bound to perform all covenants, grants, articles, and agreements, &c. in the Indenture; The Plaintiff granted his term over to a ſtranger, in debt upon this Obligation the Defendant pleaded performance of the Covenants, &c. The Plaintiff aſſigned the breach, that one Savery entred upon the aſſignee and made a leaſe for 7 years to one Duck if he ſhould ſo long live, who brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt the aſſignee, and recovered by verdict, and had execution; upon which the Defendant did demur in Law. And the opinion of the Court was againſt the Plaintiff; And in this Caſe theſe Points were reſolved: [b]

1. That for this Covenant in Law upon theſe words, Demiſe, grant, &c. the aſſignee ſhall have a Writ of Covenant, 9 Eliz. Dier 257. acc.

2. That for this breaking of the Covenant in Law the Obligation was forfeited, for he was bound to perform all covenants, grants, &c. which extendeth as well to covenants in Law, as to covenants in Deed.

3. Although that the Recovery was by verdict, yet the Plaintiff ought to have ſhewed that Savery had ancient title, for otherwiſe the covenant in Law was not broken, and becauſe he did not ſhew the ſame, for this cauſe they reſolved againſt the Plaintiff.

4. It was holden by Popham chief Juſtice and the whole Court, That the ſaid expreſs covenant did qualifie the generality of the covenant in Law, and reſtrained the ſame by the mutual conſent of both the parties, that it ſhall not extend further then the expreſs covenant, Quia clauſula generalis non refert ad expreſſa in this Caſe. And ſo it was of late adjudged in Hamonds Caſe in this Court. [81]

See Reader 20 E. 3. Counterplea de garranty 7. it is adjudged. That if a man leaſeth for life rendring rent, and further bind him and his heirs to warranty, here the expreſs warranty doth not take away the warranty in Law, for if he in the reverſion granteth over his reverſion, and the leſſee attorneth, and afterwards is impleaded, he may vouch the grantee by the warranty in Law, or he may vouch the leſſor by the expreſs warranty; and therewith agreeth 31 E. 3. voucher 286. where the Caſe was, L. ſeiſed of three Oxegangs of land leaſed the ſame to C. for life rendring rent and ſervices, and bound him and his heirs to warranty, &c. And afterwards granted the reverſion to R. &c. L. died, his wife brought a Writ of Dower againſt C. who vouched the heir of L. by force of the expreſs warranty. And there Howard chief Justice said, that she had two warranties, and she may choose which she will; But note that in both the said Cases the warranty in Law and the express warranty were general. And I heard the Lord Dier, and all the Court of Common Pleas, Hill. 24 Eliz. resolve, That if a man make a feoffment in fee by the word Dedi, with express warranty in the deed, he may use the one or the other at his election. And that the Statute of Bigamis cap. 6. is to be intended, That Dedi importeth a warranty, although the clause of warranty be not contained in the Deed. The words of which Statute is, In chartis ubi continetur dedi & concessi, &c. sine clausula warrantiæ, ipse feoffator in vita sua, &c. sine warrantia, id est, quamvis nullam continet clausulam warrantiæ, tenetur warrantizare: But note that by force of the said Act, now Dedi is made an express warranty during the life of the feoffor: And there is great reason in the principal Case, that the particular Covenant subsequent, should qualifie the force of this word (demisi) for otherwise the particular covenant should be in vain, if the force of this word demisi should stand; and also these words demisi & concessi are frequent in every ordinary lease that is made; and the best construction of deeds is to make one part to expound the other, and so to make all the parts agree, & quoad fieri possit according to the true intent and meaning of the parties, vide 48 E. 3. 2. If a man make a lease by dedi, and further grant over the reversion, the lessor shall be vouched by force of dedi.

Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Court of Wards.

Sir Andrew Corbet's Case.

[81 b] SIR Andrew Corbet Knight, 19 Eliz. seised of divers Mannors, lands, and tenements in fee, part of which were holden of the Queen by Knights service in Capite, by his Will in writing devised some of them to Richard Corbet and others to have and hold to them and the survivors of them until such time and term that the summ of 800 l. by them or the survivor of them, or the Executors of the survivor of them of the issues, rents, revenues, and profits of the said lands should be fully levied and received above all charges and expences; and the said summ so levied to be imployed for the preferment of his two daughters Margaret and Mary, as in his Will is limited, and left the third part to descend. The said Sir Andrew Corbet 20 Eliz. died, Robert Corbet his son and heir took the said Will into his hands, and entred into the said lands now in charge, and received the profit thereof during his life, and afterwards died in the 25 year of Elizabeth; after whose death upon the search of Evidences the said Will was found at Moreton Corbet, which Will was found in the Office after the death of the said Robert, and then transcribed into this Court; by virtue of which Will the said Richard Corbet the devisee did enter, and hath received the profits of the said land from the feast of S. Michael anno 26 Eliz. until the feast of the Annuntiation 36 Eliz. and by such time hath levied 640 l. and hath imployed it according to the Will; and if the profits taken by Robert Corbet, and which the devisees might have taken, shall be accounted parcel of the said summ of 800 l. was the Question. And in this Case two Points were resolved.

[82] 1. Although that the words be until the summ of 800 l. shall be levied by them of the profits of the land; yet it is as much in Law as if the words had been, shall or may be levied: and so was it holden in Case of a lease, where the limitation of an use until such summ shall be levied, is as much as to say until such summ can be levied, for otherwise great mischief will follow; for in as much as he in the reversion or remainder cannot enter till the summ be levied, it shall be in the power of them who are appointed to levy the summ, if they will deferr the levying thereof, to exclude him in the reversion or remainder, which shall be inconvenient: So it was agreed upon the words of the Statute of West. 2. cap. 18. Quod (by force of the Elegit which is given by the same Statute) vicecomes liberet, &c. medietatem terræ suæ quousque debitum fuerit levatum per rationabile extentum; And upon the words of the Writ of execution of a Statute Merchant and Staple, omnia terras & tenementa, &c. habend', &c. juxta formam ordinationis inde factæ, scil. de Mercatoribus 31 E. 1. or 27 E. 3. quousque sibi de debito præd' fuit satisfactum; That if the conusee neglect to take the profits, yet when the conusee might have been satisfied his debt according to the extent, the conusor shall have his land again: But it was said, That words make the Case, and therefore it was agreed, that upon the Statute of Merton cap. 6. & 7. that the profits of the lands which the Guardian taketh for the double value shall be in satisfaction of the double value, but otherwise in the Case of the single value, for the words of the said Act cap. 6. in Case of the double value are, Tunc teneat terram ejus ultra terminum ætatis suæ per tantum tempus quod inde possit percipere duplicem valorem maritagii: So that by express words the profits shall be accompted parcel of the double value: but the words of the 7 Chapter concerning the single value are, scil. Si quis heres, &c. pro domino suo noluit se maritare non compellatur hoc facere, sed cum ad ætatem pervenerit det domino suo & satisfaciat ei, &c. pro maritagio suo antequam terram suam recipiat: By which it appeareth, that the Guardian shall enjoy the profits to his own use until the heir satisfie him. See for this difference 27 H. 8. 5. b. 31 Ass. 26. 43 E. 3. 21. And further it was holden, that in the said Case of double value, it is in the election of the Guardian, either to bring his Writ of forfeiture of marriage, or to hold the land until he be satisfied, 18 E. 3. 18. acc. But if the Guardian choose to have the land, and enter into it, he ſhall not have the land but only ſo long that he might levy the double value, and his negligence ſhall be damage to him. Vide 15 E. 4. 5. b. 7 H. 6. 12. 7 H 7. 14. 11 H. 6. 8.

the

2. It was reſolved, That when the heir himſelf in the Caſe at Bar, or he in the reverſion or remainder in the Caſe of a leaſe, or the limitation of an uſe entreth upon him to whom the land is deviſed, demiſed, or limited as is aforeſaid, and putteth him out, in this Caſe it is in the election of the perſon ſo put out, either to bring his Action and recover the mean profits, which ſhall be accounted parcel of the ſumm, or he may reenter and retain the land over until he levy the whole ſumm, and the time in which he was ſo put out, ſhall not be accounted parcel; for when he who is to have the land again doth the wrong, againſt him and all others who claim under him, he who was put out, if he will, may reenter and hold the land, and the other ſhall not take advantage of his own wrong, nor drive him who was put out to bring an Action againſt him againſt his will for the mean profits: The ſame Law is in other Caſes, ſcil. of Tenant by Elegit, Statute Merchant, Statute Staple, Guardian, who holdeth over for the double value, if he in the reverſion who is to have the land again put him out, they have ſuch election as is aforeſaid, either to hold over, or to bring their Action, vide 15 H. 7. 14. So if the profits of the lands be waſted, by drowning of water, or wildfire, or any other act of God, without default or negligence in the party, there the conuſee ſhall hold the land over, vide 11 H. 6. 7. 7 H. 7. 12. b. 15 H. 7. 14. 33 H. 8. Statute Merchant Br. 41. But if he who hath ſuch intereſt be put out by a ſtranger, there the time ſhall incurr for the miſchief aforeſaid, and there he is put to his remedy againſt the treſpaſſor. If the deviſee in the Caſe at Bar or tenant by Statute Merchant, &c. ſurrender to him in the reverſion upon condition, and after enter for the condition broken, he ſhall not hold over, for the ſurrender is his own act, and he cannot enlarge his intereſt, and therewith agreeth 33 H. 8. Statute Merchant Br. 4. If Tenant by Elegit be interrupted to take the profits of the land by reaſon of War, he ſhall not hold over, but it ſhall be in the diſadvantage of the Tenant by Elegit, as it is adjudged in 19 E. 1. Execution 246. [b]

3. It was reſolved, That although the deviſee had not notice of the deviſe, yet if a ſtranger had occupied the land, the deviſee ought to have taken notice at his peril, for dormientibus & non vigilantibus jura ſubveniunt; and none by the Law in ſuch Caſe is bounden to give him notice, therefore he ought to take notice at his peril: As in Caſe of Arbitrement 1 H. 7. 5. & 8 E. 4. 1. but the Caſe at Bar is ſtronger becauſe the heir himſelf doth conceal the Will, and the deviſee hath not any remedy for the mean profits after the death of the heir who put him out.

And whereas it is holden in old Books, ſcil. 34 E. 1. Gard 129. 34 E. 1. Covenant 26. 33 H. 6. 42. 5 H. 7. 36. 7 H. 7. 12. 14 H. 7. 27. 15 H. 7. 8. F. N. B. 142. that the Guardian ſhall put out the tenant for years, but not the tenant for life, becauſe tenant for life cannot hold over as leſſee for years (as it was holden) may. It was reſolved that the Guardian ſhall not put out the one or the other, and therewith agreeth the Reſolution of all Juſtices in 36 H. 8. Leaſes Br. 58.

Alſo it was reſolved, That if the Guardian may put out the leſſee for years, yet for as much as his term is certain, ſcil. certain in the beginning, in continuance, and in the end, he cannot for any poſſibility hold over in ſuch Caſe: But in the Caſe at Bar, and in the other Caſes of tenant by Elegit, Statute Merchant, &c. there is no term certain, but until ſuch a ſumm be by them levied, and therefore it ſtands with ſuch intereſt that in ſome Caſe he may hold over, and ſo is the difference. And it was ſaid, That the words of the Statute of Marlebridge; Salva ſit nihilominus hujuſmodi feoffatis actio ſua, quoad terminum, ſen ad feodum recuperandum quam inde habuerint, the ſame is to be intended of an eſtate made by colluſion, for to that the purview of the Act extendeth, ſcil. That the Guardian ſhall put him out, and in ſuch Caſe without queſtion the leſſee ſhall not hold over. [83]

Paſch. 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Southcote's Caſe.

Southcote brought an Action of Detinue againſt Bennet for certain goods, and declared, That he delivered them to the Defendant to keep ſafe; the Defendant confeſſed the delivery, and pleaded in bar, That after the delivery one J. S. ſtole them feloniouſly out of his poſſeſſion; The Plaintiff replied, that J. S. was the Defendants ſervant, and retained in his ſervice, and demanded Judgment. And thereupon the Defendant did demurr in Law, and it was adjudged for the Plaintiff; And the reaſon of their Judgment was, becauſe that the Plaintiff delivered the goods to be ſafe kept, and the Defendant hath undertook it by acceptance upon ſuch delivery, and therefore he ought to keep them at his peril, although in ſuch Caſe he have nothing for the keeping of them. So if A. deliver goods to B. generally to be kept by him, and B. accept them without having any thing for it, if the goods be ſtole from him, yet he ſhall be charged in Detinue, for to be kept, and to be kept ſafe is all one. But if A. accept of the goods of B. to keep them as he would keep his own proper goods, there if they be ſtollen from him he ſhall not anſwer for them: Or if goods be pawned or pledged to him for mony, and the goods be ſtollen, he ſhall not anſwer for them, for he doth not take upon him to keep them but as he keepeth his own goods; for he hath a property in them and not a cuſtody only, and therefore he ſhall not be charged as it is adjudged [b] in 29 Aſſ. 28. But if before the ſtealing he who pawneth the goods tendreth the mony, and the other refuſeth, then is there fault in him, and then the ſtealing after ſuch tender, as it is there holden, ſhall not diſcharge him: So if A. deliver to B. a cheſt lockt to keep, and he himſelf carrieth away the key, in this Caſe if the [84] goods be ſtollen B. ſhall not be charged, for A. did not truſt B. with them, nor B. did not undertake to keep them, as it is adjudged in 8 E. 2. Detinue 69. So the doubt which was conceived upon theſe differing opinions in our Books, in 29 Aſſ. 28. 3 H. 7. 4. 6 H. 7. 12. 10 H. 7. 26. of Keble and Fineux are well reconciled, vide Bract. lib. 2. fol. 62. b.

But in Accompt it is a good plea before Auditors for the Factor that he was robbed, as appeareth by the Books in 12 E. 3. Accompt 111, 41 E. 3. 3. & 9 E. 4. 40. For if a Factor (although he hath wages and ſalary) do all that he can do, he ſhall be diſcharged, and he taketh nothing upon him, but his duty is to merchandize as a ſervant the beſt that he can: and a ſervant is bound to do the command of his Maſter: But a Ferryman, common Innkeeper, or Carrier, who take hire ought ſafely to keep the goods committed to them, and ſhall not be diſcharged if they be ſtollen by Thieves, vide 22 Aſſ. 41. Br. Action ſur le Caſe 78. And the Court held the Replication idle and vain, for it is not material by whom the Defendant was robbed, vide 33 H. 6. 1. If Traitors break the Priſon it ſhall not diſcharge the Gaoler, otherwiſe of the Kings Enemies of another Kingdom, for in the one Caſe he may have his remedy and recompence and not in the other.

Note Reader, it is good policy for him who taketh goods to keep, to take them in ſpecial manner, ſcil. to keep them as he keepeth his own goods, or to keep them the beſt he can at the peril of the party; or if they happen to be ſtollen or purloined, that he ſhall not anſwer for them, for it behoveth him who accepteth them, to take them in ſuch or the like manner, or otherwiſe he may be charged by his general acceptance. So if the goods be delivered to one for to deliver over, it is good policy to provide for himſelf in ſuch ſpecial manner for doubt of being charged by his general acceptance, which implieth that he took upon him to do.

Paſch 43 Eliz. Rot. 596. between Cottel Plaintiff and Lutterel Defendant, in an Action upon the Caſe in the Kings Bench.

Lutterel's Caſe.

[86] Cottell brought an Action upon the Caſe againſt Lutterel, and declared that 4 Martii, 40 Eliz. he was ſeiſed of two old and ruinous Fulling Mills, and that time out of mind, magna pars aquæ cujuſdam rivoli ran from a place called Hodware to the ſaid Mills, and that for all the ſaid time there had been a bank to keep the water within the current: And afterwards the Plaintiff 8 Octob. 41 Eliz. did pull down the ſaid mills, and in place of the ſaid Fulling mills, did erect two mills to grind corn; and that the water did run to the ſaid mills till the 10 of September next following, and that the ſame day the Defendant did dig and break the bank, and did turn the water from his mills, &c. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and it was found againſt him, upon which the Plaintiff had Judgmen. And thereupon Lutterel the Defendant brought a Writ of Error upon the new Statute in the Exchequer Chamber, and there two Errors were aſſigned.

1. That by the breaking and abating of the old Fulling mills, and by the building of new mills of another nature, the Plaintiff had deſtroyed the preſcription, and cannot preſcribe to have any courſe of water to Griſt mills: As if a man grants me a ſtream of water to my Fulling mills, I cannot (as it was ſaid) convert them to corn mills; nec e contra. So if I grant to one Eſtovers to burn in his Hall, he cannot turn his Hall into a Kitchin, or Malt-houſe: The ſame Law of preſcription; for preſcription in ſuch Caſe ſhall be intended to commence by grant, and in proof thereof they cited F. N. B. 180. and 7 E. 4. 27. If a man have Eſtovers by grant, or appendant to an ancient houſe, he ſhall not have them
[b] to a houſe which he new buildeth: And 10 H. 7. 13. & 16 H. 7. 9. where the Abbot of Newark granted by fine to find three Chaplains in ſuch a Chappel of the conuſee, and afterwards the ſaid Chappel fell, and there it is holden, that during the time that there is no Chappel, the Divine ſervice ſhall ceaſe, for it ought to be done in a decent and reverend manner, and not at large ſubito; But it is there holden, That if the Chappel be rebuilt in the place where the old ſtood, then he ought to ſay the Divine Service there: But (it was collected) if it be built in another place, there the grantee is not tied to ſay Divine Service there: If there be Lord and Tenant, and the Tenant holdeth to cover and repair the Lords Hall, as in 10 E. 3. 23. in this Caſe if the Hall fall, yet if the Lord build the Hall in the ſame place it was before, and of ſuch bigneſs as it was before, the Tenant is tied to cover it; But if it be greater either in length or breadth, ſo as prejudice may come to the Tenant; or if it be built in another place, or if that which was the Hall be converted to a Cowhouſe, Stable, Kitchin, or the like, he is not tied to cover it, for the Lord by his act cannot alter the nature of the tenure, nor of the ſervice which the Tenant ought to do: And in this Caſe here, it may be more beneficial to him who made the firſt grant, and to others which have his eſtate to have them Fulling mills, than Corn mills. For perhaps they have have Corn mills so near, that the building of Corn mills shall be prejudicial to them; and it shall be against reason to extend a grant or prescription to have a watercourse to Fulling mills, to Corn mills, which is not within the purport or intention of the grant or prescription, and the grant or prescription ought to be pursued: If a man holdeth of another as of his Mannor by Homage, Fealty and Castle gard the Lord alieneth the Mannor except the Castle, the alienee shall not have Castle gard, as it appeareth by 31 E. 3. Assise 441. And it was said, that there the alienee cannot build a new Castle, for the tenure was to keep the old Castle.

Another Objection was made, that because that the Plaintiff himself hath broken and abated the Fulling mills, although that he build new mills in the same place, and of the same nature as the old were, yet he hath destroyed his prescription; for although that in Case when mills or houses have watercourse, or Estovers, or the like things appendant or appurtenant to them be overthrown by the wind, or burned by wildfire, or fall by any other act of God, that if the owner rebuild them in the same place, and in the same manner as they stood before, that they shall have the same ancient things appendants or appurtenants to this new mill or house, because the act of God shall not prejudice any one; yet if they be erased by the party himself, or fall through his default, the ancient dependants thereby are lost; for by his own act he cannot extend the prescription or grant which was in a manner appropriated to the old house, to a new house: So it was objected, that if one of his own wrong burn or overthrow the house or mill [87] which hath such appurtenances, he shall recover all in damages; and although in such Case he build the house or mill again, yet he shall not have the appendancies; vide Perkins 128. b. But it was resolved, That the prescription did extend to the new Grist mills, for it appeareth by the Register, and also by Fitz N. B. That if a man be to demand a Grist mill, Fulling mill, or any other mill, the Writ shall be general, de uno molendino, without any addition of Grist or Fulling 21 Ass. 23. agreeth of a plaint in Assise. So that the mill is the substance, and thing to be demanded, and the addition of Grist, or Fulling, are but to shew the quality or nature of the mill: And therefore if the Plaintiff had prescribed to have the said watercourse to his mill generally (as he well might) then the Case shall be without question, that he may alter the mill into what nature of a mill he will, provided always that no prejudice may thereby arise, either by diverting or stopping of the water as it was before; And it shall be intended that the grant to have the watercourse was before the building of the mills, for no body will build a mill before he be sure to have water; and then the grant of a watercourse being generally to his mill, he may alter the quality of the mill at his pleasure, as is aforesaid: So if a man hath Estovers either by grant or prescription to his house, although he alter the rooms and chambers of his house, as to make a Parlour where it was the Hall, or the Hall where the Parlour was, and the like alterations of qualities, and not of the house it self, and without making chimneys by which no prejudice doth accrue to the owner of the wood, it is not any destroying of the prescription, for then many prescriptions shall be destroyed. And although that he bild new chimneys, or maketh a new addition to his old house, by that he shall not lose his prescription, but he cannot imploy or spend any of the Estovers in the new chimneys, or in the part newly added; The same Law of conduits and water-pipes and the like.

So if a man have an old window to his Hall, and afterwards he turn the Hall to a Parlour or any other use, yet it is not lawful for his neighbour to stop it, for he shall prescribe to have the light in such part of his house: And although that in this Case the Plaintiff hath made a question, for as much as he hath not prescribed generally to have the said watercourse to his mills generall; yet for as much as in general the mill was the substance, and the addition doth demonstrate only the quality, and the alteration was not of the substance but only of the quality, or of the name of the mill, and that without any prejudice in the watercourse to the owner thereof; for these causes it was resolved, That the prescription did remain: If a Corporation have Franchises or Privileges by grant or prescription, and afterwards they [b] are incorporate by another name, as where they were Bailiffs and Burghesses before, they are made Mayor and Comminalty; or Prior and Covent before, and afterwards are translated into a Dean and Chapter, although in these Cases the name and quality of their Corporation be altered and changed, and chiefly in the Case of Prior or Covent, for of regular who are dead persons in Law they are made secular; yet the new Body shall have all the franchises, privileges and hereditaments which the old Corporation or Body politick had either by grant or by prescription, for no person shall be prejudiced thereby. Vide 14 H. 6. 12. 37 Ass. 6. 38 Ass. 22. 39 H. 6. 15.

Another reason was added, That when a man hath any thing appendant or appurtenant to a house or mill, the most perdurable part thereof is the land in which the foundation is, and upon which all the building of them doth consist; and in respect thereof, by grant of all lands, all his houses, mills and woods will pass. And so it was resolved, as Popham chief Justice said, by Wray and Dier chief Justices, upon conference had with divers other Justices in a Case referred to the said chief Justices. For in a Præcipe, where a house, mill or wood is demanded, the warrant of Attorney is in placito terræ: And in the Case of voucher, when Judgment is given for the tenant to have in value against the vouchee, the Judgment is Quod habeat de terris of the vouchee ad valentiam, yet thereby he shall have houses, mills, woods, &c. And in special Cases by Recovery of lands, a man shall recover houses, as it is holden by some in 4 E. 3. 161. 6 E. 3. 238. 2 E. 3. 37. Plow. Comm. 168. & 377. 28 H. 8. Dier 47. and therewith agreeth the Civil Law; for appellatione fundi, omne ædificium & omnis ager continetur: Then the prescription or grant shall respect the most perdurable part, and which in Judgment of Law includeth the whole. And therefore it was resolved, That although that the house or mill falleth by the act or default of the owner, or by another wrong, yet for as much as the perdurable part which includeth all the rest doth continue, he may rebuild the same without any loss of any appendant or appurtenant to it, but it ought to be upon the same place which maketh the old foundation of the old house: For as the same doth support, and in Judgment of Law include the old house when it stood, so it shall support and include the new house, and so in a manner a continuance of the old house; And so the Quære which

Perkins

Perkins made, fol. 128. well resolved. And so it was said in all the Cases of Estovers and Tenures [88] aforesaid, when the alteration, or quality, or name of part of the house, doth not bring in any prejudice to the Terre-tenant the Estovers and services continue.

And note Reader a Case Reported by Serjeant Bendloes, Mich. 3. H. 8. Rot. 649. in the Common Pleas, in a Replevin brought by Sir William Capel against Robert Apprice and others, of taking of four horses in a place called old Hadham Park in little Hadham in the County of Hertford; The Defendants made conusans as Bayliffs to Richard Bishop of London, because that Sir Thomas Brand Knight was seised of the Manor of little Hadham in fee, whereof the place where, &c. was parcel, and held the same of the Bishop of London, ut de Castro suo de Stortford in Com' præd', per homagium, fidelitatem, & ad scutagium domini Regis xl. s. cum acciderit, & ad plus, plus, & ad minus, minus, & per redditum v. s. pro Ward' Castri præd' ad festum sancti Michaelis Archangeli annuatim solvend', ac per redditum xiii s. iv d. pro auxilio vicecom' at four feasts of the year; And for 15 s. for Castle gard behind for three years, &c. he avowed the taking of one of the said four horses, and for 40 s. for aid of the Sheriff behind also for three years, they did avow also the taking of three other of the horses. And the Plaintiff in bar of the Avowry as to the taking of the horse for Castle gard, said, That before the beginning of the said three years, Castrum præd. funditus corruit & penitus in decasum extitit & adhuc existit, & hoc paratus est verificare, unde petit judicium si præd' Rich. Apprice, &c. pro aliquo redditu pro Wardo Castri præd' sic obruti & penitus in decasum exist', capt' præd' unius equi justam cognoscere debet, &c. Upon which it was demurred in Law, and as to the aid of the Sheriff it was also demurred in Law: And in this Case it was resolved, That although the Castle be fallen down and decayed, yet the rent did remain. For when the Tenant holdeth of the Lord to ward or repair the Lords Castle, and afterwards such service (as Littleton saith in the Case of Socage) was in ancient time changed by mutual assent of the Lord and Tenant into an annual rent, yet it is said, That such rent is paid pro wardo Castri, that is, in satisfaction wardi Castri; for in this Case and the like (pro) signifieth full and perpetual recompence and satisfaction, and not conditional, or satisfaction temporary, scil. for a time, so that the Lord may have the Castle ward when he will, for the seisin of the rent is not seisin of the Castle gard in such Case: But if the Tenant holdeth to gard the Castle of the Lord, and the Castle falleth, the service is suspended untill it be reedified, but then the tenure shall not be in such Case alledged to be by the rent, but by the Castle gard, and the avowry shall not be made as in the Case at Bar it is for the rent, but for the Castle gard: See Lit. 26. b. that if a man hold his land by cer-
[b] tain rent for Castle gard, Littleton saith, that such tenure is tenure in Socage which cannot be if the Castle gard remain, for then the tenure shall be by Knights service, for Littleton saith, That where the tenant ought by himself or by another to do Castle gard, that such a tenure is a tenure by Knights service; so the difference between rent for Castle gard, and service to gard the Castle. The same Law if the Tenant holdeth of his Lord by certain rent for work days, or any other service. And Sir William Capel the Plaintiff perceiving the opinion of the Court to be against him in both the Points, was Nonsuit: And both the said rents as the Serjeant Reporteth are paid to this day.

And when a man holdeth of another in Socage, or otherwise as of his Castle and afterwards the Castle falleth, and is utterly ruinated, yet the tenure doth remain: For it is to know, That when any tenure is of any person as of a Castle, in such Castle the Castle doth include in it self a Mannor, for Castrum as a Manner est nomen generale & collectivum, and may include in it self divers things, scil. demeans and services, &c. 5 H. 7. 9. Land may be parcel of a Castle, vide 29 H. 6. Travers 4. That a Hundred may be as well parcel of a Castle as it may be of a Mannor, as it is holden in 8 H. 7. 1. And therefore when a tenure is of any one as of his Castle (which always in such Case includeth a Mannor) although that the Castle be ruinated, yet the tenure without question doth remain: Vide 19 E. 2. Ass. 399. Divers tenants held of another as of his Mannor by fealty and suit to the Lords Mill, the Lord alienated the mill, with the suit of the tenants, and afterwards the vendor died, and his son entred, and conceiving that the tenants who held of his Mannor could not do suit to him who had not a Mannor, of himself made a new mill elsewhere upon parcel of the demesns, and had the suit to his own mill which the vendee ought to have had; for no man can have suit to his mill by reason of tenure if it were not of corn growing in certain land which is within his Mannor. Vide 17 E. 3. 97. 29 E. 3. 12. 16 E. 3. Avowry 92. And by the said Case it appeareth, that although that the ancient mill be aliened, or if it fall down, the Lord may erect a new mill in any other place within his Mannor, for the tenure in such Case is to do suit to the Lords mill generally, and not to any particular mill: Note well all these differences.

Another Error was assigned because that the prescription was that magna pars aquæ cujusdam rivuli, &c. and that was incertain how much of the water shall be comprehended within these words, magna pars aquæ; and declarations, and specially in Actions upon the Case, ought to be certain, and the whole Case ought to be shewed in certain, and if the truth be that if one River before it cometh to the mills divideth [89] it self into two branches, whereof one only runneth to the mills, the better form were to prescribe to have aquæ cursum to the said mills, for every of the said branches is aquæ cursus; Quod fuit concessum as to this Point; but it was resolved, that although the Declaration might have been in better form, yet in substance it was well, for it was not possible to shew how much water runneth to mills, and the quantity of the water is not material, for as much as the Defendant by the breaking of the bank, turned the water which ran to the said mills, Vide 8. El. Dier 248. b. where in an Action upon the Case the Plaintiff declared that the Defendant divertit multum cursus aquæ: and another president is there cited between Wikes and Serle; That an Assise of Nusans was brought pro diversione majoris partis cursus aquæ, by which the Judgment by Sir John Popham chief Justice and his Companions Justices of the Kings Bench was affirmed. Note this Case, that it was adjudged by both the Courts.

Trin. 43 Eliz.

Drurie's Caſe.

DRury brought a Writ of Error upon a Judgment given in the Common Pleas in a Quare impedit brought by the Queen, where the Caſe was; A Counteſs being a Widow did retain two Chaplains, and afterwards did retain a third, which third firſt purchaced Diſpenſation to have two Benefices with Cure, and accordingly was advanced to two with Cure, whereof the firſt was above the value of 8 l. And if it were lawfully qualified within the Statute of 21 H. 8. was the queſtion in the Common Pleas: For if he were lawfully qualified, then the firſt Benefice by the taking of the ſecond was not void: and ſo by conſequence no title to preſent for Laps came to the Queen; And by the pleading it doth not appear that the two firſt Chaplains were living when the third was advanced, for it was averred only that the two were alive at the time when the third was retained, upon which great Queſtion did ariſe in the Kings Bench: And it was reſolved in the Common Pleas, That title to preſent for Laps was devolved to the Queen, and therefore Judgment was given there accordingly. And after many Arguments at Bar and Bench upon the Writ of Error; the Judgment given in the Common Pleas was affirmed. And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved. [b]

1. When the Counteſs retained two Chaplains, theſe two are only capable of Diſpenſation according to the ſaid Act of 21 H. 8. by which it is provided, That every Counteſs being a Widow may have two Chaplains, whereof every one may purchace Licence or Diſpenſation, &c. Then when ſhe retaineth two, the Statute is executed, and the retainer of the third cannot deveſt the capacity of Diſpenſation which was by their retainer in the firſt two: For although that the Counteſs might have as many Chaplains as ſhe would at the Common Law, yet ſhe cannot have more than two capable of Diſpenſation by force of the Statute; and reaſon requireth that he who hath ſerved longeſt ſhould be firſt preferred, & qui prior eſt tempore, potior eſt jure. And ſo this Point hath been now four times adjudged: 1. In the Common Pleas, Paſch. 31 Eliz. Rot. 724. in a Quare Impedit between the Queen and the Biſhop of Lincoln, the Preſident of Maudlin Colledge, and John Skuffling Clark. 2. In the Lady S. John's Caſe. 3. In this very Caſe in the Common Pleas; and 4. now in the Kings Bench, vide Dier 312. the opinion of Catlyn, Saunders and Dier If a Lord who is not allowed but three Chaplains retain ſix by his Letters teſtimonial, and all ſix are preſented to ſix ſeveral Pluralities, the three who are firſt promoted are warranted by the Statute, and yet the retainer was not according to the Statute, but in æquali jure melior eſt conditio poſſidentis. [90]

2. It was reſolved, That when the firſt two were retained according to the Statute, and thereby the Statute executed as aforeſaid, the retainer of the third although it were good at the Common Law, yet it was void to give him capacity to purchaſe Diſpenſation within the Statute, and therefore although that the other two were dead before the advancement of the third, yet for as much as they were alive at the time of his retainer, which retainer was at the Common Law, and not according to the Statute, therefore he ought to have a new retainer after their death and before his advancement, for quod ab initio non valet, in tractu temporis non convaleſcet; As if the ſon and heir apparent of a Baron retain a Chaplain, and giue unto him his Letters under his hand and ſeal; and afterwards his father dieth, and this Chaplain purchaſeth Diſpenſation, this retainer and theſe Letters Patents wall not ſerve him, becauſe they were not available at the beginning: And if a Baron retaineth two Chaplains according to the Statute, and they purchace Diſpenſation, and are advanced according to the Statute, now if the Lord diſchargeth one of them of his ſervice he cannot retain another during his life, for then by ſuch means he might advance infinite Chaplains without number, by which the Statute ſhall be defrauded, for the Statute limiteth him to three only to have benefit of the Act. And ſo was it adjudged in the Common Pleas, Paſch. 28 Eliz. Rot. 1130. in a Quare Impedit between the Queen and the Biſhop of Gloceſter and Edward Savacre, and affirmed by a Writ of Error in the Kings Bench; And it was ſaid, That the ſaid Act of 21 H. 8. ſhall be taken ſtrictly againſt Pluralities; And therefore it hath been holden, That if a Baron who by the Statute may retain three Chaplains, be made Warden of the Cinque Ports, who may have a Chaplain in reſpect of his Office, yet he ſhall have but three. And ſo if a Baron have three, and be made an Earl, yet he ſhall have but five in all, & ſic de cæteris. [b]

Tanfield and others were of Council with the Plaintiff in the Writ of Error, and the Attorney and others with the Defendant.

Trin. 44 Eliz.

Slade's Caſe.

[92. b] John Slade brought an Action upon the Caſe in the Kings Bench againſt Humfrey Morley, (which plea began Hill. 38 Eliz. Rot. 305.) And declared, that where the Plaintiff 10 Nov. 36 Eliz. was poſſeſſed of a Cloſe of land in Halberton in the County of Devon called Rack Park, containing by eſtimation 8 acres for term of divers years then and yet to come, and ſo poſſeſſed, the Plaintiff the ſaid 10 Nov. the ſaid Cloſe aforeſaid ſowed with Wheat and Rie, which Wheat and Rie 8 Maii, 37 Eliz. were grown into Ears: The Defendant in conſideration that the Plaintiff at the ſpecial inſtance and requeſt of the ſaid Humf. bargained and ſold to him the ſaid blades of Wheat and Rie growing upon the ſaid Cloſe (the tithes due to the Parſon, &c. expected) did aſſume and promiſe to the Plaintiff to pay to him 16l. at the Feaſt of S. John Baptiſt then next to come; and for not payment thereof at the ſaid Feaſt of S. John Baptiſt the Plaintiff brought the Action; The Defendant pleaded Non aſſumpſit modo & forma; and upon trial of this iſſue the Jurors gave a ſpecial Verdict, ſcil. That the Defendant bought of the Plaintiff the Wheat and Rie in blades growing upon the ſaid Cloſe as is aforeſaid, prout in the Declaration is alledged. And further found, that between the Plaintiff and Defendant, there was no other promiſe or aſſumption but only the ſaid bargain: And againſt the maintenance of this Action divers Objections were made by John Dodridge of Council with the Defendant.

1. That the Plaintiff upon this bargain may have ordinary remedy by Action of Debt which is an Action formed in the Regiſter, and therefore he ſhall not have an Action upon the Caſe which is an extraordinary Action, and not limited within any certain form in the Regiſter; for ubi ceſſat remedium ordinarium, ibi decurritur ad extraordinarium, as it appeareth by all our Books; Et nullus debet agere actione de dolo, ubi alia actio ſubeſt.

[93] The ſecond Objection was that the maintenance of this Action doth take away the Defendants benefit of Wager of Law, and ſo bereaveth him of the benefit which the Law hath given him as his birthright. For peradventure the Defendant hath paid or ſatisfied the Plaintiff in private betwixt them, of which payment and ſatisfaction he hath not any witneſs, and therefore it ſhould be miſchievous if he ſhall not wage his Law in this Caſe. And that was the cauſe (as was ſaid) that debts by ſimple contract ſhall not be forfeited to the King by outlawry or attainder, becauſe that then by the Kings Prerogative the Subject ſhould be ouſted of his wager of Law which is his birthright as it is holden in 49 E. 3. 5. 50 Aſſ. 1. 16 4. 4. & 9 Eliz. Dier 262. And if the King ſhall loſe the forfeiture and the debt in ſuch Caſe, and the debtor by Judgment of the Law ſhall be rather diſcharged of his debt, before he ſhall be deprived of the benefit which the Law hath given to him for his diſcharge, although that in truth the debt were due and payable; a fortiori in the Caſe at Bar, the Defendant ſhall not be charged in an Action in which he ſhall be ouſted of his Law when he may charge him in an Action of debt, in which he may have the benefit thereof.

And as to theſe Objections, the Courts of Kings Bench and Common Pleas were divided; for the Juſtices of the Kings Bench held that the Action (notwithſtanding ſuch Objections) was maintenable. And the Court of Common Pleas held the contrary. And for the honour of the Law, and the quiet of the Subject in the appeaſing of ſuch diverſity of opinions (Quia nihil in lege intolerabilius eſt eandem rem diverſo jure cenſeri) the Caſe was openly argued before all the Juſtices of England, and Barons of the Exchequer, ſcil. Sir John Popham Knight chief Juſtice of England, Sir Edmund Anderſon Knight chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Sir William Periam chief Baron of the Exchequer, Clark, Gawdy, Walmeſley, Fenner, Kingſmill, Savile, Warberton, and Yelverton in the Exchequer Chamber, by the Queens Attorney for the Plaintiff, and by John Dodridge for the Defendant; and at another time the Caſe was argued at Serjeants Inn before all the ſaid Juſtices and Barons by the Attorney General for the Plaintiff, and Francis Bacon for the Defendant; and after many conferences between the Judges and Barons, it was reſolved, That the Action was maintenable, and that the Plaintiff ſhould have Judgment. And in this Caſe theſe Points were reſolved.

1. That although an Action of debt lieth upon the contract, yet the bargainor may have his Action of debt, or Action upon the Caſe at his election, and that for three reaſons or cauſes. 1. in reſpect of the infinite preſidents (which George Kempe Eſquire Secundary of the Prothonotaries of the Kings Bench ſhewed to me) as well in the Court of Common Pleas as in the Kings Bench, in the reigns of King H. 6.
[b] E. 4. H. 4. & H. 8. by which it appeareth, That the Plaintiffs declared that the Defendants in conſideration of a ſale to them made of certain goods, did promiſe to pay ſo much money, &c. in which Caſes the Plaintiffs had Judgment. To which preſidents and Judgments being of ſo great number, in ſo many ſucceſſions of ages, and in the ſeveral times of ſo many reverend Judges, the Juſtices in this Caſe gave great regard: and ſo the Juſtices in ancient times, and from time to time did as well in matters of form as in deciding of doubts and queſtions as well at the Common Law, as in conſtruction of Acts of Parliament: And therefore in 11 E. 3. Formedon 32. it is holden, That the ancient forms and manner of preſidents are to be maintained and kept; and in 34 Aſſ. 7. that which hath not been according to uſage ſhall not be ſuffered: In 39 H. 6. 30. the opinion of Priſot and all the Court was, That in a Writ of meſn the Plaintiff ought to ſurmiſe the tenure between the Lord paramount and the meſn, as well as between the meſn and the tenant, and ſhew there divers reaſons and cauſes of their opinions; But when when the Justices were informed by the Prothonotories, that the Book called les Tales, contained the form that had always in such Cases been used; the Book saith, That the Justices resolved, that they would not change the usage notwithstanding that their opinion was to the contrary; and according to the presidents they awarded the Declaration good 4 E. 4. 44. In a Writ of Error brought by John Paston to reverse an outlawry against him, he did not surmise in the Writ at whose suit he was outlawed, and all the Justices said that that was a strange Writ, and no certainty supposed thereby; for by the Writ it did not appear whether he were outlawed at the suit of the party, or at the Kings suit, or in what suit, or for what thing; and it might be that he was outlawed for felony, debt, trespass, accompt or fine to the King; But when the Court was informed that the ancient form was such, then they changed their opinions and awarded the Writ good. And resolved, that common course maketh a Law, although that now as there it was said, perhaps reason willeth the contrary: But there the Justices said, We cannot change the Law now, for that shall be inconvenient. And therewith agreeth L. 5. E. 4. 1. where it is said, That the course of a Court maketh a Law: Vide 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. 120. the Statute of West. 2. cap. 12. Quod Justic' coram quibus formatum erit appellum & terminat', shall enquire of damages where the Defendant is acquitted, yet presidents expound the Law against the expres letter, scil. That Justices of Nisi prius (before whom the appeal was not began) shall do it; And many others to this effect are in our Books: But for as much as presidents are not always allowable, for in our Books the Judges reject some presidents, see a notable Case in L. 5 E. 4. 110. for certain rules and differences in this matter; there it is agreed, That where a question was of a retorn of an Assise, and two or three presidents were shewed, which agreed with the said retorn; and the Justices said, that two or three presidents do not make a Law or custom, especially when there are here in Court 40 and more pre- [94] sidents to the contrary; but if there were no president to the contrary it were another matter, if not that the Court do adjudge it against reason, and then it shall be amended, for perhaps the presidents passed without challenge of the party, or debate of the Justices, as then (as it is there recited) of late it was in a Writ of Error for reversing of an outlawry in the County of Lancaster, and the Error was because the Sheriff retorned, That ad Com' Lancastriæ tent' ibid', &c. where it should be, ad Com' Lancastriæ tent' apud Lancastr', or other certain place to which this word (ibidem) shall have relation; and although that there were shewed 100 presidents according to the said retorn, yet the outlawry was reversed: So in divers Cases presidents do not make a Law; and therefore it was said by the Justices to the parties, That he who will have advantage of presidents ought to search for them at his peril, and for his speed, for the Court will not search for them; for if none, or no usual presidents are not shewn, the Court ought to Judge according to Law and reason.

Out of which Book, 1. It is to be observed, that two or three or such small number of presidents do not Make a Law against the generality of presidents in such Case.

2. That the retorn of Sheriffs or Entries of Clarks without challenge of the party, or consideration of the Court being against Common Law and reason, are not allowable: But when the presidents are Judicial, scil. where the Justices by divers successions of ages have given judgment in Actions there brought, it shall be intended that some of Council with the Defendant, or some of the Justices before whom the Action was tried, and the Record read would have excepted against it, if in their Judgment the Action was not maintenable: but in Case of return of an Outlawry, or entries of Clarks, the Records pass in silence, and without exception of the parties, and therefore are not so authentical as Judgments upon demurrers or verdicts; and therefore in such Cases, Multitudo errantium non parit errori patrocinium, if such retorns or entries of Clarks and Officers be clearly in the opinion of the Justices against Law and reason: So in the Case at Bar it was resolved, That the multitude of the said Judicial presidents in so many successions of ages well prove that in the Case at Bar the Action was maintenable. [b]

The second cause of their Resolutions was divers Judgments and Cases resolved in our Books where such Actions upon the Case upon Assumpsit hath been maintenable, when the party might have have had an Action of debt, 21 H. 6. 55. b. 12 E. 4. 13. 13 H. 7. 26. 20. H. 7. 4. b. & 20 H. 7. 8. b. which Case was adjudged as Fitz. James citeth it, 22 H. 8. Dier 22. b. 27 H. 8. 24. & 25. in Tatam's Case, Norwood and Read's Case adjudged Plowden's Comm. 180.

3. It was resolved, That every contract executory importeth in it self an Assumpsit, for when one agreeth to pay mony, or to deliver any thing, thereby he promiseth to pay, or deliver it; and therefore when one selleth any goods to another, and agreeth to deliver them at a day to come, and the other in consideration thereof promiseth to pay so much mony to the other, in this Case both parties may have an Action of debt, or an Action upon the Case upon Assumpsit, for the mutual executory agreement of both parties importeth in it self reciprocal Action upon the Case, as well as Action of debt, and therewith agreeth the Judgment in Read and Norwood's Case in Plow. Comm. 128.

4. It was resolved, That the Plaintiff in this Action upon the Case upon Assumpsit shall not recover only damages for the special loss (if any be) which he hath, but also for the whole debt, so that the recovery or bar in this Action shall be a good bar in an Action of debt brought upon the same contract; so via versa, recovery or bar in an Action of debt is a good bar in an Action upon the Case upon Assumpsit, Vide 12 E. 4. 13. a. 2 R. 3. 14. 33 H. 8. Action sur le Case Br. 105.

5. In some Cases it shall be mischievous, if an Action of debt shall be only brought, and not an Action upon the Case, as in the Case between Redman and Peck, 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Dier 113. They bargain together that for a certain consideration Redman shall deliver unto Peck 20 Quarters of Barley yearly during his life, and for not delivery in one year it is adjudged that an Action well lieth, for otherwise it shall be mischievous to Peck, for if he shall be driven to his Action of debt, then he himself shall never have it, but his Executors or Administrators, for debt doth not lie in such Case till all the days be incurred, and that shall be contrary to the bargain and intent of the parties, for Peck doth provide it yearly for his necessary use: So 5 Ma. Br. Action sur le Case 108. that if a sum be given in marriage to be paid at ſeveral days, an Action upon the Caſe lieth for non payment at the firſt day, but no Action of debt lieth in ſuch Caſe till all the days are paſt. Alſo it is good in theſe days in as many Caſes as may be done in the Law, to ouſt the Defendant of his Law, and to try the ſame by the Country, for otherwiſe it ſhall be a great occaſion of Perjury.

6. It was ſaid, That an Action upon the Caſe upon Aſſumpſit is as well a formed Action and contained in the Regiſter, as an Action of debt, for there is its form. Alſo it appeareth in divers other Caſes in the Regiſter, That an Action upon the Caſe will lie, although the Plaintiff may have another formed Action in the Regiſter, F. N. B. 94. g. & Regiſter 103. b. If a man hath a Mannor within any Honour, and hath a Leet within his Mannor of his Tenants, if he or his Tenants are diſtrained by the Lord of the Honour to come to the Leet of the Honour, he who is ſo diſtrained may have a general Action of Treſpaſs, [95] or a ſpecial Writ upon his Caſe: So if any Officer take toll of him who ought to be quit of toll, he ſhall have a general Action of treſpaſs, or an Action upon the Caſe, as appeareth by Fitz. ibid. 94. And if a Prior or other Prelate be riding in his journey, and one diſtraineth his horſe upon which he rideth when he may diſtrain other goods, he may have a general action of Treſpaſs or an Action upon the Caſe, as appeareth in the Regiſter 100. & F. N. B. 93. H. If the Sheriff ſuffer one in Execution upon the Statute Merchant to eſcape, the conuſee may have an Action of debt, or an Action upon the Caſe, as appeareth by the Regiſter 98 b. & F. N. B. 93. B. C. So if a man put the Executors of leſſee for years out of their term, they may have a ſpecial Writ upon their Caſe, as appeareth F. N. B. 92. & Regiſter 97. and yet he may have an Ejectionr firmæ, or Treſpaſs. And therefore it was concluded that in all Caſes when the Regiſter hath two Writs for one Caſe, it is in the parties election to take which Writ he will: But the Regiſter hath two ſeveral Actions, Action upon the Caſe upon Aſſumpſit, and alſo an Action of debt, and therefore the party may elect the one or the other.

And as to the Objection which hath been made, that it ſhall be miſchievous to the Defendant that he ſhall not wage his Law, for as much as he may pay it in ſecret: To that it was anſwered, That it ſhall be accounted his folly that he took not ſufficient witneſſes to prove the payment he made; But the miſchief ſhall be rather on the other part, for now experience proves that mens conſciences grow ſo large, that the reſpect of their private commodity induceth men (and chiefly thoſe who have declining eſtates) to perjury; for Jurare in propria cauſa (as one ſaith) eſt ſæpenumero hoc ſeculo præcipitium diaboli ad deſtruendas miſerorum animas ad infernum: And therefore in debt, or any Action where Wager of Law is admitted, the Judges do not admit him to it without good warning, and due examination of the party. And as to the Caſe which was cited, That debts or duties due by ſingle contract where the party may wage his Law ſhall not be forfeit by utlagary, becauſe the debtor thereby ſhall be ouſted of his Law; To that it was anſwered by the Attorny General, that in ſuch Caſes by Law debts or duties ſhall be forfeit to the King, and ſo are the better opinions of the Books, ſcil. 3 E. 3. Corone 343. 19 E. 2. Avowry 223. If the tenant of a Prior alien be amerced for want of a ſuit at a Court Baron, and the King ſeiſeth the temporalties of the Prior alien, yet in an Action of debt brought for the ſame by the Prior alien, he ſhall wage his Law, as it was adjudged 6 E. 6. in Serjeant Bendloe's Reports, 28 E. 3. 92. in Accompt, and Stamford Pleas of the Crown 188. and infinite preſidents in all ages in the Exchequer, which I have ſeen approve it. And ſo it was of late reſolved in the Exchequer, and ſo it was holden in this Caſe of Popham, Anderſon, and all the other Ju-
[b] ſtices with whom I have conferred againſt the ſudden opinions in 49 E. 3. 5. 50 Aſſ. 1. 16 E. 4. 4. & 9 Eliz. Dier 262. and ſo have you a doubt in our Books well reſolved.

And note Reader, that in every Quo minus brought by the Kings debtor in the Exchequer againſt one who is indebted to him upon a ſimple contract, the Defendant ſhall not have his Law, for the benefit of the King, as appeareth in 8 H. 5. Ley. 66. 20 E. 3. Ley. 52. 10 H. 7. 6. and yet the King is not party, a fortiori when ſuch debt or duty is forfeit to the King, and the King is the ſole and immediate party: And note Reader, this Reſolution agreeth as to this point with the Judicial Law of God, upon which our Law is in this point grounded, for it appeareth by the 22 Chapter of Exodus ver. 7, 10, 11. If any man deliver to his neighbour money, &c. 10. If a man deliver unto his neighbour an aſs, or an oxe, or ſheep, or any beaſt to keep, and it die, or be hurt, or driven away, no man ſeeing it, then ſhall an oath of the Lord be between them both, that he hath not put his hands unto his neighbours goods, and the owner thereof ſhall accept thereof, and he ſhall not make it good. By which it appeareth, that it is in the election of the party, either to charge the Defendant by witneſſes if he will and to ouſt him of his Law, or to refer it to the Defendants oath. And the Text ſaith, Nulluſque hoc viderit, ſcil. if there be no witneſſes. So by our Law in the ſame Caſe put in the Text, the owner hath his election either to bring his Action upon which the Defendant cannot wage his Law, or an Action of debt in which he may. Et juſjurandum in hoc caſu eſt finis: for the Plaintiff is bound thereby, and it is the end of all controverſie. And I wonder in theſe days ſo little conſideration is had of an oath, as I daily obſerve; Cum jurare per Deum actus religionis ſit, quo Deus teſt' adhibetur tanquam is qui ſit omnium rerum maximus, &c.

Mich.

Mich. 44 & 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Adams and Lambert's Caſe.

IN an Ejectione firmæ between Adams and Lambert for lands in Buckingham within the County of Buckingham, upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jurors gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect; Joh. Barton was ſeiſed of the ſaid lands in fee, and made a feoffment in fee to perform his will; and afterwards by his will in writing deviſed the ſaid lands to J. Barton his younger Brother for his life, ſub conditionibus ſequentibus, viz. Quod idem Joh. durante vita ſua, inveniat unum Capellanum pro anima dicti J. Barton ſenioris, & aliorum in Eccleſia S. Petri in villa de Buck. quotidie celebratur': Et voluit quod præd' Joh. frater ſuus annuatim durante vita ſua perſolvat dicto Capellano in præd' Eccleſia pro ſuſtentat' ſua 6l. 13 s. 4 d. de exitibus & proven' tenementor' præd'. Et inſuper voluit quod dicti' Joh. frater ſuus durante vita ſua inveniat in vill' præd' 6. pauperes homines ſive fœminas ad orand' pro anima ſua & alior' in teſtimento præd' nominat' ſingulis diebus imperpetuum: & quod daret qualibet ſeptimana durante vita ſua cuilibet ipſorum pauper' 4 d. & etiam cuilibet ipſorum manſion' prout (Deo diſponente) pro eis conſtituit & ordinavit: Ac etiam quod idem Joh. frater ſuus tota vita ſua inveniet unum lampad' ardent' ſingulis diebus & noctibus cor' ſancto Rotwaldo in Eccleſia præd', prout modo inventus eſt & ſuſtentatus; Et quod idem J. frater ſuus durante vita ſua teneat ſeu teneri faciat Anniverſarium ſuum in Eccleſia præd', in quo quidem Anniverſario inveniet idem J. frater ſuus annuatim duos cereos nocte ad Dirige, & die ſequente ad Miſſ. unum ſcilicet ad caput, & alter' ad pedes ſepulturæ dicti teſtat' ardentes, quolibet cereo ponderant' tres lib. quibus exequiis completis, voluit quod totum id quod de dictis cereis reſid' fuerit, dimittat' & reman' altari S. Jacobi in Eccleſia præd ſuper candelabrum ibidem exiſtend', capell' cantar' ſuæ præd' ſingulis diebus feſtivis ad Miſſ. quamdiu durare poterit deſervitur': Et quod idem Jo. frater ſuus tota via ſua durant', inveniat annuat' unum torcherum competent' ad altare præd' deſervitur': Et voluit quod omnia præd' tenement' poſt mortem præd' Jo. fratris ſui integr' remanerent Marg. & Iſabel. ſororibus ſuis, ad vitam earum & earum alterius diutius viven'; ſub conditione quod eadem M. & I. earum vitarum durant' faciant perimpleri & obſervari omnia opera ſuperius limitat' in forma præd'. Et poſt mortem præd' Marg. & Iſabell. voluit quod omnia præd' tenement' remaneat Will. Fow. tenend' ſibi & hær' de corpore ſuo legitime procreat'; ſub conditione quod ipſi obſervant omnia & ſingula onera ſupraſcript' in forma antedicti' imperpet'; Et ſi contingat præd' W. Fow. ſine hær' de corpor' ſuo legitime procreatis obire, tunc omni a & ſingula præd' tenementa integre remaneant Jo. Somerton conſanguineo ſuo & hæred' de corpore ſuo legitime exeun', ſub conditione quod ipſi omnia & ſingula onera ſupr' in forma præd' perimpleant & obſervent imperpet': Et ſi ipſum I. Somerton abſque hær' de corpor' ſuo legitim' exeunt' obire contigerit, quod extunc omnia prædicta tenementa integre remanen' Wil. Purfrey & hær' ſuis de corpore ſuo legit' exeunt', ſub condic' quod idem W. & hær' ſui, faciant perimpleant & obſervent omnia & ſingula onera in forma præd' imperpet': remanere pro defectu hujuſmodi exit' Magiſtro domus S. Tho. Mart' de Acon' Lond. pro 40. ann. extunc prox' ſequen' & plenar' complend': Et poſt term' ill' finit. reman' Magiſt. hoſpital. S. Bar. Lond. & ſucceſſ. ſuis pro 40. ann. extunc prox' ſequen' & plenar' complend': Cuilibet eorum ſub condic', quod quilibet eorum Magiſtr. & ſucceſſ. ſuorum durante eorum term', faciant & perimpleant omnia & ſingula onera ſupralimatat' in forma ſupradicti': Et ſi contingat præd' I. fratrem ſuum durante vita ſua in perficiend' onera ſupradicti' deficere, ſeu ill' non perimplere, aut omnia prædicta tenementa durante vita ſua non competent' ſuſtentare & reparare, ſeu ea aut aliquam parcel' earund' alienare ſive ad parvum valor' ea dimittere in præjudic' cæter' perſonarum in remaner' ſuprad' nominat'; Quod extunc bene licebit præf. Ma. & Iſ. in prædicta tenementa cum pertinen' intrare, & ea retinere ut in reman' ſuo præd' abſque contradicti' alicujus, & quod extunc ſtatus præd' Jo. fratris ſui omnino ceſſat, & nullius ſit valoris: And the like condition or limitation of forfeiture is annexed to all the remainders in the ſame Will: and if all in remainder forfeit the ſaid tenements to remain to the ſaid John Barton the Teſtator and to his heirs for ever. Supportand', &c. Et quia hæc mea volunt' pro bono Animarum patris & matris meorum, pro anima etiam mea animabuſque fratrum, ſoror', parentum & benefacti' meor' edit' fuit, & ordinat'; Precor & onero præd' fratrem meum, prout pro me & ſe voluerit reſpondere, quod ipſe tota vita ſua diligenter ſupervideat gubernation' cantar' ſupradicti'; Et quod omnia ſupraſcr', & in hac mea ultima voluntate declarat' inviolabiliter perimpleant' & conſervent': Et quod notitiam faciat omnibus iis qui in reman' præd' ſtatum habebunt in dictis tenementis, ut ipſi cognoſcant tenor' & effect' teſtamenti & ultimæ meæ volunt'. Et volo quod feoffati mei de tenement' cum ſuis pert' quod mei pauperes homines modo inhabitant' quod eſt diviſibile, facient talem ſtatum poſt mortem meam omnibus illis ſupranominat', prout habeant ex meo legato de & in tenementis in Buck. prædicti', ad uſum præd' pauperum ibidem habitan', ſupportand' reparationes illius tenementi præd' pauper' quoties indigerit: Et quia dubito ne tenement' ſuprad' ſufficiant ad ſupportand' omnia præd' onera, cauſa grandi cuſtus reparationis eorundem, volo quod feoffati mei ſtatim poſt mortem meam faciant talem ſtatum omnibus illis ſupranominatis, de omnibus illis terris & tenementis meis in villis de Bourton, Moreton, Gavecot, cum præbend' Lembergh, Thornborough, Hilleſden, Waterſtratford, Shaldeſton & Foycote in Com' Buck. ac de omnibus illis terris & tenementis meis in Woreton in Com' Oxoniæ, ac de uno tenemento meo in villa Oxoniæ in quibus feoffati extiterunt, prout habent ex meo legato de & in tenementis in Buck. præd': Ita quod ſufficienter omnia onera præd' poſſint ſuſtentare, & etiam pro labore inde rationabiliter percipere & obtinere.

[104.b] [105] [b]

And this Caſe was often argued at the Bar, and afterwards it was openly argued in Court by Yelverton and Fenner Juſtices in one day, and by Gawdy and Popham chief Juſtices in another. And in this Caſe which extendeth to all the parts in effect of the body of the Statute of 1 E. 6. cap. 14.) theſe Points were reſolved.

1. Although that in this Caſe the land was deviſed to his brother for life, the remainder to his ſiſters, &c. between whom as was objected was apparent conſideration of nature, and every one by the Law of nature is bound to provide for his blood and poſterity in reaſonable manner; And although the deviſor hath limited what ſumms ſhall be employed upon the Chaplain, Obite, &c. by which his intent (as it was objected) appeareth to advance them of his blood (to whom he had deviſed the land) with the reſidue of the profits which remained, and whereof no diſpoſition was made by him, that by the Law the land being deviſed to them they ſhould take the ſurpluſage of the profits (of which no diſpoſition was made to their own uſe, and the apparent conſideration of advancement of his blood expreſſeth his intent, that after the Divine ſervices (as it was then thought) were performed thoſe of his blood ſhould be maintained and relieved with the reſidue, for which his blood ſhall have the land, and the Chaplains, &c. ſhould [106] have penſions, and ſo in reſpect of the perſons the land was not given to the King: Yet it was reſolved, That wives, ſons, daughters, ſiſters, couſins, and other dear friends, were perſons within this Act; for if men as well in their lives, as by their Teſtaments after their deaths, uſed to put and repoſe confidence in their kindred and dear friends, for their temporal goods, a multo fortiori when they intend to diſpoſe their poſſeſſions for the health of their ſouls (as it was then thought) they would convey them to them in whom they had the greateſt confidence: And in theſe Caſes of Divine ſervice concerning the health of the ſoul, ſhall not be intended to any advancement or preferment of his blood, or any other earthly conſideration, if it be not ſo declared by expreſs words; But all ſhall be intended for the advancement and continuance of the intents and purpoſes expreſſed, ſcil. Divine ſervices as things without all compariſon more worthy and preexcellent; and he who defraudeth ſuch truſt (the Divine ſervice being according to the Law of God) is by many degrees a greater offender than he who doth not perform any truſt or confidence concerning temporal things; for he who robbeth his ſoul committeth felony, and he who diſpoileth poor men of their living, is the greateſt thief by the Law of God, for Panis pauperum vita pauperum, & qui defraudat eos vir ſanguinis eſt: But he who taketh away any thing that is given for the Divine and true ſervice of God, eſt ſacrilegus, & omnium prædonum cupiditatem & ſcelera ſuperat: And although it appeareth by the preamble of the Act that the deviſing and phantaſing of the vain opinion of Purgatory and Maſſes ſatisfactory to be celebrated for thoſe who were dead, was great cauſe of ſuperſtition and error in Chriſtian Religion, &c. yet for as much as the deviſor and deviſees in the Caſe at Bar (as they were taught) were perſwaded that it was for Divine ſervice and the health of ſouls, it ſhall be intended that their intentions were to advance ſuch uſes, and not the private commodities of the deviſees: and therefore it was reſolved, That the perſon (be he of blood or not) ſingle, or corporate, or politick, to whom the land is deviſed or conveyed, is not to be reſpected, but all is one within the purview of this Act.

2. Although it was objected, That for as much as the land was deviſed for life the remainder in tail and a reverſion in fee expectant to the heirs of the deviſor was not deviſed; and the letter of the Act is To the finding of any Prieſt to have continuance for ever, upon which it was ſaid, that an eſtate for life and eſtate tail, which were eſtates limited and determinable, were not within the letter and intention of this Act, and ſo much the rather becauſe that the makers of the Act by the firſt branch have provided When a Prieſt was appointed to be found for ever; and by another ſubſequent branch, when he was to [b] be found for years, by which ſpecial and preciſe numbring of theſe two Caſes, the makers of the Act did intend to exclude eſtates in tail, and eſtates for life, ſo that eſtates in tail and for life are Caſus omiſſi as it was ſaid: Yet it was reſolved that eſtates in tail and eſtates for life were included by the equity and meaning within the former branch, for the intention and meaning of the Act as appeareth by the preamble was to extirpate out of mens minds theſe ſuperſtitious errors, and to take them utterly away, in what manner, or for what times they were given, and not to take them away only which were to have continuance for ever, and leave thoſe to have eſſence which were determinable and limited for a time: And for as much as the Statute by expreſs words doth abrogate and take away all ſuch ſuperſtitious uſes which were to have continuance for ever by equity and good conſtruction, the ſame extendeth to every leſs eſtate whatſoever. Alſo it was ſaid, that the Statute ſaith, by any manner of aſſurance, or conveyance &c. for ever. And by common poſſibility an eſtate tail may continue for ever. Alſo in this Caſe at Bar the intent of the deviſor was (as appeareth by his Will) that the Prieſt ſhall be found for ever, for he appointeth alſo his right heirs to find him: And if ſuch conſtruction ſhall not be made, the miſchief intended to be remedied by the Act ſhould remain againſt the intent and meaning of the Act: And in the clauſes of Obits, the words are, To have continuance for ever. And yet it was agreed in the Caſe of Winchester that an Obite being appointed to be found for 8 years, was included within the equity of the Act: So it was reſolved 22 Eliz. in the Dean of Paul's Caſe, That a Colledge or Chauntry in reputation, although that it wanteth ſufficient foundation and incorporation in Law was given to the King by the ſaid Act; and the reaſon was, becauſe the intent of the makers of the Act was to take away all ſuperſtition out of men's minds, and not to ſuffer any to have continuance; and ſuperſtition was maintained as well in reputative Chauntries, as in others; and yet it was not within the letter of the Act, for in Judgment of Law it was no Colledge, nor Chauntry; for Reputatio eſt vulgaris opinio ubi non eſt veritas. And this was reſolved as to eſtates deviſed to ſuperſtitious uſes within the purview of this Statute.

3. Where it was objected, That this deviſe of the land was not to the intent to find a Chauntry or Stipendary Prieſt, or to find a Prieſt as the Statute ſpeaketh; but was upon condition to find him, ſo that if the Prieſt be not found the eſtate doth ceaſe, and the third branch of the Act doth not ſpeak of any eſtate conditional, but only where the Prieſt was to be found for ever; and therefore an eſtate conditional ſhall be without the purview of the Act. It was anſwered and reſolved, That it was within the Act, for when the land is deviſed upon condition to find a Prieſt, without queſtion this land is deviſed, To the finding of a Prieſt, &c. as the Statute ſpeaketh. And it is a ſtronger Caſe where it is deviſed [107] upon condition, then where it is deviſed to the intent, or for the finding of a Prieſt, for the condition is more compulſory and penal for the maintenance of things prohibited by the Law. Note Reader, there is one Proviſo towards the end of the Act, by which it is provided, That it ſhall not be lawful to any perſon by reaſon of any reverſion, uſe or condition to enter, or claim any land for not finding of any Prieſt, or poor men, Obite, anniverſary, light or lamp after the ſaid Act to be found or made. By which it appeareth, that by the Judgment of the whole Parliament, that land given upon condition or other determination, and all eſtates whereof there were reverſions expectant, be they eſtate tails for life, or any other particular eſtate, were within the Act. And this was reſolved for the manner of conveyance or aſſurance of lands to ſuperſtitious uſes within this Act.

upon

4. It was reſolved, That all the land in this Caſe was given to the King by the ſaid Act, which was the principal point of the Caſe, and of great conſequence, and that for divers reaſons; for the better underſtanding of which, five of the firſt branches of the Act are to be conſidered. 1. Are given to the King, all manner of Colledges, free Chappels, and Chauntries, &c.

2. All mannors, lands, tenements, &c. belonging to them, or any of them.

3. All mannors, lands, tenements, &c. by any mean aſſurance, conveyance, &c. given, aſſigned, limited or appointed to the finding of any Prieſt to have continuance for ever, and wherewith or whereby any Prieſt was ſuſtained, maintained or found, within five years, &c.

4. Alſo all annual rents, profits and emoluments at any time within five years, &c. imployed, paid or beſtowed toward or for the maintenance or finding of any Stipendary Prieſt for ever.

5. Shall be in the actual and real poſſeſſion of the King, &c. in as large and ample manner and form, as the Prieſt, Wardens, Maſters, Miniſters, Governors, or other Incumbents of them within five years, &c. had occupied or enjoyed the ſame, and as though the Colledges, free Chappels, Chauntries, Stipends, Salaries of Prieſts, and the ſaid mannors, lands, &c. were in the Act ſpecially, particularly and certainly rehearſed, named and expreſſed by expreſs words, &c.

And the conſideration of every of theſe clauſes were requiſite for the deciding of this Point, for the true expoſition of one of them ſerveth well for the good underſtanding of the other: As to the firſt clauſe it was reſolved, That ſome of the Colledges, Chauntries, &c. which were not lawfully founded, but were only in reputation, were given to the King by the ſaid Act, and ſome not; and therefore this difference was agreed, That where the Colledge, Chauntry, &c. had ſuch beginning which may have a lawful foundation but for error or imperfection in the penning or proceeding of it, nor was in judgment of Law lawfully founded, ſuch Colledge or Chauntry is given to the King by the ſaid Act: But when there is a Colledge or Chauntry only in vulgar reputation, without any commencement or countenance of a lawful foundation, or erected by ſuch mean which cannot make a lawful foundation, there ſuch Colledge or Chauntry is not given to the King by this Act. [b]

Note Reader, the Rule is, Quod reputatio eſt vulgaris opinio ubi non eſt veritas, & vulgaris opinio eſt duplex; ſcil. Opinio vulgaris orta inter graves & diſcretos, & quæ vultum veritatis habet, & opinio tantum orta inter leves & vulgares homines abſque ſpecie veritatis: And accordingly to this diſtinction it hath been adjudged and reſolved by all the Juſtices upon this firſt branch of this Act: And therefore 6 & 7 E. 6. Dier 81. which was preſently after the making of this Act, the Caſe was, That Pope Urbane at the requeſt of Ralph Baron of Greyſtock founded a Colledge of a Maſter and ſix Prieſts reſident in Greyſtock, and aſſigned to each of the Prieſts 5 marks per ann. beſides their bed and Chamber, and the Maſter 40 l. per ann. and the ſame wes certified into the book of Firſt fruits and Tenths, Rectoriam & Collegium de Greyſtock, and this Colledge was in being five years before the ſaid Act; and it was reſolved by the Juſtices, That this reputative Colldge was not given to the King by the ſaid Act of 1 E. 6. becauſe that it wanted a lawful beginning and the countenance of a lawful commencement; for the Pope cannot found or incorporate a Colledge within this Realm, nor aſſign nor licence others to aſſign temporal livings to it, but it ought to be done by the King himſelf, and by no other, Nomen non ſufficit, ſi res non ſit de jure aut de facto, and it is as much as if one of his own head had erected and founded a Chauntry without licence or authority derived from the King: But Mich. 9. & 10 Eliz. Dier 267. where the Caſe was, That King E. 1. in the 12th year of his reign by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal granted to Tho. Beale then Biſhop of S. Davies and his Succeſſors, the Advowſon of 34 Churches in Wales within his Dioceſſes to hold of the King and his Succeſſors; ſo that the Biſhop and his Succeſſors might appropriate them, or any of them to their Church of S. Davies and Aberguelley, or make or annex Prebends of them in the ſaid Churches of S. Davies and Aberguelley, as to them ſhould ſeem moſt convenient; And three years after the Biſhop with the Kings aſſent (as the Biſhop in his Inſtrument affirmed of the Chapter of S. Davies) [108] erected and eſtabliſhed a Colledge, or Church Collegiate, Et quidquid celebratus Collegii depoſcit authoritat' ſua ſupplevit in Landwybreuy, being one of the 34 Churches, and ordained 13 Canons ſecular there, ſcil. 5 Prieſts, 4 Deacons, and 4 Subdeacons, and of them made Prebends and Prebendaries, and annexed and appropriated 13 of the ſaid Churches to them, &c. And reſerved to the Biſhop himſelf and his Succeſſors as Dean, Locum in choro, & vocem in Capitulo, and alſo Viſitation and Corrections, &c. In which the Biſhop did not purſue the authority and power given him by the ſaid Letters Patents, for by them reciting no power was given to found ſuch a Colledge; And afterward King E. 3. by his Letters Patents, doubt of the the ſaid foundation and erection of the ſaid Colledge, and all other the premiſſes with ſ[illegible] of S. Davies and validity thereof, by his ſaid Letters Patents granted and confirmed to the ſaid Biſ[illegible] of Mortmain, or any his Succeſſors, all that which his predeceſſor had done in the premiſſes, the Sta[illegible] and founded, and the ap- Statute notwithſtanding; and notwithſtanding the ſaid Colledge was ere[illegible] propriations made without the Kings licence; which grant and confirmation being made to the Biſhop and his Succeſſors, cannot make the ſaid Colledge (which want[illegible]awful erection and foundation) good in Law: And yet by the ſaid Letters Patents the ſaid Colle[illegible] of Landwybreuy continued a Colledge in Reputation until 1 E. 6. And it was reſolved by the J[illegible]ices of both Benches, That this Colledge was given given to the King by the Act of 1 E. 6. becauſe that this Colledge had the countenance of the Kings Letters Patents, although that they for the cauſes aforeſaid were not of any effect: And the Statute ſaith, All and all manner of Colledge, &c. And ſuch reputative Colledge is within the ſaid Act, and power is given to Commiſſioners by the ſaid Act to eſtabliſh a Vicar in every Colledge which was a Church Parochial: And ſo upon this difference concerning Reputations, it was reſolved in the Caſe of the Dean of Pauls, 22 Eliz. between Burton and Wilford by Wray chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court of Kings Bench, which Caſe is for other points ſhortly touched in 22 Eliz. Dier 368. And ſo in this Caſe at Bar it was reſolved, although that the deviſor name it his Chauntry twice in his Will, as it appeareth before; for he willed that the deviſee ſhould find two Tapers burning at his anniverſary, and that that which remaineth, the Chaplain of his ſaid Chauntry ſhould have: and afterwards chargeth the deviſee to overſee the Government of his ſaid Chauntry, and therefore it was commonly called Barton Chauntry; yet becauſe it had not any commencement or countenance of commencement of an erection and foundation of a Chauntry, theſe lands were not given to the King by the firſt branch of the ſaid Statute. [b]

And although in the proper words of Law a Chauntry may conſiſt of a Prieſt ſiging for ſouls (whereupon he is called a Chauntry Prieſt) without any incorporation, as appeareth by F. N. B. 209. L. and the Regiſter, That if a man giveth lands to a Religious houſe or other; to find a Chaplain ſinging Divine ſervice, if he ceaſeth for two years, the Lord ſhall have Ceſſavit pro Cantaria, and the Writ ſhall ſay, Ad inveniendum unum Canonicum pro animabus anteceſſorum, &c. divina celebrant. So in the Statute of Weſt. 2. c. 41. ſuch finding of a Chauntry Prieſt, is called a Chauntry, for there it is ſaid, Et ſi forte tenementum ſic datum pro Cantaria, Luminaria, &c. and yet there is not any Corporation of Chauntry: Although that in 40 Aſſ. 26. where a man deviſeth lands to H. C. and his heirs, to find yearly 12 marks, and two Chaplains to pray for ſouls, theſe are called Chauntry lands by Knevet chief Juſtice, 43 Aſſ. 27. yet within this firſt branch ſuch a Chauntry is only intended when the Chauntry is lawfully incorporated, or at leaſt hath the countenance, or beginning of a corporation, and that for divers cauſes as after appeareth: And ſo it was reſolved what manner of Chauntries, Colledges, &c. were given to the King by this Act, and what not.

As to the ſecond clauſe, it was reſolved; 1. That thoſe words were neceſſary to be added, for otherwiſe by the gift of a Colledge, Chauntry, or free Chappel, nothing ſhall be given to the King, but the ſcite of the Colledge, or Chauntry, or free Chappel, as is agreed in 9 Eliz. Dier 223. b. & 29 Aſſ. 53.

Secondly, this ſecond branch explaineth, that they ought to be incorporations in Law, or in Reputation as is aforeſaid, or otherwiſe land, &c. cannot belong to them: And when lands are deviſed to certain perſons (as in the Caſe at Bar) to find a Chaplain, the land doth not appertain to the Chaplain, but to the deviſees, and here the Chaplain hath but a penſion, and the deviſees have the lands.

As to the third branch, it was reſolved, That as the firſt branch extendeth only to Colledges and Chauntries, which are of ſome manner of incorporation or foundation as it is aforeſaid; So this third branch extendeth to Caſes, where lands are given to find a Prieſt without any foundation or incorporation: But it was objected, that in the Caſe at Bar in reſpect of the certainty of the ſumm appointed to the Prieſt, that it was out of this third branch, and within the 4 and 5 branches; for the third branch as was objected extendeth only when the land is given limited or appointed to the finding of a Prieſt to have continuance for ever: But in the Caſe at Bar nothing is limited or appointed to the Prieſt, but a certain ſtipend of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. pro ſuſtentatione ſua: And therefore it was ſaid, If lands of the value of 20 l. are given for to find a Prieſt, and that the Prieſt out of the iſſues and profits thereof, ſhall have 10 l. for his ſuſtentation; It was ſaid that this Caſe was out of the ſaid third branch, and within the expreſs letter of the fourth branch, for here is the yearly ſumm of 10 l. which is a yearly profit within five years imployed for the maintenance and finding of a ſtipendary Prieſt for ever; and in the Caſe at Bar he is a ſtipendary Prieſt becauſe his ſtipend was certain. But if lands of the value of 20 l. per ann. are given to find a Prieſt without any limitation in certain, and the feoffees imploy 10 l. certain upon him, yet it was there agreed, that all the land was given to the King, becauſe that the gift was directly within the third branch, and not within the fourth for the incertainty. [109]

Alſo it was objected, That the fifth clauſe doth greatly enforce this Caſe, for thereby it appeareth, that all that which the Prieſt had, the King ſhall have; In as large and ample manner and form as the Prieſt at any time within five years, &c. had occupied and enjoyed the ſame: And in this Caſe the Prieſt within the five years in any times before had not by the limitation aforeſaid, nor could have above the the ſumm of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. And to prove their pretence the Caſe of the Dean of Pauls, 22 Eliz. Dier 368. was cited: where the Caſe was, That the Executors of A. B. according to the Will of their Teſtator, ann. 6. E. 2. aſſigned and conveyed lands and tenements to the value of 14 l. per ann. to the Dean and Chapter of Pauls, to find a competent ſuſtentation yearly of 10 marks ſterling, for a Prieſt and his Clark to ſay Maſs every day for the Teſtators ſoul, and all Chriſtian ſouls in the Church of S. Paul; and Divine ſaid Dean and Chapter ought to find Bread, Wine, and Candles, and all other ornaments for the Obite for ſervice; and all the other profits of the premiſſes were aſſigned to be imployed for the yearly ſaid Teſtator in the ſaid Church; The Prieſt was maintained within five years, and had 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. per ann. but the Obite was not kept within the five years. And it was reſolved by the Juſtices of both Benches, and the Barons of the Exchequer, that the Queen ſhould not have more than the 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. and that for two reaſons.

1. Becauſe that the land was not belonging to any Chauntry, but appertained to the Dean and Chapter of Pauls: Alſo the words of the Statute are, That the King ſhall have the land or rent in tam amplis modo & forma, as the Prieſt himſelf had, and the Prieſt had not the land; and thoſe in effect are the words of the Book. [b]

The

The second Objection was, That in this Case there was a good use, scil. 4 d. by the week to six poor men a peiece, which is good and charitable; and although it be added, Ad orandum pro anima sua, & aliorum in testamento præd' nominat' in singulis diebus, yet for as much as it is not prohibited by any branch of the said Act, it is but surplusage, and is not any impediment to the good use: For if it shall be prohibited by any clause of the Act, it shall be by the first branch concerning Obits, scil. To the finding of any Anniversary, Obite, or other like thing, intent, or purpose. And it may be said, That this praying for souls by these poor men, is another like intent and purpose; But the conclusion of the sentence is, In any Church or Chappel to have continuance for ever: So that the intent of the Act was to prohibit all superstitious uses, which were published in Churches for the general prejudice which might come by them; for Malum quo communius eo pejus, and not to forbid private Prayers in their chambers, or other private places, which could not tend to so great example.

Then the Case is no other but, That land of the value of 20 l. per ann. is given to the intents following, scil. To find a Priest to pray for souls, and that he shall have 10 l. of the profits of the land, and 6 poor men 4 d. apeice a week for ever; In this Case, this good use (as it was strongly urged) shall save the land, and the King shall have but that which was limited to the Priest, scil. the 10 l. for it was not the intent of the Act to take away the good use, but that the land should remain with the feoffees to perform the same, and so much as was limited to the superstitious use was limited to the King; and to prove the same two Cases were cited.

First, a Case in the Kings Bench, 21 Eliz. between Hewet and Wotton for lands in Exeter, where the Case was, That Gervase Luistant enfeoffed divers of the said lands, and willed that they should find a Priest to say Mass in the Church of S. Mary every Sunday, and a Dirge and Mass of Requiem once a year for his soul, and that of the issues and profits of the said lands they should pay to the said Priest 2 d. every week, and the residue of the profits to be imployed upon Books, vestiments, and other ornaments of the said Church; and it was adjudged, although the land was given to find a Priest, yet for as much as his stipend was certain, and also it was joyned with a good use, it was adjudged that the land was not given to the King by the said Act, but only the stipend which the Priest had.

Another Case was adjudged in the same Court, Trinit. 30 Eliz. but it began Pasch. 18 Eliz. Rot. 431, in Trespass between John Chibnal Plaintiff, and William Witton and Christopher Witton Defendants, for a house in Fleetstreet called, The Angel upon the Hoop; upon Not guilty pleaded, and upon special verdict found the Case was such; Rennet Harlewyn 36 H. 6. demised by his Will in Writing to the Master and Brethren of the Guild of Drapers of London 3 s. 4 d. yearly to be imployed for the relief of the poor Brethren and Sisters of the said Company; and devised the house to the Parson and Churchwardens of S. Christophers Parish and their Successors, Ad inde solvend' annuatim præd' reddit' 3 s. 4 d. per me superius conces', & quod ipsi de exitibus inde solvant annuat' qualibet septimana uni Capell' in Eccles. S. Christoph. Missam celebrand' imperpet' pro anima mea 3 d. Et quod solvant qualibet septimana tribus pauperibus ejusdem parochiæ 6 d. ad orandum pro anima mea; Et quod celebrari faciant annuat' unum Anniversar' distribuend' 13 s. 4 d. in forma sequenti, viz. cuilibet Capell' interessenti illo anniversario 4 d. & quod 22 d. inde annuat' solvant custodibus operis Eccles. ad usum fabricæ corporis Ecclesiæ, & 12 d. ad sustentationem fraternitatis S. Christoph. residuum 13 s. 4 d. expendatur in pan' & potu inter Capell' & alios pauperes eo die anniversarii ad exorandum pro anima mea; Ac quod Gardiani habeant de exitibus inde 6 s. & 8 d. pro laboribus suis: Residuum de exitibus reservetur in pixide ad sustentation' & reparationem dictorum tenementorum & (cum opus fuerit) ad novam ædificationem eorund'; And all these were imployed within five years. And it was adjudged in this Case the King should not have the land, and the reason (as was said) was because that the 3 s. 4 d. to the poor of the Company of Drapers, and also the 6 d. to the three other poor of the Parish (although that the poor were appointed to pray for souls out of the Church) were good uses, and therefore the finding of a Priest gave not the land to the King. But yet it was adjudged and resolved, that this Case at Bar was within the third branch of the said Act, and that the land was given to the King by the said Act. [110]

And for the better and more plain knowing and understanding of the Resolution of Judges in this Case, I am enforced, to avoid great length and intricacy, to reduce all their reasons and causes of their Resolutions to these six differences, all which necessarily concern the Case at Bar, as well for the confirmation of their said Resolutions, as for the confutation of all Objections, and also for the true understanding of all the former Resolutions and Judgments, amongst all which by these differences, most excellent and perfect unity and agreement doth appear. [b]

The first difference was, If a man give lands of the value of 20 l. to others, to the intent to find a Priest to pray for souls, and that the Priest shall have of the issues and profits of the lands 10 l. for his salary, without any other limitation, that in this Case, all the land is given to the King; But if land be given upon condition, or to the intent that the feoffees shall pay of the issues and profits of the lands 10 l. to a Priest to pray for souls without any other limitation, that the King shall not have the land, but only the 10 l. out of the land; And the reason of this difference is, because that the first Case is within the third branch of this Act, and the land it self was given to find a Priest, according to the letter of the Act, and in as much as he was maintained with 10 l. of the issues and profits of the lands, it was within the subsequent of the third branch, scil. wherewith, or whereby any Priest was maintained. For by the land and the profits thereof he was maintained, and no use shall be intended but that which the donor expresseth, and the maintenance and augmentation of it, and for as much as the land was given to find a Priest, although that he limiteth in certain how much the Priest shall have for his salary and living: yet to the finding of a Priest to pray for souls other things are necessary which are imployed in such gift, scil. Garments, Books, Wine, Bread, &c. And the penning of these branches concerning finding of Priests, differ much from the penning of the other clauses concerning Obits, for there the words of the first clause are, Given, assigned, or appointed, to go to be imployed wholly to the finding or maintaining of an anniverſary, &c. And the ſecond clauſe is, And where but part of the iſſues or revenues of any mannors, lands, &c. But no ſuch diſtinction is expreſſed within the branches concerning Prieſts; And the reaſon of the ſecond part of the difference, ſcil. When the feoffees are appointed to pay out of the land a certain ſumm to a Prieſt, &c. and becauſe the land it ſelf is not given upon condition, or to the intent to find a Prieſt; But the feoffees are limited or appointed to pay to the Prieſt 10 l. and therefore the King cannot have more then was given to the finding of the Prieſt, and that was 10 l. as the Prieſts ſtipend, and not the land which was not given for the maintenance, or finding of the Prieſt; and therefore the King ſhall have the 10 l. only by force of this fourth branch of this Act; for the ſame is in the nature of a yearly rent, profit, or emolument; and therewith agreeth the Judgment in the ſaid Caſe of the Dean of Pauls.

the

The ſecond difference was, If land of the yearly value of 20 l. per ann. be given upon condition, or [111] to the purpoſes following, ſcil. to find a Prieſt to pray for ſouls, and that the Prieſt ſhall have for his ſalary 10 l. and to diſtribute between 20 of the poor men and women other 10 l. yearly for ever for their ſuſtentation, in this Caſe the King ſhall have but only the 10 l. limited to the Prieſt, and not the land: But if the ſame land had been given to find a Prieſt, and for the maintenance of 20 poor men, in this Caſe the King ſhall have all the land, although that in the imployment the Prieſt had 10 l. and the poor the other 10 l. And the reaſon and cauſe of this difference is becauſe that in the firſt Caſe there was a good uſe ſeparate and divided from the ſuperſtitious uſe; and therefore, God forbid that the ill uſe ſhall ſwallow up the good uſe, and a certain ſumm was appointed to the Prieſt, which ſumm the King ſhall have as a rent by force of the ſaid fourth branch; And in ſuch caſe if the land ſhall be given to the King, the good uſe ſhall be taken away, which was never the intent of the Act; for the intent of the makers was as appeareth by the preamble, to advance and continue good and charitable uſes, as Grammar Schools, increaſe of the Univerſities, and proviſions for poor men, as is expreſſed in the preamble. There is another clauſe concerning the continuance of ſuch charitable uſes in the body of the Act, by which power is given to certain Commiſſioners, To aſſign in every place wherein any Guild, Fraternity, Prieſt, or Incumbent of any Chauntry, by the foundation, ordinance, or firſt inſtitution thereof, ſhould or ought to have kept a Grammar School, or a Preacher, &c. And alſo to enquire What money, profit, or benefit any poor perſon by virtue of any conveyance, &c. had or enjoyed within five years, &c. out of any Colledge, free Chappel, or Chauntry, and other the premiſſes given, limited or appointed to the King by this Act; And thereupon to make aſſignments to the poor, which clauſe is to be intended only when the proviſion for the poor is to be derived out of a ſuperſtitious thing, or to be performed by the perſon who was to do the ſuperſtition, as out of a Colledge, or Chauntry, or free Chappel, or when all the land was given to find a Prieſt, and that the Prieſt ſhould find a Grammar School, or Preacher, or ſhould pay ſo much to poor men: And in ſuch Caſe it was needful to make ſuch proviſion; for the Colledges, Chauntries, free Chappels, and Prieſts praying for ſouls, which ſhould make diſtribution to the poor, &c. were diſſolved, and their poſſeſſions given to the King by this Act, and therefore it was very neceſſary to add the ſaid clauſe for the continuance of the ſaid charitable uſes.

[b] But the ſame doth not extend, when lands are given to divers feoffees upon condition, or to the purpoſes following, ſcil. To find a Prieſt, and of the iſſues of the land to pay to him a certain ſtipend, and of the reſidue of the profits, that the feoffees ſhall find a Grammar School, or ſuſtain poor men, for they are not derived out of the ſuperſtitious uſe, nor to be diſtributed by the ſuperſtitious perſons, but by the feoffees, &c. who remain perſons able to diſtribute, and to continue the good uſes, which are diſtinct from the ſuperſtitious uſes; And the reaſon of the ſecond part of the laſt difference is becauſe that the thing is limited to the ſuperſtitious uſe in certain by the donor, or deviſor himſelf, ſo that if the King ſhall not have the land, the King ſhall have nothing, but the ſuperſtitious uſe ſhall remain, and the intention of the Act (as it hath been ſaid) and ſo it ought to be expounded, was to take away ſuch ſuperſtitions; for the King cannot have any rent in ſuch Caſe, for every rent ought to be a certain ſumm; And although that in ſuch Caſes the feoffees have always imployed a certain ſumm, yet they had not power to make alteration of the ſubſtance of the gift, but the intent of the giver ſhall ſtand.

A third difference was taken, when the Prieſt hath a certain ſalary, (and yet to the finding of ſome other things, as Books, Bread, Wine, Veſtiments, &c. as hath been ſaid are tacite implied and requiſite which are incertain) and beyond that a good uſe is limited, there the King ſhall not have all by reaſon of the implied incertainty; But if land be given to any expreſs ſuperſtitious uſe prohibited by the Act, without limitation of any certainty for the finding of it, there all is given to the King by the ſaid Act; the reaſon of the firſt branch of this difference is, that a good uſe expreſſed ſhall be preferred before any thing implied, or incident to a ſuperſtitious uſe. 1. The finding of Books, Veſtiments, Wine, Bread, are not of themſelves ſuperſtitious, therefore the makers of the Act did not intend to reſpect them, as appeareth by divers Reſolutions and Judgments after cited, but when the expreſſed intent was not only to find a Prieſt, but alſo a good uſe, there the King ſhall have only that which the Prieſt himſelf had, or which was intended he ſhould have; The other part of this difference is reſolved before.

The fourth difference, or rather an explanation of the former differences, was taken between a ſole Prieſt to pray for ſouls within the third branch, and a ſtipendary Prieſt within the fourth branch; For when lands are given to one or divers feoffees to find one ſingle Prieſt with the iſſues and profits thereof with a certain limitation of ſome ſumm for his ſuſtenance, there if no good uſe be limited (as hath been ſaid) all the land is given to the King for the cauſes aforeſaid: But when a certain ſumm is limited to a Prieſt for his ſtipend, and further a good uſe is expreſſed, it amounteth to as much as if the land had [112] been given that the feoffees ſhall pay a certain ſumm of money to a Prieſt; in which Caſe he is a ſtipendary Prieſt within the fourth branch of the Act, and in ſuch Caſe the King ſhall have but a rent.

The

The fifth difference was taken, When a certain ſumm is limited to a Prieſt, and divers other uſes are limited, which of themſelves are not prohibited, yet if they depend upon the ſuperſtitious uſe all is given to the King. As if a man give land of the value of 20 l. and that the feoffees of the profits of the land ſhall pay to the Prieſt 10 l. and the reſidue for Veſtiments, Books, Bread, Wine, &c. for the celebration of Maſs, &c, or to one or divers to viſit, and ſee that the ſervice be done, or for the reparation of the Chappel in which the ſervice is to be done, and for the repairing of the Tenements, or to poor people to be preſent there, or for any ſuch like intents and purpoſes which depend upon the ſuperſtitious uſe, or for ornament or continuance thereof, there all is given to the King; but when the other uſes are not depending upon it, but extend to diſtinct and divided good uſes, there the good uſes ſhall ſave the land. As if land of 20 l. be given to pay a Prieſt 20 marks to ſing for ſouls in ſuch a Church, and the reſidue of the profits to repair the Church, although that that by a mean concerneth the continuance of the ſuperſtitious uſe, for as much as it is to be celebrated in the ſame Church, or in ſuch Caſe if the reſidue of the profits were limited for the finding of the Ornaments of the Church, although they are by a mean ornaments alſo for the celebration of the ſaid ſuperſtitious uſe, yet in both theſe Caſes, in as much as the reparation of the Church, or the finding of the Ornaments do not depend upon the ſuperſtitious uſe, nor immediately concern the ſuperſtitious uſe, in ſuch Caſe the land is not given to the King: So in the ſame Caſe, if part of the profits are limited for the repair of the Church, or to find the Ornaments of the Church, and the reſidue of the profits are limited for the reparation of the houſes ſo given, the King ſhall not have the land; for reparation of houſes of themſelves is not an uſe forbidden, and therefore being joyned with a good uſe ſhall ſave the land, and yet by a mean both concern the ſuperſtitious uſe: But the Statute is to be intended of immediate uſes, and not only to ſuppreſs ſuperſtitious uſes, but alſo to continue good uſes, according to the intent of the makers of the Act.

The ſixth difference was obſerved, When all the uſes are ſuperſtitious, and when not; for when all the uſes are ſuperſtitious, there in what certainty ſoever or manner they be limited, and of what value ſoever the land is, yet all the land is given to the King. As if land of the value of 20 l. per ann. be given to the intent, that 10 l. out of the iſſues and profits thereof ſhall be paid to a Prieſt 5 l. for the maintenance of the Obite, and 5 l. to find lamps and lights before ſuch Images in ſuch a Church: In this Caſe it was objected, That the King ſhall not have but ſeveral rents, for the Prieſt was but a ſtipendary Prieſt, and the land was not given to find him: Alſo the clauſe concerning Obits, &c. giveth to the King but a rent, when but part of the profits are limited and appointed to it; and therefore by none of the ſaid ſeveral branches by it ſelf the King ſhall have land but only ſeveral rents: But it was reſolved that in ſuch Caſe, all the land by the equity and true conſtruction upon all the ſaid Act ſhall be given to the King; for in as much as all the profits are limited to ſuperſtitious uſes, it was the intent of the Act to give all the land to the King by a reaſonable conſtruction upon the coherence and intention of all the parts of the Act: And as to the Objection which was made, That the King in the principal Caſe ſhall not have more then the Prieſt had, becauſe that the fifth branch, which is the concluſion of all the four branches precedent hath theſe words, ſcil. In as large and ample manner and form, as the Prieſts, Wardens, Miniſters, Governors, Rulers, or other Incumbents of them within five years, &c. had, occupied or enjoyed: It was reſolved, that theſe words do not abridge that which before was by any of the precedent clauſes given to the King. [b]

2. Theſe words cannot be referred to the third clauſe, ſcil. When land was given to one or divers perſons to find with the iſſues and profits a ſole Prieſt, for there the Prieſt had not the land; and therefore the ſaid clauſe was reſtrictive, and if the King ſhall not have more then the Prieſt had, the King ſhould have nothing, for the Prieſt had nothing; and yet every one agreeth, that the King in ſuch Caſe ſhall have the land. But theſe words are referred, reddendo ſingula ſingulis, to the 1, 2, and 4, branches, for by the firſt two the land, and by the fourth a rent is given to the King; and therefore the ſaid words may well be referred to them, and cannot be referred to the ſaid fourth branch, for the King cannot have the land, in as ample and large manner as the Prieſt had it, when in truth the Prieſt had nothing in the land, but the feoffees were ſeiſed thereof; Or the ſaid words refer only to the fourth branch concerning Stipendary Prieſts, as Popham chief Juſtice held: And the Caſe at Bar was within all theſe differences; for 1. The land was deviſed upon condition to find a Prieſt. 2. In this Caſe one of the ſuperſtitious uſes was incertain, for, for the finding of lamps and lights no certain ſumm was appointed: And if all the land had been given to this uncertain uſe, the King ſhould have had all the land.

3. Here was not any good uſe, for although that the maintenance and ſuſtentation of poor men was good, yet maintenance of them to pray for ſouls was ſuperſtitious, and prohited by the Act: And although that theſe Prayers were not appointed to be made in any Church, Chappel, &c. or other publick Oratory, yet it was reſolved that they were prohibited by the ſaid Act, or (as ſome held) directly within the words of the clauſe concerning Obits, ſcil. Anniverſary or Obite, or other like thing, intent, or purpoſe, or of any light or lamp in any Church or Chappel: So that theſe words (In any Church or Chappel) are referred to lights and lamps, and not to thoſe precedent words, Or other like thing, intent, or purpoſe. And praying for ſouls, is one like intent or purpoſe to an Anniverſary or Obite, for all was for the praying for ſouls, or as others hold by the equity of the Act which intendeth to extirpate all praying for ſouls: And it ſeems to ſome that the Caſe is ſtronger, becauſe the principal ſuperſtitious uſe is to be done in the Church. [113]

4. Theſe Prayers for ſouls by the poor men is in a manner dependant upon the other ſuperſtitious uſes, and of one kind or nature with them.

5. In this Caſe all theſe uſes were ſuperſtitious, and therefore all the land was given to the King: And by theſe differences you may better underſtand (as hath been ſaid) the Judgments and Reſolutions which have been before theſe times had upon the ſeveral branches of this Act, and every one of them well ſtands with the other, and no contrariety amongſt them. And all theſe differences are well approved and proved by former Reſolutions, Decrees, and Judgments; and therefore I will make a ſummary Report of the former Reſolutions, Decrees, and Judgments which were cited and vouched in this Caſe: And firſt of the Reſolutions;

Sir Bartholomew Read by his Will in writing deviſed his lands in London to the Company of Goldſmiths, to the intent that they with the iſſues and profits thereof ſhould repair the Tenements, and ſhould pay all the rents iſſuing thereout; and ſhould keep an Obite, and ſhould ſpend at it yearly 33 s. 4 d. and find perpetually a Prieſt to ſay Maſs for his ſoul; and alſo ſhould keep a Grammar School, and chiefly for the poor, and to receive 10 l. yearly for his ſalary, and the ſaid tenements were then of greater value, ſcil. of 50 l. per annum, then the ſaid ſuperſtitious uſes. And it was reſolved by Wray and [b] Anderſon chief Juſtices, upon conference with Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, and Periam Juſtice, That all the Tenements were given to the King by the ſaid Act; for although that there was a good and charitable uſe, ſcil. to find a Grammer School chiefly for the relief of the poor, yet becauſe it was mixed with a ſuperſtitious uſe, and nothing in certain was limited to a good uſe, in ſuch Caſe incertain mixture of a bad uſe with a good uſe doth infect the good uſe as a little poiſon mingled with the great quantity of wine, or as truth with falſhood (covin is ſo ill an herb that it maketh all unſavoury, and turneth the goodneſs of the one into the ilneſs of the other, as it is ſaid in Plowdens Comm. 51. a.

2. The good uſe is derived out of the ſuperſtitious uſe, and to be performed by the Prieſt; and for theſe cauſes the good uſe in this Caſe ſhall not ſave the land. Alſo although that now upon the matter it is as if the good uſe had been omitted, and that a certain ſumm of money was limited for every of the uſes, yet when all the certain uſes were ſuperſtitious, all the land ſhall be given to the King.

Another Caſe was reſolved by them, That Sir John Tate ſeiſed of certain houſes in London by his Will in writing deviſed them to the Company of Diers to repair the houſes, and to find a ſecular Prieſt for ever to pray for ſouls in the Church of S. Michael in Cornhil, paying to him a competent living no leſs then 8 marks by the year, and the houſes then were of greater value; and yet becauſe it was incertain what ſumm the Prieſt ſhould have; and if the ſumm had been certain, yet becauſe the land was given to find a Prieſt, and no good uſe was limited, the King ſhall have all by force of the third branch of the ſaid Act.

Another Caſe was reſolved by them, That John Allen by his Will in writing deviſed houſes in Eaſtcheap to the Company of Goldſmiths in London to find an Obite for ever, which houſes then were and ſo continued of the value of 33 l. 13 s. 4. per ann. and 23 s. 4. were only imployed to the ſaid ſuperſtitious uſe. And it was reſolved, that the King ſhould have all the land, for the deviſees by their certain imployment cannot ſave the land when the gift it ſelf is incertain, nor any diſpoſition incertain by the deviſees can alter the nature and ſubſtance of the gift, nor the operation of the Statute upon it.

Another Caſe was reſolved by them, One Pele deviſed by his Will in writing certain houſes in London to the Cloathworkers of London, to the intent that they for ever ſhould pay to ſuch Prieſt who ſhould pray for his ſoul in the Pariſh Church of Chilham 9 l. 6 s. 8. for his ſalary; The King ſhall not have the houſes, for they were not given to find a Prieſt, but to pay to a Prieſt a certain ſumm.

One Walpool in 23 E. 3. by his Will in writing deviſed certain houſes in London of the value of 30 l. per ann. to the Company of Goldſmiths, to the intent, that they with the iſſues and profits thereof ſhould find two Prieſts, paying to each of them 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. for his ſalary; And it was reſolved by the ſaid Juſtices, That the Queen ſhould have the houſes, for it was within the third branch of the Act, in as much as the land was given to find two Prieſts, and wherewith and whereby they were [114] maintained, &c. and for as much as no good uſe was limited, and all the uſe expreſſed was ſuperſtitious; for theſe cauſes it was reſolved, That the houſes were given to the King, and yet the ſalaries of the Prieſts were certain.

Anno 4 H. 8. William Caley by his Will in writing deviſed certain houſes in London of the value of 40 marks per annum to the Company of Drapers, to the intent to repair them ſufficiently for ever, and of the iſſues and profits of them to maintain a Chaplain in the Church of S. Mary Woolnaugh, to ſay Maſs every day for the ſouls of Richard Shore and his wife, and to have for his ſalary 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. and to find an Obite in the ſame Church for the ſoul of the ſaid Richard Shore, ſpending upon it 20 s. in form following, ſcil. the Wardens of the ſaid Company ſhall have part, and the Beadles part, and part to be ſpent upon Bread, Beer, and other neceſſaries at Drapers Hall amongſt the Brethren there, and the reſidue to be diſtributed amongſt the poor dwelling within the precinct of their Hall to pray for ſouls: And although that the ſalary of the Prieſt were certain, and the expences of the Obite certain, and the prayers for the ſouls were to be made in Drapers Hall, and not in any Church or Chappel, and the diſtribution amongſt the poor of bread and beer of it ſelf a good and charitable uſe, yet for as much as all the uſes were ſuperſtitious or depending thereupon, it was reſolved, That the houſes were given to the King by the ſaid Act.

Anno

Anno 5 E. 4. Gregory by his Will in writing demiſed his houſes in London of the value of 4 marks per annum to the Company of Skinners, to the intent of the profits to find an Obite for ever in the Church of S. Anthony, ſpending at it 6 s. 8 d. and to diſtribute amongſt the poor of the ſaid Pariſh to pray for one ſoul 6 s. 8 d. and with the reſidue of the profits to maintain the reparations, and with the overplus to new build them when need ſhould be; and although that the ſumms by the ſaid ſuperſtitious uſes, (whereof one was to be done out of the Church or Chappel) were certain; and the reparation and new building of the houſes themſelves were good, becauſe they concerned the habitation of men; yet for as much as theſe uſes were for the continuance of the ſuperſtitious uſes, and quodammodo depending thereupon, for this cauſe it was reſolved, That the ſaid houſes were given to the King by the ſaid Act.

Divers other Reſolutions of the ſaid Juſtices were cited, but for as much as they all tend to the effect of thoſe which have been cited before, for avoiding prolixity I have omitted them.

Note Reader, the branch of the ſaid Act next following the laſt clauſe of Obits, concerning the imployment of the ſumms of monies, or profit of any lands, by any Corporation, Guild, Fraternity, Company, or Fellowſhip of any Myſtery, or Craft, for the maintenance of a Prieſt, Obite, &c. was but explanation of the ſaid fourth branch, to ouſt a ſcruple which ſome might conceive, Whether a body incorporate may ſtand ſeiſed to ſuch intents, and upon ſuch truſts as is aforeſaid: But it appeareth by all the ſaid Reſolutions, as well bodies Politick and Corporate as private perſons are within the former branch of the ſaid Act, for the letter of the Act is general and includeth all as in this very Caſe it was reſolved. [b]

Now to proceed to Decrees. In 5 E. 6. as it appeareth in the Books of Decrees in the Office of the Kings Remembrancer, in the Exchequer divers Decrees were made upon the Will of Comberton, in 5 H. 4. of Cromer in 10 H. 6. of William Rus in 11 H. 6. and of divers others in the Court of Augmentation; but becauſe they are agreeable to the Reſolutions and differences before taken as I conceive, although they are not fully there written, I will omit them and proceed to Judgments given in the Queens Courts, upon argument and great conſideration.

And as to the Caſes of Hewet and Wotton, and Chibnal and Witton, they were affirmed to be good Law, and that there were two principal cauſes of the Judgment in the ſame Caſes: One becauſe that nothing was limited to the Prieſt but 2 d. or 3 d. every week, which was not within the third branch of the ſaid Act, for with ſuch petit things a Prieſt cannot be found or maintained. And the letter of the Statute is, To the finding of any Prieſt, &c. and wherewith or whereby any Prieſt was ſuſtained, maintained or found; and with ſuch ſmall allowance they cannot be maintained, ſuſtained or found. Alſo in the one Caſe he ſaid not Maſs but every Sunday, and Dirge once a year, which was (as was ſaid) within the clauſe of Obits, ſcil. To ſuch like intent or purpoſe. [115]

2. Admit that a certain Salary had been to the Prieſt ſufficient for his maintenance; yet becauſe there were good uſes ſeparate and divided from the ſuperſtitious uſe, ſcil. in the one Caſe 3 s. 4 d. to the poor, &c. And in the other to find ornaments in the Church; for theſe cauſes Judgment was given in both the Caſes, that the land was not given to the King. Alſo it was adjudged for theſe two reaſons that were given in Hewet and Wotton's Caſe (for the ſaid two agreed to the ſaid Dean of Paul's Caſe which the Lord Dier hath briefly touched in part) that the Queen ſhall not have the land for two cauſes.

1. Becauſe the land it ſelf was not given to find a Prieſt, ſo that it was not within the third branch of the Act, but to find an annual ſuſtentation of 10 marks for a Prieſt, ſo that the ſame was within the fourth branch, and not within the third.

2. It was reſolved, that in the ſaid Caſe of the Dean of Pauls, that if land be given to pay 10 marks to a Prieſt, and 40 s. to the maintenance of an Obite, in that Caſe if both be found within the five years, the King ſhall have all the land, becauſe that both the uſes were ſuperſtitious by the Judgment of Law, upon the coherence, as hath been ſaid, of all the Act: But in the ſame Caſe becauſe the Obite was not found within the five years, for this cauſe it was adjudged that the King ſhould not have the land: And therefore in the ſame Caſe of the Dean of Pauls this difference was taken and reſolved; When certain ſumms are limited to ſuperſtitious uſes, and one uſe is ſeparate and divided from the other, there the finding of the one ſhall not give the land to the King, but only the ſumm appointed to the ſuperſtitious uſe which was imployed within the five years: But if the one uſe depend upon the other, there the finding of the principal or any part thereof giveth all the land to the King. As if land be given to the intent that an Obite ſhall be in ſuch a Church or Chappel, and that upon the Obite 10 s. ſhall be diſtributed and imployed to the Prieſt, and to divers poor perſons who ſhall be preſent at it 6 s. 8 d. and the reſt of the profits to the reparation of the Church or Chappel; in this Caſe if the Obite be maintained in any part within the five years, although the 6 s. 8 d. be not imployed to the poor men, nor any thing upon the reparation of the Church or Chappel within the five years, yet all the land ſhall be given to the King, becauſe that all the uſes depend upon the former: So in the ſame Caſe Wray chief Juſtice ſaid that it was adjudged, That where certain houſes called the Bull were given to find a Prieſt to pray for ſouls, &c. and other Tenements called the Swan were given to the ſame feoffees to find an Obite, &c. and the feoffees imploy the profits of the ſaid ſeveral houſes to contrary uſes, ſcil. the profits of the Bull to find the Obite, and the profits of the Swan to find the Prieſt; yet for as much as the original gift was ſuperſtitious, and the imployment ſuperſtitious, although the imployment be not according to the gift, yet in both Caſes ſuch imployment within the five years was ſufficient to give the land to the King.

So if a man give the mannor of Dale and the mannor of Sale to find ſuperſtitious uſes, and the feoffees with the profits of the one mannor find the ſuperſtitious uſes, and imploy the profits of the other to the uſe of the poor inhabitants of the ſame Town, or to bear the common charges of the Town, yet both the mannors are given to the King; for if the feoffees imploy any of the profits of the ſame lands which they have, and which were given for the maintenance of their ſuperſtitious uſes, all is given to the King;

[b] But if the feoffees before the five years have conveyed part of the land to another in fee, and imploy the profits of the land which remaineth in their hands for the maintenance of the ſuperſtitious uſes, and no part of the lands of the ſecond feoffee is imployed within five years, there the King ſhall not have the land of the ſecond feoffee, but only the lands which the firſt feoffees have, for the imployment of the firſt feoffees of the lands which they had cannot bind the ſecond feoffee, for the lands in which they had not any eſtate or intereſt; and that well ſtands with the words of the third branch, ſcil. To the finding of any Prieſt, and wherewith and whereby any Prieſt was ſuſtained, maintained, or found within five years; for as to the land conveyed to the ſecond feoffees (whereof no part of the profits were imployed to the ſuperſtitious uſes within the five years) the ſame is not within the ſaid words of (wherewith or whereby) for neither with nor by the land of the ſecond feoffees the ſuperſtitious uſes were found within five years, but only with, and by the land which remaineth with the firſt feoffees. And in the ſaid Caſe of the Dean of Pauls, ſome held that a Proviſo that the Act ſhall not extend to the mannors, lands, tenements, or other hereditaments of any Cathedral Church, &c. other than to ſuch Chauntries, Obits, or Lamps, or any of them within five years, &c. And in the ſaid Caſe the land was parcel of the poſſeſſions of a Cathedral Church; and the ſaid land did not appertain to a Chauntry, ſcil. within the firſt or ſecond branch, but that Caſe was within the fourth branch, to which this word of the Proviſo (Chauntry) doth not extend; and as to the word Obits, &c. for as much as but part was aſſigned to it, although the Obite had been found, that by that the land was not given to the King.

Trin. 18 Eliz. Rot. 142. In an Information of intruſion againſt Lucas and Collier, upon the general iſſue, a ſpecial verdict was found to this effect; Turner ſeiſed of certain houſes in fee in London deviſed them 3 H. 6. upon condition to find an Obite of 4 l. 6 s. 8 d. within the Pariſh of S. Mary Patents in London, Spending thereat ſo much as the deviſees would in their diſcretions; The deviſees expended only upon the Obite 6 s. 8 d. per ann. and it was adjudged that the Queen ſhould have the houſes; 1. Becauſe the appointment was incertain, although that the imployment was certain. 2. That all the uſe expreſſed by the deviſor was ſuperſtitious: And therefore it was ſaid, If land to the value of 5 l. be deviſed to find an Obite, ſpending upon it three pounds per ann. although that a certain ſumm be limited; yet for as much as the land is given for finding of an Obite, and no other uſe is expreſſed, the land in ſuch Caſe ſhall be given to the King, for the land is given in the ſame Caſe (wholly) as the Statute ſpeaketh to the finding of an Obite, and therefore within the firſt branch of Obites.

Trin. 20 Eliz. Rot. 589. between Colborn and Dale in the Kings Bench, upon a demurrer the Caſe was [116] ſuch; Thomas Wells 12 E. 4. deviſed divers houſes in London of the yearly value of 24 l. to his wife for her life, the remainder to the Parſon and Churchwardens of S. Edmonds and their Succeſſors; and deviſed that his wife during her life, and after her deceaſe they in the remainder ſhould find a Prieſt to ſay Divine ſervice at the Altar in the Chappel of our Lady in the Church of S. Edmond for the ſouls, &c. And that the ſame Prieſt ſhould be aiding and helping to Divine Service in the Church; and that his wife during her life, and thoſe in remainder after her death ſhould pay to him for his ſalary 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. Further he deviſed that they find an Obite with ſix Prieſts, and appointed 22 s. certain to be imployed upon it, whereof part to be diſtributed amongſt the poor of the Trade of Drapers which ſhould come to the ſaid Obite, and could not come. Alſo he appointed 16 d. yearly to the Parſon of S. Edmonds for beading of Beads; Every Sunday 3 s. 4 d. to the Friers of S. Auguſtine to pray for his ſoul; Alſo 4 s. yearly to be paid to the Preacher at Pauls upon good Friday; To three Preachers of the Spittle to commend his ſoul to the prayers of the people 13 s. 4 d. Alſo 3 s. 4 d. to the Wardens of the Company of Sheermen to diſtribute amongſt the poor Almeſmen of the ſame Trade, to the intent that thoſe of the Wardens with eight or more of the ſaid Company upon warning ſhould come to his Obite: Alſo he appointed Accounts yearly to be taken, and that the Churchwardens of S. Edmonds ſhould have the letting and ſetting of the lands; and the Churchwardens of S. Mary Wolnaugh ſhould come yearly and have for their pains 6 d. apiece. And the Churchwardens of S. Edmonds to have 6 s. 8 d. And 11 s. 4 d. yearly he appointed for the finding of Books, Veſtiments and Ornaments of the Chappel, where he appointed his Obite to be celebrated; And that all the revenue coming of the premiſſes ſhall be in ſeveral keeping ſeparatrd from other monies in a Cheſt, for the reparation and new building of the tenements. And it was adjudged, that the ſaid houſes were given to the King by the ſaid Act. In which Judgment theſe things were obſerved; 1. That the deviſe was made to his wife. 2. That it was a deviſe to his wife for life. 3. That every ſuperſtitious uſe had a certain ſum appointed for the maintenance of it. 4. That all the uſes were either ſuperſtitious, or were depending upon the ſuperſtitious uſes, or tending to the maintenance or continuance of them: and that was the principal cauſe and reaſon of the Judgment.

Trinit. 30 Eliz. Rot. 709. between Adams and Stakes in the Kings Bench, upon a Demmurrer the Caſe was ſuch; William Dunſton deviſed lands to the Parſon and Churchwardens of S. Botolphs upon condition to find a Prieſt, and that he have for his ſalary 6 l. of the iſſues and profits of the lands. Alſo he deviſed yearly for ever to the Priſoners of Newgate and Ludgate 13 s. 4 d. at the day of his death to [b] pray for his ſoul, beſides the ſaid ſole Prieſt, the reſidue for the reparation of the tenements, and augmentation of the Prieſts portion. And it was reſolved, That the land was given to the King by the ſaid Act; for the praying for ſouls by the ſaid Priſoners, although it was out of the ſaid Church or Chappel, was ſuperſtitious, and the augmentation of the Prieſts maintenance incertain. And this Reſolution was affirmed for good Law by Popham chief Juſtice and divers others; but Judgment was not entred into the Roll.

Paſch. 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Rot. 186. in the Kings Bench, Whetſtone's Caſe was adjudged, That where lands were given to find an Obite in ſuch a Chappel appointing a certain ſum upon it, and that the reſidue ſhould be employed for the reparation of the Chappel in which the Obite ſhould be celebrated; brated; And it was adjudged that all the land was given to the King, for the one doth depend upon the other. And Popham chief Juſtice ſaid, that Paſch. 10 Eliz. Rot. 398. in an information in the Exchequer the Caſe was ſuch; one Draiton ſeiſed of lands in London in fee deviſed them to the Dean and Chapter of Pauls upon condition that they find two Chaplains to pray for his ſoul in a Chappel newly there built by him; and to pay to them for their ſalary 13 l. 6 s. 8 d. and to find an Obite, appointing upon it a certain ſum, and to repair the Chappel, and all this was found within the five years, and it was adjudged againſt the King; and that agreeth with the opinion in the Caſe before cited of the Dean and Chapter of Pauls before upon the Proviſo of this very Act.

Hill. 37 Eliz. Rot. 715. between Partridge and Walker in the Kings Bench, the Caſe was; That one Hill deviſed certain houſes in London to the Parſon and Churchwardens of the Church of S. Brides to find for ever his Anniverſary, appointing upon it 20 s. and to pay to the poor 5 s. 6 d. in honorem & duplicationem annorum in quibus Chriſtus vixit in terra: And it was adjudged, that the land was not given to the King; For the payment of the 5 s. 6. d. to the poor in honorem, &c. was a good and laudable uſe in commemoration of the years of our Saviour, the continual memory of which is moſt comfortable and neceſſary for every Chriſtian; But it was agreed in the principal Caſe at Bar, That if the deviſor had limited by expreſs words, or by any words which may imply his intent to be, that the deviſees for the advancement of his blood ſhould have the reſidue of the profits, it ſhall be a good uſe, and ſave the land; and in ſuch Caſe the King ſhall have but the rent. And this Caſe was very well and at large argued by the Juſtices; And it was the firſt Caſe that Sir Chriſtopher Yelverton argued after he was made Juſtice of the Kings Bench.

Hill. 45 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Acton's Caſe.

THE Queen brought a Quare impedit againſt the Biſhop of Peterborough, Acton Patron and Cartmell Incumbent, for the Church of Claycotton being above the value of 8 l. The Queen counted and made title to preſent by Laps ratione acceptionis duorum beneficiorum; The Patron and Incumbent ſevered in Pleas, but both their Pleas was to this effect; Anne Baroneſs Mounteagle in her Widowhood retained the ſaid Cartmell to be her Chaplain according to the Statute of 21 H. 8. and he having the ſaid Benefice of Claycotton obtained a Diſpenſation with confirmation of the Queen according to the Statute, and pleaded all at large; And afterwards he accepted the Vicarage of G. &c. and traverſed, without the ſaid Church of Claycotton by pretence of the taking of the ſaid Vicarage of G. according to the Statute became void, &c. The Queen replied, and confeſſed the retainer of him by the ſaid Baroneſs Mounteagle, and that he obtained the Letters of Diſpenſation prout, &c. But further ſaid, That before the ſaid Cartmell was preſented to the ſaid Vicarage of G. the ſaid Baroneſs of Mounteagle took to husband Henry Lord Compton one of the Barons of the Realm, and ſo was covert baron, and had loſt her dignity of Baroneſs Mounteagle; And afterwards Cartmel the Defendant accepted the ſaid Vicarage of G. and was thereunto admitted, inſtituted and inducted: And upon that the Defendant did demurr in Law. And it was objected by the Queens Council, That the body of the Act of 21 H. 8. containeth general prohibition, That if any one hath a Benefice of the value of 8 l. that he doth not take any other Benefice with Cure, then if this Caſe be not within the Proviſoes, then the firſt Benefice became void by the acceptance of the ſecond: The firſt Proviſo which is material to this purpoſe is, That every Dutcheſs, &c. and Baroneſs being widow, may have two Chaplains, whereof every one of them may purchace licence or diſpenſation, to receive, have and keep two Benefices. And the ſecond Proviſo material to this purpoſe is, Provided always that every Dutcheſs, &c. and Barons widow, which have taken, or hereafter ſhall take any husbands under the degree of a Baron, may take ſuch number of Chaplains as is above admitted to them being widows, and that every ſuch Chaplain may purchace licence, &c. as above. And it was ſtrongly urged, that this Caſe was Caſus omiſſus, and out of theſe Proviſoes for divers reaſons: [117] [b]

The firſt, it ought to be expounded, That the Baroneſs ought to be widow as well at the time of the acceptance, as at the time of the retainer, for if it ſhall be ſufficient that ſhe ſhall be widow at the time of the retainer, then the ſaid ſecond Proviſo ſhall be in vain, for then it ſhall not be material who ſhe afterwards marrieth, ſcil. Noble, or ignoble; But for as much as the makers of the Act did intend, that if ſhe marry after, that then ſhe ſhall be out of the firſt Proviſo, for this cauſe they added the ſecond. And without queſtion ſhe is out of the ſecond, for that provideth only, when ſuch noble woman doth marry with one under the degree of a Baron; and their reaſons they extended the laſt Proviſo when they marry under the degree of a Baron was, becauſe if they marry a Baron, or other Lord of degree, then the wife needeth not have Chaplains, becauſe her husband may have Chaplains by this Act, and the ſame ſhall be ſufficient for both, being one perſon in Law, and of one family. And that the retainer and the acceptance ought to concurr; It was ſaid, That if a noble man, or noble woman retaineth a Chaplain and dieth, the Chaplain cannot take two Benefices within this Act, yet the retainer was lawful, but the perſon who made the retainer ought to continue when the Chaplain accepteth his ſecond Benefice: Alſo it was ſaid, that it was adjudged in the Caſe Ralph Earl of Weſtmerland, That where where the said Earl retained a Chaplain, and afterwards was attainted of high Treason, and afterwards and during his life the Chaplain having a Benefice of the value of 8 l. took a second Benefice with Cure. And it was adjudged, That the first Benefice was void, for although the Earl was alive, yet the quality of his person was altred, for by the Judgment he became ignoble, vide Stamford. As if the Treasurer or Comptroller of the Kings house, &c. retain a Chaplain, and afterwards is removed out of his office, now the Chaplain cannot accept a second Benefice, for now his quality is altered, and the cause in respect whereof he was to have two Chaplains is removed: And so where a Baroness widow taketh husband, her quality is altered, for now she is not sui juris, but only sub potestate viri: And therefore, if the latter Proviso had not been, If such Baronesses after the retainer had married with a Gentleman under the degree of a Baron, her Chaplain cannot accept a second Benefice, for the quality of the Baroness by her marriage was altered; and she ought to remain at the time of the acceptance of the second Benefice in the same quality as she was at the time of retainer.

[118] 2. It was objected, That this Case was out of the Provisoes, because that if a Baron marry a widow Baroness, in this Case the Baroness cannot retain any Chaplain within the said Act, for the words of the Act are, Every Baroness being widow, which excludeth feme coverts being Baronesses, then if she be excluded to retain, by the same reason her retainer to have power by force of the Act to take a second Benefice is lost by the marriage, for as much as she now having married with a Noble man, his Chaplain may say Divine service to them both; And the wife of a Nobleman needeth not have Chaplains by the Judgment of the whole Court of Parliament, for the Act hath not made any provision for any such wives, but only for Baronesses widows, for the wife of one under the degree of a Baron cannot have any Chaplain within this Act; But in our Case at the time of the acceptance she who retained was the wife of a Baron, and may have Chaplains by force of this Act.

3. It was said, That this Act was always construed strictly against Non residency, and Pluralities as a thing prejudicial to the service of God, and instruction of his people: And therefore if a Bishop be translated into an Archbishop, or a Baron be created an Earl, now he hath both dignities, and as it is commonly said, Quando duo jura concurrunt in una persona, æquum est acsi essent in diversis; But yet within this Act he can have but as many as an Archbishop or Earl may have, for although that he hath sundry dignities, yet he is but one person to whom attendance and service shall be done: So if a Baron be made Knight of the Garter, or Warden of the Cinque Ports, he shall have but three Chaplains in all, & sic de similibus: Quod fuit concessum. Quia difficile est ut unus homo vicem duorum sustineat. But on the other part it was argued and resolved by the Court, That in the Case at Bar Cartmell after the marriage might accept of the said Benefice within the letter and meaning of the said Act; for without question the retainer of Cartmel was not determined or countermanded by the said marriage. And as to that it was said that there were two manner of retainers: One at the Common Law, and according to that he might have as many Chaplains as he would: Another according to the said Act, and by it he is restrained to a number; and the first which he retaineth are his Chaplains according to the said Act, and shall be first preferred, as it was adjudged Pasch. 31 Eliz. in the Common Pleas in Skefling's Case; and Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Kings Bench in Drurie's Case. And therefore if any officer who is allowed by the Statute to have one, two, or more Chaplains, retaineth a Chaplain, and afterwards is removed out of his

[b] office, in this Case the retainer by the Common Law remaineth, but the retainer upon the Statute is determined, for after the removing he cannot be Non resident, nor accept of other Benefice: So if an Earl or Baron retain a Chaplain, and before his advancement be attainted of Treason, as the Earl of Westmorland's Case, there the retainer according to the Statute is determined; and after the attainder such Chaplain cannot accept a second Benefice, because that he who is attainted, by his attainder is a dead person in Law; and now (as Stamford Pleas of the Crown saith) of a Noble man (by the Judgment by which his blood is corrupted) he is become ignoble, and therefore his dignity is determined; And although the wife of a Baron during the coverture cannot retain a Chaplain, yet when a Baroness widow doth retain one or two according to the said Proviso, this retainer according to the Act is the principal matter, and so long as the retainer is in force, and the Baroness continueth a Baroness, the Chaplains may well accept of two Benefices by the express letter of the Act, for it is sufficient that if at the time of the retainer the Baroness were a widow, for thereby the express words (being a widow) are satisfied: But the Statute doth not provide that she be a widow at the time of the acceptance, but the words imply the contrary, scil. that she need not continue widow; for the words are, Every Baroness being widow may have two Chaplains, whereof every of them may purchace, &c. so that by these words it is sufficient, if she be a widow at the time of the retainer; and there is no mischief in this Case, for the number appointed by the Statute shall not be exceeded, and the Act appointeth the Baroness widow to have two, and her husband to have three, so that the intention of the Act is not defrauded; And although that (as it hath been said) the husband and wife are but one person in Law, yet as the Text saith, Sunt duæ animæ in carne una, and therefore it is no reason, that the retainer of Chaplains which serveth for the instruction of souls should be determined by the marriage. Also the last Proviso, When the Baroness marrieth one under the degree of a Baron was added, because that by such marriage her dignity was determined, for the rule is, Quando mulier nobilis nupserit ignobili, desinit esse nobilis. But this rule is to be understood of a woman who getteth nobility by marriage, as by the marriage of a Duke, Earl or Baron; for in such Cases if she marrieth under the degree of Nobility, by such marriage with one who is ignoble she loseth her dignity which she had attained by marriage; for eodem modo quo quid constituitur, dissolvitur: But if a woman be Noble, as Dutchess, Countess, Baroness, &c. by descent, although that she marrieth under the degree of Nobili-

[119] ty, yet her birthright remaineth, for that is annexed to her blood, and is Character indelebilis: But in the Case at Bar the Baroness by her marriage with one of the Nobility doth not lose her dignity of Baroness, but rather encreaseth it. And therefore it is not like to the Case which hath been put; And the second Proviso explaineth it; for the makers of the Act well knew, That after such marriage as this is in this Caſe at Bar, ſhe is a Baroneſs as ſhe was before, and not in Caſe as where ſhe marrieth one under the degree of Nobility: Thereto was added, that the ſecond Proviſo doth not provide any remedy when a Baroneſs widow retaineth Chaplains, and afterwards marrieth under her degree, but leaveth the ſame to the general conſtruction of Law, and provideth only that ſuch Baroneſs after ſuch marriage may retain two Chaplains, &c. Alſo when a Baroneſs widow retaineth two Chaplains, and afterwards marrieth with a Baron, by common intendment ſhe bringeth maintenance with her to ſupport her ſtate, and prefer her Chaplains, and the retaining of her Chaplains cannot be prejudice to her husband but rather an honour to him.

in

If a woman Baroneſs retaineth two Chaplains according to the Statute, and afterwards taketh one of the Nobility to husband, the retainer of theſe two Chaplains remaineth; and they without new retainer may take two Benefices; for their retainer was not ended by the marriage; Alſo for the ſame cauſe ſo long as they attend upon ſuch Baroneſs in her houſe, they ſhall not be adjudged Non reſident. And it is to know, That if a Baron hath three Chaplains, and each of them hath two Benefices, and afterwards the Baron dieth, yet they ſhall enjoy the Benefices with Cure which were lawfully ſetled in them before; but although he be reſident and dwelleth upon one Benefice, yet he ſhall be puniſhed for Non-reſidency upon the other, as was Parſon Boyton's Caſe, and there he ought to have of the King a Non obſtante. So if the Baron be attainted of Treaſon or felony, or if any Officer be removed from his office, and ſo of the like.

Paſch. 44 Eliz. in a Quare Impedit brought by the Queen againſt the Biſhop of Salisbury and others, it was ruled by the whole Court, That the Earl of Southampton being of the age of 10 years, and dwelling in houſe with the Lord Admiral to whom the Queen had granted his Wardſhip, might retain and qualifie Chaplains within this Act; for the words of the Act are general, and yet his Guardian was a Noble man, and had Chaplains by the ſaid Act allowed him; And the Earl of Southampton was under his cuſtody, and one of his family, as the wife was in the Caſe at Bar.

Hill. 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Dumport's Caſe.

IN Treſpaſs between Dumport and Symmes, upon the general iſſue, the Jurors gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect; The Preſident and Schollers of the Colledge of Corpus Chriſti in Oxford made a leaſe for years anno 10 Eliz. of the land in queſtion to one Bold, Proviſo that the leſſee or his aſſignees ſhould not alien the premiſſes to any perſon or perſons without the ſpecial licence of the leſſors, And afterwards the leſſors by their deed 13 Eliz. licenſed the leſſee to alien, or demiſe the land, or any part of it to any perſon or perſons whatſoever: And afterwards in 15 Eliz. the leſſeee aſſigned the term to one Tubbe, who by his laſt Will demiſed the ſame to his ſon, and by the ſame Will made his ſon his Executor and died. The ſon entred generally, and the Teſtator was not indebted to any perſon; and afterwards the ſon died inteſtate, and the Ordinary committed adminiſtration to one who aſſigned the term to the Defendant. The Preſident and Schollers by warrant of Attorney entred for the condition broken, and made a leaſe to the Plaintiff for 21 years, who entred upon the Defendant, who reentred, upon which reentry the Action of Treſpaſs was brought. And that upon the leaſe made to Bold the yearly rent of 33 s. 4 d. was reſerved, and upon the leaſe to the Plaintiff the yearly rent of 22 s. was only reſolved. And the Jurors prayed upon the whole matter the advice of the Court: And upon this Verdict Judgment was given againſt the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe divers Points were debated and reſolved. [b]

1. That the alienation by licence to Tubbe hath determined the condition, ſo that no alienation which he can afterwards make can break the Proviſo, or give cauſe of entry to the leſſors; for the leſſors cannot diſpenſe with an alienation for a time, and that the ſame eſtate ſhall remain ſubject to the Proviſo after. And although the Proviſo be that the leſſee or his aſſignees cannot alien, yet when the leſſors licence the leſſee to alien, they ſhall never by force of the ſame Proviſo defeat the term which is abſolutely aliened by their licence, in as much as the aſſignee hath the ſame term which was aſſigned by their aſſent; So if the leſſor diſpenſeth with one alienation, he thereby diſpenceth with all alienations after; for in as much as by the licence of the leſſors and of the aſſignment of the leſſee the eſtate and intereſt of Tubbe was abſolute, it is not poſſible that his aſſignee who hath his eſtate and intereſt ſhall be ſubject to the firſt condition: And as the diſpenſation of one alienation is the diſpenſation of all, ſo it is as to the perſons; for if the leſſor diſpenſeth with one, all the other are at liberty. And therefore it was adjudged Trin. 28 Eliz. Rot. 256. in the Common Pleas, between Leeds and Crompton, That where the Lord Stafford made a leaſe to three upon condition that they or any of them ſhould not alien without the aſſent of the leſſor, and afterwards one aliened with his aſſent, and afterwards the other two aliened without his aſſent; and it was adjudged that in this Caſe the condition being determined as to one perſon (by licenſe of the leſſor) was determined in all. And Popham chief Juſtice denied the Caſe in 16 Eliz. Dier 334. That if a man leaſe lands upon condition that he ſhall not alien the land, or any part of it without the aſſent of the leſſor, and afterwards he alieneth part with the aſſent of the leſſor, that he cannot alien the reſidue without the aſſent of the leſſor: And he conceived, that the ſame is not Law, for he ſaid that the condition [110]

cannot

cannot be divided or apportioned by the act of the parties; and in the ſame Caſe, as to parcel which was aliened with the aſſent of the leſſor, the condition is determined; For although that the leſſee alieneth any part of the reſidue, the leſſor cannot enter into the part aliened by licence, and therefore the condition being determined in part is determined in all. And therefore the chief Juſtice ſaid, That he thought the ſaid Caſe to be falſe printed, for he held clear that it was not Law.

Note Reader, Paſch. 14 Eliz. Rot. 1015. in the Common Pleas, That where a leaſe was made by deed indented for 21 years of three Mannors, A. B. C. rendring rent, for A. 6 l. for B. 5 l. for C. 10 l. to be paid in one place of the land, with a condition to reenter in all the three mannors for defalt of payment of the ſaid rents, or any of them; and afterwards the leſſor by deed indented and inrolled bargaineth and ſelleth the reverſion of one houſe and 40 acres of land parcel of the mannor of A. to one and his heirs; and afterwards by another deed indented and inrolled, bargaineth and ſelleth all the reſidue to another and his heirs; and if the ſecond bargainee ſhould enter for the condition broken was the Queſtion: And it was adjudged, that he ſhould not enter for the condition broken, becauſe the condition being entire cannot be apportioned by the Act of the parties, but by ſeverance of part the reverſion is deſtroyed
[b] in all. But it was agreed, That a condition may be apportioned in two Caſes.

1. By act in Law.

2. By the act and wrong of the leſſee. By act in Law; as if a man ſeiſed of two acres in fee, one in Borough Engliſh, and the other not, and hath iſſue two ſons, and leaſeth both acres for life or years rendring rent with condition, and the leſſor dieth, in this Caſe by this deſcent, which is an act in Law, the reverſion, rent and condition are divided. 2. By act and wrong of the leſſee; as if the leſſee maketh a feoffment of part, or committeth Waſte in part, and the leſſor entreth for the forfeiture, or recovereth the place waſted, there the rent and condition ſhall be apportioned, for none ſhall take advantage of his own wrong, and the leſſor ſhall not be prejudiced by the wrong of the leſſee: And the Lord Dier then chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas in the ſame Caſe ſaid, That he who entreth for a condition broken ought to be in of the ſame eſtate which he had at the time of the condition created; and that he cannot have, where he hath departed with the reverſion of part: And with that reaſon agreeth Litt. 80. b. Vide 4 & 5 Phil & Mar. Dier 152. where a Proviſo in an Indenture of leaſe was, That the leſſee, his executors or aſſigns ſhould not alien to any perſon without licenſe of the leſſor, but ſo much only to one of the ſons of the leſſee; the leſſee dieth, his executors aſſigneth it over to one of his ſons, It is holden by Stamford and Catlyn that the ſon may alien to whom he pleaſeth without licence, for the condition as to the ſon was determined; which agreeth with the Reſolution of the principal point in the Caſe at Bar.

2. It was reſolved, That the Statutes of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. & 18 Eliz. cap. 11. concerning leaſes made by Deans and Chapters, Colledges and other Eccleſiaſtical perſons are general Laws whereof the Court ought to take knowledge, although they be not found by the Jurors; And ſo was it reſolved between Claypool and Carter in a Writ of Error in the Kings Bench.

Paſch. 1 Jacobi.

Buſtard's Caſe.

[121] Mich. 44 Eliz. in the Kings Bench in Treſpaſs, between Buſtard Plaintiff and Boulton Defendant, the Caſe was ſuch; Jaſper Dormer and Juſtine his wife were ſeiſed of the moity of the mannor of Ilbury to them and to the heirs of the body of Jaſper; Jaſper levied a fine thereof to Gregory, who ſuffered a common recovery, in which Jaſper was only vouched, and he vouched over the common vouchee which was to the uſe of Gregory and his heirs, who thereof enfeoffed Buſtard, who thereof enfeoffed Savage and Darſton in fee; and after an exchange was made by deed indented between Savage and Darſton of the one part, and Buſtard (who was ſeiſed in fee of the fourth part of the mannor of Barton) in the County of Oxford; by which exchange Buſtard gave to the ſaid Savage and Darſton and their heirs the fourth part of the mannor of Barton in exchange for the moity of the mannor of Ilbury, which moity Savage and Darſton gave unto Buſtard and his heirs in exchange for the ſaid fourth part of the mannor of Barton which exchange was executed on both parties: Savage and Darſton demiſed the fourth part of the mannor of Barton to the Defendant for years. Jaſper died, Juſtine his wife entred into the mannor of Ilbury, upon which Buſtard entred into the fourth part of the mannor of Barton; the Defendant reentred, and Buſtard brought an Action of Treſpaſs. And after many arguments at the Bar and Bench in divers ſeveral Terms, it was adjudged for the Plaintiff; and in this Caſe it was reſolved by the whole Court.

[b] 1. That in every exchange lawfully made, this word Excambium implieth in it ſelf tacite a condition, and alſo a warranty, one to give reentry, and the other voucher and recompence, and all in reſpect of the reciprocal conſideration, one land being given in exchange for the other; But the ſame is a ſpecial warranty upon the voucher, by force of which he ſhall not recover other land in value, but that only which was given in exchange; for in as much as the mutual conſideration is the clauſe of warranty, for this cauſe the ſame ſhall extend only to land reciprocally given, and not to other land: And this warrant runneth only in privity, for none ſhall vouch by force of it but the parties to the the exchange or their heirs, and no assignee; but the assignee shall rebut by force of it although the exchange were without deed, as appeareth in 3 E. 3. Formedon 44. 2 E. 2. Cui in vita 16. The same Law in Case of partition. And as it is in Case of warranty, so it is in Case of condition, which the Law implieth upon the exchange: And therefore if A. exchange with B. and B. alieneth to C. which is a title paramount, C. shall not enter upon the other; for as the warranty runneth in privity to the parties to the exchange and their heirs, so also the condition in Law runneth also in privity, and doth not extend to the assignee, and so none shall have Contra formam feoffamenti but the feoffees or his heirs, but the assignee may rebut, F. N. B. 163. c. 22 H. 6. 50. b. 30 H. 6. 7. a. 10 H. 7. 11. a. But in the same Case, if A. who doth not alien be evicted, he shall reenter into the land which was given in exchange, although that B. hath aliened it over.

2. It was resolved, That if A. give in exchange three acres to B. for other three acres, and afterwards one acre is evicted from B. in this Case all the exchange is defeated, and B. may enter into all his land, for although the exchange had been good if A. had given but two acres, or but one acre or less, yet for as much as all the three acres were given in exchange for the others (and the condition which was implied in the exchange) was entire, upon the eviction of one acre the condition in Law was broken, and therefore entry given unto the whole, for it is the office of a condition to defeate the whole and not parcel, if not that the condition be especially restrained to one part only as it is not in this Case; And therefore there is not any difference between a thing which is entire, as a mannor, and several things given in exchange: The same Law of a partition, as it is agreed in 13 E. 4. f. & 42 Ass. 22. the Earl of Pembroke's Case, where the principal Case of partition is good Law; but the opinion of Cavendish there, that is to say, That although an estate for life or in tail be evicted against one coparcener, that yet the partition remaineth in force, is not Law, as it was resolved by the Court in this very Case, Vide Littleton cap. Partition 58. b. But in the said Case of exchange, if one be impleaded for one acre, and he voucheth the other, and the demandant recovereth, in this Case the Tenant shall recover in value but according to the loss: For although the condition be entire and extendeth to all, yet the warranty upon the exchange may severally extend to part; and there is great difference between a warranty in Law upon [122] exchange, and a warranty in Law upon partition, as to the recovery in value; for in the Case of exchange he who voucheth shall recover in value according to the value which he lost, but so it is not in the Case of partition: For if a man seised of 6 acres in fee, every one of equal value, and dieth, having issue two daughters, and upon the partition each hath three acres, and after one sister is impleaded for one acre by one who hath title paramount, and prayeth in aid of her coparcener, she shall not recover an acre, but an half acre, so that each of them shall have an equal part; for in as much as both claim by descent which is an act in Law, and by the Law each of them ought to have equal part of the inheritance of her ancestors, for this cause she shall recover in value but the moity which she lost, so that the loss shall be equal.

So if a man be seised in fee or in tail of three acres, each of equal yearly value, and dieth, and the heir endoweth the wife of the third acre, and afterwards the wife is impleaded by one who hath title paramount, and she vouch the heir, now she shall recover in value according to that which she lost but the the third part of the two acres which remain, for by the Law she ought to have Dower but of the third part, and now upon the matter she is not to have Dower but of the third part of the two acres, as appeareth by the Book in 5 E. 3. Voucher 249. where the principal Case was, Robert de Paris Besaiel, Stephen de Paris Grandfather, Robert de Paris Father, and Robert de Paris the Son; Robert the Besaiel having to wife Maud seised of certain lands in fee, gave the same to Stephen and the heirs of his body, and died; Robert the son of Stephen endowed Margery the wife of Stephen of the third part of the whole; and afterwards Robert the Besaiel died, and Robert the father died; Maud the wife of the Besaiel brought a Writ of Dower against Margery wife of Stephen, and she vouched Robert the son of Robert who had the reversion; And there the Question was, of how much Margery should have in value? And by some, she shall not have but Dower having regard to the two parts which remain, because the Dower which Maud wife of the Besaiel demanded, is higher and elder than the Dower of Margery the wife of the Grandfather: And notwithstanding that the Besaiel overlived Stephen, and the wife of Stephen in the life of Robert the Besaiel was lawfully endowed at which time Maud could demand nothing, yet when her husband died, her title of Dower was more ancient; And some held the contrary, scil. That the wife should recover in value according to her loss; And difference was taken between Dower of the wife of an heir and of the wife of a purchasor. For if there be Grandfather, father, and son, and the Grandfather dieth, and afterwards the father dieth, and the son endoweth the wife of the father, against whom the wife of the Grandfather bringeth Dower, she shall not recover over in value, because that the Dower [b] of the wife of the Grandfather took away in Law the descent as to the freehold, and she shall be in of an estate from her husband, and by consequence after the death of the wife of the Grandfather, the wife of the father shall not be endowed of the part assigned to the Grandmother for her Dower, for now in Judgment of Law the father had but only a reversion of that part expectant upon an estate for life, & ideo, Dos de dote peti non debet. But in this Case the Besaiel made a gift in tail to Stephen, so that Maud demanded Dower of Margery who was the wife of a purchasor; and although that Maud recovered Dower against Margery, yet if Margery survive her she shall reenter; for Dower taketh away the estate which by Law descended, but not the estate acquired and gained by purchase, and so was it adjudged; and there Margery recovered generally to the value which he lost: So in Case of exchange, each party is a several purchasor, and each warranteth the whole to the other, and therefore he shall recover to the value which he loseth.

3. It was resolved, That as when the whole estate in part is evicted, all the exchange is defeated: So in the principal Case when the estate of freehold for the life of Justine which is but parcel of the estate is evicted in all the lands, or in part, by that the whole exchange may be defeated by force of the condition in Law; for although that a reversion expectant upon an estate for life cannot be given in exchange for land in possession, yet when Savage and Darston in the principal Case were seised of the moity of the said mannor of Ilbury in their demesn as of fee, and gave the same in possession to Bustard in exchange, ut supra, when Justine entreth and evicteth an estate for life, Bustard may enter into the whole land which he gave in exchange, for all the estate which was given to him upon consideration that he depart with his land; and therefore when any estate of freehold is evicted from him by entry or otherwise, he may by force of the condition in Law enter into the land given by him: So if he in the reversion in fee disseiseth his tenant for life, and giveth this land in exchange to another for other land, and afterwards the lessee for life doth enter, now may the other enter into his land, because that the whole exchange is defeated; But if A. hath the reversion in fee of an acre of land expectant upon an estate for life, maketh an exchange with B. by deed indented, and giveth this acre by name of an acre of land, and not by the name of the reversion expectant for another acre, yet in this Case (for as much as nothing passeth by the gift of the acre of land but only the reversion) the warranty or condition cannot by the Law extend to more then passeth by the exchange, for they are incident and annexed to the estate which is given, and cannot extend to the freehold which was in the lessee; and if the Law should be otherwise [123] great mischief would follow: For if exchange be made of divers mannors, and peradventure divers parcels of them are in lease for life, in this Case, if the exchange shall be void because it was made of a mannor in possession, it shall avoid all exchanges, which shall be mischievous, and cannot be any mischief on the other part; for when the tenants for life are in possession of the land, it shall be accounted the folly and lachess of the purchasor, if he do not know it either by survey or other intelligence. And in the Principal Case, by the fine and recovery, and other estates made, the estate which Justine had was devested, and she had but a right, so that Savage and Darston who gave the same in exchange had an estate in fee simple in possession, to which the warranty and condition in Law was annexed.

4. It was resolved, That although that Bustard had notice of the right of Justine at the time of the exchange, yet it was not material, but that after her entry the exchange shall be defeated, for peradventure it was one of the causes that he would not purchase Ilbury absolutely, but by way of exchange, so that upon the eviction he shall have his land back again.

And Coke Attorney General, and Tanfield and Darston were of Councel with the Defendant, and Godfrey, Yelverton, and others with the Plaintiff.

Pasch. 1 Jacobi, in the Kings Bench.

Beverley's Case of Non compos mentis.

[b] IN a Bill depending in the Court of Requests between Snow Plaintiff, and Beverley Defendant, the matter was; That Snow had made an Obligation to the Defendant in 1000 l. and in the said Court would be relieved, because at the time of the making of the said Obligation, he was Non compos mentis; And this Term I moved the Court of Kings Bench to have a stay of the said suit in the Court of Requests, because the matter was not determinable there. And upon this Case two Points upon argument and good consideration were resolved by the whole Court.

1. That every deed, feoffment, or grant which a man of Non compos mentis maketh is avoidable, and yet shall never be avoided by himself, because it is a Maxim in Law, That no man of full age shall be in any plea to be pleaded by him, received by Law to stultifie himself, as appeareth by Littleton, Lib. 2. cap. Descents 95. and therewith agreeth 39 H. 6. 42. b. 5 E. 3. 70. & 35 Ass. 19. And there another cause is given, scil. because that when he recovers his memory, he cannot know what he did when he was Non compos mentis. 2. If the Common Law had given a Writ of Non compos mentis to him who hath recovered his memory after alienation, truly the Law would have given him remedy for the maintenance of him, his wife, children and family, although he recovered not his memory but continued Non compos mentis. And it is to know, That this disability to disable himself as to some persons is personal, and extendeth only to the party himself, and as to other persons is not personal but shall bind them also: And as to that know that there are four manner of privities, scil. Privies in blood, as heir: 2. Privity in [124] representation, as Executors or Administrators, who as Littleton saith 77. represent the person of the Testator or Intestate, 2 Ma. Dier 112. acc. 3. Privity in estate, as donee in tail, the reversion or remainder in fee, &c. 4. Privy in Tenure, as Lord by Escheat: And two of them which are privies only may disable him who was Non compos mentis, and avoid his deeds, grants and feoffments, and two not. For privies in blood may shew the disability of the ancestor, and privies in representation the infirmity of the Testator or Intestate; but neither privy in Estate, nor privy in Tenure shall so do. And therefore if donee in tail being Non compos mentis maketh a feoffment in fee, and dieth without issue, he in the reversion or remainder shall not enter or take advantage of the Non sane memorie of the donee: The same Law of Lord by Escheat, if his Tenant being Non compos mentis, maketh a feoffment in fee and dieth without heir, he shall not avoid it: But there are some acts done by a man of Non compos mentis which none of them shall avoid; and therefore if he levieth a fine, suffereth a common recovery, or acknowledgeth a Statute or Recognisance, neither his heirs nor his Executors shall avoid it, for these are matters of Record which shall not be avoided by a bare averment of Non compos mentis for the inconvenience which may follow thereupon. Alſo ſuch averment is againſt the Office and dignity of the Judge, for he ought not to take any conuſans of a fine or recogniſance of him who is Non compos mentis, 18 E. 2. Fines 120. 27 Aſſ. 17. 17 E. 3.

2. It was reſolved, That the ſame being againſt an expreſs Maxim of the Common Law, that the party ſhall not diſable himſelf, that he ſhall not have for the ſame relief in any Court of equity, for that ſhall be in ſubverſion of a principal and ground in Law. Quod nota, And Coke the Attorney was of Councel with Beverley, and Herle the Queens Serjeant with Snow.

Note Reader, That every thing which a man Non compos doth, either concerneth his life, his lands, or his goods: Alſo every act which he doth is either in pais, or in a Court of Record: All Acts which he doth in a Court of Record either concerning his lands or his goods ſhall bind himſelf, and all others for ever: All acts which he doth concerning his lands or goods in pais, in ſome Caſes ſhall bind him only during his life, and in ſome Caſes ſhall bind him ever (as hath been ſaid.) But as to his life, the Law of England is, That he ſhall not loſe his life for felony, or murder, becauſe the puniſhment of a felon is ſo grievous, ſcil. 1. To loſe his life. 2. To loſe his life in ſuch odious manner, ſcil. by hanging, for he ſhall be hanged between heaven and earth as unworthy of both. 3. He ſhall loſe his blood as to his anceſtry; for he is as a ſon of the earth without any anceſtor, and as to his poſterity alſo, for his blood is corrupt, and he hath neither heir nor poſterity. 4. His lands. 5. His goods; and in ſuch Caſe the King ſhall have Annum, diem, & vaſtum, to the intent his wife and children ſhall be caſt out, his houſes pulled down, his trees eradicated and overthrown, his meadows ploughed, and all that he hath for comfort, delight, or ſuſtenance waſted and deſtroyed, becauſe that he in ſuch felonious manner offended againſt the Law; and all that was, Ut pœna ad paucos, metus ad omnes perveniat: But the puniſhment of a man who is deprived of reaſon and underſtanding cannot be an example to others. 2. No felony or murder can be committed without felonious intent or purpoſe; Et ideo dicta eſt Felonia, quia fieri debet felleo animo: But Furioſus non intelligit quid agit, & animo & rationem caret, & non multum diſtat a brutis, as Bracton ſaith, and therefore he cannot have a felonious intent, Vide 21 H. 7. 31. 26 Aſſ. 27. F. N. B. 202. Stamf. Pleas of the Crown 16. b. Alſo for the ſame reaſon, Non compos mentis cannot commit petit Treaſon: As if a woman Non compos mentis kill her husband, as appeareth 12 H. 3. Forfeiture 33. But in ſome Caſes Non compos mentis may commit high Treaſon, as if he kill, or offer to kill the King, it is high Treaſon, for the King eſt caput & ſalus Reipublicæ, & a capite bona valetudo tranſit in omnes; and for this cauſe their perſons are ſo ſacred, that none ought to do or offer them violence, but he is Reus criminis læſæ Majeſtatis, & pereat unus ne pereant omnes. And it is to know, That there are four manner of Non compos mentis: 1. Ideot or fool natural: 2. He who was of good and ſound memory and by the viſitation of God hath loſt it: 3. Lunaticus, qui gaudet lucidis intervallis, and ſometimes is of ſound memory, and ſometimes Non compos mentis: 4. By his own act, as a drunkard; And it hath been ſaid, that there is great difference between an Ideot a nativitate, and he who was of ſound memory, and cometh by the viſitation of God to be of unſound memory; for an ideot is known by his perpetual infirmity of nature a nativitate, for he never had any ſenſe or underſtanding to contract with any man, but he who was of good memory and underſtanding and able to make a contract, and afterwards by infirmity or caſualty becometh Non compos mentis, is not ſo well known to the world as a natural fool. Alſo an ideot in an Action brought againſt him ſhall appear in proper perſon, and he who pleadeth beſt for him ſhall be admitted, as appeareth in 33 H. 6. 18. Otherwiſe it is of him who becometh of unſound memory, for he ſhall appear by Guardian if he be within age, and by Attorney if he be of full age; But yet as to eſtates or gifts made by them, they themſelves by any plea that they can plead ſhall not avoid them, no leſs the ideot then he who becometh of unſound memory; and be the feoffment or gift made by them in perſon or by Attorney they ſhall never avoid them either by entry or Action, for it appeareth by the ſaid Maxim, that they cannot ſtultifie or diſable themſelves; But if they ſhall avoid things which they do by Attorney, they ought to ſhew that they were then ideots, or of unſound memory: But yet as unto all others, there is a great difference between an eſtate made in perſon and by Attorney; for if an ideot or Non compos mentis maketh a feoffment in fee in perſon, and dieth his heir within age, he ſhall not be in ward, or if he dieth without heir, the land ſhall not eſcheat as is aforeſaid: But if the feoffment be made by letter of Attorney, although that the feoffor ſhall not avoid the ſame, yet after his death as to all others in judgment of Law the eſtate was void, and therefore in ſuch Caſe if his heir be within age he ſhall be in ward, or if he dieth without heir the land ſhall eſcheat, and that is the true reaſon of the Books in 7 H. 4. 5. 7 H. 4. 12. And likewiſe in the Caſe of an infant, if he maketh a feoffment in perſon, if he dieth without heir the land ſhall not Eſcheat, but otherwiſe if it were made by letter of Attorney, but the infant himſelf ſhall not avoid it, but others ſhall; But things done by matter of Record, as Fines, Recoveries, Judgments, Statutes, Recogniſances, ſhall bind as well the ideot, as he who is Non compos mentis, 31 E. 3. Saver de fault 371. 1 Ma. Dum fuit infra ætatem 7. Alſo of a Lunatick, all acts which he doth during his lunacy are equivalent to acts done by an ideot, or he who is utterly Non compos mentis; but acts done by himſelf inter lucida intervalla, when he is of ſound memory ſhall bind him.

Laſtly, although that he who is drunken is for the time Non compos mentis, yet his drunkenneſs ſhall not extenuate his act, or offence, nor turn to his avail, but it is a great offence in it ſelf, and therefore doth aggravate his offence, and doth not derogate from the thing he doth in that time, and that in caſe as well touching his life, as his goods, chattels, or lands, or any other thing concerning him: When and in what Caſes lacheſs ſhall prejudice an ideot or Non compos mentis; ſome have taken difference between barr of his right, and barr of his entry, for in Caſe of barr of his right, his lacheſs ſhall not prejudice him, but in ſuch ſpecial Caſe if he become of unſound memory, he ſhall ſhew that he was not Compos mentis; As if a man Non compos mentis be diſſeiſed; and the diſſeiſor levieth a fine, in this Caſe at the Common Law although the year and day be paſt, yet he who was Non compos mentis ſhall not be bound thereby, but he may well enter, and that they ſay is proved by the Statute de modo levandi fines

[b] [125]

[b] made anno 18 E. 1. which is but a declaration of the Common Law, ſcil. That a fine is ſo high barr and of ſo great force, and of ſo high nature in it ſelf, that it barreth not only thoſe who are parties and privies to the fine and their heirs, but all other of the world who are of full age, out of priſon, and of good memory, and within the four Seas the day of the fine levied, if they put not in their claim by their Action or entry in the Countrey within the year and the day; by which it appeareth that no lacheſs of a man Non compos mentis ſhall barr him of his right. Alſo it appeareth by the Statute of 4 H. 7. cap. 24. That in ſuch Caſe if a man levieth a fine with proclamations, and at the time of the fine levied he who hath right is Non compos mentis, and afterwards he recovereth his memory, that in this Caſe he ought to ſue his Action or entry within five years after he becometh of ſound memory; and in ſuch Caſe in pleading he ſhall ſhew that at the time of the fine levied, he was Non compos mentis, and all the ſpecial matter: But if he who hath ſuch right be an ideot, or Non compos mentis, and never recovereth his memory, the heir may have an Action, or make his entry when he will, for he is excepted out of the body of the Act, and is not tied to make any entry, or bring his Action within any time, but the party himſelf if he recover his memory. The ſame Law of him who is beyond Sea at the time of the fine levied and dieth, there his heir may enter or bring his Action when he will; And in ſuch Caſe the Lord by eſcheat ſhall take advantage of his Non ſane memorie, infancy, impriſonment, or being beyond Sea of his tenant: For if Lord and tenant be, and the tenant be diſſeiſed, and the diſſeiſor levieth a fine, the diſſeiſee being within age, Non compos mentis, or in priſon, or beyond Sea, and afterwards the diſſeiſor taketh back an eſtate to himſelf in fee, and afterwards the diſſeiſee within age, Non compos mentis, in priſon, or beyond the Sea dieth without heir, the Lord by eſcheat ſhall take advantage of every of them againſt the diſſeiſor. So if a collateral warranty deſcend upon a Non compos mentis, which he might have avoided by entry: But an ideot or Non compos mentis by their lacheſs ſhall be barred of their entry, becauſe if they be diſſeiſed, and the diſſeiſor dieth ſeiſed it ſhall take away their entry, but after their death their heir cannot enter nor take advantage of the infirmity of their auncеſtor, and his lacheſs which ſhall prejudice himſelf ſhall not prejudice his heir of his entry, and that appeareth by Littleton Chap. Continual claim 39. For Littleton ſaith, No lacheſs can be adjudged by the Law in him who hath not diſcretion in ſuch Caſe, ſcil. having regard to his heir, and ſo is the difference.

And as to that which is commonly objected, That the civil Law in this point is grounded upon greater reaſon then the Common Law; for by the Civil Law all acts which ideots or Non compos mentis do without their Tutor are utterly void, and that ſeemeth to ſome more reaſonable then the Common Law, becauſe he who is an ideot or Non compos mentis wanteth diſcretion or underſtanding, and the ſame cometh
[126] by the act and viſitation of God, therefore they ſay (God forbid) that his acts or lacheſs during this time ſhould bind him. Others conceive that the ancient Common Law agreeth with the Civil Law in this Caſe; for Bracton lib. 3. fol. 100 ſaith; Furioſus autem ſtipulari non poteſt, nec aliquod negotium agere quia non intelligit quid agit: And therefore it ſeemeth unreaſonable that things done by them who have no diſcretion nor uſe of reaſon, Qui (as Bracton ſaith) non multum diſtant a brutis qui ratione carent, ſhould bind them; and therefore it is (as is commonly ſaid) a great defect in Law, that no Tutor is aſſigned to them by Law, who might protect them, and principally their inheritance: As to that it is to know, That the Law of England hath provided for them a Tutor, and hath made proviſion for the preſervation of their inheritance, and their goods alſo: And therefore in the Caſe of an ideot, or fool natural, for whom there is no expectation but that he during his life will remain without diſcretion and uſe of reaſon, The Law hath given the cuſtody of him, and of all that he hath to the King, who (as F. N. B. 232.) is bounden of right by the Laws to defend his Subjects, and their goods and chattels, lands and tenements; And becauſe that every Subject is in the Kings protection, an ideot who cannot defend nor govern himſelf, nor order his lands and tenements, goods and chattels, the King of right ought to have the ordering of his lands and tenements, goods and chattels; and that appeareth was the Common Law. For Bracton fo. 16. who wtote in 5 E. 1. ſaith, That if any heir be a natural fool, by which he is not able to demand or keep his inheritance, that ſuch heirs of whomſoever they hold male or female remain in the cuſtody of the King with all their heritage. And upon that followeth the Statute of Prærog. Regis cap. 9. made in 17 E. 2. long time after Bracton wrote, was but a declaration of the Common Law. And therewith agreeth 18 E. 3. Scire facias 10. where it appeareth by the ſaid Statute Prærogativa Regis, Quod Rex habebit cuſtodiam terrarum fatuorum naturalium, capiendo exitus eorundem ſine vaſto & deſtructione, & inveniet eis neceſſaria ſua, de cujuſcunque feod' terræ illæ fuerint, & poſt mortem eorundem reddat eam rectis hæredibus, ita quod nullatenus per eoſdem fatuos alienentur, nec eorum hæredes exhæredentur: Upon which words I obſerve divers things.

1. That the Law gave the King but the cuſtody of the lands of the ideot: and although the ſame continue during the life of the ideot, yet having but the cuſtody, the King hath not the freehold or fee, but the freehold is in the ideot; For the Statute ſaith, Quod poſt mortem eorum reddet ea rectis hæredibus, and that appeareth alſo in 17 E. 3. 11. & 13 E. 3. Saver default 37.

[127] 2. Although the Statute ſaith, Cuſtodiam terrarum, yet the King ſhall have as well the cuſtody of the body, and of their goods and chattels, as of their lands and other hereditaments, as well thoſe which they have by purchace, as thoſe which they have as heirs by the Common Law.

3. That he ought to be ideot a nativitate, ſcil. fatuus naturalis, and not by accident or infirmity.

4. That no feoffment, gift, leaſe or releaſe that an ideot can make of his inheritance, but it may be avoided during his life, which appeareth by theſe words, ita quod nullatenus per eoſdem fatuos alienentur, nec quod eorum hæredes exhæredentur: Put caſe then that an ideot above the age of 21 years, maketh a feoffment in fee of his inheritance, if you ask how and in what manner it may be avoided during his life? I anſwer, that if it be found by office at the Kings ſuit, that he was ideot a nativitate, and that he hath aliened his lands, then upon a Scire facias againſt the alienee the land ſhall be ſeiſed into the Kings hands, hands, and thereby the inheritance ſhall be reveſted in the ideot, 18 E. 3. Scire facias 10. 32 E. 3 Scire fac' 106. 50 Aſſ. 2. For the Statute ſaith, Quod poſt mortem eorum reddat eam rectis hæredibus, which the King cannot do, nor can the King have the poſſeſſion of the land to his own uſe, if not that by the office and ſeiſure ſuch conveyance made by the ideot be deſtroyed, and that doth not impugn the ſaid Maxim at the Common Law. For in this Caſe the ideot in no plea that he can plead ſhall diſable or ſtultifie himſelf: But all is found by office by the inquiſition and verdict of 12 men at the Kings ſuit, who are not concluded to ſpeak the truth; and ſuch office when it is found ſhall have relation a tempore nativitatis, to avoid all mean acts made by the ideot, as feoffments, releaſes, &c. and therewith agreeth 23 E. 3. & Scire fac' 106. Stamf. Prærog. 34. F. N. B. 202. c. But notwithſtanding the words of the ſaid Act are general and emphatical nullatenus alienentur, yet if he alieneth by fine, or recovery, it ſhall bind him, as hath been ſaid, for the cauſe aforeſaid. And ſo after ſuch office found all gifts made by him, of his goods or chattels, and all obligations made by ſuch ideot are utterly void; and after ſuch office found if the ideot be ſued in any Action, upon any obligation or writing that he hath made, the King by his Writ (ſo long as the Office ſtandeth in force) reciting the office ſhall ſend a Superſedeas to the Juſtices where the ſuit is begun: But the King ſhall not have the cuſtody of the lands of an ideot holden by Copy, for the ſame is but an eſtate at will by the Common Law; and if the King ſhould have the cuſtody thereof, it would be miſchievous to the Lord of the Mannor; But yet an alienation made by an ideot of his Copihold land after office found ſhall be avoided, vide 11 Eliz. Dier 302.

And that the King ſhall have the protection of the goods and chattels of an infant as well as of his lands, appeareth by F. N. B. 232. where he ſaith, That if an infant who cannot defend, govern or order his lands, tenements, goods, or chattels, the King of right ought to have him in his cuſtody, and to protect him and his goods and chattels, and the ſame appeareth alſo by the Writ in the Regiſter, de Ideota inquirenda, where it is ſaid, Quia accepimus quod I. de B. fatuus & ideota exiſtit, ita quod regimini ſui ipſius, terrarum, tenementorum, bonorum & catallorum ſuorum non ſufficit, & quod ipſe in fatuitate ſua magnam partem terrarum & tenementorum ſuorum alienavit, & etiam magnam partem bonorum & catallorum ſuorum diſſipavit in exhæredationem ſuam, & noſtri præjudic' manifeſt', nos indemnitate ipſius in hac parte proſpicere volentes, &c. By which it appeareth, That by the Common Law the King ſhall have as great protection of the goods and chattels of an ideot, as of his lands, and that as well the ſcattering of his goods and chattels, as the alienation of his lands is to be remedied and redreſſed by the King, to whom the Law hath given the protection and cuſtody of him. And as after office found he cannot alien, give, &c. So alienations, gifts, &c. made before office found, ſhall be avoided after office thereof found, as is aforeſaid, for no lacheſs ſhall be accounted in the King, nor no prejudice thereby ſhall accrue to the ideot for not ſuing the office before the feoffment of gift. But if the ideot dieth before office found, after his death no office can be found, for the words of the Writ are, Et ipſum viis & modis quibus ſuper ſtatu ſuo melius poteritis informari circumſpecte examinaretis, &c. which cannot be done when he is dead; and without office the King cannot be entituled, 16 E. 3. Livery 30. and then the former differences as to his lands and tenements and goods hold.

The ſame Law if a man who was of ſound memory become Non compos mentis, and afterwards alieneth his lands or his goods and chattels, and afterwards by office at the Kings ſuit it is found, that he was Non compos mentis, and that he hath aliened, &c. the King ſhall protect him who cannot protect himſelf, as is aforeſaid, and ſhall take the profits of his lands, and all that he hath, (which the King could not do if his alienation or gift ſhould ſtand) and therewith maintain him and his family, but the King ſhall not take any of the ſaid profits to his own uſe; and all this appeareth by the Statute of Prærogat. Reg. cap. 10. which was but a declaration of the Common Law; Item Rex providebit, &c. And obſerve that the ſaid words of F. N. B. 232. that the King is bound of right by his Laws to defend his Subjects; and their goods and chattels, lands and tenements, extend as well to Non compos mentis, as to an ideot; but in Caſe of Non compos mentis the King ſhall not have intereſt in the lunatick (as he hath in the ideot) becauſe that the lunatick may recover his memory which he hath loſt; and therefore in the Caſe of the ideot, the Law ſaith Rex habebit cuſtodiam, but in the Caſe of Non compos mentis, Rex providebit; and as to alienation made by Non compos mentis, the words are all one as they are in the Caſe of the ideot, ſcil. Ita quod præd' terr' & tenementa infra præd' tempus nullatenus alienentur; and therefore after the office found thereof, the alienation, gift, &c. of him who is Non compos mentis, are in equal Caſe with the alienation or gift of an ideot; and the ſaid words of the Writ in the Regiſter, Quia accepimus quod I. de B. fatuus & ideota exiſtit, &c. extend as well to Non compos mentis, as fool natural, for afterwards in the ſame Writ it is ſaid, Diligenter inquiras ſi idem I. fatuus & Ideota ſit necne, & ſi ſit, tunc utrum a nativitate ſua, an ab alio tempore, tunc a quo tempore & qualiter & quomodo, & ſi lucidis gaudit intervallis, & ſi idem I. in eodem ſtatu exiſtens terras aut tenementa aliqua alienavit necne, &c. So that it appeareth that in Judgment of Law, Fatuus & Ideota include as well Non compor mentis, as Ideota a nativitate, and therefore they are in the ſame Caſe, as to the alienation of their lands and tenements, goods and chattels. Hill. 28 H. 8. Rot. 401. in the Common Pleas the Caſe was; In Treſpaſs Quare clauſum fregit, and cutting his trees, in Paddington in the County of Midd. by John Frauncis againſt William Holmes, The Defendant pleaded that it was found by office before the Eſcheator of the ſaid County of Midd. that the ſaid John Frauncis was a lunatick, and that he was ſeiſed in fee of the land in which, &c. for which the King ſeiſed his perſon, and his land, and by his Letters Patents granted the rule, government and cuſtody of the ſame perſon and lands to the ſaid Holmes, quamdiu that the perſon was lunatick, to take the profits to his own uſe, and ſo juſtified, and prayed in aid of the King; and thereupon it was demurred in Law, if he ſhould have aid or not. And it was adjudged, That he ſhould not have aid of the King, for this grant was utterly void, for the King is bound to keep the lunatick, his wife, children and houſhold, with the profits of the lands, and without taking any thing to his own uſe, but all to the uſe of the Non compos mentis and his family, and all to the intent that the King may provide that he who wanteth reaſon ſhould not alien his lands,

[127] [128] [b]

not

nor waſte his goods. And the King after office found, hath only proviſion, and hath not any cuſtody of the body or lands of Non compos mentis, as he hath of an ideot, and he hath nothing to grant over: But if the King provideth one to have care and charge of him who is Non compos mentis, that his family ſhall be maintained, and that nothing be waſted; or if one of his own head taketh ſo much upon himſelf, in this Caſe he is but as Baily of him who is Non compos mentis, and ſhall be accountable to him as Baily, or to his Executors or Adminiſtrators, and he cannot cut down trees but for neceſſary houſeboot, ploughboot and cartboot, and to repair the ancient pales, and all that the Baily may do he may do, and not otherwiſe. And therewith agreeth a Writ in the Regiſter directed to the Sheriff, Diligenter inquiras utrum I. de B. a nativitatis ſuæ tempore ſemper hactenus purus Ideota exiſtit, per quod cuſtodia terrarum & tenementorum ſuorum in C. ad nos debeat pertinere, an per infortunium vel alio modo in hujuſmodi infirmitatem poſtea inciderit, propter quod hujuſmodi cuſtodia ad nos pertinere non debeat. And ſo by theſe differences you will underſtand your Books, 18 E. 2. Fines 120. 3 E. 3. Entry congeable. Statham. 3 E. 3. Formedon. 5 E. 3. 70. 10 E. 3. Scire facias 10. and as well 32 E. 3. Scire facias 106. 17 Aſſ. 17. 17 E. 3. 11. 25 Aſſ. 4. 35 Aſſ. 10. 50 Aſſ. 2. 9 H. 6. 6. 39 H. 6. 24. 12. E. 4. 8. F. N. B. 202. Stamf. Prærog. 34. Bract. lib. 2. fo. 11, 12. & lib. 3. fo. 100. Britton fo. 66. Br. Dum fuit infra ætatem 9. and divers other Writs in the Regiſter, which are agreeable with the reaſon of the Common Law.

Note Reader, That Ideota or Ideotes is a Greek word, and properly ſignifieth a private man who hath not any publick office. Amongſt the Latines it is taken for illiterate or fooliſh. Amongſt our Lawyers Non compos mentis. Amongſt the Engliſh in common ſpeech, Fool natural: Fatuus proprie dicitur a fando, quia fatur quod puer primo fatur, id eſt, quia inepta loquitur; Sed apud Juriſperitos noſtros accipitur pro Non compos mentis, & fatuus dicitur qui omnino deſipit: Stultus dicitur a ſtupore, quia ſtultus eſt qui propter ſtuporem movetur; Levius eſt eſſe ſtultum quam fatuum, ſcil. imprudens, improvidus, ignorans mali & boni. Inſanus qui abjecta ratione omnia cum impetu & furore facit. Amens, ab (a) quæ eſt particula privativa, & mente, id eſt, conſilio & animo. Demens, eſt qui non cogitat quid agit aut loquitur, (de) eſt particula privativa: Amens qui prorſus inſanit: Ariſt. Ethicorum, Amentes dicuntur qui a natura experti rationis ſolum ſenſum motum exequuntur.

[129]

THE

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke K^t. &c.

PART V.

Of the King's Eccleſiaſtical Law.

IN the Term of S. Hillary, in the 33 year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Rot. 340. Robert Caudrey Clark brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt George Atton for breaking of his Cloſe at Northluffenham in the County of Rutland, the 7th day of Auguſt, in the 31ſt, year of the reign of the ſaid late Queen; The Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and the Jury returned and ſworn for trial of this iſſue, gave a ſpecial Verdict; that is, they found the truth of the Caſe at large, referring the ſame for the Law to the Judgment of the Court, to this effect: They found that the Plaintiff before the Treſpaſs ſuppoſed to be done, was Parſon of the Rectory of Southluffenham in the County aforeſaid, whereof the place wherein the Treſpaſs was alledged was parcel, and found the Statute made in the firſt year of the ſaid late Queens reign, by which in effect it is enacted; That ſuch Juriſdiction Eccleſiaſtical, as by any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical power hath heretofore been, or may lawfully be exerciſed for the viſitation of the Eccleſiaſtical eſtate, and perſons, and for reformation, order and correction of the ſame, and of all manner of Errors, Hereſies, Schiſms, Abuſes, Offences, Contempts and Enormities within this Realm, ſhould for ever be united and annexed to the imperial Crown of this Realm. And that her Highneſs, her heirs and ſucceſſors, ſhould have full power and authority by vertue of that Act by Letters Patents under the great Seal of England, to aſſign, nominate and authoriſe ſuch perſons, being natural born Subjects, as her Highneſs, her heirs or ſucceſſors ſhould think meet, to exerciſe and execute under her Highneſs, her heirs and ſucceſſors, all and all manner of Juriſdiction, Privileges and Preheminences, in any wiſe touching or concerning any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction within this Realm of England and Ireland, and to viſit, reform, redreſs, order, correct and amend all ſuch Errors, Hereſies, Schiſms, Abuſes, Offences, Contempts and Enormities whatſoever, which by any manner Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical power, authority or juriſdiction can or may lawfully be reformed, ordered, redreſſed, corrected, reſtrained or amended, to the pleaſure of Almighty God, the increaſe of vertue, and the conſervation of the peace and unity of this Realm. And that ſuch perſons ſo to be named, aſſigned and authoriſed, ſhould have full power and authority by vertue of that Act, and of ſuch Letters Patents under her Highneſs her heirs and ſucceſſors, to exerciſe, uſe and execute all the premiſſes, according to the tenor and effect of the ſaid Letters Patents, any matter or cauſe to the contrary notwithſtanding.

And afterwards the ſaid Queen by her Letters Patents under the great Seal of England, bearing date the ninth day of December, in the ſix and twentieth year of her reign, according to the tenor of the ſaid Act, did authoriſe the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the Biſhop of London, and divers others, or any three or more of them, to inquire amongſt others, of the Statute of the firſt year of her reign, concerning the Book of Common Prayer, with this clauſe alſo contained in the ſaid Letters Patents, viz. Alſo we give and grant full power and authority to reform, redreſs, order, correct and amend in all places of this Realm, all

Errors,

Errors, Hereſies, Schiſms, Abuſes, Contempts and Enormities, Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical whatſoever, which by any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical power, authority or Juriſdiction, can or may lawfully be reformed, ordered, redreſſed, corrected, reſtrained or amended by cenſures Eccleſiaſtical, deprivation, or otherwiſe, &c. And upon proof thereof had, and the offences aforeſaid, or any of them ſufficiently proved againſt any perſon or perſons, by confeſſion, lawful witneſs, or by any due manner, &c. That then you or three of you ſhall have full power and authority to order and award ſuch puniſhment to any ſuch offender by fine, impriſonment, cenſure of the Church, or otherwiſe, or by all or any of the ſaid ways, and to take ſuch order for the redreſs of the ſame, as by your wiſdoms and diſcretions ſhall be thought meet and convenient, as by the ſaid Letters Patents more at large appeareth. And further they found the Statute of the firſt year of the reign of the ſaid late Queen, by which it is enacted, That the offender againſt that Act concerning the uniformity of Common Prayer, and being thereof lawfully convicted according to the Laws of the Realm, by Verdict of twelve men, or by his confeſſion, or by the notorious evidence of the fact, ſhould forfeit for the firſt offence the value of his ſpiritual living for one whole year, and ſhould ſuffer ſix months impriſonment. For the ſecond offence to be committed after ſuch conviction, he ſhould be deprived ipſo facto of all his ſpiritual livings. And for the third offence to be committed after two convictions as is aforeſaid, he ſhall be deprived of all his Eccleſiaſtical Livings, and be impriſoned during his life. And that the ſaid Robert Caudrey before the time of the Treſpaſs ſuppoſed, was deprived of his ſaid Benefice before the ſaid high Commiſſioners, as well for that he had preached againſt the ſaid Book of Common Prayer, as alſo for that he refuſed to celebrate Divine Service according to the ſaid Book, and ſhewed particularly wherein: Which ſaid ſentence of deprivation was given by the Biſhop of London, cum aſſenſu A. B. C. D. &c. collegarum ſuorum; and the Jury concluded their Verdict; That if the ſaid deprivation were not warranted by Law, but void, then they found the Defendant guilty of the Treſpaſs: And if the deprivation were not void in Law, then they found the Defendant Not guilty.

And this Caſe was ſolemnly and oftentimes debated at Bar by the Council of either party, and at the Bench by the Judges, and after great and long deliberation and conſultation had with the reſt of the Judges, was in the Term of S. Hillary in the 37th year of the ſaid Queen adjudged. And it was argued by the Council of the Plaintiff, that the ſaid deprivation was void for four cauſes.

Firſt, The ſaid Book of Common Prayer being authoriſed and commanded to be obſerved by the ſaid Act of the firſt year of the Queen, upon the forfeitures and puniſhments therein compriſed, the offence of the Plaintiff is againſt that Act; for that Act only doth command the obſervation of the ſaid Book, and inflicteth puniſhments in ſeveral degrees for depraving or not deſerving of the ſame, and conſequently if the offence be againſt that Act, the Plaintiff ought to have been proceeded withal, and puniſhed according to the ſame: And it was ſaid, that the ſaid Act was an Act of great moderation and equity for the offender for his firſt offence ſhould not be ipſo facto deprived, but ſhould only loſe the profits of his Eccleſiaſtical livings for one year, and ſuffer impriſonment for ſix months, to the end that ſuch as were froward might have a time to repent, and the well minded a time to conſent; and ſuch care had the Act of the offenders in this behalf, as if they committed one offence, and then another, and ſo the ſecond many more; yet ſhould not the offender be deprived for any of the later offences, unleſs he had been firſt judicially convicted of record by verdict of 12 men, or by confeſſion, or notorious evidence of the fact: So as the ſecond offence for which he muſt be deprived by the ſaid Act, muſt be done and committed after ſuch a judicial and ſolemn conviction and puniſhment according to the ſaid Act; and then if ſuch an open puniſhment and infliction ſhould not give him underſtanding, and open his heart to repent, then upon a like conviction for a ſecond offence, to be committed after ſuch a conviction, deprivation ſhould follow. But in the Caſe now in queſtion, Caudrey the Plaintiff was deprived from his ſaid Parſonage of Southluffenham for his ſaid firſt offence, being never convented or convicted for any ſuch offence before. And therefore it was concluded for this firſt Point, That the ſaid high Commiſſioners had not purſued the form and order preſcribed by the ſaid Act; Et non obſervata forma, infertur annullatio Actus, and conſequently the deprivation of the Plaintiff is void, and therefore Judgment ought to be given for him. And it was ſaid by the Plaintiffs Council, by way of anticipation; That albeit there was a Proviſo in the ſame Act for Archbiſhops, Biſhops, and their Chauncellors, Commiſſaries, Archdeacons, and other Ordinaries, having peculiar Juriſdiction, yet that did not give any ſtrength to the ſaid deprivation for two cauſes. 1. That the Commiſſioners by force of the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. and of the ſaid Letters Patents, are not within the ſaid Proviſo, but only Archbiſhops and Biſhops, their Chauncellors, Commiſſaries, &c. in reſpect of their ordinary Juriſdiction. 2. Admitting it ſhould extend to the ſaid high Commiſſioners, yet ought they to proceed according to the form and order of the ſaid Act, for an offence done againſt that Act.

Secondly, It was objected by the Council of the Plaintiff, that Caudrey the Plaintiff was not deprived either by the verdict of 12 men, or by confeſſion, or by the notorious evidence of the fact, but by default in reſpect he appeareth not, being duly precogniſated or warned, which Caſe, as it was objected, was Caſus omiſſus, & oblivioni datus, and not within the ſaid Act.

Thirdly, It was objected on the behalf of the Plaintiff, That the ſaid ſentence given by the ſaid high Commiſſioners was utterly void, for that they or any three or more of them having authority by force of the ſaid Act, and of the ſaid Letters Patents under the great Seal, ought to joyn in the Sentence, and that one alone with the conſent of two or more of the other Commiſſioners cannot give a ſentence, for that every Commiſſioner hath equal authority, and by the ſaid Letters Patents three or more muſt give the ſentence with conſent of others, and ſuch a Judgment given by any Commiſſioners of Oyer and Terminer, or other Commiſſioners or Judges of the Common Law, were utterly void and of none effect.

Fourthly and Laſtly, It was objected, That the ſaid Commiſſioners were not nominated and appointed, according to the ſaid Act, for the Juriſdiction and Power given by the ſaid Act to the Crown, is to name name ſuch Commiſſioners as be natural born Subjects, and it doth not appear by the ſpecial verdict that the ſaid Commiſſioners were natural born Subjects: And albeit the Judges as private men in their particular knowledge did know them to be natural born Subjects, yet they being Judges of record ought only to ſee with judicial eyes, and to take knowledge of no more then doth appear to them within the Record, for upon that, and not upon private knowledge out of the Record, they only muſt give their Judgment, and upon that Record enter their Judgment alſo of Record. And ſeeing that the late Queen had as it was ſaid by the Plaintiffs Council, Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction by the ſaid Act of Parliament, and by the ſame, power was given unto her to name Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſioners, ſhe of neceſſity muſt make her nomination according to the ſaid Act, having no other power, as was objected, but by the ſaid Act; And ſeeing it was not ſpecially found that they were natural born Subjects; Et de non apparentibus & non exiſtentibus eadem eſt ratio: For this cauſe alſo the ſaid ſentence of Deprivation was void, as given by Commiſſioners not warranted by the ſaid Act.

As to the firſt and ſecond Objection, both being grounded upon the ſaid Act of Parliament, it was reſolved by the whole Court, that notwithſtanding theſe two Objections, the ſentence was not to be impeached for either of them, and that for three cauſes. Firſt for that the ſaid Act concerning the uniformity of Common Prayer, being in the affirmative, doth not abrograte or take away the Juriſdiction Eccleſiaſtical, unleſs words in the negative had been added, as, and not otherwiſe, or in no other manner or form, or to the like effect; And this appeareth by the general rule of all our Books, as appeareth in 46 E. 3. 4. 47 E. 3. 10. 20 H. 6. 11. 36 H. 6. 3. 3 E. 4. 27. 3 H. 7. 1. 14 H. 7. 10. 15 H. 7. 16. 33 H. 8. Dier 50. 4 Mar. Dier 135. Stradling's Caſe, Pl. Com. 207, &c.

2. The Eccleſiaſtical Law and the Temporal Law have ſeveral proceedings, and to ſeveral ends; the one being Temporal to inflict puniſhment upon the body, lands, or goods; the other being Spiritual, pro ſalute Animæ, the one to puniſh the outward man, the other to reform the inward, and this appeareth in 12 H. 7. 22. & 10 E. 4. 10, &c. Then both theſe diſtinct and ſeveral Juriſdictions conſiſt and ſtand well together, and do joyn in this, to have the whole man inwardly and outwardly reformed.

3. The Proviſo in the ſaid Act doth make this queſtion without queſtion, for by it is provided, ordained, and enacted by the authority aforeſaid, That all and ſingular Archbiſhops and Biſhops, and every of their Chancellors, Commiſſaries, Archdeacons, and other Ordinaries, having any peculiar Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, ſhould have full power and authority by vertue of that Act, as well to enquire in their Viſitation, Synods, and elſewhere within their Juriſdiction, as at any other time and place to take occaſions and informations of all and every the things above mentioned, done, committed or perpetrated within the limits of their Juriſdictions and Authority, and puniſh the ſame by Admonition, Excommunication, Sequeſtration, or Deprivation, and other Cenſures and Proceſs in like form as heretofore had been uſed in like Caſes by the Queens Eccleſiaſtical Laws, as by the ſaid Act appeareth. So as ſeeing, if that Act had never inflicted any puniſhment for depraving or not obſerving the Book of Common Prayer, yet the ſame being allowed and commanded to be obſerved for uniformity of Common Prayer, and the unity and peace of the Church; The Eccleſiaſtical Judge may deprive ſuch Parſon, Vicar, &c. as ſhall deprave or not obſerve the ſaid Book, as well for the firſt offence, as he might have done by the Cenſures of the Church, and the Eccleſiaſtical Laws, as if no form of puniſhment had been inflicted by that Act; And this doth evidently appear by the ſaid Proviſo: For thereby notwithſtanding any thing in that Act contained, they may puniſh ſuch offenders by Admonition, Excommunication, Sequeſtration, or Deprivation, and other cenſures and proceſs, in like form as heretofore hath been uſed in like Caſes by the Queens Eccleſiaſtical Laws, and are not bound to purſue the form preſcribed by the ſaid Act, which is to puniſh the offender according to the Temporal Law. And it was reſolved that if the Juriſdiction of the Archbiſhops and Biſhops and their Chancellors, Commiſſaries, Archdeacons, and other Ordinaries, having any peculiar Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction were provided for by the ſaid ſaid Act, a fortiori the High Commiſſioners authorized by another Act in the ſame Parliament were tacite provided for, Quia cui licet quod majus eſt, non debet quod minus eſt non licere.

As to the third Objection it was alſo reſolved by the whole Court, that the ſentence given by the Biſhop, by the conſent of his Colleagues, was ſuch as the Judges of Common Law ought to allow to be given according to the Eccleſiaſtical Laws: For ſeeing their authority is to proceed and give ſentence in Eccleſiaſtical cauſes, according to the Eccleſiaſtical Law, and they have given a ſentence in a cauſe Eccleſiaſtical upon their proceedings, by force of that Law; The Judges of the Common Law ought to give faith and credit to their ſentence, and to allow it to be done according to the Eccleſiaſtical Law; For cuilibet in ſua arte perito eſt credendum. And this is the common received opinion of all our Books, as appeareth in 11 H. 7. 9. 34 H. 6. 14, &c. and in Bunting and Leppingwel's Caſe in the fourth Part of my Reports; And this is the uſual form of all the ſentences in their Eccleſiaſtical Courts: And this very Point, Tr. 23 Reginæ Eliz. in this Court between Cheyney and Frankwel, all the matter being found, as this Caſe is by ſpecial verdict was adjudged.

As to the fourth Objection, viz. That the ſaid late Queen had only power by force of the ſaid Act to nominate Commiſſioners for Eccleſiaſtical cauſes, and therefore your ſaid Nomination not purſuing the authority given unto her by that Act ſhould be void. Hereunto a threefold anſwer was given and reſolved by the whole Court.

1. That they which were Commiſſioners, and had places of Judicature over the Kings Subjects, ſhould be intended to be Subjects born and not aliens: But if in verity they were aliens, yet in reſpect of the general intendment to the contrary, it ought to be alledged and proved by the other party; For, Stabitur præſumptioni donec probetur in contrarium.

2. The Jurors have found that the Queen by her ſaid Letters Patents, did authorize them ſecundum formam Statuti prædicti; and therefore it doth by neceſſary conſequence amount to as much as if they had found they had been Subjects born: For if they were not Subjects born, they could not be authorized ſecundum formam Statuti prædicti. Vide 11 H. 4. 4. 13 Eliz. Dier fol. And the rather for that it is found by ſpecial verdict.

3. It was reſolved, That the ſaid Act of the firſt year of the ſaid late Queen concerning Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, was not a Statute introductory of a new Law, but declaratory of the old; which appeareth as well by the title of the ſaid Act, viz. An Act reſtoring to the Crown the ancient Juriſdiction over the ſtate Eccleſiaſtical and Spiritual, &c. As alſo by the body of the Act in divers parts thereof; for that Act doth not annex any Juriſdiction to the Crown, but that which in truth was, or of right ought to be by the ancient Laws of the Realm parcel of the Kings Juriſdiction, and united to his Imperial Crown, and which lawfully had been, or might be exerciſed within the Realm; The end of which Juriſdiction, and of all the proceeding thereupon was, that all things might be done in Cauſes Eccleſiaſtical to the pleaſure of Almighty God, the increaſe of vertue, and the conſervation of the peace and unity of this Realm, as by divers parts of the ſaid Act appeareth: And therefore as by that Act no pretended Juriſdiction exerciſed within this Realm, being either ungodly or repugnant to the Prerogative, or to the ancient Law of the Crown of this Realm, was or could be reſtored to the ſame Crown, according to the ancient right and Law of the ſame: So if that Act of the firſt year of the late Queen had never been made, it was reſolved by all the Judges, that the King or Queen of England for the time being, may make ſuch an Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſion as is before mentioned, by the ancient Prerogative and Law of England. And therefore by the ancient Laws of this Realm, this Kingdom of England is an abſolute Empire and Monarchy conſiſting of one head, which is the King; and of a Body politick, compact and compounded of many, and almoſt infinite ſeveral, and yet well agreeing members; All which the Law divideth into two general parts, that is to ſay, The Clergy, and The Laity, both of them next and immediately under God, ſubject and obedient to the head: Alſo the Kingly head of this politick Body is inſtituted and furniſhed with plenary and entire power prerogative and juriſdiction, to render juſtice and right to every part and member of this Body, of what eſtate, degree, or calling ſoever, in all cauſes Eccleſiaſtical or Temporal, otherwiſe he ſhould not be Head of the whole Body. And as in Temporal cauſes, the King by the mouth of the Judges in his Courts of Juſtice doth judge and determine the ſame by the Temporal Laws of England; ſo in cauſes Eccleſiaſtical and Spiritual, as namely, Blaſphemy, Apoſtacy from Chriſtianity, Hereſies, Schiſms, ordering Admiſſions, Inſtitutions of Clerks, celebration of Divine Service, Rights of Matrimony, Divorces, general Baſtardy, ſubtraction and right of Tithes, Oblations, Obventions, Dilapidations, Reparation of Churches, Probate of Teſtaments, Adminiſtrations, and accounts upon the ſame, Simony, Inceſts, Fornications, Adulteries, Solicitation of Chaſtity, Penſions, Procurations, Appeals in Eccleſiaſtical cauſes, Commutation of Penance, and others, (the conuſans whereof belong not to the Common Laws of England) the ſame are to be determined and decided by Eccleſiaſtical Judges, according to the Kings Eccleſiaſtical Laws of this Realm: For as the Romans fetching divers Laws from Athens, yet being approved and allowed by the State there, called them notwithſtanding, Jus Civile Romanorum: And as the Normans borrowing all or moſt of their Laws from England, yet baptized them by the name of the Laws or Cuſtoms of Normandy; So albeit the Kings of England derived their Eccleſiaſtical Laws from others, yet ſo many as were proved, approved and allowed here, by and with a general conſent, are aptly and rightly called, The Kings Eccleſiaſtical Laws of England; which whoſoever ſhall deny, he denieth that the King hath full and plenary power to deliver juſtice in all cauſes to all his Subjects, or to puniſh all crimes and offences within his Kingdom: For that as before it appeareth the deciding of matters ſo many, and of ſo great importance, are not within the conuſance of the Common Laws; and conſequently that the King is no compleat Monarch, nor Head of the whole and entire Body of the Realm. But to confirm thoſe that hold the truth, to ſatisfie ſuch as being not inſtructed, know not the ancient and modern Laws and Cuſtoms of England, every man being perſwaded as he is taught; Theſe few demonſtrative proofs out of the Laws of England, in ſtead of many in order, & ſerie temporum, are here added.

Kenulphus Rex, &c. per literas ſuas patentes, concilio, & conſenſu Epiſcoporum, & Senatorum gentis ſuæ, largitus fuit Monaſterio de Abindon in Com. Bark. ac cuidam Ruchnio tunc Abbati Monaſterii, &c. quandam ruris ſui portionem, id eſt, quindecim Manſias, in loco qui a Ruricolis tunc nuncupabatur Culnam, cum omnibus utilitatibus ad eand' pertinent', tam in magnis quam in modicis rebus in æternam hæreditatem. Et quod prad. Ruchnius, &c. ab omni Epiſcopali Jure in ſempiternum eſſet quietus, ut inhabitatores ejus, nullius Epiſcopi aut ſuorum officialium jugo inde deprimantur, ſed in cunctis rerum eventib' & diſcuſſionib' cauſarum Abbatis Monaſterii præd. decreto ſubjiciantur. Ita quod, &c. As by the ſaid Charter pleaded in 1 H. 7. and vouched by Stanford, at large appeareth: which Charter granted about 850 years ſithence, was after confirmed per Edwin' Britanniæ, Anglorum Regem, & Monarcham: By which it appeareth, that the King by his Charter made in Parliament (for it appeareth to be made by the Council and conſent of his Biſhops and Senators of his Kingdom which were aſſembled in Parliament) did diſcharge and exempt the ſaid Abbot from the Juriſdiction of the Biſhop, &c. And by the ſame Charter did grant to the ſaid Abbot Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction within his ſaid Abbey, which Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction being derived from the Crown, continued until the diſſolution of the ſaid Abbey in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth.

In the Reign of King Edward the Confeſſor.

THE King, who is the Vicar of the higheſt King, is ordained to this end, that he ſhould govern and rule the Kingdom and people of the land, and above all things the holy Church, and that he defend the ſame from wrong doers, and deſtroy and root out workers of miſchief. And this ſhall ſuffice for many before the Conqueſt.

In the Reign of King William the Firſt.

IT is agreed, that no man only can make any appropriation of any Church having cure of Souls, being a thing Eccleſiaſtical, and to be made to ſome perſon Eccleſiaſtical, but he that hath Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction: But William the Firſt of himſelf without any other (as King of England) made appropriation of Churches with Cure, to Eccleſiaſtical perſons, wherefore it followeth that he had Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction.

In the Reign of King Henry the Firſt.

HEnry by the Grace of God King of England, Duke of Normans; To all Archbiſhops, Biſhops, Abbots, Earls, Barons, and to all Chriſtians as well preſent, as to come, &c. We do Ordain as well in regard of Eccleſiaſtical as Royal Power, that whenſoever the Abbot of Reading ſhall die, that all the poſſeſſions of the Monaſtery whereſoever it is, do remain entire and free with all the rights and cuſtoms thereof, in the hands and diſpoſition of the Prior and the Monks of the Chapter of Reading: We do therefore ordain and eſtabliſh this Ordinance to be obſerved for ever, becauſe the Abbot of Reading hath no revenues proper and peculiar to himſelf, but common with his Brethren; Whoſoever by Gods will ſhall be appointed Abbot in this place by Canonical election, may not diſpend the Alms of the Abbey by ill uſage with his ſecular Kinſmen, or any other, but in entertaining the poor Pilgrims and Strangers, and that he have a care not to give out the rent lands in fee, neither that he make any ſervitors or ſouldiers, but in the ſacred Garment of Chriſt, wherein let him be adviſedly provident he entertain not young ones, but that he entertain men of ripe age or diſcreet, as well Clerks as Lay-men.

In the Reign of King Henry the Third.

IN the time of H. 3. and his Progenitors Kings of England, and ever ſithence, if any man did ſue before any Judge Eccleſiaſtical within this Realm, for any thing whereof that Court by allowance and cuſtom had not lawful conuſance, the King did ever by his Writ under his Great Seal prohibit them to proceed: And if the ſuggeſtion made to the King, whereupon the prohibition was grounded were after found untrue, then the King by his Writ of conſultation under his Great Seal, did allow and permit them to proceed. Alſo, in all the Reign of H. 3. and his Progenitors Kings of England, and ever ſithence, if any iſſue were joyned upon the loyalty of marriage, general baſtardy, or ſuch like, the King did ever write to the Biſhop of that Dioceſs, as mediate officer and miniſter to his Court, to certifie the loyalty of marriage, baſtardy, or ſuch like; all which do apparently prove, that thoſe Eccleſiaſtical Courts were under the Kings Juriſdiction and Commandment, and that one of the Courts were ſo neceſſarily incident to the other, as the one without the other could not deliver Juſtice to the parties, as well in theſe particular Caſes, as in a number of Caſes before ſpecified, whereof the Kings Eccleſiaſtical Court hath Juriſdiction: Now to command and to be obeyed, belong to Soveraign and Supreme Government.

By the ancient Canons and Decrees of the Church of Rome, the iſſue born before ſolemnization of marriage, is as lawful inheritable (marriage following) as the iſſue born after marriage; But this was never allowed or appointed in England, and therefore was never of any force here: And this appeareth by the Statute of Merton, made in the 20*th* Year of King Henry the Third.

To the Kings Writ of Baſtardy, whether one being born afore Matrimony may inherit in like manner as he that is born after Matrimony, all the Biſhops anſwered, that they would not, nor could not anſwer to it, becauſe it was directly againſt the common order of the Church; And all the Biſhops requeſted the Lords, that they would conſent that all ſuch as were born afore Matrimony ſhould be legitimate, as well as they that be born within Matrimony, as to the ſucceſſion of Inheritance, for ſo much as the Church accepteth ſuch to be legitimate: And all the Earls and Barons with one voice anſwered, We will not change the Laws of England which hitherto have been uſed and approved.

In the Reign of King Edward the Firſt.

IN the Reign of King Edward the Firſt, a Subject brought in a Bull of Excommunication againſt another Subject of this Realm, and publiſhed it to the Lord Treaſurer of England, and this was by the ancient Common Law of England adjudged Treaſon againſt the King, his Crown and Dignity, for the which the offender ſhould have been drawn and hanged, but at the great inſtance of the Chancellor and Treaſurer, he was only abjured the Realm for ever.

The ſaid King Edw. 1. preſented his Clerk to a Benefice within the Province of York, who was refuſed by the Archbiſhop, for that the Pope by way of Proviſion had conferred it on another; The King thereupon brought a Quare non admiſit, the Archbiſhop pleaded that the Biſhop of Rome had long time before provided to the ſaid Church, as one having ſupreme authority in that Caſe, and that he durſt not, nor had power to put him out, which was by the Popes Bull in poſſeſſion: For which his high contempt againſt the King, his Crown and Dignity, in refuſing to execute his Soveraigns commandment, fearing to do it againſt the Popes proviſion, by judgment of the Common Law, the lands of his whole Biſhoprick were ſeiſed into the Kings hands, and loſt during his life; which Judgment was before any Statute or Act of Parliament was made in that Caſe. And there it is ſaid, that for the like offence, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury had been in worſe caſe by the Judgment of the Sages of the Law, then to be puniſhed for a contempt, if the King had not extended grace and favour to him.

Concerning men twice married (called Bigamy) whom the Biſhop of Rome by a Conſtitution made at the Council of Lyons hath excluded from all priviledge of the Clergy, whereupon certain Prelates (when ſuch perſons had been attainted for felons) have prayed for to have them delivered as Clerks which were made Bigamy before the ſame Conſtitution. It is agreed and declared before the King and his Council, that the ſame conſtitution ſhall be underſtood in this wiſe, that whether they were Bigamy before the ſame conſtitution or after, they ſhall not from henceforth be delivered to the Prelates, but juſtice ſhall be executed upon them as upon lay-people.

In an Act made at a Parliament holden at Carlile in the 25 year of the ſaid King Ed. the Firſt; It is declared, that the holy Church of England was founded in the ſtate of Prelacy within the Realm of England, by the King and his Progenitors, &c. for them to inform the people of the Law of GOD, and to keep Hoſpitality, give Alms, and do other works of Charity, &c. And the ſaid Kings in times paſt were wont to have their advice and counſel for the ſafegard of the Realm when they had need of ſuch Prelates and Clerks ſo advanced; The Biſhop of Rome uſurping the Seigniories of ſuch Benefices, did give and grant the ſame Benefices to aliens which did never dwell in England, and to Cardinals which might not dwell here, &c. in adnullation of the ſtate of the holy Church of England, diſheriſon of the King, Earls, Barons, and other Nobles of the Realm, and in offence and deſtruction of the Laws and Rights of this Realm, and againſt the good diſpoſition and will of the firſt Founders; It was enacted by the King, by aſſent of all the Lords and Comminalty in full Parliament, That the ſaid oppreſſions, grievances, and damage in this Realm, from thenceforth ſhould not be ſuffered, as more at large appeareth by that Act.

In the Reign of King Edward the Second.

ALbeit by the ordinance of Circumſpecte agatis made in the 13*th* Year of Edw. 1. and by general allowance and uſage, the Eccleſiaſtical Courts held plea of Tithes, obventions, oblations, mortuaries, redemptions of penance, laying of violent hands upon a Clerk, defamations, &c. yet did not the Clergy think themſelves aſſured nor quiet from Prohibitions purchaſed by Subjects, until that King Edw. 2. by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal, in and by conſent of Parliament, upon the Petitions of the Clergy, had granted unto them to have Juriſdiction in thoſe caſes. The King in a Parliament holden in the 9*th* Year of his Reign, after particular anſwers made to their Petitions, concerning the matters aboveſaid, doth grant and give his Royal aſſent in theſe words:

We deſiring as much as of right we may, to provide for the State of the Church of England, and the tranquillity and quiet of the Prelates of the ſaid Clergy, to the honour of God, and the amendment of the State of the ſaid Church, and of the Prelates and Clergy, ratifying and approving all and ſingular the ſaid anſwers which appear in the ſaid Act, and all and ſingular things in the ſaid anſwers contained; we do for us and our heirs grant and command that the ſame be inviolably kept for ever: Willing and granting for us and our heirs, That the ſaid Prelates and Clergy and their ſucceſſors for ever, do exerciſe Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction in the premiſs according to the tenour of the ſaid anſwer.

In the Reign of King Edward the Third.

AN Excommunication by the Archbiſhop, albeit it be diſannulled by the Pope or his Legates, is to be allowed, neither ought the Judges to give any allowance of any ſuch ſentence of the Pope or his Legat.

It is often reſolved that all the Biſhopricks within England were founded by the Kings Progenitors and therefore the advowſons of them all belong to the King, and at the firſt they were donative; And that if an Incumbent of any Church with Cure die, if the Patron preſent not within ſix months, the Biſhop of that Dioceſs ought to collate, to the end the Cure may not be deſtitute of a Paſtor; If he be neglinegligent by the ſpace of ſix months, the Metropolitan of that Dioceſs ſhall confer one to that Church: And if he alſo leave the Church deſtitute by the ſpace of ſix months, then the Common Law giveth to the King as to the ſupreme within his own Kingdom, and not to the Biſhop of Rome, power to provide a competent Paſtor for that Church.

The King may not only exempt any Eccleſiaſtical perſon from the Juriſdiction of the Ordinary, but may grant unto him Epiſcopal Juriſdiction; As thus it appeareth there, the King had done of ancient time to the Archdeacon of Richmond.

All Religious or Eccleſiaſtical houſes, whereof the King was Fonnder, are by the King exempt from ordinary Juriſdiction, and only viſitable, and corrigible by the Kings Eccleſiaſtical Commiſſion.

The Abbot of Bury in Suffolk was exempted from Epiſcopal Juriſdiction by the Kings Charter.

The King preſented to a Benefice, and his preſentee was diſturbed by one that had obtained Bulls from Rome, for which offence he was condemned to perpetual impriſonment, &c.

Tithes ariſing in places out of any Pariſh the King ſhall have, for that he having the ſupreme Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, is bound to provide a ſufficient Paſtor that ſhall have the Cure of Souls of that place, which is not within any Pariſh; And by the Common Laws of England it is evident, that no man unleſs he be Eccleſiaſtical, or have Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, can have Inheritance of Tithes.

The King ſhall preſent to his free Chappels (in default of the Dean) by laps in reſpect of his ſupreme Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction. And Eitzherbert ſaith, That the King in that Caſe doth preſent by laps as Ordinary.

An Excommunication under the Popes Bull, is of no force to diſable any man within England: And the Judges ſaid, That he that pleadeth ſuch Bulls, though they concern the Excommunication of a Subject, were in a hard caſe, if the King would extend his juſtice againſt him. If Excommunication being the extreme and final end of any Suit in the Court at Rome, be not to be allowed within England, it conſequently followeth, that by the ancient Common Laws of England, no Suit for any cauſe though it be ſpiritual riſing within this Realm, ought to be determined in the Court of Rome; Quia fruſtra expectatur eventus cujus effectus nullus ſequitur: And that the Biſhops of England are the immediate Officers and Miniſters to the Kings Courts.

In an Attachment upon a Prohibition, the Defendant pleaded the Popes Bull of Excommunication of the Plaintiff. The Judges demanded of the Defendant if he had not the certificate of ſome Biſhop within the Realm, teſtifying this Excommunication: To whom the Council of the Defendant anſwered, that he had not, neither was it as he ſuppoſed neceſſary; For that the Bulls of the Pope under lead were notorious enough: But it was adjudged that they were not ſufficient, for that the Court ought not to have regard to any Excommunication out of the Realm; And therefore by the rule of the Court the Plaintiff was not thereby diſabled.

Reges ſacro oleo uncti, ſunt Spiritualis Juriſdictionis capaces.

Where a Prior is the Kings debtor, and ought to have Tithes of another ſpiritual perſon, he may chooſe either to ſue for ſubtraction of his Tithes in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, or in the Exchequer, and yet the perſons and matter alſo was Eccleſiaſtical: For ſeeing the matter by a mean concerneth the King, he may ſue for them in the Exchequer as well as in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, and there ſhall the right of Tithes be determined. And Fitzherbert in his Nat. Bre. fol. 30. holdeth, that before the Statute of 18 E. 3. cap. 7. that right of Tithes were determinable at the Temporal Courts at the election of the party; And by that Statute aſſigned to be determined in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, and the Temporal Court excluded thereof: And the Courts of divers Mannors of the Kings, and of other Lords in ancient times had the Probates of laſt Wills and Teſtaments, and it appeareth by 11 H. 7. fol. 12. That Probate of Teſtaments did not appertain to the Eccleſiaſtical Court, but that of late time they were determinable there: So as of ſuch cauſes, and in ſuch manner as the Kings of the Realm by general conſent and allowance have aſſigned to their Eccleſiaſtical Courts, they have Juriſdiction by force of ſuch allowance.

The King did by his Charter tranſlate Canons ſecular, into regular and religious perſons, which he did by his Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction, and could not do it unleſs he had juriſdiction Eccleſiaſtical.

The Abbot of Waltham died in the 45*th* Year of E. 3. and one Nicholas Morris was elected Abbot, who for that the Abbey was exempt from ordinary juriſdiction, ſent to Rome to be confirmed by the Pope; and becauſe the Pope by his conſtitutions had reſerved all ſuch collations to himſelf, he did recite by his Bull, that he having no regard to the election of the ſaid Nicholas, gave to him the ſaid Abbey, and the ſpiritualties and temporalties belonging to the ſame, of his ſpiritual grace, and at the requeſt (as he feigned) of the King of England; This Bull was read and conſidered of in Council, that is, before all the Judges of England, and it was reſolved by them all, that this Bull was againſt the Laws of England, and that the Abbot for obtaining the ſame was fallen into the Kings mercy, whereupon all his poſſeſſions were ſeiſed into the Kings hands, as more at large by the ſaid Caſe appeareth.

Where the Abbot of Weſtminſter had a Prior and Covent who were regular and dead in Law, yet the King by his Charter did divide that Corporation, and made the Prior and Covent a diſtinct capable Body, to ſue and be ſued by themſelves.

At a Parliament holden in the 25*th* Year of King Edward the Third; It was enacted by conſent of the whole Parliament, that as well they that obtained proviſions from Rome, as they that put them in execution, ſhould be out of the Kings protection: And that a man might do with them as with the enemies of the King; and he that offendeth againſt ſuch proviſors in body, goods, or other poſſeſſions, ſhould be excuſed againſt all people, and ſhould never be impeached or grieved for the ſame: By which Law every man might lawfully kill ſuch an offender, as a common enemy againſt the King and his Country, ſo hainous were ſuch offences then holden.

Afterwards

Afterwards in the ſame 25*th* Year of King Edward the Third; It was in open Parliament by the grievous complaints of all the Commons of this Realm, ſhewed that the grievances and miſchiefs aforeſaid did daily abound, to the great damage and deſtruction of all this Realm, more then ever were before, viz. That of late the Biſhop of Rome by procurement of Clerks and otherwiſe, had reſerved and did daily reſerve to his collation, generally and ſpecially as well Archbiſhopricks, Abbies, and Priories, as all other Dignities, and other Benefices of England, which were of the Avowry of people of holy Church, and gave the ſame as well to Aliens as to Citizens, and taketh of all ſuch Benefices the firſt fruits, and many other profits, and a great part of the treaſure of the Realm was carried away and diſpended out of the Realm, by the purchaſors of ſuch graces; and alſo by ſuch privy reſervations, many Clarks advanced in the Realm by their true Patrons, which peaceably holding their advancements by long time, were ſuddenly put out; whereupon the ſaid Commons did pray their ſaid Soveraign Lord the King, that ſithence the right of the Crown of England, and the Law of the ſaid Realm was ſuch, that upon the miſchiefs and damages which happened to his Realm, he ought and was bound of the accord of his ſaid people, thereof to provide remedy and Law, for the avoiding the miſchiefs and damage which thereof came, that it might pleaſe him thereupon to ordain remedy, The ſaid King Edward the Third, ſeeing the miſchiefs and damage before named, and having regard to the Statute made in the time of his Grandfather King Edward the Firſt, and to the cauſes contained in the ſame, which Statute holdeth always his force, and was never defeated nor adnulled in any point: And for as much as he was bound by his oath to ſee the ſame to be kept as a Law of his Realm, though that by ſufferance and negligence it had been ſithence attempted to the contrary, alſo having regard to the grievous complaints made to him by his people in divers his Parliaments holden heretofore, willing to ordain remedy for the great damage and miſchiefs which had happened, and daily did happen to the Church of England by the ſaid cauſe, by the aſſent of all the great men, and the Comminalty of the ſaid Realm, to the honour of God, and profit of the ſaid Church of England, and of all his Realm, did order and eſtabliſh, that the free election of Archbiſhops, Biſhops, and all other Dignities and Benefices electory in England, ſhould hold from thenceforth in the manner as they were granted by the Kings Progenitors, and founded by the anceſtors of other Lords, and that all Prelates, and other people of holy Church, which had advowſons of any Benefices of the Kings gift, or of any of his Progenitors, or of other Lords and donors, to do Divine Service, and other charges thereof ordained, ſhould have their collations and preſentments freely, in the manner as they were infeoffed by their Donors. And in caſe that reſervation, collation, or proviſion be made by the Court of Rome, of any Archbiſhop, Biſhoprick, Dignity, or other Benefice, in diſturbance of the election, collations, or preſentations afore named; That at the time of the avoidance, that ſuch reſervations, collations and proviſions ought to take effect, the ſaid King Edward the Third and his heirs, ſhould have and enjoy for the ſame time collations to the Archbiſhopricks, and other Dignities elective, which be of his avowry, ſuch as his Progenitors had before that free election was granted, ſithence that the elections were firſt granted by the Kings Progenitors upon a certain form and condition, as to demand licence of the King to chooſe, and after the election to have his Royal aſſent, and not in other manner; which conditions not kept, the King ought by reaſon to reſort to his firſt nature, as by the ſaid Act more at large appeareth.

In the 27*th* Year of the Reign of the ſame King, it was grievouſly complained to the King in Parliament then holden, by the great men and Commons of the Realm, how that divers of the people were and had been drawn out of the Realm, to anſwer to things whereof the conuſans pertained to the Kings Court; And alſo that the Judgments given in the ſame Court, were impeached in other Courts, in prejudice and diſheriſon of the King and of his Crown, and of all the people of his ſaid Realm, and in the undoing and deſtruction of the Common Law of the ſame Realm at all times uſed: And whereupon good deliberation had with the great men, and others of his ſaid Council, it was aſſented and accorded by the King and the great men and Commons aforeſaid, that all the people of the Kings allegiance of what condition that they be, which ſhould draw any out of the Realm, in plea whereof the conuſance pertained to the Kings Courts, or of things whereof Judgments were given in the Kings Court, or which did ſue in any other Court to defeat or impeach the Judgments given in the Kings Courts, ſhould incur the danger of Præmunire, as by the Act appeareth.

To nouriſh love, peace, and concord between holy Church and the Realm, and to appeaſe and ceaſe the great hurt and perils, and importable loſſes and grievances that had been done and happened in times paſt, and that ſhould happen hereafter, if the thing from thenceforth be ſuffered to paſs, becauſe of perſonal Citations and other that be paſſed before this time, and commonly did paſs from day to day out of the Court of Rome, by fained and falſe ſuggeſtions and propoſitions, againſt all manner of perſons of the Realm, upon cauſes, whoſe cogniſance and final diſcuſſing pertained to the King and his Royal Court: And alſo of impetrations and proviſions of benefices and offices of holy Church, pertaining to the gift, preſentation, donation, and diſpoſition of the King, and that other lay-Patrons of this Realm, as of Churches, Chappels, and other Benefices appropriated to Cathedral Churches, Abbies, Priories, Chauntries, Hoſpitals, and other poor houſes, and of other dignities, offices, and benefices occupied in times paſt, and preſented by divers and notable perſons of the ſaid Realm; For which cauſes and diſpenſing whereof, the good ancient Laws, Uſages, Cuſtoms, and Franchiſes of the ſaid Realm, had been and were greatly impaired, blemiſhed and confounded, the Crown of their Soveraign Lord the King diminiſhed, and his perſon falſly defamed, his Treaſury and Riches of the Realm carried away, the Inhabitants and Subjects of the Realm impoveriſhed and troubled, the Benefices of holy Church waſted and deſtroyed, Divine Services, Hoſpitalities, Alms-deeds, and works of Charity withdrawn and ſet apart, the Commons and Subjects of the Realm in body and goods conſumed. The King at his Parliament holden at Weſtminſter in the Utas of S. Hillary the 38*th* Year of his Reign, having regard to the quietneſs of his people, which he chiefly deſired to ſuſtain in tranquillity and peace, to govern according according to the Laws, Uſages, and Franchiſes of his land, as he was bound by his Oath made at his Coronation, following the ways of his Progenitors, which for their time made certain good Ordinances and Proviſions againſt the ſaid grievances and perils, which Ordinances and Proviſions, and all other made in his time, and eſpecially in the 25*th* and 27*th* Years of his Reign, the King by the aſſent and expreſs will and concord of the Dukes, Earls, Barons, and the Commons of this Realm, and of all other whom theſe things touched, by good and meet deliberation and adviſement, did approve, accept, and confirm, as by the ſaid Act appeareth.

But thoſe which ſhould execute the ſaid good Laws againſt ſuch capital offenders, were curſed, reproved, and defamed, by ſuch as maintained the uſurped Juriſdiction of the Biſhop of Rome, againſt which an eſpecial Act of Parliament was made by the King and his whole Realm, prohibiting thereby ſuch Defamations and Reproofs.

King Richard the Second.

AGainſt an Incumbent of a Church in England, another ſueth a Proviſion in the Court of Rome, and there purſueth until he recovereth the Church againſt the Incumbent, and after brought an Action of account againſt him, as Receiver of divers ſums of money, (which in troth were the oblations and offerings which the Incumbent had received) and the whole Court was of opinion againſt the Plaintiff, and thereupon he became nonſuit.

It is declared by that Parliament, that the Crown of England hath been ſo free at all times, that it hath been in ſubjection to no Realm, but immediately ſubject to God, and to none other, and that the ſame ought not in any thing touching the regality of the ſame Crown, be ſubmitted to the Biſhop of Rome, nor the Laws and Statutes of this Realm by him fruſtrated or defeated at his will, to the perpetual deſtruction of the King, his Soveraignty, Crown, and Regalty, and of all his Realm: And the Commons in that Parliament affirmed, that the things attempted by the Biſhop of Rome, be clearly againſt the Kings Crown and his Regalty, uſed and approved in the time of all his Progenitors; Wherefore they and all the liege Commons of the ſame Realm, would ſtand with the King and his ſaid Crown, and his Regalty, in the Caſes aforeſaid, and in all other Caſes attempted againſt him, his Crown, and his Regalty, in all points to live and to die. And moreover they did pray the King, and him required by way of juſtice, that he would examine all the Lords in the Parliaments, as well Spiritual as Temporal ſeverally, and all the States of the Parliament, how they thought of the Caſes aforeſaid, which were ſo openly againſt the Kings Crown, and in derogation of his Regalty, and how they would ſtand in the ſame Caſes with the King, in uphoding the rights of the ſaid Crown and Regalty; whereupon the Lords Temporal ſo demanded, did anſwer every one by himſelf; That the Caſes aforeſaid were clearly in derogation of the Kings Crown and of his Regalty, as it was well known, and had been of long time known, and that they would ſtand with the ſame Crown and Regalty in thoſe Caſes eſpecially, and in all other Caſes which ſhould be attempted againſt the ſaid Crown and Regalty in all points, with all their power. And moreover it was demanded of the Lords Spiritual there being, and the Procurators of others being abſent, their advice and will in all thoſe Caſes, which Lords, that is to ſay, the Archbiſhops, Biſhops, and other Prelates, being in the Parliament ſeverally examined, making poteſtation, that it was not their mind to deny or affirm that the Biſhop of Rome might not excommunicate Biſhops, nor that he might make tranſlation of Prelates after the Law of the holy Church, anſwered and ſaid; That if any Executions or Proceſſes made in the Kings Court, as before were made by any, and cenſures of Excommunications be made againſt any Biſhop of England, or any other of the Kings liege people, for that they had made execution of ſuch commandments: And that if any executions of ſuch tranſlations be made of any Prelates of the ſame Realm, which Prelates were very profitable and neceſſary to the King, and to his ſaid Realm; Or that his ſage men of his Council, and without his aſſent, and againſt his will be withdrawn and eloined out of the Realm; So that the ſubſtance and treaſury of the Realm might be deſtroyed, that the ſame was againſt the King and his Crown, as it was contained in the Petition before named: And likewiſe the ſame Procurators every one by himſelf examined upon the ſaid matters did anſwer and ſay in the name and for their Lords, as the ſaid Biſhops had ſaid, and anſwered; And that the ſaid Lords Spiritual would and ought to ſtand with the King in theſe Caſes lawfully in maintaining of his Crown, and in all other Caſes touching his Crown and his Regalty, as they were bound by their allegiance; Whereupon the King by the aſſent aforeſaid, and at the prayer of his ſaid Commons, did ordain and eſtabliſh; That if any purchaſe or purſue, or cauſe to be purchaſed or purſued in the Court of Rome, or elſewhere, any ſuch tranſlations, proceſſes, and ſentences of Excommunication, Bulls, Inſtruments, or any other things which touched the King their Lord, againſt him, his Crown and his Regalty, or his Realm, as is aforeſaid: And they which bring within the Realm, or them receive, or make thereof notification, or any other execution within the ſame Realm, or without; that they, their notorious Procurators, Maintainers, Fautors, and Counſellors, ſhould be put out of the Kings protection, and their lands and tenements, goods and chattels forfeit to the King, and they be attached by their bodies if they may be found, and brought before the King and his Council, there to anſwer to the Caſes aforeſaid: Or that proceſs to be made againſt them by Præmunire facias, as it is ordained in other Statutes of Proviſors, and others which do ſue in any other Court in derogation of the Regalty of the King, as by the ſaid Act alſo appeareth.

In the Reign of King Henry the Fourth.

IT is reſolved that the Popes Collector, though he have the Popes Bulls for that purpoſe, hath no Juriſdiction within this Realm, and there the Archbiſhops and Biſhops, &c. of this Realm are called the Kings Spiritual Judges.

By the ancient Laws Eccleſiaſtical of this Realm, no man could be convicted of Hereſie, being High Treaſon againſt the Almighty, but by the Archbiſhop and all the Clergy of that Province, and after abjured thereupon, and after that newly convicted and condemned by the Clergy of that Province, in their general Council of Convocation: But the Statute of 2 H. 4. cap. 15. doth give the Biſhop in his Dioceſs power to condemn an Heretick: And that before that Statute he could not be committed to the ſecular power to be burnt, until he had once abjured, and was again relapſed to that, or ſome other Hereſie; Whereby it appeareth that the King by conſent of Parliament directed the proceedings in the Eccleſiaſtical Court in caſe of Hereſie, and other matters more ſpiritual.

The Pope cannot alter the Laws of England.

The Judges ſay that the Statutes which reſtrain the Popes proviſions to the Benefices of the Advowſons of ſpiritual men, were made for that the ſpiritualty durſt not in their juſt cauſe ſay againſt the Popes proviſions: So as thoſe Statutes were made, but in affirmance of the Common Laws.

Excommunication made by the Pope is of no force in England, and the ſame being certified by the Pope into any Court in England ought not to be allowed, neither is any certificate of any Excommunication available in Law, but that is made by ſome Biſhop of England, for the Biſhops are by the Common Laws, the immediate Officers and Miniſters of Juſtice to the Kings Courts, in cauſes Eccleſiaſtical.

If any Biſhop do Excommunicate any perſon for a cauſe that belongeth not unto him, the King may write unto the Biſhop, and command him to aſſoil and abſolve the party.

If any perſon of Religion obtain of the Biſhop of Rome to be exempt from obedience regular or ordinary, he is in caſe of Præmunire, which is an offence as hath been ſaid; Contra Regem coronam & dignitatem ſuam.

The Commons did grievouſly complain to the King, at the Parliament holden the 6th Year of H. 4. of the horrible miſchiefs and damnable Cuſtoms which then were introduced of new in the Court of Rome, that no perſon, Abbot, or other, ſhould have proviſion of any Archbiſhoprick or Biſhoprick which ſhould be void, till he had compounded with the Popes Chamber, to pay great and exceſſive ſums of money as well for the firſt fruits of the ſame Archbiſhoprick or Biſhoprick, as for other leſs ſervices in the ſame Court; and that the ſame ſums, or the greater part thereof be paid before hand, which ſums paſſed the treble or the double at the leaſt of that that was accuſtomed of old time to be paid for the ſaid Chamber: And otherwiſe by the occaſions of ſuch proviſions, whereby a great part of the treaſury of this Realm had been brought and carried to the ſaid Court, and alſo ſhould be in time to come, to the great impoveriſhing of the Archbiſhops and Biſhops within the ſame Realm, and elſewhere within the King's Dominions, if convenient remedy were not for the ſame provided. The King to the honour of God as well to eſchew the damage of this Realm, as the perils of their Souls, which own to be advanced to any Archbiſhopricks and Biſhopricks within the Realm of England, and elſewhere within the King's Dominions, out of the ſame Realm, by the advice and aſſent of the great men of his Realm in the Parliament, did ordain and eſtabliſh, that they and every of them that ſhould pay unto the ſaid Chamber or otherwiſe, for ſuch fruits and ſervices greater ſums of money then had been accuſtomed to be paid in old time paſt, they and every of them ſhould incur the forfeiture of as much as they may forfeit towards the King, as by the ſaid Act appeareth.

No perſon religious or ſecular, of what eſtate or condition that he were, by colour of any Bulls containing priviledges, to be diſcharged of Tithes pertaining to Pariſh Churches, Prebends, Hoſpitals, Vicarages, purchaſed before the firſt year of King Richard the Second, or after not executed, ſhould put in execution any ſuch Bulls ſo purchaſed, or any ſuch Bulls to be purchaſed in time to come, upon the pain of a Præmunire, as by the ſaid Act appeareth.

In the Reign of King Henry the Fifth.

IN an Act of Parliament made in the third year of King H. 5. it is declared, That whereas in the time of King H. 4. father to the ſaid King, the 7th Year of his Reign, to eſchew many diſcords and debates, and divers other miſchiefs which were likely to ariſe and happen becauſe of many proviſions then made, or to be made by the Pope, and alſo of licence thereupon granted by the ſaid late King, amongſt other things, it was ordained and eſtabliſhed, that no ſuch licence or pardon ſo granted before the ſame Ordinance, or afterwards to be granted, ſhould be available to any Benefice full of any Incumbent, at the day of the date of ſuch licence or pardon granted; Nevertheleſs divers perſons having proviſions of the Pope of divers Benefices in England and elſewhere, and licences Royal to execute the ſame proviſions, have by colour of the ſame proviſions, licences, and acceptations of the ſaid Benefices, ſubtilly excluded divers perſons of their Benefices, in which they had been Incumbents by a long ſeaſon of the collation of the very Patrons ſpiritual, to them duly made to their intent, to the final deſtruction and enervation of the ſtates of the ſame Incumbents. The King willing to void ſuch miſchiefs, hath ordained and eſtabliſhed, That all the Incumbents of every Benefice of holy Church, of the patronage, collation, or preſentation of ſpiritual Patrons, might quietly and peaceably enjoy their ſaid Benefices, without without being inquieted, moleſted, or any way grieved, by any colour of ſuch proviſions, licences, and acceptations; And that all the licences and pardons upon and by ſuch proviſions made in any manner, ſhould be void and of no value; And if any feel himſelf grieved, moleſted, or inquieted, in any wiſe from thenceforth by any, by colour of ſuch proviſions, licences, pardons, or acceptations, that the ſame moleſtors, grievors, or inquietors, and every of them, have and incur the pains and puniſhments contained in the Statute of Proviſors before that time made, as by the ſaid Act appeareth.

A Statute was made for extirpation of Hereſie, and Lollardry, whereby full power and authority was given to the Juſtices of Peace, and Juſtices of Aſſiſe to enquire of thoſe that hold Errors, Hereſies, or Lollardry, and of their maintainers, &c. And that the Sheriff or other Officer, &c. may arreſt and apprehend them.

The King by conſent of Parliament, giveth power to Ordinaries to enquire of the foundation, erection, and governance of Hoſpitals, other then ſuch as be of the Kings foundation, and thereupon to make correction and reformation according to the Eccleſiaſtical Law.

In the Reign of King Henry the Sixth.

EXcommunication made and certified by the Pope, is of no force to diſable any man within England; And this is by the ancient Common Laws before any Statute was made concerning forreign Juriſdiction.

The King only may grant or licence to found a ſpiritual Incorporation.

In the Reign of King Henry the Sixth, the Pope writ letters in derogation of the King and his Regalty, and the Church-men durſt not ſpeak againſt them; But Humphrey Duke of Glouceſter for their ſafe keeping put them into the fire.

In the Reign of King Edward the Fourth.

IN the Reign of King Edward the Fourth, the Pope granted to the Prior of S. Johns, to have Sanctuary within his Priory, and this was pleaded and claimed by the Prior; But it was reſolved by the Judges, that the Pope had no power to grant any Sanctuary within this Realm, and therefore by judgment of Law the ſame was diſallowed.

There it appeareth, that the opinion of the Kings Bench had been oftentimes, that if one ſpiritual perſon ſue another ſpiritual man in the Court of Rome for a matter ſpiritual, where he might have remedy before his Ordinary, that is, the Biſhop of that Dioceſs within the Realm, Quia trahit ipſum in placitum extra Regnum, incurreth the danger of a Præmunire, a hainous offence, being contra legiantiæ ſuæ debitum, in contemptum Domini Regis, & contra Coronam & dignitatem ſuas; By which it appeareth, how grievous an offence it was againſt the King, his Crown and Dignity, if any Subject, although both the perſons and cauſe were ſpiritual, did ſeek for juſtice out of the Realm, as though either there wanted Juriſdiction, or juſtice was not executed in the Eccleſiaſtical Courts within the ſame, which (as it hath been ſaid) was an high offence, contra Regem coronam & dignitatem ſuas.

In the Kings Courts of Record, where felonies are determined, the Biſhop or his Deputy ought to give his attendance, to the end that if any man that is indicted and arraigned for felony do demand the benefit of his Clergy, that the Ordinary may inform the Court of his ſufficiency or inſufficiency, that is, whether he can read as a Clerk or not, whereof notwithſtanding the Ordinary is not to judge, but is a Miniſter to the Kings Court; And the Judges of that Court, are to judge of the ſufficiency or inſufficiency of the party, whatſoever the Ordinary do inform them, and upon due examination of the party, may give judgment againſt the Ordinaries information, for the Kings Judges are Judges of the cauſe.

The Popes Excommunication is of no force within the Realm of England.

In the Reign of King Edward the Fourth, a Legat from the Pope came to Calleis, to have come into England, but the King and his Council would not ſuffer him to come within England, until he had taken an Oath that he ſhould attempt nothing againſt the King or his Crown: And ſo the like was done in his Reign to another of the Popes Legates; And is ſo reported in 1 H. 7. fol. 10.

In the Reign of King Richard the Third.

IT is reſolved by the Judges, That a Judgment or Excommunication in the Court of Rome, ſhould not bind or prejudice any man within England, at the Common Law.

In the Reign of King Henry the Seventh.

IN the Reign of King Henry the 7th the Pope had excommunicated all ſuch perſons whatſoever, as had bought Alome of the Florentines; And it was reſolved by all the Judges of England, that the Popes Excommunication ought not to be obeyed, or to be put in execution within the Realm of England.

In a Parliament holden in the firſt year of King Henry the Seventh, for the more ſure and like reformation of Prieſts, Clerks, and religious men, culpable, or by their demerits openly noiſed of incontinent living in their bodies, contrary to their order; It was enacted, ordained and eſtabliſhed, by the advice and aſſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons in the ſaid Parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame; That it be lawful to all Archbiſhops and Biſhops, and other Ordinaries, having Epiſcopal Juriſdiction, to puniſh and chaſtiſe Prieſts, Clerks, and Religious men, being within the bounds of their Juriſdiction, as many as ſhall be convicted afore them by examination, and lawful proof requiſite by the Law of the Church, of advoutry, fornication, inceſt, or any other fleſhly incontinency, by committing them to ward and priſon, there to abide for ſuch time as ſhall be thought to their diſcretions convenient for the quality and quantity of their treſpaſs; And that none of the ſaid Archbiſhops, Biſhops, or Ordinaries aforeſaid, be thereof chargeable, of to or upon any Action of falſe or wrongful impriſonment, but that they be utterly thereof diſcharged in any of the Caſes aforeſaid, by vertue of this Act.

Rex eſt perſona mixta, becauſe he hath both Eccleſiaſtical and Temporal Juriſdiction.

By the Eccleſiaſtical Laws allowed within this Realm, a Prieſt cannot have two Benefices, nor a baſtard cannot be a Prieſt; But the King may by his Eccleſiaſtical Power and Juriſdiction, diſpence with both of theſe, becauſe they be mala prohibita, and not mala per ſe.

In the Reign of King Henry the Eighth.

BY an Act of Parliament made in the 24*th* Year of King Henry the Eighth. That is to ſay by the King, 24 Biſhops, 29 Abbots and Priors, for ſo many were then Lords of Parliament, by all the Lords Temporal and the Commons in that Parliament aſſembled; It is declared, That where by divers ſundry old authentick Hiſtories and Chronicles, it was manifeſtly declared and expreſſed, that this Realm of England is an Empire, and ſo hath been accepted in the world, governed by one ſupreme Head and King, having the Dignity and Royal eſtate of the Imperial Crown of the ſame, unto whom a Body Politick compact of all ſorts and degrees of people, divided in terms and by names of Spiritualty and Temporalty, been bound, and ought to bear next to God, a natural and humble obedience, he being alſo inſtitute and furniſhed by the goodneſs and furtherance of Almighty God, with plenary, whole, and entire power, preheminence, authority, prerogative, and juriſdiction, to render and ministe juſtice and final determination to all manner of folk reſiants, or ſubjects within this his Realm, in all cauſes, matters, debates, and contentions, happening to occur, ariſe, or begin within the limits thereof, without reſtraint or provocation to any foreign Princes or Potentates of the world: The body ſpiritual whereof having power when any cauſe of the Law divine happened to come in queſtion, or of ſpiritual learning, That it was declared, interpreted and ſhewed by that part of the ſaid Body Politick, called the Spiritualty, then being uſually called the Engliſh Church, which always hath been reputed and alſo found of that ſort, that both for knowledge, integrity, and ſufficiency of number, it had been always thought, and was alſo at that hour ſufficient and meet of it ſelf, without the intermedling of any exterior perſon or perſons, to declare and determine all ſuch doubts, and to adminiſter all ſuch offices and duties, as to the rooms ſpiritual did appertain; For the due adminiſtration whereof, and to keep them from corruption, and ſiniſter affection, the Kings moſt noble progenitors, and the anteceſſors of the Nobles of this Realm, did ſufficiently endow the ſaid Church both with honour and poſſeſſions; And the Laws Temporal for trial of property of lands and goods, and for the conſervation of the people of this Realm in unity and peace, without ravine or ſtrife, was, and then was adminiſtred, and adjudged, and executed by ſundry Judges and Miniſters of the other part of the ſaid Body Politick called The Temporalty, and both their authorities and juriſdictions did conjoyn together in the due adminiſtration of Juſtice, the one to help the other: And whereas the King, his moſt noble Progenitors, and the Nobility and Commons of the ſaid Realm, at divers and ſundry Parliaments, as well in the time of King Edward the Firſt, Edward the Third, Richard the Second, Henry the Fourth, and other noble Kings of this Realm, made ſundry Ordinances, Laws, Statutes, and proviſions for the entire and ſure conſervation of the Prerogatives, Liberties, and Preheminences of the ſaid Imperial Crown of this Realm, and of the juriſdiction Spiritual and Temporal of the ſame, to keep it from the annoyance as well of the See of Rome, as from the authority of other foreign Potentates, attempting the diminution or violation thereof, as often and from time to time as any ſuch annoyance or attempt might be known or eſpied; And notwithſtanding the ſaid good Statutes and Ordinances made in the time of the Kings moſt noble Progenitors, in preſervation of the authority and prerogative of the ſaid Imperial Crown as is aforeſaid; yet nevertheleſs ſithence the making of the ſaid good Statutes and Ordinances, divers and ſundry inconveniences and dangers, not provided for plainly by the ſaid former Acts, Statutes and Ordinances, have riſen and ſprung by reaſon of Appeals ſued out of this Realm to the See of Rome, in cauſes teſtamentary, cauſes of matrimony and divorces, right of Tithes, Oblations and Obventions, not only to the great inquietation, vexation, trouble, coſts and charges of the Kings Highneſs and many of his ſubjects and reſiants in this his Realm, but alſo to the great delay and let to the true and ſpeedy determination of the ſaid cauſes: For as much as the parties appealing to the ſaid Court of Rome, moſt commonly did the ſame for delay of Juſtice: And for as much as the great diſtance of way was ſo far out of this Realm, ſo that the neceſſary proofs, nor the true knowledge of the cauſe could neither be ſo well known, or the witneſſes there ſo well examined, as within this Realm; So that the parties grieved by means of the ſaid appeals, were moſt times without remedy: In conſideration thereof, the King, his Nobles and Commons, conſidering the great enormities, damages, long delaies and hurts, that as well to his Highneſs, as to his ſaid noble

ſubjects

ſubjects Commons and reſiants of this Realm, in the ſaid cauſes teſtamentary, cauſes of Matrimony and Divorces, Tithes, Oblations, and Obventions, did daily enſue; did therefore by his Royal aſſent, and by the aſſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons in that Parliament aſſembled, and by authority of the ſame, enact, eſtabliſh, and ordain, That all cauſes Teſtamentary, cauſes of Matrimony and Divorces, rights of Tithes, Oblations, and Obventions, the knowledge whereof by the goodneſs of Princes of this Realm, and by the Laws and Cuſtoms of the ſame, appertained to the ſpiritual Juriſdiction of this Realm, then already commenced, moved, depending, being, happening, or hereafter coming in contention, debate, or queſtion within this Realm, or within any of the Kings Dominions, or Marches of the ſame, or elſewhere, whether they concern the King, his Heirs or Succeſſors, or any other Subjects or Reſiants within this Realm, of what degree ſoever they be, ſhould be from thenceforth heard, examined, diſcuſſed, clearly, finally and definitively adjudged and determined within the Kings Juriſdiction and Authority, and not elſewhere, in ſuch Courts Spiritual and Temporal of the ſame, as the natures, conditions and qualities of the Caſes and matters aforeſaid in contention, or hereafter happening in contention ſhould require, without having any reſpect to any cuſtom, uſe, or ſufferance, in hinderance, let, or prejudice of the ſame, or to any other thing uſed or ſuffered to the contrary thereof, by any other manner of perſon or perſons, in any manner of wiſe; Any forreign Inhibitions, Appeals, Sentences, Summons, Citations, Suſpenſions, Interdictions, Excommunications, Reſtraints, Judgments, or any other Proceſs or Impediment, of what natures, names, qualities or conditions ſoever they be, from the See of Rome, or any other forreign Courts or Potentates of the world, or from and out of this Realm, or any other the Kings Dominions or Marches of the ſame, to the See of Rome, or to any forreign Courts or Potentates, to the let or impediment thereof in any wiſe notwithſtanding, as by the ſaid Act appeareth.

By an Act of Parliament in 25 H. 8. it is declared by the King, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons in that Parliament aſſembled, That neither the King, his Heirs nor Succeſſors, Kings of this Realm, nor any his Subjects of this Realm, nor of any other his Dominions, ſhould from thenceforth ſue to the ſaid Biſhop of Rome called the Pope, or to the See of Rome, or to any perſon or perſons, having or pretending any authority by the ſame, for licences, diſpenſations, impoſitions, faculties, grants, reſcripts, delegacies, or any other inſtruments or writings, of what kind, name, nature, or quality ſoever they be of for any cauſe or matter, for the which any licence, diſpenſation, compoſition, faculty, grant, ſcript, delegacy, inſtrument, or other writing, heretofore had been uſed and accuſtomed to be had and obtained at the See of Rome, or by authority thereof, or of any Prelate of this Realm; nor for any manner of other licences, diſpenſations, compoſitions, faculties, grants, reſcripts, delegacies, or any other inſtruments or writings, that in cauſes of neceſſity might lawfully be granted, without offending of the holy Scripture and Laws of God: But that from thenceforth every ſuch Licence, Diſpenſation, Compoſition, Faculty, Grant, Reſcript, Delegacy, Inſtrument, and other writing afore-named and mentioned, neceſſary for the King, his Heirs and Succeſſors, and his and their people and ſubjects, upon the due examination of the cauſes and qualities of the perſons procuring ſuch Diſpenſations, Licences, Compoſitions, Faculties, Grants, Reſcripts, Delegacies, Inſtruments, or other Writings, ſhould be granted, had, and obtained from time to time within this his Realm, and other his Dominions, and not elſewhere, in manner and form following, and not otherwiſe, that is to ſay; The Archbiſhop of Canterbury for the time being, and his ſucceſſors, ſhould have power and authority from time to time by their diſcretions, to give, grant, and diſpoſe by an Inſtrument under the Seal of the ſaid Archbiſhop unto the King, and unto his heirs and ſucceſſors Kings of this Realm, as well all manner ſuch Licences, Diſpenſations, Compoſitions, Faculties, Grants, Reſcripts, Delegacies, Inſtruments, and all other writings, for cauſes not being contrary or repugnant to the holy Scriptures and Laws of God, as heretofore had been uſed and accuſtomed to be had and obtained by the King, or any his moſt noble Progenitors; or any of his or their ſubjects, at the See of Rome, or any perſon or perſons by authority of the ſame, and all other Licences, Diſpenſations, Faculties, Compoſitions, Grants, Reſcripts, Delegacies, Inſtruments, and other writings, in for and upon all ſuch cauſes and matters as ſhould be convenient and neceſſary to be had for the honour and ſurety of the King, his heirs and ſucceſſors, and the wealth and profit of this his Realm, ſo that the ſaid Archbiſhop or any his ſucceſſors, in no manner of wiſe ſhould grant any Diſpenſation, Licence, Reſcript, or any other writing before rehearſed, for any cauſe or matter repugnant to the Law of Almighty God, as by the ſaid Act alſo appeareth.

If it be demanded what Canons, Conſtitutions, Ordinances, and Synods Provincial are ſtill in force within this Realm; I anſwer, that it is reſolved and enacted by authority of Parliament, That ſuch as have been allowed by general conſent and cuſtom within the Realm, and are not contrariant or repugnant to the Laws, Statutes, and Cuſtoms of this Realm, nor to the damage or hurt of the Kings Prerogative Royal, are ſtill in force within this Realm, as the Kings Eccleſiaſtical Laws of the ſame. Now, as conſent and cuſtom hath allowed thoſe Canons, ſo no doubt by general conſent of the whole Realm, any of the ſame may be corrected, inlarged, explained, or abrogated. For example, there is a Decree that all Clerks that have received any manner of Orders, greater or ſmaller, ſhould be exempt pro cauſis criminalibus before the temporal Judges; This decree had never any force within England: Firſt, for that it was never approved and allowed of by general conſent within the Realm. Secondly, it was againſt the Laws of the Realm, as it doth appear by infinite preſidents. Thirdly, it was againſt the Prerogative and Soveraignty of the King, that any ſubject within this Realm ſhould not be ſubject to the Laws of this Realm.

In the Reign of Queen Elizabeth.

BY the ſaid Act of Parliament (whereupon the principal Caſe then in queſtion partly dependeth) made in the firſt year of the Reign of the late Queen Elizabeth, it is declared; That where in the time of the Reign of King Henry the Eighth divers good Laws and Statutes were made and eſtabliſhed, as well for the utter extinguiſhment and putting away of all uſurped and forreign Powers and Authorities of this Realm, and other her Dominions and Countries, as alſo for the reſtoring and uniting to the Imperial Crown of this Realm, the ancient Juriſdiction, Authorities, Superiorities, and Preheminences to the ſame of right belonging and appertaining; By reaſon whereof her moſt humble Subjects from the 25*th* Year of the ſaid King Henry the Eighth, were continually kept in good order, and were diſburdened of divers great and intolerable charges and vexations, before that time unlawfully taken and exacted by ſuch forreign power and authority, as before that was uſurped, And to the intent that all uſurped and forreign power and authority, ſpiritual and temporal, might for ever be clearly extinguiſhed, and never be uſed or obeyed within this Realm, or any other her Dominions or Countries; It was by the authority of that Parliament enacted, That no forreign Prince, Perſon, Prelate, State or Potentate, ſpiritual or temporal, ſhould at any time after the laſt day of that Seſſion of Parliament, uſe, enjoy, or exerciſe any manner of power, juriſdiction, ſuperiority, authority, preheminence, or priviledge, Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical within this Realm, or within any other the Queens Dominions or Countries that then were, or hereafter ſhould be, but from thenceforth the ſame ſhould be clearly aboliſhed out of this Realm, and all other her Dominions for ever; Any Statute, Ordinance, Cuſtoms, Conſtitutions, or any other matter or cauſe whatſoever to the contrary in any wiſe notwithſtanding: And it was then alſo eſtabliſhed and enacted by the authority of that Parliament, that ſuch juriſdictions, priviledges, ſuperiorities and preheminences, Spiritual and Eccleſiaſtical, as by any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical power or authority, had heretofore been, or might lawfully be exerciſed or uſed for the viſitation of the Eccleſiaſtical ſtate and perſons, and for reformation, order, and correction of the ſame, and of all manner of errors, hereſies, ſchiſms, abuſes, offences, contempts, and enormities, ſhould for ever by authority of that Parliament, be united and annexed to the Imperial Crown of this Realm. And that the Queen her Heirs and Succeſſors, Kings or Queens of this Realm, ſhould have full power and authority by vertue of that Act, by Letters Patents under the Great Seal of England, to aſſign, name, and authorize, when and as often as the Queen, her Heirs or Succeſſors ſhould think meet and convenient, and for ſuch and ſo long time as ſhould pleaſe the Queen, her Heirs or Succeſſors, ſuch perſon or perſons being natural born Subjects to the Queen, her Heirs or Succeſſors, as the ſaid Queen, her Heirs or Succeſſors ſhould think meet to exerciſe, uſe, occupy, and execute, under the ſaid Queen, her Heirs and Succeſſors, all manner of juriſdictions, priviledges, and preheminences, in any wiſe touching or concerning any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction within theſe Realms of England and Ireland, or any other her Dominions or Countries, and to viſit, reform, redreſs, order, correct, and amend all ſuch errors, hereſies, ſchiſms, abuſes, offences, contempts, and enormities whatſoever, which by any manner Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical power, authority, or juriſdiction, could or might lawfully be reformed, ordered, redreſſed, corrected, reſtrained or amended, to the pleaſure of Almighty God, the encreaſe of vertue, and the conſervation of the peace, and the unity of this Realm; And that ſuch perſon or perſons ſo to be named, aſſigned, authorized, and appointed by the ſaid Queen, her Heirs or Succeſſors after the ſaid Letters Patents, to him or them made and delivered as is aforeſaid, ſhould have full power and authority by vertue of that Act, and of the ſaid Letters Patents under the ſaid Queen, her Heirs or Succeſſors, to exerciſe, uſe, and execute all the premiſſes, according to the tenor and effect of the ſaid Letters Patents, any matter or cauſe to the contrary in any wiſe notwithſtanding, as by the ſaid Act alſo appeareth.

It was adjudged in the Court of Common Pleas, by Sir James Dier, Weſton, and the whole Court, that a Dean or any other Eccleſiaſtical perſon may reſign, as divers did to King Edward the Sixth, for that he had the authority of the ſupreme Ordinary.

From the firſt until the 11*th* Year of the late Queen Elizabeths Reign, no perſon of what perſwaſion of Chriſtian Religion ſoever, at any time refuſed to come to the publick Divine Service, celebrated in the Church of England, being evidently grounded upon the ſacred and infallible word of Almighty God, and eſtabliſhed by publick authority within this Realm: But after the Bull of Pius Quintus was publiſhed againſt her Majeſty in the 11*th* Year of her Reign, containing (amongſt other things too long to be repeated for this purpoſe) theſe words; Pius Biſhop ſervant of Gods ſervants, &c. She (Queen Elizabeth) hath clean put away the ſacrifice of the Maſs, Prayers, Faſtings, choice or difference of meats, and ſingle life; She poſſeſſing the Kingdom, and by uſurping the place of the ſupreme head of the Church in all England, and the chief authority and juriſdiction of the ſame, hath again brought the ſaid Realm into miſerable deſtruction. Unto her all ſuch as are the worſt of the people reſort, and are by her received into ſafe protection, &c. We make it known, that the ſaid Elizabeth, and as many as ſtand on her ſide in the matter above named, have run into the danger of our curſe. We make it alſo known, that we have deprived her from that right ſhe pretended to have in the Kingdom aforeſaid, and alſo from all and every her authority, dignity, and priviledge. We charge and forbid all and every the Nobles and Subjects, and people, and others aforeſaid, that they be not ſo hardy as to obey her, or her admonitions, commandments, or Laws, upon pain of the like accurſe upon them. We pronounce that all whoſoever by any occaſion have taken their oath unto her, are for ever diſcharged of ſuch their oath, and alſo from all fealty and ſervice, which was due to her by reaſon of her Government, &c. As by the ſaid Bull more at large appeareth.

After

After this Bull, all they that depended on the Pope obeyed the Bull, diſobeyed their gracious and natural Soveraign, and upon this occaſion refuſed to come to the Church: The publiſhing of this Bull by a Subject againſt his Soveraign (as appeareth by that which hath been oftentimes ſaid) was Treaſon in the higheſt degree, by the ancient Common Laws of England; For if it were Treaſon to publiſh a Bull of Excommunication within this Realm againſt a Subject thereof, as it was adjudged in the Reign of King Edward the firſt; a fortiori it is Treaſon in the higheſt degree to publiſh ſuch a Bull againſt the Soveraign and Monarch her ſelf. After this Bull many Bulls of Abſolution and reconciliation to the Church of Rome were publiſhed and diſperſed amongſt her Majeſties Subjects, to withdraw them from their natural loyalty and allegiance to their Soveraign, whereupon no ſmall inconveniences (as hereafter appeareth) followed: And therefore at a Parliament holden in the 13*th* Year of her Reign, it was declared by the whole body of the Realm; That divers ſeditious and very ill diſpoſed people, minding very ſeditiouſly and unnaturally, not only to bring this Realm and the Imperial Crown thereof (being in very deed of it ſelf moſt free) again into the thraldom and ſubjection of the forreign uſurped and unlawful Juriſdiction, preheminences, and authority claimed by the ſaid See of Rome, but alſo to eſtrange and alienate the minds and hearts of ſundry the Queens Subjects from their dutiful Obedience, and to raiſe and ſtir Sedition and Rebellion within this Realm, did then lately procure and obtain to themſelves from the ſaid Biſhop of Rome, and his ſaid See, divers Bulls and Writings, the effect whereof had been, and then was, to abſolve and reconcile all thoſe that would be contented to forſake their due Obedience to the Queen, and to yield and ſubject themſelves to the ſaid feigned, unlawful and uſurped authority: And by colour of the ſaid Bulls and writings, the ſaid perſons very ſecretly and moſt ſeditiouſly in ſuch parts of this Realm, where the people for want of good inſtruction were moſt weak, ſimple, and ignorant, and thereby furtheſt from the good underſtanding of their duties towards God and the Queen, did by their leud and ſubtil practices and perſwaſions ſo far forth work, that ſundry ſimple and ignorant perſons, had been contented to be reconciled to the ſaid uſurped authority of the See of Rome, and to take abſolution at the hands of the ſaid naughty and ſubtil practiſes; Whereby did grow great diſobedience and boldneſs in many, not only to withdraw and abſent themſelves from all Divine Service, then moſt godly ſet forth and uſed within this Realm, but alſo have thought themſelves diſcharged of and from all Obedience, Duty, and Allegiance to her Majeſty, whereby moſt wicked and unnatural Rebellion did enſue, and to the further danger of this Realm, was thereafter very like to be renewed, if the ungodly and wicked attempts in that behalf were not by ſeverity of Laws in time reſtrained and bridled: For remedy and redreſs whereof, and to prevent the great miſchiefs and inconveniences that thereby might enſue; It was enacted by the Queen, with the aſſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons in that Parliament aſſembled, and by the authority of the ſame; That if any perſon or perſons after the firſt day of July then next coming, ſhould uſe or put in ure in any place within this Realm, or in any the Queens Dominions, any ſuch Bull, writing or inſtrument, written or printed of abſolution or reconciliation, at any time heretofore obtained and gotten, or at any time hereafter to be obtained or gotten from the ſaid Biſhop of Rome, or any his Succeſſors, or from any other perſon or perſons, authoriſed or claiming authority, by or from the ſaid Biſhop of Rome, his predeceſſors or ſucceſſors, or See of Rome; or by any perſon or perſons, after the ſaid firſt day of July, ſhould take upon him or them by colour of any ſuch Bull, Writing, Inſtrument or Authority, to abſolve or reconcile any perſon or perſons, or to grant or promiſe to any perſon or perſons within this Realm, or any other the Queens Dominions, any ſuch abſolution or reconciliation by any ſpeech, preaching, teaching, writing, or any other open deed. Or if any other perſon or perſons within this Realm, or any the Queens Dominions, after the firſt day of July, ſhould willingly receive and take any ſuch abſolution or reconciliation. Or elſe if any perſon or perſons, had obtained or gotten ſithence the laſt day of the Parliament holden in the firſt year of her Reign, or after the ſaid firſt day of July, ſhould obtain or get from the ſaid Biſhop of Rome, or any his Succeſſors, or See of Rome, any manner of Bull, Writing, or Inſtrument, written or printed, containing any thing, matter or cauſe whatſoever. Or ſhould publiſh, or by any ways or means put in ure any ſuch Bull, Writing, or Inſtrument; That then all and every ſuch act or acts, offence and offences, ſhould be deemed and adjudged by the authority of the ſaid Act to be High Treaſon, and the offender and offenders therein, their procurators, abbettors and councellors to the fact, and committing of the ſaid offence or offences, ſhould be deemed and adjudged high Traitors to the Queen and the Realm; and being thereof lawfully indicted and attainted, according to the courſe of the Laws of this Realm, ſhould ſuffer pains of death; and alſo loſe and forfeit all their lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods and chattels, as in caſes of High Treaſon, by the Laws of this Realm ought to be loſt and forfeited, as by the ſaid Act appeareth.

And albeit many of her Subjects after the ſaid Bull of Pius Quintus, adhering to the Pope did renounce their former Obedience to the Queen, in reſpect of that Bull, yet all this time no Law was either made or attempted againſt them for their recuſancy, though it were grounded upon ſo diſloyal a cauſe. Now that theſe ſpeechleſs Bulls were declared by Act of Parliament to be ſo dangerous; Then in place of them Jeſuites and Romiſh Prieſts were ſent over, who in ſecret corners whiſpered and infuſed into the hearts of many of the unlearned Subjects of this Realm, that the Pope had power to excommunicate and depoſe Kings and Princes, that he had excommunicated the late Queen, deprived her of her Kingdom, and diſcharged all her Subjects of their Oath, Duties, and Allegiance to her; And therefore they ought not to obey her or any of her Commandments or Laws, under pain of the Popes curſe. This was High Treaſon by the ancient Laws of England; And thereupon Campian, Sherwin, and many other Romiſh Prieſts being apprehended, and confeſſing that they came into England to make a party for the Catholick cauſe when need ſhould require, were in the 21*th* year of the ſaid late Queens Reign, by the ancient Common Laws of England, indicted, arraigned, tried, adjudged, and executed for High Treaſon againſt their natural allegiance, which they ought their liege Soveraign. But all this time there was no Act of Parliament made either againſt Recuſants, or Jeſuites, or Prieſts, her Majeſty ſtill deſiring and expecting their converſion, and that by clemency and mildneſs they might be reclaimed to their former obedience and conformity before the ſaid Bull. After Prieſts and Jeſuites were puniſhed by ſentence of Law, according to their demerits; Then great numbers of ſlanderous and ſeditious Books (libri falſidici) againſt her Majeſty and the State, were diſperſed and ſcattered within this Realm, tending to the inciting and ſtirring of the Subjects to Inſurrection and Rebellion.

their

Her Majeſty in open Parliament, having with the Lords Spiritual, Temporal, and Commons, mature conſideration of ſo weighty and important cauſes, in the 23*th* Year of her Reign made two ſeveral Laws; One againſt the makers and publiſhers of ſeditious Books, ordaining that offence to be felony; Another againſt Recuſants, inflicting the penalty of twenty pound the month for their recuſancy; And yet upon their ſubmiſſion according to the Act, to be thereof freely and abſolutely diſcharged, (a mild and merciful Law, conſidering their former conformity, and the cauſe of their revolt.) But after theſe Jeſuites and Romiſh Prieſts coming daily into and ſwarming within the Realm, inſtilling ſtill this poiſon into the Subjects hearts, that by reaſon of the ſaid Bull of Pius Quintus, her Majeſty was excommunicated, deprived of her Kingdom, and that her Subjects were diſcharged of all obedience to her, and by all means indeavoured to withdraw them from their duty and allegiance to her Majeſty, and to reconcile them to the Church of Rome.

In the 27*th* Year of her Reign, by authority of Parliament, her Majeſty made it Treaſon for any Jeſuite or Romiſh Prieſt being her natural born Subject, and made a Romiſh Prieſt or Jeſuite ſithence the beginning of her Reign, to come into any of her Dominions; Intending thereby to keep them out of the ſame, to the end that they ſhould not infect any of her Subjects with ſuch treaſonable and damnable perſwaſions and practices, as are aforeſaid, which without controverſie were High Treaſon by the ancient Common Laws of England: Neither would ever maganimous King of England, ſithence the firſt eſtabliſhment of this Monarchy, have ſuffered any (eſpecially being his own natural born Subjects) to live, that perſwaded his Subjects that he was no lawful King, and practiſed with them (within the heart of this Realm) to withdraw them from their allegiance and loyalty to their Soveraign, the ſame being crimen leſæ Majeſtatis, by the ancient Laws of this Realm.

By this and by all the Records of the Indictments it appeareth, That theſe Jeſuites and Prieſts are not condemned and executed for their Prieſthood and profeſſion, but for their treaſonable and damnable perſwaſions and practices againſt the Crowns and Dignities of Monarchs and abſolute Princes, who hold their Kingdoms and Dominions by lawful ſucceſſion, and by inherent Birthright, and deſcent of Inheritance (according to the fundamental Laws of this Realm) immediately of Almighty God, and are not tenants of their Kingdoms (as they would have it) at the will and pleaſure of any forreign Potentate whatſoever.

Now albeit the proceedings and proceſs in the Eccleſiaſtical Courts, be in the name of the Biſhops, &c. It followeth not therefore, that either the Court is not the Kings, or the Law whereby they proceed is not the Kings Law: For taking one example for many, every Leet or view of Frankpledge holden by a Subject is kept in the Lords name, and yet it is the Kings Court, and all the proceedings therein are directed by the Kings Laws; and many Subjects in England have and hold Courts of Record, and other Courts, and yet all their proceedings are according to the Kings Laws, and Cuſtoms of the Realm.

Obſerve (good Reader) ſeeing that the determination of Hereſies, Schiſms, and Errors in Religion, ordering, examination, admiſſion, inſtitution, deprivation of men of the Church (which do concern Gods true Religion and Service) of right of Matrimony, divorces, and general baſtardy, (whereupon depend the ſtrength of mens deſcents and inheritances) of probate of Teſtaments, and letters of Adminiſtration, (without which no debt or duty due to any dead man can be recovered by the Common Law) Mortuaries, penſions, procurations, reparations of Churches, Simony, inceſt, adultery, fornication, and incontinency, and ſome others, doth not belong to the Common Law, how neceſſary it was for adminiſtration of juſtice, that his Majeſties progenitors Kings of this Realm did by publick authority authorize Eccleſiaſtical Courts under them, to determine thoſe great and important cauſes Eccleſiaſtical (exempted from the Juriſdiction of the Common Law) by the Kings Laws Eccleſiaſtical, which was done originally for two cauſes: 1. That Juſtice ſhould be adminiſtred under the Kings of this Realm, within their own Kingdom, to all their Subjects, and in all cauſes. 2. That the Kings of England ſhould be furniſhed upon all occaſions either forreign or domeſtical, with learned profeſſors as well of the Eccleſiaſtical as Temporal Laws.

Thus hath it appeared as well by the ancient Common Laws of this Realm, by the Reſolutions and Judgments of the Judges and Sages of the Laws of England, in all ſucceſſions of Ages, as by authority of many Acts of Parliament, ancient and of later times; That the Kingdom of England is an abſolute Monarchy, and that the King is the only ſupreme Governor, as well over Eccleſiſtical perſons, and in Eccleſiaſtical cauſes, as Temporal within this Realm; To the due obſervation of which Laws both the King and the Subject are ſworn.

I have herein cited the very words and texts of the Laws, Reſolutions, Judgments, and Acts of Parliament, all publick and in print, without any inference, argument, or amplification; And have particularly quoted the Book, Years, Leaves, Chapters, and ſuch like certain references, as every man may at his pleaſure ſee and read the authorities herein cited.

This Caſe is reported in the Engliſh and Latin Tongues, (as ſome other Writers of the Law have done) to the end my dear Countrymen may be acquainted with the Laws of this Realm, their own birthright and inheritance, and with ſuch evidences as of right belong to the ſame; aſſuring my ſelf that no wiſe or true-hearted Engliſh-man, that hath been perſwaded before he was inſtructed, will refuſe to be inſtructed in the truth, (which he may ſee with his own eyes) leſt he ſhould be diſſwaded from error, where-

wherewith blind-fold he hath been deceived; For miserable is his Case, and worthy of pity, that hath been perswaded before he was instructed, and now will refuse to be instructed, because he will not be perswaded.

Cases of Leases.

Mich. 27 & 28 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Clayton's Case.

IN an Ejectione firmæ between Clayton and Presenham, of lands in Lichborow in the County of North. the Case was such; Indentures of demise were engrossed bearing date 26. Maii, anno 25 Eliz. of lands in L. to have and to hold (for three years from henceforth) and the said Indentures were delivered at four of the Clock in the Afternoon, the 20. day of June, 25. supradicto: And when this lease by computation shall have its beginning, either from the day of the date, or from the delivery was the Question. And in this Case three Points were resolved by Wray Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court. [1]

1. That (from henceforth) shall be accounted from the day of the delivery of the Indentures, and not by any computation of date; for, from henceforth is as much as to say, from the making, or from the time of the delivery of the Indentures, or a confectione præsentium; for the confection or making of the lease doth begin from the delivery, and these words (from henceforth) or any other words of the Indenture, are not of any effect or force until delivery, quia traditio loqui facit chartam.

2. That where the said Indenture was delivered at four of the Clock in the Afternoon the 20. of June, it was resolved that this lease should end the 19. day of June in the third year, for the Law in this computation doth reject all fractions and divisions of a day for the incertainty, which is always the mother of confusion. [b]

3. That in this Case the day of the delivery of the lease shall be taken inclusive, and the day it self is parcel of the demise: so where the demise is limited to begin from the making; but if the lease be to begin from the day of the making, or from the day of the date, there the day it self is excluded, and so the doubt in 12 Eliz. Dier 286. well explained. And with this Resolution agreeth 14 Eliz. Dier 307. And it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, Trin. 21 Eliz. where the words of the Statute of 27 H. 8. of Inrolments are (within six months after the date of the same writings indented) that if the writings have date, the six months shall be accounted from the date, and not from the delivery, but if they want date, then the six months shall be accounted from the delivery, vide Dier, 5 Eliz. 218. An Indenture of Bargain and Sale bore date the fourth day of October, 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. was inrolled the 21. day of March next following, which was the last day of the six months, accounting the day of the date exclusive. And it was adjudged upon demurrer in the Common Pleas (which Plea began 4 Eliz. Rot. 812.) that the deed was well enrolled within the said Act; for the whole day of the fourth of October shall be accounted in Law the date of the Indenture, unde sequitur, That from the date and from the day of the date are all of one sense, for as much as in judgment of Law, the date doth include the day of the date.

Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Elmer's Case.

BEtween Elmer Bishop of London, and Gale Defendant for the scite of the Mannor of Draiton in Midd. two Points were resolved. [2]

1. That the Statute of 1 Eliz. is a private Act, whereof the Court without pleading of it should not take knowledge.

2. It was resolved, That where the said scite parcel of the Bishoprick was in lease for years, and Grendon the Bishop did put out the lessee, and made a lease (which was confirmed by the Dean and Chapter) for three lives, rendring the ancient and accustomed rent; that this lease was voidable by the successor. 1. Because the Statute of 1 Eliz. was in the disjunctive for 21 years or three lives, and therefore the Bishop cannot make both: But if in the Case at Bar the said lease shall be good, then a Bishop may make a lease for 21 years, and presently after make a lease for three lives, which shall be against the words and meaning of the Act. 2. The rent reserved upon the lease is not paiable within the

the meaning of the Act; for although ex vi termini it is paiable, because that after the lease for years determined, the lessor shall distrain for all the arrerages of the rent reserved upon the lease for lives, yet it is not paiable within the meaning of the Act; for the Act was made to maintain Hospitality, and to avoid Dilapidations, and that cannot be but by a continual revenue yearly paiable in Law, and not in expectancy, or in futuro. For possibilities will not repair and maintain Hospitals or Churches; And in this Case the Bishop shall have but a possibility; for the lessees for lives shall have the rent reserved upon the lease [b] for years, and if they survive the lease for years, then the Bishops and Successors shall have remedy for the rent and arrerages reserved upon the lease for lives, as it hath been said. And it was said, That where the Statute of 33 H. 8. cap. 28. provideth, that the old lease be surrendred within one year, &c. that a surrender conditional is not within the said Act: For the intent of the makers of the Act was, to have a continual and absolute surrender, and not such illusory surrender, which might be avoided the next day; for, factum non dicitur quod non perseverat: and sensus verborum est anima legis. But in the principal Case Judgment was given against the Bishop, for not pleading the said Statute of 1 Eliz.

Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Jewel's Case.

[3] BEtween Paul and Maior, the Case was; Jewel Bishop of Salisbury 6 Eliz. by deed indented made a lease of a Fair parcel of the possessions of his Bishoprick, with all profits thereof in Sherburn in the County of Dorset for three lives, rendring the old and accustomed rent, which was confirmed by the Dean and Chapter; And afterwards the Bishop died, and if this lease were good against the successor, and not restrained and made void by the Statute of 1 Eliz. not printed was the Question. And it was adjudged, that the successor should avoid the lease; for a Fair is but a franchise or liberty, [a] mainorable, out of which a rent cannot be reserved; and therefore such rent reserved the lessor and his successors have not any remedy, either by distress or Assise; and all leases of such Inheritances, out of which the ancient and accustomed rent cannot be well and lawfully reserved, are voidable by the said Act. It was also resolved, That if the lease had been made for 21 years, rendring the ancient and accustomed rent, that the successor should avoid it; for although the rent reserved shall be good by way of contract between the lessor and the lessee, yet it is not incident to the reversion, nor shall go with it; and therefore such lease shall be also voidable by the successor by the said Statute, vide 17 E. 3. 7. 9 Ass. p. 24. 30 Ass. p. 5. 14 E. 3. Scire facias 122. 10 H. 6. 2. 3 H. 6. 21, &c.

Mich. 31 & 32 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

The Lord Mountjoye's Case.

[b] Richard Shepheard was Plaintiff against Blackalor Defendant in an Ejectione firmæ, of two houses and 18 acres of land in Hemston arundel, upon a demise made 10. Aprilis, 28 Eliz. for years; the Defendant pleaded Not Guilty, and the Jurors as to the moity of one house and 18 acres of land found the Defendant guilty, and as to the residue they have a special verdict to this effect: They found that the tenements in which, &c. were parcel of the Mannor of Hemston arundel, and demised and demisable time out of mind, &c. by Copy, &c. And that Robert Lord Brook was seised of the said Mannor in fee, and further found that by special Act of Parliament made 4. Feb. 27 H. 8. the said Mannor was entailed to Anne wife of Charles Lord Mountjoy, and to John Pawlet and Elizabeth his wife, and to the heirs of their bodies begotten with divers remainders over; By which Act it was provided as followeth, [c] scil. That the donees nor any of them, non facerent aliquid in nocumentum, vel exhæredationem heredum suorum, vel eorum alicujus, vel alicujus eorum in remanere, sed tantum pro junctiuro uxoris pro termino vitæ, vel alicujus viri, &c. pro termino vitæ, vel pro termino vitæ alicujus aliæ personæ, vel pro annis, vel ad voluntatem, secundum consuetudinem Manerii; Reddend' verum & antiquum reddit' prædictarum terrarum, & tenementorum sic demisorum, &c. & quod, all other Acts shall be void, as by the said Act appeareth: And further found, that the said Mannor did consist of divers free rents amounting to 7 l. &c. and 15 Copihold Te- [4] nements which were holden for lives, the customary rent of which was 3 l. and of the demesnes which had usually been demised by Indenture for the several rents and farms of 8 l. &c. And that there was one acre of waste parcel of the said Mannor, in which were divers high-ways, and common for the Tenants of the yearly value of 12 d. And that upon the death of every Copiholder, the Lord by custom ought to have Heriot; and that there was a Court Baron incident to the said Mannor, and perquisites of of Court, and a Leet appertaining to the said Mannor; and that the Free rents, or Copihold rents, or Heriots, or perquisites of Courts, or Leet never were demised before for life, or years, or otherwise: And that afterwards Charles Lord Mountjoy died, after whose death the said Anne his wife in 6 Eliz. did accept of a fine of a stranger, sur conusans de droit come ceo, &c. of the moity of the said Mannor with the appurtenances, and of a greater number of acres which did comprehend the demesnes; By which fine the said Anne did grant and render the moity of the said Mannor, &c. with the appurtenances for 300 years rendring rent amounting to the free rents, the Copihold rents, the Farm rents, and 18 d. more, and 12 d. for the acre of wast to be paid at two Feasts of the years, where the old rent was payable at four Feasts. And afterwards the said Anne died, and the Plaintiff claimed under the said lease for 300 years: And the Defendant claimed by the Lord Mountjoy that now is, being heir to the same in tail. And the doubt of this Case was, If the said lease for 300 years, made in manner and form aforesaid, was to be avoided by the said clause of restraint of the said Act of 27 H. 8. or not. And it was agreed for the Plaintiff, (in which as much was said as the wit or heart of a man could think or invent) that the lease shall be good, and not restrained by the said Act. And all that which was said may be briefly drawn into five parts.

1. For as much as this Act doth restrain the power which the Tenant in tail had by the Laws of the land, it shall be taken strictly, as to the restraint, and beneficial for the Tenant in tail: And to this purpose the Rule put by Read in 21 H. 7. 17. & 18 E. 4. 16. and divers other Books upon this ground were cited.

2. It was said, That although the rents of Assise, Heriots, Leets, were never demised before, it was not material; for out of these the rent reserved doth not issue, but only out of things mainorable, to which the lessor may resort to distrain; as in 2 Ass. 24. lease of land multure of a Mill, rendring rent, or in 30 Ass. 5. lease of land and Hundred, or advowson, rendring rent, &c. all the rent shall issue out of the land, and not out of the multure, advowson, or Hundred. But the King may reserve a rent out of a Fair, or other thing not mainorable, as is adjudged in 14 E. 3. Scire facias 122. becuase he may distrain for the same in all the other lands of the grantee, vide 10 H. 6. 2. And this Point was concluded with 12 Ass. p. 40. That if a rent be granted out of a Mannor, that the demesne only and not the services are charged. [b]

3. Although the acre of Wast was never demised before, and although the moity was now demised, where no moity was demised of the demesnes before; and although the rent was reserved at two days of the year, where before it was reserved at four days of the year, yet verus & antiquus redditus is reserved within the said Act: For every rent hath quantity and quality, and verus & antiquus redditus is not to be intended of every quality incident to it, but of the quantity of the rent, for that is the effect and substance of the thing reserved; As if the ancient reservation of the rent were in gold, and the new reservation was to be paid in silver; or if a quarter of Wheat were anciently reserved, and now the lease is made rendring eight bushels of Wheat, all is one; for the Law doth not respect the form of words, or the quality, but the substance and effect of the matter: So if the old rent was 10 l. and the lessor reserveth 20 l. the same is not ex vi termini verus & antiquus redditus, but parum differunt quæ re concordant, & qui hæret in litera, hæret in cortice. And it needeth not to have all qualities incident to an annual rent; for if it were Customary or Copihold rent before, other rent may now be reserved by Indenture: For by that he shall have veram & antiquam summam redditus, which he had before, and that is the effect and substance of the matter, although that it differeth in quality; So when the rent is payable at four days of the year, and now it is reserved at two days only, it is not material. For the words are, reddendo verum & antiquum redditum, and doth not say, ad usualia festa, &c. so that he reserve the true and ancient rent it is sufficient. And it was said, That if tenant in tail be of two Farms, one which hath been at all times let for 20 l. rent, and the other for 10 l. rent, and he maketh a lease of both for 21 years, rendring 33 l. rent entirely out of both, the same is good, and yet it is not the accustomable rent which hath been paid, &c. for now it is one entire rent, where it was several before, and now this entire rent issueth out of both, and every one of them charged with the whole rent, where each of them was severally charged before; but entire and several are but qualities of the rent, but in substance the accustomable rent is reserved, for they both amount to 30 l. and that is reserved. So if tenant in tail be seised of three acres of land, each of equal yearly value, and all have been demised for 3 s. per annum, in such Case he may lease one of them for 12 d. per annum, or two of them for 2 s. per annum, and so pro rata: And yet in these two Cases it is not the accustomable rent which hath been paid. So if two Coparceners be seised of certain lands in tail, which hath been let for 10 l. rent, one of them may let his part or moity for 4 l. In all which Cases the rent reserved, although it differ in form or quality, yet in substance it is verus & antiquus redditus within the said Act of 27 H. 8. It was further said, That if a Mannor hath been always let for 10 l. rent, and afterwards a tenancy escheateth, yet it may be let for 10 l. and yet it may be argued that the same is not verus & antiquus redditus, for no rent was ever reserved before out of land escheated, and by consequence the rent reserved cannot be said, verus & antiquus redditus: But that shall be too nice and subtil interpretation, for by the same reason, when a Copihold of Inheritance is forfeited, it may be said, that becuase the rent of the Copihold was demised and not the land, it shall impeach the lease, which shall be a very hard construction, tending to the avoidance of many leases of poor men, which shall be inconvenient: So in the Case at Bar, although that the acre of wast was never demised before, yet in as much as the value thereof, or more is reserved, the purview and intent of the Act is well kept. [5]

4. It was argued, and strongly urged, That if the said render as to the said acre of wast the Services Heriots, Leets, &c. (which were never demised before the said grant and render) shall be void by the said, Act, that then it followeth that it is good for the demesnes, which have been demised; for then all the rent reserved shall go out of the demesns.

5. If it ſhall not be void as to ſuch things which were demiſed before, yet after the death of him who made the grant and render, there ſhall be apportionment of the rent for them; then for as much as the whole rent and more is reſerved for the demeſnes, (although the rents of the Freeholders and Copiholders and the acre of waſt be deducted) & verus & antiquus redditus, and more above them doth remain for the demeſnes, for this cauſe it was urged, that the ſaid render ſhall be good for the demeſnes; Et id certum eſt, quod certum reddi poteſt: And in this Caſe, after many arguments, and great deliberation and conſideration, ſix Points were reſolved.

1. Although it be provided by the ſaid Act, That all eſtates, &c. reſtrained by the ſaid Act ſhall be void, yet by conſtruction of Law, it is not void as to the tenant in tail himſelf, but ſhall be avoided by the iſſues in tail; and the intent of the Act was to provide, that the donees nor any of them, non facerent aliquid ad nocumentum, vel exhæreditationem hæred. eorum, and not to make void the eſtate which the donee himſelf made againſt himſelf: And all Acts of Parliament as well private as general, ſhall be taken by a reaſonable conſtruction to be collected out of the words of the Act it ſelf, according to the true intent and meaning of the makers of the Act, vide 14 E. 4. 1. & 43 Aſſ. p. 29. [b]

2. It was reſolved, That in reſpect of the ſaid acre of waſt, which was never demiſed before, the rent which is entirely reſerved out of the whole, cannot be ſaid verus & antiquus redditus, when it goeth out of a thing, which was never charged with any rent, by any reſervation before.

3. By the grant and render of the Mannor, he to whom the render is made hath intereſt and term in the lands holden by Copy, and when any of the Copiholders die, or it be forfeited, he may enter and enjoy the land himſelf if he will, and the rent reſerved doth iſſue out of the ſame lands holden by Copy, which lands were never charged with any Farm rent before, but always have been demiſed by Copy according to the cuſtom of the Mannor: And when the demeſnes of the Mannor have been only demiſed for rent, in the Caſe at Bar, the whole Mannor cannot be ſaid to be demiſed within the ſaid Act; Alſo the eſtates which the tenant in tail ſhall make by the ſaid Act are diſtinguiſhed by the ſaid, ſcil. eſtates for life, for years, and at will, according to the cuſtom of the Mannor; But by this grant and render all are put in hotchpot and jumbled together, as Sir Thomas Gawdy ſaid, whereas the Copiholds ought to have been granted by Copy, according to the cuſtom of the Mannor, and not by fine, or deed.

4. The reſervation of the rent at two days where the rent was reſerved and payable at four days before, maketh the grant and render void, becauſe it is ad nocumentum of the heirs in tail, which is reſtrained by the Act; for it is more beneficial for them to have it paid at four Feaſts then at two. And all beneficial qualities of the rent ought to be reſerved and obſerved.

5. As the Caſes which have been put, of the reſervation of ſilver in lieu of gold, or of joyning ſeveral Farms in one demiſe, with reſervation of one and the ſame rent, or to let parcel of a Farm rendring rent pro rata, all theſe were denied by the whole Court; But the ſaid Caſe of reſervation of buſhels of wheat in lieu of a quarter is all one in quality, value, and nature, and varieth only in weight. But Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, that he did agree to the Caſe of two Coparceners, that one may let her moity, yielding the moity of the accuſtomable rent, for in as much as they are in by act of Law, or of God, it ſhould be hard that the frowardneſs of her Coparcener ſhould prejudice her of the benefit or fine which ſhe may have by making of a leaſe of her moity: And ſo a difference between this Caſe of a leaſe of one part with reſervation of rent pro rata, which is her own act, and which rent for parcel is not the accuſtomable rent which hath been paid. So and for the ſame cauſe, when two diſtinct Farms are joyned together, the whole rent which is reſerved out of both, is a new rent, and not the accuſtomable rent. And as to the Caſe of Eſcheat of a tenancy it was agreed for good Law. For the act of Law or of God ſhall not prejudice any one. But if the leſſor had purchaſed the tenancy it ſhould be otherwiſe, for that which is purchaſed is not parcel of the Mannor, becauſe that he acquireth it by his own act. [6]

6. It was reſolved, That no apportionment can be in this Caſe to make the render good; for firſt no apportionment can be made in this Caſe, for as much as there be Copiholders for mens lives, which depend upon the providence of God, Heriots, profits of Courts, which are accidentals, and other caſualties, which cannot be reduced to an yearly value, as it is ſaid in Butler and Baker's Caſe; for this cauſe no apportionment can be made, for apportionment ought to be of certainty. And where it was ſaid, Quod id certum eſt, quod certum reddi poteſt; It was anſwered, Quod id incertum eſt, quod certum reddi nullo modo poteſt. 2. Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, That although there ſhall or may be apportionment after the death of Tenant in tail, that will not ſerve to make the grant and render good, for if verus and antiquus redditus be not reſerved yearly, during the term (as by conſtruction of Law is implied) the power which the tenant in tail hath is not followed: For it is not ſufficient, Quod verus & antiquus redditus be reſerved to the heirs in tail, but it ought to be reſerved to the tenant in tail himſelf; and therefore if he reſerveth a leſs rent to him during his life, and after his death, the true and ancient rent, the leaſe is not good: And although that the Statute was made principally as hath been ſaid, for the benefit of the heirs in tail, &c. yet the reſervation ought in conſtruction in Law be of the true and ancient rent during the whole term. And therefore if the true and ancient rent be not reſerved during the life of the tenant in tail who made the grant and render (as in truth it was not in the Caſe at Bar) no apportionment after his death will make the demiſe good. And for as much as the land it ſelf holden by Copy was demiſed, it will appear upon apportionment (if any ſhall be) that the ancient rent doth not remain for the demeſnes.

And in the argument of this Caſe, the difference of penning of divers Statutes concerning leaſes was obſerved. The Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 28. that appointeth the demiſe to begin from the day of the making, &c. not above the number of 21 years, or three lives, and that there ſhall be reſerved yearly during the ſame leaſe, &c. ſo much yearly rent, or farm, or more, as hath been moſt accuſtomably paid, &c. within 20 years before ſuch leaſe made; ſo that a leaſe for a leſſer term or a greater term is within the letter of the ſaid Statute: But the words of the Statute of 1 Eliz. of leaſes made by [b]

Biſhops

Bishops are, Other then for the term of 21 years, or three lives (without saying, or under) from such time as any such grant or assurance shall begin, whereupon the old accustomed yearly rent, or more (without limitation of any time) shall be reserved, &c. And yet a lease for lesser time is good, and the rent ought to be reserved during the whole term. The Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. other then for the term of 21 years, or three lives (without saying, or under) from the time as any such lease or grant shall be made, whereupon the accustomed yearly rent, or more, shall be reserved, &c. And many other matters were moved by the Council on both sides in this Case, which I purposely omit because the Court gave no resolution of them.

Look well (good Reader) that if you contract for any lease, upon any of the said, or other Statutes, or with any person who hath power to make leases, by any of the Provisoes newly invented and put into Indentures, take good advice of Council upon the sight and consideration of them in making of your lease; And my hope is, that the report of these Cases concerning leases will bring to your memory some things tending to the repose and quiet of poor Farmers.

Mich. 31 & 32 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, in a Writ of Error.

Justice Windham's Case.

IN Trespas between Francis Windham one of the Justices of the Common Pleas Plaintiff, and John Debney and others Defendants, in the Common Pleas for Trespas done in a meadow called Sextens meadow in Trowse in the County of Norfolk, the Case was such; The Dean and Chapter of the holy and individed Trinity of Norwich were seised of the said meadow called Sextens meadow, and of another meadow in the said Town called Cheese meadow; And by Indenture under the common Seal, 37 H. 8. demised Cheese meadow to Howlins for 40 years: And afterwards 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary by Indenture under their common Seal, demised Sextens meadow to the said Howlins and Debney for 21 years. And afterwards 12 Eliz. the said Dean and Chapter demised to Nicholas Manne both the said meadows with every Habendum, scil. to have and to hold Cheese meadow for 40 years after the end of the first lease thereof made; And to have and to hold Sextens meadow after the first lease thereof made, with several reservations of rents. The said Manne assigned his interest to John Hoe, who 15 Eliz. surrendred and took a new lease by Indenture of the said Dean and Chapter under their common Seal (in which the first leases were recited) of both the meadows, Habendum sibi ab & post determinationem prædict. seperalium dimission', videlicet, prædict. dimission. præd. Rob. Howlyns in forma prædict. fact', & prædict. dimission. præfat. Roberto Howlyns & Johanni Debney, &c. in forma præd. fact', sive esset per sursum redditionem, determinationem, &c. usque ad finem & terminum 40 annorum ex tunc proxim. sequen', existen' verum numerum annorum mentionat. in dict. sursum reddit. Indentur. dict. Nicholao Manne made: Reddendo, &c. the ancient rent severally for the said meadows; so that in effect the Case is; A man maketh a lease of Sextens meadow to A. for 10 years, and of Cheese meadow to B. for 20 years; and afterwards by Indenture reciting the said two leases, made a lease to another of both for 40 years, to begin after the end or determination of the said several leases made to A. and B. And afterwards the former lease of Sextens meadow endeth, and the lease of Cheese meadow continueth; and when the last lease as to Sextens meadow now in question shall begin was the Question. And if it shall not begin till the lease of Cheese meadow be ended, then the Plaintiff hath entred before his time, for the former lease of Cheese meadow hath yet continuance. But if the said Habendum in the latter lease shall be taken respective or distributive, Reddendo singula singulis, so that when the lease in Sextens meadow determineth, the new term for 40 therein shall begin, then Judgment ought to be given for the Plaintiff. And after many arguments at Bar and Bench in the Common Pleas, it was resolved and adjudged, That the Habendum in the latter lease shall be taken respective, that is to say, the lease of Sextens meadow to John Hoe for 40 years shall begin presently after the end of the first lease thereof made. For every deed shall be taken strong against the grantor, and most beneficially for the grantee, and it is most strong against the lessor, and most beneficial for the lessee to have the lease of Sextens meadow to begin presently after the first lease made thereof, then to tarry till the lease of Cheese meadow be ended. As in 9 E. 4. 42. & 19 H. 6. 4. If I release unto you all Actions which I have against you and another, in this Case notwithstanding the joynt words, all Actions which I have against you alone are released, for it shall be most beneficial to him to whom the release is made, and most strongest against him who maketh it; And the joynt words of the parties shall be taken respective and severally.

[7]

[b]

1. Sometimes in respect of the several interest of the grantors; as if two Tenants in common, or several Tenants joyn in a grant of a rent charge, yet in Law this grant shall be several, although that the words are joynt, as Sir Robert Catlyn Chief Justice holdeth in Browning's Case, in Plow. Commentaries.

2. Sometimes in respect of the several interests of the grantees, &c. as 16 H. 6. 63, 64. a warranty made to two of certain lands shall enure as several warranties in respect that they are severally seised, one of part of the lands, and the other of the residue in severalty, 6 E. 2. Covenant Br. 49. One joynt Covenant shall be taken several in respect of the several interests of the Covenantees, vide 16 Eliz. Dier 337, 338. between Sir Anthony Cook and Wotton, a good Case.

3. Sometimes in respect that the grant cannot take effect, but at several times, as 24 E. 3. 29. a r mainder limited to the right heirs of J. S. and J. N. (J. S. and J. N. being alive) in which Case t words are joynt, and yet the heirs shall take severally.

4. Sometimes in respect of the incapacity and impossibility of the grantees to take joyntly, as a le made to an Abbot and secular man, or a gift to two men, or to two women, and to the heirs of th two bodies begotten, the Inheritance is several, 7 H. 4. 17. vide Chapman's Case, Plow. Com.

5. Sometimes in respect of the cause of the grant, or ratione subjectæ materiæ, as 15 H. 7. 14. O Coparcener granteth a rent to two other Coparceners for owelty of partition, although that the wor are joynt, yet the cause of the grant shall be respected, and the rent shall be of the quality of the lan and therefore they shall have the rent in degree and quality of coparcenary, and not joyntly. And Knit Chief Justice and Chancellor said in 38 E. 3. 26. that if two Coparceners make a feoffment in fee, re dring rent to them and their heirs, the heirs of the one and other shall inherit, because their right in t land was several, 22 E. 4. 25. & 2 R. 3. 18. joynt submission to arbitrement shall be taken several respect of the several causes.

6. Sometimes Ne res destruatur, & ut evitetur absurdum, as in 6 H. 7. 7. in Cessavit, where the tenu is alledged by Homage, Fealty, and Rent, and the demandant counted, that in faciendo servitia præd cessavit, shall be by construction taken to such services only, of which a man may cease, 17 E. 3. 1. & 2 The Prior of Tukesford's Case in a Scire facias against the successor of the Prior upon a Judgment give in a Writ of Annuity for the arrerages in the time of the predecessor, and of the successor, and the Writ was that the predecessor and successor nondum reddiderunt: To which exception was taken that the pre decessor was supposed not to render that which the successor ought, & non allocatur; for reddendo singula singulis by reasonable construction the words may well stand together, vide 21 E. 3. 48. in a Per que servitia, F. N. B. 14. in Monstraverunt: And the reason of all these Cases is, quod res non destruatur, where the grant shall be taken strongest against the grantor, and shall take effect so near as it may ac cording to the intent of the parties. And such construction doth concur with two of the reasons [b] in the principal Case. 1. It shall be taken strongest against the grantor. 2. This construction doth concur with the intent and meaning of the parties, for after the Habendum and the number of the years these words are added, existen' verum numerum annorum in dict' sursum reddit' Indentur' mentionat', i which Indenture the Habendum was several, so that the intent of the parties was to have several beginning in this new lease, &c. and the lessor and lessee never imagined but that the leases should begin several and not that the lessee should expect for Sextens meadow, until the lease of Cheese meadow, which another distinct lease, and a distinct thing, shall end. And so it was adjudged, and the Plaintiff h execution. Upon which Judgment a Writ of Error was brought; and after many arguments it w resolved by Sir Christopher Wray, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court of Kings Bench, That the l to Hoe shall have several beginnings. And so this Case was resolved by both Courts. And afterwa the same Term in a Case between Polard and Alcocke in the Court of Wards, Wray Chief Justice clea held: That if a man be seised of three acres of lands in fee, and maketh a lease of one to A. for life, another acre of land to B. for life, and of the third to C. in tail, and afterwards by deed (reciting t said estates) covenanteth with his brother, That after the estates ended and determined, that he heirs would stand seised of all the said three acres to the use of his brother in tail, &c. That in this C presently by the death of B. the brother shall have the acre leased to B. and shall not tarry till all t estates, scil. the other estate for life, and the estate tail be ended: But reddendo singula singulis, by t Covenant the estates in the several acres vest presently in the brothers, and shall take effect in possessi as the several estates in possession end and determine, which was granted by the whole Court. And t the Case of Polard, Wray cited, and relied upon the said Case of Justice Windham. And afterwards the Plaintiff in the Writ of Error perceiving the opinion of the Court, did not proceed in their Writ of Error.

Trin. 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Brudnel's Case.

[9] THomas Brudnel Administrator of Anthony Rone, brought an Action of debt upon an Obligation of 200*l.* against Thomas Skidmore, and had Judgment to recover in the Common Pleas, and died; Robert Brudnel and John Brudnel Executors of the said Thomas Brudnel sued a Scire facias upon the said Judgment, and Process continued until the said Skidmore was outlawed; And now the said Tho. Skidmore brought a Writ of Error. And note, it appeareth by the Record certified, that the said Thomas Brudnel was Administrator to the said Anthony, during the minority of Edward, Jeromy, Humphrey and Anne, the Children of the said Anthony, and he did averr in his Declaration, that the said Edward, Humphrey and Anne was alive; and within age, and did not averr that the said Jeromy was alive, or within again; And the Plaintiffs Council assigned for Error, That when administration is committed to one during the minority of four, if one of them dieth, or cometh of full age, the whole authority doth cease; for difference was taken between a limitation annexed to an estate or interest, and a collateral or bare limitation not coupled or conjoyned with an estate or interest, of which there can be no no ſurvivor; As if a man make a leaſe to two during their lives, there if one dieth, his eſtate ſhall ſurvive: But if a leaſe be made to A. during the life of B. and C. without ſaying, and during the life of the ſurvivor of them, there if one of them dieth, the eſtate (as Popham ſaid) was determined. But it was anſwered and reſolved by Sir John Popham Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, that in the ſame Caſe put by the Plaintiffs Council, if one of the Ceſtuy que vies dieth, the eſtate is not determined, but A. ſhall have the land during the life of the ſurvivor of them: And ſo was it reſolved by all the Juſtices at Michaelmas Term holden at S. Albans, 5 & 6 Eliz. for A. hath an eſtate of Freehold by way of limitation of an eſtate during the life of two men, and by conſtruction of Law during the life of the ſurvivor of them: As if a man make a leaſe to two men during their lives, and they aſſign their eſtate over, now the aſſignee hath an eſtate for the life of the two men, and if one dieth, he ſhall have the land during the life of the ſurvivor of them. And theſe differences were taken and agreed in this Caſe. [b]

1. Between a limitation, as the Caſe before, and a Condition: For if a man leaſeth lands for 100 years if A. and B. ſo long live, in this Caſe if one dieth, the leaſe is ended, for the leaſe was conditional, and not determinable by limitation of eſtate; and there the life of man is collateral, as to the leaſe which is but a chattel.

The ſecond difference was between a limitation of an eſtate of Freehold for lives, and collateral determinations, as during the time that C. and D. ſhall be of the Inner Temple, or during the time that C. and D. ſhall be dwelling in Norfolk, or ſhall be Juſtices of Peace, or the like; for in theſe Caſes the failer of the one, ſhall determine the eſtate: But the ſaid Point moved for an Error in the Caſe at Bar was not expreſly reſolved, becauſe that another Error was moved, by which without queſtion the Judgment was reverſed, and that was, that when an Adminiſtrator hath Judgment and dieth, his Executors cannot ſue execution of the ſaid Judgment; for none ſhall have execution of that Judgment, but he who ſhall be ſubject to the payment of the debts of the firſt Inteſtate, and that the ſaid Executors are not, vide 26 H. 8. 7. And it is adjudged in 28 H. 8. reported by Serjeant Bendloes, That the Adminiſtrator, of an Executor ſhall not have execution of a Judgment given for the Executors. And the opinion of the Court was, That the ſaid Outlawry upon this Judgment was erroneous, and for this cauſe it was reverſed.

Mich. 36 & 37 Eliz. Rot. 1634. in the Common Pleas.

Henſtead's Caſe.

THE Caſe was ſuch; A woman Tenant for life of a houſe and certain land in Shoram in Kent made a leaſe at Will rendring rent, and afterwards took husband; And ſhe and her husband brought an Action of debt for the arrerages after the marriage; And if the leaſe at Will were determined by the intermarriage or not was the Queſtion. And it was agreed by the whole Court, That the Will was not determined by the intermarriage; for although that the woman by the taking of husband hath ſubmitted her ſelf to the will of her husband as her head; yet for as much as it may be prejudicial to the husband to have the leaſe determined (for then he ſhall loſe the rent to be paid at the next day after the marriage, and it cannot be in any manner prejudicial to the wife, if the leaſe continue, but rather to her benefit. And generally it may be great prejudice to husbands who entermarry with women who have Tenants at will for the loſing of their rents.) For theſe cauſes it was reſolved that without expreſs matter in fact by the husband after the marriage to determine the Will, it is not determined. The ſame Law, if a leaſe be made to a woman at will, and ſhe take husband, the Will doth continue notwithſtanding the marriage. [10]

So if a leaſe be made to three at Will rendring rent, and one dieth, it is no determination of the Will, and although that nothing can ſurvive, yet becauſe that every one is joyntly poſſeſſed of the whole, they ſhall be charged with the whole rent. And ſo the Quære in 10 Eliz. Dier 269. b. well reſolved: But in the Caſe at Bar after the marriage, the woman her ſelf cannot countermand or determine the leaſe at Will, no more then where ſhe and her husband make a leaſe at Will rendring rent during the coverture; or if a leaſe be made to them at Will: For ſhe hath ſubmitted her ſelf, and all her will to her husbands will; And ſo a feme covert may have a Tenant at will; and be Tenant at will, and yet ſhe her ſelf cannot countermand it, becauſe that ſhe by her intermarriage hath put her countermanding power in this Caſe (which doth not concern Freehold or Inheritance) into her husbands mouth. [b]

Alſo if the husband and wife leaſe lands at Will rendring rent, and the husband dieth, it is no countermand of the Will, but the leaſe doth continue. So it was ſaid, If two joyntenants make a leaſe at Will rendring rent, and one dieth, all doth ſurvive to the other, and the leſſee continueth poſſeſſion, the ſurvivor ſhall have an Action for the whole rent for the privity, and ſhall not be a countermand for one moity for the miſchief which may follow to leſſors, and ſo much the rather, becauſe that no miſchief or prejudice can come to the leſſees in ſuch Caſe.

Mich.

Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz. which began Trin. 38 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Ive's Case.

[11] IVe brought an Action of Waſt againſt Sammes, and counted of a leaſe made to the Defendant of the Mannor of Tottenham in the County of Eſſex for 30 years: The Defendant pleaded, non dimiſit; and by ſpecial verdict it was found, That the leſſor made a leaſe for 30 years of the ſaid Mannor, except all Woods and Underwoods growing and being upon the Mannor; and afterwards made a ſecond leaſe to the ſame leſſee of all the Woods and Underwoods growing and being upon the ſaid Mannor for the term of 62 years without impeachment of Waſt. And afterwards made a third leaſe of the ſaid Mannor to the ſaid leſſee for 30 years, without exception to begin at a day to come, ſcil. from the expiration of the the ſaid firſt leaſe for 30 years; and afterwards the term of 30 years expired, the leſſee cut trees, Ive in reverſion brought an Action of Waſt, and it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved:

1. That by the exception of the Woods and Underwoods growing and being upon the Mannor, the ſoil it ſelf is excepted, 14 H. 8. 1. acc', and by name of wood may be demanded and recovered, and that theſe words (growing or being) are words of abundance, for without them the Law will imply as much, & expreſſio eorum quæ tacite inſunt nihil operatur, for by the leaſe of the Wood and Underwood upon the Mannor, is implied that they are growing, and therefore to demiſe all Woods upon the Mannor, and all Woods growing upon the Mannor is all one. And ſo it was adjudged, Trin. 7 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, as it was there ſaid, vide 46 E. 3. 22. 28 H. 8. Dier 19. 33 H. 8. Br. Reſervation 39. [b] 7 E. 6. Dier 79, &c. and ſo a Queſtion in our Books well reſolved.

2. Notwithſtanding the ſaid exception, the Wood doth remain parcel of the Mannor, and by leaſe of the Mannor ſhall paſs, becauſe that the Freehold doth remain entire, and the leſſor doth remain tenant to every Præcipe, and there needeth not any exception, vide Plow. Comm. 140. Fulmerſton's Caſe; Otherwiſe of a leaſe for life with ſuch exception, cauſa patet. And therefore it was reſolved, That by the leaſe of the Mannor, the Woods ſhall paſs, vide 38 H. 6. 33. The King ſeiſed of a Mannor to which an advowſon was appendant leaſeth the Mannor, (without ſpeaking of the advowſon appendant) for life; and afterwards granted the reverſion, Habendum una cum Advocatione, the advowſon ſhall not paſs, for during of the life of the leſſee it was not appendant: Whereupon is to be obſerved, That if a man granteth an advowſon appendant for life, the reverſion is appendant to the Mannor: But when a man leaſes the Mannor for life, except the advowſon, the advowſon in poſſeſſion cannot be appendant to the reverſion of the Mannor expectant upon the eſtate for life: Otherwiſe upon an eſtate for years.

3. That by the acceptance of the future leaſe, to begin after divers years, the ſaid leaſe of the Wood for 62 years was preſently ſurrendred, becauſe that the leſſee by acceptance thereof hath affirmed the leſſor to have ability to make the new leaſe, which he hath not, if the firſt leaſe ſtand: As if leſſee for 20 years taketh a leaſe for three years, to begin 10 years after; it is a preſent ſurrender of the whole term, for it cannot be a ſurrender of the laſt 10 years, and remain for the firſt 10 years, and ſo to make a fraction of the term: Now he who hath a leaſe for 20 years can ſurrender the laſt 10 years by any expreſs ſurrender ſaving to him the firſt 10 years. Vide 14 H. 8. 15. 2 Mar. 112. 4 Mar. 142. 3 Eliz. 200. 10 Eliz. 272. 11 Eliz. 280. 35 H. 6. 57. 21 H. 7. 6. 31 Aſſ. p. 26. 32 H. 8. 46. 37 H. 6. 17. 14 H. 7. 37. 21 H. 7. 12, 40. 13 R. 2. Dower. 40 E. 3. 24, 43. 41 E. 3. 13. 44 E. 3. 25, 26. 45 E. 3. 13.

Trin. 41 Eliz. which began 40 Eliz. Rot. 747. in the Common Pleas.

Saunder's Case.

[12] SAunders brought an Action of Waſt againſt Manwood aſſignee of the term in the tenement for Waſt done for digging of Sea-coals; The Defendant pleaded in Bar, That the firſt leſſee who opened the Mine, granted to him all his intereſt in the land cum omnibus profic' (Except' & ſemper reſervat' ſibi & hæred' ſuis tot' benefic. Miner', Anglice the Coal-Mine) in præd. parcell. terr. ac omnibus maremiis: And averred that the ſaid Mine at the time of the aſſignment, and yet, is open. And in this Caſe five Points were reſolved. And upon great deliberation Judgment was given for the Plaintiff.

1. If a man hath land in part of which there is a Coal-Mine open, and he leaſeth the land for life, or for years, the leſſee may digg in it: For in as much as the Mine is open at the time, &c. and he leaſeth leaseth all the land, it shall be intended that his intent is as general as his lease is; scil. that he shall take the profit of all the land, and by consequence of the Mine in it, vide 17 E. 3. John de Hull's Case acc', and so the doubt in F. N. B. 149. C. explained.

2. If the Mine were not open but included within the bowels of the earth at the time of the lease made, in such Case by leasing of the land, the lessee cannot make new Mines, for that shall be wast, F. N. B. 59. & 22 H. 6. 18. acc'.

3. If a man hath Mines hidden within his land, and leaseth his land, and all Mines therein, there the lessee may digg for them, for quando aliquis aliquid concedit, concedere videtur & id sine quo res ipsa esse non potest, and therewith agreeth 9 E. 4. 8. where it is said, That if a man leaseth his land to another, and in the same there is a Mine (which is to be intended of a hidden Mine) he cannot digg for it, but if he leaseth his land and all Mines in it, then although that the Mine be hidden, the lessee may digg for them; and by consequence the digging of the Mine in the principal Case was wast in the first lessee. [b]

4. It was resolved, That although the Mine was first opened by the first lessee, that if his grantee dig in it, it is wast in him.

5. It was resolved, that the Exception was void, for first by the Exception of the profits of the Mine, or of the Mine it self, the land is not excepted; and then it followeth, that he hath excepted that which he could not have taken: As if a man assigneth his term, and excepteth the timber-trees upon the land, or the gravel, or clay within the land, it is void, for he cannot except that thing which doth not belong to him by the Law. And although that it was said, That for as much as the lessee first opened the Mine, and so committed wast, and so had quodam modo appropriate the same to himself, and by his wrong hath subjected himself to lose the place wasted, and treble damages, it is reason that he may keep it to himself, and so continue punishable for the wast of which he was the first author; But notwithstanding that, it was resolved as above; for his wrong which he committeth cannot devest the intereſt in the Mine, being in the land demised to him out of the lessor, and therefore he cannot except that to himself which belongeth to another: And it was adjudged Pasch. 28 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Rot. 820. between Foster and Miles Plaintiffs, and Spencer and Borde Defendants, That where the lessee for years assigneth over his term except the timber-trees, and afterwards the trees were felled, That the Action of wast was maintenable against the assignee, for the Exception was utterly void for the causes aforesaid, quod nota bene. And in this Case it was said, If lessee for years deviseth his term to another, and maketh his Executors and dieth, the Executors do wast, and afterwards assent to the devise, in this Case although that between the Executors and the devisee it hath relation, and the devisee is in by the devisor, yet an Action of wast shall be maintenable against the Executors in the tenuit. So if grantee of a term upon Condition doth wast, and afterwards the grantor entreth for the Condition broken, the Action of wast shall be maintenable against the grantee in the tenuit, 30 E. 3. 16. acc'.

Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz.

Rosse's Case.

BEtween Peter Rosse and Aldwick in an Ejectione firmæ, which began Pasch. 37 Eliz. Rot. 449. the Case was such; A lease is is made to A. and his assignees, Habendum to him during his life, and the lives of B. and C. and if this limitation during the life of B. and C. were void or not was the Question. And it was adjudged, That the limitation was good; for where it was objected, That when a man hath two estates in him, the greater shall drown the less, and that an estate for his own life is higher then for the life of another, and therefore that estate for his own life, and for the lives of others cannot stand together. To that it was answered and resolved, That in the Case at Bar, the lessee had but one estate, which hath this limitation, scil. during his life, and the lives of the two others, and he hath but one Freehold, and therefore there cannot be any drowning of estates in the Case, but he hath an estate of Freehold to continue during these three lives, and the survivor of them. [13]

Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

The Countess of Shrewsburies Case.

THE Countess of Shrewsbury brought an Action upon the Case against Richard Crompton a Lawyer of the Temple, and declared, That she leased to him a house at Will, & quod ille tam negligenter & improvide custodivit ignem suum, quod domus illa combusta fuit: To which the Defendant pleaded Not Guilty, [b]

Guilty, and was found guilty: And it was adjudged that for this permissive Waste no Action lay, against the opinion of Brook in the abridgement of the Case of 48 E. 3. 25. Waste 52. And the reason of the Judgment was, because at the Common Law no Action of Waste did lie for voluntary or permissive Waste against lessee for life or years, because that the lessee hath interest in the land by the act of the lessor, and it was his folly to make such lease, and not restrain him by Covenant, or Condition, or otherwise, that he should not do Waste. So and for the same reason, a Tenant at Will shall not be punished for Waste. But the opinion of Littleton is good Law, fol. 15. If lessee at Will commit voluntary Waste, scil. in abatement of the houses, or in cutting of the Woods, there a general Action of Trespass lieth against him. For as it is said in 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Dier 122. b. when Tenant at will taketh upon him to do such things which none can do but the owner of the land, these amount to the determination of the Will, and of his possession, and the lessor shall have a general Action of Trespass without any entry: And there 15 E. 4. 20. b. is cited, That if a Bailee of goods, as of a horse, &c. kill them, the Bailor shall have a general Action of Trespass, for by the killing the privity was determined. But it was agreed that in some Cases, when there is a confidence reposed in the party, the Action upon the Case will lie [14] for negligence, although that the Defendant cometh to the possession of them by the act of the Plaintiff, As 12 E. 4. 13. where a man delivereth a horse to another to keep safe, the Defendant equum illum non negligenter custodivit, quod ob defectum bonæ custodiæ interiit, the Action of the Case lieth for this breach of the trust. So 2 H. 7. 11. if my Shepherd, which I trust with my sheep, and by his negligence they be drowned, or otherwise perish, an Action upon the Case lieth: But in the Case at Bar it was a lease at Will made to the Defendant, and no consideration reposed in him; By which it was awarded, that the Plaintiff take nothing by his Bill.

Mich. 43 & 44 Eliz. in the High Court of Parliament.

The Case of Ecclesiastical Persons.

AT a Parliament holden the same Term upon consideration of a Bill for confirmation of Conveyances made by the Subjects to the Queen, and of Letters Patents made by the Queen to Subjects. It was resolved by the Chief Justices, Popham and Anderson, and divers other Justices assistant to the Lords of Parliament in the Upper House, That leases made to the Queen by Colledges, Deans and Chapters, Wardens of Hospitals, or any other having Spiritual or Ecclesiastical Livings, against the provision of the Act of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. are restrained by the same Act, as well as leases made to common persons.

1. Because the Ecclesiastical persons are disabled by the Act to make any gift, grant, feoffment, conveyance, or estate, but only in the same form as the Statute prescribeth; And if they are disabled to make
[b] estates, then the Queen cannot take any estate of them, which is not warranted by the said Act. For although the Queen by the Common Law hath ability to take it, yet for as much as the Parliament hath disabled them to make estates, the estates made to the Queen against the Act are void.

2. The Statute of 1 Eliz. which restraineth Bishops to make estates, hath special provision, that they may make estates to the Queen; which proveth, that if such provision had not been made to the Queen, for as much as the Act doth disable Bishops to make estates, the Queen cannot take estate from them against the Provision of the Act, but no such provision is in the said Act of 13 Eliz.

3. In divers Cases the King is bound by Act of Parliament, although he be not named in it, nor bound by expres words. And therefore all Statutes which are made to suppress wrong, or to take away fraud, or to prevent the decay of Religion, shall bind the King although he be not named: For Religion, Justice, and Truth are the Supporters of the Crowns and Diadems of Kings. And therefore it is agreed in 35 H. 6. 60. that the King shall be bound by the Statute of West. 2. cap. 5. which maketh provisions against torcious Usurpations, although that the King be not named in the Act. So the Lord Barkley's Case reported by Master Plowden it is adjudged, That if a gift in tail be made to the King, he cannot alien to defraud him in the reversion, or his issue, but is bound by the Statute of West. 2. De donis conditionalibus. And the said Act of 1 Eliz. proveth, That Acts which restrain Ecclesiastical persons to wast their possessions, which were given to maintain the Service of God, shall bind the King, if special provision had not been made to the contrary by the same Act; Et summa ratio est quæ pro religione facit. Sir Thomas Egerton Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, agreed in opinion with the Justices aforesaid in the principal Case: Note Reader, the said Act of 13 Eliz. hath been construed beneficially, to prevent all intentions and evasions against the true intents of the makers of the Act. And therefore it was holden Pasch. 14 Eliz. in the Common Pleas in Eitrne's Case, That if a Writ of Annuity be brought against a Parson or a Vicar upon a feigned prescription, or by a grant by him the Patron and Ordinary, supposed to be made before the Statute; and he prayeth in Aid of the Patron and Ordinary, and loseth by Action tried, and all the same is feigned to make an evasion out of this Act, that this invention is taken within the equity of it; for although the annuity charge the Parson or Vicar and not the possessions, ſions, yet it is within the miſchief, ſcil. impoveriſhing of the ſucceſſor, cauſe of Dilapidations, and decay of ſpiritual Livings, and Hoſpitals, which are the miſchiefs mentioned in the preamble. And note this word (ſuffered) in the Act was well obſerved.

It was adjudged in the Common Pleas, Mich. 37 & 38 Eliz. between the Dean and Chapter of Hereford, and the Biſhop of Hereford and Ballard, That the grant of the next avoidance of a Benefice by the Dean and Chapter was within the purview of this Act; So it was reſolved there, If a Dean and Chapter grant a rent charge out of their poſſeſſions, it is reſtrained by the equity of the Act; and yet the rent is not any part of their poſſeſſions within the words of Act. It hath been holden, That if an Archdeacon maketh a leaſe for three lives according to this Act, and the leſſees made a leaſe for 100 years, and the Archbiſhop, Biſhop, Dean and Chapter confirmed it, yet it ſhould not bind the ſucceſſor; for if ſuch confirmation ſhould not be ſaid a conveyance within this Act, the Statute would be to little or no purpoſe, and the good intent and purview of the Act ſhall be defeated and defrauded.

And it was holden Trinit. 30 Eliz. in a Caſe depending by Engliſh Bill in the Exchequer-Chamber, between Hodges Plaintiff and Newcomen Defendant, by Sir Roger Manwood Chief Baron, and all the Barons of the Exchequer, That where the Parſon of Weſton in the County of Glouceſter 9 Eliz. demiſed his Rectory to William Hodges then Patron of the ſame Rectory for 50 years, who 14 Eliz. by Deed aſſigned the ſame unto Sir John Throgkmorton, the Biſhop confirmed this leaſe 17 Eliz. in the life of the leſſor, that the ſaid Confirmations were good. And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved:

1. That for as much as the ſaid leaſe was made before the Statute of 13 Eliz. and ſo not reſtrained by the ſaid Act, the confirmations made after the ſaid Act to perfect the ſaid leaſe, were not within the purview or intention of the Act.

2. It was reſolved, that the grant made by the Patron of the ſaid leaſe, did import in it ſelf as well a grant of the term, as a confirmation of the ſame term: And ſo one deed of one thing by one perſon, to one perſon and at one time ſhall enure to two ſeveral purpoſes, ſcil. to a grant of the intereſt as leſſee, and to a confirmation of the ſame intereſt as Patron. As if Tenant for life granteth a rent charge to him in the reverſion in fee, and he by deed granteth the ſame over to another and to his heirs, that is a good grant and confirmation alſo to make the rent good for ever. So if a diſſeiſor maketh a leaſe for life, the remainder to the diſſeiſee, and the diſſeiſee granteth the remainder over, it is a good grant and confirmation alſo.

And in the principal Caſe the Lords of the Parliament after the ſaid Reſolution being informed, that divers Deans and Chapters, Colledges, &c. had made leaſes to the Queen, intending that the Queen was not bound by the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. cauſed a clauſe to be added in the firſt Branch of the Act of Confirmation that it ſhould not extend to make any leaſe, grant, &c. good to the Queen by any Eccleſiaſtical [b] perſon, who had not power by the Laws and Statutes of the Realm ſo to do, which is more then was in the Act of Confirmations in anno 18 Eliz. which was made to manifeſt the matter to the Lay-people; for it was holden by the ſaid Juſtices, That the general words of the ſaid Act of 18 Eliz. hath not enabled ſuch Eccleſiaſtical perſons to make leaſes or eſtates to the Queen, which by the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. were upon good and important conſiderations diſabled. Vide 17 E. 3. 40. & 21 E. 3. 46. The King being the Head of the Commonwealth, cannot be an inſtrument to defeat the purview of an Act of Parliament made pro bono publico.

Covenants, Agreements, &c. concerning Leaſes, Aſſurances, &c.

Paſch. 25 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Spencer's Caſe.

[16] Spencer and his wife brought an Action of Covenant againſt Clark, aſſignee to J. aſſignee to S. and the Caſe was ſuch: Spencer and his wife by deed indented demiſed a houſe and certain land (in the right of the wife) to S. for term of 21 years, by which Indenture S. covenanted for him his Executors and Adminiſtrators with the Plaintiffs, that he, his Executors, Adminiſtrators, or Aſſignees, would build a Brick Wall upon part of the land demiſed, &c. S. aſſigned over his term to J. and J. to the Defendant; and for not making of the Brick Wall the Plaintiffs brought the Action of Covenant againſt the Defendant as Aſſignee: And after many arguments at the Bar, the Caſe was excellently argued and debated by the Juſtices at the Bench: And in this Caſe theſe Points were reſolved by Sir Chriſtopher Wray Chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court. And many differences taken and agreed concerning expreſs Covenants, and Covenants in Law, and which of them run with the land, and which of them are collateral, and do not go with the land, and where the aſſignee ſhall be bound without naming of him, and where not; and where he ſhall not be bound although he be expreſly named, and where not.

1. When the Covenant doth extend to a thing in eſſe, parcel of the demiſe, the thing to be done by force of the Covenant is quodammodo annexed and appurtenant to the thing demiſed, and ſhall go with the land, and ſhall bind the aſſignee although he be not bounden by expreſs words: But when the covenant doth extend to a thing which is not in being at the time of the demiſe made, the ſame cannot be appurtenant or annexed to a thing which hath no being: As if the leſſee covenanteth to repair the houſes demiſed to him during the term, the ſame is parcel of the contract, and extendeth to the ſupport of the thing demiſed, and therefore is quodammodo annexed and appurtenant to houſes, and ſhall bind the aſſignee although he be not bound expreſly by the Covenant: But in the Caſe at Bar, the Covenant doth concern a thing which was not in eſſe at the time of the demiſe made, but to be newly built after, and therefore ſhall bind the Covenantor, his Executors, or Adminiſtrators, and not the aſſignee, for the Law will not annex the Covenant to a thing which hath no being.

[b]

2. It was reſolved that in this Caſe, If the leſſee had covenanted for him and his aſſignees, that they would make a new wall upon any part of the thing demiſed, that for as much as it is to be done upon the land demiſed, that it ſhall bind the aſſignee; for although that the Covenant doth extend to a thing to be newly made, yet it is to be made upon the thing demiſed, and the aſſignee is to take the benefit of it, and therefore ſhall bind the aſſignee by expreſs words. So on the other ſide, If a warranty be made to one his heirs and aſſignees, by expreſs words, the aſſignee ſhall take benefit of it, and ſhall have a Warrantia Chartæ, F. N. B. 135. & 9 E. 2. Garr' de Charters 30. 36 E. 3. Garr. 1. 4 H. 8. Dier 1. But although the Covenant be for him and his aſſignees, yet if the thing to be done be meer collateral to the land, and doth not touch or concern the thing demiſed in any ſort, there the aſſignee ſhall not be charged. As if the leſſee covenanteth for him and his aſſignees to build a houſe upon the land of the leſſor which is no parcel of the land demiſed, or to pay ſome collateral ſum to the leſſor, or to a ſtranger, it ſhall not bind the aſſignee, becauſe that it is meer collateral, and in no manner touches or concerns the thing that was demiſed, or that is aſſigned over; and therefore in ſuch Caſe, the aſſignee of the thing demiſed cannot be charged with it, no more then any other ſtranger.

3. It was reſolved, If a man leaſe ſheep or other flock of cattel, or any other perſonal goods for any time, and the leſſee covenant for him and his aſſignees at the times end to deliver the like cattel or goods as well as the things letten were, or ſuch price for them; and the leſſee aſſign the cattel over, this Covenant ſhall bind the aſſignee, for it is but a perſonal contract, and wanteth ſuch privity as is between the leſſor and leſſee and his aſſignees of the land in reſpect of the reverſion. But in the Caſe of leaſe of perſonal goods there is not any privity, nor any reverſion but meerly a thing in action in the perſonalty, which cannot bind any but the Covenantor, his Executors, or Adminiſtrators, who repreſent him. The ſame Law, If a man leaſe a houſe and land for years, with a ſtock of money rendring rent, and the leſſee covenanteth for him, his Executors, Adminiſtrators, and Aſſignees, to deliver the ſtock or ſum of money at the end of the term, yet the Aſſignee ſhall not be charged with this covenant, for although that the rent reſerved was increaſed in reſpect of the ſtock or ſum, yet the rent did not iſſue out of the ſtock or ſum, but out of the land only; and therefore as to the ſtock or ſum the Covenant is perſonal, and ſhall bind the Covenantor, his Executors and Adminiſtrators, and not his aſſignee: And it is not certain that the ſtock or ſum ſhall come to the aſſignees hands, for it may be waſted, or otherwiſe conſumed by the leſſee, and therefore the Law will not determine at the time of the leaſe made that ſuch Covenant ſhall bind the aſſignee.

[17]

4. It was reſolved, That if a man make a feoffment by this word Dedi, which implieth a warranty the aſſignee of the feoffee ſhall not vouch: But if a man maketh a leaſe for years by this word Conceſſi or Demiſi, which implieth a Covenant, if the aſſignee of the leſſee be evicted, he ſhall have a Writ of Covenant; for the leſſee and his aſſignee hath the yearly profits of the land which ſhall grow by his labour and induſtry for annual rent, and therefore it is reaſon that when he hath ſpent his labour, and imployed his coſt upon the land, and be evicted (whereby he loſeth all) that he taketh ſuch benefit of the demiſe and grant, as the firſt leſſee might, and the leſſor hath no other prejudice then his eſpecial contract, which the firſt leſſee hath bound him to.

5. Tenant by the Curteſie, or any other who cometh in in the Poſt ſhall not vouch, (which is in lieu of an Action.) But if a grant be made to a woman who taketh husband, and the woman dieth, the husband ſhall vouch by force of this word (grant) although he cometh to it by act in Law; So if a man demiſe or grant lands to a woman for years, and the leſſor covenanteth with the leſſee to repair the houſe during the term, the woman taketh husband and dieth, the husband ſhall have an Action of Covenant as well upon the Covenant in Law upon theſe words (demiſe and grant) as upon expreſs Covenant. The ſame Law is of tenant by Statute Merchant, or Statute Staple, or Elegit of a term, and he to whom a leaſe for years is ſold by force of any Execution, ſhall have an Action of Covenant in ſuch Caſe as a thing annexed to the land, although they come to the term by Act in Law; As if a man grant to leſſee for years, that he ſhall have ſo many eſtovers, as will ſerve to repair his houſe, or that he ſhall burn in his houſe, or the like, during the term, it is as appurtenant to the land, and ſhall go with it as a thing appurtenant in whoſe hands ſoever it cometh.

[b]

6. If leſſee for years covenanteth to repair the houſes during the term, it ſhall bind all others as a thing which is appurtenant, and goeth with the land in whoſe hands ſoever the land cometh, as well thoſe who come to it by act of Law, as by the act of the party, for all is one having regard to the leſſor. And if the Law ſhould not be ſuch, great miſchief may grow to him; and reaſon requireth, that thoſe who take benefit of ſuch Covenant when the leſſor maketh it with the leſſee, that on the other ſide he ſhould be bound by the like Covenants when the leſſee maketh it with the leſſor.

7. It was reſolved, That the aſſignee of the aſſignee ſhall have an Action of Covenant. So of the Executors of the aſſignee of the aſſignee; So of aſſignees of Executors or Adminiſtrators of every aſſignee, for all are compriſed within this word (aſſignees) for the ſame right which was in the teſtator, or inteſtate, ſhall go to his Executors or Adminiſtrators: As if a man maketh a warranty to one, his heirs and aſſignees, the aſſignee of the aſſignee ſhall vouch, and ſo ſhall the heirs of the aſſignee:

The

The ſame Law of the aſſignee of the heirs of the feoffee, and of every aſſignee. So that every one of them ſhall have a Writ of Warrantia Chartæ. Vide 14 E. 3. Garr. 33. 38 E. 3. 21. 36 E. 3. Garr. 1. 13 E. 1. Garr. 93. 19 E. 2. Garr. 85, &c. For the ſame right which was in the anceſtor ſhall deſcend to the heir in ſuch Caſe without any expreſs words of heirs of the aſſignees.

Obſerve Reader your old Books, for they are the fountains out of which theſe Reſolutions iſſue, but perhaps by theſe differences the fountains themſelves ſhall be more clear and profitable to thoſe who will make uſe of them. For example in 42 E. 3. 3. the Caſe is; Grandfather, father, and two ſons, the Grandfather was ſeiſed of the Mannor of D. whereof a Chappel was parcel, a Prior with the aſſent of his Covent by deed covenanted for him and his ſucceſſors, with the Grandfather and his heirs, that he and his Covent would ſing all the week in his Chappel, parcel of the ſaid Mannor, for the Lords of the ſaid Mannor and his ſervants; The Grandfather did enfeoff one of the Mannor in fee, who gave the ſame to the younger ſon and his wife in tail; And it was adjudged, That the tenants in tail, as Terre-tenants (for the eldeſt brother was heir) ſhould have an Action of Covenant againſt the Prior, for the Covenant is to do a thing which is annexed to the Chappel, which is within his Mannor, and ſo annexed to the Mannor, as it is there ſaid. And Finchden relateth, That he hath ſeen it adjudged, that two [18] Coparceners made partition of land, and one did covenant with the other to acquit him of ſuit which was due, and that Coparcener to whom the covenant was made did alien, and the ſuit was behind; And the feoffee brought a Writ of Covenant againſt the Coparcener to acquit him of the ſuit; and the Writ was maintenable, notwithſtanding that he was a ſtranger to the Covenant, becauſe the acquittal fell upon the land: But if ſuch Covenant were made to ſay Divine Service in the Chappel of another, there the aſſignee ſhall not have an Action of Covenant, for the Covenant in ſuch Caſe cannot be annexed to the Chappel, becauſe that the Chappel doth not belong to the Covenantee, as it is adjudged in 2 H. 4. 6. But there it is agreed, that if the Covenant had been with the Lord of the Mannor of D. and his heirs, Lords of the Mannor of D. and Inhabitants therein, the Covenant ſhall be annexed to the Mannor, and there the Terre-tenant ſhall have the Action of Covenant without privity of blood. Vide 29 E. 3. 48. & 30 E. 3. 14. Simkin Simeon's Caſe, where the Caſe was; That the Lady Bardolfe by Deed granted a Ward to a woman who took husband Simkin Simeon, againſt whom the Queen brought a Writ of right of Ward, and they vouched the Lady Bardolfe, and afterwards the wife died, by which the chattel real ſurvived to the husband (and reſolved the Writ ſhould not abate) the vouchee appeared, and ſaid, What have you to bind me to warranty? The husband ſhewed, how that the Lady granted to his wife before marriage the ſaid Ward; The vouchee demanded Judgment for two cauſes:

1. Becauſe that no word of warranty was in the deed; as to that it was adjudged, that this word (grant) in this Caſe of grant of a Ward (being a chattel real) did import in it ſelf a warranty.

2. Becauſe the husband was not aſſignee to the wife, nor privy. As to that it was adjudged, That he ſhould vouch, for this warranty implied in this word (grant) is in Caſe of a chattel real ſo annexed to the land, that the husband who cometh to it by act in Law, and not as aſſignee, ſhall take benefit of it. But it was reſolved by Wray Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, that this word (conceſſi or demiſi) in Caſe of Freehold or Inheritance doth not import any warranty, 11 H. 6. 41. acc. vide 6 H. 4. 12 H. 4. 5. 1 H. 5. 2. 25 H. 8. Covenant Br. 32. 28 H. 8. Dier 28. 48 E. 3. 22. F.N.B. 145. C. 146. & 181. 9 Eliz. Dier 257. 26 H. 8. 3. 5 H. 7. 18. 32 H. 6. 32. 22 H. 6. 51. 18 H. 3. Covenant 30. Old N. B. Covenant 46. 38 E. 3. 24. See the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 24. which Act was reſolved to extend to Covenants which touch or concern the thing demiſed, and not to collateral Covenants.

Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber.

Slingsbie's Caſe.

SLingsbie and Frances his wife brought an Action of Covenant in the Kings Bench againſt Roger Beckwith, and declared upon an Indenture Tripartite between the Defendant Roger Beckwith of the firſt part, William Vaviſour, Frances Slingsbie, and Elizabeth ſiſter of the ſaid Roger of the ſecond part, and George Harvy, and the ſaid Frances (then his wife) one other of the ſiſters of the ſaid Roger of the third part. And declared, That the ſaid Roger Beckwith the Defendant by the ſaid Indenture, conveniſſet, promiſiſſet, & conceſſiſſet ad, & cum dictis Will. & Franciſco, & ad, & cum præd. Georgio & Franciſca uxore ejus, & aſſignat' ſuis, & ad, & cum quolibet, & qualibet eorum, quod præd. Rogerus ad ſigillationem & deliberationem ejuſdem Indentur' fuit legitime & ſolus ſeiſitus de Rectoria de Aldingfleet in Com' Eborum: And upon this Covenant iſſue was joyned, and the Venire facias was de vicenet' Caſtri Eborum, and the iſſue by Niſi prius was tried for the Plaintiff, and damages aſſeſſed, upon which Judgment was given in the Kings Bench. And now in a Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber before Anderſon Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Manwood Chief Baron, Windham, Periam, and Rodes, Juſtices of the Common Pleas, and Gent and Clark Barons of the Exchequer, and of the Coif, It was reſolved that the ſaid Judgment was erroneous; for it appeareth by the Plaintiffs own ſhewing in his Declaration, that the Plaintiff only cannot maintain an Action of Covenant, but the other Covenantees ought to have joyned in the Action with them, notwithſtanding theſe words (& ad, & cum quolibet & qualibet eorum;) And as to theſe words this difference was [b] agreed: When it appeareth by the Declaration, that every of the Covenantees hath, or is to have several interest or estate, there, when the Covenant is made with the Covenantees, & cum quolibet eorum, [19] these words, cum quolibet eorum, maketh the Covenant several in respect of their several interests. As if a man by Indenture demiseth to A. black acre, to B. white acre, to C. green acre, and covenanteth with them, and quolibet eorum, that he is lawful owner of all the said acres, &c. in this Case in respect of the said several interests by the words, & cum quolibet eorum, the covenant in the deed is several: But if he demiseth to them the acres joyntly, then these words cum quolibet eorum are void, for a man by his covenant (if not in respect of several interests) cannot make it first joynt, and then to make it several by the same or the like words, cum quolibet eorum: And although that sundry persons may bind themselves, & quemlibet eorum, and so the Obligation shall be joynt and several at the election of the obligee; yet a man cannot bind himself to three, and to each of them to make it joynt or several at the election of several persons for one and the same cause; for the Court shall be in doubt for which of them to give Judgment, which the Law will not suffer, as it is holden in 3 H. 6. 44. There it appeareth that one brought a Replevin against two persons of an Ox, who made several avowries, each by himself in his own right; and there by advice of all the Justices, both the avowries did abate for the inconveniency, that if both the issues shall be found for the avowants, the Court cannot give Judgment to them severally for one and the same thing. Also the Covenantor in the Case at Bar shall be divers times charged for one and the same thing; and therefore the said words & cum quolibet eorum, are in such Case but words of amplification and abundance, and cannot sever the joynt cause of Action. And it was also resolved, That an interest cannot be granted joyntly and severally: As if a man granteth proximam advocationem, or maketh a lease for years of lands to two joyntly and severally, these words severally are void, and they are joyntenants; So if a man make a feoffment in fee by deed to three, and warrant the land to them, & cuilibet eorum, the warranty is joynt and not several: But in such Case if their estates were several, their warranty shall be several according: But a power, or authority, as to make livery, or to sell, &c. may be joynt and several, for there they have not any interest, or Action, but are as servants to others. Vide 16 Eliz. Dier 337, 338. acc. Sir Anthony Cooke's Case, 6 E. 2. Covenant Br. 49. 12 H. 4. 18. in Detinue. And for this Error the Judgment was reversed. Another Error was assigned concerning the Visne; but as to that the Court did not deliver any opinion.

Pasch. 30 Eliz.

Rosewel's Case.

[b] BEtween Moore and Rosewel it was adjudged, That if a man bargaineth and selleth lands in fee, and covenanteth to make further assurance to the Bargainee as Council shall devise; In this Case the Bargainee himself although he be learned in the Law cannot devise the assurance, but some of his Council ought to devise it; And therewith agreeth the Books in 6 H. 7. & 11 H. 7. 1. for if the party himself may devise it, then it shall be no plea to say, quod consilium non dedit advisamentum. Vide 26 H. 8.

Pasch. 35 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Higginbottom's Case.

John Stafford Esquire brought an Action upon the Case, which began in the Kings Bench, Hill. 34 Eliz. Rot. 647. against Ralph Higginbottom Parson of Littleton upon Severn, because the Defendant upon good consideration mentioned in the Declaration, did promise that he would make a good and lawful estate and assurance in Law of the said Rectory of Littleton aforesaid to the Plaintiff discharged of all former bargains, sales, &c. made by the Defendant during the joynt lives of the Plaintiff and Defendant, as by Council learned of the Plaintiff upon request made, should be advised: And alledged that [20] one Maurice Tovy was of the Plaintiffs learned Council, and gave his advice to the Plaintiff, That the Defendant should make a lease by Indenture to the Plaintiff of the said Rectory with the appurtenances, to have and to hold during their joynt lives, &c. and that the Plaintiff gave notice to the Defendant of the said advice, and requested him to perform it, which the Defendant did deny to do, &c. The Defendant pleaded Non Assumpsit, and it was found for the Plaintiff. And it was moved in arrest of Judgment, that this advice of the Plaintiffs Council ought to be given immediately by the Counsellor himself to the Defendant, and not to the Plaintiff, and he to give notice as above. And the Defendants Council did rely upon the Book of 11 H. 7. 21. for there it is holden by all the Justices, Juſtices, that the Council ought to be given to him who ought to make the eſtate, and not to him with whom he is of Council: And they ſtood much upon the words of the Book; But upon conſideration had of the Book, and the reſidue of the ſaid Caſe, afterwards in the ſame year fol. 23. b. it appeareth plainly; and ſo it was reſolved, That the intent of the Judges was not, that the counſel cannot be given or ſignified to the party who ſhould make the eſtate, but only to the Covenantor, becauſe it is matter whereof by intendment he who ſhould make the eſtate (without notice given) cannot have knowledge. And it was reſolved, That it is fitter that the Councellor give his counſel to him with whom he is of counſel, and he to give notice thereof to him who ſhould make the eſtate. And although he hath two or three of his counſel, yet none of them may give advice to him who is to make the eſtate without requeſt, for peradventure he would not uſe their advice in ſuch Caſe; And it is reaſon that the counſel be given to the party with whom he is of counſel, for peradventure he may miſlike it, and would not have it given. 2. It is leſs miſchievous; for if the party himſelf notifie other advice to him who ſhould make the eſtate then the Counſellor gave, if the Covenantor knoweth it, he may refuſe; if he do not know it, and the Counſellor notified it is according to his covenant and agreement, if he perform it he is excuſed; and ſo if it be not according to his covenant and agreement he may refuſe it, and ſo no miſchief to the party; But if the Counſellor giveth advice to him who ſhould make the eſtate, he may be ignorant, whether he be his Counſel or not. And afterwards Judgment was given for the Plaintiff for the cauſes before alledged, vide 8 E. 4. 1. & 2. 6 H. 7. 4. 14 H. 8. 21. b.

Hill. 38 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Stile's Caſe.

BEtween Frampton and Stiles in debt upon an Obligation; The Defendant ſaid, that it was upon condition to perform Covenants in an Indenture, hic in Curia prolat', and in truth the deed was not indented, but written, This Indenture: And it was adjudged, that it was no Indenture, although it was in two parts; for the words of a deed cannot make it indented: But to the making of an Indenture there ought to be a manual act of indenting of the parchment, or paper; And becauſe the Defendant did not ſhew any Indenture, the Plaintiff had Judgment. [b]

Paſch. 38 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Rot. 42. in Error.

Sir Anthony Mayne's Caſe.

THE Caſe in effect was, That Sir Anthony Mayne did leaſe certain lands to Scot for 21 years by Indenture, and covenanted that at any time during the life of Scot upon ſurrender of his leaſe, &c. he would make a new leaſe during the reſidue of the years, and bound himſelf to perform the Covenants, &c. And now in Debt brought upon the Obligation by Scot againſt Sir Anthony Mayne, he pleaded that Scot did not ſurrender, &c. To which Scot replied, that after the ſaid leaſe Sir Anthony had accepted a fine ſur conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. and by the ſame fine granted and rendred the land to the conuſee for 80 years: Upon which the Defendant did demur in Law. And it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved: [21]

1. That Sir Anthony Mayne had broke his Covenant without any ſurrender made, for by the ſaid fine levied by him for 80 years, he had diſabled himſelf either to take a ſurrender, or to make a new leaſe; and the Law will not enforce any one to do a thing which ſhall be vain and frivolous: Lex neminem cogit ad vana ſeu inutilia peragenda: But it ſhould be vain to compel him to make a ſurrender to him who cannot take it; and although the leſſee in this Caſe by the words of the Indenture be to do the firſt act, ſcil. to make the ſurrender, yet when the leſſor hath diſabled himſelf not only to take the ſurrender, but alſo to make a new leaſe according to the Covenant, for this cauſe the leſſors Covenant is broken without any ſurrender made, vide 32 E. 3. Barre 264. & 21 E. 4. 55. If you are bound to enfeoff me of the Manor of D. before ſuch a Feaſt, and you make a feoffment of the ſaid Mannor to another before the ſaid Feaſt, you have forfeited your obligation, although that you repurchaſe the land again before the Feaſt, becauſe you were once diſabled to make the feoffment. And therewith agreeth Temps E. 1. Covenant 29. If a man leaſe a Mannor for years, and the leſſee covenanteth to keep the houſes of the Mannor, and as much as was in the Mannor in as good plight as he found them; during the term the leſſee doth waſt in the houſes, or in cutting of Oaks, the leſſor brought an Action of Covenant during the term for the Oaks, becauſe it was impoſſible that the Covenant ſhould be performed: Otherwiſe is it of the houſes; And therewith agreeth F. N. B. 145. k. & 13 E. 3. Covenant 2.

2. It

2. It was reſolved, If a man ſeiſed of lands in fee, covenanteth to enfeoff J. S. of them upon requeſt, and afterwards he make a feoffment in fee of the lands; now in this Caſe J. S. ſhall have an Action of Covenant without requeſt. And that in effect is all one with the principal Caſe.

3. It was reſolved that in the Caſe at Bar, If the term for 80 years were but an intereſt of a future term, ſo that Scot notwithſtanding that might make the ſurrender, yet in ſuch Caſe Scot ſhould have an Action of Covenant without making any ſurrender; for true it is that he may ſurrender; but alſo true it is, that Sir Anthony after ſuch ſurrender cannot make the new leaſe, which was the effect the ſurrender ſhould produce; and therefore in as much as the leſſor hath diſabled himſelf to make a new leaſe, which is the effect and end of the ſurrender, and that which he ought to do on his part, the leſſee ſhall not be
[b] enforced to make the ſurrender, which is the firſt thing to be done on his part, for by the ſurrender he ſhould loſe his old term without poſſibility to have the new acording to the leſſors Covenant. And therewith agreeth 14 H. 4. 19. a. J. Parſon of the Church of G. was bound in an Obligation of 100 l. to the Prior of E. the Condition was, That if the Parſon reſign his Church within certain time to the Prior for a penſion as they could agree, that then the Obligation ſhould be void; And afterwards and within the time, the Prior and Parſon agreed of a penſion of 5 l. yet the Parſon did refuſe to reſign. And the opinion of the whole Court was, That although they had agreed of the penſion, yet the Parſon is not bound to reſign until he be ſure of the penſion, and that he cannot be without deed. And therefore in ſuch Caſe the Parſon is not tied to reſign until the Prior hath tendred to him a deed of the penſion, by which he might be ſure of it.

Trinit. 37 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Laughter's Caſe.

Thomas Eaton Eſquire, and Roger Moxon Gent. brought an Action of Debt upon an Obligation of 400 l. bearing date 26. Sept. 26 Eliz. againſt Thomas Laughter. The Defendant demanded Oyer of the Obligation and Condition; and it appeared by the Obligation, that Richard Ramsford was alſo bound in the ſaid Obligation with the Defendant joyntly and ſeverally; And the Condition was in effect, That if the within bounden Rich. Ramsford after lawful marriage had between him and Jane Gilman wife of Henry Gilman deceaſed, and together with the ſame Jane, do and ſhall lawfully ſell and alien in fee ſimple, or fee tail, all the great meſſuage with the little tenement thereunto adjoyning, of the ſaid Jane, ſcituate in London, now in the occupation of William Fitzw. Eſquire. If then the ſaid Rich. Ramsford do or ſhall [22] either in his life time purchaſe to the ſaid Jane, and her heirs, and aſſignees, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, of as good right, and of as good value, as the money by him received or had by or upon his ſaid ſale or alienation of the premiſſes ſhall amount unto: Or elſe do or ſhall leave unto her the ſaid Jane as Executrix, or by legacy, or other good aſſurance or conveyance, as much money as ſhall be by him received upon ſuch, &c. that then, &c. And pleaded that the ſaid Richard Ramsford married the ſaid Jane 1 Decemb. 27. and that the ſaid Jane died 8 Auguſt 31. and the ſaid Richard Ramsford ſurvived her; The Plaintiff ſhewed by way of Replication, that the ſaid Ramsford and Jane Paſch. 30 Eliz. for 320 l. levied a fine of the premiſſes to John Thompſon and William Kerwen, and to the heirs of John Thompſon; and that the ſaid Ramsford did not purchaſe lands, tenements, or hereditaments, of the value of 320 l. to the ſaid Jane and her heirs, neque reliquit prædict. Jane poſt diſceſſum ipſius Rich. ut executrici, &c. And upon this plea the Defendants Council did demur in Law. And upon great deliberation Judgment was given by Popham Chief Juſtice and the whole Court againſt the Plaintiff: And the reaſon and cauſe of their Judgment was, That where a Condition of an Obligation doth conſiſt upon two parts in the diſjunctive, and both are poſſible at the time of the Obligation made, and afterwards one of them becometh impoſſible by the act of God, the obligee is not bound to perform the other part: for the Condition is made for the benefit of the obligee, and ſhall be taken beneficially for him, and he hath election to perform the one or the other for the ſaving of the penalty of his Bond: And when one part is become impoſſible by the act of God, it is ſo beneficial for him as if this part of the diſjunctive which is become impoſſible had been only the the Condition of the Obligation: And ſo when one became impoſſible by the act of God, which by no induſtry he could perform, his Obligation is ſaved, although he doth not perform the other, quia impotentia excuſat legem. And in the Caſe at Bar for as much as Jane died before the ſaid Ramsford, ſo that he could not leave to the ſaid Jane, either as Executrix, or by legacy, or other aſſurance, ſo much money as ſhould be received by him, &c. ſo that this part of the diſjunctive became impoſſible by the act of God. Vide 30 H. 6. Barre 60. 15 H. 7. 4. 9 Eliz. Dier 162. between Arundel and Comb. And the Caſe in 21 E. 3. 29. is not like this Caſe. For there at the time of the Obligation made, and the time when the Condition was to be performed, one part of the diſjunctive was not poſſible to be performed, for there the heir of the body was not in rerum natura.

Trin.

Trin. 38 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Halling's Caſe.

BEtween Halling and Conuard in Debt upon an Obligation for performing of Covenants, it was adjudged, That where the covenant was, That the Defendant ſhould make an eſtate in fee before ſuch Feaſt at the coſts of the Covenantee, that the Covenantor ought to do the firſt act, ſcil. notifie to the Covenantee what manner of eſtate he would have, ſo that the Covenantee might know what ſum of money to tender: And it was ſaid, All was one when the Covenant was general, and when it was particular: As to make a feoffment, the Covenantor ought to do the firſt thing, ſcil. ſhew what manner of feoffment he would make, either by deed poll, or by Indenture, &c. And ſo in the principal Caſe, if nothing be done before the day, the Covenant is broken, becauſe that the Covenantor ought to do the firſt act, and ſo the default is in him. [b]

Hill. 39 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Mathewſon's Caſe.

BEtween Mathewſon and others Plaintiffs, and Lydeate Defendant, the Caſe was ſuch; A Charter-party indented between the Maſter and the Owners of a Ship of the one part, and George Lydeate and ſix other Merchants of the other part. By which the Maſters and Owners covenant to Ship certain Merchandizes at ſuch a Port beyond Sea, and to tranſport them to the City of London, for which every of the Merchants covenant ſeparatim with the Maſter and Owner, that one Merchant ſhall pay 3 l. another 3 l. &c. & ſic de cæteris. And the words of the Covenant are, conveniunt ſeparatim, &c. and in the end is this clauſe, Et ad performationem omnium & ſingulorum conventionum ex parte præd. Mercatorum perimplend', quilibet Mercatorum præd. ſeparatim obligat ſeipſum præfat. Magiſtro & proprietariis, in double the fraight. And now upon one of the ſeveral Covenants an Action of Debt was brought againſt Lydeate one of the Merchants upon the ſaid Indenture. To which the Defendant pleaded, That a Seal of another of the Merchants fixed to the ſaid Indenture was broken from the deed; Upon which the Plaintiff did demur in Law. And in this Caſe it was reſolved: [23]

1. That although that the Merchants joyn in Covenant, ſcil. conveniunt ſeparatim, yet this word, ſeparatim, maketh it ſeveral Covenants, and not one joynt Covenant. Alſo the ſaid later clauſe, ad performationem omnium & ſingulorum, &c. it is in the ſeveral, by reaſon of this word ſeparatim; and this word ſhall be referred to the ſeveral Covenants before.

2. It was reſolved, That although that the Covenants on the parts of the Maſters and Owners were joynt, yet the Covenants on the parts of the Merchants ſtood ſeveral; and for this cauſe if the Seal of one of the Merchants be broken from the deed, it doth not avoid the deed, but only againſt him: But if any of the Seals of the Maſters or Owners had been broken from the deed, all their Covenants had been defated. And if the deed had been raſed in the date after the delivery, the ſame had gone to the whole, and all. But when the Covenants are ſeveral, they are ſeveral deeds written in one piece of parchment. And Judgment was given accordingly. Vide 13 H. 7. 14 H. 8. 25. 30 E. 3. 31. 32 in Aſſ. 47 E. 3. 3. in Debt Finchden, 39 H. 8. 36.

Trin. 41 Eliz. Rot. 3252. in the Common Pleas.

Lamb's Caſe.

IN Debt upon an Obligation by Lamb Executor of D. againſt Brownewent, with Condition, That if the Defendant ſhall in the Term of S. Michael next, in the Prerogative Court of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury give unto the ſaid D. his Executors or aſſignees, ſuch ſufficient releaſe and diſcharge, &c. as by the Judge of the ſaid Court ſhall be thought meet, that then, &c. The Defendant ſhewed, that Doctor Lewyn was Judge of the Court, & quod idem Judex nec deviſavit, nec appunctavit aliquam relaxationem, ſeu exonerationem, &c. ſecundum formam, &c. upon which the Plaintiff did demur in Law. And it was adjudged for the Plaintiff; For in as much as the Judge was a ſtranger to the Condition, [b] and the Condition is for the benefit of the obligor, and the performance thereof ſhall ſave his Bond, he hath taken upon him to perform it at his peril; and therefore he ought not only to have done the firſt act, but ought alſo to have procured the Judge to have deviſed and directed it. Otherwiſe it is, if the obligee himſelf or his Council ſhould deviſe. Vide 33 *H.*6.16. adjudged according. 36 H. 6. 8. 32 E. 3. Barre 294. 2 E. 4. 2. 8 E. 4. 2. 15 E. 4. 5. 22 E. 4. 43. 9 H. 7. 17, &c. vide 7 E. 4. 13. b. it was ſaid, If a man be bounden to make to a man a ſure, ſufficient, and lawful eſtate in certain lands by the advice of J. D. if he make an eſtate unto him according to the deviſe of J. D. be it ſufficient or not, lawful or not lawful, yet his Obligation is ſaved.

and

Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Broughton's Caſe.

[24] IN Debt in the Common Pleas by Broughton againſt Prettie upon an Obligation, the Condition was; That where the Plaintiff was bounden in an Obligation of 200 l. for the Defendant, for the payment of 100 l. to A. B. If therefore the Defendant ſhould ſave and keep harmleſs the Plaintiff of all ſuits, quarrels, and demands touching and concerning the ſaid Bond of 200 l. That then this Obligation to be void. At the day of payment of the 100 l. the Plaintiff came to the place where the 100 l. ought to be paid, and perceiving no perſon there preſent to pay the 100 l. for the Defendant, he to ſave the penalty of his Bond paid the 100 l. to A. B. and now brought this Action upon the counter Bond; and upon Non damnificatus pleaded, the Plaintiff replied, and ſhewed all the ſpecial matter; and upon that the Defendant did demur; And it was adjudged that the Plaintiff ſhould recover, for the payment of the 100 l. is damage and harm, and if he had not paid it great harm would have followed: And it is not needful that the Plaintiff be arreſted, or ſued, &c. Alſo it was ſaid, That this plea, Non damnificatus implied that the Defendant had ſaved him harmleſs, as by releaſe, payment, or otherwiſe. [25] Vide 18 E. 4. 27. by Brian and Littleton, Terror of ſuit, ſo that he dare not go about his buſineſs, is damnification, although that he be not arreſted by force of proceſs.

Mich. 43 & 44 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

The Dean and Chapter of Windſor's Caſe.

IN the Kings Bench, between the Dean and Chapter of Windſor and Hyde, the Caſe was ſuch; He leaſed a houſe by Indenture for years; The leſſee for him and his Executors covenanted and granted with the leſſor to repair the houſe at all times needful. The leſſee aſſigned it over to Hyde, who ſuffered it to decay; And the leſſor brought an Action of Covenant againſt the aſſignee. And it was adjudged [b] by Popham Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, that the Action of Covenant did lie, although that the leſſor hath not covenanted for him and his aſſignee; and ſuch Covenant which extendeth to the ſupport of the thing demiſed is quodammodo appurtenant to it, and goeth with it. And in reſpect the leſſee hath taken upon him to bear the charges of the reparations, the yearly rent was the leſs, which goeth to the benefit of the aſſignee, & qui ſentit commodum ſentire debet & onus. If a man grant to a man Eſtovers to repair his houſe, it is appurtenant to his houſe, vide F. N. B. 181. 28 H. 8. 28. If the leſſee covenanteth to diſcharge the leſſor de omnibus oneribus ordinariis & extraordinariis, and to repair the houſes, an Action lieth againſt the aſſignee.

Paſch.

Paſch. 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Sir Thomas Palmer's Caſe.

IN an Action upon the Caſe between Baſſet and Maynard, upon the general iſſue the Jurors gave a ſpecial verdict to this effect; Sir Thomas Palmer was ſeiſed in fee of a great Wood, and bargained and ſold to one Cornford and his aſſignees 600 cords of wood to be taken by the aſſignment of Sir Thomas, Cornford aſſigned his intereſt to the Plaintiff, And afterwards the ſaid Sir Thomas ſold to the Defendant ſuch quantity of wood as would make 4000 cords, to be taken within the ſaid great wood, at the election of the vendee. And afterwards Sir Thomas aſſigned to the Plaintiff 600 cords of wood to be taken by him, who felled them; and the Defendant carried them away, and converted them, &c. And Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe two Points were reſolved:

1. That Cornford hath an intereſt which he may aſſign over, and not a thing in action, or a poſſibility; [25] For it was reſolved, That if Sir Thomas doth not aſſign them to Cornford upon requeſt, Cornford may take them without aſſignment, for the grantor cannot by his own act, or default, either ſubvert, or derogate from his grant; then it followeth that he hath an intereſt which he may aſſign over. Vide 44 E. 3. 43. where the Prior of Leton ſeiſed of a Wood called Hoſley, by deed by aſſent of his Covent ſold the ſaid Wood to one Bartholmew Wilby to be felled and carried within two years next following (except 40 of the beſt Oaks to be taken at the election of the Prior) the vendee for ſhortneſs of time upon the end of the Covenant requeſted the Prior to come and chooſe the Oaks, and he would not come, for which the vendee ſuffered 40 of the beſt Oaks to ſtand, and the other he felled. And there iſſue was taken upon the requeſt: Which Caſe is not well abridged by Brook, Reſervation 3. for there he hath omitted the requeſt. For Fitz. tit. Barre 204. hath truly abridged it. Take heed Reader, of all Abridgments, for the chief uſe of them is as of Tables to find to the Book at large. But I exhort every [ ] good Student to read and hold himſelf only to the Books at large, as in another place I have adviſed. And with this Reſolution agreeth the Book in 8 E. 3. 5. & 54. where the Caſe was; J. had a houſe and a plough land, and he had reaſonable Eſtovers in the Wood of another by view and delivery of the Baily, &c. If he taketh the Eſtovers without view, or livery, he is a treſpaſſor, although he take leſſer then he ought to have by the delivery of the Baily: But if J. demandeth the Eſtovers, and the owner of the Wood or his Baily will not deliver them to him, J. may have an Aſſiſe, vide 5 E. 3. 64. & 65.

2. It was reſolved, That admit the aſſignment to the Plaintiff to be void, yet after that the trees are felled, the Defendant cannot take them: As if I grant 1000 cords of wood to one to be taken at the election of the grantee; the grantor or ſtranger felleth ſome trees, the grantee cannot take them, but ought to ſupply his grant out of the reſidue.

Trin. 2 Jacobi, in the Kings Bench.

The Counteſs of Rutland's Caſe.

Iſabel Counteſs of Rutland brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt Roger Earl of Rutland for breaking [b] her houſe and Cloſe, called Eykering houſe, and Lady Park, at Eykering in the County of Nottingham: The Defendant pleaded, Not Guilty; and now this Term upon evidence to a ſubſtantial Jury at the Bar of Kings Bench, the Caſe upon the evidence was ſuch; Edward Earl of Rutland was ſeiſed in fee of the Mannor of Eykering, whereof the houſe and cloſe were parcel, &c. And by Indenture bearing date 10. Marcii, 21 Eliz. for the augmentation of the Joynture of the ſaid Counteſs, then his wife, covenanted with Gilbert Gerrard Knight, and Tho. Holcroft his brother, that he before the end of Trinity Term then next following, would aſſure by fine, or other conveyance the ſaid Mannor to the ſaid Sir Gilbert and Thomas in fee, which fine or other conveyance of the ſaid Mannor ſhould be to the uſe of the ſaid Earl and the ſaid Iſabel his wife, and to the heirs of the ſaid Earl, which Indenture the ſaid Earl acknowledged before a Maſter of the Chancery the 28*th* day of the ſame month, and the ſame day was enrolled; and the next day, ſcil. the 29*th* day of March by another Indenture between the ſaid Earl of the one part, and the Lord Burghley, Sir Gilbert Gerrard and others on the other part, for the advancement of thoſe which ſhould ſucceed him in the Earldom; and for the advancement of the heirs males of the body of Thomas Earl of Rutland, his Grandfather, covenanted [26] with the Lord Burleigh, Sir Gilbert Gerrard and others to convey the ſaid Mannor of Eykering amongſt others to the ſaid Lord Burghley, Sir Gilbert Gerrard, and others, or to ſome one of them before the Feaſt of the Annunciation of our Lady next following, which aſſurance ſhould be to the uſe of the ſaid Earl Edward, and to the heirs males of his body; and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of the heirs males of the body of the ſaid Thomas Earl of Rutland with divers remainders over. And afterwards the ſaid Edward Earl of Rutland by the ſaid later Indenture covenanted and granted with the ſaid parties thereto, That if the ſaid Earl Edward ſhould not convey ſufficiently the ſaid Mannor amongſt others as is aforeſaid before the ſaid Feaſt of the Annunciation of our Lady, that then the ſaid Earl Edward and his heirs would ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor of Eykering to the ſaid uſes contained in the ſecond Indenture. No fine or other aſſurance was levied or made by the ſaid Earl Edward before the end of Trinity Term: And afterwards, ſcil. 17. September next following, the ſaid Earl acknowledged a Note of a fine of the Mannor of Eykering only to Sir Gilbert Gerrard and Thomas Holcroft, and to the heirs of the ſaid Sir Gilbert; and the 18*th* day of the ſame month acknowledged another Note of a fine of the ſaid Mannor of Eykering amongſt many other Mannors mentioned in the laſt Indenture to the Lord Burghley, Sir Gilbert Gerrard and others, parties to the laſt Indentures, and to the heirs of the Lord Burghley, and both were entred in Octab. Michaelis then next following. And it was proved by divers witneſſes, That the ſaid Earl Edward, as well before the Indentures as after the fine levied ſaid to them, That the ſaid Counteſs ſhould have the Mannor of Eykering for her Joynture.

And in this Caſe four Points were reſolved by Sir John Popham Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court.

1. Although that the Indentures being made for declaring of the uſes of a ſubſequent fine, recovery, or other aſſurance to certain perſons, and within a certain time, and to certain uſes, are but only directory, and do not bind the eſtate or intereſt of the land, yet if the fine, recovery, or other aſſurance be purſued according to the Indentures, there could not be any bare averrment againſt the Indentures taken in ſuch Caſe, that after the making of the Indentures, and before the aſſurance by mutual agreement of the parties it was concluded and agreed that the aſſurance ſhould be to other uſes: But if other agreement or limitation of uſes be made by writing, or by other matter as high or higher, then the laſt agreement ſhall ſtand, for every contract or agreement ought to be diſſolved by matter of as high nature as the firſt was, Nihil tam inconveniens eſt naturali æquitati, unumquodque diſſolvi eo ligamine, quo ligatum eſt. Alſo it ſhall be inconvenient, that matters in writing made by advice and deliberation, and upon conſideration, and which carry the certain truth of the agreement of the parties, ſhall be controlled by averrment of the parties to be proved by the incertain teſtimony of ſlippery memory. [b] And it ſhall be dangerous to Purchaſors and Farmers, and all others in ſuch Caſes, if a nude averrment againſt matter in writing ſhould be admitted.

2. It was reſolved, That if the form of the Indentures be not purſued, as for the quantity of the land, or the time within which, &c. in theſe Caſes and other like, where the Indentures be not purſued, averrment without writing may be taken, That the fine, recovery, or other aſſurance was to another uſe or intent then is contained in the Indenture: For in as much as the Indentures are not purſued, it is reaſon that the parties ſhall be admitted, to ſhew cauſe and reaſon that they were not purſued by reaſon of the new agreement ſubſequent, that in ſuch Caſe it may be as well by word as by writing.

3. It was reſolved, That although the Indentures are not purſuant in circumſtance of time, quantity, perſon, and the like, yet if no other new agreement can be proved, the aſſurance ſhall be in Judgment of Law to the uſe contained in the Indentures.

4. That in the principal Caſe the fines could not be directed by both the Indentures, that is to ſay, by the firſt Indenture to the uſe of the Earl Edward and Iſabel his wife for their lives; and by the ſecond Indenture to the Earl and the heirs males of his body, with the remainders over limited by the ſecond Indenture, and ſo the fines to work upon both the Indentures (although peradventure ſuch was the intent of the parties) and that for three cauſes:

1. The directions and declarations of the firſt Indentures were controlled and fruſtrated by the ſecond Indentures, and therefore the fines could not be directed by both.

2. The Indentures import ſeveral, and diſtinct, and divers contracts, and eſtates, that is to ſay, one to the Earl and Iſabel his wife, and to the heirs of the Earl, the other unto the Earl only, and to the heirs males of his body with divers remainders over; So that the fines ought for the Mannor of Eykering be directed, either wholly by the firſt, or wholly by the ſecond, without any fraction or diviſion of eſtates.

3. It ſhall be againſt the words and intent of both the Indentures, to make a Hotchpotch and commixture of both, which by their creation were ſeveral and diſtinct in perſons and eſtates.

Caſes

Cases of Executors.

Hill. 26 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Russel's Case.

EDward Russel as Executor of William Russel brought an Action upon the Case against Thomas Prat and Margery his wife; And declared, that William Russel was possessed of a Chest with divers Jewels, Goods, and sums of Money (and declared which in certain) in it, and that the said William lost them, and that they came to the hands of Margery dum sola fuit, that is to say, 6. Januarii, 1 Eliz. And afterwards the testator died, and that the said Margery dum sola fuit, did convert the said goods to her own use. The Defendants pleaded in bar a release of the Plaintiff made to them, &c. To which the Plaintiff said, That at the time of the release made, he was within the age of 21 years, &c. upon which the Defendants did demur in Law. And the great Question (which was often argued at the Bar and Bench) was, Whether the release of an Infant Executor having proved the Will should bar him or not. And it was argued that the release should bar him for divers causes. [27]

1. Because the Executor doth represent the person of the Testator, and all that which he doth is in the right (and as in the person) of the Testator, and not in his own right; and therefore his Infancy is not to be respected.

2. The Law which enableth him to take upon him the charge of the Will, and to prove it, and to bring Actions, and to do things which appertaineth to the office of an Executor, the same Law enableth him to make releases and acquittances without any regard to his nonage. As the King shall not avoid leases or grants in respect of the infancy of his natural capacity; nor Mayor, Bayliff, or the Head of any other Corporation shall not avoid any of their deeds or grants, for infancy of their natural capacity, because they do them in another right and capacity. [b]

3. It shall be inconvenient that an Infant Executor shall compel the debtors of the Testator to pay the debts to him, and that he shall not have power to acquit and discharge them.

4. They cited divers Books in the Point, 16 H. 6. Releases 45. the opinion of the whole Court, That a release made by an Infant within age as an Executor is good, and he cannot make it void. The same Law is of a release made by a feme covert Executrix; and so the release of the husband is nought worth, as there it is said, 18 H. 6. 4. of a feme covert, and 18 E. 4. 10. of a feme covert, and 21 E. 4. 13. & 24. of an Infant and feme covert, and 16 H. 7. 6. But upon great deliberation, and upon conference had with Anderson Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Manwood and others Justices, it was resolved by Sir Christopher Wray Chief Justice, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court of Kings Bench, that the release was no bar, and principally for three causes:

1. Because if it shall be a bar it shall be a Devastavit, and charge the Infant of his own proper goods.

2. It shall be a wrong, which an Infant by his release can never do.

3. In making of this release he doth not pursue his office, nor perform the duty of an Executor: And therefore it was well agreed, That all things which he doth according to the office and duty of an Executor the same shall bind him: But things which he doth against the office of an Executor shall not bind him, for as much as he is within age. The office of an Executor (as appeareth in 20 H. 7. 5.) is to do his office truly, diligently, and faithfully, and all these he breaketh when he wasteth the goods of the dead: But it was resolved, That upon payment or satisfaction to an Infant Executor, he may acquit and discharge the debt for as much as he receiveth: But it was resolved, That a Monk Executor may release without satisfaction, for his profession shall be no impediment to the release, 21 E. 4. 13. b. And as to the said Book of 16 H. 6. in the Case of the Infant it is to be intended when the Infant receiveth full satisfaction, for the Book saith, The deed of an Infant as Executor, and he doth not as Executor when he releaseth, and receiveth nothing. But the opinion there as to the feme covert Executrix, was utterly denied, for although she be Executrix, yet she can do nothing to the prejudice of her husband: But without question in such Case the release of the husband is good. And so the doubts in the Books of 13 E. 1. Executors 119. 5 E. 3. 45. Barbor's Case, 18 H. 6. 4. & 18 E. 4. 10. 21 E. 4. 13. & 24. 2 H. 7. 15. 6 H. 7. 6. 7 H. 7. 13. & 14. are well explained. And afterwards upon a Writ of Enquiry of damages returned after the Statute of 27 Eliz. cap. 8. Judgment was given for the Plaintiff: And upon the said Act a Writ of Error was brought in the Exchequer Chamber, where it was unanimously agreed, That the said release was no bar. And so this Point was resolved by all the Judges of England: But divers other Errors were assigned and moved as well in the Declaration, as that the plea was discontinued; And after the parties agreed, and for the Error in the proceeding the Judgment was reversed. And note good Reader, by these Resolutions you will better understand the said Books before cited, & alios ejusdem farinæ. And Sir Thomas Gawdy said in this Case, That an Executor may well release any Action before probate, for although that he cannot have any Action, yet the interest of the Action is in him, 21 E. 4. 24. acc'. [28]

Paſch. 1 Jacobi, in the Common Pleas.

Middleton's Caſe.

IT was adjudged in the Common Pleas, between Middleton and Rimot, That an Executor before probate may releaſe an Action, although that before probate he cannot have an Action, for the right of the Action is in him; But if A. releaſeth and afterwards taketh adminiſtration, it ſhall not bar him, for the right of the Action was not in him at the time of the releaſe, vide 18 H. 6. 43. Greisbrook's Caſe, Plow. Comm. 277. 21 E. 4. 24. Two Executors prove the Will, the third refuſeth, yet he may releaſe, Litt. 177. If a man be bound to pay a ſum at a day to come, releaſe of all Actions before the day bars it, yet before the day he cannot have an Action of Debt, and ſo upon the opinion of Sir Thomas Gawdy in the Caſe before it was adjudged.

Hill. 40 Eliz. Rot. 119. in the Common Pleas.

Harriſon's Caſe.

[b] Robert Green brought an Action of Debt upon a Bond of 40 l. againſt William Harriſon adminiſtrator of the goods and chattels of Thomas Sidney: The Defendant pleaded, that the inteſtate was bounden in an Obligation in the nature of a Statute Staple, beyond which he had no goods, &c. The Plaintiff replied, that there were Indentures of defeaſance made to perform Covenants in certain Indentures, which were all performed hitherto; upon which the Defendant did demur. And it was adjudged that the Plaintiff ſhould recover; for a debt due by Bond ſhall be paid before a Statute made to perform the Covenants, when none of them then were, nor perhaps ever would be broken, but are things in contingency, and in futuro; and therefore ſuch poſſibility which peradventure may never happen, ſhall not bar preſent and due debts by Bond or other ſpecialties. And if ſuch Statutes to perform Covenants ſhould bar others of their due debts, little or no debts would be paid. And note, that it was adjudged in the Kings Bench by Popham Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, Hill. 42 Eliz. that if a man recover debt by Judgment in the Kings Court, this Judgment ſhall be paid before Bond in the nature of a Statute Staple, or Statutes Staples, or Merchants; For Judgment given in the Kings Court is of a higher nature then ſuch Statutes which are private Records, and portable by the conuſee in his pocket. But Judgment given in the Kings Court upon ordinary and judicial proceedings, which remain in the cuſtody of a ſworn Officer, are Records which are preferred in Law before ſuch Statutes. And the Law doth preſume, Quod judicium redditur in invitum; And ſuch Judgments ſhall be paid before Recognizances acknowledged by the aſſent of the parties in any of the Kings Courts, which may be acknowledged in a private manner; and it is not material whether the Judgment, or [29] Recognizance, or Statute be firſt, but be the Judgment firſt or laſt, it ought to be firſt ſatisfied. And ſo it was holden by the whole Court of Common Pleas, between Pemberton and Bartram, Paſch. 32 Eliz. Rot. 235. which ſee before in the end of the Sadlers Caſe, in the fourth part of my Reports.

Hill. 40 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Piggots's Caſe.

Piggot Adminiſtrator of Longfield durante minore ætate of A. Longfield brought an Action of debt in the Common Pleas upon an Obligation againſt Gaſcoigne and Furthee; And averred that A. Longfield was within the age of 21 years; To which the Defendant pleaded an inſufficient bar; upon which the Plaintiff did demur. And for as much as the bar was inſufficient, now the Queſtion was, If the Declaration were good or not. And the doubt was, When adminiſtration is granted durante minore ætate, how long it ſhall endure, ſcil. to the age of 21 years, or to what age it ſhall continue. And thereupon the Court did confer with ſundry Doctors of the Civil Law openly in Court. And it was holden by them, That adminiſtration durante minore ætate ſhould ceaſe at the age of 17 years; and if ſuch adminiſtration be committed, the Executor being of the age of 17 years it is void: And for this cauſe it was adjudged by the Court, that the Declaration was inſufficient; for perhaps the Executor

Executor was of 17 or 18 years, &c. and within the age of 21 years as the Plaintiff hath averred, and yet the Plaintiffs adminiſtration was determined; for which cauſe it was awarded, that the Plaintiff ſhould take nothing by his Bill.

Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Prince's Caſe.

IN Treſpaſs, for breaking of his Cloſe, &c. between John Prince Plaintiff, and William Simpſon Defendant, the Caſe was ſuch; One Jackſon being poſſeſſed of a term for years, had iſſue James and Jane, and made his Will, and made Jane his daughter (then of the age of 12 years) his Executrix; and then deviſed the ſaid term to James, then alſo within age, and died. Adminiſtration durante minore ætate of Jane was committed to her mother who took husband; James died, the husband took adminiſtration of his goods, and ſold the ſaid term, Jane took husband; And the Queſtion was, if the ſaid ſale was good, or not. And in this Caſe three Points were reſolved by the Juſtices of the Common Pleas. [b]

1. That ſuch an adminiſtrator durante minore ætate, cannot ſell any of the goods of the deceaſed, if it be not for neceſſity for payment of his debts, or bona peritura, for he hath his office of adminiſtration pro bono & commodo of the Infant, and not for his prejudice. For the words of the Letters of Adminiſtration are, Adminiſtrationem omnium & ſingulorum bonorum ad opus, commodum, & utilitatem executric' durante ſua minore ætate, & non aliter, nec alio modo committimus, &c.

2. Such adminiſtration doth ceaſe at the age of 17 years of the Infant, as it was adjudged between Piggot and Gaſcoign, Hill. 40 Eliz. in the Common Pleas: And there it was alſo holden, That an Infant Executor before 17 years cannot aſſent to a Legacy, &c. And when Jane within age of 17 years took husband, if it had appeared that the husband was of full age, then the adminiſtration ſhould ceaſe, for ſhe hath taken a husband, who might adminiſter as Executor; but that did not appear in the Caſe whether the husband were within age or of full age. But in this Caſe it was ſaid, That Judgment was given between Vere and Jeffery, that where one hath goods only in an inferior Dioceſs, yet the Metropolitan of the Province pretending that he had bona notabilia in divers Dioceſſes, committeth adminiſtration, this adminiſtration is not void, but voidable by ſentence, becauſe that the Metropolitan hath Juriſdiction over all the Dioceſs in his Province, and therefore it cannot be void, but voidable by ſentence; But if an Ordinary of a Dioceſs committeth adminiſtration of goods, when the party hath bona notabilia in ſundry Dioceſſes, ſuch adminiſtration is meerly void, as well as to the goods within his own Dioceſs as elſewhere, becauſe that by no means he can have Juriſdiction of the cauſe: And true it is, that ſuch Judgment was given. [30]

Mich. 40 & 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Coulter's Caſe.

RObert Coulter brought an Action of debt upon a Bond of 40 l. againſt William Ireland Executor of the Teſtament and laſt Will of Richard Hunt; The Defendant pleaded, that he had fully adminiſtred, and ſo nothing was in his hands; upon which they were at iſſue, and the Jury gave a ſpecial verdict; That the ſaid Richard Hunt was bound to the Defendant and his ſon in a Bond in the nature of a Statute Staple of 500 l. and that the Defendant was Executor of his own wrong, and had 140 l. of the goods of the deceaſed in his hands, and did keep the ſaid goods in his hands to ſatisfie and pay himſelf part of the ſaid debt of 500 l. And if the ſaid retainer by an Executor of his own wrong were lawful or not was the Queſtion. And it was objected, that the Defendant in ſuch Caſe might retain for divers cauſes.

1. The Plaintiff hath by his Declaration affirmed him to be Executor of the Teſtament and laſt Will of Richard Hunt, and the Jury cannot find any thing againſt that which both the parties have agreed in pleading, as it is agreed in 28 Aſſ. p. 38. in Aſſiſe, 9 H. 6. 37. in Dette, 1 Eliz. Dier 167. 9 H. 7. 3. in Reſcous, &c. and therefore the finding, that he is Executor of his own wrong is abundant and ſurpluſage. [b]

2. Although an Executor of his own wrong cannot retain againſt a rightful Executor, or againſt an Adminiſtrator, yet he may retain againſt the Plaintiff who is a creditor as the Defendant is, and ſo much the rather becauſe he hath affirmed him to be Executor in his Declaration as is aforeſaid; and therefore againſt him he ſhall have all the priviledges of an Executor, and ſo reſpective he ſhall have againſt the one, and not againſt the other.

3. In

3. In divers Cases one who is in of his own wrong shall recover and retain, &c. 3 H.6. Damages 18. he who hath a rent of 10 l. issuing out of certain land, disseiseth the tenant of the land, in an Assise brought by the disseisee, the disseisor shall recover the rent in the damages, so that where the mean profits of the land in such Case were of the value of 13 l. the disseisee shall recover but 3 l. 43 E. 3. Damages 37. The disseisor shall recover all in damages which he hath expended in amending of the houses, 14 *E.*3. Damages 92. 24 E. 3. 50. & 14 Ass. pl. 124. acc. 8 Ass. p. 37. Rent service incurred during the disseisin shall be recovered, 9 E. 3. 8. 4 H. 7. 11. 14. b. acc. and in 40 Ass. p. 56. there the wife did retain the three parts of the profits against the King in respect of the right of Dower which she had to the same lands. So he who is Guardian in Socage of his own wrong shall have reasonable allowances. But it was resolved by the whole Court, That an Executor of his own wrong shall not retain, for thereof will ensue great inconvenience and confusion, for every creditor (and chiefly when the goods of the deceased are not sufficient to satisfie all the creditors) would contend to make himself Executor of his own wrong, to the intent to satisfie himself by retainer, by which others should be barred. And it is not reasonable that one should take advantage of his own wrong; and if the Law of God should give him such power, the Law should be cause and occasion of wrong, and of wrongful taking of the goods of the deceased. And the Law of God saith, Non facias malum ut inde fiat bonum, & melius est omnia mala pati, quam malo consentire. And it is clear, that all lawful acts, which an Executor of his own wrong, or a disseisor, or abator, &c. doth, is good. And therefore if a disseisor or abator endoweth a woman who hath title of Dower it is good, and shall bind the disseisee: But if a woman who hath title of Dower disseiseth the tenant of the land, she cannot endow her self by retainer. Also if a woman who hath title of Dower use the land as Guardian in Socage by her [31] own right, and not as rightful Guardian, she shall not endow her self de la pluis beale, for that is in a Judgment given in the Kings Court. Also if a woman who hath righful title of Dower be party or privy or consenting to a wrong, the assignment of Dower to her is void; as if she procureth one to disseise the tenant of the land, to the intent to be endowed by him. And the naming of the Defendant Executor of the Testament and last Will, &c. doth not prove him lawful Executor, for so every Executor of his own wrong is named, and there is no other form of Writ or Count. And as to the Case of recouper in damages in the Case of rent service, charge, or seck. It was resolved, that the reason of the recovery in such Case is, because that otherwise when the disseisee reentreth, the arrerages of the rent service, charge, or seck, shall be revived, and there to avoid circuit of Action, and circuitus est evitandus, & boni Judicis est lites dirimere, ne lis ex lite oriatur, the arrerages during the disseisin shall be recovered in damages: But if the disseisor ought to have Common in the land, the value of the Common shall not be recovered, for by the regress of the disseisee, he shall not have any arrerages or recompence for it, as it appeareth in 27 *H.*6.10. And with this Resolution concerning recovery in Case of Common agreeth the Book in 33 H. 6. 32. & in Riche's Case. And so the doubt in 16 H. 7. 11. is well explained. And it appeareth that the Case of recouper doth stand upon another reason then the Case at Bar.

Mich. 41 & 42 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Hargrave's Case.

Body made a lease for years rendring rent, the lessee died intestate; Hargrave took Letters of Administration, and for the rent behind in his time after the death of the intestate, Body brought an Action of debt in the debet & detinet, &c. And after verdict the Defendants Council moved in arrest of Judgment, that the Writ ought to be brought in the detinet tantum, because the Defendant took the profits in another
[b] right, and they shall be assets in Law. And the Book in 10 H. 7. 5. was strongly urged, for there it is expresly holden, that in the Case at Bar the Writ shall be in the Detinet for the arrerages incurred in the time of the Executor of the lessee: Yet upon good consideration and conference with the other Justices, it was adjudged, that the Writ shall be in the debet & detinet in the Case at Bar; for when an Executor or Administrator taketh the profits nothing shall be assets but the profits above the rent; as if the land be worth 10 l. per annum, and 5 l. is reserved, in this Case nothing shall be assets but the 5 l. above the rent; and therefore the Writ shall be for the rent in the debet & detinet. Vide Dier 7. E. 6. 81. acc. But note, that in all Actions brought by Executors, (as Executors) the Writ shall be always in the detinet only, although that the duty groweth in their own time. As 18 H. 3. if the Executors of the lessor bring an Action of debt against the lessee for arrerages incurred in their time, the Writ shall be in the detinet only, 20 H. 6. 4. In debt upon arrerages of accompt of assignment of the auditors by themselves, the Writ shall be in the detinet only; for in all Cases when an Executor is bound to name himself Executor in any Action brought by him, the Writ shall be in the detinet only, because that the thing recovered in damages shall be assets. And it was adjudged Pasch. 36 Eliz. in the Exchequer in the Case of one Hitchcock, that for an escape out of execution in the time of an Executor, upon a recovery had by the Executor himself, he shall not have an Action in the debet & detinet, but in the detinet only against the Sheriff, causa qua supra. Vide 11 H. 6. 7, 8, 36. Harlwin's Case.

Hill. 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Pettifer's Caſe.

IN a Writ of Error between Robinſon and Pettifer, the Caſe was ſuch; In debt Judgment was given in the Common Pleas againſt two Executors to recover the debt de bonis teſtatoris; upon which a Fieri facias was awarded to the Sheriff to levy the debt de bonis teſtatoris, &c. whereupon the Sheriff returned, Nulla bona, &c. And upon this return an entry was made in the Roll, becauſe that teſtatum eſt that the Executors had ſold divers goods of the teſtator, and converted the monies to their own uſe, a Writ was awarded to the Sheriff, to enquire by the oath of good men of his Bailiwick what goods (which were the teſtators the day of his death) were waſted by the Executors; by force of which Writ the Sheriff took an inquiſition, by which it was found that divers goods of the teſtator to the value of the debt recovered were waſted by the Executors: And this was returned in Court. Upon which the Plaintiff ſued a Scire facias againſt the Defendant to ſhew cauſe wherefore execution ſhould not be awarded againſt the Defendant of his own proper goods. And upon two Nihils the Court awarded execution: And thereupon the Executors brought a Writ of Error in redditione executionis. And although it was ſaid that the ſaid courſe was uſual in the Court of Common Pleas, and more favourable then the ancient courſe was, for by that the Devaſtavit ſhall not be returned by the Sheriff only, but now ſhall be enquiry by enqueſt returned, and upon that a Scire facias ſhall be awarded. [32]

But it was adjudged that the ſaid proceeding was erroneous: For when Judgment is given againſt Executors, and upon the Scire facias the Sheriff returneth Nulla bona, &c. the Plaintiff may have a ſpecial Writ of Fieri facias, ſcil. that the Sheriff levy the debt of the goods of the dead, & ſi ſibi conſtare poterit, that the Executors have waſted the goods, then de bonis propriis: And that is agreeable to Law and reaſon; To Law as appeareth in 1 E. 3. Executors 73. & 85. 9 H. 6. 9. b. & 57. b. To reaſon, becauſe that in ſuch Caſe, if the Sheriff make a falſe return the party make have his remedy by Action upon the Caſe, which is a good means to force the Sheriff to make true and juſt returns in ſuch Caſe. But by the ſaid new courſe if the Sheriff take an inqueſt and return it, although that it be falſe, yet the party hath no remedy againſt the Sheriff, nor againſt any other: And although that a Scire facias in the Caſe at Bar was awarded againſt the Executors, yet upon two Nihils returned they ſhall be condemned, and charged of their own goods, and yet perhaps had no notice thereof, the Action ſometimes being brought in a forreign County, and ſometime in the Court where they dwell, and yet the Executors have not knowledge thereof, which ſhall be miſchievous; And for theſe cauſes the Execution was reverſed, but the Judgment ſtood. [b]

Paſch. 1 Jacobi, in the Common Pleas.

Robinſon's Caſe.

Robinſon and others Executors of John Robinſon brought an Action of debt upon a Bond againſt Robinſon; The Defendant pleaded that before the purchaſe of the Writ, one of the Plaintiffs as adminiſtrator of John Robinſon brought an Action of Debt upon the ſame Bond in the ſame Court againſt the Defendant, who then pleaded, That John Robinſon made Executors who adminiſtred; and traverſed that he died inteſtate: And then the Plaintiff replied, That adminiſtration was committed to him pendente lite between the Executors of the ſaid Will; upon which the Defendant did demur. And it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. And this plea was pleaded by way of eſtoppel, and Judgment demanded, If he as Executor ſhall have an Action of debt againſt the Plaintiff upon the ſame Bond; The Plaintiff replied and ſhewed the repeal of the letter of adminiſtration, and that the Plaintiffs are Executors: upon which the Defendant did demur, he pretending, that for as much as one of the Plaintiffs was barred in the former Action that they ſhould be barred for ever. And the Caſe was well debated at the Bar and Bench. And at laſt Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. For it was agreed, That by the former Judgment the Plaintiff was barred as to the Action of the Writ, ſcil. to have an Action as adminiſtrator: But although he then in truth was Executor, yet the miſtaking of his Action is no bar nor eſtoppel to bring his true Action; As if an heir bring a Formedon in the Diſcender, and be barred therein, yet he may have a Formedon in the Remainder, or Reverter. See 3 E. 3. 21. 4 E. 3. Eſtoppel 133. 19 E. 3. Eſtoppel 227. 18 E. 3. 31. 40 E. 3. 21. 2 R. 2. Eſtoppel 210. 6 H. 4. 4. 11 H. 4. 30. 2 R. 3. 14. 21 H. 7. 24. 7 E. 6. Eſtopel 162. [33]

Trin. 2 Jacobi in the Common Pleas.

Reade's Case.

[b] Reade brought an Action of debt againſt Carter Executor of Young, which plea began in the Common Pleas, Hill. 44 Eliz. Rot. 401. the Jurors found, That the ſaid Young made his Teſtament and laſt Will, and made one A. his Executor; and the day of his death was poſſeſſed of goods above the value of the debt demanded, and died; and before the Will was proved the Defendant took the teſtator's goods into his poſſeſſion, and entermedled with them; And afterwards, and before the taking forth of the Writ the Will was proved; And if upon this matter the Defendant ſhall be charged as Executor of his own wrong, was the Queſtion. And upon great deliberation Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe theſe Points were reſolved:

1. When a man dieth inteſtate, and a ſtranger taketh the inteſtates goods and uſeth them, or ſelleth them, in this Caſe it maketh him Executor of his own wrong. For although that the pleading in ſuch Caſe be, That he was never Executor, nor ever adminiſtred as Executor, and therefore it was objected, that he ought to pay debt, or legacy, or do ſomething as Executor: yet it was reſolved, and well agreed, That when one taketh upon him to be Executor, nor any hath taken letter of adminiſtration, there the uſing of the goods by any one, or the taking of them into his poſſeſſion, which is the office of an Executor or Adminiſtrator is a good adminiſtration to charge them as Executor of his wrong; for thoſe to whom the deceaſed was indebted in ſuch Caſe have not any againſt whom they can have an Action for recovery of their debts.

2. When an Executor is made, and he proveth the Will, or taketh upon him the charge of the Will, and adminiſtreth, in this Caſe if a ſtranger taketh any of the goods, or claimeth them for his proper goods, and uſeth and diſpoſeth of them as his own goods, that doth not make him in conſtruction of Law an Executor of his wrong, becauſe that there is another Executor of right whom he may charge, and theſe goods which are in ſuch Caſe taken out of his poſſeſſion after that he hath adminiſtred, are aſſets in his hands: But although there be an Executor or Adminiſtrator, yet if the ſtranger taketh the goods, and claiming to be Executor, pay debts, and receive debts, or pay legacies, and intermeddle as Executors, there for ſuch expreſs adminiſtration as Executor, he may be charged as Executor of his own wrong, although there be another Executor in right; and therewith agreeth 9 E. 4. 13.

3. In the Caſe at Bar, when the Defendant taketh the goods before the rightful Executor hath taken upon him, or proved the Will, in this Caſe he may be charged as Executor of his own wrong, for the rightful Executor ſhall not be charged but with the goods which come to his hands after that he taketh upon him the charge of the Will. Note Reader, theſe Reſolutions and the reaſon of them, and by them you will better underſtand your Books, which otherwiſe ſeem prima facie to diſagree, 41 E. 3. 13. 50 E. 3. 8. 6 H. 4. 3. 11 H. 4. 83, 84. 13 H. 4. 4. 19 H. 6. 14. 21 H. 6. 26. & 27. 32 H. 7. 33 H. 6. 21. 21 E. 4. 5. 20 H. 7. 5. 26 H. 8. 7. 1 Eliz. Dier 166. 9 Eliz. Dier 255. And ſo the Quære in 2 Eliz. Dier 205. well reſolved.

Conſtruction

Conſtruction of the Statutes of Jeofails, and Amendments of Records, Fines, Common Recoveries, &c.

Mich. 25 & 26 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Playter's Caſe.

Playter brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt Warne, Quare clauſum fregit, & piſces ſuos cepit, &c. (without ſhewing the number or nature of the fiſh;) The Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and was found guilty of the damage, &c. And now this Term in arreſt of Judgment it was ſhewed, That the Declaration (which by the Law ought to be certain, becauſe it is in a manner the foundation of the ſuit) was in the Caſe at Bar altogether uncertain for two cauſes. [b]

1. It doth not appear by the Declaration of what nature the fiſh were, Pikes, Tenches, Breams Garps, Roches, &c.

2. It doth not appear what the number of them were, but generally, piſces ſuos cepit; To which it was anſwered by the Plaintiffs Councel:

1. That the ſame was good at the Common Law, for the verdict hath found the Defendant guilty to damages, and therefore it is not material of what nature, or of what number the fiſh were, but taking of fiſh to damages, in which Caſe the verdict hath made the Declaration (if it wanteth form) good.

2. They conceived that the Declaration in an Action of Treſpaſs, without the expreſſing the number or nature of the fiſh was good enough, for as much as the fiſh themſelves are not to be recovered but damages for them: As in 20 H. 6. 19. in a Writ of deceit for caſting a Protection, and doth not ſhew certain of what nature the firſt Writ was (as Formedon, Aſſiſe, or other Writ) which was delayed by the Protection, and yet the Writ was adjudged good: In Treſpaſs upon the Caſe the Writ was, that the Plaintiff did retain the Defendant pro quadam pecuniæ ſumma ſolvend', &c. without ſhewing the quantity of the ſumm, and yet it was holden good in 11 H. 6. 45.

3. If the Law doth require more certainty as to the fiſhes, then it ſhall be intended that the Judges before whom this iſſue was tried did direct the Jury to find the Defendant guilty only for the Cloſe for which the Declaration was good, and not for the fiſh for which the Declaration was inſufficient. [35]

4. Admit that the Declaration were inſufficient for the form thereof at the Common Law, and that it was not made good by the verdict, yet they conceived that it was remedied by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 14. (for the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 30. doth not extend to Counts) By which Act of 18 Eliz. after verdicts it is provided, That all defaults in form in any Writ Original or Judicial, Count, Declaration, Plaint, Bill, or Demand, are remedied, and Judgment for them ſhall not be ſtayed. And it was ſaid, that the omiſſion of the number and nature is but of the form and not of the ſubſtance of the Action, but the ſubſtance is for the taking of the fiſh; But it was reſolved by Sir Chriſtopher Wray chief Juſtice, Sir Thomas Gawdy and the whole Court, againſt the Plaintiff.

And to the firſt and ſecond Objections it was anſwered and reſolved, That the Declaration was inſufficient, and was not made good by the verdict, for the Declaration ought to reduce the generalty of the Writ to particularity, and to declare that which is briefly touched in the Writ in certain, to which the Defendant may have certain anſwer, and upon which a Judgment certain may be given, Quia oportet quod res certa deducatur in judicium. And true it is, that if this Action had been brought by original the Writ ſhould be general; But the Count ought to have comprehended the fiſhes in certain; and therewith agreeth all the Precedents, and 4 H. 6. 11. where the Writ was Quare piſcem cepit, and declared of ſo many Pikes in certain; and although that the Writ was piſcem in the ſingular number, yet it was well, for piſcis is nomen collectivum, in which the plural number is comprehended, vide 21 H. 6. 39. acc. that the certainty of the fiſh ſhall be alledged in the Declaration; and great inconvenience would thereof follow, for unleſs the iſſue hath certainty with which the Jury may be charged, upon ſuch ſeveral incertainty they could not be charged in attaint, if they give a falſe verdict.

As to the third Objection it was anſwered and reſolved, That when the Jurors have found the Defendant guilty generally of the Treſpaſs in the Declaration, that without queſtion doth extend to both the Treſpaſſes, and no ſuch intendment ſhall be taken as was objected: But if the Plaintiffs Councel had done wiſely, they would have cauſed the damages to have been ſevered, that is to ſay, ſo much for the fiſh, and ſo much for the breaking the Cloſe, and then the Plaintiff ſhould recover damages for breaking the Cloſe with his coſts. [b]

As to the laſt Objection, it was agreed by the whole Court, that the omitting of the nature and number of the fiſhes was a matter of ſubſtance, and not of form to be remedied by the Statute of 18 Eliz. for want of form within the ſaid Act is ſuch matter of courſe, that the Clark might have ſupplied and amended it without any information of the party, for the party ought to inform the truth of the matter, and the Clark ought to draw it into a form: But in the Caſe at Bar the Clark without information of the party cannot know the nature or number of the fiſh, and therefore it is not want of form within the purview of the ſaid Act. But Wray chief Juſtice ſaid, That every miſpriſion of a Clark in a thing which he might have ſupplied and amended without information of the party is not remedied by the ſaid Act: As if a Writ be brought againſt Executors in the Debet and the Detinet, the ſame is the default of the Clark, but becauſe it is in matter of ſubſtance, that is to ſay, in the Point of the Action, and not want of form as the Statute ſpeaketh, it is not remedied by the ſaid Act. So there is a difference between matter of ſubſtance, which the Clark might have amended.

Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Walcot's Caſe.

[36] Loyd brought an Action of debt in the Common Pleas againſt Walcot and the Lady Arnold his wife upon an Obligation made by the wife before marriage; The Defendant pleaded to iſſue, and found againſt him, upon which Judgment was given: The Defendant brought a Writ of Error, and divers Errors were aſſigned, which were all overruled by the Court; Then one of the Defendants Councel moved, that the Writ was brought againſt them in the Detinet tantum, where it ought to have been in the debet & detinet, for the wife who is party to the Action made the Obligation by her ſelf, and the entermarriage is a gift inLaw to the husband of all the perſonal goods,and diſpoſition of all chattels reals, and all thoſe he hath to his own uſe, and not to another uſe as Executors have. But as againſt the heir of the obligor an Action lieth in the debet & detinet, becauſe he hath aſſets from the ſame anceſtor in fee ſimple in his own right, ſo hath the husband the goods and Chattels of the wife to his own uſe, and therefore the Writ ſhall be brought againſt them in the debet & detinet, quod fuit conceſſum per totam Curiam: Then it was moved, That that was want of form, and therefore ſhall be amended by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 14. becauſe it was but (as it was ſaid) the miſpriſion of the Clark, which he himſelf ought to have amended and ſupplied: But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That the ſame was matter of ſubſtance, and the very point of the Action, and the ſaid Act remedied only want of form; which Reſolution agreeth with the opinion of Wray chief Juſtice in the Caſe before.

Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer.

Baneham's Caſe.

[b] BEtween Bayneham and Brook in an Ejectione firmæ upon a demiſe of the Rectory of A. in A. B. & C. the Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and the Viſne came only out of A. and the Jurors found the Defendant guilty, and Judgment was given: And in a Writ of Error this Judgment was reverſed, for the viſn ought to be out of the three Towns; And this trial was reſolved to be inſufficient, and inſufficient trials are not remedied by any Statute, for the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 30. doth not extend to a verdict given between the demandant and the vouchee, nor to any default in the original Writ, or in the return thereof, or to want of an original; or in the Count, or unto other inſufficiency in trial, verdict, or Judgment, &c. And the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 14. helps many of the ſaid defects, but doth not remedy any inſufficient trial, but that remaineth as it was at the Common Law. And Wray chief Juſtice ſaid, that it was of late adjudged in the Kings Bench between Goodwyn and Franklyn, that where a Venire facias was awarded to the Coroners, where it ought to have been awarded to the Sheriff, and ſo the Jurors returned by one who had not authority, that it was in nature of an inſufficient trial; and therefore upon conſideration of the ſaid Statutes, and of the opinion in 21 & 22 Eliz. Dier 367. it was reſolved that it was not remedied by any of the Statutes; but for this cauſe a new Venire facias was awarded: Et verum dixit; for I was of Councel with Franklyn in the ſame Caſe: But the principal Caſe in the Lord Dier was holden for good Law, becauſe that there the Venire facias was awarded ex aſſenſu partium, & omnis aſſenſus tollit errorem. And in this Caſe Wray chief Juſtice ſaid,that it had been adjudged in this Court in Gardiners Caſe, that if upon the Venire facias but 23 be returned, and 12 appear and give their verdict, that the ſame is remedied by the ſaid Acts of 32 H. 8. & 18 Eliz.

Paſch

Paſch. 21 Jac. Rot. 301. in the Kings Bench.

Gardiner's Caſe.

BEtween Tirrel and Gardiner upon iſſue joyned, 23 Jurors were only returned, whereof 12 did appear and give verdict; and that was moved in arreſt of Judgment: And upon great deliberation it was reſolved, That it was remedied by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 14. and thereupon Judgment was given accordingly; which was the Caſe which Wray chief Juſtice cited in the Caſe next before. [37]

Paſch. 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Biſhop's Caſe.

MAthew Biſhop brought an Action upon the Caſe againſt Michael Harecourt in the Common Pleas by original Writ, ſetting forth how that the Defendant in conſideration that the Plaintiff had given and delivered to the Defendant a horſe; and that the Plaintiff promiſed the Defendant that he upon 90 l. to him by the Defendant to be paid, would deliver to the ſaid Michael an Indenture, inter William Ward ex una parte, & Agnetam Fawkener ex altera parte fact', &c. And one Obligation by which Tho. Ward and Chriſtopher Biſhop were bounden to the ſaid Agnes, &c. in 500 l. aſſumed, and to the Plaintiff did promiſe to pay to him 90 l. Termino Trinit. next following: And the Plaintiff declared, and the Writ and Declaration agreed in all but only in this, That where by the Writ the ſaid Bond of 500 l. was alledged to be made by Thomas Ward and Chriſtopher Biſhop, &c. in the Declaration he was named George Biſhop, &c. And the Defendant pleaded Non aſſumpſit, and found againſt him, and Judgment given accordingly. And the Defendant brought a Writ of Error and aſſigned divers frivolous Errors to which the Court gave no regard. And then another Error not aſſigned was moved, ſcil. the ſaid variance between the original Writ and the Count. For the Count in the Common Pleas always reciteth the Writ, by which it appeared that the Writ was Chriſtopher Biſhop, (who was one of the obligors in the ſaid Bond) and the Count was George Biſhop. And upon that after in nullo erratum pleaded, the Plaintiff by Certiorari out of the Kings Bench removed the original Writ, by which the variance appeared to the Court. And it was moved, That that ſhall be helped by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 14. by which it is enacted, That after verdict no Judgment ſhall be reverſed for want of form, &c. or for any default in any original Writ, or Judicial, or default in proceſs: And here wanteth an original Writ in our Caſe, for the Action upon the Caſe conſiſts upon two parts, ſcil. upon conſideration and the promiſe. And as to the conſideration, the Writ and Count did vary, and ſo no original Writ to warrant this Count; and if that ſhall not be within the letter of the Act, yet it ſhall be within the meaning and intent of it, becauſe it was in equal miſchief. Alſo it was moved, That after in Nullo erratum pleaded, no Writ of Diminution, or Certiorari ſhall be awarded, as it is agreed in 7 E. 4. 25. 22 E. 4. 28 H. 6. 10. but if any ſhall be awarded by the diſcretion of the Court, it ſhall be only to aſſure them of the truth for the amending the Record in things amendable, and to ſalve the former Judgment, according to the truth of the Caſe, but never to reverſe the Judgment, as it ſhall be in our Caſe. [b]

But as to the firſt it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court, That this variance between the original Writ and the Count was not remedied by the Statute of 18 Eliz. nor by any other Statute; and difference was taken by the Court when it was an original Writ which in matter of ſubſtance varieth from the Count, that was not remedied by the ſaid Act, Quia caſus omiſſus & oblivioni datus, diſpoſitioni juris communis relinquitur; But when there is no original Writ, the ſame was expreſly remedied by the ſaid Act.

As to the ſecond Point they all agreed, That when the original Writ is moved (be it before in nullo erratum eſt pleaded, or after,) and a material variance appeareth to the Court between the Writ and the Count the Judgment ſhall be reverſed: And ſo it hath been before this time, as Wray chief Juſtice ſaid.

Trin. 34 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Tey's Caſe.

[38] THomas Tey and Elenor his wife levied a fine to Robert Drury and Tho. Cannock, and to the heirs of Robert Drury, of the Mannors of Layerdelahay, Layer Bretton, and of divers other Mannors, and of a great number of acres of lands, meadow, paſture, in Layerdelayhay, Layer Bretton, Magna Bretton, Magna Birch, and many other Towns in the County of Eſſex. And in the ſame fine divers grants and renders were made: And in the third render the Mannors of Layerdelahay, Layer Bretton, and divers other Mannors, & tenementa prædict' in Layerdelahay, Layer Bretton, Neuerds and Magna Birch, were granted and rendred to the ſaid Thomas and Elenor, and to the heirs of the ſaid Thomas. And by the fourth render 115 acres of land in Layer Bretton and Magna Birch, were granted and rendred to Elenor in tail, the remainder to the right heirs of Sir Thomas Tey: And after the death of Thomas Tey, William Tey his brother and heir brought a Writ of Error, and aſſigned Error in the grant and render made by Drury aud Cannock; and that was for the repugnancy between the third and fourth render, for by the third render all the tenements in Layer Bretton and Magna Birch were rendred to Thomas and Elenor, and to the heirs of Thomas; and by the fourth render, certain of the ſaid tenements are granted and rendred to the ſaid Elenor in tail, the remainder to the right heirs of Sir Thomas Tey; ſo that the ſame thing is granted and rendred to ſeveral perſons and of ſeveral eſtates, and ſo repugnant, and erro-
[b] neous: For it was ſaid, That a fine is like to a Judgment, for a Scire facias lieth to execute it, as of a Judgment, and oportet (as Bracton ſaith) Quod certa res deducatur in Judicium: As in Caſe where there are two demandants, and the Court adjudgeth one and the ſame thing to each demandant ſeverally, it ſhall be Error as well for the repugnancy, as for the doubtfulneſs to which of them the Court ſhall give Execution. As in the Caſe of 3 H. 6. 44. where two avowants are, and one avoweth for rent ſervice, and the other for rent charge, both the avowries ſhall abate; for the Court ſhall be in doubt to which of them return ſhall be awarded; ſo here in the Caſe at Bar, becauſe that the ſame thing is granted and rendred in the third render to one, and in the fourth to another, becauſe that both cannot have one and the ſame thing, for the contrariety and incertainty to whom the Court ſhall make Execution, it is erroneous. And it was objected, that a fine ought to be more certain then a Judgment, or any other Record, as it is holden in 2 H. 5. 7. & 21 E. 3. and a man cannot acknowledge the right to two, as it is holden in 27 E. 3, 79. Nor a fine cannot be levied upon Condition, as it is holden in 11 H. 6. But after many arguments at Bar and Bench, it was reſolved by them, That the fourth render, as to that which was contained in the third render ſhall be of the ſame condition and quality in conſtruction as a charter, or other conveyance between party and party, and needeth not have ſuch preciſe form as a Writ or a Judgment. But a conuſans of a fine and a grant and render ſhould have like conſtruction as another conveyance between party and party, for that hath the words of grant and render, becauſe it is a conveyance of Record. And although that a fine may be refuſed in Caſes which have been put, yet if ſuch fines ſhall be received they ſhall be good enough in all the ſaid Caſes, for fieri non debuit, ſed factum valuit; and therefore if a fine be accepted to two and their heirs, or if the conuſans of right be to two or if a fine be upon condition, in all theſe Caſes and other like the fine ſhall ſtand, and ſhall not be reverſed by Writ of Error. 2. In the argument of this Caſe, all the parts of a fine ſur conuſans de droit come ceo, &c. were recited and peruſed. And it was reſolved by the whole Court that there are five parts of every fine, that is to ſay, Original Writ, for without original Writ a fine cannot be levied, as appeareth by the Statute De modo levandi Fines, which order of Law will not ſuffer that a final accord be levied in Court of the King without Original writ; and ſo it is holden 37 Aſſ. 17. And upon every Writ, by which land is demanded, or by which the land is to be charged or bound, or within any ſort doth concern land, &c. a fine may be levied. See for that 5 E. 2. Statham Fines, & 18 E. 4. 22. 19 E.
[39] 4. 2. 21 E. 4. 4. 32 E. 3. Scire facias 100. in Præcipe, in Warrantia Chartæ, in a Writ of Meſn, in Quid juris clamat, Per quæ ſervitia, in Ration' dimiſſ. and the like.

2. There ought to be licence or leave to agree, for which licence there is a fine due to the King, which is an ancient Revenue of the Crown, and that is called the Kings ſilver; and that fully appeareth by the Statute De modo levandi fines. And the entry of the Queens ſilver in the Caſe at Bar was ſuch, Robertus Drurie armig' dat dominæ Reginæ ſeptem libr' pro Licentia concordandi cum Thoma Tey armiger' & Elianora uxore ejus, de placito conventionis, de maneriis de, &c. & habet Chirographum per pacem admiſſum, coram Jacobo Dier. Et nota bene, The uſe is that he in who the fee repoſeth paieth the Kings ſilver, and not the other conuſee who hath but for life, and all the precedents agree therewith. And note the Kings ſilver is entred upon the Writ of Covenant, and ought to expreſs, 1. The ſumm given for the licence: 2. The party who paieth it, that is to ſay, he in whom the fee repoſeth. 3. The plea and entry which, &c. And 4. the land for which the fine is paid; and all this was well obſerved in the Caſe at Bar.

3. The concord, and that beginneth thus, Et eſt concordia talis, ſcil. quod præd' Thomas & Elianora recognoverunt maneria, &c. eſſe jus, &c. And it is to be noted, that that is the foundation and ſubſtance of the fine. For if upon that the Kings ſilver be entred, although that the conuſor dieth after, the fine is good, as it was adjudged in Carrel's Caſe 5 Eliz. Dier 220. b. And the Note and the Foot of the fine are but abſtracts out of it, but the concord is the ground and ſubſtance of the fine.

and

4. The note of the fine, and that is but an abſtract out of the original and the concord, and beginneth in this manner, ſcil. Inter Robertum Drurie & Thomam Cannocke quer', & Thomam T. & E. uxorem ejus deforcean' de maneriis, &c. unde placitum conventionis ſummonit' fuit inter eos, ſcil. quod prædictus Thomas Tey & Elianora recognoverunt maneria, &c. eſſe jus, &c. But it was obſerved, that in old Books the note of the fine is taken for the concord, as in 12 H. 4. 16. that the note of a fine is pleadable before the fine engroſſed, and 22 H. 6. 51. acc. But that is intended of the concord it ſelf; and all the pleadings in Quid juris clamat, &c. that the leſſee had fee the day of the Note levied, are to be intended of the concord it ſelf.

5. The foot of the fine, and that beginneth ſo, that is to ſay, Hæc eſt finalis concordia facta in Curia domini Regis, apud Weſt. a die Paſchæ in quindecem dies, anno, &c. coram Jacobo Dier, &c. So that the foot of the fine includeth all, and hath the day, year, place, and before what Juſtices the concord was made. And a fine is ſaid to be engroſſed when the Chirographer maketh the Indentures of the fine, and delivereth them to the party to whom the conuſans was made. And it is to know, that when a fine is levied of a reverſion, the conuſee preſently after the conuſans, which is the concord, ought to ſue a Quid juris clamat againſt the leſſee; for if the leſſee ſtay till the fine be ingroſſed he ſhall never have a Quid juris clamat, for preſently by the concord and conuſans the reverſion paſſeth. Vide F. N. B. 147. & 22 H. 6. 57. acc'. And at the Common Law after the fine ingroſſed, it was ſent into the Treaſury, as appeareth in 17 E. 3. 29. But now by the Statute of 5 H. 4. cap. 14. it is enacted, That all the parts of the fine ſhall be enrolled with the chief Clark of the Bench (which is the Cuſtos Brevium) before that the Chirographer hath them out of Court. And note before this Statute the Cuſtos brevium had not any Record of the fine but the Chirographer, and nothing remaineth with the chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas but the licence to accord. And note it is provided by the ſame Statute, that the original Writ ſhall be of Record. And the uſe is to direct a Writ of Error to the chief Juſtice of the Bench, another to the Cuſtos Brevium, to certifie a tranſcript pedis finis, and another to the Chirographer to certifie tranſcriptum notæ finis. And note that theſe words are added in the Writ to the Cuſtos brevium, cum omnibus eundem finem tangen', by force of which Writ he certifieth the original Writ. 3. It was reſolved that the conuſor ſhall not aſſign Error in the grant and render, by which he himſelf taketh eſtate, no more then the conuſee ſhall do in the conuſans, for that is to defeat the eſtate which by the fine is given to him, nor the recoveror ſhall bring a Writ of Error to defeat the Record in which he himſelf doth recover; for the Judgment in the Writ of Error is to be reſtored to all that which he loſt by the fine or Judgment, and not to avoid and loſe that which he hath gained by the fine or Judgment. 7 E. 3. 25. A man ſhall not reverſe a Judgment for Error, if he cannot ſhew that the Error is to his diſadvantage, 8 H. 5. 2. b. F. N. B. 21. acc'. and afterwards the fine was affirmed. [b]

Paſch. 35 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Dormer's Caſe.

William Dormer Eſquire, ſon and heir of Jeffrey Dormer brought a Writ of Error upon a Judgment given in a Writ of Entry in the Poſt, upon which a common Recovery was had in the Court of Common Pleas, between John Crooker and George York demandants, and the ſaid Jeffrey tenant of the Mannor of Farninghoe cum pertinentiis, & ſex meſuagiis, ſex cotagiis, duodecim gardinis, 400 acres of lands, 60 acres of meadow, 400 acres of paſture, 2 acres of wood, 60 acres of moor and heath, and 40 s. rent in Farninghoe, and of one yearly rent or penſion of 4 Marks, exeunt' de Eccleſia ſive rectoria de Farninghoe in Com' Northampton; and the tenant vouched H. the common vouchee, and Judgment was given, Ideo conſideratum eſt quod prædictus Georgius & Johannes recuperent ſeiſinam ſuam verſus præfat' Galfridum de manerio, tenement', & reddit' prædict' cum pertinen', ac de advocatione Eccleſiæ prædict': Et quod idem Galfridus habeat de terra prædict' Henrici the vouchee, ad valenciam, &c. In this Record divers Errors were aſſigned. [40]

1. Becauſe the Writ of Entry was de uno annuali redditu ſive penſione quatuor marcarum exeun' de Eccleſia ſive rectoria; It was ſaid that that was erroneous for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe a penſion is properly a ſumm demandable in the Eccleſiaſtical Court, and a rent is a thing demandable by our Law. 2. The demand of rent, or penſion in the diſjunctive is utterly incertain, and every Præcipe ought to be of a thing certain, for although that the grant be in the diſjunctive, the Præcipe in a Writ of Annuity ſhall be of a thing certain, Vide 11 E. 3. Annuity 27. 5 E. 4. 6. And ſee in my Reports Sir Rowland Heyward's Caſe: But otherwiſe it is in Aſſiſe, Vide 3 E. 3. Aſſiſe 175. 11 Aſſ. 8. & 29 Aſſ. 7. 11 E. 3. Variancé 69. Alternativa petitio non eſt audienda.

Another Error was aſſigned, That a Writ of entry in the Poſt is not of an advowſon, as appeareth by the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 5. 4 E. 3. 162. 14 H. 4. 33. no more then of common of paſture, 4 E. 3. 146. 27 H. 8. 12. But the Judgment was affirmed by the whole Court. And in this Caſe four Points were reſolved.

1. That

1. That a common Recovery is not to be likened to a Judgment or proceeding in any other real Action for three cauſes. 1. Becauſe that now the ſame by uſage and cuſtom is become a common aſſurance and conveyance of lands, &c. for it may be averred to an uſe; and if tenant for life ſuffereth a common Recovery, it is a forfeiture. 2. That the ſame is had by mutual aſſent of the parties, & conſenſus tollit errorem, 39 E. 3. 1. the demandant and tenant conſent that two of the four in the writ of Right ſhall be Eſquires, where by the Law they ought to be Knights, and well, becauſe by conſent, 44 E. 3. 6. trial of Villenage doth alter the natural trial by conſent. 7 H. 6. 7. pleading of a feoffment in fee upon Condition without deed made and reentry is good, if the other party confeſs the Condition, 34 E. 3. Office de Court 12. If 12 be ſworn and one depart, another of the pannel by conſent may be ſworn with the 11 to give verdict. 11 H. 6. 13. The Court in a Quare Impedit by conſent may give longer day then is limited by the Statute of Marlebridge, 11 H. 4. The Statute of 2 E. 3. & 20 E. 3. provide, That neither for the great Seal nor petit Seal, Juſtice ſhall not be delayed; yet when the matter doth concern the King only, if he command it, it may be ſtayed, F. N. B. 21. b. 27 H. 8. A tenure may be created at this day by conſent of all, notwithſtanding the Statute of Quia emptores terrarum, 6 E. 6. Dier 78. By ſpecial conſent of the parties, a reentry may be for defaule of payment of rent without demand of it. And divers other Caſes were put where conſent of the parties ſhall alter the form and courſe of the Law. 3. Otherwiſe no aſſurance may be of an advowſon, commons in groſs, &c. to bar remainders or reverſions expectant upon eſtates tail: The ſame Law of Common of paſture, Franchiſes, Liberties, Priviledges, as to have Felons goods, &c. Waifs, Straies, &c. Et ſæpenumero neceſſitas vincit communem legem, & quod neceſſarium eſt, licitum eſt. As if two joyntenants be of land to them and to one of them, they ſhall not joyn in a writ of Right. But two joyntenants and to the heirs of one of them of an advowſon ſhall joyn in a Writ of Right of advowſon. And the reaſon of the differenoe is, becauſe that in the firſt Caſe they have ſeveral ways and remedies, as it is agreed in 46 E. 3. 21. But in the other Caſe if the tenant for life ſhall not joyn with him who hath the fee, neither the one nor the other ſhall have any remedy; and therefore in ſuch Caſe, neceſſitas vincit legem. See Sir William Pelhams Caſe in the firſt Reports.

[41] 2. As to the demand of the rent, or penſion of 4 marks iſſuing out of the Rectory, it was reſolved, That the Writ was good enough, for here is not any incertainty, for one of two ſeveral things is not demanded, but one thing only is demanded, for the demand is of a rent or penſion of 4 marks, ſo that there is not but one 4 marks. And in this Caſe redditus and penſio as the Caſe is are ſynonyma. For the latter words, exeunt de rectoria, prove it to be rent, for if it were but an annuity, then it ſhould not be iſſuing out of the Rectory, but the perſon in ſuch Caſe ſhall be charged in reſpect of the Rectory. And in 11 E. 3. Annuity 27. there one granted by deed quandam annuam penſionem unius robæ precii unius marcæ, vel unam marcam. 22 E. 3. 4. Lacies Caſe, there an Abbot granted quandam annuam penſionem, &c. and F. N. B. 231. b. the Writ of annuali penſione: By which it appeareth, that penſio & annuitas, or annualis redditus are all one, and principally in the Caſe at Bar, when it is alledged to be iſſuing out of the Rectory. And if a Writ be brought de redditu, ſive annuitate, exeunt' out of the mannor of D. it is good enough for the cauſes aforeſaid.

3. It was reſolved, that common Recoveries are ſo uſual, and their form and order of proceeding ſo notorious by appearances the firſt day, and gratis, &c. that the Law taketh knowledge of them; and therefore the Judges ex officio, without allegation of the party, ſhall take notice that they are Recoveries had by aſſent of the parties for aſſurances of lands, as in Wimbiſhe and Talboys Caſe, Plow. Comm. 56. Recovery in Formedon appeareth to Judges to be by conſent of parties, becauſe the tenant was not eſſoined, nor demanded the view, &c. but appeareth the firſt day and confeſſeth the Action. Vide Plow. Com. 515. in Stowels Caſe, that the common uſage in theſe Caſes of Recoveries is to be allowed, and that in them the intent of the parties is to be obſerved.

Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Rowland's Caſe.

[b] IN an Ejectione firmæ between John Rowland, alias Steyner Plaintiff, and William James, and William Sherive Defendants of lands in W. in the County of Worceſter, upon Not guilty pleaded the Jury found for the Plaintiff: And now it was moved in arreſt of Judgment, that upon the Venire facias no return was endorſed, nor any name of any Sheriff appeared upon the back of the Writ, nec quod executio brevis præd' patet in quodam panello, &c. but a pannel of the Jury with their Manucaptors was annexed and ſewed to the ſaid Writ; and alſo Tales was awarded, and pannel of Tales annexed, but no return of them, nor name of Sheriff to it, but the Poſtea made mention that they were returned by the Sheriff per mandatum Juſtic'. But it was moved that that would not ſerve, for the Sheriff ought to return the Jurors, and the Tales alſo; and where there is no return it is not remedied by the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 14. nor by any other Statute, but inſufficient returns, or which want form; And therefore a notable precedent was cited, and Judgement given in the Common Pleas, Trinit. laſt paſt, between Harbert Barney and others Plaintiffs, and Walkley Defendant, Trin. 35 Eliz. Rot. 1251. which followeth in theſe words; Poſtea continuato proceſſu inter partes præd' de placito prædict' per Jur' poſit' inde inter eos in respect' hic usque hunc diem, &c. Et modo ad hunc diem venerunt tam prædict' H. B. &c. quam præd' J. W. per attorn' suos præd': Et super hoc idem Johannes W. cur' hic dat. intelligi, quod quoddam breve de Venire facias hic duodecim, &c. inter partes præd' de placito præd', a die sanctæ Trin' in tres septiman' ultimo præterit', retornat' fuit album, & absque aliquo indorsamento sive scriptura super dorsum ejusdem brevis in ligulis Civitatis Glouc' annex', arraiat' inter brevia de tres septiman' sanctæ Trin' remanen' affilat', nullamque faciend' mentionem super breve illud de aliquo Vicecomite, qui retorn' brevis illius warrantizaret, nec quod executio patet in dicti' panell' eidem brevi annex', petendo quod breve illud una cum panell' de nominibus Jur' & proceſſ. inde retornat' adnihilent', & pro nullo habeantur. Super, quo brevi præd. ac dorso ejusdem brevis, una cum panell' annex', per Justic' hic vis. & inspect' dicti' allegatio dicti Johan' Walkeley comperta est vera. Ideo consideratu' est, quod præd' breve de Venire fac', ac panell' eidem brevi annexat. necnon totus processus superind' retornat', adnihilentur, & pro nullo habeantur. Et super hoc præd' H. B. &c. petunt breve dominæ Reginæ Venire facias de novo hic duodecim, &c. ad triandum exitum præd' superius junctum, & eis conceditur: Ideo præceptum est vicecomiti, quod venire faciat de novo hic in crastino sanctæ Trinit' duodecim, &c. per quos, &c. And note that the said Exception was taken after the verdict, as in our Case at Bar. And see the like precedent, Mich. 32 H. 8. Rot. 112. in the Commou Pleas: But there the Court would advise. And it was moved in the Common Pleas, 35 Eliz. in the said Case of H. B. that the said Writ upon examination might be endorsed and amended, & non allocatur; Et judicium ut supra. And so it was prayed in 32 H. 8. but there Curia advisare vult.

[42]

Mich. 44 & 45 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

The Countess of Rutlands Case.

IN Debt upon an Obligation of 500 l. brought by the Countess of Rutland: The Defendant pleaded to issue, and it was found for the Plaintiff. And now in arrest of Judgment it was shewed, That one Robert Moore was returned upon the Venire facias, and so named in the distress, but in the pannel before the Justices of Nisi prius, by misprision he was named Robert Mawre, and so upon the Postea; upon which it was said, That a stranger who was not returned was sworn and gave verdict; for which cause Judgment shall not be given. But it was resolved by the whole Court, that if it may appear upon examination, that his right name is Robert Moore, so that he is well named in the pannel upon the Venire facias, and also that he is the same man who was returned, and was sworn, there the Postea shall be amended. And to this purpose, vide 9 E. 4. 14. by Danby, & 19 H. 6. tit. Amendment Br. 37. 27 H. 6. 5. by which Booksit appeareth, That if one be well returned in the pannel of Venire fac', and misnamed in the Distringas, or Habeas corpor', that it was amendable; but the process against the Jurors was discontinued: But at this day after verdict judgment shall not be therefore stayed, for all discontinuances are remedied by the statute of 32 H. 8. and 18 Eliz. But at this day if a Juror be misnamed in the Pannel of venire fac'. although he be well named in all the subsequent process it cannot be amended. And so it was adjudged M. 35. & 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench in Codwels Case; And afterwards the Sheriff was examined, and upon examination it appeared that the true name of the Juror was Kobert Moore, and that the said Robert Moore who was returned appeared and gave his verdict; And thereupon for the reason aforesaid, the Record of the Postea was amended by the opinion of the whole Court. viz. Popham chief Justice, Clench, Gawdy, and Fenner.

[b]

Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Codwel's Case.

IN an appeal of Maihem between John Codwell Plaintiff, and Thomas Parker Defendant, the parties came to issue, and the Jury found for the Plaintiff; And now it was moved in arrest of Judgment that there was variance between the pannel of the Venire facias and the Distringas and Postea in the name of one of the Jury, who appeared and gave verdict, for in the pannel of the Venire facias he was named Palus Cheale, and in the Distringas and Postea he was Paulus Cheale; and because the name was misnamed in the Venire facias, and chiefly in his Christian name, the Judgment was stayed; but if he had been well named in the pannel of Venire facias, and misnamed upon the Distringas or in the Postea, upon examination it shall be amended.

Mich.

Mich. 37 & 38 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Nichol's Caſe.

Chamberlain brought debt againſt Nichols upon a ſingle Bill; The Defendant pleaded payment without acquittance, upon which they were at iſſue, and found for the Plaintiff; and although payment without acquittance is no plea, and iſſue is joyned upon a thing not material; for if the Defendant hath paid the ſum without acquittance, yet the ſingle Bill doth remain in force: But for as much as there was an iſſue joyned upon an affirmative and negative, which iſſue is found for the Plaintiff, it was expreſly helped by the Statutes of 32 H. 8. & 18 Eliz. and upon that the Plaintiff had Judgment; a Writ of Error was brought upon the new Statute, and there upon good conſideration the Judgment was affirmed. Quod nota.

Mich. 38 & 39 Eliz.

Bohun's Caſe.

[b] IN 23 H. 8. Grey and Elizabeth his wife being ſeiſed in the right of the ſaid Elizabeth of the Manner of Empoles in Weſthall in Suffolk, in the ſame year levied a fine thereof to Nicholas Bohun Eſquire and his heirs, by the name of the Mannor of Empoles, and of a great number of acres of lands, meadow, &c. according to the common form of fines; and the tenements were valued at 20 marks per annum, ſo that the fine in the Hamper was 26 s. 8 d. which was endorſed upon the Writ of Covenant; and alwayes the fine pro licentia concordandi (which is called the Kings ſilver, or the Poſt fine) is the fine in the Hamper, and half the ſaid fine more. As in this Caſe the fine in the Hamper was 26 s. 8 d. and the half is 13 s. 4 d. in all amounting to 40 s: and yet the Clark made entry of the Kings ſilver in this form, Nicholaus Bohun armiger' dat dominæ Reginæ 40 s. pro licentia concordandi, &c. in placito conventionis of ſo many acres of land, meadow, &c. leaving out the Mannor, and following the other words. And in this miſpriſion Aldam who was couſin and heir of the ſaid woman brought a Writ of Error in the King Bench, and the tranſcript of the ſaid fine. And Error aſſigned (amongſt others) in the ſaid Point, becauſe the Kings ſilver was not paid as well for the Mannor as for the tenements. And after that, the Judges of the Common Pleas were moved to amend this fine in open Court, and becauſe it appeared to them upon examination and upon ſight of all the parts of the fine, that it was but only the miſpriſion of the Clark who entred the Kings ſilver, and that the ſaid ſumm of 40 s. was in truth the fine as well for the Mannor as for the reſidue. And always the value entred upon the back of the Writ of Covenant, [44] is the warrant for the entry of the Kings ſilver; and although the tranſcript of the fine were removed by Writ of Error: yet for as much as the body of the Record did remain with them, they unanimouſly agreed, That the ſaid entry ſhall be amended, and ſhall be made in a Writ of Covenant of the Mannor aforeſaid, and of all the ſaid acres, &c. as it ought to be. And afterwards upon diminution alledged in the omiſſion of the ſaid Mannor, and the entry of the Kings ſilver, a Writ was directed to this purpoſe to the Lord Anderſon, who one day this Term moved all the Juſtices of Serjeants Inn in Fleetſtreet to know their opinions concerning the ſaid amendment in this Caſe depending the Writ of Error. And it was reſolved by Popham chief Juſtice of England, Periam chief Baron, Clark, Walmſley, Fenner, Owen, and Ewyns, That the ſaid Entry of the Kings ſilver ſhall be amended, and that pendant the Writ of Error. Alſo where the Writ of Covenant ſhould be Teſte meipſo, the Writ was, Deſte meipſo, which was inſenſible and vicious; and that was alſo amended by all their opinions.

Note Reader, theſe Precedents and Reſolutions of the Juſtices following in the like Caſes were ſhewed to the ſaid Juſtices before that they reſolved of the principal Caſe.

In Eſſex, Dowlings Caſe, &c. Fine levied, Hill. 6. E. 6. certified in a Writ of Error, Mich. 24 & 25 Eliz. and certificate by Writ of Certiorari Paſch. 26 Eliz. & Trin. 26 Eliz. ex aſſenſu omnium Juſticiar' de Regio Banco, & Communi Banco, & Baron' de Scaccario, pendant the Writ of Error, Proclamations endorſed ſuper pedem finis were amended, according to the Proclamations upon the note of the fine remaining with the Chirographer, ut patet per recordum. The Juſtices of the Kings Bench were then, Wray, Thomas Gawdy, Ayloffe, and Clench; And the Juſtices of the Common Pleas then were Anderſon, Mead, Windham, and Periam, and the Barons of the Exchequer were Manwood and Shute.

In Kent, Kettle's Caſe. The return of the Writ of Covenant was, Oct. Purif. 31 H. 8. and in truth was engroſſed Trin. ſequen. but was entred thus, ſcil. & poſt conceſſ. & recordat' in craſtin' ſanct' Trinit', anno 30 H. 8. where it ſhould be 32 H. 8. and thereupon a Writ of Error was brought; And pendant the Writ of Error, the Juſtices of the Kings Bench, by the Reſolution of Wray, Gawdy, Clench, and Shute (ſedente Curia) the Record was amended in theſe words, Et poſtea conceſſ. craſtin' Trinitatis 32. And upon that a Rule was entred in the Kings Bench Ter. Mich. 27 & 28 Eliz. And it appeareth by the said Rule that the Justices of the Common Pleas, that is to say, Anderson, Periam, Windham and Rhodes assented to it: And Rodes said, That there was a good president in 30 H. 8. ubi pes finis was amended by the note and the Proclamations, &c.

That

3. Morgan's Case in the County of Oxford, Certificatio notæ Judicis, scil. Concordia partium fuit in his verbis, In Præcipe de duabus partibus Rectoriæ, & de duabus part' tenem', & per vitium Clerici scriptor' in concordia, deforcian' recognovit partem ultim' quam, &c. & pes finis, & nota cum Chirograph.r' rectè ingrossant', viz. recognovit partes quas, ut illas quas, &c. And a Writ of Error depending upon this, Hill. 38. Eliz. emendatur certificatio Judicis per notam & pedem finis, per Curiam, before Judgment given in the Kings Bench; and thereupon the Plaintiff in the Writ of Error moved the Court of Common Pleas, that for as much as the Writ of Error was depending, that the fine might be in statu quo prius before the amendment; as it was certified before the Writ of Error certified. And the Justices of the Common Pleas, scil. Anderson, Walmesley, Beamont and Owen denied the motion, and awarded that the amendment should stand, although that it was after the Writ of Error brought. [b]

4. In Suffolk. Down's Case, Mich. 38 & 39. by the motion of Williams Serjeant at Law proclam' pedis finis were amended pro proclam' notæ, in these words, Upon the foot of the fine proclamation it was indorsed to be made 30 Julii, which was after Trinity Term ended; and upon the note of the fine it was 30 Junii, and well, and duly done, and emendatur per Curiam after Writ of Error brought; and that assigned for Error. And so in the principal Case the Roll of the Entry of the Kings silver was amended (a Writ of Error depending and that assigned for Error) according to the Writ of Covenant, the Note, the Foot, and the Certificate of the Judge in these words (de manerio de Empoles cum pertinentiis ac) which by the negligence of the Clark in the entry of the Kings silver was omitted in the Roll, and are fully extant the Writ of Covenant. Note Foot, and Certificate of the Judge: And because it appeareth that the whole summ was paid to the Queen as well for the Mannor, as for the residue, and so no prejudice to the Queen, it was amended, as is above.

5. Mich. 33 & 34 Eliz. between Pain and Covert; The Records (before amendment) were in Com' Sussex, and amended, and made Banc' as the truth was, And two other fines, M. 33 & 34 Eliz. were amended, and pro civitate (Eborum) made Eborum.

6. Sussex, Wealches Case, Cognitio Judicis. The Town in which, &c. was to be Salehurst, as the truth was, and the Writ of Covenant, Note and Foot were Salhurst, and it was amended, and made Salehurst per Curiam. And it is to be noted, Quod tales emendationes per mandatum Curiæ, intrantur in dorso Recordi, by the Rule of the Court.

Pasch. 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Freeman's Case.

ERror by Smith against Freeman in a Recovery in Wast: The Writ was in recital of the Statute of Glouc. Quod nullus faciat vastum, venditionem & destrictionem, &c. where it should be destructionem. And it was prayed that this original Writ might be amended, being but the misprision of the Clark, who hath mistaken one word in the Statute of Glouc. upon which the Writ was grounded. And the misprision was but in one letter, that is to say, destrictionem for destructionem. And the whole Court upon good debate and consideration at two several times resolved: 1. That the same was matter of substance; for districtio is a Latine word, and altereth the sense of the Statute. 2. That it cannot be amended by any Statute, for matter of substance in an original Writ is not remedied by any Statute, but matter of form only. [45]

Note well Reader, upon consideration of the Statutes of 14 *E.*3. *cap.*6. Stat' 1. 9 *H.*5. *cap.*4. 4 *H.*6. *cap.*3. 8 *H.*6. *cap.*12. 32 *H.*8. *cap.*20. & 18 *Eliz. cap.*14. If a Writ original in this Case want form, or contain false Latin, or vary from the Register in matter of form after Judgment, no Judgment shall be stayed or reversed. But if it want substance as in the Case at Bar, although it be misprision of the Clark, it is not remedied by any Statute. Vide 3 *E.*6.86. 10 *E.*3.482,553. 41 *E.*3.14. 45 *E.*3.6. 4 *H.*6.16. 7 *H.*6. 40. 21 *H.*6.8. 40 *Ass.*26. 11 *H.*6.34. 27 *H.*6.6. 27 *H.*6. Amendment 34. 28 *H.*6.8. 2 *H.*7.11. 9 *H.*7.16. 9 H. 7.19. 34 *H.*6.26. 35 *H.*6.10. 30 *H.*6.4. 8 *E.*4.4. 10 *E.*4.12. 11 *E.*4.14. 22 *E.*4.21,47. 13 *H.*7.21. 14 H. 7.13. Vide Mich. 3 E 6. Bendloes, the Justices of the Common Pleas in a Writ of Partition, added the word ostensurus, which was omitted: And in a Writ of Aiel they amended this word Ave, and made it Avie. [a]

Trin. 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Gage's Case.

IN a Writ of Error by Gage againſt Tawyer to reverſe a fine levied 4 Eliz. and aſſigned for Error that the Writt of Error bore date 24 Aprilis, returnable 15. Paſch. (which in truth was the 15 day of April) and ſo the return before the Teſte. And it was reſolved by the whole Courtthat it ſhall be amended; for a fine and common Recovery are but common aſſurances, made by conſent of the parties, and therefore ſuch miſpriſions may be amended. But in other Actions no amendment ſhall be in ſuch Caſe: And it was ſaid, That in 18 Eliz. between Norris and Braybrook a Writ of Error was brought to reverſe a Recovery in 19 H. 8. and the Teſte was a day after the Return; and becauſe it appeared, that it was the miſpriſion of the Clark, in caſe of common Recovery, it was amended. Vide 11 H. 6. 2. b.

Trin. 41 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Cooke's Caſe.

[46] CHallenour brought a Formedon againſt Cook of the Mannor of Iſſield in the County of Suſſex. The tenant pleaded in Bar a common Recovery againſt the donee in tail of the ſaid mannor; The Plaintiff pleaded, Nul tiel Record, upon which they were at iſſue; And the Record was Iſſield by drawing a ſtroke, and making an ſ. an f. ſcil. Iffield. And the Court was moved to amend it; and it was reſolved, That if it may appear to them, that it was the miſpriſion of the Clark, or corrupted after, that it ſhall be amended. And to induce the Court to it, the tenant ſhewed, that the Recoveror enfeoffed him who was tenant in tail by deed, which recited the Recovery by the name of Iſſield, and that he enfeoffed him by the ſame name, and divers conveyances after the Recovery, and all by the true name of Iſſield. And the Court agreed that it ſhould be amended, and the rather that it was a common Recovery which is ſuffered by aſſent of the parties for aſſurance of lands. And thereupon it was amended, and Judgment given againſt the demandant.

Caſes of Pardons.

Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. in the Star-chamber.

Franklin's Caſe.

[b] A Queſtion was referred to the conſideration of Coke the Queen's Sollicitor General, out of the Court of Star-chamber, between Downing Plaintiff, and Franklin, Heiden and others Defendants, upon the general Pardon, 19 Feb. 35 Eliz. and the Caſe was, That the Bill of Downing was exhibited into the ſaid Court five years before the laſt Parliament for Riots, Routs, &c. and what thing was pardoned by the ſaid general Pardon was the Queſtion: And that depended upon two branches of the ſaid Act, ſcil. And alſo except all penalties, forfeitures now due, accrued or grown, or which ſhall or may be due, accrue or grow to the Queens Majeſty by reaſon of an offence, miſdemeanor, or contempt, and whereof and for the which any Action, Bill, Plaint or Information at any time within 8 years next before the laſt day of this preſent Seſſion of Parliament, hath been or ſhall be exhibited, commenced, or ſued, and ſhall be there the laſt day of this Seſſion of Parliament depending or remaining to be proſecuted. And next following there is another Exception, ſcil. And alſo excepted out of this general and free Pardon, all offences, diſcords, covins, frauds, deceits and miſdemeanors, &c. whereof or for the which any ſuit by Bill, Plaint, &c. within four years next before the laſt day of this Seſſion of Parliament, is or ſhall be commenced, or exhibited: And upon conſideration of theſe two branches, the Sollicitor General did certifie, That the fine due to the Queen was excepted, and the Plaintiff or Attorney of the the Queen may proceed for the fine which is excepted, and that the Queen ſhall have it, for without proſecution the Queen cannot have a fine, nor the party his coſts. Et quando Lex aliquid alicui concedit, concedere videt' & id, ſine quo res ipſa eſſe non poteſt. But he certified, that the impriſonment, and all the corporal puniſhment in the ſaid Caſe was pardoned. For in the firſt of the ſaid two Exceptions the offence it ſelf is not excepted, but the forfeiture, penalty and profit due to the Queen. And therefore the impriſonment or any other corporal puniſhment is not excepted, for it is not included within theſe words, Forfeiture, penalty, or profit. But if the Bill had been exhibited within the four years, then the offence it ſelf being excepted, by conſequence all incidents are appendants to it, as well corporal, as pecuniary, are excepted. And therefore in ſuch Caſe nothing is pardoned: Which Certificate often times ſince hath been confirmed by the opinion of the Court of Star-chamber.

Hill. 39 Eliz. in the Star-chamber.

Guilbert Littleton's Caſe.

BEtween Guilbert Littleton Eſquire, Plaintiff, and the Lord Dudley and others Defendants, in the Star-chamber, the Caſe was; At the laſt Parliament which began 19 Feb. 35 Eliz. in the general Pardon is ſuch Exception: And alſo excepted out of this general Pardon all offences, &c. whereof, or for the which no ſuit by Bill, &c. at any time within four years next before the laſt day of this preſent [b] Parliament is, or ſhall be commenced or exhibited in the Court of Star-chamber, and now is, or the laſt day of this Seſſion ſhall be there depending. And the Bill was exhibited by Guilbert Littleton, Hillar. before the Parliament, and proceſs awarded returnable Paſch. next following, which was after the Parliament; And if this ſuit ſhall be ſaid depending before the return of the proceſs was the Queſtion. And firſt, it was objected, that the words of the Exception are, Suit by Bill depending, and it cannot be ſaid ſuit till the proceſs be returned. 2. It was obſerved, That in the next proceeding Exception concerning ſuits commenced within 8 years, there the concluſion is, Depending, or remaining to be proſecuted, which words (or remaining to be proſecuted) as it was ſaid, extend to Bills not depending, ſcil. when the proceſs is not returned, but no ſuch words are in this Exception. And to prove that the Bill was not returned before the proceſs returned, the Defendants Council reſembled it to Writs at the Common Law, where divers Books were cited, to prove that original Writs are not in Law depending before their returns, 21 E. 4, 55. a Writ it attamined as ſoon as it is ſealed, but it is not depending until it be returned, 18 H. 8. 5. acc. But it was anſwered and reſolved, That there was a great difference between original Writs purchaſed out of the Chancery, and returnable in the Common Pleas, or Kings Bench; for there in as much as the original cometh out of another Court, the Common Pleas, or Kings Bench hath not any Record before the return thereof: But in the Caſe at Bar, the Bill is exhibited in the Star-chamber, and proceſs iſſueth out of the ſame Court, and is returnable in the ſame Court; and therefore the ſuit by Bill ſhall be ſaid depending before the return, or ſerving of the Subpœna. And it was ſaid, that ſuit by Bill depending, and Bill depending are all one; for the Bill is, Origo rei & caput ſectæ, & res denominatur a principaliori parte: And the Attorney General ſaid, That where an original Writ is taken out of the Chancery returnable in the Common Pleas, or Kings Bench, in ſuch Caſe after the Writ ſhall be returned, the Writ ſhall be ſaid pendant from the day of the Teſte of it. And if the tenant alien before the return, and after the Teſte it ſhall be ſaid an alienation pendant the Writ; or if the Defendant take out another Writ before the return of the firſt Writ, it ſhall be ſaid a purchace pendant the firſt Writ. And it is ſaid in 9 H. 6. 54. that where a Writ of Covenant is purchaced to levy a fine, and before the return, Dedimus poteſtatem to recite, cum breve noſtrum de conventione pendeat; and yet the Writ of Covenant [48] then is not returned; and ſo is the common experience at this day, vide 2 E. 4. 11. If a Quare Impedit be delivered to the Sheriff in the Court of Common Pleas to be executed, it is pendant to this purpoſe, that the Plaintiff may have a prohibition for ſuit for the ſame cauſe in the ſpiritual Court: And a man may purchace his original Writ, and at the ſame time a Writ of Eſtrepement. Alſo the words of the Exception were obſerved, ſcil. Whereof no ſuit by Bill is, or ſhall be commenced, &c. and ſhall be depending the laſt day of this Parliament. In which this word (is) is to be intended, depending 19 Feb. which was the firſt day of the Parliament; but (ſhall be commenced) ought to be of neceſſity after the ſaid 19. day of Feb. which is always out of term. And becauſe it appeareth that the makers of the Act did intend, that the putting in of the Bill only into the Star-chamber after the 19 Feb. and before the ſaid laſt day, ſhall be ſaid depending; and ſo it appeareth that the ſaid words in the preceding Branch, ſcil. Depending or remaining to be proſecuted, are all one in effect; For which it was concluded, That in the Caſe at Bar, the Bill ſhall be within the true intendment of the ſaid Exception, to be ſaid depending. And thereupon ſentence in the Star-chamber did proceed againſt the Defendant in the ſaid Bill.

Pasch. 42 Eliz. in the Star-chamber.

Drywood's Case.

DRywood was Plaintiff against Appleton and others Defendants in the Star-chamber for Riots, and Routs, and other Misdemeanors; which Bill was brought before the last general Pardon in 39 Eliz. And afterwards the Queens Attorney informed for the same offences against the Defendants, and followed upon the first suit: And now a great Question was moved, If the said offences were pardoned [b] or not by the said general pardon. And it is to know, that the said Bill began four years before the last day of the said Parliament, and within the 8 years. And the doubt was conceived upon these words of exception of the said Pardon, scil. And now is, or the last day of this Session of Parliament shall be there depending, or remaining to be prosecuted: And it was said, That although that this suit was not depending, because the Plaintiff who followed for the Queen (for every suit in the Star-chamber is for the Queen and she may pardon it) was dead, yet it was said that these words (or remaining to be prosecuted) ought to have construction in Cases where no suit is depending, and yet may be prosecuted, and that is when the Plaintiff dieth, or will not follow it, then the Queens Attorney may prosecute it for the Queen. But it was resolved by the two chief Justices and the chief Baron, that these words, Or remaining to be prosecuted, ought to be construed, to be prosecuted by the party; And the said words, remaining to be prosecuted are added, to remove a scruple which some conceived, That a Bill shall not be said depending till the process be returned, although that in Judgment of Law, the Bill in such Case is said depending.

Mich. 39 & 40 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Vaughan's Case.

[49] IN a Writ of Error between Hall and Vaughan in a Writ of Entry in the quibus brought in Wales: The Defendant pleaded Non disseisivit, and pendant this plea the general Pardon in 35 Eliz. was made, by which all fines, amercements, contempts, &c. were pardoned, &c. and after divers continuances issue was found for the demandant, and Judgment given, sed non in maneria quia pardonatur. And the principal Error which was assigned was, because the Defendant ought to have been amerced, because the general Pardon did not discharge the amercement; for it was said that the wrong, or the disseisin was not the cause of the amercement, but the delay of the Plaintiff; for if the Defendants come the first day and render to the demandants, they shall not be amerced, as 14 E. 3. amerciament 16. 22 E. 3. 1 & 2. 8 R. 2. tit. amerciament 26. and divers other Books are agreed. And a Case was cited in the Common Pleas, M. 15 & 16 Eliz. where a Precipe was brought against an infant, and pendant the plea he came of full age, it was adjudged he should be amerced for the delay, as it was urged after his full age. So in the Case at Bar, for as much as there was delay as well after as before the pardon, and the amercement was wholly for delay, for this cause the pardon did not discharge it. But the Court resolved, the Judgment should be affirmed. And in this Case these Points were resolved.

1. That the original cause of the amercement in the Case at Bar was the wrong and contempt of the tenant that he did not render the land to the demandant, as he was commanded by the Kings Writ; and although the amercement cannot be imposed, nor the Queen entitled to it before the Judgment (because [b] that by the Judgment the wrong is discerned) and although the pardon cometh before the Judgment, yet the original cause of the amercement being pardoned, the amercement it self by consequence is pardoned, as in Cole's Case in Plowd. Com. 402. And in Quatermoigne's Case in 37 H. 8. 21. where it is agreed, that a general Pardon ought to be taken most beneficial for the Subject, and strong against the King.

2. It was resolved, That all Statutes of Jeofails extend to Wales, for the Statute of 27 H. 8. hath made it parcel of England. And afterwards the Judgment was affirmed. Note, he that doth wrong, and at the suit confesseth it, and obeyeth the Kings Writ shall not be amerced; for prudenter agit, qui præcepto legis obtemperat: But every one who doth wrong, and being commanded by the Kings Writ, quod juste & sine dilatione reddat, &c. and he injustly maintain the wrong upon Record in the Kings Court, and with great delay enforceth the demandant to recover it by course of Law, peccatum peccato addit, qui culpæ quam fecit patrocinia defensionis adjungit, and therefore he shall be amerced.

Hill. 41 Eliz. in the Exchequer.

Wyrral's Case.

HIll. 40 Eliz. Rot. 188. the Case was such; Thomas Wyrral and Jasper Bosvile were bound unto Tho: Thwaits, in a Recognisance in the nature of a Statute Staple 15 Feb. 35 Eliz. in 500 l. And afterwards the said Thwaits was outlawed in the County of York, 8 Octob. 38 Eliz. and afterwards the general Pardon at the last Parliament 39 Eliz. was made. And if this debt were pardoned or not was the Question now in this Term in the Exchequer. And that consists upon two Exceptions in the said Pardon, scil. And also except out of this Pardon all debts which were or be due to our Sovereign Lady the Queen, or to any to her use, by any condemnation, recognisance, obligation, or otherwise, &c. And [50] also except out of this Pardon, all goods, chattels, debts, actions and suits already forfeited, &c. by reason of an outlawry, or whereof her Majesty by her highness Letters Patents hath before the last day of this present Session made any grant, covenant, or promise to any person, or persons. And it was resolved by the last Exception it is proved, that the intention of the Queen was not to include debts which accrued to her by Outlawry within the first Exception; for there is a special saving, and in a special manner for them by the last exception. Also the general Pardon is to be taken most beneficial for the Subject, and most strong against the Queen.

Trin. 41 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Biggin's Case.

IN Appeal between Shugborough and Biggins, the Defendant was found guilty of man-slaughter; and the Question was if the Queen might pardon the burning of the hand. And it was objected, That the Appeal is the suit of the party; and now by the Statute of 4 H. 7. cap. 13. the burning of the hand is parcel of the punishment. As if it were enacted, That he who is attainted in Appeal of Maihem, shall have Judgment of death, in this Case if one were attainted in an appeal of Maihem, the Queen cannot pardon the execution of death, because it is the punishment of the offence at the suit of the party. But upon conference had with divers other Justices it was resolved, That the Queen might pardon the burning of the hand in an Appeal, and that for two reasons.

1. It appeareth by the said Statute of 4 H. 7. that at the Common Law a man who had once had the [b] benefit of his Clergy, should have it again, and so in infinitum, which was remedied by the said Act; so that the burning of the hand was to no other purpose but to signifie to the Judge whether he hath had his Clergy before or not.

2. The burning of the hand is not any parcel of the Judgment, for then the Queen could not pardon it, because that the Plaintiff hath interest in the Judgment, and for this cause the Case of maihem which was put on the other side was agreed. And so the doubt in Ellen Lamb's Case, 3 Eliz. Dier 201 & 202. and in Musgrave's Case in 9 Eliz. Dier 261. well explained. But there it is said, that the Queen cannot pardon the imprisonment, for that is parcel of the execution of the Plaintiff in the appeal. And Taverner's Case, 15 Eliz. Dier 323. was agreed by all, That the Queen may pardon the corporal punishment in Case of Forgery, because that all suits in the Star-chamber are but Informations for the Queen, although that the suit be exhibited by the party; and the Queen may pardon any offence for which any Subject complaineth there. But if Taverner had been attainted at the Common Law in an Action of Forgery of false deeds, there the Queen could not have pardoned it. 2. It was objected, That although the Queen may pardon the burning of the hand, yet the Defendant may be imprisoned at the suit of the party; for before the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 7. the King may in Case of Indictment of man-slaughter pardon the imprisonment, as appeareth in 15 H. 7. 9. but not in Appeal. And by the Statute of 18 Eliz. they cannot deliver the Prisoner before that he be burned in the hand. But it was resolved, that for as much as it was enacted by the said Statute of 18 Eliz. that after Clergy allowed, and burning in the hand, the Prisoner shall be presently at large, and delivered out of prison, which Act was resolved to extend to the Case of Appeal as to the Case of Indictment; and the Queen now hath pardoned the burning of the hand, for this cause the burning of the hand being discharged, the party also shall be discharged of his imprisonment by good construction of the same Act, otherwise the party should be lawfully discharged of his punishment, and yet remain perpetually in prison, which never was the intent of the makers of the Act. And thereupon Biggins was discharged.

Trin. 2 Jacobi, in the Common Pleas.

Hall's Case.

[51] ALice Cooke libelled in the Spiritual Court against Rowland Hall for defamation, for calling her feme puteine; and had sentence, and costs were taxed. Et decretum fuit quod prædictus Rowlandus Hall foret movendus, & citandus, ad solvend' expens. citra tale festum. From which sentence the Defendant did appeal, and before the Feast Hall obtained his pardon of the King; and thereupon got a Prohibition out of the Common Pleas. And in this Case four Points were resolved.

1. That in all Actions depending between party and party in the Spiritual Court, where the suit is only pro salute animæ, vel reformatione morum, as for defamation, or laying violent hands upon a Clark or the like, there the Kings pardon is a bar of the suit, for the suit is not to recover any damages, or any other thing, but only to inflict punishment upon the offender pro salute animæ; which punishment the King may pardon as well before as after the suit begun, for in truth such suits are only for the King, although they be prosecuted by the party, and likewise suits in the Star-chamber preferred by one subject against another, the King may pardon them; for although that a Subject prosecuteth them, yet the suits are for the King, and to punish the Defendants for their offences and misdemeanors by imprisonment and fine to the King. But if one libel for Tithes or contract of Matrimony, or for legacy, or the like, where the Plaintiff hath interest and property in the thing in demand, and sentence shall be given for him for the thing he libelleth, there the King cannot pardon the same neither before nor after the suit begun.

[b] 2. It was resolved that all proceedings in the Ecclesiastical Court ex officio are for the King. For which cause, whatsoever the suit is there the King may pardon it; for they are only to correct and punish the party for the offence, or sin, which the King may pardon, and not for the particular interest of the party.

3. It was resolved, That in the principal Case, although that the suit be for the King, the which the King may pardon, yet when sentence is given, and costs taxed for the Plaintiff, now the party hath a particular interest in them by the sentence, which the King cannot pardon, although that day be given for the paiment of them, ut supra. The same Law of suits aforesaid in the Star-chamber after sentence given, and costs taxed for the party, the pardon shall not discharge them. But if the pardon had been gotten before the sentence, there the pardon had discharged all, for then the Court could not have proceeded to any sentence of the principal, and by consequence not of costs, which are but accessory.

4. Although that the Defendant hath appealed, by which the sentence to divers purposes (by the opinion of Doctors by the Spiritual Law) is suspended, as it appeareth in 27 H. 6. Gard. 118. 2 R. 2. Quare Impedit 143. 1 H. 12. 2 Mar. 105. yet by the first sentence the party (notwithstanding the appeal) hath an interest in the costs, which could not be discharged by the Kings pardon. And therefore as to this purpose the first sentence is not suspended by the appeal. And afterwards a Consultation was granted for the Costs.

Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer.

Page's Case.

[52] IN an Information against Page and his wife for intrusion in certain houses in Lyn Regis in the County of Norfolk, upon demurrer, the Case was such; Indy seised of the said houses in fee, holden in Socage, by his Will in writing devised them to his wife (now the wife of Page, who was an alien born) and before the death of Indy the Queen by her Letters Patents under the great Seal made the said woman denizen, and afterwards Indy died; and the said Letters Patents under the great Seal were corrupt and raced in the Teste, so that now as it was raced and corrupted they bore date after the death of Indy, and upon that Page and his wife got an exemplification of the inrolment of the Letters Patents in the Chancery under the great Seal, which was with the true Teste according to the truth. And after an Office was found before certain Commissioners, by force of a Commission directed to them under the Exchequer Seal, by which it was found that the said woman was an alien born, &c. And in this Case these Points were resolved by Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, and the whole Court of Exchequer.

1. That the Office was insufficient and void for divers causes. 1. Because the office found by force of a Commission under the Exchequer Seal is not sufficient to entitle the Queen to the lands of an alien born: For there are two manner of offices; one that vesteth the estate and possession of the land, &c. in the Queen, when she had not any right or title before, and that is called an office of entitling: As in Case of purchace by an alien, ar the Kings Villain, or by any body Politick or Corporate in Mortmain, or by a person attainted of felony, and the like: And such office which concerneth freehold ought to be by force of of a Commiſſion under the great Seal of England. There is another office, and that is called an office of Inſtruction, and that is when the eſtate of the land is lawfully in the King before, but the particularity of the land doth not appear of Record, ſo that it may be put in charge. As if one be attainted of high Treaſon, all his lands, &c. are preſently by the Statute of 33 H. 8. cap. 20. in the King: Or if the Kings Tenant committeth felony and is attained, and dieth, in theſe and the like Caſes the eſtate of the land without office is in the King: But it doth not appear to the Court of Exchequer, of what lands the perſon attainted was ſeiſed of, at the time of his attainder or after, and if that be found by office by force of a Commiſſion under the Exchequer Seal, it is a ſufficient Record to inſtruct the King of the certainty of the land, &c. by which it may be put in charge. [b]

2. It was reſolved, That the office was inſufficient, becauſe it doth not appear what authority the Commiſſioners had, but generally, Inquiſitio capta, &c. coram, &c. virtute cujuſdam Commiſſionis eis direct', and for divers other groſs imperfections the office was adjudged inſufficient.

3. It was reſolved, That in the Caſe of an alien, perſon attainted, ſo long as he liveth, the Kings Villain, alienation in Mortmain, condition broken, alienation contra formam collationis, and the like, the inheritance of freehold of the land is not veſted in the King till office found under the great Seal, for that is an office of entitling. Vide 35 E. 3. Villenage 22. 8 E. 4. 4. 9 H. 7. 2. Mortmain, 2 H. 7. 8. Condition 29 H. 8. Charter de Pardon 26. If an alien and a Subject born purchace lands to them and to their heirs, they are joyntenants, and ſhall joyn in an Aſſiſe, and the ſurvivor ſhall hold place till office found. Plow. Com. Nichols Caſe, fol. 477. & 11 Eliz. Dier 282. alien nee. Vide Stanf. Prærogat. Regis, cap. 18. fol. 53.

4. The great Queſtion of the Caſe was, If the Defendants ſhould plead the ſaid exemplification of the inrolment of the ſaid Letters Patents of alienation, by force of the Statute of 3 E. 6. cap. 4. or 13 Eliz. cap. 6. And it was objected, that neither an exemplification, nor a conſtat of any Letters Patents were pleadable at the Common Law, as appeareth by the preambles of both Statutes; and that this Caſe of Denization was out of the words of both Statutes, for the words of the purview of the Statute of 3 E. 6. are, All and every perſon or perſons, bodies Politick or Corporate, which lawfully have or may claim by force of any Patent made ſince the 4. of Feb. 27 H. 8, &c. and all other that now have, or hereafter ſhall have any good or lawful eſtate, right, title, rent, profit, &c. of, in, to, or out of any lands, tenements, hereditaments, or offices under any ſuch Patentee or Patentees, &c. ſhall and may, &c. make and convey to themſelves title unto the ſaid honours, lands, tenements, offices, and other the premiſſes, [53] by, from and under the ſaid Patentees or any of them, &c. by ſhewing forth of any exemplification or conſtat of the roll, &c. And in the Caſe at Bar, the woman doth not claim any eſtate, right, title, &c. of or in any lands, tenements, &c. by force of any Letters Patents, but only to be made denizen, which extendeth only to ability and capacity of her perſon, and not to any lands, tenements, &c. nor unto any thing iſſuing out of them. And it was objected, That this Caſe was out of the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 6. for the letter of that is, that all and every Patentee and Patentees, their heirs, ſucceſſors, executors and aſſignees, and all and every other perſon and perſons, having by or from them or any of them, or under their title any eſtate, or intereſt of, in or to any lands, tenements or hereditaments, or any other thing whatſoever to ſuch Patentee or Patentees heretofore granted, &c. For which it appeareth for the reaſon aforeſaid, that he who claimeth to be made a denizen is out of theſe words; alſo the Statute doth intend ſuch hereditament, or thing only as may be aſſigned or transferred over, which appeareth by the ſaid words. And all and every perſon and perſons having by or from them, &c. any eſtate, &c. of, in or to any lands, &c. to ſuch Patentee, &c. granted. But when the Queen by her Letters Patents maketh one a denizen, the ſame is an individual and incident inſeparable to the perſon of him who is made denizen which cannot be paſſed over, and therefore this Caſe is out of the ſaid Act: But it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court.

1. That true it is, that an exemplification, nor a conſtat was pleadable, and to be ſhewed to the Court at the Common Law, becauſe they were but the tenor of the inrolment, and the tenor of a Record is not pleadable by the Law. And with this agreeth the preamble of both the ſaid Statutes, and the Statute of 6 R. 2. cap. 4.

2. It was reſolved, That the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. did extend to the ſaid Letters Patents of denization; for it was a great Queſtion conceived upon the ſaid Act of 3 E. 6. Whether the Patentee himſelf might plead the exemplification or conſtat of inrolment of his own Letters Patents by reaſon of the ſaid words in the body of the ſaid Act, Shall and may, &c. make and convey to themſelves title, &c. unto the ſaid honours, lands, tenements, &c. by, from or under the ſaid Patentees, &c. So that by the words of the Act, the Patentees themſelves were left to the Common Law, vide 1 Eliz. Dier 167. Sir Thomas Wrothes Caſe; for the remedy whereof, the Act of 13 Eliz. was made, which is more liberal and beneficial than the ſaid Act of 3 E. 6. for the ſame by expreſs words extendeth to all Patents whatſoever, without any reſtraint: For it was reſolved that theſe words, All and every Patentee and Patentees, their heirs, ſucceſſors, executors and aſſignees, is a diſtinct clauſe of it ſelf, and extendeth to all Letters [b] Patents whatſoever, either concerning lands, &c. or perſons, &c. or any thing, or matter whatſoever. And in the next clauſe the words are, any lands, tenements, hereditaments, or any thing whatſoever. And afterwards towards the end, as ſhall and may ſerve to and for ſuch title, claim or matter; and therefore this Act doth extend to Letters Patents of creation of Dukes, Marqueſſes, Earls, Viſcounts and Barons. Alſo to pardons of Treaſons, Felonies, &c. Outlawries, Infranchiſements of Villains, and all other Letters Patents which at the time of the exemplification or conſtat are in force, not lawfully ſurrendred, or cancelled, concerning any inheritance, free-hold or Chattels, or any other thing, or matter real, perſonal, or mixt whatſoever. Vide the opinion of Meruin in 32 H. 8. tit. Patents Br. that a conſtat was pleadable at the Common Law, but not an Inſpeximus. And the opinion of Fiſher, 12 H. 7. 12. b. and ſee Lib. Entries, Aid granted upon pleading of a conſtat. But by this Reſolution you will better underſtand the Law in theſe Caſes.

Note

Note Reader, that for as much as the said Acts of 3 E. 6. & 13 Eliz. extend to make an exemplification or constat of the inrolment of Letters Patents pleadable, it is requisite to shew you the difference between an exemplification and a constat, and the signification also of these words by which Letters Patents are commonly named, Inspeximus, Innotescimus, Vidimus; And it is to know, that an Exemplification, and an Inspeximus, as an Innotescimus and Vidimus are all one: An Inspeximus or Exemplification beginneth in this form; Eliz. Dei gratia, &c. omnibus, &c. inspeximus irrotulament' quarund' literarum paten', &c. and reciteth them word by word, and concludeth in such form, Nos autem tenorem literarum paten' præd, &c. ad requisitionem A. B. duximus exemplificand' per præsentes. In cujus rei testimonium, &c. And it is called Inspeximus, because it beginneth after the Kings style, with this word, Inspeximus; And it is called Exemplification a re ipsa, because the Record is thereby exemplified, as appeareth by the end of it, duximus exemplificand' per præsentes. And a constat after the Kings style beginneth; Constat nobis per Inspectionim Rot' Cancel' nostræ quod dominus Henricus nuper Angliæ octavus pater noster præcharissimus, literas Patentes fieri fecit in hæc verba: Henricus Dei gratia, &c. and recite all the Letters Patents word by word, and conclude, Nos autem pro eo quod literæ nostræ Patent' prædict' sunt casualiter amissæ, sicut A. B. nobis in Cancellar' nostra personalit' constit' sacram' præstitit corporale, & quod ipse literas præd', si eas imposter' [54] reperir' contigerit, nobis in Cancell' nostram præd' restituerit cancelland' tenorem irrotulament' præd' ad requisitionem J. S. duximus exemplific' per præsentes. In cujus, &c. And is called a constat, because that after the Kings style it beginneth with this word, Constat, &c. And it is to be observed, That by none of them any thing is to be exemplified, but the tenor of the Record. Also by that it appeareth, that a man cannot have a constat without an affidavit, as by the form of the constat appeareth. But an Inspeximus may be without Affidavit. An Innotescimus or Vidimus are all one, and are always of a Charter of feoffment, or some other instrument which is not of Record; and the Innotescimus beginneth in this form; Regina, &c. omnibus, &c. Inspeximus quoddam script' fact' per A. B. Radulpho D. sigill' ipsius A. sigill' (ut dic') in hæc verba: Sciant præsentes, &c. and recite the Instrument word by word.. Et hoc omnibus quorum interest aut interesse poterit in præmissis Innotescimus per præsentes. In cujus rei, &c. And it is called Innotescimus, because of this word Innotescimus in the end of it. And sometimes it beginneth, Vidimus quoddam scriptum, &c. and then it is called a Vidimus; For the antiquity of an Inspeximus or Exemplification in the form that now is used, I have read in the Chronicles of the Monastery of S. Martin of Battaile, that King Henry the first invented the said form; for these are the words of the Chronicle, Contigit unam ex chartis Will' fundatoris de Bello vetustate dissolvi, unde Odo Abbas a Rege Hen. petiit, ut sigillo suo remunis renovet'. Rex assentit. Ac ubi in chartis antiquis, posterior solet mention' facer' prioris in hujusmodi verbis: Sicut charta talis Regis vel hominis testatur. Rex Henr', ne clausula illa rescriberet', sed aliam antea inusitat', ipse dictavit hoc modo: Quoniam inspeximus chartam Will', &c. (reciting the whole first Chapter) Et inclytus Rex reddidit hanc rationem facti sui. Si enim (inquit) clausula, quæ suppressa est, minime inserta fuisse charta posterior sine prio' modicum conferret, nunc vero, nulla de præcedente facta mentione, hæc charta sola sufficit, etiamsi omnes alii deperiissent, quoniam ego ipse, quæ in persona vidi testifico.

Mich. 30 & 31 Eliz. in the Common Pleas.

Knight's Case.

[b] IN an Action of Trespass between Knight and Breech, the Case was; The Prior of S. Johns of Jerusalem, anno 29 H. 8. made a lease by deed indented with the assent of his Covent under their common Seal, of divers houses in Clerkenwell in the County of Midd. for years yet enduring, yielding the yearly rent of 5 l. 10 s. 11 d. at four Feasts in the year, usual in the City of London, scil. for one house 3 l. 11 d. for another house 20 s. and for the other houses several rents residue of the said rent of 5 l. 10 s. 11 d. with Condition that if the said rent of 5 l. 10 s. 11 d. be behind in part or in all, at any of the said Feasts, that then the Prior and his successors should reenter. And afterwards the said Priory and all the possessions thereof came to King H. 8. by surrender of the said Prior and his Covent, and by the Statute of 31 H. 8. which King H. 8. in the 36 year of his reign by his Letters Patents under his great Seal granted one of the houses (for which 20 s. of the rent was for the said lease reserved) to the lessee and another in fee, and afterwards the lessee died; And afterwards it was found by inquisition, by force of a Commission under the Exchequer Seal, that 37 s. 5 d. parcel of the said rent of 5 l. 10 s. 11 d. reserved by the said demise for the residue was behind at the feast of S. Michael then for a quarter of a year then last past: And that the said feast of S. Michael was one of the usual feasts in London; and that after the Queen, and before the Commission returned, and before any entry or seisure by her, by her Letters Patents under the great Seal, granted the residue of the houses to one in fee, who made the lease to the Plaintiff Knight, upon which Breech the Defendant assignee of the Executor of the first lessee entred, against whom Knight the Plaintiff brought an Action of Trespass. And this notable Case was often argued at Bar in the Common Pleas, and openly by the Justices at two several days; and because that the Court was divided in opinion, this Case was argued in the Exchequer Chamber before all the Justices of England. And after arguments at Bar, and divers conferences had amongst the Justices at Serjeants Inn it was adjudged for the Plaintiff: And in this Case these Points were resolved.

1. That

1. That it was one intire leaſe, and conſiſted upon ſix unities: 1. The demiſe is made by one word of demiſe. 2. To one leſſee. 3. To have one beginning. 4. One term of years. 5. One determination of it. 6. One reſervation of rent in groſs at the firſt; and the (videlicet) afterwards doth not make ſeverance of it as this Caſe is, but is rather a ſeveral declaration of ſeveral values of each parcel, by which it appeareth how and for what rates the whole rent of 5l. 10s. 11d. is reſerved. But it was reſolved, that upon one leaſe ſeveral yearly rents by apt words may be reſerved, for the reſervation of the rent is not of the ſubſtance of the leaſe, for the leaſe may conſiſt without any reſervation, either for part, or for all. And therefore if a man make a leaſe to B. of the Mannors of Dale, Sale and Down, to have and to hold to him the ſaid mannors for 21 years, rendring yearly out of the mannor of Dale 10l. in this Caſe the mannor of Dale is only charged with the ſaid rent, and the mannors of Sale and Down are not charged with it; And in this Caſe the rent is incident to the reverſion of the mannor of Dale only; and if in this Caſe the leſſor granteth over the reverſion of the mannors of Sale and Down, yet all the rent of 10l. doth remain with the leſſor, and the leſſor or his leſſee cannot diſtrain for this rent in the mannors of Sale and Down: And in the ſame Caſe the leſſor might have reſerved a rent of 5l. out of the mannor of Dale during 5 years, and 10l. out of the mannor of Sale during 10 years after, and one upon a Condition precedent, another upon Condition ſubſequent, and the third abſolutely, and to be paid at ſeveral days and places; in which Caſes without queſtion the rents are ſeveral, and for the rent of the one, the leſſor cannot diſtrain in any of the other: And a ſurrender of one mannor ſhall not extinct the rents for the other. And therewith agreeth 14 Eliz. Dier in Winter's Caſe 308 & 309. by three Juſtices, 17 E. 3. 75. b. 17 Aſſ. p. 10. & 9 E. 3. 12. And ſuch conſtruction agreeth with the true intent of the parties, which is always to be obſerved, when the ſame by reaſonable conſtruction may ſtand with the rule and reaſon of the Law. Vide 29 E. 3. 39. 29 Aſſ. p. 52. 18 Eliz. Dier 350. 5 [b] Aſſ. p. 6. 7 Aſſ. p. 1. 15 Aſſ. p. 11. But in the Caſe at Bar it was reſolved, that the rent was entire, becauſe the leſſor doth reſerve the yearly rent (in the ſingular number) of 5l. 10s. 11d: and afterwards when the leſſor cometh to his condition for payment of the ſaid rent, the condition is alſo in the ſingular number, ſcil. if the ſaid rent of 5l. 10s. 11d. be behind in part or in all, ſo that the ſame doth agree with the words of the Indenture (which import the intent of the parties) that in this Caſe it ſhall be one intire rent; and if it ſhall be ſeveral rents, then queſtion may be made of the validity of the condition which extendeth to the ſaid rent, &c. in the ſingular number, Sed benigne faciendæ ſunt interpretationes chartarum propter ſimplicitatem laicorum, ut res magis valeat quam pereat. And by this conſtruction all the parts of the ſaid Indenture well agree with themſelves, and with the Law alſo. And the difference between this Caſe and Winter's Caſe is, becauſe that there the reſervations are ſeveral, and here (upon conſideration of the whole Indenture) intire, quod nota.

2. It was reſolved, That admitting they had been ſeveral rents, yet for as much as the condition was intire, giving one intire entry into the whole for default of payment of any part, by the ſeverance of any part of the reverſion (if it were in the Caſe of a common perſon) all the condition ſhall be deſtroyed. And therewith agreeth the Judgment in Winter's Caſe, 14 Eliz. Dier 308, 309.

3. The great doubt was, Whether the ſame being in the Kings Caſe, if the condition by the ſeverance of part of the reverſion ſhall be deſtroyed or apportioned. And, 1. It was objected, That the leaſe in the Caſe at Bar was made by common perſons, and the reverſion thereof was inveſted in the King by their ſurrender, and by the act of 31 H. 8. in which Caſe the King cannot take the ſame in other manner than the ſubject had it before. For the Parliament which gave the ſame to the King, ſhall bind the King as well as the Subject, and his prerogative ſhall not be extended to do wrong or injury to any Subject, as it is holden in 13 E. 4. 8. a. 19 H. 6. Br. Quinzim. 5 E. 3. 6. 17 E. 3. 40. Stamford 543. Plow. Comm. Nichols Caſe 246. 2. It was objected, That if the Condition in this Caſe ſhall be divided, the Law and nature of the thing ſhall be altered by the Kings grant, and that the King cannot do; for he cannot alter nor change the Law, or Cuſtom of the land by his Patent. Vide 11 H. 4. 73. 37 H. 8. Patents Br. 100. &c. If the Condition ſhall be divided, he ſhall make two Conditions of one, and the leſſee ſhall be ſubject to two, and for the not payment of the rent to one, the other ſhall enter, and many abſurdities would follow thereupon; all which ſhall be avoided, if according to the Rule of Law the Condition ſhall not be divided. But upon great deliberation, the Juſtices of the Common [56] Pleas having divers conferences with Wray chief Juſtice of England, Manwood chief Baron of the Exchequer, and all other the Juſtices, at laſt, upon mature conſideration it was reſolved, that the Patentee of parcel, ſhould not take advantage of the Condition. But it was alſo reſolved, That as to the reſidue the condition doth remain with the reverſion which the King hath, and ſo no prejudice to any party, nor wrong done to any by the Kings prerogative, nor the King by his grant doth not alter the Law. For the Law doth make a difference between the Kings grants, who always is preſumed to intend ardua regni pro bono publico omnium, &c. and the grants of Subjects who may follow their private buſineſs, for the grants of Subjects ſhall be always taken ſtrong againſt them, but the grants of the King ſhall be interpreted by a favourable and beneficial interpretation, ſo that no prejudice ſhall grow to him by conſtruction or implication upon his grant more than he truly intended by it. And therefore if the King grant land to J. S. and his heirs, and in truth J. S. is the Kings Villain, it ſhall not enfranchiſe the Villain by implication. The ſame Law of an alien born, 17 E. 3. 39. Advowſon of a Prebend holden of the King was aliened to an Abbot and his ſucceſſors; and the King granted to the Abbot and his ſucceſſors, That the Abbot and his ſucceſſors ſhould hold the Prebend to his own uſe, yet he ſhall ſeiſe the advowſon for the alienation in Mortmain, and ſhall deſtroy the appropriation, for he ſhall not be ouſted of his right to the advowſon by implication. And in 2 K. 3. 4. 21 E. 4. 46. & 34 H. 6. If two are indebted to the King, and the King releaſeth to one it ſhall not diſcharge the other. And in 6 H. 7. 15. 11 H. 7. 10. if the King releaſeth all demands, a right of inheritance ſhall not be releaſed. 21 H. 7. 7. The King grants lands in fee upon condition that he ſhall not alien, the ſame is good; but in all these Cases it is otherwise in the Case of a common person. And in many Cases the King who claimeth by a Subject shall be in better case in respect of the dignity and prerogative incident by the Law to the person of the King, then the Subject himself by whom he claimeth. As if the King had a rent seck by attainder of Treason, or by grant, he shall distrain for the same not only in the land charged, but in all his other lands, and yet the Subject by whom he claimeth shall not distrain for the same. If a Subject have a Recognisance or Obligation, and afterwards is outlawed, or attainted, the King shall seise all the land of the conusor, or obligor, whereas he himself can have but a moity: So in the Case at Bar, the King shall take advantage of the Condition without demand, and yet the Prior himself under whom [b] the King claimeth cannot reenter for default of payment of the rent without a demand. And if the King purchace a Seigniory of which land was holden by posteriority, the King shall be in better condition than the Subject from whom he claimeth, and shall have the priority. And so shall his grantee have in such Case, as it is holden in 24 E. 3. 65. Garde 27, 47.

4. It was resolved, That although there was 37 s. 5 d. which was found to be behind at Michaelmas, which was more than was due at any one quarter of the year, yet that sufficeth for the King when the office hath matter and substance, for the sole and substantial point which proveth the breach of the Condition, is the not payment of the rent, or any part of it, and it is not material how much rent was behind, for if any part was behind it sufficeth; and the party who traverseth, ought not to traverse that the said sum of 37 s. 5 d. was behind, but that the said sum of 37 s. 5 d. or some part of it was behind; and every office being the finding of Lay people which hath matter of substance, shall serve the King, although the manner of it be not so formal as it may be. And therefore if it be found, that the rent for one whole quarter was behind, and in truth but part of it was behind, it shall suffice for the King. Also that the Jurors in Midd. might find which were the usual Feasts in London being another County.

5. It was resolved, That although without office the lease was not void, because that one clause of reentry is only reserved, as appeareth before, and no limitation, that for non payment the lease shall be void, and although the office be not returned before the date of the Patent; yet for as much as the office was found before the grant, and afterwards it was returned of Record, the grant was good, and that in this Case of reentry, by the office without seisure, the lease was void.

6. It was resolved, Although the Commission was under the Exchequer Seal, yet for as much as thereby a chattel, scil. a lease for years shall be void, the Inquisition found by force thereof was good enough, although the Commission were not under the great Seal.

And so note a difference between this Case and Pages Case before. And afterwards the Plaintiff according to these Resolutions had Judgment to recover.

Hill. 32 Eliz. in the Kings Bench in a Writ of Error.

Specot's Case.

[57] HUmfrey Specot Esquire, and Elizabeth his wife, Pasch. 28 Eliz. brought a Quare Impedit against the Bishop of Exeter, and counted, that John Arscot was seised of the Mannor of Tedcote in the County of Devon, to which the advowson of the Church of Tedcote was appendant in fee, and held the same in Socage; and so seised, 1 Jan. 4 & 5. Phil. & Mary, by his Will in writing devised the said Mannor with the appurtenances to which, &c. to the said Elizabeth for term of her life, and died, by which Elizabeth entred into the said mannor, and was thereof seised for term of her life, and took husband the said Humfrey, and they presented to the said Church aforesaid then being void David Walter, who was admitted, instituted and inducted in time of peace, &c. And afterwards the Church became void by the death of the said David Walter, and yet is void; and so it doth appertain to the Plaintiff to present, and that the Bishop did disturb him, &c. The Bishop pleaded, that the said Church was within his Dioces, and that he hath nothing, nor claimeth nothing in the said Church, &c. but admission, institution, and induction of the Incumbent. And that the said Church is a Benefice with Cure of souls, &c. And that the said David Walter 24 Nov. 27. died, and that the said Church became void, ipso Episcopo ad tunc ejusdem Ecclesiæ Ordinario existen'. Et ulterius idem Episcopus dicit quod prædict' Humfrid' infra sex menses, proxim' post mortem prædict' David, apud civit' Exoniæ, in Com' ejusdem civit' præsentavit eidem Episcopo tunc Ordinar' Ecclesiæ præd' quendam Johannem Holmes ut clericum suum, ad Ecclesiam prædictam sic vacantem, eundem Episcopum requirent', quod ipse eundem Johannem Holmes admitteret, ipsumque in ead' Ecclesia instituer', induci facere dignaret': Super quo idem Episcopus, ut Ecclesiæ præd' Ordinarius, apud, &c. prædict' Johann' Holmes sic præsentat' de habilitate & idonietate sua in hac parte, secundum Leges Ecclesiasticas examinavit, ut de Jure debuit: Et super hujusmodi examinationem suam, idem Episcopus ad tunc & ibidem invenit præfat' Johannem Holmes fore schismaticum inveteratum, ac eundem Johannem Holmes ea occasione per legem sacrosanct' Ecclesiæ fore personam inhabilem, & minime idoneam, ad acceptandum aliquod beneficium cum cura animarum, per quod idem Episcopus ut Ecclesiæ illius Ordinarius adtunc & ibidem recusavit admittere prædict' Johannem Holmes ad Ecclesiam prædictam; and pleaded that he of the cause of refusal aforesaid gave notice to the said Humphrey, &c. upon which the Plaintiff did demurr in Law: And it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, That the Bishops plea was insufficient, because that he shewed ſhewed generally that he was ſchiſmaticus inveteratus. And upon this Judgment a Writ of Error was brought in the Kings Bench by the ſaid Biſhop, and two Errors were aſſigned within the Record.

1. Becauſe that no preſentment was alledged in the deviſor, but only in the deviſees for life; but it was not allowed, for the preſentment of the leſſee is a ſufficient title for him without queſtion, 8 H. 5. 10.

2. Error was aſſigned, That the Court erred in Law in giving Judgment againſt the Biſhop for the inſufficiency of his plea, where his plea was ſufficient. And it was objected by the Biſhops Councel, that the Biſhop ought not to ſhew any particular Schiſm, for if he ſhew the ſame, the Court cannot either decide, or determine it, or examine it, becauſe it is a ſpiritual thing which lieth not in their conuſans, as it is holden 27 H. 8. 14. That for calling a man Heretick no Action upon the Caſe lieth in our Law, for thoſe of the Common Law cannot determine what is Hereſie; And in 15 H. 7. 7, 8. it is agreed by all the Juſtices, That the Biſhop in examination is Judge, and not a Miniſter, and therefore the Law giveth faith and credit to his Judgment. And it was ſaid, That it is a good cauſe to remove a Coroner from his office generally, becauſe he is minus idoneus ad officium illud exequend', as appeareth by the Regiſter and F. N. B. 163. But it was anſwered and reſolved, That the plea of the Biſhop was inſufficient. Firſt, it is declared by the Statute De Articulis Cleri cap. 14. that De idonietate præſentat' ad beneficium pertinet examinatio ad Judicem Eccleſiaſticum, &c. ut propter defect' ſcientiæ & aliarum cauſarum rationabilium: So that it appeareth that there ought to be reaſonable cauſe, & cauſa vaga & incerta non eſt rationabilis, for it is commonly ſaid, Quod doloſu verſatur in univerſalibus: And by the reaſon which hath been made, that the general allegation of the Plaintiff ſhall be good in the Caſe at Bar, is good, becauſe that the Biſhop in examination is Judge; By the ſame reaſon it may be maintained that he may refuſe any Clark, becauſe that he is not idoneus generally, or becauſe he is criminoſus generally: But although that he is Judge in examination, yet for as much as the proceedings of the Biſhop are not of Record, the cauſe of the refuſal is traverſable, and if it be traverſed, and the party refuſed be alive, it ſhall be tried by the Metropolitan, and if he be dead, it ſhall be tried by the Country. And if ſuch general allegation of Biſhops ſhall be admitted (to which the Patron ſhall not have anſwer, becauſe the Biſhop in his examination is Judge, the cauſe being ſpiritual, as it hath been objected) Patrons ſhould ſuffer great prejudice in theſe times in their Preſentation: In 38 E. 3. 2. the Biſhop Plaintiff ſhewed for cauſe of refuſal that the preſentee had acknowledged himſelf to be perjured, &c. and ſo criminoſus, by which it appeareth, that the alledging that he is criminoſus generally is not good, for no certain iſſue can be taken thereupon. And it is doubted there if the Biſhop ought not to ſay in facto that he is perjured, and not that he hath confeſſed that he is perjured. In 5 R. 2. Trial 54. it was agreed for good Law, That if a miſcreant or ſchiſmatick be preſented, admitted, and inducted, it is a good cauſe of deprivation. So if he be irreligious he may be refuſed, as it is ſaid in 5 H. 7. 6. But when he is charged with the one, and refuſed for the other, it ought to be alledged in particular, ſo that the party may anſwer to it. And it was obſerved, that it appeareth in our Books, that the cauſe of refuſal ought to be certain, as in 5 H. 7. 19. & 11 H. 7. 7. & 37. That the preſentee is a Baſtard, Villain, within age, or illiterate, &c. And 15 H. 7. that the Patron had been excommunicated by 40 days, and therefore his preſentee not to be admitted; or that his preſentee hath committed manſlaughter, as it is holden in 38 E. 3. 2. or that the preſentee is outlawed, for then he is not idonea perſona, or one who is mere laicus, Mich. 12 & 13 Eliz. Dier 292. Vide 8 & 9 Eliz. Dier 154. The Biſhop of Norwich refuſed one becauſe he was a hunter of Taverns, and a player at unlawful games, ob quod & diverſa alia crimina, he was criminoſus, & non idoneus, And it was adjudged, that the particular cauſes were not ſufficient, for they were not mala in ſe, but mala prohibita. And quod ob diverſa alia crimina, he was criminoſus, & non idoneus, was too general and incertain. As 40 E. 3. 6. in tender of a marriage and refuſal, the heir ought to alledge a certain cauſe of the refuſal, whereof iſſue may be taken. [58]

And it was reſolved, That all ſuch as were ſufficient cauſes of deprivation of an Incumbent, are ſufficient cauſes to refuſe a preſentee. And although it doth not appertain to the Kings Court to determine Schiſms and Hereſies, yet the original cauſe of the ſuit being matter whereof the Kings Court hath conuſans, the cauſe of the Schiſm, or Hereſie, for which the preſentee is refuſed ought to be alledged in certain, to the intent that the Kings Court may conſult with Divines to know, if it be Schiſm or not; and if the party be dead, thereupon to direct the Jury to try it. And as to the Caſe of the Coroner which hath been put, it was anſwered, That it was not to be compared to the Caſe of a preſentee, for ſuch general allegation is not ſufficient, as it is confeſſed by both ſides, either to refuſe a preſentee, or to deprive an Incumbent, becauſe he is perſona minus idonea generally. And the Coroner at the Common Law hath but the keeping of the Rolls of the pleas of the Crown, but the Incumbent hath the care and keeping of ſouls, and therefore the Law doth require more circumſpection and certainty in the one Caſe then in the other. 2. The King may remove a Coroner by Writ directed to him for a cauſe which ſhall not be traverſed, as appeareth in F. N. B. 163. and ſo not like. [b]

Then another Error not aſſigned was moved, ſcil. That for the inſufficiency of the Biſhops plea, the Court gave Judgment for the Plaintiff: Ideo conſideratum eſt quod prad' H. & E. recuperent verſus prædictum Epiſcopum præſentationem ſuam ad Eccleſiam prædictam, & habeant breve Joh. Archiepiſcopo Cantuar' totius Angliæ primat', loci illius Metropolitano, eo quod prædictus Epiſcopus eſt pars, &c. Et idem Epiſcopus in miſericordia. And afterwards a Writ of enquiry of the value of the Church was awarded, and the value and other points of the Writs found and returned; And upon that Judgment was entred again, ſcil. That the Plaintiff ſhall have a Writ to the Archbiſhop, ut ſupra. Et quod recuperent verſus prædictum Epiſcopum damna, &c. Et prad' Epiſcopus in maneria: So that the Biſhop was twice amerced, and every amercement of a Biſhop is 5 l. and in this Caſe he ought not by the Law to be twice amerced; and therefore this difference was taken. And therefore if a man bring treſpaſs againſt two, and one is found guilty to damages by himself, and the other is found guilty to damages by himself, in this Case each Defendant shall be severally amerced; and the Plaintiff shall be also severally amerced against each of them, as appeareth in 47 E. 3. 20. But in an Action against one Defendant or Tenant, and the Defendant or Tenant plead one plea to part, and another plea to part, and another plea to the residue, or confesseth part, and pleadeth to issue for the other part, and the several issues be found against him, yet the Defendant or Tenant shall not be twice amerced. And therewith agreeth 9 E. 3. 6. by Herle, & 22 H. 6. for which it was concluded, That for as much as the Bishop being one person was twice amerced, in this Case it was error.

Against which it was answered by one of the Councel of the other side, That the latter was but only a recital of the first, and so to give a full Judgment of all with the damages, and not a new Judgment; for he cannot have two Writs to the Archbishop or Metropolitan, no more then he can be twice amerced. But if it were gratia argumenti, admitted, that the latter Judgment were erroneous, yet the first Judgment is good and perfect in it self, and shall not be impeached for any Error in the second Judgment; for the first Judgment was the Judgment which was in the Quare Impedit at the Com-[59] mon Law, for before the Statute of West. 2. cap. 5. the Plaintiff in a Quare Impedit did not recover damages. And the Plaintiff after the Statute may take the Judgment at the Common Law, and leave the benefit of the Statute if he will, which was granted by the whole Court; for which cause the Councel prayed that the Judgment might be affirmed, and so it was.

Note Reader, the matter in Law was resolved and adjudged in both Courts.

Hill. 32 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Foster's Case.

John Foster and Ursula his wife brought a Writ of false Imprisonment against Robert Smith, and upon the pleading as special verdict, the Case was such; scil. That the Town of Brancaster is within the Hundred of Smithden in the County of Norfolk; and that the Defendant was præd' tempore quo, &c. one of the Constables of Brancaster. And that Nathaniel Bacon Esquire, then one of the Justices of Peace within the said County, made a warrant sealed with his seal directed amongst others to the Constables of Brancaster, reciting that John Lane of Brancaster was in fear of his life, and mutilation of his members, and burning of his houses by Ursula the Plaintiff, &c. Vobis, &c. præcipimus quod præd' Ursulam coram aliquo Justiciarior' nostrorum ad pacem in Com' prædict' assign' venire faciat', seu aliquis vestrum venire faciat
[b] sufficient' manucapi', quod ipsa prædict' Ursula præfat' Johann' Lane damnum & malum aliquod, &c. non faciat, nec fieri procurabit. Et si hoc facere recusaverit, tunc ipsam sic recusantem proxim' prison' nostræ in Com' præd' duci facias, &c. ibidem moratur' quousque gratis hoc facer' voluerit, &c. By force of which warrant the Defendant did arrest the said Ursula; and afterwards the Plaintiff and one John Hamond offered them to go to Thomas Farmor Esquire, one of the Justices of Peace of the same County to be bounden to the Queen according to the purport of the said warrant; And that the said Robert Smith did refuse to go to the said Thomas Farmor, upon which the Plaintiffs went with the said John Hamond to the said Thomas Farmor, and there acknowledged a Recognisance to the Queen to appear at the next Sessions to be holden within the Hundred of Smithden (the which was not according to the warrant) and that the Defendant prædict' tempore quo, &c. by force of the said warrant brought the said Ursula before the said Nathaniel, before whom she refused to find sureties; for which the said Defendant carried the said Ursula to the Gaol by force of the said warrant. And in this Case two Points were resolved by Wray chief Justice and the whole Court.

1. That upon the said general Warrant, scil. Coram aliquo Justiciar', &c. it is at the election of the Constable, who is an Officer and minister of Justice, to carry the party arrested to what Justice he will, for it is more reason to give election to the Officer, who in presumption of Law is a person indifferent and sworn to do and execute his Office duly, then to give the election to the Delinquent himself, who by presumption of Law will seek excuses, and perhaps will carry the Constable, being for the most part a poor man, to the farthest part of the County, by reason whereof such Constable would be more negligent and remiss of such Warrants for fear of travel, and loss of their time. Which Judgment is against the opinion of Fineux 21 H. 7. 20. obiter, whereof the Reporter maketh a Quære. But it agreeth with the opinion of the Lord Brook in abridging the Case of 21 H. 7. tit. Faux imprisonment 11. Note Reader, the Law adjudged in the point, which never (as I know) was adjudged before.

2. It was resolved, That after that the Officer in the Case above, had brought the party before the Justice, and before him she refused to find sureties, the Officer without a new Warrant or commandment may carry the party to Prison, and that by the words of the said Warrant, Et si hoc facere recusaverint, &c. And Wray chief Justice said, That a Justice of Peace may in such Case make a Warrant to bring the party before himself, and the same shall be good and sufficient in Law: For, for the most part, he who maketh the Warrant, hath best knowledge of the matter, and therefore most fit to do Justice in the Case.

Mich.

Mich. 32 & 33 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

Gooch's Caſe.

BEtween Rous Plaintiff, and Gooch Defendant, as heir to his father in Debt, upon an Obligation made by the father, in which he bound himſelf and his heirs: The Defendant pleaded that he had nothing by deſcent; And the Plaintiff maintained Aſſets at I. in the County of Suff. And at the Niſi prius before Wray chief Juſtice of England, one of the Councel with the Plaintiff gave in evidence that his father was ſeiſed of lands in I. aforeſaid in fee, and died thereof ſeiſed; and that they deſcended to the Defendant, by which, &c. All which was agreed by the other ſide: But the Defendants Councel gave in evidence, That long time before this Action brought, the Defendant had enfeoffed one W. G. in fee of the ſame lands, which was alſo confeſſed; but the Plaintiffs Councel alledged and proved, that this feoffment was made by fraud and covin to defraud the Plaintiff of his Action; and therefore was void by the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 5. as to the Plaintiff. But it was ſtrongly urged and ſtood upon, That the ſame ought to have been pleaded and could not upon this iſſue (of nothing by deſcent the day of the Writ purchaſed) be given in evidence: But upon the importunity of the Plaintiffs Councel, Wray chief Juſtice directed the Jurors to find the ſpecial matter; and ſo they did. And now this term upon argument at Bar and Bench, two Points were reſolved by Wray chief Juſtice, and the whole Court. [60]

1. That the matter aforeſaid may be well given in evidence for two cauſes; 1. Becauſe the Statute doth enact generally, That the eſtate as to the creditor ſhall be void, and Acts of Parliament made in prevention and ſuppreſſion of fraud ought to have a favourable interpretation. 2. If this matter ought to be pleaded, it ſhall be miſchievous to creditors, and ſhould add much to the maintenance of fraud and covin; for fraud and covin (becauſe they are odious) are ſo ſecretly hatcht in a hollow tree, in arbore cava & opaca, and ſo artificially covered and concealed that the party grieved hath not means to find, or know of it, then to drive the Plaintiff who is altogether a ſtranger to plead the feoffment (whereof he hath not knowledge) and that the ſame was made by fraud, &c. ſhall be miſchievous and againſt Law and reaſon. And Judgment was given for the Plaintiff. And in this Caſe Wray chief Juſtice ſaid, If A. ſeiſed of land in fee make a fraudulent conveyance (to the intent to deceive and defraud purchaſors againſt the Statute of 27 Eliz.) and continueth in poſſeſſion, and is reputed as owner, B. entreth into ſpeech with A. for the purchace of it, and by accident B. hath notice and knowledge of this fraudulent conveyance, and notwithſtanding he concludes with A. and taketh aſſurance of it from him; in this Caſe B. ſhall avoid the ſaid fraudulent conveyance, notwithſtanding his notice; for the Act hath by expreſs words made the fraudulent conveyance void as to a purchaſor; And for as much as it is within the expreſs purview of the Act, it ought to be ſo taken and expounded in the ſuppreſſion of fraud. And according to the opinion of the Lord Wray, it was unanimouſly agreed and reſolved by the whole Court of Common Pleas, Paſch. 3. Jacobi in evidence to a Jury in an Ejectione firmæ, upon a leaſe made by Standen at the houſe of the Plaintiff, againſt Bullock Defendant, That where one Bullock had made a fraudulent eſtate of his land within the ſaid Act of 27 Eliz. unto A. B. and C. and afterwards notwithſtanding offered to ſell the land to Standen, and before aſſurance thereof made by Bullock, Standen had notice of the ſaid fraudulent conveyance, and notwithſtanding proceeded, and took his aſſurance of Bullock, that Standen ſhould avoid (by the ſaid Act) the ſaid fraudulent conveyance; for the notice of the purchaſor cannot make that good which an Act of Parliament hath made void as to him. And true it is; Quod non decipitur qui ſcit ſe decipi. But in this Caſe the purchaſor is not deceived; for the fraudulent conveyance whereof he hath notice, is void as to him by the ſaid Act, and therefore ſhall not hurt him, nor he as to that is in any manner deceived. [b]

Mich. 32 & 33 Eliz. in the Exchequer.

Sparry's Caſe.

ISrael Owen brought an Action upon the Caſe againſt James Sparry, of trover of a certain quantity of cotton wooll, and ſelling it to perſons unknown, and converſion to his own uſe: The Defendant pleaded, that the Plaintiff hath another Action upon the Caſe depending in the Kings Bench for the ſame trover and converſion of the ſame goods; and this ſuit is proſecuted pendant the other: And demanded Judgment of the Bill: And thereupon the Plaintiff did demurr in Law. And it was reſolved by Sir Roger Manwood chief Baron, and the whole Court of Exchequer, that the Bill ſhould abate for two cauſes. [61]

1. Be-

1. Becauſe that by the rule of Law a man ſhall not be twice vexed for one and the ſame cauſe, Nemo debet bis vexari, ſi conſtet Curiæ quod ſit pro una & eadem cauſa. But the old difference in our Books is between Writs which comprehend certainty as in Debt, Detinue, &c. And Writs which comprehend no certainty, as Aſſiſe, Treſpaſs, &c. For it is true that in Writs (be they real, perſonal, or mixt) which are certain it is a good plea to ſay, That the Writ is brought pendant another, but in Writs real or perſonal, where no certainty is certain, there is no plea. As in Aſſiſe the Writ is general de libero tenemento, and Writ of Treſpaſs is, Quare bona & catalla cepit, &c. generally without any certainty, either of the thing, or of the time, &c. or of any convenient certainty which may be put in iſſue; for the Law requireth, Quod res certa deducatur in exitum, & non poteſt conſtare curiæ, quod ſit pro una & eadem cauſa. But in Aſſiſe, Treſpaſs, &c. after plaint or declaration made, which plaint or declaration doth reduce the [b] generalty of a Writ to a certainty, then the Writ purchaſed after ſuch plaint or declaration ſhall abate, as appeareth in 14 E. 3. Brief 270. adjudged in the point, where in Aſſiſe of Novel diſſeiſin the tenant pleaded, That the Plaintiff had another Writ of Aſſiſe depending of the ſame tenements between the ſame parties; and ſo this Writ purchaſed pendant the other, Judgment of the Writ: And becauſe plaint was not made in the firſt Writ, ſo that it may conſtare Curiæ, of what tenements he made his plaint, the Writ was awarded good, and he pleaded to the iſſue. And therewith agreeth 14 Aſſ. p. 7. 29 Aſſ. p. 20. Vide 18 E. 3. Brief 318. A Writ of Reſcous brought depending another ſhall abate, if it be of Record that the Plaintiff hath declared in the firſt Writ, or otherwiſe not. And 39 H. 6. 12. acc' by Priſot in Aſſiſe after plaint; and in Treſpaſs after declaration the plea is good. But in the Caſe at Bar, the firſt Action upon the Caſe upon Trover and Converſion, be it by Writ or Bill, is here as certain as an Action of Treſpaſs is after declaration. But the reaſon in 5 H. 7. 15. (which as it ſeemeth the Reporter miſtook) was utterly denied by the Court, where it is ſaid, That becauſe that divers treſpaſſes may be done the ſame day, for this cauſe it is no plea (as it is there ſaid) in Treſpaſs, that another Action is depending, &c. for the ſame Treſpaſs: For by the ſame reaſon after that the Plaintiff hath recovered in Treſpaſs, and brought his Action for the ſame Treſpaſs again, the defendant cannot averr that all is one and the ſame Treſpaſs. But the Book in 20 H. 6. 44, 45. was affirmed to be good Law; where in forgery of falſe deeds, the defendant demanded Judgment of the Writ, becauſe the Plaintiff had the like Writ of forgery of the ſame deeds, to which he hath appeared, and that this Writ was brought depending the other. For the Writ of forgery of falſe deeds is general. Quare diverſa falſa facta fabricavit, vel quoddam falſum factum fabricavit: And the Defendant hath not pleaded that the Plaintiff hath declared in the firſt Action whereby the certainty may appear. And for this cauſe Newton compared the ſame to a Writ of Treſpaſs and awarded the Defendant to anſwer. Vide 14 H. 7. 12. & 22 H. 6. 15. that in an Action of Treſpaſs for a horſe, which by the Declaration is reduced to certainty, it is a good plea to the Writ, that there is a Replevin dependant of the ſame taking, where averrment is allowed, that all is for one and the ſame taking, and yet there may be ſeveral takings in one day, which is againſt the reaſon of 5 H. 7. and agreeth with this Reſolution. And therewith agreeth alſo the Book in 22 H. 6. 52. a. where the Caſe of Treſpaſs is adjudged; for there in Treſpaſs the Defendant ſaid that the Plaintiff had another Writ depending againſt the Defendant for the ſame Treſpaſs, upon which he hath declared. Judgment of the Writ brought pendant the other? and Newton and all the Court awarded that the Writ ſhould abate. Note, there is parcel of the plea to the Writ, that the Plaintiff hath declared, by which he hath made
[62] the thing certain; and that is the difference between this Caſe and the Caſes in 20 H. 6. 44. & 5 H. 7. 15. for the principal Caſe in 5 H. 7. was affirmed for good Law, for there it was not parcel of the plea that the Plaintiff hath declared. And the Caſe at Bar was ſtronger, for it ſhall not be intended that there was divers ſales and converſions in one day. Alſo it was reſolved, that although the firſt Action was in another Court, ſcil. in the Kings Bench, or via verſa, that the plea is good, vide 43 E. 3. 24. acc. and that the Book in 34 E. 3. Brief 789. is good Law; for it doth not appear by the plea, that the Plaintiff or Defendant was priviledged in the Exchequer. And then by the Statute of Articuli ſuper Chartas cap. 4. it is enacted, that no common plea ſhall be holden in the Exchequer: But in 43 E. 3. 27. it appeareth that the Defendant was priviledged in the Exchequer, and therefore the plea there to the Writ was good. But if a man bring an Action of Debt in London or Norwich, or in any inferiour Court, and afterwards bringeth an Action of Debt in the Common Pleas, this ſuit in a higher Court which is brought pendant the ſuit by Bill in an inferiour Court ſhall not abate, as it appeareth in 7 H. 4. 8. & 3 H. 6. 15. Vide 43. E. 3. 22. 27. & 7 H. 4. 44. Brininghams Caſe. But it is ſaid 9 E. 4. 53. that all the Kings Courts at Weſtminſter, have been time out of mind, &c. and ſo a man cannot tell which of them is the ancienteſt Court.

And afterwards it was adjudged that the plea was good, and the Plaintiff took nothing by his Bill. And ſo note Reader, all the Books which prima facie ſeem to diſagree, upon pregnant reaſon are agreed and reconciled.

Case of By-Laws and Ordinances.

Mich. 32 & 33 Eliz. in the Kings Bench.

The Chamberlain of London's Case.

